Michalak's Production Class To Present 6 One-Act Plays

Students of English 122 will put their learning to a practical test Friday and Saturday nights as they present two groups of one-act student-directed plays. These students will be working in conjunction with the Duke Players and will present the plays in laboratory-theater style in Branson Hall, beginning at 8 p.m. both nights.

Friday night, the group will produce "The Hungers," by William Saroyan. This is the second of Saroyan's works to be produced here this year with the Players leading the way with "Playboy of the Western World." Also on Friday night the Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright Tennessee Williams will have his work represented as "Portrait of a Madonna" appears. Completing the bill for Friday night will be "Ways and Means" by Noel Coward.

Saturday night, the playgoers' fare will consist of Susan Glaspell's "Suppressed Desires," "A Merry Death" by Eugene O'Neill and "Dark Lady of the Sonnets" by George Bernard Shaw.

The casts for the six plays have been chosen by the students in charge of the productions. The plays will be produced by the Duke Players and are directed by Victor Michalak's play production class. Norwood Long is acting as technical advisor and Michalak will be overall supervisor. The productions are free of charge and are open to the public.

White Duchy Selects Seven East Coeds

At the Class Day ceremony Monday night in the Woman's College Auditorium, a figure in white moved among the rows to choose seven women for membership in White Duchy.

Nancy Saunders, outgoing senior class president, and President Edens both made farewell addresses to the assembled students.

White Duchy, a secret honorary for senior women, originated when, 30 years ago, the men in Red Friars chose the seven women whom they considered outstanding and asked them to organize a similar group in the Woman's College.

The women selected for White Duchy are Pat Stansbury, Sarah Pfohl, Carol Smith, Thelma Barcliff, Ginny Stratton, Elsa Reese and Jody Newland.

Outgoing members are Kitty Plummer, Jo Duncan, Kathy Dykes, Julia Allen, Kay Myers, Anne Henson and Jane Greene.

FAC Conducts Interviews For Prospects

Interviews for next year's FAC men are being held Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday from 2-5 p.m. according to an announcement by Bob Eadie, recently elected head of the freshman advisory program for 1955-56.

Approximately 35 men will be chosen from those interviewed to supplement those chosen as Y-men, who automatically become FAC men after their duties as Y-men are completed.

The Freshman Advisory Council takes over where the Y-men leave off after the orientation program for incoming freshmen. The FAC men serve as counselors to the freshmen to help them overcome the problems encountered in beginning their college careers. Each man has about six freshmen to advise.

The interviews are being held

Bennett Chooses Five New MSGA Cabinet Members

Herd Bennett, president of MSGA, announced his appointments to the MSGA cabinet last Wednesday.

Leif Beck was appointed Attorney General; Don Duffy, Secretary of Education; Joe Eggleston, Secretary of Campus Welfare; Buddy Beacham, Director of Public Relations; and Neil Williams, Clerk.

The duties of the cabinet are to assist the president in his work. There are five men on the cabinet, one to handle each of the functions of the executive.

Beck, the new Attorney General, is a transfer student from Lehigh and a past vice-president of the National Student Association. Beck was instrumental in removing MSGA from NSA this year.

Duffy, Secretary of Education, is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, BOS, and a Y-Man, and has the highest average in his freshman class.

Eggleston, Secretary of Campus Welfare, is a freshman. He is a representative to MSGA, a member of Phi Eta Sigma and BOS, and rated first in the United States on the College Board tests.

Beacham, Director of Public Relations, is publicity director of Bench 'n' Bar and business manager of WDBS.

Williams, Clerk, worked this year as assistant to the Attorney General, and is a member of BOS and Phi Eta Sigma.

Concerning his appointments, Bennett said, "In this coming year, we hope to make the cabinet of the Student Government the effective organization that it must be in order to assist the president in handling the executive duties of the association."

Bennett was sworn into office a week ago by Judicial Board Chief Justice Carl Edwards. Those taking office at the same time were Sam McMillan, vice-president; Edgar Fisher, secretary; and Ed Preston, treasurer.

in House O, 101-R. Anyone with an overall C average is eligible and should sign up on the poster in the Dope Shop for an interview.

Eadie, who succeeded Ray Olds as president of the organization, hopes to make FAC a stronger and more efficient group next year whose prestige will be raised in the eyes of the campus through "dint of hard and able work." He said that FAC will be a "stricter organization next year" in that those men who do not fulfill their job "will be released."

Eadie was appointed by a board consisting of deans, members of the faculty, and former members of the FAC. He recently declined an appointment by MSGA President Herd Bennett to the Judicial Board in order that he might give more of his time and effort to the fulfillment of his duties as FAC president.

