Phi Kappa Delta, St. Pat Initiate New Members

Phi Kappa Delta, senior women's leadership and service honorary, and the Order of Saint Patrick, engineering leadership honorary, will initiate their newly tapped members Wednesday and Thursday respectively.

T. C. Cox, Gary Dickinson, Dick Frazier, Tom Gnuse, Elliott Hinley and Randy McDonald were tapped Thursday. Their names were raised on a large green shamrock, the symbol of the Order, at the Engineering Building. McDonald was elected president of the pledge class. All six men are rising seniors.

The pledges will take a test on the Constitution of the Order Wednesday and must complete a pledge class project by that day. They will wear green wooden shamrocks, which they have constructed as part of their pledge training, to classes Thursday. A banquet will be held following the initiation Thursday evening at 7:30.

Phi Kappa Delta, which also tapped its members last Thursday, will hold its initiation at 8 p.m. Wednesday in East Duke Building. Twenty-two initiates are to be installed, including Olyne Blackard, Bettie Brinkley, Betty Caldwell and Jane Chaney.

Catherine Clark, Carol Corder, Judy Durstine and Ames Early will also be initiated, in addition to Jenny Grant, Pat Hansen, Judy Heckroth, Gwen Heinle, Sarah Hunter, Amburn Huskins, Robin Lyons and Barbara Martin.

Others tapped were Judy McKay, Paige Parsons, Mary Rhamstine, Marian Rice, Margaret Ann Riddle and Marion Sapp.

Carolina Symphony To Play Wednesday

The North Carolina Symphony will give its annual Durham concert in the Woman's College Auditorium Wednesday at 8:30 p.m.

Admission to the concert will be free, and tickets are available in 202-A Flowers Building or at the door Wednesday night. The Symphony, currently in its fourteenth season, is directed by Benjamin Swalin and will feature bass-baritone Paul Hickfang as guest soloist.

Hickfang, winner of one of the Symphony's Adult Auditions in 1959, will be heard in four of the Symphony's selections: Mendelssohn's Lord God of Abraham, Verdi's Credo, Strauss' Zueignung (Dedication) and Rossini's La Cullumnia.

Senior Class Elects Hollowell President Of '59 Alumni Group

Lin Hollowell has been elected by the undergraduate classes of 1959 to lead their Alumni class officers, the University Alumni Office announced Friday.

Also selected by this year's graduating classes of Trinity College, College of Engineering, School of Nursing, and Woman's College to govern their alumni affairs were Bill Edwards, vice-president; Melissa Shuler, secretary; and Nancy Walker, treasurer.

The new officers will formulate plans for their first regularly scheduled class reunion in 1964 which will be held jointly with the class of 1958. In addition, this year's graduating classes will hold a reunion in June of 1961.

Jim Bertch, graduating senior of Trinity College, was elected to the National Council, governing body of the General Alumni Association. This Council, which includes representatives from local associations, graduating classes and faculty, meets twice each year.

Ellie DeRienzo, graduating senior of the Woman's College, will serve as representative to the Council of the women's Alumnae Association.

Spender To Discuss Poetry

Former Communist Reads Here May 18

By SUE STRONG
Chronicle News Editor

British poet Stephen Spender will read and discuss some of his works here May 18 at 8:15 in Woman's College Auditorium under the auspices of the Student Forum and the English department.

Admission will be $1 except for coeds, who may use their Student Forum cards.

T. S. Eliot sponsored the literary debut of Spender, who has written short stories and three novels in addition to several volumes of poetry. A resident of London, he is in this country for a year as poet-in-residence at the University of California.

As a student at Oxford University in the late 1920's, Spender belonged to a poets' clan which included W. H. Auden. He later went to Spain during the Spanish Civil War, where he was a colleague of Hemingway.

New Republic says of Spender, "For more than 20 years—first as a Communist, then as an anti-Communist—he has been a dedicated belligerent, a soldier of culture, a minstrel boy marching to war with his typewriter slung behind him."

Spender declared his support for Communism in 1937 in his book Forward From Liberalism. After his reversal of attitude toward the doctrine, Moscow denounced him as being in "the service of American cosmopolite imperialism."

The poet was acclaimed during his mid and late 20's as one of the significant voices of his day, frequently called a latter-day Shelley, according to the Saturday Review of Literature.

IDC President Selects Seven Court Members

Seven independents have been appointed to the Independent Dormitory Council Court for next year.

Those chosen for the Court were Scott Stevens, Hank Irwin, Ken Oliver, Charles Waters, Emerson Wall and Wannie Hardin. Bowen Ross is chairman of the group.

