WEATHER PUTS DAMPER

The same mire that has made our parking lots inaccessible to anything but ferry boats during the past week has also put the damper on the practice sessions of our various teams who thought on outdoor workouts. This same inclement weather was a disappointment to those students who would rather watch a practice game than take a movie on a clear Saturday afternoon, for the official Duke representative in our two national sports, basketball and football, could not show their "studs" in the general public this weekend.

The gridmen are now in their final week of drilling, and as yet we are not sure whom the Dukes will play in the annual Spring practice game, which has been tentatively scheduled for this Saturday. Clemson was supposed to provide the opposition in the battle that brings memories of the hectic Fall season, but their speeded-up military program may have slowed down their gridiron concentration.

SOME RATS NEEDED

At the same time, Coach Combs is giving thanks that the blizzard of '41 did not reach Durham; but he is still supplanting Apollo to turn on more of the sun's rays, so that he can find out what sort of a club he will have to invade South Carolina with during Spring vacation. The long list of sorts makes one think that they have the Detroit Tigers in camp but on those few clear days, the batters were pounding away like the New York Yankees of old. No opinions can be given on the Yankees of new until they receive a fair trial in Durham on April 8.

Only Coach Combs could have related these of his former stars who were here simultaneously last week, but he has no worries. But the Toron-to Maple Leafs await their Tip-Tan-Burgman here, and he is ready prepared to join the Atlanta Crackers, having been farmed out by Newark. The third star was Ace Parker, who decided in favor of football, and who is leaving for Florida with freshman golfer Bill Goldthorpe, where Bill may participate in the pro-amateur tourney at St. Pete.

"The Rains Came" And Duke's Nine Moved Indoors

Inclement Weather Sends Outdoor Drills With Opener in Sight

While the major league ball clubs enjoy themselves in the Florida sun, the Duke diamond fever has had their pre-season drills briefly terminated by a bad dose of rainy weather. With apologies to the picture of the same name, "the rains came" last week and drove the Devil horseshoe chairs to shelter.

Of course, the groundskeepers and people who wish to see green grass probably welcomed the Spring shower. But the vegetation can only grow so high, and even they are leaders in the prayer for sunny weather.

With the opening game less than two weeks away, Coach Kappa Combs is still faced with the problem of strengthening the left side of his infield and his mound staff. The inclement weather offers a considerable quantity of time moments to strengthen the team, but it definitely hampers practice.

However, in spite of stormy weather, the team continued to loosen their arms in the cage beneath the main floor of the new gym, and on Friday afternoon Coach Combs held a lengthy skill session, pointing out a few of the common mistakes commonly made by collegiate ball players.

TRACKMEN IN BELTZARD

The five members of the Duke track team who ran in the Maryland Fifth meet last Friday had a cold time of it. Stalled at the University of Maryland at College Park, twenty-one miles from Baltimore, the team was nearly snowed out of the meet. The onslaughting blizzard stopped railroad traffic, and the team had to borrow a car to make the meet. At that, Windy Duke, Prince Duke, and Duke had to walk a number of blocks, where they found taxi service at a standstill. Although the Blue (Continued on page 4)

Schuman and Moise Pace Duke Tankers

Paced by double-weight freshman Gene Schuman and Captain Nick Moise, the Duke swimming squad closed out its season by capturing second place in the annual Carolina's A. A. U. Invitational swimming championships, finishing 10th title three consecutive times.

Captain Moise, swimming his last race under Duke colors, captured the 200-meter breaststroke title for the third consecutive year, and this became the only swimmer to win an individual title three consecutive times.

Schuman, the only double winner of the meet, captured titles in the 200 and 400 meter free style events. In the 400 meter race, he swam a head-and-neck with Andy Weiss, UNC's Conference runner-up, until the 150-meter mark, then put on a terrific sprint to win the event by two body-lengths in 3:13, only three-tenths of a second over the CAU record.