Shoe 'n' Slipper Council Elects Botnick As '55-'56 President

Alexander, Brown, Maxon, Pettit Also Take Head Jobs On Celebrity Dance Committee

In the Shoe 'n' Slipper elections last Thursday, the executive committee elected Marv Botnick to succeed Rube Scharges as president and re-elected Bob Martin vice-president.

Buzz Brown and J. C. Alexander were chosen as secretary and treasurer respectively, while Finley Maxson and Jack Pettit were named as executive committeemen-at-large.

Under Scharges, the organization brought the Dorsey Brothers' Orchestra here last fall and at Joe College sponsored Les Brown and his "Band of Renown." In an interview Botnick referred to Scharges as "a great president" and as a man "who had made noticeable progress with the club." Botnick said that he "hopes to further the progress made by Scharges and the Shoe 'n' Slipper this year, and that the possibilities and plans for next year are beginning to shape up."

Already, representatives of the club have taken a poll to find out what orchestras the students would like most for next year's weekends. Botnick said that he plans to begin applying for an orchestra within a week, but would not disclose which orchestras he would be seeking.

Shoe 'n' Slipper is a non-profit organization which exists for the purpose of providing dances with celebrity orchestras. The club provides for two "big" weekends a year, one in the fall and the other in the spring. With each weekend are two dances and a concert. The club pays its expenses through dues levied on a large student membership.

French Department To Produce 'Antigone' On East Lawn Thursday And Friday At 8:30

By SALLY McINTOSH
CHRONICLE ASSOCIATE MANAGING EDITOR

After many mishaps, including a broken hip and an administrative warning, the French department will produce Jean Anouilh's version of the Greek tragedy "Antigone" Thursday and Friday at 8:30 p.m. in front of the Woman's College Auditorium.

Madame Neale Dow, who will direct the play, is an instructor in the French department. Her literature and conversation classes and the members of Tau Psi Omega, French honorary, will take roles in the play.

The production was originally scheduled for last spring but Madame Dow suffered a broken hip and the play was postponed. Rumblings from the Woman's College administration that the group might not be able to use the auditorium steps as the scene for production died down in time for original plans to be executed.

The production makes use of the ancient Greek device, the chorus, and there will be only the backdrop of the auditorium colonnade. A minimum of props will be used. Anouilh has taken the ancient theme and characters and transposed them into a contemporary setting.

The cast consists of Berma McDowell as Antigone, Peter Duvoisin as Hemon, Barbara Boyd as Ismene, Harvey Halberstadter as Creon, Eric Bauer as the guard and Sally McIntosh as the old family nurse.

Red Friars Tap Five For Senior Honorary

Breaking a long-standing precedent, Red Friars tapped five men instead of the traditional seven into their organization in a Thursday morning ceremony on the Chapel steps.

A large crowd gathered to see the tapping as the carillon began to ring and a hooded figure in red moved slowly toward the five candidates and struck each man on the shoulder.

The men chosen for this secret honor society are Verne Caviness, Henry Carnegie, Bernie Rineberg, Jim Harbison, and Bryant Aldridge.

Their predecessors are Worth Lutz, Carl Edwards, Lyle Harper, Peter Landau, Si Brewer, Grady Price, and John Parkerson. These men also participated in the tapping ritual which took place between second and third periods.

Letters To The Editor

WDBS Replies

Editor, the CHRONICLE,

Concerning the rather confusing "Radio Tone" editorial which appeared in tonight's (May 4) Chronicle, I can only say this: If giving the students what they want to hear is "taking the easy way out," then WDBS will continue "to take the easy way out" for some time to come. If you could hear the way we have to continually remind our announcers to play what the listeners want to hear and not what they want, you too would question whether this is the "easy way out." Giving the listeners what they want, however is an easy task compared to finding out exactly what they do want. We are now taking an extensive survey to accomplish that end. Within the limits of good production standards, our future program schedules will be based on the result of this and subsequent surveys.

Our telephone and mailbox, incidentally, are always eagerly awaiting expressions of student opinion.

Please don't misunderstand me. I, perhaps more than anyone else on campus, wish that the average student had a better-developed taste for music. We do our best to help develop a taste for classical music and especially for good jazz here on campus. If and when such a taste is expressed through student opinion and interest, it will not be overlooked.

ED HARRIS
WDBS Station Manager

Tradition Trembles

Editor, the CHRONICLE,

Time alone has a marvelous and satisfying way of curing evils, of soothing feelings, and of enlightening the oblivious. Once again time — by itself — has seen to it that this particular educational body of which we are an end result, is corrected of an ancient malady.

