

AN ADDRESS ON WORK

Mr. H. A. Page the Speaker at the Civic Celebration.

9019 HOLDS ITS ANNUAL BANQUET

Mr. Page the Guest of Honor—Several Toasts Given—The Impromptu Speakers—Those Present at the Dinner.

Washington's Birthday—last Friday—was observed at Trinity as a holiday, with the usual Civic Celebration exercises the purpose of which is to promote patriotism and better ideas of government and citizenship. The speaker of the evening was the Hon. Henry A. Page, of Aberdeen, a member of the Board of Trustees of Trinity, and one of the State's captains of industry—a hard-working man, very much interested in the development of his native State. Mr. Page took as the subject of his address "Work," and spoke, with much emphasis, of the need of North Carolina for creative workers to develop its resources and build it up. His address made no pretension toward fine literary style and fiery eloquence, but was strong, clear and practical and couched in plain and forceful language. The speaker was greeted by an audience somewhat smaller than is usually present on such an occasion, which showed its approval of his utterances by the loud applause which it gave as he took his seat.

The exercises began promptly at 8 o'clock with an invocation by President J. C. Kilgo. Mr. D. S. Murph then, in a few choice words, welcomed the audience on behalf of "9019," which had charge of the evening's program, and introduced the speaker. Mr. Page spoke for nearly an hour, holding the audience very closely to his remarks. His address was very much on the same lines as that of Mr. D. A. Tompkins, of Charlotte, who spoke here a little more than a year ago. The address will no doubt have influence on the young men who have not yet chosen their vocation.

ENTERTAINED AT DINNER.

After the exercises the speaker was entertained at a dinner, served at the cafe of the Durham Catering Co., which was given in honor of the speaker and the recently initiated members of the order. In addition to Mr. Page, the faculties of Trinity College and Trinity Park School were invited. The guests present were: Mr. H. A. Page, Drs. J. C. Kilgo, W. P. Few, Edwin Mims, W. H. Glasson, J. J. Wolfe, W. K. Boyd, and Professors R. L. Flowers, A. C. McIntosh, W. H. Wannamaker, A. M. Webb, A. H. Meritt, and W. S. Lockhart. The alumni members of the order present were: Messrs. W. W. Flowers, D. W. Newsom, W. I. Cranford, F. W. Gill, C. W. Edwards, J. P. Breedlove, D. S. Murph, H. M. North, and H. C. Satterfield. The active members present were:

CURRENT TOPICS.

The Program of the Science Club on Thursday Evening Consisted of Three Papers—Next Meeting March 8.

The Science Club met Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock and went through with a short program. Several of the members who were expected to read papers were not able to be present on account of sickness, and consequently the exercises were shorter than usual.

Current scientific topics were, in the main, the subjects of the papers read, it being the purpose of the club to keep its members as well informed as possible as to what is going on now in the scientific world. Alcohol has recently been much before the public, especially the so-called denatured kind, and a paper on "The Preparation of Alcohol," by Mr. C. B. Hicks, was very timely. Dr. J. J. Wolfe followed Mr. Hicks, speaking briefly on yeast which is used in the making of alcohol. Mr. C. B. Markham, president of the club, came next on the program with a paper on the construction and equipment of the British battleship, "Dreadnaught." "The Microscope" was discussed then by Mr. R. S. Brown.

The next meeting of the club will be on Friday evening, March 8. The program at that time will also be on current topics as there is much that is transpiring in scientific fields now that will interest the members of the organization.

Dr. Kilgo in South Carolina.

President Kilgo left Saturday for South Carolina and will be absent from the park for about ten days, spending the time visiting in his native State. He delivered an address Sunday at a meeting for men only held in the theater of Columbia. His subject was "The Christian Man in the Business World."

Messrs. C. B. Markham, J. A. Morgan, W. G. Puryear, W. A. Bryan, C. M. Campbell, Jr., Holland Holton, U. N. Hoffman, H. E. Spence, L. P. Wilson, R. S. Brown, E. O. Cole, W. V. McRae, S. A. Richardson, W. A. Stanbury, S. T. Thorne, and L. G. White.

