Blue Devils To Invade Chapel Hill Saturday

Commons rooms and chapter rooms around the campus will be jammed this Saturday for the televised game between Duke Blue Devils and the Carolina Tar Heels

In the final clash of the regular season between the arch-rivals, opposing centers Mike Lewis and Rusty Clark will leap high into the air at 1:30 before a capacity crowd of rabid Carolina fans in Carmichael Auditorium.

Predictions made early in the season on the expected performance of each Carolina player have generally not panned out. It is true that Dick Grubar, the 6-3 sophomore "quarterback," seems to have fulfilled these predictions. He han-dles the Tar Heels with dedication and a variety of natural talents.

Clark Below Expectations

Rusty Clark, however, is not playing according to the predictions. The 6-11 Fayetteville native is merely a machine and an instrument to be manipulated by him teammates. Clark has shown that his offensive play is not the kind which strikes fear into the hearts of normal competitors, so Dean Smith is utilizing his superior height to advantage.

Plays are designed to draw defenders out for the split-second required to slip a pass to Clark and enable him to drop in an easy layup. Most of his points come from this sort of play. His rebounding is still accomplished with arms raised on high, and such formidable opponents as Virginia's Big John Naponick have given him trouble in the rebound department.

Bob Lewis, the 6-3 jumping jack, has adjusted well to his switch from forward to guard. No longer the long-range gunner, Lewis is passing off more. He still time, however, to drop a few through the hoop from outside, and his twisting drives add a good number of Lewis needs only 39 points (from before South Carolina game) to become North Carolina's second all-time scorer, passing the Kangaroo Kid himself, Billy Cunningham. He is currently hitting at an 18.5 ppg. rate.

Miller Reason for Carolina Success

The man who most closely approaches optimistic pre-season predictions is 6-3 junior Larry Miller. Miller is pouring it on this season and is the single reason

(Continued on Page 7)

The Duke Chronicle

Volume 62, Number 52

Duke University, Durham, N. C.

Thursday, March 2, 1967

Manted

Anyone interested in joining the Chronicle staff drop by 308 Flowers between 7:30-8:30 p.m. next Wednesday.

CAPTIVATED BY FRIENDSHIP, this hapless student was hand-cuffed to the seat of a campus bus by some "friends" Monday night and passed a frustrating hour cruising between East and West Campus. (Photo by Bruce Vance)

FBI Obtaining Info Secretly On Campus

By TUPP BLACKWELL

There are people at the University "in positions of confidence" who are reporting information secretly to the FBI.

This assertion was made at the University Caucus meeting Tuesday night.

Joe Harris, Doug Adams and Clint Wilson made the charge. They refused to disclose any names, however. They felt the Caucus should not start a "witch hunt" and that it should maintain what they called a "corporate trust," referring to the relations between administration and students. tration and students

(A University student, Tommy Taft, was involved in the controversy. See page 4.)

In clarifying their assertion, they said only that there was "more than one" individual involved, that they were "connected with the University in various capacities," and that some were collecting and relaying information.

Adams suggested that the Caucus work to keep the FBI from getting information related in confidence by a student. A resolution to stop the information flowing to the FBI will be introduced next week.

It was also charged at the meeting that the deans are not allowing all students to see allowing all students to see their non-academic record on request. Housemasters have also been told their reports are confidential, it was asserted. Both situations are contrary to the dean's policy on non-academic records, which allows all students access to their records.

As Joe Harris predicted in his opening remarks, the audience was "disappointed factually" by the presentations. Repeated requests for more specific information were denied. The remainder of the meeting degenerated into discussion of the value of holding it.

Students Demand More Freedom In Setting Own Social Hours

By BOB ASHLEY Asst. Managing Editor

Student representatives met with the Trinity College Deans staff this morning to demand house autonomy in establishing open house hours for commons and chapter rooms.

The Deans refused a MSGA proposal for autonomy last week. This week, Glenn Goodyar, IFC president, Gerry Ahman, AIH president, an dPhil Bjorla, freshman senator, presented the deans with resolutions from all 12 of the independent houses, 15 fraternities and four freshman houses.

Symposium Eyes Generation Gap

Every generation, sociologist Daniel Bell of Columbia University says, strives to under-stand itself, to locate its iden-stand tisen, to locate its identity, and to analyze the reality of its presence in society.

At a recent United States Student Press Association conference in Washington, D. C., Senator W. F. Mondale termed the ator w. r. Mondate termed the present generation as "m or e idealistic, more humane, more concerned with personal honesty and commitment than any previous generation."

Many words have been used to describe the most previous generation.

Many words nave been deed to describe the most pervasive moods of the post-war generation, among them "romantic," "apathetic," "discontent," "alienated," "a c t i v i s t," "humane," "authentically commit-

The Duke Symposium Committee has designated as the task for Symposium '67 the exploration of the moods and myths of the post-war generation that have influenced the political, economic, and social struggles in this country during the sixties. It hopes to explore the differences of this generation from previous ones and to examine the "active minorities" of the New Left and the New Right as perhaps constituting a "prophetic impulse" for the future. ploration the moods and tuting a "pro for the litture.