Interviews for the Court were held last Wednesday and Thursday night by newly elected IDC president Bill Alexander. The seven Court members, selected on the basis of ability and interest, were chosen from a group of 33 candidates.

LATTER DAY SHELLEY — Noted British poet Stephen Spender will read and discuss his writings here May 18 in Woman's College Auditorium at 8:15. He currently holds the position of poet-in-residence at the University of California.

Testimonial Dinner To Honor Gross For Forty Years' Service Tomorrow

Leading officials of two scientific organizations will speak at a testimonial dinner tomorrow at 7 p.m. at Hope Valley Country Club honoring Dr. Paul M. Gross, University vice-president, for his 40 years' service here.

Alan T. Waterman of Washington, D.C., director of the National Science Foundation, and William G. Pollard, executive director of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, will be among those praising Gross's achievements in education and science.

Gross is currently vice-chairman of the National Science Foundation and president of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies.

Chairman of the committee on arrangements for the dinner, Dr. Frank T. deVyver emphasized that the sole basis for the testimonial dinner is to give the faculty an opportunity to honor Gross for "what he has done for the University."

University President A. Hollis Edens will be master of ceremonies, and Dr. C. B. Hoover, James B. Duke professor of economics, will speak for the faculty. Dr. James T. Cleland, Dean of the Chapel, will give the invocation.

A vice-president of the University for the past ten years and a nationally known scientist, Gross is now serving as chairman of a faculty committee on the Long-Range Planning Commission.

For his accomplishments as a research scientist during World War II, he was awarded the President's Medal for Merit.

Miss Rigg will also be the managing editor of Motive, a Nashville religious journal.

Artist Margaret Rigg Will Appear Tomorrow

Margaret Rigg, one of the country's leading modern painters, will visit the University tomorrow to discuss her recent work with students and faculty.

Miss Rigg will attend an informal buffet supper in the Methodist Student Center at 5:30 p.m. and will show slides of some of her paintings.

A graduate of Florida State University, Miss Rigg's work has been exhibited in museums around the country. She recently held a "one-man" show in Nashville, Tenn.

Miss Rigg is also the managing editor of Motive, a Nashville religious journal.

NEW QUARTERS — The Army's modern Office of Ordnance Research, located behind the Engineering College, will be officially opened Thursday. Major General J. H. Hinricks, Chief of Ordnance, will be the speaker at the ceremony. One-hundred and fifty national, state, and local officials connected with the OOR program will be present. Friday the building will be opened to the public in honor of its dedication and as a part of nation-wide observance of Armed Forces Week. The new building replaces old facilities located on Myrtle Drive.

Edens, Brinkley Speak at Class Night

University President A. Hollis Edens and Woman's College Dean R. Florence Brinkley will address Class Night at 7 tonight in Woman's College Auditorium.

A traditional ceremony given by the rising senior class for graduating seniors, Class Night features originally composed songs. The first of these is a marching song sung by white-clad juniors and black-robed seniors as they march into the auditorium at the beginning of the assembly.

Outgoing class president Battle Rankin will then give a farewell address on behalf of the seniors, and rising class president Mary Lu Wright will welcome the incoming seniors.

Following the seniors' assembly seats, and both classes exchange originally written farewell songs.

The climax of the assembly is the tapping by a white-hooded figure, with the sign of the white carnation, of seven senior women for membership in White Duchy, senior leadership honorary.

No More Umbrellas

Secretary of State Christian Herter's admonition that the nation not have "great expectations" from the Geneva talks seems to us to be the most sensible advice to come out of the State Department since Seward's Alaskan Icebox. The foreign ministers are gathering in an atmosphere set by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev warning that Russia could wipe the Western powers off the face of the earth in a nuclear war and by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko demanding anew that the Allied occupation of West Berlin be liquidated.

These statements hardly indicate any genuine willingness on the part of the Soviets to negotiate or compromise. We are certainly not advocating a terrified or panicked appeasement at the Russian strong talk, but we must realize that we were, in the first place, forced into negotiations by Khrushchev's "end of the world" May 27 deadline. The Soviets called this climb to the summit; they will not be the ones to back down.

Security Supreme

Risk, adventure, excitement and originality are words fast disappearing through disuse. They are becoming scarce in college where those who would deviate, would try the original, would work for perfection in one course at the expense of others can hear the majority comment—how irresponsible, how immature, how foolish.

They are vanishing outside of college where the difficulty of establishing a one-man operation, of making a career in the fine arts, or of failing miserably or succeeding spectacularly in any field illustrate the all-pervasive quality of the contemporary emphasis on a secure and stable life.

Material security, social acceptance and contentment are the most valued goals of this generation. The threat of war, the confusion of the times and the uncertainty of the future are expressions used to justify these new ideals.

