WSGA Meets Tonight

'Illegal Party' Discussion Expected in Assembly

Members of WSGA and Judicial Board expect discussion and a vote concerning the removal of the illegal party rule from the Code of Campus Living at the regular WSGA assembly to be held tonight in the Woman's College Auditorium at 7 p.m.

Council members have decided that initiative must come from the floor and, therefore, will not bring it up from the stage. Further action must come from the student body.

"The majority of us do feel it would be best to take it out," said Margaret Stennis, chairman of Judicial Board.

Tickets To 'Disciple' Available Tomorrow

Tickets for the Canadian Players' presentation of The Devil's Disciple will be available on East Campus tomorrow and Wednesday, and will go on sale in the Page box office Thursday. Coeds must exchange their Student Forum cards for reserved seat tickets, which will cost others $1, $1.50 or $2.

Student Forum cards may be traded for tickets tomorrow in the East Union at lunch or in the Gilbert-Addoms cafeteria at dinner. On Wednesday, the cards may be exchanged for tickets in the Gilbert-Addoms cafeteria at lunch or in the East Union at dinner.

The Page box office will be open Thursday and Friday from 2 to 5 p.m. and next Monday, February 16, from 2 p.m. until curtain time at 8:15 p.m.

Debate Team Ties For Second Honors

John Koskinen and Charles Crocco tied for second in the negative division of the Marshall-Wythe debate tournament at the College of William and Mary this weekend.

Koskinen and Crocco competed with thirty other teams debating the negative side of prohibition of nuclear weapons development. They finished with a 5-1 record.

Petition for Integration Nears 60 Per Cent Goal

With more than 500 signatures already received, the sponsors of the graduate school petition for integration of the University have almost reached their stated goal of 60 per cent of all graduate students and their professors.

The petition committee reports that over 400 students and more than 100 professors have signified their endorsement of the contents of the petition, which asks that race not be a barrier to the admission of otherwise qualified applicants to the University.

The 400 student signatures represent over 61 per cent of the graduate student body, but to date only slightly more than 42 per cent of the graduate school faculty have signed the petitions.

A committee spokesman blamed the poorer faculty response on the greater difficulty of contacting professors personally. Over half of the professors received the petition by mail, as opposed to only a sixth of the students that were mailed the petitions.

Figures already tabulated show that response to petitions presented personally was almost three times as favorable as reply to the mailed petitions.

In accordance with their original plan, the petitioners will present the signatures to President Hollis Edens when and if they surpass the 60 per cent mark set last fall.

Administration Directive Establishes Rush Curfew

BUSY DAY—But not with the books. Yesterday afternoon the undergraduate reading room in the West Campus library, normally bustling with activity, harbored few students as fraternity men and freshmen engaged in hand shaking, punch drinking and facial rippling during the final round of compulsory open houses. Books already thrown aside for the competitive sport of rushing can be expected to collect quite a bit of dust during the next seven days.

Women's Glee Club Will Tour Carolina In History-Making Trip February 20-22

The Women's Glee Club, under the direction of Paul Young, goes on the first tour in its history February 20 through February 22.

The first concert will be given in Sanford, N. C. Friday night, February 20. Sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, the performance will be held at Central High School, in the McLeod Auditorium.

The following day the group, consisting of 60 women from East Campus and Hanes House, will give a concert in Kinston, N. C. St. Mark's Church, which is sponsoring the Glee Club's appearance in Kinston, is giving a dance for the group after the concert. The Reverend Bruce Pate, a former personnel manager of the Men's Glee Club, is responsible for the arrangements.

The program includes many selections which were presented at the fall concert, given by the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs. "A Ceremony of Carols" by Benjamin Britten will be performed, with Nancy Pope, Flora Fuqua, and Gall Foster as soloists.

