"D" DANCE
Tomorrow night theVarsity "D" Club holds its Homecoming dance in conjunction with the Duke Alumni Association. All profits from the dance go to the Edgemont Community Center. The continued crackpots that you've seen around the "Quad" the last couple of days aren't exactly witty. Upwards of 50 new members are being initiated into the "D" club, and the good grooming is all a part of it.

BROWN OUT FOR SEASON
Jim Brown, stellar defensive halfback on last year's grid team, is being counted out for the rest of the season. Brown has broken by injuries all season, and has missed all games. It is likely that "Bulldog" will undergo surgery and sit out this season. Brown will be eligible for competition next year although this was to be his last campaign. He is one of the fastest men on the squad.

NEW RECORD BOOK NEEDED
Just about every Duke record on the books will have to be re-written at the end of the present grid campaign. Bill Cox has broken his own record in forward passing (set last year), and Saturday against Maryland he set a new total offense record for a single season—with four games yet to play! Twice this year the Duke record for number of passes thrown in a single game has been broken. Cox threw all 36 passes against N. C. State, which is another record. The record for number of points scored in a game was broken two weeks ago by Tom Powers. Coach Youmans has broken the Duke record for number of passes caught in a single season and the career-catching total is in danger. Cox only needs 12 in the next four games to tie the record held by Bob Gantt. About the only marks not in danger are Ace Parker's single-season rushing total and Winston Siggler's points-scored-in-one-season record of 96 set in 1941.

Wheaton Lost To Soccermen By Broken Leg

"Scotty" Wheaton, captain and spark plug of the Duke varsity soccer team, will be lost to the booters for the remainder of the season, and may be lost for the season.

Wheaton sustained a broken leg in Friday's 4-1 loss to Maryland. He is an outstanding half-back, and his loss is a severe blow to the Blaymen.

Maryland opened the scoring in the second quarter when Hamilton blasted one past the Duke defense. A few minutes later Wheaton suffered his injury and before the Blaymen could recover, in the second half the Booters outplayed Maryland but were unable to score but once. The lone Duke tally came in the fourth quarter on a shot by Mal Lindstrom. Ram, Strauch, Riggs, Wheaton, Lindstrom, and Viggiano were standouts for Duke.

Bobbing back from their defeat at the hands of Maryland, the Blaymen upset the favored U. N. C. soccer team 3-0. This was Duke's first victory over the Tar Heel varsity soccer team in two years. The first quarter was a newsworthy affair with both teams unable to capitalize on numerous opportunities to score. It was not until the second quarter that the Booters broke through and Lindstrom scored on a pass from Bill Schneider. Both goal tenders, Vawter for Duke and Blankenship for U. N. C. played a superb game.

"My Greatest Day In Duke Football" Elmore Hackney Played Brilliantly In Loss to Tennessee Volunteers

By GARRY GOLDSTEIN
Chronicle Sportswriter

Although it was a demoralizing day for the highly favored Blue Devils in Knoxville that October 24, 1939, it produced a story-book finish that will be long remembered. It was a typical Duke vs. Tennessee classic from the opening kickoff to the final gun and the 50,000 fans were really kept on edge.

In the first period "Honey Boy" Hackney, one of Duke's all-time backfield sensations took a Volunteer punt on the Duke 47 and raced down the sidelines, all the way for a touchdown. This was only the beginning for this fleet-footed Blue Devil. The rifle-armed back was all out to put his team in the Tournament of Roses.

The Vols bounced back in the second quarter and compiled a safety on one of the many doubtful plays of the game. The two points, however, seemed to give the boys from the Smokies new fire, and on a thirty yard pass play from Dickens to Herring, Tennessee went out in front 9-6.

Aerial Artistry
Duke then took the air and with the pitching of Honey Hackney began to roll up the yardage. In the fourth period Hackney picked out his man, marked the spot and tossed to Ace Parker for touchdown. Hackney bottled the extra point and on a touchdown the Vols had to make three goalside punts to prevent a Duke victory.

Late in the last quarter, after Tennessee's passing attack failed to click, the Duke took over on their own 35. With third down and five yards to go, Ace Parker faked back to pass and out of nowhere came the fleet-footed Hackney who took the ball on a hand-off and raced around left end for 35 yards. Regrettably, Hackney's efforts were in vain, for Duke drew a five-yard penalty for backfield in motion.

Vols Win
Parker was forced to kick on fourth down and his punt went out of bounds on the Vol 12, but again Duke was penalized for off-sides and this time Parker's kick was picked up by Harry of Tennessee on his own 12. He gladed two would-be Duke tacklers, picked up his interference and raced all the way, 58 yards for the game-winning Volunteer touchdown.

It was a gala homecoming for Tennessee; and although Duke had the best of the statistics—mainly due to the outstanding playing of Elmore "Honey Boy" Hackney—the Vols earned their triumph. In defeat, however, the Duke had nothing to be ashamed of as the fans witnessed another thrill-packed ball game.

