

Enlisted Reserve Corps Faces Active Duty Call On Monday

Army Air Corps Members Expect Immediate Call

All members of the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps will receive their calls to active duty beginning Monday, February 8, if not before, according to a long distance telephone call to the 4th Army Service Commission in Atlanta by defense coordinator A. S. Brewer last night.

Previously Dean Herff had read to the special assembly yesterday a letter from the headquarters of the Army Air Corps in Washington, dated January 27, which stated that Army Air Corps Reservists would be called to active duty in "the immediate future."

Members of the Army ERC will be given a period of two weeks before reporting to their designated Army reception centers. Officials of the commission claim that Brewer stated that they had received all the necessary information and authority from Washington to proceed with the actual sending of the calls to the Enlisted Reservists of the Army Air Corps. They reported that the organization was being set up immediately and that calls would reach the reservists approximately by Monday, February 8.

One important change was announced in the Army Enlisted Reserve plan. The article of the plan previously published dealing with the deferment from immediate call of all those taking "Technical Engineering courses" has been broadened to include all students majoring in chemistry, physics, or mathematics. The technical engineering course previously had been construed to mean only engineering students.

The letter from the Army Air Corps headquarters gave no definite statement for the calling up of the Air Corps Reservists other than the general phrase "the immediate future." Excerpts from the letter follow:

"It is regretted that the exigencies of war have now made it necessary to call to active duty members of the Army Air Corps Enlisted Reserve, including those who have been deferred to complete, as far as possible, their college education. It is contemplated that all members of the Enlisted Reserve over the age of 21 will be called in the immediate future except those who have commenced a semester, term, or quarter before December 31.

"The new rushing rules, a drastic revision of the former system whereby fraternities were forced to rush below average men at the expense of the regular rush week, provide for a definite distinction between Coverage and non-Coverage men in the lists of eligible rushes, as well as the lists of men pledged.

"The problem of possible intimation of non-Coverage men prior to their having attained their averages which arose during discussions between the special committee and the rush week committee was solved by an agreement on the part of the fraternal organizations that no request for permission to initiate these below average men during the rush semester.

"General rushing rules governing fraternity-fraternity rushes during the week which began Monday at 2 p.m., and continues through Tuesday night at 5 o'clock are virtually identical to last year's rules.

"The new rushing rules permitting the rushing of all freshmen regardless of grades at the same time follow:

(1) The Freshman Office will deliver twenty copies of Coverage freshmen Wednesday, February 3, at 4 p.m. to the president of the council. The council master list of freshmen concerned for withdrawal is to be received by the freshmen office by the same time.

(2) Invitations will be mailed by fraternities on Thursday afternoon to the freshmen who are to arrange rushing dates on Sunday, February 7, from 2 to 5 p.m.

Baccaloni Sings Here Next Week

Complete program of the selections to be sung by Metropolitan Opera comedian Salvatore Baccaloni in Page auditorium on Monday at 8:15 p.m. was released today by J. Foster Barnes, choir director and manager of the All-star Concert series.

The marriage scene from act 3 of "Don Pasquale" by Gaetano Cappuccini will be the first number. Setting for the action as described in the program notes states: No sooner has the false marriage between the elderly Don Pasquale and Norina been performed than the husband finds he has a wildcat on his hands. The climax comes when he discovers a note purposedly dropped by Norina as she left the room, which reveals that she is on her way to a lover's trial. In despair, Don Pasquale turns to his friend, Dr. Malatesta, who advises that they follow and trap the guilty pair. The leading role of Don Pasquale is, of course, played by the Italian star Baccaloni.

The second feature is the twenty scene from act 3 of Modeste Mounoursky's "Boris Godounov" in which the inkeeper, singing of the pleasures of rural life, is interrupted by the arrival of three monks, Varlam, Mislai, and Gregory. The latter claims that the story of the assassination of the Czar is untrue, and he is the prince in disguise. After much drunken banter, Varlam (played by Baccaloni) sings the aria "The Russian Song."

Jan Struther May Cancel Contract Here

Jan Struther, author of the best seller, "Mrs. Miniver," scheduled to appear in the Women's college auditorium on Tuesday, February 11, may not be able to fulfill her contract because of transportation difficulties, Audrey Bracken, president of the Student Forum, announced yesterday.

Mrs. Struther is scheduled to speak in Greensboro, N. C., on February 10. She refuses to take the late evening train to Durham because of the danger to her health, and she does not wish to use the bus if no other means of transportation can be arranged for her, and she will not take the bus, she can break her contract with the health clause which is included in the contracts of all speakers who appear at Duke.