Initial suggestions for reading include: The Accidental Century, Harrington; The Prophetic Minority, Newfield; The End of Ideology, Bell; The True Believer, Hoffer.

Each of the resolutions, many of which passed unanimously in house meetings, called for longer commons rooms hours than are now allowed.

The Deans took no action this morning, but they were to meet with student leaders again at 2 p.m. today to "redefine their position," according to one

Administration reaction, how-ever, was "pretty much the same," the source, who asked not to be named, added.

Dean James Price would of-fer no comment on the possible position to be taken this after-noon. Neither would the stu-dent leaders involved predict the possible outcome.

However, several students involved in the action have hinted at a test of the ruling if the deans refuse the new pro-

The hours approved ranged from an opening of from ? a.m. to 2 p.m., and closing hours ranged as late as 2 a. : on weekends.

Canterbury presented the longest set of hours, request-ing that their commons room be open from 8 a.m. until 1 a.m. during the week and from 8 a.m. until 1:30 a.m. on week-

Currently, chapter rooms and commons rooms are open to women from 12 noon until 10 p.m. on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Any house may regis-ter to extend its open house un-til 1:30 a.m. Sunday morning.

Ahman said that "we're standing on the principle" that houses should be able to govern their own public areas.

He added, "It's being done—why don't they (the deans) just realize it and accept it. After all, we're living out there."

The present controversy be-The present controversy be-gan to develop almost imme-diately after the deans turned down the MSGA proposal last week which would have allow-ed individual houses to deter-mine the hours their chapter rooms or commons rooms would be open.

Houses met during the past week to approve the resolutions for new hours.

Ahman, Goodyear and Bjorla met with the deans for over an hour in closed session this morning. The deans continued to meet for another hour after the trio left.

SNCC's Carmichael Scheduled To Speak

By ED TAFT

Stokely Carmichael, militant chairman of the Student Nonchairman of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), has tentatively ac-cepted speaking engagements for the near future at the Law School and at Page Auditorium, the Men's Student Government Association was told Tuesday Association night.

President Joe Schwab '67 suggested that the MSCA guarantee Carmichael a $500 honarium.

The motion passed unanimously,

The Senate also considered the proposed constitution for West Campus under unitary government. Freshman Senator Bob Feldman, referring to the proposed constitution for unifed government, questioned whether 4 qualified, interested students could be found to fill West's legislative delegation.

Vice-President Guy Solie '67
mentioned the problem of over-lapping responsibilities where
"it might be the thing to run for 12 or 13 offices."
Final action on a constitution for West was postponed until after IGC acts on the unified government next week.

Housemaster Applications

Applications for the positions of Housemaster and Assistant Housemaster may now be picked up in 0-101-R, and must be returned there by March 24.

Positions are open to Graduate Stretches and to the positions are open to Graduate Stretches and to the property and the property an

Students as Housemasters and to rising juniors and seniors as Assistant Housemasters.

Hathaway hits a dissonant chord with Gerry Mulligan

Hathaway: Mr. Mulligan, what do you think of our new Hathaway Club shirts?

Mulligan: A shirt is a shirt is a shirt.

Hathaway: You don't like our handturned soft roll collars, our singleneedle stitching, our lap seams?

Mulligan: Frankly, I prefer my new saxophone. A beauty.

Gold-plated. Wonderful tone

Hathaway: Perhaps the tapered waist would interest you?

Mulligan: Does it play well? What's the tone quality like?

Hathaway: You're putting me on, Mr. Mulligan.

Mulligan: Well, isn't that what you're supposed to do with Hathaway shirts?

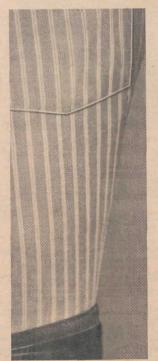

Hathaway Hallmarks

(Or what we hoped Gerry Mulligan would mention)

Traditional button-down collar: Hand-turned for a soft roll, comfortable fit and casual flare. Result; Every Hathaway Club button-down looks equally well with or without a tie. (Also note the perfect pattern matching around the tip of collar. Also on pocket and seams.)

Tapered body: Hathaway trimly tapers each and every Hathaway Club. This means that the body won't bag, billow or bulge over your waistline.

Lap seams: All seams on a Hathaway Club Shirt are "lapped"—just like jacket seams. This makes the seams extraordinarily strong and flat and neat.

Three-hole button: Used exclusively by Hathaway. It is much stronger than the four-hole kind. (Euclid and your Math. professor know why.)

The Red "H": Found on every Hathaway Club where the tails meet—but only when the shirt has passed 18 inspections.

A tag for your name. Sewn on the shirt tail of every Hathaway Club. Helps keep your Hathaway shirts out of envious hands.