The contemporary search for security becomes evident in

There is, furthermore, little in the basic positions of the two camps that can be compromised. A step-by-step process towards the reunification of Germany, with free elections coming last, is obviously unacceptable to the Kremlin; we cannot accept anything less. Khrushchev would hardly agree to any arms limitation that included inspection rights; for us to accept limitations without the inspection would be suicidal. As for maintaining a free Berlin, this was the immediate sore in the Soviet side that precipitated the crisis and led to the inter-governmental negotiations.

The sooner we face the extreme unlikelihood of winning any concessions or compromises from the Soviets, the better prepared we will be. The best we can expect from the ascension to the summit is to minimize the Russian propaganda efforts and perhaps to maintain the uneasy status quo for a few more tedious years; the worse, if we naively pin any hopes on the talks, the umbrella and appeasement of another Munich.

plans for after graduation. The senior signs a contract with a large company for fair pay, fringe benefits, and a good chance for some advancement. If there is slight opportunity for great improvement, it is overlooked by the senior. He feels lucky to get the job. After four years of uncertainty, he knows where he stands.

During those four years, he has worked fairly steadily, earned presentable grades, participated in a few extra-curriculars, and stayed out of trouble. He has enjoyed college, but he isn't especially sorry to leave. Neither is he especially excited about his future.

The danger of today's predominant attitude that he exemplifies resides in the easy, thoughtless way it is accepted. He never seriously considered the alternatives to this secure, unexciting future. In instinctively following a very powerful trend, the senior might be underestimating his own capabilities.

A Foot Further In

Last Monday morning, while most of the Duke student body attempted to recover from a not-so-tame Joe College Weekend, that august group of Justice-Guardians in Washington succeeded in both unlocking and wedging its foot in the door of individual freedom and privacy. As is too often the case on such controversial issues, a vote of five to four made the crucial decision—a simple majority decision by the Highest Court of the Land, beyond which there is no appeal.

In upholding a Maryland court ruling that a home owner be fined for refusal to allow an unwarranted search of his house by a health inspector, the bare majority opinion explicitly states that searches for sanitary purposes may be made without court authorization.

Although no immediate abuse of the legal principle involved is likely to occur, the precedent established is a dangerous one. The Fourth Amendment, as it has been interpreted by the present Supreme Court, denies to persons even suspected of being unsanitary the protection it grants less desirable persons. Sanitation may be an admirable goal, but so is the search for murderers, rapists, and narcotics now forbidden without a court-issued warrant.

In his vigorous dissenting opinion, Justice William O. Douglas, who spoke here in 1957, denied that the Bill of Rights provision was intended to apply exclusively in criminal cases and quoted the English authority, William Pitt, the elder:

"The poorest man may in his cottage bid defiance to all the force of the crown. It may be frail; its roof may shake . . . but the King of England cannot enter; all his force dare not cross the threshold of the ruined tenement."

The undeniable fact that governmental authority tends to increase rather than diminish would seem to indicate that the five toes of the Supreme Court in the door of individual liberty may one day lead to a complete throwing open of the door with no safeguards available.

In spite of Justice Frankfurter's statement that "these inspections are apparently welcomed by all but an insignificant few," it is to be hoped that more than a small minority of students and citizens will side with Chief Justice Warren, Justice Douglas and the two other Justices who have branded the decision "a long backward step in Constitutional law."

As potential leaders of the nation and the world, Duke students should take the initiative in voicing public reaction to such a measure. If the expected Congressional action is not taken during the following weeks, the Duke delegation to the NSA Congress this summer will propose that a resolution dealing with this subject be among those sent to, and considered by, the U. S. Congress. In the meantime, a four-cent letter to your Congressman will disprove the contention that among thoughtful Americans only an "insignificant few" are concerned over the violation of individual rights represented by this fateful decision.

Sailing Club Defeats Cornell, Annapolis

The University Sailing Club defeated the junior varsity sailing teams of both Annapolis and Cornell, coming in first and second in a 15-boat regatta at Annapolis Saturday.

Sailing Gannets, a class of boat which the Sailing Club members had never sailed before, the team of Ty Corning and Bob Grossman came in first with 119 points, while Judy Murphy and Jim Saber took second place with 118.

Third place went to Annapolis with 106 points. Cornell took fourth place, with Annapolis fifth and the Sailing Club's team of Stan Lundine and Kelly Katz in sixth place with 89 points.

Lacrossemen Travel to Navy, Edge Grads in Annual Game

The Blue Devil lacrosse team will journey to Annapolis tomorrow for their final game of the season in an attempt to sink Navy as effectively as they did the Great Grads Saturday.