The freshman also swam the third place 400 meter relay team on which he was joined by Cornell Kurtz, Bayard Kappa, and Bill Marshall, who anchored the fifth place team in the 150 meter National Junior meet.

Also, Duke's individual medley event, losing out to Bob Moore, UNC's sophomore ace, in the hardest event of the meet. Bill Marshall, who took the 100 yard freestyle, was surprised by capturing third in the 200 meter individual medley event.

Spring Bowling Continues Play

The spring bowling league continued its schedule into the second week by a display of some bowling by three Pi Kappa Alpha teams and by two Sigma Alpha Epsilon teams. In the "A" league Bob Scott led the SAE's to a victory over Pi Kappa Alpha. In the "B" league, Scott scored high in individual game with 137, and won high set with 269. In the "B" league Pi Kappa Phi trounced Kappa Alpha "C" by taking all three games. Pi Kappa Alpha took three games from Alpha Tau Omega. In "C" league the only game played during the week was between Delta, Phi Delta, and Pi Kappa Alpha. The latter team took the game 2 to 1. In "D" league Kappa Alpha lost two games to Lambda Chi Alpha and Sigma Nu took two games from Zeta Beta Tau. Delta Sigma Phi won two games from Sigma Nu in "D" league, and Delta Theta Pi lost two to Pi Kappa Alpha in the same league. In "F" league Pi Kappa Phi lost two games to SAE, and Pi Kappa Alpha trounced Kappa Sigma, 3-0.

Cage Tourney Opens Tuesday Night

The 1941 Duke track team will participate in eight outdoor meets, it was announced by varsity track coach, Bob Chambers, when he released this Spring's schedule late last week. Five dual meets—one tentative—and three team meets are scheduled. The Devil runners are tentatively scheduled to open their outdoor season on the trip down to Florida, when they will meet The Citadel in Charleston, South Carolina. During Spring, 1942, Coach Chambers is taking twenty men down to Florida where the team will participate in the Florida Relays.

Only two home meets are listed, but the cindermen will engage in their most crucial contest at nearby Chapel Hill and against the White Phantoms of the track on April 10. On April 10, the Devil will meet the Carolina A. A. U. meet, or if a strong enough team has been developed, they will trek to the Penn Relays in Philadelphia.

Princeton and Maryland will be met in Duke stadium, while the strong Navy team will play Delta Theta at the end of the season. The season will close the season at the Southern conference meet on May 16 and 17.

The 1941 schedule: March 24, The Citadel at Charleston, S. C. (tentative). March 29, Florida Relays, Gainesville, Fla. April 12, Princeton, here. April 19, Carolina, A. A. U. meet, or Penn Relays.

May 3, Navy, Annapolis, Md. May 10, Maryland, here.

The Duke varsity tennis squad started practice yesterday under the guidance of Coach Harry Fogelman. With their opening contest scheduled for April 2, the Devil netter is faced with the difficult task of organizing his team in the two weeks left before spring vacation.

Returning letters from the 1940 team are Don Bullington, George Hinnadi, Bob Cantline, Bob Antholme, and Bob Wilson. Among the more promising newcomers on the squad this year is Ray Nasher, who started with the freshmen last year. Nasher, who has been in the varsity since last year, is expected to move into a high berth on this year's crew, but also presented several of the entries from reaching the meet.

Principal feature of the tennis team's campaign this year will be a week's trip to the North. The team will leave Durham the weekend of April 19 and will return seven days later. On the trip they will meet teams in New York, Pennsylvania, and Maryland.

Durham Bulldogs In First Round Meet Richmond

Durham High school will meet John Marshall High school of Richmond, Virginia in the feature attraction of the first round of the Duke-Durham high school basketball tournament in the Duke gymnasium at 9:30 Thursday evening. Tournament pairings were announced on Sunday night, and the other two teams which will meet in the opening double-header of the first round are Greenville High school of Greenville, South Carolina, and Jefferson High of Roanoke, Virginia. These two teams will open the proceedings at 8 o'clock Thursday evening, while Durham and John Marshall round out the upper bracket.

