

MIAMI ORANGE FESTIVAL 'BEST YET'

Colorful 'Week of Extravaganza' Awaits Orange Bowl Fans

By CHARLES WRAY
Chronicle Associate Editor

Miami's twenty-first annual Orange Bowl Festival, tabbed as the "biggest and best yet," will feature the New Year's Day encounter between Duke's Blue Devils, kings of the Atlantic Coast Conference, and the rugged Nebraska Cornhuskers, representing the Big Seven. But the "Week of Extravaganza" includes many other colorful and glittering spectacles that will appeal to visitors and natives alike.

Orange Bowl Week will get underway officially on Christmas Day with the seventh annual Shrine North-South All-Star football game between picked squads of college seniors representing the two geographical areas. The following day the Boys-Girls Tennis Tournament will begin at Flamingo Park in fashionable Miami Beach.

For the water sport enthusiasts the International Regatta and the round Miami Beach motor boat race for both inboards and outboards, is also on the calendar for the day after Christmas.

There are no scheduled events for Monday and Tuesday, allowing the visitor time for golf, fishing, boating, swimming and sunbathing on the excellent facilities available in and around Miami. Spectator sports such as horse racing and the suicidal Jai Alai will aid the tourist in filling his spare time.

FLORIDA RESIDENTS WILL NOT BE THE ONLY DUKESTERS to make a New Year's pilgrimage to the Orange Country this year, thinks Nancy Ware, a Giles House freshman from Miami. A large number of students are making plans now to beat an early retreat from the Christmas festivities at home to see the Devils in their fourth bowl appearance.

On Wednesday the festivities get into full swing with the kickoff luncheon.

The scene shifts to Coral Gables the next day for the children's pageant and midget grid classic. It's back to Miami on Friday for the International Grand Prix, an assault on the national motorboat endurance records by inboards and outboards.

Color, pageantry and beauty reign supreme on New Year's Eve as miles and miles of floats and bands parade in downtown Miami in the annual Orange Bowl parade.

The parade is viewed by millions as it passes along Miami's streets and countless millions more at home on a nation-wide television broadcast.

Saturday is the big day for the football fans as Duke and Nebraska clash in the mammoth Orange Bowl Stadium, which seats close to 70,000. Coach Bill Murray summed up the feelings of the players and the Duke supporters when he commented, "It will be a great holiday experience for the boys on the team and a chance to bring more glory to an already successful season."

In meeting the Cornhuskers the Blue Devils will be meeting a team which won six and lost four during the regular season.

The Blue Devils have been established 13-point favorites, but odds mean little or nothing in the New Year's Day bowl classics.

Winding up the Orange Bowl schedule will be in-board motor races on Sunday afternoon and the Grand Finale Monday night. Featured in the Finale will be the repeats of the parade and halftime spectacles plus a fireworks pageant and thrill acts.

Comedy Slated for Dec. 11

Duke Players To Open Second Production; LeFever, Guthman Capture Principal Roles

Moving back to Branson Hall for their second production of the season, Duke Players will open a four-day run of John Millington Synge's "The Playboy of the Western World," Dec. 11.

Tickets for the comedy will go on sale Monday, Dec. 6 in Branson from 2-5 p.m. Reservations may be made by telephone during these hours. Season tickets are good for the performance.

Cast as Pegeen Mike, Judy LeFever will play the role of the tavernkeeper's daughter who falls in love with the Playboy only to denounce her feelings later when she discovers his romantic description of murdering his father are not authentic.

John Guthman will play the role of Christy, the Playboy.

In supporting roles are Sally Morse, the Widow Quinn, a man-hungry scavenger who tries to steal Christy from Pegeen, and Robert Butts who plays Old Mahon, the never-say-die father of the Playboy. Robert Nichols is cast as Shawn Keogh, Pegeen's indecisive suitor.

Embodying all the romanticism and lyrical language of the typical Irish drama, the play has been acclaimed as one of the finest examples of the Celtic Revival in Ireland.

Kenneth Reardon will direct the show with Victor Michalak taking charge of technical preparations, Al Fox, president of the dramatic group announced.