Where Duke University Men buy Hathaway Club Shirts

Durham: VAN STRAATEN'S Raleigh: WOMBLE'S • McLEOD-WATSON-LANIER

"Never wear a white shirt before sundown!" says Hathaway.

Part I

The FBI

At Duke

While sitting in the library Tuesday reviewing the events which involved me in this controversy, I overheard two undergraduates discussing the recent spate of rumors. The only comment I could make out was, "I don't know any of the details or people involved either. In any case, I hope this thing doesn't turn into another Crucible."

for a limited engagement on the scaffold in such a drama, I too hope "this thing doesn't turn into another Crucible." And that is the reason for this column Not to serve as emotional mea culpa,

but to set down dispassionately the series of events which involved me in this situation and to show what can happen in hopes that it will help pre-by Doug Adams for a position on Duke's delega-tion to the Model United Nations, the conversation led me to mention my past involvement with the Federal Bureau of Investigation while at the University. We discussed it for a short while and the versity. We included in the another white and the subject was dropped. Sunday, I received word from Doug that he wanted to talk with me again about my relationship with the FBI—with special emphasis on anything said about him. In what I felt to be a genuinely congenial atmosphere, we discussed the Model UN and then the FBI. I explained the events in this manner: During my Freshman year (1964-65) I had noted a good deal of anti-war literature on campus that described such things as American advisors torturing Viet-such things as American advisors torturing ver-namese women, etc. According to the manner in which I was brought up, these flyers and hand-outs seemed less than patriotic and so I gathered several and mailed them to FBI Headquarters in

Shortly thereafter-in early Spring of 1965 a snorty inercater—in early spring or 1900 a special agent who lived in Durham, Rufus Powell, contacted me and questioned me concerning why I sent the material, where it had been posted, etc. I gave him what information I had. Sometime later, the same agent contacted me again and we met for a short time. I furnished him more commet for a snort time. I turnsnet min more com-plete information and answered certain questions concerning what I knew of the University Liberal Action Committee and gave him some general information concerning several individuals. The agent was always careful to note what my source vent either a repetition or a witch-hunt. Last Thursday night, while being interviewed

Being allegorically at least, a likely candidate

The Duke Chronicle

FOUNDED IN 1905

The opinions expressed on these pages are not necessarily those of the University

Incredible

That the Federal Bureau of Investigation has informers That the rederal Bureau of investigation has millionness at the University is incredible and destructive to the atmosphere of free inquiry and free expression that should characterize an academic community. A government that encourages such activity is not quite the defender of freedom that we are supposed to believe it is and that we are called to fight for. If the University condones or is not concerned about this presence, it denies its heri-

Tom Taft and others at the University have served as informants for the FBI. Information from second and third-hand sources and classroom discussions has gone third-hand sources and classroom discussions has gone to Washington. Some has been erroneous and unfairly prejudicial. Rufus Powell, a Durham FBI agent at the time and now Secretary of the University, received and transmitted some of this information to the FBI.

Although Taft is a housemaster, he has had no contact with the FBI while he has held that position. Gerald Wilson, Assistant to the Dean of Men with responsibility for the housemaster system, was ignorant of the ties with the FBI and is deeply concerned. He is attempting to ascertain whether any other housemasters have been involved with the FBI and will require assurance that no information obtained while serving in that position of trust and confidence has or will be transmitted to the FBI.

The University's involvement and position is still unclear. Provost R. Taylor Cole and William Griffith, Assistant to the Provost for student affairs, have been noncommital. In a meeting with students yesterday, Cole was primarily concerned with establishing the legality of certain FBI activities on campus and the right of members of the University community to serve as informants. He did not think an investigation of an official statement were necessary. Neither he nor Griffith have expressed particular concern about the nature or extent of FBI activity here. All this in spite of strong indications that all the facts are not yet known and that academic freedom may have been compromised. University President Douglas Knight is more anxious to see a probe but would leave it to his less concerned subordinates. but would leave it to his less concerned subordinates.

We wonder how widespread FBI activity is on other campuses across the country. We wonder where the FBI draws the line. We wonder why the University is so non-chalant when there is still a large area of uncertainty.

There's more here than meets the eye.

308-A

The Chronicle reporter was not allowed to attend the deans staff meeting today when other students discussed social regulations. While waiting outside for the meeting to end, he was told by Dean Cox to leave be-cause "the walls are too thin."

Students Involved In Rule Revisions

Editor, the Chronicle

If the writer of the editorial in the Chronicle of February 25 entitled "Student Freedoms" had researched his subject it is doubtful that he would have been able to maintain his posibeen able to maintain his posi-tion. Anyone who is in the slight-est degree acquainted with the process whereby decisions have been reached on West Campus concerning "open living areas" (open-opens) and "open houses", knows that students have been involved in decision-making ev-erv step of the way. Since Feb-ruary 1965, eleven resolutions advocating specific changes in policies concerning women visiadvocating specific changes in policies concerning women visitors to the men's residences have been received from the MSGA. Each request has been accompanied by evaluations of existing policies and suggestions for changes. These papers tions for changes. These papers have been the basis of numerous meetings with students and college officers. For the most part, the procedures for registration and supervision of the "opens" have come from the students themselves. When there has been some inclination among students to shift the responsibili-ty to others, the deans have insisted upon self-regulation by the living groups and their host committees.