During the evening a number of toasts were given. Headmaster North, of Trinity Park School, was toastmaster, and those who responded were Dr. W. I. Cranford on "Early Men of '9019," Mr. H. E. Spence on "The '9019 Goat," Mr. Holland Holton on "The Active '9019 Man," and Mr. L. G. White on "My First Impressions of '9019." The toastmaster then called for impromptu speeches and responses were had from Drs. Mims, Few, Glasson, Prof. Meritt, Mr. Page, and President Kilgo. The talks were all witty and were happily received by the guests and members of the order.

THE BEST IN THE SOUTH

Anne Roney Shakspeare Library Not Equalled South of Baltimore.

COLLECTION CONTAINS 729 VOLUMES

Many Different Texts and Editions in the Collection—Almost Every Book Necessary for a Minute Study Available.

The Shakspeare collection in the Trinity library is, with recent additions made to it, perhaps the best in the South. During the year 1903 Miss Anne Roney, of Durham, made a large donation to Trinity College for the purpose of buying all the works of and books about Shakspeare necessary. Since that time volume after volume has been added until now it is claimed by one who knows, that the Trinity College Library has the largest and best selected collection of books on this subject south of Baltimore.

There are in this lot of books, which is known as the "Anne Roney Collection," fifty-one complete sets of the poet's work. Some of these are copies of the earlier editions and some are translations into modern languages. The most significant are the editions edited by Pope in 1725 and 1728; by Theobald in 1733 and 1740, and also those issued a little later by Hanmer, Warburton, Capell and others. The library does not have a set of Nicholas Rowe's edition published in 1709, but it has instructed its buyers in Germany to purchase the same at the first opportunity.

There is no original folio in this collection for the reason that only a few are in existence, which makes it impracticable to obtain one. There is here, however, a facsimile reproduction of the first folio (1623) reproduced by the photolithographic method. All the plays of Shakspeare are included in this folio except Pericles. There are also in the collection facsimile copies of the folios published in 1664 and 1683 which contain all the works of the poet.

A large number of books containing the poems and sonnets only have been procured. Among these are the books edited by the critics of Shakspeare, and for reading they are especially handy when only one sonnet or poem is to be studied. Many copies of the plays printed in single volumes are also in this collection.

The collection contains many books that illustrate in some way the works of Shakspeare. These are especially useful when a thorough study of any of the plays is to be made. They give information about where the poet obtained his material, customs then in vogue, topical allusions, and in general all about the Elizabethan age that should be known to have a keen appreciation of the plays.

Besides these there are lexicons and dictionaries necessary for a

BECOMES A CORPORATION

South Atlantic Quarterly Placed on Firmer Footing—The Magazine in Good Condition.

The South Atlantic Publishing Company which issues The South Atlantic Quarterly has been incorporated. At a meeting of the stockholders, the following officers were elected: President, Prof. Robert L. Flowers; Vice-President, Dr. W. P. Few; Secretary and Treasurer, Dr. W. H. Glasson. The Board of Directors was elected consisting of R. L. Flowers, chairman; W. H. Glasson, Secretary; W. P. Few, Edwin Mims and H. M. North.

The stockholders of the company are R. L. Flowers, W. P. Few, W. H. Glasson, Edwin Mims, F. S. Aldridge, A. M. Webb, W. F. Gill, W. K. Boyd, D. W. Newsom, W. I. Cranford, H. M. North.

The report of the Business Manager which was submitted at this meeting showed the magazine to be in a most encouraging condition. The increase in the subscription list during the last few months has been most gratifying. Drs. Edwin Mims and William H. Glasson will continue as Editors under the new organization.

Historical Publication from the Press.

The publication of the historical society, the contents of which was given a few weeks ago, is now out. It is a larger pamphlet than the one issued last year, the number of pages which it contains being 102. A copy will be given to each member of the society and non-members can obtain copies for fifty cents each.

minute study of the texts.