First Round Games The other first round games will be played on Friday morning at 10 o'clock. The teams to meet are Lexington, Kentucky, it pitted against the University of Kentucky, and the first game of the first round at 11 a.m. will find Boys High of Atlanta, Georgia, and Roosevelt High of Washington, D. C. in action.

Preparations are moving in for the entertainment of the teams, and the Junior Chamber of Commerce is highly pleased with the selection of teams which will be represented in the tourney, for this year's group is perhaps the most select group to have accepted invitations in the three-year history of the affair.

All Teams Are Champs Six states and the District of Columbia are represented in this tournament, which will truly be the championship battle of the Southeastern seaboard states. In the upper bracket, there are no less than three state champions: Durham, Atlanta, and North Carolina tilters; Roanoke, Virginia, champions; and Greenville, state champs of South Carolina. All of the teams in the tourney are either state or district champions, and thus it is not safe to attempt any rating or to pick any favorite.

The semi-final games will be played at 8:00 and at 9:30 P.M. on Saturday night. (Continued on page 4)

Students Contribute Papers, Letters To Library Collection

Valuable Documents Received in Answer to Call By Historical Society for Copies of Local Records

Are you interested in knowing what life was like in 1827? Maybe not, but the Library thinks that sometime in the future it will receive a call for this kind of information, and thanks to Marvin A. Rapp and the Trinity College Historical Society this call will be answered by reference to the directory of the City of Buffalo for that year.

This directory is only one of a number of documents of historical value that have been received in answer to the December announcement that the library was interested in acquiring papers of this kind. Among the contributions are: a Day Book showing the transactions of a cross-roads General store, some valuable pre-Civil War southern periodicals, Statutes of Connecticut published in 1854 and the first issue of the Florida Golf News carrying an account of the first golf games to be played in the United States.

Commenting on the results of the drive, Dr. Nannie May Zilley, Assistant Curator of Manuscripts said that "although it was not certain that present-day students might show interest in the scheme, the results show that students of 1940 possess more discrimination regarding the collection of historical material than did students of 1930 when the plan was first tried.

The movement was originated by the Trinity College Historical Society as one of the activities of its semi-centennial year celebration. This organization which is one of the oldest intellectual organizations at Duke will enter its fifty-fifth year on April 4, 1941. One of the main tenets of this organization during its fifty years of growth has been to build up the Library. It was originated by Dr. John Spencer Bassett, and, after his departure in

Freshman Nine—

(Continued from page 3) The early part of last week saw the Imp hopefuls vie for favor in Coach Caldwell's eyes when they staged two inter-squad contests. The pitchers worked for half an inning each; and in these games did not have to worry about walks, for batters were not allowed to return to a free ticket to first base. The only way that they were able to get on base was by a legitimate base hit.

Each side was given six outs in a half inning, but after three outs the bases were cleared so Coach Caldwell was held down to a minimum.

Horowitz— (Continued from page 1) tip of his tongue, and he knows Italian and English to a slightly less degree.

Several items of particular interest will be offered on a program which will include piano works by Beethoven, Schumann, Chopin and Liszt. There are also short duets by Jeleznikoff, modern Russian composer, as the first performance in Durham and variations in a theme from Carmen, by Horowitz himself.

Aside from his infinite genius Horowitz is quite a normal human being, smoking little, drinking little, and fond of sleep. He has the peculiar quality of being able to go over a concert in his mind—usually corrected while going from concert to concert on the train—following the performance, he is as satisfied and exhausted as after a regular performance.

Although a child genius, he was not exploited by his parents or made to go through arduous piano training. His first piano lessons were not over-enthusiastically indulged in, and, until his parents discovered that he had learned the second complete set of "Tannhäuser," "Lohengrin," and "Parsifal" by heart at the age of ten did they realize his powers.