I have watched for four years the working of the notable honorary society we all know as the Red Friars. During these four years, the watchful and critical eye of the various student bodies has detected obvious and ridiculous omissions and inclusions. But hiding behind the questionable fact that the qualifications for membership are unknown, this flower-ridden organization has avoided due and needed judgments. Last week three prominent campus leaders pointed the way to expected results of this elongated fallacy. When these three men ignored the wants and desires of Red Friar membership, they seemed to assist this wonderful and healing time element. I salute the individualism, intelligence and valor of these leaders and their time-supported innovation. May the next four years witness further developments along this line.

A Bicycle Boom...

Most liberal arts majors must find a means of traveling between East and West Campus. Transportation via the Duke Power Company is not as advantageous as it might appear. A regular rider on the busses spends as much as one dollar for every 15 miles. Lowering the ten cent fare is out of the question. Several years ago a campus-wide boycott of the carriers failed. Sale of the Company is pending, and with the change of ownership an accompanying hike is expected in the fare to 15 cents. Many students find that owning a car is not much more expensive than riding a bus.

But cars, too, are somewhat troublesome. Every spring the parking lots around campus become overcrowded. Temperatures increase in proportion to the rising clouds of dust. Paved parking areas is the perennial cry from West Campus; the women call for larger parking facilities. But financial considerations have always hampered improvement in these areas, and the problem remains unsolved from year to year.

Several students, however, have come up with a satisfactory solution — bicycles. Here is a way which obviates busses and cars, thus eliminating the basic causes of our problem. Reflection points out that our campus is an obvious advantage. Owners need not worry about gas, oil, expensive license plates and registration, insurance, speeding tickets, prohibitively high repair costs, or parking space. And freshmen, who are not allowed to drive cars, would have a means of transportation. Besides, bicycles are good body builders. We would like to see a bicycle boom on campus.

THE GIFT HORSE

Many of our friends will soon be graduating. What kind of gifts should we give them?

Here is no simple question. It is never simple to find gifts for people who have everything, and college students, as everyone knows, are the most richly endowed of mortals. They've got beauty and truth. They've got rhythm. They've got stout hearts, willing hands, and a clear vision that dispels the miasmas of the future as the morning sun sears away the last wisps of a cool night's fog. They've got heaps and heaps of money, as who would not who has been receiving such a huge allowance over four years of schooling?

What can we give them that they don't already have?

One infallible gift for the person who has everything is, of course, a stethoscope. New models, featuring sequined earpieces and power steering, are now on display at your local surgical supply house. Accompanying each stethoscope is a gift card with this lovely poem:

When you hear your heart beat,
When you hear it pound,
Remember me, your buddy,
William Henry Round.

If, by some odd chance, your name does not happen to be William Henry Round (you're laughing, but it's possible), here is another dandy suggestion for the person who has everything — a gift certificate from the American Bar Association.

These certificates, good at your local lawyer's, come in three convenient sizes: small, medium, and large. The small certificate covers title searches and writs of estoppel. The medium size covers torts, claim jumping, and violations of the Smoot-Hawley Act. The large one covers kidnapping, murder, and barratry.

If, by some odd chance, you don't know what barratry is (you're laughing, but it's possible), it is arson at sea. This interesting crime is called after Cosmo "Bubbles" Barrat, a captain in the British navy during the last century, who was addicted to burning his ships. One man of war after another fell victim to his incendiary bent. The Admiralty kept getting crosser and crosser, but every time they called in Captain Barrat for a scolding, he would roll his big blue eyes and tug his forelock and promise faithfully never to do it again. Oh, butter wouldn't melt in his mouth, that one!

So they would give him another ship, and he would soon reduce it to a scattering of charred spars. He burned more than 120,000 ships before he was finally discharged as "doubtful officer material."

After his separation from the navy, he moved to Vienna where he changed his name to Freud and invented Scrabble.

But I digress. I was listing gifts for the person who has everything, and here is another one. This gift, in fact, is not only for persons who have everything, it is also for persons who have nothing, for persons who have next to nothing, for persons who have next to everything, and for persons in between. I refer, of course, to Philip Morris cigarettes. Here is the cigarette for everybody — for everybody, that is, who likes a mild relaxing smoke of fine vintage tobacco in a handsome brown package that snaps open with the greatest of ease. For those, if such there be, who like dull, nondescript tobacco in a package that requires a burglar's kit to open, Philip Morris is definitely the wrong gift.