In a separate division are a number of the most authentic biographies of Shakspeare. A proper knowledge of a poet's life cannot be over estimated when a study of his works is to be made, and realizing this, the library obtained all the best books written on this score. In another division are a number of volumes dealing with his works from a critical standpoint.

Perhaps the best editions for the study of Shakspeare's plays are the Henry Irving and the Variorum. All the facts necessary about the plays, notes, etc can be found in these. The best of the two is the Variorum edition edited by H. H. Furness. It is very comprehensive, there being sometimes two large volumes for a single play, such as for Hamlet. These two sets are always to be found on the reference shelf.

It is possible to say just how much the splendid collection is worth, as many of the volumes are rare and cannot be purchased at any price now; but at the least estimate it is worth several thousand dollars. All told there are seven hundred and twenty-nine volumes.

WHAT A PILGRIM FINDS

Old Trinity a Place of Sacred Memories and Charms.

THE SCHOOL THERE PAST AND PRESENT

Name of Literary Society Changed to the Braxton Craven—Seven Teachers now Comprise the Faculty—The School's Needs.

There are two places in the State to which loyal sons of Trinity College direct their steps. The one is designated as Old Trinity and the other Trinity, Durham. Though the one be like winter morn and the other like summer brave, the old should not be scorned on account of its age, nor should the new be overlooked on account of its youth. Those who really love their alma mater do not despise her crude beginnings and separate her past from her present, but recognize her life as one.

Old Trinity will ever be a sacred spot to many who were under the tutelage of the immortal Craven, so subtle is the power of a great human soul in making the waste places blossom, to the inner consciousness, as the rose.

One who makes a pilgrimage to the Old Trinity does not find as many changes as he expects. The college buildings, with its thick, massive walls, still stands up and takes the morning as bravely, apparently, as it did half a century ago. A campus, comprising fourteen acres, much of which is shaded by stalwart oaks, surrounds, as formerly, the college building. Spring brings a charm to this spot unsurpassed by any other campus in the State.

Since the removal of Trinity College in 1892 this property has been used by the Trinity High School. The school has had a varied history since it has been under the keeping of several different men since its beginning. Dark and direful have been the predictions in regard to its future, but that it still exists seems to prove that it has within it the power to renew its youth.

Strong and useful men have guided the affairs of the Trinity High School since 1892. Among this number have been Revs. J. F. Heiman, T. A. Smoot, J. F. Kirk, and Dr. Geo. B. Pogram.

In 1902 the High School property was leased to Prof. J. T. Henry. Upon the resignation of Prof. Henry in December last the property passed again into the hands of the Board of Trustees of Trinity College. The Board of Trustees of Trinity College is represented by a local board, composed of Revs. S. B. Turrentine, D. D., Chm.; Dr. Dred Peacock, Sec. and Treas., and Dr. W. G. Bradshaw. Rev. B. F. Hargett, Financial Agent of the institution, was given authority to act as headmaster and select a faculty. The following seven teachers now compose the faculty:

How about those good resolutions made just after examinations?

It may be that there will be a great exodus from the academic department to the law department next year as it is claimed that the average North Carolina lawyer's day's work is only three hours.

Mr. Benjamin R. Lacy, Jr., of Raleigh, a graduate of Davidson College, has been selected as the Rhodes scholar from North Carolina for 1907. We congratulate both Mr. Lacy and his alma mater on his appointment to this scholarship.

Students are not required to attend the public lectures given here, but it is expected that when addresses are given that the students will avail themselves of the opportunity to hear men of prominence who are proficient in their line. Non-attendance is an injustice, first to the man himself; to the faculty who provide these lectures, and also a lack of courtesy to the speakers.

We wish to call special attention to the article on the Shakspeare collection, printed elsewhere in this issue. About all the books that could be desired have been placed within the reach of all. If you are a Shaksperian student you ought to feel the need of these books; and if you are not of this type, you ought to at least look at and handle some of these books before leaving college.