Blanche Manning will sing "Overture Tun Coeur," and several folk songs such as the Czechoslovakian "Waters Ripple and Flow" will be sung by the glee club. "Younger Generation," "Yonder, Yonder," and "I'm Only Nineteen" have been chosen as encores. Jane Bonness will accompany the group.

School of Engineering Adopts '2-3' Set-up

The College of Engineering, in conjunction with Wake Forest College and North Carolina State College, is now participating in a 3-2 liberal arts-engineering program.

The program, which starts next September, will enable a student to take three years of liberal arts study at Wake Forest and then two years of engineering either here or at N. C. State.

Students who complete the five-year program of study will be eligible for both a bachelor's degree from Wake Forest and a degree in engineering from the University or N. C. State.

Aimed primarily at students who are not certain that they want to be engineers and future engineers who want a good background in liberal arts, the program guarantees admittance here or at State to any student who is recommended by the faculty at Wake Forest.

Because of limits on enrollment, the combined liberal arts-engineering course of study will be open only to outstanding students who are recommended by the Wake Forest faculty.

IFC Turns Down Enforcement Job

By ED GREENBLATT
Chronicle News Editor

The Administration overruled the Interfraternity Council and issued a "directive" establishing the freshman class' rush curfew proposal Saturday.

The impression was that the freshman proposal had been "negated" by the IFC, said Dean Barney L. Jones yesterday. The administration just could not "let the proposal wash down the drain" and therefore "took prompt action."

The "directive" goes into effect at midnight tonight and continues until 7 a.m. Friday morning. All communication between fraternity men and freshmen is forbidden from midnight until 7 a.m. each day.

Any fraternity found guilty of breaking the week-night curfew will automatically be denied the privilege of pledging any freshmen men during the current academic year by an administrative committee, said Dean Robert B. Cox. A guilty freshman will not be allowed to pledge the fraternity concerned as long as he remains in the University.

Cox felt that if an administrative committee had to be formed, it would probably be composed of the deans of Trinity College and would almost certainly include Dr. Herbert J. Herring, vice-president in the division of student life, and himself.

Violations of the new ruling may be reported by students and campus policemen though no plans for a special police force have been made, Cox asserted.

By not adopting the curfew, the IFC was disregarding the well-being of freshmen, not only those participating in rush but also non-C men and those not participating, Jones stated. He also said the Administration was concerned with the attitude of IFC.

A great deal is implied in the decision to go over the heads of IFC; there is a pressing problem involved in student organizations "calling the shots" without enforcing regulations, Jones said.

"The IFC will not take the responsibility" for the rush curfew, declared IFC president Chuck Yengst. "We are not going to act as a police force for the Administration," he said.

IFC thought that the freshman proposal was "a good idea with great merit," and though IFC had liked the idea, he stated, it could not come up with a satisfactory solution concerning the matter of enforcing the new proposal.

The IFC vote to pass the curfew proposal with enforcement measures failed but was "very close," Yengst said.

Because fraternities will have "so much to lose" and not enough to gain, the new curfew will work, IFC vice-president Mike Steer felt.

Katz Assumes Office

Junior Dick Katz is now acting president of his class. He assumed the office last week without formal ceremony.

Katz will also retain the office of class vice president while he is acting president.

He succeeds Dan Frederking, who left school after first semester.

Players Hold Tryouts For Two Productions

Duke Players will be casting parts for their next two productions tonight through Thursday.

Kenneth Reardon will conduct tryouts for Ibsen's Hedda Gabler tonight and tomorrow night in Page Auditorium from 7 to 10 p.m.

Tryouts for Winter's Tale by Shakespeare are slated for Wednesday and Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m. under Gary Tummore's direction in Branson.

Winter's Tale, a reading, will be the Players' second Shakespearean production of the year.

Consent of the Governed

The women's student body is expected tonight to vote whether or not to remove the illegal party rule from the Code of Campus Living; that is, from the jurisdiction of the Judicial Board.