100 COLLEGE DELEGATES MEET FOR 3-DAY CONFERENCE HERE

By DRU ROGERS
Chronicle Senior Staff Reporter

Delivering the keynote speech of the Virginia-North and South Carolina Regional Conference of the National Student Association, Dr. A. Hollis Edens will address an audience of over 100 collegiate delegates on the topic of academic freedom at a dinner meeting tonight at 6:30 p.m. in the Union Ballroom.

Following the dinner a panel will discuss academic freedom at 8:30 p.m. in the East Duke Music Room. A coffee hour at 10:30 p.m. in the East Duke parlors will conclude today's activities.

Continuing a series of conferences and workshops on both world and campus affairs, a panel discussion will be held on Integration Problems tomorrow at 9 a.m., in the Engineering College Auditorium. Reconvening after a coffee break, this discussion group will divide into five smaller sections to discuss the question in more detail at 11 p.m. in Flowers Building.

Assembling in commissions, the conference will resume discussions at Friday's session concerning international and travel affairs, educational and student affairs and student government affairs at 2 p.m. in Flowers Building.

Concluding the three-day conference during which Duke is playing host to the representatives from colleges and universities in this area, the convention will assemble for a final business plenary session with Joel Fleishman of UNC presiding at 4 p.m. Following the meeting there will be a post-assembly regional executive committee meeting at 7:30 p.m.

Students may attend all conferences and workshops; however, only SGA delegates will receive excuse cuts attendance. Student leaders expressed their hope that this convention will not only show Duke students what NSA is capable of doing but what it is doing.

Earlier in the conference, which began on Thursday, several student government problems were aired in special sessions for student body presidents, collegiate editors, judicial chairmen and NSA coordinators. WSGA delegates to the convention are Mary Ann French, Jo Ann Smith and Mary French.

Union Board Slates 'Satchmo' For Appearance on February 9

By RON MOGEL
Chronicle News Editor

The bubble which Student Union board members have been balancing so delicately on their fingertips for the past few months will burst in glorious style on Feb. 9 as "Satchmo" Louis Armstrong, the King of Basin Street himself, pours his "frothy" voice and captivating melodies over Duke University.

The program, planned for Feb. 9, from 8-10 p.m. is scheduled for the Indoor Stadium. Students who are members of the Student Union will be admitted free upon presentation of their IBM identification cards.

Anyone who has ever heard

Louis Armstrong will certainly agree that he is unafraid of musical competition in any form. He has surrounded himself with six of the best men on their respective instruments. However, Satchmo's horn shines through the whole ensemble.

Paradox though it may seem, Armstrong is unconscious of his far-reaching fame. He seems content to share the spotlight with his band and to stay in the background when each of his great sidemen are performing their specialties: Jack Teagarden on the trombone; Earl "Father" Hines tinkling the "ivories"; Barney Bigard on the clarinet; Cozy Cole on drums; and "that frantic child," Avrell Shaw blowing bass—"that's a pretty impressive lineup to compete with, and still come out on top, but Louis cuts 'em all," said Downbeat magazine.

As Louis's protegee, piano man Joe Bushkin once said, "When Louis comes on, man, it's like an atomic bomb arriving for PEACE!"

"Believe it or not, Louis Armstrong is one of the greatest ambassadors America has ever had, having become a synonym for America in many European countries long before the cats on Main Street ever heard of him," stated Social Whirl magazine.

The story is told of Louis' command performance in London during which he called out to the royal congregation. "This one's for you, Rex"—of course disarming the King and getting many votes for these United States.

The banquet will climax two days of meetings of Mid-East Conference of the nation's foremost professional business fraternity.

A formal dance will follow the banquet on Saturday night.

Booth, Wilson To Head Fund

At a meeting in the West Campus Union this week, Ernest Booth, president of the Fidelity Bank, and John Wilson, president of the Wright Machinery Company, were elected chairman and vice-chairman, respectively, of the 1954-55 Durham-Duke Fund.

The fund provides money for the University's general operating expenses through contributions by local non-alumni individuals and business and industrial firms.

Both, in accepting the chairmanship, asserted "If Durham did not have Duke University, most of us would be willing to make sacrifice to bring the University here. We welcome the opportunity to show in a tangible way part or our appreciation for Duke. That is the purpose and spirit of the campaign."