The Wake Forest Weekly is with us again. In size and mechanical make-up it is about what it was last spring. It is published by the athletic association during the spring term only of each year. For a college publication it contains a great deal too much outside matter. If it were cut down from an eight-page to a four-page sheet containing only news of the college, it would be a much better paper, in our opinion. However, we congratulate it on making its appearance again as we had feared that it was not to be resurrected.

Sam Jones' Life and Sayings.

The friends and ardent admirers of Rev. Sam P. Jones will doubtless be glad to learn that there has just been issued a volume containing a full account of his life, with many of his most striking and famous sayings included. The book is written by his wife, assisted by Rev. Walt Holcomb, a co-worker of Mr. Jones. This is the only authorized and authentic work relating to the remarkable and unique man. The book is written in a simple, unadorned style, very lucid and clear, and is a very interesting narrative of a most extraordinary career. Mr. Jones had some hard struggles, but in nearly every instance he came out successful, triumphing over many adverse circumstances and of such the book is full. As regards mechanical make-up it is, with one exception, all that could be expected of a work so hurriedly got out. The binding is in cloth and leather, the print is large and clear, but the paper is not of a corresponding grade, being rather cheap for a book of its kind. However, to any true lover of the eminent divine this will be overlooked in the search for the interesting facts of a magnetic and attractive life.

Interesting Mementoes Preserved.

The table and chair which were used by President Roosevelt when he spoke in front of the college gate on October 19, 1905 was placed in the museum of the historical society immediately after the President proceeded on his tour through the South. The speech delivered by him at that time, which contained many words of commendation for Trinity, was printed on a large piece of card-board, with a picture of the President taken while delivering it, printed in the center. One of these has recently been placed on top of the table and a glass cover put over it so as to preserve its memento of the visit of the distinguished statesman. The table occupies a prominent place in the museum and is shown to all visitors, being a special attraction now since the speech has been placed on it.

Dr. Mims Preparing Important Article.

The May number of The World's Work, the editor of which is Mr. Walter H. Page, a former Trinity student, will be a special issue setting forth the resources and development of the South. North Carolina will be featured in the number. Among those who are to contribute articles from the State are Dr. Edwin Mims, of Trinity, who is preparing an article on the literary development of the South. Mr. D. A. Tompkins, of Charlotte, will depict the progress in cotton manufacturing and Mr. Clarence H. Poe, of Raleigh, will write of the State's development generally.

The spring term opened Jan. 7. Up to date 133 students have been enrolled, and there are yet many prospective students.

The young men of the school have changed the name of their literary society from Lycurgian to that of the Braxton-Craven Literary Society. The young ladies have chosen the name of the mother of Trinity for their society, which is now known as the Irene Craven Literary Society.

A number of things might be mentioned as being needed at the Trinity High School and which must be secured if the school continues to prosper. A few of the principal needs are a new dormitory, better lighting and heating facilities, and a good library. It is the purpose of the school to prepare thoroughly all students desiring to enter Trinity College or any other first class college of the State. It is not necessary to argue that the school is needed. Forsooth to say, considering the gross ignorance which yet remains within the borders of our commonwealth, on account of inadequate public schools, to let it go down would be to put the Methodist Church of the State to an open shame.

REPORTER.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The first regular weekly meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association for this term was held last Wednesday evening at 7:00 o'clock and was conducted by Mr. W. V. McRae. Immediately after the mid-year examinations the annual revival began, lasting about ten days, and just after this meeting closed there was held here under the auspices of the local Association the North Carolina Student Conference, which came to a close on the night of February 17th. Consequently there had been held no regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. till last Wednesday evening, when a fairly large number of the members came together and for a while discussed the result of the recent Conference, what it meant to the college, to the local Association, and to individuals in general. Among those who made short talks were F. L. Love, W. A. Bryan, W. A. Stanbury, W. G. Jerome, and W. V. McRae. Much interest was manifested in the recent Conference, and the result may be seen in many ways. The prospects of doing a great deal of good work in the Association this spring are very bright.