The proposal involves two questions: one as to whether or not the illegal party rule is just, and a second involving the nature of student government itself. We offer no answer to the first; it will be discussed tonight, and it is a matter for the individual to decide. The second is a knotty question with which both student governments have wrestled all year.

The students live under a dual government. To begin with, when she matriculates the student signs a contract with the University, agreeing to comply with University rules; failure to do so is a breach of contract, and the student must expect to take the consequences. The women have instituted a governing council to make additional rules by which all live, to serve the student body, and to change those rules as time and the governed dictate.

In addition they have instituted a Judicial Board which they elect yearly to try them for infractions of the rules by which they live. Believing University rules to be necessary and proper (example: that forbidding plagiarism), they have endorsed these rules and added them to their own rules, submitting themselves to their peers for trial when infractions are charged. If and when, with the passage of time, students come to feel that a University rule is unfair, then it is only just and reasonable that they should nullify their original endorsement, tacit though it may have been, and remove the rule from the jurisdiction of their court, thus declining to pass judgment on their peers for infraction of that rule.

Is the rule unfair? The governed must decide. If it is not, they must be judged according to its restrictions by their peers. If it is deemed unfair, then it cannot justly be a part of the student legal system, as it will lack the consent of the governed.

Carlyle Windley . . . Unreal Reality

Exams are over, term papers are in, and thousands of cream colored postal cards have caused a cheer, a sigh, or a curse word to be heard. Students have returned from the short vacation afforded by the "between semesters" break; and sunburned noses, circle-free eyes and relaxed, smiling lips have replaced the tired, tense and anxious faces indigenous of exam period.

A new semester is underway and there seems to be a different feeling in the air. The surviving members of the freshman class have just a little swagger in their walk. They seem more confident of themselves and they have that secure "at home" appearance. Campus men are just getting back to their regular jobs after having spent the past couple of weeks busily remodeling a number of fraternity sections. Fraternity pins sparkle conspicuously in the mid-winter sunlight and all West Campus Greek letter men currently have that Ipana smile.

Students with stacks of new and unexplored textbooks under their arms walk briskly to the library. Upon entering one of the reading rooms, they sit down and try to study; but once in a while someone will look up from his textbook and just stare out the window in hope that he may see the arrival of a long awaited spring. But, random thoughts of Joe College Weekend and beach parties cause him to turn back to his textbook. There is a lot of studying to be done in a very short period of time—if that average is going to be better than it was this past semester.

A Valentine Message

FOR LADIES ONLY

We knew a gal named Mary Lou, whose eyes were brown, we think, or blue. Her figure, in the usual spots, differed from that of younger tots. She very much resembled YOU.

She'd learned, beside her mother's knee that every proper girl should be aloof—the subject of man's dreams and not the victim of his schemes (a thought with which we can't agree).

Imagine, if you will, her plight, saving so much for MR. RIGHT that fellows said "although she's nice she sitteth on a cake of ice". She studied trig each week-end night.

"Oh Mary, Mary Lou" we said, "if you are ever to be wed a gentle hint might work out fine. Be rakish, send a Valentine!" The desperate child sent ten instead.

O glorious day, the ancient spell worked out, and now she does so well that in the dorms most every dame turns green at mention of her name and soon will chime the wedding bell.

This is college, Duke University, U.S.A. It is here that you find the student busily hoping, striving; pushing in his own world of unreal reality. He is happy and safe in his utopian land where even the sidewalks are paved with ivory.

But not too many miles away, flaming red banners have just recently welcomed a great assemblage of communist leaders. Does the student know of this and, if so, does he care? From the peaceful land of Switzerland there has just issued a highly controversial "Letter To A Pastor. . . ." Does the student know who wrote this letter and is the letter's contents of any significance? The cries of "assassin" are still the aftermath of a Cuban revolution. For the student is this a point of moral concern? In Red China, "back yard" steel is but part of a communal program instigated to change the economic face of a once defeated country. Does such a program have import and meaning for the Duke student?