I am at a loss to understand the statement that the deans of Trinity College have chosen to ignore the principle stated in the Rules Committee report of the Woman's College: "From the Rules Committee report of the Woman's College: "From an educational standpoint, we firmly believe that personal re-sponsibility is better advanced by encouraging students increas-ingly to make their own social decisions . . than by cultivat-ing a continuing dependence up-on external regulation."

on external regulation."

We heartily affirm this principle. But I misread the "philosophy" of the Rules Committee if it implies that every student request in this area should be acceded to upon demand. The deans will always be ready to consider proposals for change in the few social regulations which remain on West Campus.

But we cannot suspend all responsibility for our part in this decision-making process, or act against our better judgment. We hope the changes that have been made in recent months will improve the social environment on prove the social environment on West Campus and contribute to the educational objectives of resident students. All of the MSGA resolutions on "openopens" and "open houses" have recognized that the adequacy of these policies—based on the full assumption of living group responsibility and the assent of individuals in them—will depend on the undergraduate men in the University.

Dr. James L. Price Dean of Trinity College

Mekas Films Use Limited Editing

Editor, the Chronicle:.

Perhaps the Chronicle readers would be more sympathetic to the film genius of Mr. Mekas if they knew his films were not the result of "skillful editing"

(as Marc Kaplan phrased it) but were shown directly as they came from his camera. Mr. Me-kas explained later that due to the cost and complexity of color the cost and complexity of color film processing, all such work was left to a commercial con-cern. The only editing Mr. Me-kas did was to delete portions of the film to shorten the film and not to create any special ef-Henry Wilson '70

Marcus Wrong, 'Cone Is Spirit'

Editor, the Chronicle:

Editor, the Chronicle:

I feel that I must respond to the little story on Al Cone by Marcus. I am a Freshman, not a Pi Kap, and consider myself very lucky to know Al. He has the ability to set one at ease and make a person feel comfortable. As Marcus said, when Al talks everyone listens. The school comes first for Al and he has the guts to stand up and express his ideas on school spirit. Al's little excur-

'Are you, or have you ever been ...?

from the University—how many, when, etc. I knew nothing about the trip and told him so. Several days later, I was again contacted and I gave the same answer. Since that time, neither have I been contacted by them nor have I contacted them until the Sunday afternoon conversation with Doug. When I realized his probing questions were more than just a passing interest, I told Doug I felt it would be wise for me to contact the FBI and clarify some questions. I did this by phone and the agent said it would probably be better for me not agent said it would probably be better for he not to say anything further. I had already given Doug all the details anyway, so it did not make any difference as far as I could see. I returned to his room and related to him that the agent had rec-ommended my best course to be to disinvolve myself from the conversation. Doug asked me to explain my involvement again and I consented. Later, I was to learn that Doug had somehow thought that the earlier description had been difthought that the earlier description had been dif-ferent from this later one and that he felt the discrepancy was due to FBI pressure. He felt that I said the agent who had contacted me my freshman year was the same one who had called me my sophomore year. This may seem trivial until you realize that the first agent, Powell, had Thus Doug thought that he had found someone who was working for both the University and the FBI. I am absolutely sure that they were not the same agents and that Doug misunderstood me—probably because he did not clarify all his points and because I did not understand the importance and significance of the afternoon conversation as an information gathering session.

Monday and Tuesday rumors about my connection proliferated among the Caucus Leadership and very shortly my name was being mentioned with all the various rumors floating around campus. By Tuesday morning I was receiving many accusing stares and numerous comments that were of a rather malicious and crude nature-not to mention inaccurate

I feel very strongly that I acted properly in sending the non-campus originated literature to the FBI, but I think I erred in giving any information concerning individuals—no matter how little it was. I base this reasoning on my emphatic belief that the University should be a place where students are free to explore various place where students are free to explore various issues, ideas and new concepts without fear that their views will be secretly recorded and/or reported by any of their peers within the University community. If by the full and frank exposition of this truly regrettable situation, this concept can be maintained and even strengtheaped them the materials when the materials are the secret when the materials are the secret when the materials were the secret when the secret week of words when the secret week of words when the secret week of words were the secret when the secret week of words were the secret week of words when the secret week of words were the secret when the secret week of words were the secret when the secret week of words were the secret when the secret were the secret were the secret when the secret were were the secret when the secret w ened, then the past week of uncertainty and disbelief will not have been entirely valueless.

agent was atways careful to note what my source of information was. To the best of my knowledge (it was two academic years ago) I had no further contact or dealings with the FBI my Freshman year, Shortly before the March on Washington (Spring of 1966) to protest the war in Vietnam, another agent (not Powell) called by phone to ask me certain questions about the group going Letters To The Editor