York Elected Captain of Cage Team

Scotty York, a senior from Cincinnati, Ohio and a returning letterman, was elected captain of the Blue Devil basketball squad at a meeting of the team last night. York will be supported on the court by four other lettermen—Dayton Allen, Dick Crowder, Bill Flemming and Red Kulpian. Dick Groet, the sophomore sensation, who rejoined the club this year is not a letterman. The team has been practicing at night under the direction of coaches Bill Cameron and Horace Hendrickson.

"Where Duke Men Meet"

By STERLING SMITH
Chronicle Sports Editor

A swarm of Yellow Jackets from Georgia Tech breezed into town yesterday and realized themselves for tomorrow's battle with Duke's rebounding Blue Devils. On the strength of seasonal records the Duke rule as slight favorites. A homecoming crowd of over 30,000 is expected to be on hand for the 2 o'clock kickoff.

Tech this year has found nothing rather tough. The Jackets have lost to S. M. U., Kentucky, L. S. U. and South Carolina. Tech victories are counted over Auburn and Florida.

Duke fans can look forward to their weekly meet on Friday from the nation's leader in the passing department, Bill Cox.

Last week the passers weren't enough to beat Maryland, but they did elude Cox to the number one slot and skyrocketed Coach Youmans to a second-place tie for the national pass-catching leadership.

Hot Potatoes
Tech, as per usual, will turn loose its razzle-dazzle attack in hopes of upsetting the Blue Devils. The Engineers will throw a veteran backfield at the Wademen composed of Buster Humphries, Roy McCoy, and Bobby North. This backfield will be managed by Junior quarter-back Darrell Crawford. Dodd's system is to throw the ball around like a hot potato. The Yellow Jackets even feature a guy who throws the ball backhanded.

The Devils were thwarted last week in their quest for Wade's 20th victory and will try again to present their coach with the coveted total. Victory over the Volunteers would be especially sweet since Tech has been in great sorrow of disappointment from a 7-0 defeat to Wade and to Blue Devil grid teams in the past.

Coach Dodd reports his team to be in excellent condition for the battle. Duke defensive half-back George Grune was injured in the Maryland fracas and may see no action. Even if he does

Greatest Players
The series has also introduced some of the South's greatest players, the latest of whom entered the spotlight with his brilliant defensive performance in the 49 tilt. That was the Blue Devils' junior end, Blaine Eason, who was selected "Lineman of the Week" after that game.

Among Tech's prominent contributors to the series are All-American Clint and Jimmy Casberry, George Broadnax, and Bobby Davis.

College Hockey For Southland To Come Soon

There is a good chance that collegiate ice hockey may find its way south in the near future. As a result of a recent visit to the State College Coliseum by several Duke hockey enthusiasts, it was learned that considerable interest existed among the Coliseum and University officials. The only drawback appears to be on the financial end. It has been estimated that approximately ten thousand dollars would be needed to complete the Coliseum for a hockey presentation. This money would be spent on goals and protective padding. The rest of the equipment necessary is now available.

There are enough men in this area ready and willing to put up the necessary capital if sufficient interest is presented by the Big Four. In order to further the possibility of hockey this season, any person interested in participating should turn in his name to Randy Beard, Box 8410, Duke Station.

Varsity "D" Club members John Tapley, Lou McLennan, Henry Fox, and Jack Warmath coach a group of youngsters at Edgemont Community Center as a part of the center's athletic program. Proceeds from tomorrow night's Homecoming Dance, sponsored by the club and the Alumni Office, will go to further the program there.

Baby Dukesters Engage Papooses; William and Mary Not Too Strong

While their big brothers are waging aggressive warfare on the Ramblin' Reck in Duke Stadium tomorrow, the Blue Imps will have a fight of their own going on in Williamsburg, Virginia.

It is there that the Baby Blue will be going against the freshman grid squad of William and Mary.

Papooses Yet to Win

The Papooses have been winless in their two encounters so far this season. Their games with the Baby Tar Heels and the Baby Deacs were both close affairs, as should be the game tomorrow. Although the Baby Deacs won by a four touchdown margin, three of these came on pass interception runbacks, two inside the last five minutes of the game. Rumor has it that two days before the game with the Baby Deacs, three of the ace backs got the greener pastures urge and decided to join up with the Volunteers of the University of Tennessee. Much to the regret of Coach Horace Hendrickson's Blue Imps, this same rumor also has it that these three wanderers have since decided to return to the Indian camp.

Imps Upset State

When the Blue Imps pulled what may have been the major upset of the year in Southern Conference freshman circles by soundly thrashing the Wolfpack of N. C. State 19-0, several lineups emerged as the shining lights of the Duke freshman defense, and diminutive Alex Kosma was the big gun on offense in shagging back two punts for touchdowns. Red Smith, the only other Baby Blue player to score this year, got another counter at the end of a nice punt initiated by David Barrett's blocking a Wolfpack punt deep in State territory.