President A. Hollis Edens described the Durham-Duke Fund as an annual affair that is "tremendously important" in the principle it sets for support of the University among alumni, industrial concerns and other groups throughout the United States. He added that during the past year Duke "has spent some $2,000,000 on research through funds provided by the Federal Government and other sources—dollars that came into Durham to be applied toward new discoveries, new inventions, new knowledge."

Booth and Wilson succeed Chairman John A. Buchanan and vice-chairman Marvin Fowler as heads of the Fund.

Past Premier Chautemps To Speak Founders' Day

By DEAN BELK
Chronicle Staff Reporter

Camille Chautemps, four times Premier of France, will discuss "Europe Up To Date" at Founders' Day Exercises on Dec. 11, it was announced today by the Men's Student Government and Charles A. Dukes, Alumni Director.

Chautemps has just returned from a six months' visit in France, where he observed the recent controversy over European Defense Community.

Before entering politics in 1912, M. Chautemps received successive degrees of Bachelor, Licentiate, and Doctor of Law at the University of Paris. He served as Mayor of Tours, representative and senator from 1912 to 1924. He then held various cabinet posts until February, 1930, when he was elected Premier for twenty-four hours.

His second term as Premier from November, 1930, to January, 1934, was suddenly cut short because of the Stavisky affair. Peter Stavisky, who posed as an investment broker, had received the endorsement of worthless bonds by a Radical Socialist cabinet member. When the fact was made public, Stavisky fled to Chamonix, where he committed suicide before he could be taken into custody, but the Socialists and Communists charged that the swindler had been shot to protect persons in high position. During the storm that followed M. Chautemps received two votes of confidence, but riots and demonstrations caused him to resign.

During the period from 1934 to 1940 M. Chautemps was elected Premier twice more. These two terms were marked with efforts to balance the national budget and to align France with the United States and England.

In 1940 M. Chautemps came to America as French Ambassador. Since that time the Chautemps family has lived in Washington.

Coed Ball to Feature Beauty Queen, Court

Wake Forest Group To Play at Gathering

Coeds and their dates will find Beauty at the Ball tomorrow night when the Chanticleer Queen of 1955 is crowned at the Social Standards Committee's annual winter dance.

"The Santaland Ball" will feature music by the Southerners, a Wake Forest orchestra, and decorations in the Christmas tradition. Chairman of the dance committee is Lane McGregor.

Stepping from a giant gift-wrapped package, the Queen will receive her scepter from Pete Landeau, editor of the yearbook. The other members of the court, picked from an impressive array of royal contenders, will also be announced.

After-the-dance breakfasts are scheduled in most of the women's dormitories from 12 until 1 p.m. for the couples. Social Standards members and their dates will be entertained in the East Union.

Dress for the evening is formal for the women and semi-formal for the men. Traditionally, the Ball is the only "flowers" dance of the year.

Receiving the students at the dance, which will be held from 9-12 p.m. in the old gymnasium on West, will be Deans R. Florence Brinkley and Mary Grace Wilson of the Woman's College.

Chapel Choir Will Open Christmas Season With Annual Singing of Handel's 'Messiah'

The 200-voice Chapel Choir will present its 22nd annual performance of Handel's "Messiah" on Sunday, Dec. 5, at 4 p.m., traditionally opening the University's Christmas season.

Of special interest will be the appearance of guest soloist William Kirkpatrick, who has sung in previous Chapel "Messiah" performances. Other soloists include Mary Ramscur, Carolyn Couch, Mrs. Isawo Tanaka, Bill Duke, Robert Chambers and Lowell Lehman.

The program will consist of 12 choruses among which are "And the Glory of the Lord," "O Thou That Teltest Good Tidings," "For Unto Us a Child is Born," and "Since by Man Came Death." The Hallelujah Chorus will conclude the hour-and-a-half presentation. The 213-year-old oratorio is based on the Biblical story of the "Messiah."

J. Foster Barnes will direct and Miss Mildred L. Hendrix, organist, will accompany the chorus and soloists.

THE OPERATOR

On every American campus there are four standard fixtures: No. 1—ivy; No. 2—a statue of the founder; No. 3—Philip Morris Cigarettes; No. 4—The Operator.