Today's Staff

Editor—Dave Birkhead Managing Editor—Alan Ray Asst. Managing Editor—Bob Ashley Staff—Tupp Blackwell, Gayle Heney, Al Martin, Al Shusterman, Art Spector, Ed Taft

SPORTS

Editor—Dick Miller Associate Editor— Jim Wunsch Staff—Dick Van Dusen

PHOTOGRAPHY

Editor—Jim Powell Staff—Bruce Vance BUSINESS

Business Manager— Bill Ackerman Assistant Business Manager—
Mike Shahan
Co-Ed Business Manager—
Pam Graves Advertising Manager—
Mason Holmes

Mason Honnes
Ad Staff—Harold Brody,
Geoffrey Decker
Office Manager—Diane Wolf
Circulation Manager—
Erik Anderson

sion to the players' motel be-fore the Carolina game let the

(Continued on Page 7)

THEY'RE WANTED MEN

Soft-spoken. Well-mannered. But extremely dangerous. Usually seen in the company of beautiful women. Prefer conservative dress, fine imported colognes for men. Specifically, Raffia, from which they take their name.

Raffia Cologne and After-Shave, Lime or Bay Rum.

Mao Regime Doomed - Hoover

By ALAN SHUSTERMAN

A Maoist order will probably not be reestablished in Red University China, according to Universeconomist Calvin B. Hoover.

In an address before an over-flow audience in the Social Science building auditorium last night, Dr. Hoover stated "a na-tional order will either come to China under the direction of a new group, or there will be no order at all."

The current goings-on in China, he said, "are one of the weirdest things I've ever heard of. It's very difficult even to tell that all information on the struggle comes either through the renowned wall posters or from reports through Hong Kong, he said that all analysis must therefore be quite uncer-

Dr. Hoover traces the related Dr. Hoover traces the related issue of the Chinese-Soviet split back to Khrushchev's denunciation of the tyranny of Stalin in 1956. He believes that this shocked the aging Mao who had developed a system with many civilarities to the Stalin. similarities to that of Stalin, "also considering himself the dictatorship of the proletariat"

Specifically, he feels that since then, the rift has developed for two basic reasons, the long - standing national tension between the two countries, and the decline to a certain extent of "revolutionary fervor" in the Soviet Union, China seems to feel that Russia is moving away from the traditional doctrines of Marx and Lenin or Marx and Lemm According to Dr. Hoover, the Communist problems have been of definite help to the United States, especially in the war ef-fort in Viet Nam.

Published every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday of the University year by the students of Duke University, Durham, North Carolina. Second-class postage paid at Durham, North Carolina. Delivered by mail $7.00 per year. Subscriptions should be mailed to Box 4686, Duke Station, Durham, North

GRADUATING SENIORS

majoring in ACCOUNTING BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION CHEMISTRY

ENGINEERING • LIBERAL ARTS RECREATION

· URBAN PLANNING are invited to meet with our representative on campus

MARCH 9

Contact your Placement Office for an appointment CITY OF DETROIT - CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

If you have a background in management skills; mechanical, industrial, or civil engineering; business administration; or accounting . . .

Call Your Campus Placement Bureau:

Ext. 3813

For Interview: TUESDAY, MARCH 7

FIND OUT about "FMC"

A Company that might literally SEND YOU TO THE MOON!

OR, if you are Down-to-Earth and want

- MONEY ALL YOU WANT!
- LIFETIME SATISFACTION in CAREER
- FREEDOM to grow to Top-Executive Position in a world-wide company
- A GOOD START in an interesting career in an unusual industry —

FIND OUT WHAT "FMC" MEANS! CALL YOUR CAMPUS PLACEMENT BUREAU:

Ext. 3813

"FMC" may have a future for you! Don't miss this chance to find out.

Or Write To: MR. RON EVANS. Personnel Department

FMC CORPORATION ORDNANCE DIVISION

P.O. BOX 8307 — SO. CHARLESTON, W. VA. 25303

(MUST BE U.S. CITIZEN - AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER)

Theologian Sets Weekend Talks

An articulate spokesman for conservative Christian theology will speak at the University this weekend.

weekend.

Dr. Clark H. Pinnock, associate professor of Theology at New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary, will present three public lectures. The program is sponsored by the University Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

ter-Varsity Christian reliowship.

The lectures will be "The Death of Hope" at 7:30 p.m. Friday in 208 Flowers "Structure of the Christian Message" at 1 p.m. Saturday in the Music Room, East Duke Building and "Theatre of the Absurd" at 4 p.m. Sunday in 208 Flowers.

Highlight of the weekend will be the program sponsored by Highlight of the weekend will be the program sponsored by the YMCA Religious Life Committee at 8 p.m. Sunday in 208 Flowers. Dr. Pinnock will talk on "Objectivity in Revelation and Redemption." His presentation will be followed by a panel discussion moderated by Rev. Elmer Hall, Assistant Chaplain to the University.