The Devils will be out to give a repeat performance tomorrow of their 6-4 victory over the returning Great Grads. The Big Blue had their hands full with the Grads who included eleven former All-Americans.

The match was closely fought all the way with the score being tied 4-4 at the half. It was not until the final period that the Devils took the lead for keeps on a goal by Captain Ross Rippel, who also scored the first goal of the game to lead the way for the stickmen of coach Jack Persons.

Displaying a balanced attack, Duke placed four players in the scoring column: Ben Goodspeed in the first period, Chuck Irwin and Al Magee in the second period, and Gordy Power in the fourth period.

The Dukers scored their victory despite the three goals scored by 1951 All-American Dan Peacock. He scored once in the first period to tie the score 1-1, and twice in the second period to end the half 4-4.

The fourth Grad goal was batted in by Peacock's All-American team-mate of 1951, Howard Heiss. Their defensive play was sparked by 1951 All-Americans Bob Bickel and Charlie Gilfillan, and 1950 All-American goalie Donald Bafford.

Gaston, Katz Reach Finals in ACC Meet

Dick Katz and Joe Gaston played a game match Saturday afternoon before bowing to Geoff Black and Ben Keyes in the finals of the ACC doubles championships.

The Devil duo, fourth-seeded in the tournament, had won gruelling three-set matches from Jimmy Spence-Mickey Solomon of State, and Virginia's Ray York and Duke Felt to reach the top spot against the Carolina team.

In singles action, top-seeded Bill Cullen of Wake Forest outlasted York 5-7, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2, to capture the individual singles championship. He succeeds Carolina's Boby Bortner, who defeated the Devils' Don Romhilt for the crown last year.

The Carolina team also carried off the John Kenfield trophy, emblematic of the most victories earned by a single team during the tournament.

The Tarheels had a total of 19 points, followed by Duke and Virginia with 14 each. Coach Don Skakle's men were the defending champions from last year's tourney in the Kenfield competition.

Distance Men Clinch Second-Place Finish In Conference Meet

A potent Maryland team bagged the ACC track title on Saturday in Columbia, South Carolina, for the fourth consecutive year, scoring 106½ points.

Qualifying eight men in Friday's finals, the Duke cindermen gained second place in the meet, defeating UNC by seven points. Cary Weisiger finished first in the mile with the best time of the ACC year, 4:11.7. Jerry Nourse and Dave Pitkethly finished one-two in the two-mile event.

The mile relay team, composed of Jack Linden, Weisiger, Tom Menaker, and Tom Bazanore, came through with a clutch win in their event to insure a second-place finish. The Blue Devil total was 37 points, as against Carolina's 30.

Jim Booher in the high-jump, middle distance specialist Bazanore in the 880, and Tee Moorman's discus efforts also aided the Duke cause as each man placed second in his respective event.

In capturing first place, Maryland surpassed its own team scoring mark, set two years ago by Terrapin thinculds.

Annual Big Four Frosh Track Meet Tomorrow

The annual Big Four Freshman Track and Field Day will be held at Duke Stadium tomorrow afternoon, according to coach Al Buehler.

Representative freshman teams from Carolina, Wake Forest, State, and Duke will be entered. There will be no team championships kept, but individual awards will be presented.

Siderowf Leads Devils to ACC Golf Championship

The Duke golf team swept the ACC Golf Tournament in Chapel Hill Friday and Saturday with record breaking performances. The Devils toured the 36 hole tournament with a total of 372, eclipsing the old team record of 574 set by North Carolina in 1956.

The champions of coach Dumpy Hagler were led by first round individual leader Captain Dick Siderowf. He stroked a first round 68 to give him a 139 total, placing him second to champion Ronnie Thomas of Wake Forest who carded 138.

Other Blue Devil scores which helped to net the victory were 144 by Bob Lindinger and Bob Zimmerman, and Ted McKenzie with 145.

Lindinger shot the best round of the tournament, a record-breaking five-under par 67. This tied the old record set by Sonny George of Wake Forest in 1957. Coach Hagler called the victory "the best team effort in a number of years." He was well pleased with the entire team performance, especially with the fine comeback of Lindinger.

Blue Dukers Travel To Maryland, Navy

A rejuvenated Blue Devil baseball team makes its final road trip of the year as it meets Maryland today and the Naval Academy tomorrow afternoon.

The Dukers climbed out of the dark clutches of the ACC cellar Saturday afternoon with a convincing 5-1 victory over the N.C. State Wolfpack. Lefty Ron Kalish went all the way for Ace Parker's crew, yielding but four hits as he registered his fourth triumph against three losses.

The final game of the season will be played at Coombs Field on Saturday afternoon with UVA providing the opposition.
