STATION SUCCESS Hinges On CELEBRITY NIGHT

200 Mixed Voices To Sing 'Messiah'
In Chapel Service

J. Foster Barns
Directs Rendition
Of Handel Classic

Two hundred mixed voices of the Duke Student Chorus, conducted by J. Foster Barns, will bring Handel's famous "Messiah" to life in the Chapel. The performance will mark the first time this festive oratorio has been heard in Durham; it will include an outside section consisting of the entire Duke student body on the floor and the Student Bulletin office. The chorus, as expected, will be particularly large, as student interest and the problem of finding a sufficient number of voices have been solved. The service will be held in Duke Chapel to hear the concert.

IN-FOCUS

This great choral work, which has been sung on many occasions in the Chapel, has an expected attendance of 2,500. It will be performed at 8 o'clock, December 17, in the Duke Chapel.

Duke Student Chorus, composed of students from all the various class lists and work forces on campus, will be the main feature of the service.

Nets Over $35,000
For Loyalty Fund

For five years, the Duke Student Council has been sponsoring the Loyalty Fund drive.

The collection was seen last week-end by a group of Duke art students and faculty members.

5000 students are expected to attend the Loyalty Fund drive.

For fifteen years the sinking fund toward purchasing a radio transmitter was considered one of the student body's foremost tasks.

A Frayer Quota System

The President quota system brings fraternity members together under a central plan so that each group would smooth out a slightly overweight female. IFC now has a quota on each class which marks with that class throughout its four years in school. Homogeneity is maintained through the entire period of the class.

We agree with IFC that there should be a method of regulating the size of fraternities. Several lodges don't have enough men to fill out their ranks. But, we feel that a limiting of fraternities would be equitable and would allow several fraternities to increase their membership and determine the proper authorities.

Third, a fraternity could more easily hold their own in competition under control just about as efficiently as a three-sectioned corset would smooth out a slightly overweight female. We agree with IFC that there should have a different quota. The over-all quota on each would be removed, and the fraternity would be permitted to rush the previous year agitated whether or not the new class of the following year was ready.

To us an over-all quota points to a system by which a lodge can hold the lid on fraternity membership and determine the proper authorities.

The President's satisfaction would be a nice thing to have in there, but Mr. Wellons thought it would be a nice thing to have in there. It is in the interest of the fraternity, but Mr. Wellons thought it would be a nice thing to have in there. It is in the interest of the fraternity.

Wheaton Selected Captain

Of Duke's 1950 Soccer Team

By BRUCE SMITH

During the 1949-50 soccer season, Wheaton was a 20-year-old center half back from Wheaton College. He was captain of the team and was named to the all-American second team. He played on the team for four seasons and was a member of the 1949-50 team that reached the semi-finals of the NCAA tournament.

DUKE CHRONICLE ALL-INTRA-TEAMALUMNI GAME

Pictured above is the Duke University 1949 all-alumni basketball team. The game was played on the campus of Duke University and was the first of its kind for the Blue Devils. The alumni team consisted of former Duke players from the 1940s and early 1950s.

KA "C" Places Three On Chronicle All-IM

By JOE BRIDGES

Duke's soccer team was selected to receive the All-IM honors for the 1949 season. The team was coached by Jack Sullivan and featured three members from Duke: Dan Caldwell (B), Henry Poss (C), and Carl Glasow (D). The team had a successful season, finishing third in the Southern Conference and winning the conference championship.

THE TALE OF THE TOWN AND CAMPUS

MANHATTAN SHIRTS

Two members of the victorious 1949 Duke football team were selected to receive the All-IM honors: Paul Stephanz and Dan Caldwell. Both players were key contributors to the team's success, with Stephanz being named to the first team and Caldwell to the second team.

HONORABLE MENTION

Several other members of the Duke football team were also recognized, including Dan Nash, Ed Mabry, and Jack Sullivan. These players were named to the All-IM honorable mention team.

This is a typical Christmas story. What we really do is, every family makes the Christmas season more meaningful to others. "Happy Holidays..." Bill's friend has returned to East. "Here's a happy Christmas to you and yours. I'll be back tomorrow."

Cato Warns Men About Fraternity Conduct at Home

"Prudently and soberly, and with an eye to the future over the Christmas vacation should one consider how best to conduct oneself in the presence of these young men who are members of fraternal organizations." This week, America's most popular comedian, who happens to be a member of the shriner fraternity, warned his fellow members about the dangers of fraternizing with the opposite sex.

"I am tremendously impressed by the bares. Duke Campus in the recent snowfall of the last week. Of course, I have heard much about Duke for many years, but I had not realized what it was until now. A different attitude, and quite a few of the professors were discussed.

Benno, Chopin Belabor Page Series Audience

Probably the most surprising thing that could be said about Belabor Benno, which makes its appearance in the Page this week, is its surprising success in the screening of the series of events that has been a regular feature of the Duke Campus for many years. The event, which is usually held in the Page on Sundays, has been very successful in attracting a large audience.

One reason for this success is the fact that Belabor Benno is a well-known performer, and his wit and charm are very appealing. The events are held in the Page auditorium, and the audience is always enthusiastic.

Campbell Lecture To Be Sponsored By Erasmus Club

"I found myself in the middle of the room, looking around at the faces of the people sitting in front of me. I realized that I had never been in the presence of such a large audience before." This week, the Erasmus Club sponsored a lecture by Dr. Campbell, which was very well-received.

"I found the lecture to be very interesting, and it was nice to see so many people interested in the subject. I think the Erasmus Club does a great job of sponsoring events like this."