Inaccuracy Appears In Issue of March 4

An inaccuracy appeared in the March 4 issue of the Chronicle: Jimmie Walker in the second interest of the first candidate to run for SGA presidency on an independent ticket since payment of dues as a prerequisite for voting was announced by James G. Carr, of Washington, D. C., sent the office on an independent ticket in 1939.

Service Fund—

(Continued from page 1) Being acquainted with the Student Service program previously, he stated that funds have been administered honestly and efficiently. "No cause," he concluded, "offers a greater challenge to American youth."

Y. Councils Lead The West campus drive will be conducted this Friday when the Freshman and sophomore Y councils, the executive committee for the campaign, is headed by Don Simeier, Jack Binder and Babe Baker are leading the drive.

At a meeting yesterday afternoon, the Y councils volunteered to solicit funds for the drive. Freshman houses in the campus were canvassed by workers last night.

Church Groups Contribute All campus church groups have the campus have voted to give one Sunday's offering to the fund, and a number of student organizations have pledged contributions. The YNCA has already given $5 dollars. Fraternities and sororities will be approached for donations, other than those given by individual members.

The use for the plan was presented yesterday in senior men's assembly by Jo Bailey; similar presentations will be made in other class assemblies this week.

Varsity Track—

Handicapped by a bad cold, Werner Brown barely edged out a place in the 440, while But Willmott was fourth in the jump at 5 feet, 10. Ernie Vail won his qualifying heat in the 70-yard dash, but he pulled a muscle and couldn't compete in the finals.

Blaze of Glory—

"The crown is being imported from Baltimore," said Bob Long proudly.

Special Exhibit Put On Display By Chanticleer

A special exhibit showing art techniques and engraving processes used in the preparation of color yearbooks will be put on display tonight in the Dope shop window by the Chanticleer.

The display consists of two parts. One of which describes step-by-step the chemical processes which are necessary to produce the engravings used in yearbook make-up. A number of plates tell the story of engravings from the initial photograph to the completed line and letter. The second part of the display shows various "art techniques," or styles of engraving that are used in annuals similar to the Chanticleer.

The exhibit will remain in the Dope Shop until Friday when it will be transferred to the East campus.

Race Waxes—

The primary tenet of any political organization should be to represent the entire community—not the interest of any one faction or any one industry. "We are not interested in unanimity we have nominated one whom we sincerely believe to be the best qualified man to lead and be a true representative of the entire Duke student body."

"We have not shied away from the issue of the campus, but have asserted our intention to raise the power of the Student Council in the student body and the student body within the Student Council. To these objectives we are the greatest efforts and utmost abilities of the man who has been placed in nomination for President of the Duke Student Government association—Alex McLean."

Don Simeier and E. S. Denary, speaking on behalf of the "Blue Devils," said that "the Duke student body is not a political organization formed for the purpose of retrograding a man into any office. On the contrary, we are a representative committee composed of representatives from all campus groups, the same as the other two parties. After much discussion, we decided to throw our full support behind a man whom we believed to be best fitted to set as the executive head of our student body. We nominated as our candidate Larry Walker, who for several years has been one of the outstanding men in his class."

Walker himself proclaimed that "this movement is bigger than one man," and told of having been elected to "student council in action" at another school. "We have the nucleus of a group that can elect the SGA president."

Another Independent leader, George Trahas, branded as "utterly false and misleading" alleged statements that the party was connected with any fraternal or other campus organization, saying "The Independent party is just what its name implies."

At the pep rally held Monday night, the Independent party threw out its full support behind a man whom we believed to be best fitted to set as the executive head of our student body. We nominated as our candidate Larry Walker, who for several years has been one of the outstanding men in his class."

Other candidates of this campaign have had as their sole platform the policy of non-partisanship. They have urged present defects in our student government without advancing any constructive reforms. We of the Blue Combine, feel that a man should not be elected merely because he is able to recite a defect in the present organization. Consequently, we nominate and urge the students to support Larry Blanchard for next president of the SGA because we feel that on his own merits he is the man for this position."