No plans have been made as yet for a substitute. A natural, easy, and charming speaker, Mrs. Struther is small, dark-haired, and very attractive in appearance. She describes herself as a "Lowland Scot" which may not be far from the fact that she has none of the reserve associated with the English.

"Mrs. Miniver" catapulted Mrs. Struther to fame in a very short time, and the movie adaptation of her book established her characters of her book.

The title of the lecture will be "A Pocketful of Possibilities," but she is also expected to discuss the characters of her book.

Her husband, Mr. Struther, patterned the Minivers after her own family, and as a result, to her public Jan Struther is Mrs. Miniver.

Klubmen Sign Contract For WSAW Dances

Charley Switzer's Kappa Psi Klubmen have signed a contract with the WSAW to play a series of week-end and Wednesday night A.V. dances commencing Saturday night, John Hanford, chairman of the WSAW, announced today.

The contract provides that the Klubmen play for dancing Wednesday night from 7 to 9 p.m. and one night each week-end from 7:30 to 10 p.m. In addition, the Klubmen will resume last year's practice of holding occasional late A.V. dances in Union. This year's concerts will be held in the Ball room instead of the lobby of the Union.

Sammy Fletcher's Duke Ambassadors have also volunteered to play occasional concerts in the Union, the social chairman said. "Both bands can feel free to do so at any time."

"The real ticket to success was awarded to the Klubmen," he said, "in view of the fact that they handled the matter all last season and the fact that it was for the best interest of the campus that two bands be maintained."

"The WSAW committee was very pleased by the fine spirit displayed by the Klubmen towards our spring social program."

Twelve Seniors, Three Alumni Elected To Phi Beta Kappa

Mid-year Phi Beta Kappa elections Wednesday resulted in the addition of twelve seniors and three alumni to the membership rolls of the national scholastic society's Duke chapter.

In the order of scholastic rank, those tapped into the honorary group were Stephen C. Clark, independent from High Point, N. C.; John W. Carr, III, Alpha Tau Omega, Durham; Barbara Fries Harrison, Alpha Phi, Buffalo, N. Y.; Thomas O. Folger, independent, Jacksonville, Fla.; Matthew S. Rask, Sigma Nu, Pittsburgh.

Also elected were George Way Harley, '16, medical missionary in Ganta, Liberia; William A. Abrams, '16, professor of English at Appalachian State Teachers' college; and Purman Gordon McLarty, '27, instructor at the University of Wisconsin.

New members will be initiated at a dinner in the sick gym on sale in Men's Union April 6, and at that time will hear an address by Dr. Freeman C. Swadlow, '26, a member of the local chapter, who is now head of the German department at the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. McLarty, a former Rhodes scholar, has been a member of the Phi Beta Kappa membership since eight years, having received his A.B. in 1927, his M.A. from Harvard, and his Ph.D. here in 1937.

Dr. James Cannon, III, secretary of the local chapter, yesterday indicated a possibility that some students with the required 2.25 quality point average over 90 hours of work at Duke university will be overbooked in the election year.

Dr. Cannon, however, stated that the requirement for initiation had been waived as a special wartime policy over other 90 requirements for membership remained unchanged. However, students unable to receive eligible grades as a result of departmental work may still be eligible for membership.

Wednesday's election was the third of three conducted yearly. The next schedule will take place during commencement week in May.

Sandals-BOS Schedule Dance For Saturday

Sandals-B.O.S. informal dance, first event on the WSAW list of social affairs for this semester, will be held Saturday, February 12, from 8 to 12 p.m. in the Women's college gymnasium. Sammy Fletcher's chapter master will play for the dances.

According to Bob Niemann, chairman the dance, there will be limited decorations following a Valentine theme. "There will be a great surprise," Niemann said, "a specialty feature in line with the date of the dance." He pointed out that the dances will be the first at which normal relations can be seen between freshmen and fraternities men.

Special arrangements have been made with the Durham Bell Company for late transportation back to West campus after the dance.

Charles Blanchard, BOS president, said that any proceeds from the dance will go to the two organizations to pay for the services rendered to the campus and to cover the expenses of their other activities.

Coeds Experience Surprise Blackout

As a rehearsal for a pending statewide blackout, the East campus underwent blackout and air raid sirens Thursday night, first of the semester.

The practice drill was under the supervision of Julia R. Gross and Natalie Smith, faculty assistant air raid wardens, who sounded the alarm. They emphasized efficiency, rather than speed, as they rehearsed the drill.

Under the direction of Chief Warden Jane Hall, the attending faculty and students of the dormitory and all lights are extinguished.
