Homecoming Festivities Stir Campus

Celebration Begins Tonight With Variety Show; Ends Sunday Morning With Special Service

Beginning with the variety show in the Indoor Stadium tonight, at 8:15 p.m. and ending with the special Chapel service Sunday morning, the 1956 Homecoming Week-end promises to be one of the most colorful and elaborate in history.

Extensive plans have been made to provide for the entertainment of the students and the alumni, and one of the goals of this year's homecoming is to familiarize the people of Durham with the University.

According to Wade Penny, Jr., chairman of the Student Homecoming Committee, a special invitation to the homecoming show tonight has been issued to the town folk, and the Durham Chamber of Commerce is coordinating the Homecoming Weekend activities in downtown Durham with those on the campus.

The combination of pep rally and theatrical show tonight will be climax ed by the skits given by the East Campus coeds. During this same program, the homecoming queen will be crowned by football captain Buddy Bann on coeds, representing the nine women's dormitories and local social organizations, who have been nominated.

Traditional exhibits by moving men organizations and service groups will be open for public display on Friday night and during the weekend.

Included in Saturday's menu in the Dukeell Fantasy will be a special treat for those who enjoy being the center of attention. During the half-time activities, the homecoming queen will be presented.

Kicking off an exciting week-end of fun, frills, and football, the annual Homecoming activities will take the stage at the Indoor Stadium tonight. The pep rally and entertainment will be highlighted by the traditional skits given by the East Campus coeds.

Dr. III. B. Jones will present a scholarly down-to-earth answer to the question, "Does Man Progress?" by putting up a strong case against the fact of man's progress. Dr. JONES will outline the valid decay in civilization and the new structure of such ever-significant beauty which can prevail in the face of the threat.

Shouting "Give me a D", cheerleader Sue Hatts practices for the pep rally tonight. The rally at the Homecoming game will be an opportunity to immunize University community under 45 years of age may either receive free immunization at the Student Health Office.

It is now established after four years of careful studies involving millions of children that at most susceptible age levels, a single injection of Salk vaccine is of value and that no precautions, three to six weeks apart will protect such children against the paralysis which gives this disease its name.

The duration of this protection is not yet determined but a third injection after seven months or more is known to produce immunity which lasts for several years. It is also proven that this is the safest and least "reactive" of all immunizing injections.

It must be assumed that it will be present in the future.

The Student Health Office will have Monday and Friday afternoons from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. and from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. respectively.

The first clinic will be held on Monday, October 15. It is hoped that regular immunization will be given to all students interested in receiving free shots are urged to come to the clinic. The complete Salk vaccine consists of three shots to insure maximum immunity. Two injecions will be given before the child's December closing date, leaving the third for next summer.

Students can pay for their shots by paying $3 for the two shots at the treasurer's office and then bringing receipt to the Health Center. In the case of students who have received the first shot at home, the second will be available for $1.50.

When the Duke Chapel becomes more vital as a rehearsal hall than a place of worship, something’s wrong somewhere.

As long as there has been a Canterbury Club on this campus there has been a service of Holy Communion in Memorial Chapel on Sunday mornings. Suddenly the President in his opening speech has informed us this service is second in importance to Sunday morning choir rehearsals and organ practice. Since the Rev. O’Brien, is out of town until Thanksgiving the students have no official representative to the administration.

That means an hour and a half to half an hour has been taken out of the East Campus chapel for the service and many of the Episcopalians missed breakfast or were late to the Duke campus. Subscriptions should be mailed to Box 4696.

FALL TALK

Here we are, another Homecoming weekend behind the grade book, a more polished show tonight in the gym, displays that move all important messages to us of the dark, and a hopeful football team that we trust will win this time.