Debate Tourney To Start Friday

The university will be host to an invitational debate tournament this weekend. Debaters from some thirty colleges and universities will argue the topic of U. S. foreign aid commitments. The event will start at 9.30 a.m. Friday and conclude at 1 p.m. Saturday. Dr. Joseph Wetherby, director of the program, announced that the weekend's activities would of the program, announced that the weekend's activities would include a banquet for the stu-dent participants Friday eve-ning and a reception honoring coaches at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Interviews for FAC Junior Chairmen will be held Friday, March 3, from 6-10:30 p.m. in the Y-office. Oll sophomore Y-men with a 2.0 q.p.r. overall are eligible to interview.

Friends or Relatives visiting you . . . Call your neighbor

286-7761

FMC • FMC •

-Saturday's Game-

(Continued from Page 1)

(Continued from Page 1) for Carolina's great success. The muscular roundballer is pumping at a 22.4 average with almost 10 rebounds per game. Miller is personally reponsible for several of Carolina's close victories and has been considered for post-season All-America polls (outshining Bob Lewis). He is a steady ballplayer who is not known for cold spells; rather, he is consistently and aggravatingly steady and seldom clutches. Of his ability to draw fouls, Virginia Coach Bill Gibson calls Miller "the master of the three-point play."

three-point play."
Forward Bill Bunting (6-8) is the only major disappointment of the team, and his position into forecourt is being challenged by several bench-warmers. The major contestants are 6-4 Tom Gauntlett and 6-5 Joe Brown.

Gauntlett and 6-5 Joe Brown.
Carolina is presently ranked fourth and sixth in the national polls. The Tar Heels hold a 20-3 overall scorecard with a 10-1 ACC record (before the South Carolina game). Their only losses have been to Princeton (91-81), Georgia Tech (82-80), and Clemson (92-88), but several conference games have been nerve-rackingly close. The team has displayed many forms team has displayed many forms of offensive play, including a surprising effective fast break in the VPI game.

As this writer sees it, Carolina possesses the following strengths (in particular, for this game): 1) the coolness and ball control of Grubar; 2) the strength,

The Calendar

The championship game of the University intramural basketball tournament will kickoff a big weekend of athletics tomorrow weekend of athletics tomorrow at 6:30. Immediately following the IM finals the Duke and Carolina freshmen teams will take the Indoor Stadium floor for their season-ending battle. The Pep Board has a BEAT CAROLINA rally planned to follow the Imp-Tarbaby encounter. Saturday at 1:30, of course, Vie Bubas and his varsity take on Carolina for a regionally-team has home game. The Duke rugby team has home games scheduled against the respected New York Rugby Football Club at 2:30 and 4:30 on Saturday, and against the Richmond Club Sunday at 2:30.

drive, and clutch play of Miller;
3) the natural talent of Bob Lewis; 4) the height of Clark;
5) the home court advantage with a sell-out crowd; 6) the last game of Bob Lewis's cacases, before, the home-form last game of Bob Lewis's career before the home-town folks; 7) the determination to prove that the first win over Duke was not a fluke.

Carolina's weaknesses are those which Duke must probe and manipulate. They include: 1) erratic play by Lewis; 2) lack of Bunting to realize his potential; 3) lack of substantial offensive and defensive talent by Rusty Clark; 4) mediocre defensive play by Miller.

Duke About to Realize Potential

Duke About to Realize Potential

After a series of good and mediocre games mixed in a frustrating pattern, the Duke men are using every game and practice to polish their play and realize the tremendous potential which is evident to all observers. The Wake Forest romp (113-71) Tuesday was an inspiring indication that the Devils are attaining this potential.

Bob Verga, Duke's exciting All-American with the golden touch, is approaching the climax of his collegiate hardwood career. The "W" is pumping in the bombs at a 25.3 clip and astounding observers with outstanding moves around the basket. Verga has tremendous desire to see this ball club through the tournaments and is displaying this motivation with hardnose scrapping on the court.

Big Mike Lewis continues to sling 230 pounds of pure rebounding power around the boards, but must concentrate on getting the short shot into the hoop. Bob "Bobo" Reidy has performed in all-star fashion in the past few games with a 20-point output in the Wake Forest the past few games with a 20-point output in the Wake Forest game. Bobo continues to add to Lewis's rebounding effort with numerous grabs. Reidy is also driving to the boards more often, displaying his great natural moves, and drawing important fouls.

fouls.

Ron Wendelin increases his scoring potency with each game and is assuming an active role as team leader and point-maker. Tim Kolodziej rebounds with the same fervor he has always displayed, but with fewer fouls, is putting his refined shoot-touch to work. Very important the Duke bench continues to play a decisive role in Blue Devil success with outstanding performances given often by Stu-McKaig, Jim Liccardo, Joe Ken-nedy, Dave Golden, and Warren

The major question, however, is "Why this game?" With the all-important ACC tournament ahead, what reason could there ahead, what reason could there be for great concentration on this particular contest?

