Leroy Lewis, instructor in speech, was elected new year's meeting which is to be held in Jackson, Miss.

The annual college debate tournament which was held in conjunction with the Atlanta meeting in Atlanta, Ga., was won by the Duke team under the coaching of Mr. Lewis. The tournament technically ended in a tie between Duke and Marvline, Tenn. Teachers College, defeating in order the University of Florida, Southern Methodist University, Furman, University of Alabama, and Texas Tech. The Duke team was never the less given the tournament trophy for having won a superior number of points.

Representing Duke were Sam Holton, Ed Braxwell, and Bill Vanderpool. Vanderpool served the finale in the extemporaneous speaking contest and reached as parliamentarian in the tournament congress.

Twenty-eight colleges from fourteen states were represented at the congress, and the total number of participants were one hundred and fifty-five.

Gardens Speed-Up, Too

Not to be outdone by the other departments of the University in their wartime speed-up program, the Sarah P. Duke Memorial Garden is staging an acceleration program of its own.

The garden this year is running far ahead of schedule in coming forth with a spring floral display somewhat earlier than usual. Early spring flowers, budding and flowering shrubs, and green grass highlight the program offered by the garden.

During the next six weeks thousands of visitors from all parts of the country will throng the walks to examine hundreds of varieties of flowers to be featured. Above are typical views which will greet crowds during the flowering period of the 39-acre tract.

Barnes Expresses Appreciation Of Glee Club's Fine Reception

By Joe Dillona

“The most successful trip we’ve ever had,” said the chucry but exhausted J. Foster Barnes, in a comments interview yesterday, refers to his just-completed Men's Glee club trip.

Then going on enthusiastically, the “Bishop” proceeded to recount some of the more interesting incidents which occurred during the five-day trip.

“One of the most amusing happened during the Sunday broadcast over CBS. The broadcast was scheduled to last from 2:15 to 12:30 p.m. Midway through the program an all raid alarm interfered with reception and killed out the Glee club's rendition of ‘The Lost Chord.’ I imagine that was the first time that ‘The Lost Chord’ was really ever heard,” said the Glee club maestro.

“During our visit to New York, the club made records for entrance in the Fred Waring National Glee club contest. The contest is in two stages. First there are eight district competitions. The district winners are then awarded a three-day trip to New York with all expenses paid. During this visit the eight Glee clubs will appear in Carnegie Hall for final judging. The contest will be over some time in May,” continued Mr. Barnes.

“One of my personal enjoyments was my meeting with Mr. Wendell Wilkie who was staying at the same hotel, the Hotel Ambassador. I met Mr. Wilkie in the lobby and was very much impressed by him,” added Mr. Barnes.

Mr. Barnes has been receiving cards, letters, and telegrams from points as far distant as Oregon and Texas congratulating him on the excellence of his broadcast.

Perhaps the strangest however, came from an eighty year old music connoisseur, who says he is from “New (but unsafe) Haven.” In a wondrously eccentric fashion, the card rambles on about nothing particular until the very end. Then the unknown writer stops to thank Mr. Barnes for an hour of music that I have ever heard in many a day.”

“The intramural department, in somewhat rather more to the point, to abolish the nefarious practice of flipping coins to decide who will lose in the spring tournaments this year. This remedy was first suggested at a recent meeting of the I.M. managers of all the campus organizations. It is contended that the evil of flipping is the result of the mass entries of a few large fraternities who enter men by the thousands.”

In conclusion Mr. Barnes expressed his gratification at the trip reception with which his club was received at every corner and hoped that they could repeat the trip next year.