On the surface it probably all looks different to the alumni. Homecoming is an opportunity to be better. We have more lany on the walls, bare knees on East, musical digestion on West with a paved parking lot for the nancy sports cars. But we wonder, do more square feet of field and pavement really change the makeup of Joe Colle and Betty Court? We doubt it, they are the same in ’26 or ’56 and we suspect that the ’26er’s would feel quite at home with such things as mid-night ball some such as them over cuts freshmen, parties, Durham weather, Union food, the ol’ professors, and hour exams. What we wish them to do, whether in ’26 or ’56, IT SURE IS COLLEGE

Letters To The Editor

Editor, the Chronicle: In the interests of an academic community which respects accuracy of information, I should like to state the following facts. Mr. Fred Chapell is not a graduate student. He is not writing a thesis. He is not doing research that only a doctor can do. He is not a sociologist but a anthropologist.

This story not only maligns Duke to the outside world in its present colorful journalistic form. It also tends to bring into disrepute a source of information which over the years has made many contributions to the civic life of Durham and to the public welfare agencies of the state of North Carolina. Actually Mr. Chapell is an undergraduate English major. He specializes in poetry and fiction.

To welcome returning alumni and to provide a colorful halftime spectacle, the Pep Board is again sponsoring card tricks this Saturday's homecoming game with SMU.

To provide extra enjoyment, resource material for literature students the English department will show a film, "Images Medievales," of life in the Middle Ages next Wednesday and Friday on both campuses. The film is a collection of illuminations from the "Book of Hours," which is a book of prayers used by families of the nobility in the Middle Ages. A French movie company grouped the illuminations according to the different phases of life including childhood, courtship, marriage, hunting, and battle.

Music for the movie is all 14th century and is played on original instruments from the period. The film will be shown Wednesday, October 17, at 4 p.m. in 114 Science building on East Campus and again on Friday, October 19, at 4 p.m. in Page Auditorium. There will be no admission charge and anyone may attend.

Where To Take A Date

By HOWARD BERMAN
Slam! The door flies shut on the first few weeks of studies and those of us who are completely college-bounded, dream of whatever tastes of wine, women, and wonderful Homecoming weekend will have to offer.

Whether or not we are familiar with Durham towns, we all depend on her social life-blood for maintaining a decent, visible relationship with that social mass called college. Whether it’s always fun to be part of a large group.

Those who prefer clubbing (not literally) will enjoy such nite spots as the Saddle Club and Castle located about two miles from East Campus on Route 90. Equally enjoyable are the Rathskeller in Chapel Hill, the Devil’s Den on East Campus, and Johnnie’s in Raleigh. All of the above hit the spot for an evening party or a place to go down, dance, basketball game, or school function.

The Castle usually features a combo, the Saddle Club, a juke box. During the afternoon, jazz enthusiasts flock to Tommy’s. With all good for dancing and drinking, a good time is had by all for both single and double dates. Thoroughly exhilarating to be part of a large group.

The Saddle Club is friendly to your figure. Let it do good—all over—when you pause for quick refreshment... and it’s so easy to come by. Drink Coca-Cola... Family, friends.

Engineers Hold Banquet For Alumni Guests

Highlighting the Homecoming events planned by the College of Engineering for returning alumni will be the engineering homecoming banquet Friday night.

Dr. Marcus A. Hobbs, dean of the graduate school of arts and sciences, will speak at the banquet. The classes of ’35, ’36, ’37, ’51, and ’52 will hold reunion dinners Friday night as part of the banquet.

Another Friday highlight will be the 4 p.m. Engineering Alumni Institute with Norman A. Cocke of Charlotte, president of the Duke Power Company and chairman of the Board of Trus­tees of Duke University, as the speaker.

Everett To Lecture

Robinson Everett, associate law professor, will give lectures on military law on the next three consecutive Thursdays which will be held in the court­room of the Law School at 7:30 p.m.

The topics of the lectures are Midway and Military Law, Nov. 18; The Palm, Little Aurora, and Re­bellion, Nov. 25; and How Fair is Military Law, Dec. 2. Admission free.