Certainly the tournament is the most important event in the future plans of the Blue Devils, but this particular game must be won for several reasons. First of all, it is the Carolina game. Secondly, the outcome of the battle will seriously affect performances in the affect performances in tournament.

Defeat a Blow to UNC Confidence in Tourney

Defeat a Blow to UNC Contidence in Tourney
A defeat for Carolina, just when they "are reaching their peak," certainly would hurt their confidence. A win for the Blue Devils, especially on a foreign court, would lift the emotional state of the Duke ballplayers and assure them that they have the potential to sweep the tournament.

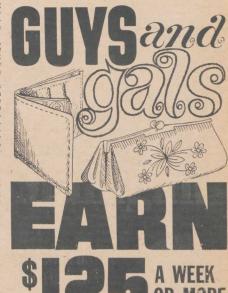

Finally, there is a fundamental need to express to the nation the limit of Carolina's talents and the depth of Duke's unrecognized power. We have the talent and desire to do the job—the players and fans know this; Carolina will surely know it after Lewis has wreaked carnage under the boards, and the "V" has burned the cords off their rims.

-Letters-

(Continued from Page 4) (Continued from Page 4) team know we were behind them. He put a lot of work into this rally, renting trucks in which to take the Frosh. At times the Administration's sense of school spirit and Al's don't coincide, but he is not afraid to do anything that will put the school behind the teams and build sportsmanshin. When there the school behind the teams and build sportsmanship. When there is leadership of Al's caliber, why debut wit? No one can deny that Al must have some of the feelings alluded to by Marcus, but Al is one of the most unselfish people I've met here at Duke and one of the feet what I look upon with high regard. Al Cone Is School Spirit.

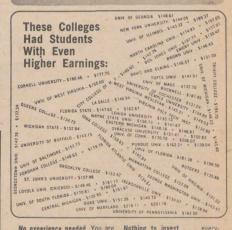

Brent Dovle '70

THIS SUMMER* WITH

₽ Good Humor

No experience needed. You are Nothing to invest . . . everything you need is supplied free fully trained and work on routes with proven high earnings.

HOW TO QUALIFY FOR INTERVIEW

- Minimum age 18.
 Need a valid driver's license and be willing to drive a clutch transmission.
 Be in good physical condition.

REGISTER NOW

Ask your Summer Placement Director or Student Aid Officer to show you Good Humor's folder explaining this high paying job and to schedule you for our campus visit.

INTERVIEW DATE

March 22

*Earnings for females have not approximated this average in most cases due to legal restrictions on working hours for women. An Equal Opportunity Employer-(M/F)

Ipcress: Man Inside Spy

By ADEN FIELD

"he Ipcress File (a British film with Michael Caine, at Quad Flicks last Saturday and Sunday) is an almost mellow success, because it solidly welds the film of character to the film of suspense, and brings off nearly the whole affair with technical eclat. The first three-quarters of the film is one of the best long seg-The first three-quarters of the film is one of the best long segments of film-making that I have seen in quite a while. The last quarter is not only less successful, but is a trick and a fraud, mainly because it completely undercuts the seriousness and credibility already established. That part of the film depends on o god in the machine somewhere. It introduces a visual style, a change in viewpoint, and a dampening of characterization which are very disconcerting

Anyway, the good parts of Ipcress are brilliant. The tightness of the plot, the skilful ensemble acting, and the handsome photo-graphy produce a wonderfully absorbing experience that vibrates with moral meanings as well as first rate adventures. Ipcress is more than fanciful entertainment, for at the end one is left with a certain weight of concern and a certain amount of aesthetic satisfaction that go far beyond the titillations of the usual suspense

Michael Caine's Harry Palmer, for example, improves quite a lot on Sean Connery's shallow, insubstantial James Bond. Of course, obvious differences of purpose and method separate Ipcress from the Bond films. But Bond's world is a dream world, and Palmer's world is much more apparently a possible world, one that Caine succeeds in helping his audience share thoroughly.

The careless, intimate way that Palmer inhabits an environment of technological gadgetry is no less truly contemporary than is his independent, cranky, impulsive, ironic personality. But the gadgets he uses are real parts of his environment, just as his love-making and insubordination are real parts of his personality. Tokenhaming aim insubordination are rear parts of ins personanty. Caine's performance is a considerable achievement, a creation fully conceived and credible, one alive in the very best sense. Palmer endures the reality of his own chancy daily life, instead of floating over it all like an athletic Pan.