The ivy is to prevent strangers from mistaking the college for a warehouse. The statue of the founder provides shade for necking when the weather is fine. The Philip Morris Cigarettes are an aid to concentration when you are studious, an aid to sociability when you are sportive, and a source of smoke rings to impress new girls.

Well do I remember The Operator on my campus. He was a young man with a ready smile, a quick mind, fifteen complete changes of wardrobe, a six room apartment, a red convertible, and assorted stocks, bonds, securities, and second mortgages.

The Operator's origins were a source of lively speculation. Some said he was left over from the old Capone gang. Some said he was Judge Crater. Some said he sprang from the brow of Zeus.

But, in fact, he was just an ordinary student—to be with. In his first year he studied hard, took copious lecture notes, got good grades, and made a big reputation as a friend in need. He'd lend you money; he'd let you copy his lecture notes; he'd write themes for you; he'd sit up all night to help you cram for an exam. All of this was done with infinite good nature on his part, and no obligation on yours . . . The first year, that is.

In the second year The Operator started to operate. He'd still let you copy his lecture notes—of it cost you a quarter. Sitting up to help you cram cost 50 cents an hour till midnight, 75 cents an hour afterwards. His prices for writing themes were based on a sliding scale—a dollar for a "C", two for a "B", three for an "A". A "D" cost you nothing, and if you flunked, you got a dollar credit on the next theme he wrote for you.

His services expanded steadily. He added a line of cribs for examinations. He hooked bets on football games. He did a bit of bootlegging. He ran a date bureau. He rented cars, tuxedos, non-wilting boutonnieres.

But all of these were really sidelines. His main line was lending money. At any hour of the day or night, for any amount from a dollar to a hundred, The Operator was always ready with a sympathetic ear and cash on the barrelhead. And he rarely charged more than 150 percent interest.

Ujury and sharp trading are practices not calculated to win affection. Nobody loved The Operator. But nobody did anything about it either . . . Because undergraduates live in a perpetual state of need—need of money, need of lecture notes, need of romance, need of beer, need of something—and The Operator was the goose that laid the golden eggs and, therefore, life.

Nor did The Operator seek affection. He just went his well-heeled way, serene and carefree . . . No, not quite carefree. One thing troubled him: a fear that some day he might graduate. Graduation, leaving school, would mean the end of his empire. You can run a business like that from the outside; you must be right in the midst of things, spotting opportunities, anticipating needs, keeping your finger on the pulse.

So he took great pains to stay in school, but never to graduate. This he accomplished by constantly shifting majors. He would come within a semester of getting a B.A. in sociology and then transfer to law. When he had nearly enough law credits, he'd switch to business administration. Then from business administration to psychology, from psychology to French, from French to history, and so on, meanwhile getting cultured as all get-out, rich as Croesus, and never accumulating quite enough credits for a degree.

Finally, of course, it caught up with him. There came a semester when no matter what he took, he had to wind up with some kind of a degree. He looked frantically through the class schedule trying to find some major he hadn't tried yet. And he found one—physical education. So, sleek and pudgy though he was from high living, The Operator entered the department of physical ed.

It was a mistake. Among the people he had to wrestle and box with were some great hulking fellows who, like everybody else on campus, owed him money.

Their tiny foreheads creased with glee as they regarded The Operator's trembling little body; their massive biceps swelled joyously; their flexors rippled with delight. Rumbling happily, they fell upon him and covered him with lumps, the smallest of which would have taken first prize in any lump contest you might name.

Confused and sick at heart, The Operator dragged his battered members home. He knew he had to get out of physical ed; his life was forfeit if he did not. So, unhappily, he transferred to some other course, and the following June, a beaten man in his cap and gown, received with lifeless hands a diploma and a bachelor of arts degree and shambled out into the great world.

It's not a bad guess that The Operator after graduation. It's not a bad guess that he's serving time in some pokey somewhere. Or maybe he was lucky and went into the advertising business. If so, he is surely a big man on Madison Avenue today.

But, as I say, I don't know what happened to him. But this I do know: another Operator appeared on campus as soon as this one left, and he in turn was replaced by another, and the process goes on endlessly.

For as long as boy students like girl students better than going to class, as long as parents cling to the delusion that the allowance they had at college is sufficient for their children, as long as blood runs warm and cash runs short, there will be an Operator operating on every campus everywhere.