Everett served as a Commis­sioner and Judge Advocate, and as a lecturer on military law on the next three consecutive Thursdays, which will be held in the court­room of the Law School at 7:30 p.m.

Everett served as a Commis­sioner and Judge Advocate, and as a lecturer on military law, in addition to his professorship.

In Chimney Heaps today, he will speak on American military law.

Candlelight Meditations Begin Under Sponsorship Of YMCA

Beginning a weekly series, the Religious Activities Commit­tee of the YMCA will present a Candlelight Meditation Service this Sunday, October 14, at 5 p.m. in the Chapel.

Bob Longsworth, chaplain to the YMCA, will conduct this week’s service, which will con­sist largely of organ music by Charles Wilson. Bob Sigmon will be the vocal soloist.

The service will last approxi­mately thirty minutes and will be informal. Students are urged to “come as they are.” Every member of the University com­munity as well as visitors to the campus is invited to attend.

Innovated last year, the Can­dlelight Meditation Services will be presented every Sunday except when organs of special services are already scheduled. The programs are planned to consist of meditative music, singing, and readings.

Talks Open Campaign

Official campaigning for the ten candidates for freshman class president opened last Tuesday at the freshman assembly when the nominees gave their key political speeches to gain votes for victory in the election. Each of the candidates gave a two and a half minute speech trying to convince the members of the class that he is the man best suited for the job.

The ten men competing for the four elective offices are Bill Drummond, House G; Hugh Porter, House J; Bob Anderson, House J; Ron Morgan, House K; Jim Herring, House L; John Morris, House M; J. D. Wellons, House N; Will Redmond, House O; Don Duckworth, House P; and Ed Ridout, town boys.

Nearly all of the candidates hinted that they would do their best to "do my best" for the class, but Ridout, Redmond, Porter, Drummond, and Duckworth made special mention of it.

come ill until adults begin to succumb to paralytic forms of the disease.

This fact implies that each future summer, beginning with 1957, can be expected to show a high percentage of adults among the victims of the paralysis associated with Poliomyelitis.

From the public health point of view, it is essential that all funds and effort available be directed toward immunization of the most susceptible portion of the population. In a college community it is the responsibility of the individual, not his public health officer, to recognize and fight his own increasing risk and to voluntarily secure protection against it by immunization.

A student health physician is in a position to see this sharp contrast between public health activities and the importance of an individual understanding of the risk of various infectious diseases.

Twenty years ago, most colleges required that students be immunized to Typhoid fever by three injections of vaccine, and this requirement was still continued by the risk, which had been known since 1912, of mixing unprotected individuals from different parts of the U. S.

The same public health improvement which has led to the need for emphasis on Typhoid vaccination has increased the need for immunization against Poliomyelitis.

Displays Herald Homecoming Weekend; Fraternities To Hold Parties, Open Houses

Banging of hammers and nailing of nails were heard echoing over West last night as the fraternities of our fair campus got set to put their colorful displays to herald in Homecoming this week-end. Tonight the winner of the best displaying fraternity is going to be announced as all the crowd hustles to the pep-rally and ski performance, so let's serve our friends that pledged to go to all of you.

Meanwhile, Saturday is every night on all of us, and with some preparations that promise to set the school in a sprint. Open house for the chapter is in the plans for the ones on West—no, the fun doesn't stop there; for I just heard that the ATO's plan to have a hamburger fry for their special day before the SMB game—to be followed later by a dinner and dancing at Smith's Lake!

Deltas Taps Delta also plans to join in the Irving of this week with a smorgasbord tomorrow, and Saturday night is scheduled for a pep cabin party over at Chapell Hill. As these fellows are cutting up their heels, the Wash Duke becomes the scene for another scroll of freshmen; "Mackoos!"... Folks! Students Left In Dark

The two and one-half hour blackout, created by Duke Power Company on both East and West last Monday night, left more than one student much in the dark. The night's activities ended rather abruptly for several listeners when the electricity was shut off at 1 a.m. Although campus authorities had foreshadowed the power cut-off earlier as a routine operation, several startling rumors arose out of the night, among them, that the steam pipe explosion in the East Campus Auditorium.