We nominated as our candidate Larry Walker, who for several years has been one of the outstanding men in his class."

Sports Shots—

Captain Nick Moise deserves hearty congratulations for his third consecutive Carolina A. A. U. victory. "He was the only three-year winner in the meet, Tom Connolly is working on a Glanck shot in the afternoon... we see that George is ready to join his team. Our best wishes for their success in the national tourney at Madison, Wisconsin... as long as they don't run into a team like Duke, their chances are good."

A note of sadness was struck last week with the news of the death of Bill Sully, former Duke football player, in an airplane crash during a training flight in Texas. He was a Durham boy and now we hear that Durham's tankers was hot in the Duke-Durham tourney this week end.

Soccer Injuries

There is absolutely no sense in all of these infamously serious injuries. Teams from the same institution should be able to play a hard, fast, and clean game like soccer without so losing their collective tempers that hoarseness are broken or provoked. It seems that the referees have been inadequately protected for also.

Scholastic Order Initiates Eleven

Initiation of eleven freshmen women to Ivy, honorarian freshman scholastic order, was held last Tuesday in the President's Club room on East campus.

The ceremony was followed by a banquet in the Union dining hall for the old and new members. This was followed by an after-dinner coffee at which Miss Mary Grace Wilson, dean of freshmen, spoke on "Choosing One's Standards of Values."

Those initiated into the organization were Joyce Thayer, Shirley Seperson, Margaret Semple, Elizabeth Roberts, Elizabeth Lewis, Catherine Kaufman, Shirley Helms, Shirley Dickson, Deane Cox, Ruth Conner, and Virginia Bundy.

Music Club Hears Early Symphonies

The Music Study Club held its second program meeting of the semester recently. Betty Lutz, pianist, who was charged with giving a review of the early symphonies. Records of various symphonies characterized the program was used to illustrate her talk.

The constitution of this organization requires two meetings a month. At the last one it considered an informal Valley party.

night in Page auditorium, Independent Party spokesman Joe Tally said, in part:

"You men out there have had the courage to say that no longer will Duke SGA be the bad lands of the Duke student governments. Tally condemned the two campus bines as non-representative, and pleaded for continued enthusiasm among the White student body."

Walker himself proclaimed that "this movement is bigger than one man," and told of having been elected to "student council in action" at another school. "We have the nucleus of a group that can elect the SGA president."

N. C. Places Nine In Phi Eta Sigma

Five Durham Freshmen Make Qualifying Grades

Continuing its high record of past years, North Carolina placed nine freshmen in Phi Eta Sigma, national freshman scholastic honor group, Alan K. Manchester, dean of freshmen, announced today. Five boys from Durham High school were among this group.

Whereas only approximately 25 per cent of the class at Duke are Phi Eta Sigma members, this year, Dean Manchester stated, eight per cent of the class are Durham boys; sixteen per cent of the honor group are from Durham.

Pennsylvania ranked second in the number of boys elected to the group. Thirteen of the boys are from New York; the rest are scattered throughout the eastern states. Thirteen of the group come from below the Mason-Dixon line; fourteen are from the northeast.

Although a large per cent of the boys from outside North Carolina attended prep schools, only one of the nine North Carolinians was not graduated from a public high school.

Letters to the Chronicle—

(Continued from page 3) Also who aren't independent candidates being offered for all the offices which we will fill? Certainly these are naive questions asked among the independents for every office. Why does the self-appointed Executive Committee think that we should vote for just one candidate?

Speaking for the majority of independents, it looks to us as if the so-called independent candidate is really the candidate of a small group of men who are trying to play upon the independents to further their own ambitions. Therefore, I am appealing to all independents to consider carefully the qualifications of each candidate before they vote for any candidate and not to rush to the polls and like a flock of innocent sheep vote for some candidate merely because he doesn't belong to a fraternity.