Among the newer gifts that warrant your attention is a revolutionary development in the enjoyment of recorded music. This is the Low-Fi Phonograph. The Low-Fi, product of years of patient research, has so little fidelity to the record you put on it that if, for example, you put Stardust on the turntable, Melancholy Baby will come out. This is an especially welcome gift for people who hate Stardust.

Finally there is Sigafos Shaving Cream, a brand new kind of cream that makes whiskers grow in instead of out. You just bite them off in the morning.

©Max Shulman, 1955

To Max's suggestion to give PHILIP MORRIS for graduation, the makers of PHILIP MORRIS, who bring you this column, add a hearty amen.

Buck Shots

By BUCK TALMAN

Saturday afternoon here on Coombs Field, Duke's 1955 edition of a collegiate baseball team engaged the University of Virginia club in what was supposed to represent an Atlantic Coast Conference baseball game. For two hours and 57 minutes these two teams put on what was undoubtedly the most boring comedy of the entire season.

A total of 28 runs crossed home plate as 29 hits were collected off five pitchers. 14 errors were committed, 23 men were left stranded, and 18 received free tickets to first by virtue of bases on balls. The only consolation for those who had to watch this exhibition was that Duke won 16-12.

At the end of the first four innings, four pitchers had seen action — two from each team — and the Blue Devils held on to an 11-8 lead. But the Cavaliers pushed four runners across in their half of the fifth to go ahead 12-11.

At the time of the Virginia rally Pete Hochreiter was on the mound for Duke. He loaded the bases, allowed two runs, and managed to get only one out before giving way to Tom Blackburn who showed his best form since hurling his no-hitter against Rollins several weeks ago in the Dixie Baseball Classic. He walked in two runs, but quickly settled down and blanked the Cavaliers the rest of the way in for a fine relief performance.

Duke collected two runs in the home half of the fifth for what turned out to be enough for the victory. George Hoover opened with a single, Andy Cockrell bounced one over the centerfield hedge for an automatic double, and they both scored on George Atkinson's single.

And so the Blue Devils copped another ACC victory. The win brings their season record up to five wins and six losses. But the question that has hung on the minds of the team supporters these past two weeks has not been concerning the won-lost record, but more what has caused their sudden collapse.

Just a few weeks ago the Devils were playing pretty good ball. They showed up well in the Dixie Baseball Classic and they gave an early impression that they were going to be a real contender in the conference this year. Then suddenly they fell apart.

Quickly the second guessers around here came up with their solution. They contended that since Duke was mathematically eliminated from the pennant race that they had given up, and no longer cared whether they won or lost. "Why go see them play ball?" they say.

These people were never more wrong. One of the big factors in this appeared collapse is that the club does not yet have the experience to stand up under the season-long pressure. The rough spots are still a little too rough, but we are sure that with time this difficulty will be erased. Maybe not this year, but surely by next. Going out on a limb is not always a safe venture, but I firmly believe that with a little more seasoning, and a little more support from the students, Coach "Ace" Parker will turn out a team that his school can be proud of. Why don't you get out and see.

Duke Stickmen Down Washington College

The superior bench strength of Duke's erratic lacrosse team proved to be the deciding factor in Saturday's final home contest as the Blue Devils rolled to an impressive 5-2 victory over favored Washington College.

Coach W. S. (Jack) Persons was able to use nearly three mid-fields to wear down the Washington club as the Maryland mentor, Coach D. S. Clark, was forced to stick with his first unit throughout the whole contest.

It was the seventh time that Duke has beaten Washington against no defeats; and it brings their season record up to three wins in eight outings.

The Dukesters have only one remaining game on the schedule, that being with the United States Military Academy.

Shankle Registers 26 In Duke Loss To UNC

Despite a 26-point effort by durable Joel Shankle, Duke's trackmen fell to their first defeat of the season Saturday, losing to powerful UNC, 83 2/3 - 47 1/3. The Blue Devils now have a 5-1 record in dual meets.

Shankle took first in the 100, low hurdles, high hurdles, and broad jump. He tied for first in the high jump and tied for second in the pole vault.

The Tarheels, the favorites in next Saturday's ACC championships, won the meet in the three distance runs, the 880, the mile, and the two mile, where they picked up 26 of 27 possible points. Jess Peters, with a third in the 880, was the only Duke man to score in these three events.

Durham Lawshe broke the university record for the shot put as he won with a put of 52 feet 7 inches. He also had a second in the discus to score eight points for the day.

Nick Kredich, with a tie for first in the high jump, and Bob Kline, with a first in the 440, were the only other Blue Devils to register wins.