Imps Slight Favorites

Despite the results of the State game, the Blue Imps will enter the game tomorrow on nearly even terms with the Papooses, with the Baby Blue reigning as a slight pre-game favorite.

INTRAMURAL HIGHLIGHTS

By SAM SUMAKER

Division I

Blasting over from the one-day line, Johnny Conner led his ATO team to a 6-0 victory over Kappa Sigma last Wednesday. This was probably the most decisive game of the week. It clearly established the ATO club, an outfit with a terrific running attack, as a real threat to KA "A", the ranking team up until that time in division one. The line play of both teams indicated that there were several candidates for the All-Intramural eleven present. However, ATO seemed to find its superiority in line backs and short runs. Both teams, KA and ATO, are undefeated.

All in all, it was a rough battle between the two heaviest lines in the intramural running this year. For the losing Kappa Sigma team, John Falwell, speedy and deceptive tailback from Roxbury, Massachusetts, was outstanding on offense. Conner's third period score resulted after an exchange of kicking on both sides.

Division II

In division two, Delta Tau Delta, undefeated in its first two games, has a slight lead over Psi Kappa Phi, with one win and one tie. Although undefeated, the Law School, with two ties, and KA "B", with three ties to its credit, do not appear to be threats to the league's leading Delta. The Delta's attack is primarily a well-planned passing offense.

In the other divisions, it seems to be a battle between Sigma Nu and the always tough Divinity School in league three—and between the Bugs and the Independents, both independent teams, in division four. After battling Theta Chi to a scoreless first half, the Bugs opened up an aerial show which blasted their opponents 13-0.

Sponsors for the Alpha Tau Omega fall dance tonight from 9 to 12 in the Crystal Ballroom of the Washington Duke Hotel are Lena Mae Smith, Margie Carmichael, Nancy Fairley, and Ruth Anne Fisher. Music will be by the Duke Ambassadors.

Graduate Students May Occupy New Dormitory Early Next Fall

By HENRY CLARK

If construction continues on schedule, Duke University graduate students will have a new dormitory to live in next year. According to statement issued this week by officials of the Duke Development Program, the building now under construction on Erwin Road will be ready for occupancy next fall. Meanwhile, returning alumni are being greeted by the sight of a huge excavation where nothing but pine trees stood when they were students. Those who are curious enough to look behind the high board fences which enclose the excavation see steam shovels at work preparing the ground for the concrete foundations which will be laid soon.

The new graduate dorm is the first step in a 12 million dollar program to expand the facilities of the University. Shortly after the war, when it became apparent that the present dormitories and administration buildings, built originally to handle less than four thousand students, could not provide adequate space for the increasing enrollment and the administrators necessary to take care of them, Duke University officials agreed that an expansion program was imperative if the enrollment was to be stabilized at five thousand students.

Behind the fences on Erwin Road and Hospital Drive construction workers are excavating and pouring foundations for the new Hanes House for nurses (above) and the Graduate Center. Both are scheduled for completion next fall. The construction of Hanes House was made possible by a gift from Mrs. Elizabeth P. Hanes and a federal grant; the Graduate Center is the first major project undertaken under the Development Program.

Also included in the plans for expansion are new administration and classroom buildings, which have already been designed to fill the lot next to the Social Sciences Building. A new addition to the Law Building is also being considered. Future students will not only have better housing facilities, but they will also have use of the present administration buildings, which will be remodeled into a Student Activities Building, equipped with rooms for club meetings, an auditorium for small concerts, and a large lounge.

Hand in hand with the construction of new living and of space is a program for the expansion of research, scholarships and fellowships for promising students, and for continued efforts to maintain a top-notch faculty.

Of the original goal of 12 million dollars set by the committee, over two million dollars have already come into the University treasury. The acquiring of six million more is earmarked as urgent, with the remaining four million expected to be received at a slower pace.

and by the Duke and Georgia Tech marching bands. Awards for campus Homecoming decorations will be presented during half-time by Noble Arnold, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Homecoming Committee.

Open Fraternities

Fraternities have scheduled open houses after the game, and registration of alumni will also continue in the Union.

The Duke Ambassadors will play for the Varsity "D" Club's informal Homecoming Dance Saturday evening in the old gym from 8 until 12 o'clock. Queen Barbara will be a special guest and all alumni have been invited. Sunday's program includes an 11 o'clock Homecoming Day sermon by Dr. James H. Phillips in the Duke Chapel, and a social organ recital in the Chapel at 4 p.m. by Mildred L. Hendrix.

Enter Windows

Over 50 windows were entered in the downtown Homecoming window display contest, and judging took place last night. Three members of ROS and two Sandals evaluated the decorations, and awarded football tickets to the firms with the winning displays.