Sunday night had damaged the electrical wiring, or that WBBF was being restored. Actually, however, Duke was merely expediting in the night. The electricity had to be cut off to enable electricians to connect the power lines for the hospital addition into the main circuit. Night owls take note: Mr. W. K. Whit ford, Director of Operations and Maintenance, stated that the power will be turned off three or four more times this year, as electrical equipment in the hospital addition is connected into the circuit.

As if this weren't enough, an unknown campus driver ran his car into a power line pole between Dr. Eden's residence and West Campus, thus blacking out all the street lights on West Campus from the Chapel to Al tar building for two days. An electrical crew was sent to repair the pole on Wednesday.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

Roger Lindblom, B.S. in General Engineering, Iowa State College, 49, is today District Plant Superintendent for the 11,000 square miles of the Huron, South Dakota, district.

"The openings are there," says Roger, "and the telephone company trains you to fill them. I joined Northwestern Bell in 1950 and spent one year learning pole line and cable construction. This, plus short periods in other departments, gave me a good telephone background.

"My experience really grew when I became an installer-repairman, then a construction crew foreman, and, in 1952, Wire Chief at South Sioux City, Nebraska. There I was responsible for the 3500 dial phones that served the town.

In March of 1954 I went to Grand Island, Nebraska, to help supervise dial conversion projects in that district. Everything I'd learned to date came in handy on that job.

"A year later I went to Omaha on a staff assignment, and in March, 1956, I moved up to my present position. I handle a group responsible for installing and maintaining Plant equipment in the Huron district. We supervise ordering and distributing supplies, and I'm responsible for personnel and employment. I work with other department heads in the administration of our district.

"Each assignment I've had has been broader than the last, and believe me, the more I learn, the better I like it."

"I'm learning more every day—and like it!"

Committee Forms Plans for YMCA Dad-Day Weekend

In preparation for Dad's Day, Glenn Warren and his committee are making plans for the twen­ y-five YMCA sponsored week­end, Nov. 9-11.

An estimated 4,000 as many fathers as possible, the YMCA has sent letters to all undergraduate men's dads inviting them to Duke.

It is hoped that all undergraduate male students will write home and encourage their fathers to make the trip, for the committee members feel that the best invitation is a personal letter. One must ensure for the entire weekend's activities will amount to $84.

Scheduled events for the weekend will begin at 8:30 p.m. on Friday with an informal reception for fathers in the lounge of the Flowers Building. Following the reception at 9 p.m. the official Dad's Day Banquet will be held in the Union. Diane V. Cleland, Dean of the Chapel will be the speaker. At 11 p.m. the dads and their sons will at­

Bright and early Saturday morning, the parents will be given the opportunity to tour the campus, and to take in games with their sons. At 2 p.m. in the afternoon the dad and his son will find themselves guests of the University at the Duke-Navy football game, and that night at 8, entertainment will be given by the Women's College Auditorium. The show will be highlighted by the performance of the Duke University Concert Band and the acclaimed Triple Quartet.

Devil Pitchfork To Deflate Wild Mustangs?
QB Arnold Leads SMU;
Jurgenson Back In Action

By R. Gordon Thayer

Alumni and fans from nearly every corner of the nation will be on hand tomorrow for the annual Homecoming game in which Duke's Blue Devils will attempt to corral the wild Mustangs from Southern Methodist University.

The men from Texas are riding high since they sprung a startling upset on Notre Dame four weeks ago, and just missed doing likewise to Georgia Tech the following Saturday by a 6-7 margin.

Last week SMU outpointed Missouri, 35-37, and is rated 14th in the nation by the UP.

The Blue Devils, unlike their opponents, will be out to regain lost recognition caused by defeats to South Carolina and Tennessee by scores of 7-0 and 33-20, respectively.