Psychologists Interpret Study Habits Of Academically Superior Students

The Duke Psychology department has made a survey of students' study habits and has discovered the people who make the best grades tend to have the following nine habits:

1. They nearly always study in the same place.
2. They schedule their time so that each morning they know approximately how each hour will be spent.
3. They use a dictionary to look up any unfamiliar word.

4. They read the summary of a chapter before reading the chapter.
5. They skim a chapter before reading it carefully.
6. They take notes in outline form.
7. They try to sum up their reading in a few sentences and question themselves as they read.
8. They don't skip graphs, charts, etc.
9. They don't study extremely late at night.

Board Studies Parking Areas

The Traffic Commission of Duke University is currently working on a new system of parking arrangements in an effort to alleviate the present parking problems. First step of its program is the issuing of new decals for cars. This will help in the redistribution of the parking space available around the campus.

The Commission has already acted upon suggestions of Carl Edwards, Judicial Board Chairman, to change the lot behind the Library and the Law buildings to make 35 more spaces available to faculty members. After actually counting the changes it has made, the Commission found that it made room for 42 additional parking space.

Some suggestions by the Commission are as follows: Students that come from Durham or other distant locations should park their cars in the lots behind Pate Auditorium and the Engineering Building. There is usually room for at least 50 cars behind the Engineering Building alone. In this way the spaces closest to the buildings are available to those with only a little time between classes. The suggestion most emphasized by Dr. D. Hill, secretary of the Commission, is to be sure to place the registration sticker in the correct position—that is, place them on the right rear windshield. In the case of convertibles, it is permissible to place them on the flap windows.

WHAT'S THIS DROODLE?

For solution see paragraph below.

ACCORDING TO THE LARGEST and latest coast-to-coast college survey, college smokers prefer Luckies—and by a wide margin. The No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better. Thousands of students appreciate Luckies' better taste almost as much as the pair in the Droodle above, titled: Sweethearts attempting to kiss and enjoy better-tasting Luckies at same time. Luckies taste better for good reasons. First of all, Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, "It's Toasted" to taste better. This famous Lucky Strike process tones up Luckies' light, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better—cleaner, fresher, smoother. So, enjoy the better-tasting cigarette . . . Lucky Strike.

Siskel Seeks 'Smoky'

Maury Siskel, a psychology student here, had a black cocker spaniel. We say "had" because it is lost, stolen or strayed. The puppy is a three-year-old male cocker who answers (if he feels like it) to the name of "Smoky." He wears a black collar with his rabies vaccination tag No. 866. He was vaccinated by Dr. Vine in Chapel Hill. If anyone knows anything about Smoky, please call extension 9295; a reward is offered.

Quizzes Can't Crush That Yuletide Spirit As the Greeks Take Their Belles to Balls

By SHIRLEY HELD and KAKIE ROSS

This weekend everybody has a ball. To battle the barrage of pre-Christmas quizzes and term papers, big doin's are embracing the campus in the form of gala formal put on in the finest style and sparkling sequins and plaid cummerbunds. Tonight Pi Kappa Alpha will dine and dance at the Hope Valley Country Club at their annual Snow Ball.

Tomorrow night the knights of Phi Delta Theta assemble their swords and shields and charge into Tarheel territory to impress their dates at the Chapel Hill Country Club. Candy striped night shirts should create quite a sensation. Is this a crusade for more Duke freedom? Also tomorrow night, the brothers of Alpha Tau Omega lay down their cloaks in true Sir Walter Raleigh style as they wine and dance in the state capital. The party will get under way at an early hour. Cherrio, pip, pip . . . sip, sip, sip!

Clad in something less formal, but no less festive, the Carpet Baggers of Delta Tau Delta, riding on ponies with feathers in their hats, will chow down and dance in true Yankee style tonight at the Cupboard Cafeteria. Macaroni?

Those recently having big weekends include: Skip Kurlbaum pinned to Frank Stewart; Carol Byrd to Kieth Grimson; Nancy Parker to a man from home; Mary Alice Milligan to E. J. Gunter.

Those planning even bigger weekends are: The two Glasses, Ben and Fuller; Jean Irons and Dick Singleberry; Polly Pope and Gordon Clapp; Kathy Rape and Warren Bishop; Arlene Jacobson and Charles Tetenbaum; Seth Bartner and a girl from Connecticut College.

