

All Sorts in Sports

By BILL SCHUCHARDT

The question of the week in sports circles south of the Mason-Dixon line is the stand that the Southern conference officials now meeting in Richmond will take on the matter of freshmen participation in varsity athletics. Last fall the problem was put to a vote with the final tabulations showing that the league members preferred the prevailing system of using only upperclassmen in intercollegiate competition. But the agitation has started anew with the passage of the new draft law providing for the selection of the eighteenth and nineteenth year olds for service in the armed forces. All schools have felt the blow. The big and the small have been crippled alike.

The proponents of the new plan contend that the pinch will be felt much more strongly in the days to come and we are inclined to agree with them. They argue that any Southern conference gridiron crew could have used a freshman star like Georgia Tech's Clint Castleberry, but then on the other hand, it is not often that a dream like that drops into a coach's lap. We are willing to string along with the strategists that believe the introduction of yearlings into regular competition would be accompanied by an influx of the well-known "framp athletes." Many schools have been plagued by them in the past—but the Southern conference on the whole has been comparatively free of this stigma.

But to localize the entire issue to Duke, the problem still remains as to whether or not the athletic powers on the campus would permit first year men to compete with the varsity. There are definite advantages to be gained by permitting a freshman to adjust himself to his new college surroundings and to gain a year of seasoning before attempting to fit him into a fast-moving machine. The roster of the Blue Imps always contains names of performers from widely-scattered sections of the country with a divergence of past coaching and experience. Even if the conference makes it legal for the frosh to take part in regular competition, there is still the question as to whether or not they would be permitted to perform with the Blue Devils.

The future of intercollegiate football in this section of the country will also be clarified at the Richmond meeting. There may be some changes in the grid setup at all the loop schools before another pigskin season. We look for the schedule to be drastically curtailed in the face of transportation restrictions with the majority of the Blue Devil contests not yet to be played within the confines of the Old North State. We are certain that some action will be taken to prevent the wholesale scheduling of inter-sectional games for Southern conference institutions.

Burns Wins Most Valuable Player Award

Devils Seeking Third Straight S. C. Crown

By Art Jaffey

When the 1942 edition of Coach Eddie Cameron's Blue Devils trots onto the basketball court of Duke's spacious indoor stadium Thursday evening against the Carolina Pre-flight quintet, the dribblers in Blue will be starting a campaign in quest of their third straight Southern conference title.

Sporting a 478 average in fourteen years of basketball under the tutelage of Coach Cameron, Duke basketball teams have won either state honors, conference honors, or both, in nine of those seasons. Cameron's coaching record at Duke reads 229 games won and 99 contests lost. Last year's record, including three Southern conference tournament wins, was twenty-five victories against only two defeats, one to the Temple Owls and the other to George Washington's Colonials in a return engagement.

Cameron does not teach any particular style of play, but adapts his system to the material on hand. Some of his clubs have used the "fast break" offense; others have stressed defense. This year the Blue Devils have been always invited to participate in the Southern conference tournament, the Cameron-coached outfit will be favored of more competition after the scheduled season close. The Duke courtiers once again play George Washington in a home and home series. The games between these two schools have always produced some of the best basketball in the conference. Wake Forest, Carolina, N. C. State, and the Carolina Pre-flighters will also be met twice during the season.

Potter Announces Wrestling Matches

The varsity wrestling team will be built around the four remaining lettermen, Bill Haines, Weddie Huffman, Roy Smart, and Wick Richardson. Augmenting the efforts of these four will be two men from last year's freshman squad, Bill Lambeth and Roy Einar.

The varsity will face V. P. 1 here on January 9 for the first match of the season. Last year the boys from Duke only took two out of eight matches from V. P. 1, to lose the meet by a decisive score. The only bright feature in the picture is that both men who gained falls over the V. P. 1 grapplers last year are back to team with them again. Another match definitely scheduled for Potter's charges is with the University of North Carolina there on January 16. Tentative matches have been scheduled with N. C. State, Davidson, V. M. I., and Carolina Pre-flight. Negotiations for these matches are still underway.

The prospects for this year's team look better than they have for a good many seasons. Last (Continued on page 4)

Blue Imps Face Durham Bulldogs

Coach Herschel Caldwell will show his Blue Imp eagerness for the first time this Thursday when the freshmen will square off with the Durham high school Bulldogs in the preliminary to the varsity tilt with the Carolina Pre-flighters.

After turning out one of the best freshman football teams in Duke history, Caldwell might follow up with an equally superb basketball five.

Although the schedule has not been completed yet, the freshmen play preliminaries before all home games in the past.