The sure comprehensive control of the technical side of Ipcress is the director's achievement. Furie solves the special problem of the wide screen—difficulty of composition—with delightful originality. His wide-screen photography is second only to the brilliant work of Godard in Contempt in my opinion. Again and again Furie attacks almost insoluable problems by the simple and bold choice of allowing an object (a chair, a man's back, a lamp-shade) to cover three-quarters of his screen, or of taking a sur-prisingly close view of a small thing. In this way he creates beautiful and effective compositions that draw the viewer deeply into the action. Furie proves that imaginative directors need not boggle at the task of making wide-screen visually subtle, flexible, and Still, the gutsy heart of Ipcress is the way it means. Suspense films always have the problem of choosing between plot and everything else. Ipcress is not really much better than most in pulling off an easy compromise. But, leaving aside the last part, the film does manage to make a case for the man inside the spy, for the man caught in circumstance who yet saves some inner part of himself from the dirty business.

Harry Palmer is dreadfully alone, but he is above all under-standably alone, playing his best at the odd game of being a twentieth century man. We sympathize with his implicit protests against authority and routine, with the distrust of people that spying breeds, with the morally ambiguous would that he must constantly inhabit. Palmer is a paradox, a man at home and not at home. His apartment is a kind of retreat, where he has the amenities of food and music and love without the settled framework of life which is the dubious privilege of the ordinary man. Residing in his paradox, Palmer illustrates for us, despite his bizarre job, something of what it means to live spitted on the problems of the

WELCOME FOLKS!

FRIDAY NIGHT SPECIAL

Spaghetti Supper for Two With a pint bottle of Vintage Chianti Arrange a date or come in pairs

Only $3.69

Private Rooms Available for Breakfasts, Brunches, Lunches, Dinners or Sandwich Parties. Come See What We Have.

The Gourmet Center Operating lyy Room Restaurant

100 Day COSMOPOLITAN ROOM

1004 W. Main Street W. Main Street Phone 681-8257 Open 7 Days 8:30 A.M. 'til 11:30 P.M.

AND DELICATESSEN

SPECTRUM

Neridians Show 'Body And Soul'

shoes are the theme of this year's Neredian performance. Entitled "Body and Sole," it will be presented, free of charge, at 8:15 p.m., March 2 and 4 in the Woman's College Pool.

Arts Events Set

The University's Festival of the Contemporary Arts will con-tinue this weekend.

Friday and Saturday, the Duke layers will perform "The Fire-Priday and Saturday, the Duke Players will perform "The Fire-bugs" at 8:15 p.m. in Baldwin auditorium. Sunday night, News-week drama critic Richard Gillman will speak at 8:15 in Page Auditorium.

Offering variety from the dra-matic fare, the Juliard String Quartet will perform at 8:15-p.m. Saturday in the Music R'oom, East Duke Building.

Duke Radio Log

THURSDAY
John McAllister (rock
'n roll) 7:29 a.m.-9:01 a.m.
Chip Cox (rock 'n roll) 12:59 p.m.-4:05 p.m.
Bob Conroy (popular and classical) 4:55 p.m.-8:55 p.m.

Dick Saunders (popular and folk) 8:55 p.m.-1:06 a.m.

The Johnson 7:29 a.m.-9:01 a.m. Al Herman 12:59 p.m.-4:05 p.m. Evans Wetmore 4:55 p.m.-8:55 p.m. Gerret Warner/Bill Simon (folk/jazz) 8:55 p.m.-1:06 a.m

> Patronize Our Advertisers

CAROLINA

The Last of The Generals

Peter O'Toole

CENTER

Sound of Music

NORTHGATE

The Cool Ones

RIALTO

Anouk Aimee ean-Louis Trintignant in Claude Lelouch's

"A Man and a Woman"

Grand Prize Winner, 1966 Cannes Festival 1:25, 3:20, 5:15, 7:10, & 9:05

The show consists of eight synchronized swimming rou-tines and a diving routine per-formed with various musical themes. For example, "San-dals" is combined with "Law-

?Peer?

Beware: the purple polka dotted commode has escaped from its verdant, pepperoni hammock. PEER too has rence of Arabia," and "Cowboy Boots" with "Bonanza."

Twenty-three club members will take part in the show, including a trio, a duet, and a sopho performance by the six girls voted best swimmers by the club.

Campus Calendar

THURSDAY

8 p.m.—Weinstein Lecture, Charles Angoff, Music Room, East Duke. FRIDAY

10:10 a.m.—"Theology Implicit Music," Divinity School Chap Speaker, Dr. Paul H. Earls,

Durham Sporting Goods

YOUR TENNIS HEADQUARTERS

TENNIS RACKETS BY

- · SPALDING
- · WILSON
- . BANCROFT
- . DAVIS

24 HOUR SERVICE ON RESTRINGING

with our modern No-Awl Restringing Machine

- - Complete Stock of Accessories:
 - Shorts, 3", 5", 7" • Shirts
 - Presses · Shoes · Ralls · Socks

Downtown Durham

Read the Durham Morning Ferald

There's Something in it for Everyone!

Comics! Sports! Women's Pages!

News and Editorials!

To Subscribe—Contact

West Campus Norman Nickle

Phone 684-3539

East Campus Rosa Redding Carolyn Currie

Phone 684-3221

Phone 684-3221

The Righteous Brothers

MARCH 18 $2.50, 3.00