Devils Open Hardwood Play Tonight

Outstanding Cagers . . .

JOE BELMONT (left) and RON MAYER are two outstanding cagers on Coach Hal Bradley's five, and will lead the team against Clemson tonight. Both men are in their junior year, and were fourth and third highest scorers respectively on last year's team. Belmont hit for a 12.4 average, while Mayer gathered in 12.9. Both men are from Pennsylvania, and were All-Star players in high school.

Orange Bowl-Bound Eleven Seeks To Even Mark Against Cornhuskers In Fourth Post-Season Tilt

The twenty-third annual Orange Bowl Festival, Jan. 1, will feature ACC champs, Duke University and the Big Seven representative, the University of Nebraska.

This will be the first Orange Bowl appearance for both teams, although each has appeared in previous post-season encounters. The 1938 undefeated, untied and unscored upon Blue Dukes dropped a 7-3 encounter to USC in the closing minutes at Pasadena. The Devils in the role of host team in the only transplanted Rose Bowl in history went down 20-6 against Oregon State in a tight struggle on Jan. 1, 1942. Duke copped its first bowl victory in New Orleans just ten years ago, emerging as victor over Alabama, 29-26 in one of the truly great games in Sugar Bowl history. The Cornhuskers lost to Frankie Albert and his Stanford mates the Rose Bowl on the first day of 1941, 21-13.

The Cornhuskers, though finishing second in the Big Seven this year, won the right to represent their conference, since the perennial champion Oklahoma Sooners are not permitted to compete two years consecutively due to conference stipulation. The Nebraska posted a 6-4 record this season losing to Oklahoma, Minnesota, Pittsburgh and Kansas State but can be rough, as victories over Colorado and Missouri will testify.

Four of Coach J. W. "Big" Glasford's players garnered spots on the AP All-Big Seven Elevens. Senior guard Charlie Bryant and fullback Bob Smith were named to the first team; while end Andy Loehr and tackle Don Glantz narrowly missed making the first string eleven, placing on the second squad. Three Huskers were among the 80-odd athletes from the greater Mid-West to gain mention on the Chicago Tribune's All-Midwestern team.

The split T offense of Nebraska is directed by quarterback Don Erway. The Cornhuskers especially utilize the speed of breakaway halfbacks Greenlaw, Ron Clark, Don Comstock, Dirkee Rolston, and Dennis Korinek. The burly All-Conference fullback Smith is called upon for bucking the opposition's line whenever short yardage is needed. Up front the Nebraska are strong, boasting a stellar line from end to end led by Loehr, Glantz, Bryant, Bob Oberlin, Bob Wagner, and Max Kittelman.

Blue Imps Drop Thanksgiving Day Classic To UNC 14-13; Morgan and Rudy Score

Last Thursday afternoon, in a benefit game for the Cerebral Palsy Clinic, UNC's freshman football team took the measure of the Blue Imps, and whipped them 14-13.

Carolina has not beaten the Blue Devil football team for five straight years, but the Tarheel freshman team has helped to ease the sting from these defeats by whipping Duke's Blue Imps three times in the last four seasons.

Three fumbles, a like number of Carolina interceptions, and a bad punt hurt the Blue Imps, who dropped their third game in five starts. The Tar Babies forged into the lead before two minutes were gone in the first quarter, when linebacker John Gaca intercepted Duke quarterback Bob Broadhead's pass and raced 43 yards for the score. Phil Blazer added the extra point.

Duke bounced back late in the same period with the touchdown coming on Broadhead's 43-yard pass to end Richard Morgan. Darrel Stove's conversion attempt was wide, however, and Carolina still led, 7-5.

Carolina scored its second and final touchdown in the second quarter when Bill Bailey's punt attempt was wide, however, and Carolina still led, 7-5.

In the third stanza Duke recovered a fumble on the Carolina 30 yard line. Three plays resulted in the loss of one yard but Broadhead's fourth down desperation aerial was taken by halfback Skitch Rudy for the marker. Marion Justice booted the extra point.