Caldwell will be working with a full team this year. Of the starting five, four of the boys will probably be over six feet tall. The four men who seem to be choices for starting berths are Ken Turner, Doug Aultman, Jesse Collins, and Jack McManis. Clark Jones, high scorer at Richmond last year, holds the inside track for the other position. Aulon is a ball-walker of the highest caliber, besides being a good passer and a steady floor man.

Other men are also showing up. John DeBor is a set-shot artist who may crowd out one of the other youngsters. John Blane, Howard Hartley, and Ed Little of the football team will make strong bids for berths.

From this wealth of material Caldwell may organize an effective two-team system. In any event prospects for the team are very encouraging.

Tom Burns, the reconverted guard on the 1942 edition of the Blue Devils, will be awarded the Noble Arnold Trophy as the Most Valuable Player on the Duke grid eleven months after the demise of a forthcoming varsity basketball game.

Devils Outpoint Their Opponents In Season's Final Statistics

By Bob Johnston

The Blue Devils again reign supreme over all their opponents in the final statistics for the regular finished football season. Although their record of victories and losses stands at five wins, four losses and one tie, the Devils' record in the overtime game was only 22-12. By scoring 211 points in the ten game season, while their opponents were only able to score 88. In net yards gained the Devils led their opponents by more than 80 yards per game, averaging 177.5 per game while the opposing forces were only averaging 99.5.

In the field of passing that has been "cussed and discussed" the Blue Devils during the past season, the Devils didn't do badly. Out of 117 passes attempted, the Devils completed 41 for a record of 37.7 percent. The enthusiasm with which the Duke teams went on the field is shown by the number of penalties incurred by them.

There is this, the final round-up of figures for the current season. They show well that Duke was a powerful team but just could not coordinate its efforts.

Davis Places Second As Fans Cast A Total Of 1935 Ballots

Following in the paths blazed by such Duke football greats as Eric Tipton, George McFee, and Ace Parker in past years, Tom Burns polled 906 votes out of a total of 1935 ballots cast for this year's Blue Devil gridiron star of the week. Burns was the first place honor in the contest for the Arnold Award to the Most Valuable Player on Coach Eddie Cameron's first quintet crew.

Leading his nearest competitor, fullback Tommy Davis, by more than 400 votes, Burns was the tenth Blue Devil gridiron favorite to be honored since the initial trophy went to Duke's first All-American, tackle Fred Crawford, after the completion of the 1935 campaign.

A senior this year, Burns started out the season in the quarterback post for the Blue Devils, but after the Wake Forest debacle was moved up to the guard slot at which he won his letter in 1941, in an effort to bolster the weak forward wall. It was largely through the efforts of

Although the reconverted Burns that the Duke front line was changed from a few shreds of tissue paper into a line of steel that thwarted the rushing attack of opponents.

A native of North Carolina, Burns calls Winston-Salem home although he lived in Asheville long enough to win all-state football honors at an end post on the high school eleven. His brother, Gordon, is remembered by Duke grid fans as the rugged center on the 1939 Blue Devil squad.

In addition to carrying on the gridiron, Burns is a stalwart on Coach Jack Cocke's varsity basketball team at third base. Boasting one of the best batting averages of anyone on the squad, he is one of the most popular men on the nine.

The trophy will be presented by Noble Arnold, local theatre manager and sponsor of the contest, to Burns between halves of a varsity basketball game after the Christmas holidays.

Army, Navy Reserves Remain Open For Students Until December 15

Students who began proper registration for enlistment in the armed reserve prior to December 15 still have four days in which to complete the process of enlistment before the reserves are finally closed on December 15. A. B. Brower, co-ordinator of defense, announced yesterday. Requirements of proof of intention to enter the armed reserve prior to December 15 were given by the service, the Army Air Corps and the Army Medical Reserve Corps. A student is not to be considered a student in the process of enlistment if he has no possession of documents indicating that prior to December 15 he (1) secured a letter of authority from the dean's office, or (2) requested parental consent, or (3) partially completed AOS application form No. 165, or (4) requested release from his draft board.

The Naval V-1 and V-7 reserves are open to students who have letters from the dean's office dated on or prior to December 5, or had taken such other steps as would indicate enlistment in process on or before December 5.

Naval V-1 and V-7 enlistment may be completed at the Raleigh Navy Officer Procurement office only. Army and Army Air Corps enlistments may be effected at the Raleigh Recruiting office.

