

Ezio Pinza, Celebrated Basso, To Sing This Evening in Page For Second Cycle of Series

Famed Musician Combines Acting And Fine Singing

Ezio Pinza, who will sing here tonight in the second of the University Concert series, is universally acclaimed as one of the greatest artists ever to sing in American musical circles.

Press notices have described him as "dynamic," and in spite of this, he actually is "dynamic." Anyone who has seen his "Alcazar," or any of his other particular successes, is instantly aware, upon his entrance, that this man is a powerful personality, and one who makes that personality felt in his singing.

Pinza is rather of the same school as Lawrence Tibbett, that he believes that an operatic star should be a fine actor, as well as a singer. He is a fine actor, using technique, make-up, and background for every one of his parts. That is, he is a fine actor, and all about the characters I am portraying—and as much about himself as I can find out, he says.

The tenor is the big bane of Pinza. He is a tenor, and the audience, the most brilliant music is written for him, he is the bane of his career. The basso usually gets the part that he all his at. But Pinza is not just a singer of his higher-vocal colleagues. He does not envy them their success, he only envies the ease with which they achieve this success.

"The basso must be good. But the tenor can be a prima donna, even if he is only mediocre. He can sing the whole night, and he can at all once hit a high note and hold it half a minute—and he could go crazy," Pinza says.

Defense Council Defines Purposes Of Organization

Seven Committees Form
Suggested Composition
Of Basic Council Setup

The Duke Council for American Defense, which held its first meeting in the Physics building on November 11, is now in the process of organization under its newly elected officers.

The officials of the council are Douglas Post, president; Mrs. Marie A. White, vice-president; A. S. Brower, secretary-treasurer; and Harvie B. Branson, William H. Hall, Ernest W. Nelson, members of the executive committee.

In addition to this organization, the council is composed of research committees which will undertake the main burden of the work.

A temporary committee organization has been established with the aims of the various committees briefly defined by the executive committee.

(1) Research, for the assembling of data on the personnel and equipment resources of the United States.

(2) Research, on the defense of the United States against air attack.

(3) Research, on the defense of the United States against air attack.

Recently Tapped Tombs Men To Stage Dad's Day Show

Annual Informal Initiation Into Athletic Order
Promises to Exceed All Others in Humor and Laughs

Blackfaced and pajamaed, the recently tapped initiates of Tombs will stage their annual Dad's Day show on the chapel steps between classes tomorrow.

Instead of having only one individual act going on at a time, the show will be a continuous entertainment for onlookers and humiliating discomfiture for the initiates.

Omicron Delta Kappa Honors Five Outstanding Senior Men In Traditional Fall Ceremony

Hooded Figures Place Names of Men Chosen On Key Before Chapel

Five outstanding senior men were tapped this morning into Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary leadership fraternity.

Those tapped were Ernest S. Delaney, John M. Dozier, Charles F. Sanborn, Joseph W. Taylor, and Robert B. Kubeck.

The activities of the men selected are as follows: Delaney, from Charlotte, is member of the baseball team and senior representative on the Student Government Association. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, and is treasurer of Delta Tau Delta.

John Dozier, of Rocky Mount, is treasurer of the Y.M.C.A. and a member of Delta Tau Delta.

Charles F. Sanborn, of East Orange, N. J., is a member of the Pan-Hellenic council and is a member of Delta Tau Delta.

Joseph W. Taylor, from Tampa, Fla., is a member of the golf team and of Tombs, honorary athletic fraternity. He is a member of Delta Tau Delta.

Robert B. Kubeck, of East Orange, N. J., is a member of the basketball team and of Tombs, honorary athletic fraternity. He is a member of Delta Tau Delta.

Another interesting feature of the event is the fact that the women members are equally as eligible as the upperclass beauties.

The ceremony will be open until 10:30 tonight.

Dad's Day Visitors to Watch Blue Devils Battle Wolfpack In Conference Tilt Tomorrow

450 Duke Dads To Gather Here For Annual Fete

The seventh annual observance of Dad's Day is expected to attract over 450 fathers of undergraduate students to the Duke University campus tomorrow as the Wake Forest football team battles the Duke Wolfpack in a conference game.

Program for the day will begin at 8 o'clock Saturday morning when the visiting dads will register with the YMCA in the Union lobby. Complimentary tickets to the Duke-Wake football game will be given to the fathers at registration time.

Following the football game, the dads will be entertained by a variety of activities, including a luncheon and a dance.

The annual Dad's Day banquet will be held in the men's dining hall at 6 o'clock Saturday evening.

Children from the Durham and Wake Forest areas are expected to attend the Dad's Day activities.

Top Man Power To Be Displayed In Big Fire Series

Another mass-covered series will be resumed tomorrow afternoon when the Blue Devils graders take the field against the N. C. State Wolfpack in their latest conference and Big Five contest in Duke stadium tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

State has won three games and lost five, while the Devils have won five and lost two games, but the Wolfpack is always primed for the Duke battle in which the team invariably plays its best and hardest game of the year.

However, the Devils will be favored to win tomorrow's battle, the seventeenth in the long series between the two schools. If the Wake Forest wins, North Carolina for the Big Five crown.

On the ground, the rebound from Saturday's upset, have been scintillating hard this week, and will be possible to see in a week of spirited demolition.

BULLETIN: DUKE WILL PLAY TEXAS A & M IN DUKE STADIUM ON OCTOBER 18, 1942.