The problems above are the problems of the world. They are

IS STUDYING NECESSARY?

Once there were three roommates and their names were Walter Pellucid, Casimir Ping, and LeRoy Holocaust and they were all taking English lit. They were all happy, friendly, outgoing types and they all smoked Philip Morris Cigarettes as you would expect from such a gregarious trio, for Philip Morris is the very essence of sociability, the very spirit of amity, the very soul of concord, with its tobacco so mild and true, its packs so soft and flip-top, its length so regular or long size. You will find when you smoke Philip Morris that the birds sing for you and no man's hand is raised against you.

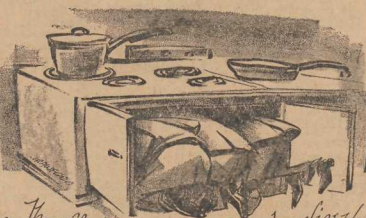

Each night after dinner Walter and Casimir and LeRoy went to their room and studied English lit. For three hours they sat in sombre silence and pored over their books and then, squinty and spent, they toppled onto their pallets and sobbed themselves to sleep.

This joyless situation obtained all through September and October. Then one November night they were all simultaneously struck by a marvelous idea. "We are all studying the same thing," they cried. "Why, then, should each of us study for three hours? Why not each study for one hour? It is true we will only learn one-third as much that way, but it does not matter because there are three of us and next January before the exams, we can get together and pool our knowledge!"

Oh, what rapture then fell on Walter and Casimir and LeRoy! They flung their beanies into the air and danced a schottische and lit thirty or forty Philip Morris and ran out to pursue the pleasure which had so long, so bitterly, been missing from their lives.

Alas, they found instead a series of grisly misfortunes. Walter, alas, went searching for love and was soon going steady with a coed named Invicta Breadstuff, a handsome lass, but, alas, hopelessly addicted to bowling. Each night she loved five hundred lines, some nights a thousand. Poor Walter's thumb was a shambles and his purse was empty, but Invicta just kept on bowling and in the end, alas, she left Walter for a pin-setter, which was a terrible thing to do to Walter, especially in this case, because the pin-setter was automatic.

Walter, of course, was far too distraught to study his English lit, but he took some comfort from the fact that his roommates were studying and they would help him before the exams. But Walter, alas, was wrong. His roommates, Casimir and LeRoy, were nature lovers and they used their free time to go for long tramps in the woods. One November night, alas, they were treed by two bears, Casimir by a brown bear and LeRoy by a Kodiak, and they were kept in the trees until mid-January when winter set in and the brown bear and the Kodiak went away to hibernate.

So when the three roommates met before exams to pool their knowledge, they found they had none to pool! Well sir, they had a good long laugh about that and then rushed to the kitchen and stuck their heads in the oven. It was, however, an electric oven and the effects were, on the whole, beneficial. The wax in their ears got melted and they acquired a healthy tan and today they are married to a lovely young heiress named Ganglia Bran and live in the Canal Zone, where there are many nice boats to wave at.

reality. But, does all this reality simply mean that for the college student it is easier to stand in the shadow of an ivory tower than it is to climb to its top and dare to look at the world at large.

Is this the case? Maybe. I hope not. It is a misfortune if any student fails to learn that reality is man's creation and he should not be afraid to live within its bounds. Furthermore, the Duke student should learn that he too can contribute to the world in which he must live—but only if he is willing to acknowledge that man's world is a world for men.

Devilfish Win Over WF, Crack Marks

By SNOWDEN HALL

Four Wake Forest pool records toppled Saturday night when Duke's swimming team stroked to a 47-39 win over the Deacons.

For the Blue Devil splashes Donny Schumacker in the 200-yard breaststroke, Bruce Soule in the 440 yard freestyle, Laird Blue in the 200-yard backstroke, and Steve Smith in the 50-yard freestyle all bettered previous marks in the Deac tank.