Club Releases Contest Rules

Rules for the Erasmus club prize in the Humanities were announced in the Wednesday night meeting of the faculty members in the humanities organization which will apply to all essays which must be delivered to Dr. Homer H. Dubs, club president, by April 15 to compete for the prize.

The rules are as follows: 1. Prize is given to an undergraduate for the best essay embodying the results of research, criticism, or evaluation on some subject in the humanities. The prize is $25.00.

All essays must be typewritten.

2. Contestants should consult with some member of the faculty, preferably with their major professor, about their essay, before submitting it.

3. Essays must be submitted to the president of the club before April 15.

4. The president will appoint a committee of three persons, chosen from those who represented with the fields of work represented. They shall have power to accept other persons, if they consider such a provision necessary for the purpose of evaluating those essays.

5. The club reserves the right to withhold the prize in case there are no essays of acceptable quality.

Classified Ads Replace Board

The worn and battered bulletin board in the Union Post Office on its way out as the first sign of the university and the forum of campus humorists.

Its duties are mercifully being taken over, loose, stock, and via permit a student to compose an advertisement in the Chronicle. From now on, the optimist who is searching a ride home, the unfortunate student who has lost his Phil Bete key, and the irresponsible campus humorist who just wants to be funny will find their lines in the classified advertising column of the Chronicle, rather than looking them out to the netting of one of the famous bulletin boards.

The column is prepared to accept any kind of classified advertisement—Lost and Found, Tutoring, Photographs, For Sale, Brides Here, Blind Dates—all will have a place in this new service. Rates are stated at fifty cents for one to twenty words, seventy-five cents for twenty to thirty-five words, one dollar for thirty-five to fifty words.

Students who desire to give the campus notices of their needs, even if it be only the securing of a blind date, may write their notices in the bulletin board of the Chronicle, Duke Station, stating the number of insertions desired, the address, and the name and address. The ad will then appear before the entire campus, rather than just the select few devotees of the obsolete trading post in the Union.

Episcopals Plan Christmas Supper

Annual Episcopalian Christmas carol party will be held in the Ark Sunday night, beginning at 8:30 p.m., featuring a "Schmorgastord" (Swedish buffet) supper, and the presentation of the traditional Christmas songs.

Co-chairmen for the affair are Jennie Fritzelle and Wright Dixon. They will be assisted by other members of the Episcopalian student body.

Calling the Schmorgastord "one of the most popular events on the Episcopal calendar," the co-chairmen have invited Episcopal faculty members and all campus Episcopals to attend.

(Continued from page 3) year the grapplers only managed to make one victory out of the season. This came when the Devil Grunt and Grouse from the University of Maryland Old Line and downed them, 14-12. This victory was the second that the grapplers had gained since 1924.

Huffman, 1941 Southern conference champion in the 165 pound division, was out of competition in this class last year but will be back in his old 165 pound slot this year and ready for action.

Eighty Alumnae Serve In Forces

Approximately eighty Duke alumnae are in various branches of the armed forces which are now accepting women, according to information released recently by Dean Allan B. Baldwin's office.

Broken down into figures, which are far from complete, there are twenty women enrolled in the WAVES, some of which already hold commissions as ensigns. The women are known to have joined the WAVES and are now holding the commission of second lieutenants or are attending OCS. Forty Duke nurses, holding the commission of second lieutenants, are in the Army Nurses Corps and one nurse is in the Navy Nurses Corps. Two or perhaps three women are in the foreign Red Cross service. At least one and probably two women are in the ground crew of the Ferry Command.

Duke women in the WAVES are already registering men in the procurement offices throughout the United States.

As soon as possible, the Alumnae Register is planning to print a listing of the names of these women.

Math Fraternity Nominates Eight

Pi Mu Epsilon, honorary mathematics fraternity, last night initiated eight faculty and student members into the organization.

Blake Fawcett, Francis Lymis, Jean Cox, Mary Louise Merrick, Fred Vanderlinde, and Gary Schoenman, students, and Dr. Philip Maker and Mrs. E. A. Purkle, faculty members, were chosen to membership.

Qualifications for initiation to membership in Pi Mu Epsilon include a "B" average in mathematics plus a "C" average in all courses.

Last night's meeting of the group included a talk by Professor W. J. Sealey of the department of electrical engineering, College of Engineering.

OCD's Air Raid Course Completed

Final meeting in the series of aerial precaution and first aid lectures was held last night at the WAVES, some of which already hold commissions as ensigns. The women are known to have joined the WAVES and are now holding the commission of second lieutenants or are attending OCS. ## BOS Commission Collects Points

Officials of Beta-Omega Sigma, local sophomore honor society leadership, have asked again that all heads of organizations of the school meet and working should turn in their points for BOS credit prior to the commencement of the Christmas holidays.