Tigers Invade Indoor Stadium For Conference Battle at 8:15

By BUCK TALMAN
Senior Chronicle Sports Reporter

Coach Harold Bradley will unveil his 1954-55 cagers tonight when he sends them against the Clemson Tigers at 8:15 in the Duke Indoor Stadium. This game will mark the first of 24 for this season's Blue Devils who face one of the toughest schedules in years.

Bradley took over the reins at Duke just prior to the 1951-52 season and, has not lost an opening game yet. Although he has had little time to adjust himself and to indoctrinate his method of teaching, he guided the Dukes to a 76-71 opening night victory over Hanes Hosiers that year. The following season the Blue Devils triumphed over Temple University 85-48 in their first game, and last year they set the university single game scoring record with a 110-76 over Furman University in their initial contest. In that performance the Blue Devils also set a new field goal record of 45.

CLEMSON IMPROVED

Tonight it will be Clemson College who will furnish the opposition for the opener. Last year the Tigers finished last in the Atlantic Coast Conference with no wins in their nine league starts. But this year's squad is reported to be much improved.

The Tigers have eight lettermen returning and have received a great deal of help from last year's freshman team. The most prominent of the returning lettermen are guards Bill Yarborough and Bruce Holzschuh and forward Barry Ryan. Centers Bill Riser and Buddy Shook are two of the most improved men on the squad, and teamed with sophomore forwards David Bauman and Red Landers; they should give the squad the added support needed to be an outstanding contender this season.

DUKE VETERANS

Led by their outstanding guard Joe Belmont and forward Ronnie Mayer, the Blue Devils appear well-prepared for tonight's curtain-raiser and the difficult pre-Christmas schedule that follows. Lettermen Junior Morgan, and Don Tobin are sure starters along with Belmont and Mayer.

Sophomore Jack Kalbfus and letterman Marty Doherty, a 4-9 center, and guard Harold Turner are all possibilities for the fifth starting berth.

According to Coach Bradley the team is well balanced and the spirit very high at this point. They have shown up well in practice and although the loss of such standouts as Bernie Janicki and Rudy D'Emilio will be felt heavily the team is ready to go and are looking forward to another big year in Duke basketball.

Frosh Dump Deacs

Led by Bobby Joe Harris, the Blue Imp basketball team started its 1954-55 basketball schedule with a bang last Wednesday night as they collected a 78-65 victory over Wake Forest's Demon Deacons. Harris, who had 24 points, was high scorer for both teams. The whole starting five for Duke garnered double score, as Bucky Allen, Jim Newcome, Tony Buhosky and Dick Smythe hit for 12, 11, 13 and 14 points respectively.

The Imps next game will be Friday night against the Parris Island Marine starting at 6:15. The Marines, who will feature several college stars, should be one of the toughest games for coach Tony Drago's Five.

The starters will be the same men who began against Wake Forest.

Bradley Begins Fifth Year As Duke Mentor

By ED POOLE
Chronicle Sports Reporter

Harold Bradley begins his fifth year as head coach of the basketball forces at Duke University tonight when the Blue Devils meet the Clemson Tigers. Bradley relieved the late K. C. (Gerry) Gerard in 1950 just before the 1951 season began, and although he was unfamiliar with the players and had little time to work with them before the season opened, he guided the team to runner-up honors in both the Southern Conference tournament and the Dixie Classic.

In his second season the team lost in finals of the Conference Tournament, but they won more games than any other cage team in school history and had won 15 straight—tying a school mark—before the loss in the finale.

Bradley's third Blue Devil five won 18 and lost eight; winning 12 of its last 13 regular season contests, they lost only to William and Mary 85-82 in an overtime. That team had one of the highest scoring averages—84.2 points per game—in the history of the school.

COACH BRADLEY

Last year's squad was probably the best that Bradley has turned out during his stay at this institution. The 1953-54 team won 22 and lost six, won the Dixie Classic and finished first in regular season play in the newly formed Atlantic Coast Conference. The Blue Devils were named tenth in the nation according to the Associated Press.

The Duke mentor had an enviable small college record. His teams at Hartwick College, Oneonta, N. Y., where he coached for the three years before coming to Duke, won 50 of 68 games and they met such outfits as L.I.U., Buffalo University, University of Massachusetts, Muhlenberg, University of Scranton and the Quantico Marines. He was basketball coach and athletic director at Hartwick.