Seniors Guy Langer and Bill Weber also captured first places for the Devilfish in the 220-yard freestyle and the 200-yard butterfly, respectively. The team of Ed Elsey, Schumacker, Weber, and Soule swept to victory in the 400-yard medley relay race.

Prior to the varsity meet, the Duke frosh swimmers gained a 43-43 deadlock with the Baby Deacs.

Gunner Schull Makes Booters' All-America

Edwin (Gunner) Schull, described by coach Jim Bly as "an all around outstanding soccer player", received the honor of being picked to the 1958 All American soccer team.

The Duke right wing was named to the squad of 55 men, five players, received the honor of position. Schull was named to the team by the National Association of Soccer Coaches after scoring six goals during the nine game Devil card last fall. His best games, according to Bly, were against N.C. State and Roanoke. Schull, handy with his passes all year, tallied once in each of those contests.

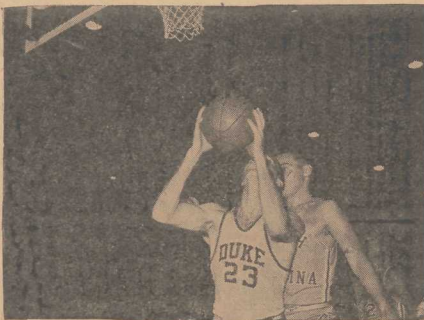

Schull, along with two mates, captain John D'Angelo at full back, and sophomore inside left Don Little, was also named to the 55 man All Southern squad. The latter duo was outstanding for the 1958 Blue Devil booters.

Duke's Consolation In Defeat Is Best Performance of Year

By ART SANTO DOMINGO
Chronicle Sports Editor

An effort such as the Blue Devils put forth against UNC would have beaten most teams, but Carolina being the number two team in the nation, it was not enough. Coach Hal Bradley's warriors shot excellently, but a lack of finesse and brutal free throw shooting cancelled out their best field goal percentage of the season.

The general letdown among those who watched was caused by the nine point halftime lead Duke enjoyed. False hopes were built up, and the Tarheels tumbled them down with their comeback, led by Doug Moe.

Bradley's suffering also started at the half. A victory over Carolina would have been so sweet and was actually within Duke's grasp, but was not to be Friday night. But his consolation lies in the performance turned in by the Devil sophs.

Big Blue, More Aggressive Than In First Game, Seeks Revenge Over Case & Co.

By ART SANTO DOMINGO
Chronicle Sports Editor

Another tough battle is in the offing tomorrow night when the Blue Devils meet N.C. State's Wolfpack in Raleigh's Coliseum at 8:15 p.m. Coach Whit Cobb's Blue Imps tangle with the Wolflets in a preliminary clash at 6:20.

Now sporting a 9-9 record, and still struggling to keep their heads above water in the ACC, the Blue Devils will try to top State on their home court after dropping a previous game to the Raleigh group in Durham, 67-60. Duke will be out to show Everett Case what Frank McGuire almost found out—that sophomores, especially good second year men, can compete with a measure of success in the rough and tumble Atlantic Coast Conference.

What new defense will be rigged won't be known until game time, but Duke must stop tall John Richter, the top scorer in the conference. It was Richter's performance which downed the Devils' efforts last time. George Stepanovich will probably have more competition from the fast-learning duo of Carroll Youngkin and Doug Kistler.

Howard Hurt, moving toward the top of the ACC scoring race, will lead the Duke offense. Bill Watson and Johnny Frye will most likely round out the starting Devil five.

Lou Pucillo, in a recent scoring slump, is nevertheless an ominous threat, and must be shackled to some extent in order for the Blue Devils to upset the number six rated Pack. The little guard is quick and possesses a deadly jump shot. He directs the State attack.

The Blue Imps made it five in a row over Carolina for Coach Cobb, a mark running over from last year, by scoring their seventh win of the season as against four losses on Friday night. In State, they face a club which beat them at Durham in January and which has superior height.