In what is expected to be a needed stimulus to the Duke team, veteran quarterback Sonny Jurgenson will be back in action tomorrow after recovering from a painful knee injury suffered in the 45-7 blowout with Tulane.

Backing up the Wilmington sharpshooter will be Bob Brodbear, who has shown by past performance that he is a capable replacement at the signal-calling post.

The surprising Pryor Miller also is expected to see duty.

ARNOLD HOT

The Mustang's attack will rest largely on the shoulders of the brilliant CharlieArnold, who has scored two and completed 59 of 66 attempts in the first three games.

With these figures in mind, the Duke coaches placed the accent on pass defense, along with more aggressive tackling during recent practice sessions.

The week also saw Coach Bob Cooke's freshman squad, dunnied out in the Mustang red and white, running the visor's offensive plays. Quartet backs George Harris and Bob Cruamie areimitating Charlie Arnold's tactics.

JACKSON FAST

In addition to his Arnold, the Mustangs sport another hot backfield threat in Charlie Jackson. In the past, second-stringer Jackson has supplemented the SMU pass-attack with his spectacular running.

According to Devil scouting reports, Duke will be up against as versatile a team as they will have to face all season when they encounter the Southern Mustangs tomorrow in Duke Stadium.

The Dukemen are in nearly perfect physical shape as they attempt to win their first Homecoming victory in three years. Only starting center Jack Harrison, injured at Virginia, will be on the sidelines.

Basketball Drills To Begin Monday With 22 Candidates

Duke varsity basketball practice will open Monday at 7:15 p.m. in the indoor Stadium.

Coach Hal Bradley and his assistants, Tony Drago, are expecting 22 candidates to turn out for the opening workout.

Seven returning varsity players, 10 men from last year's freshman squad, and five others make up the 22 hopefuls.

Practice will be held five days a week from now until the beginning of the season. Because of the length of the practice period, Bradley has scheduled three scrimmages, against Washington and Lee, and Quanzto.

Tennis Team Closes Fall Practice Session With Match Today

Coach Whit Cobb's varsity and freshmen prospects began their afternoon in a tennis scrimmage on the local courts as a climax to fall tennis practice.

In the No. 1 singles match, Leif Beck, a seasoned veteran and Sonny Kutz, a fresh from prospect.

Cobb planned to use 12 men from each group with six double matches to be played after a dozen singles tilts.

Cobb has ruled the match a "tossup."

"The freshman team this year is unusually strong," he said. "Our varsity team won't be too strong next year, but with this good group of freshman prospects, we will improve in a couple of years," we went on.

The 1955 Duke tennisers No. 1 man Bobby Green and No. 2, Lee Cobb, have been "about the best in the nation," Cobb said, "a team to be reckoned with for the future."

The top six varsity men for today's match were: Beck, Todd Baehrel, Jack Williams, Murray Appleton, Bob Lawrence, and Ben Fen.

Top fresh agers were Katz, Tom Tenney, Jim Barton, Elliot Marcus, Glenn Chen, and Sam Lebauer.

Great things are being predicted for Rocky Wray Carlson, brilliant sophomore halfback. The Isky Carlson, who starred on last year's freshman team, was hampered early in the year by a knee injury, and only last week against Tennessee had he caught up enough to see much action. Carlson has carried the pigskin 15 times, picking up 78 yards for a 5.2 rushing average.

Duke's two hard-charging ends, captain Buddy Bass, left, and Bill Thompson, will play important roles as the Blue Devils attempt to get back on the victory trail this Homecoming weekend.

Bass, in his team's leading pass receiver with 12 catches, good for 70 yards and one touchdown. In addition, he handles the punt and has kicked two extra points. The versatile senior also stars in the outfield for the Duke nine in the spring.

Thompson is noted as one of the team's hardest workers and as the toughest blocker.

Only a junior, he has hauled down one pass for 12 yards.