Organizational leaders may turn their points for freshmen participating in the various extracurricular activities over to members of the BOS point commission. Dick Gilbert, chairman, stated, "It is important that all points be turned over to him Baldwin, Kenneth Gubbin, Allan Grayson, Robert Lippe, Rogers Rimer, or Watson Stewart, committee members. Points should be turned in on official registry sheets provided by the honorary fraternity."

BOS at the present time is completing plans for augmented activities during the spring semester, details of which will be announced at a later date.

Coeds Buy Bonds Worth Over $7,450

Exceeding all expectations, the university community purchased over $7,450 worth of war bonds and stamps during the nationwide "Women in the War Week" drive conducted from November 22 to 28.

This amount swelled the Durham county total to $126,000. The campaign was headed by Lee Randall, student chairman of the drive, announced today. Participating in their first official campus affair, freshmen women received over $4,000 for bonds and stamps; $2,925 of this amount consists of bonds bought by various campus organizations, including the $2,000 bond bought by the WBSA.

One hundred seventy-eight freshmen in defense stamps and stamp corners were sold by the freshmen from booths in the Union and at the Sunday night sing; $42.60 was spent in the West Duke Union for stamp corners which were worn at the Coed ball.

Members of the Duke faculty put $250 into bonds that week through their payroll allotment plan. Mrs. W. S. Persons, chairman of the Duke community committee, announced.

She praised the community for its fine spirit of cooperation in the drive.

Political Science Meeting Cancelled

Professors Robert E. Wilson and Paul H. Clyde of the department of political science and history, respectively, have been notified recently that the thirty-eighth annual session of the American Political Science Association, planned for Chicago later this month, has been cancelled as a result of the war.

Dr. Wilson is a member of the committee on nomination of officers for 1943 of the APSA, and Dr. Clyde was to have addressed a forum group as one of a number of speakers on "Problems of the Pacific." An authority on European problems, the latter has written several books about the subject and has traveled widely through the Orient.

The move was taken by the APSA at the request of the Office of Defense Transportation to limit non-vital traffic on the national railroads during the 30-day period from December 15, 1942, to January 15, 1943.

Officers, Coeds To Meet At Dance

Duke women and Camp Butler and Army Finance School officers will meet in the third of a series of informal tea dances to be held tomorrow evening, 8.30 o'clock, in the Crystal ballroom of the Washington Duke hotel, with music furnished by Jimmie Muller and his orchestra.

The dance, featured by Christmas decorations and a cabaret feature during intermission, has been planned by the Camp Butler day committee, under Mrs. T. P. Southgate, chairman. It will be stressed that the dance was not a benefit ball. Hostesses will be officers' wives and committee members.

Methodist Flats' Not a Misnomer

Modern day Duke, though not nearly so strong a pillar of Methodism as was old Trinity college, nevertheless has a fair share of Methodist students. Ranks of its undergraduate men, for dear's office figure reveal that there are 435 followers of John Wesley enrolled in the Engineering and Trinity College of Engineering.

More than one-fourth of all Duke students are members of the Methodist church.

Faculty Members Plan Yule Party

Members of Duke's faculty will hold their annual Christmas party on Monday, December 21, officials of the university faculty club announced last night.

For the first time in years, faculty members will meet in the Union ballroom for their campus holiday celebration after a student entertainment has appeared on the group's program. The faculty members will eat dinner beginning at 6:45 p.m., and will later adjourn to Page auditorium for after-dinner entertainment. Charles Dukes of the department of public relations, in charge of the program for the evening, said yesterday that a number of "surprise events" would be in store for the assembled group, including card singing and special Christmas skits.

Oxonian To Speak To Church Group

Professor L. A. Gardiner, university instructor from Free-town, West Africa, will speak Sunday night at 8:45 o'clock in the series of informal tea dances to be held tomorrow evening, 8.30 o'clock, in the Crystal ballroom of the Washington Duke hotel, with music furnished by Jimmie Muller and his orchestra.

The dance, featured by Christmas decorations and a cabaret feature during intermission, has been planned by the Camp Butler day committee, under Mrs. T. P. Southgate, chairman. It will be stressed that the dance was not a benefit ball. Hostesses will be officers' wives and committee members.

The quartet of the North Carolina College for Negroes will present a program during the Christmas meeting in one of three large meetings of the group held each year. Meetings with representatives of Duke, UNC, and North Carolina College for Negroes in attendance are held alternately at the campuses of Duke and University of North Carolina.