STATION. CAROLINA TEAM

For the second consecutive Saturday the Duke Blue Devils will be playing against a division of the greater University of North Carolina. Tomorrow it will be the gridiron opposition for the engineering school of the university which will be providing the arduous opposition for the Wademen. Whenever the Wolfpack of North Carolina State college is the opponent for the Duke team, a rough and tumble battle can be expected. This will be the seventeenth meeting of the "traditional" series, and although the Wolfpack has no great love for the Tar Heels, it would gladly co-operate with them to push Duke out of a share of the Big Five crown.

After the varied and vociferous spirit that has been shown during the week, we have no doubt that the stadium will be ringing with cheers for the Blue Devils. Now as a season draws to a close again, we Monday morning quarterbacks are beginning to prepare our all-American selections. The first of the mythical teams we have to offer will be the Chronicle's attempt at the sublime, when Duke uni-

Duke's Blue Imps were out after their third consecutive victory in 1939. In case you don't recall, the freshmen also boasted a clean slate that year. . . . They had a good team. Steve Lach is a team man. . . . his play has always been stout in the actions of the eleven. . . . when the team is playing well, you can be sure Steve is doing more than his bit. . . . even when they're off, chances are he is still playing the usual hump game.

However, there are three games in which Lach's play will never be forgotten by this observer. . . . two were Duke defeats. . . . the third a rout by the Devils. . . . back in Knoxville, with Tennessee running wild through the Ducks. . . . there was Steve, tackling fiercely, breaking up plays, spilling the ball-carrier for a loss. . . . even in Duke's defeat, his play was lauded by the pressmen.

Then came Georgia Tech. . . . and Steve ran wild. . . . catching McAfee's passes. . . . scoring touchdowns number two and three. . . . one of those was after he had run some twenty-five yards through four Tech men who hit this driving back—and rolled off like so much water.

The third game which will always bring Steve Lach to mind was last week's ill-fated set-to with Carolina. . . . for the entire first half and midway into the third quarter Steve had played without once leaving the game. . . . a contest which was a hard ball game all the way. . . . such deny he dashed around left end

Monday's Game Will Complete L. M. Play-offs

The finals of the intramural football season are expected to be run at last next Monday afternoon at 3:45, when the defending champions, Sigma Chi, meet the winner of yesterday's clash between House P and the Town boys.

The only touch football activity of the week was the renewed Plunk Bowl game between Delta Sigma Phi and Kappa Sigma in which the Delta Sigs proved their inferiority by losing 60 in a minor upset. The game was fought on the soccer field on Monday afternoon at 4:00 before an overthrew crowd of spectators.

The Delta Sigs kicked off and Slick Dick Wilson made a great runback, dashing twenty yards down field and thirty yards across field. From here on the battle was gay and hard with the ball remaining near midfield for the rest of the half. Seasonal cross-field runs, end-of-bounds kicks, battered-down passes, and a hard-fought end-of-the-sterning play of both teams.

At the half the combined backfield of the two teams, on the fluke and Lawrence on the megaphone formed several tricky formations and played the alma mater of both teams. The second half progressed the same as the first with each team striving to out-loose the other, when disaster overtook the Kappa Sigs. With two minutes to waste, Haines Joe Pierce was sent on the fluke by the Kappa Sigs to open the Delta Sigs right safety man. However, Skunk Hart refused to notice this obvious bit of trickery, and the uncovered Pierce sailed in, ended the game by passing from Wilson over the goal line for victory and defeat.

Thus the Kappa Sigs won the game, but the Delta Sigs won the school inferiority.

Steve later told us he just couldn't make himself go fast enough. . . . kept losing that driving stride that makes people say he runs like Eric Tipton. . . . that Paul Severin caught up with him. . . . Steve tried to put away Severin with his last ounce of strength to give Duke what might have been the winning score. . . . but he just couldn't muster it up. . . . nearly three (Continued on page 4)

Wolfpack Seeks Score In Traditional Battle

INTRA-MURALS

By CHUCK HANSON

At long last the intramural football, tennis and handball plays are expected to be finished on Monday, when the next big intramural sport, basketball, will get under way. Schedules are being made out now and should be ready to be released over the weekend.

With the new gymnasium eliminating conflict between intramural games and varsity practice, the basketball season will be more widespread and efficient than in the past. There will probably be less leagues with more teams, so that each organization entry will have a more complete schedule. As in football, two forfeits eliminate a team from further competition.

At this time, the intramural department suggests again that all students who plan to play basketball should take advantage of this opportunity. (Continued on page 4)

Team's 17th Meeting Will Close Wademen's Conference Campaign

North Carolina State, which annually provides Duke with one of its toughest games of the year, moved to Duke stadium for almost a year to close down the Blue Devil state and Conference campaign.

The Wolfpack is sure to be primed for this one. It would rather beat Duke than almost any other club on its schedule. State will be hoping for an upset, but this year it has something else in view.

The visitors want to notch up some kind of a score. They have not a particularly impressive record this fall, winning three out of eight, but they haven't failed to score in any of their games this season. The Wolfpack has always been a good team to watch from the sidelines. Their offense has been varied enough to make it always interesting. This year this is particularly true. Trailing against Carolina, 13-7, (Continued on page 4)

DO YOU SMOKE THE CIGARETTE THAT Satisfies
... IT'S THE SMOKER'S CIGARETTE

Smokers like yourself find
CHESTERFIELDS
very refreshing with their

Milder
COOLER
BETTER TASTE

Every time you light up a Chesterfield you know why it is called the Smoker's Cigarette. It's because Chesterfield's right combination of the finest tobaccos grown gives you everything a smoker could ask for . . . a cooler, better taste that is definitely milder. You can't buy a better cigarette.