The Wake Forest delegation desires to express their sincere appreciation to the citizens of Durham and the Baptist people, as well as the Trinity College students and faculty, for their generous hospitality and many courtesies extended to them during the recent Y. M. C. A. Conference.—Biblical Recorder.

THAT IMMORTAL POEM.

The Chronicle Responds to Urgent Appeals and Prints It—A Lyric for All Moods and Occasions.

Numerous strong and urgent appeals have come to The Chronicle for the immortal poem of Miss Mattie J. Peterson, of Bladen county, "I Kissed Pa Twice After Death." The Charlotte Observer has printed this poem a number of times, but last October it announced that it would not again be reprinted in that paper. Believing that the poem has great merit in it, it is herewith given:

I kissed dear pa at the grave—
Then soon he was buried away;
Wreaths were put on his tomb,
Whose beauty soon decay.
I lay down and slept after the burial;
I had started to school, I dreamed,
But had left my books at home;
Pa brought them to me, it seemed.

I seen him coming stepping high,
Which was of his walk the way,
I had stopped at a house near by—
His face was pale as clay.
When he lay under a white sheet,
On the morning after the decease,
I kissed his sad and sunken cheek
And hoped his spirit had found peace.

When he was having convulsions
He feared he would hurt me,
Therefore he told me to go away,
He had dug articles for me.

Pa dug the articles on that day—
He will never dig any more;
He has only paid the debt we owe,
We should try to reach the shining shore.

To get instruction, as well as pleasure, the poem should be read a number of times. The beautiful expressions, its literary excellence and its transcendental thought cannot be overestimated. Like a number of historical characters, much real interest about the author is unknown. So for no one has given us anything definite about Miss Peterson's life, but by her vivid expression she has told us much about herself and "Pa," too. Running through the entire poem we see, first, a daughter's consuming love for her father, and a father's love for his daughter. The latter is brought out in the proud manner in which he carried her books to her, the fear of hurting her "when he was having convulsions," and the digging of the articles.

Genuine poetry is hard to explain. It can only be read and appreciated. It is claimed by some that "as civilization advances poetry almost necessarily declines," but the production of this poem seems to contradict such a statement.

This poem can be read at all times. When you are sick, when you are tired, when you are blue, when you are jolly, when you are busy, when you are at leisure, when you are alone, when you have company, when you are at home or abroad, take this poem, read it and enjoy it.

Physical Training.

EDITOR OF CHRONICLE:

The demand for Physical Directors at present far exceeds the supply. Drs. Sargent of Harvard and McCurdy of The Springfield Training School of Massachusetts, receive calls for trained men from all parts of the United States, offering from $8000 to $2500 salaries per year. I would like to see Trinity men who have some talent for such work choose Physical Training as a profession. It is without a doubt one of the best openings for young men in the teaching profession and College men are especially in demand. Colleges, Normal and High schools, athletic Clubs, Y. M. C. A. and even churches are building large and well equipped gymnasiums and the demand today far exceeds the supply.

The opportunities here are splendid for part of the preparation if the men decide upon this line of work early enough to give them at least two years of work in Physics, chemistry and especially in the department of Biology and on the athletic field and in the Gymnasium. With this much preparatory work one can get thro' Springfield and Harvard Sargent School in one year.

Mr. W. L. Dowd a Trinity man received $900 and room for his first year's work. The opportunities now are even better.

W. W. CARD.

Ex-President Crowell to Speak Here.

The committee of the faculty on public lectures announce that one of the lectures which have been arranged for this spring will be delivered by Dr. John Franklin Crowell who was president of Trinity from 1887 to 1894. Dr. Crowell is now an editorial writer on The Wall Street Journal, a position which he accepted last spring, having for the five or six years previous thereto been identified with the official, scientific, and educational life of the national capitol. The present students of the college will be glad of the opportunity of hearing a man who was formerly at the helm of their alma mater. The exact date of the lecture has not been given out.

Others who will deliver lectures in the year's series will be Dr. W. P. Few, Dr. W. K. Royd, and Prof. W. H. Pegram.

Press Representatives Entertained.

Last Wednesday evening Dean S. F. Mordecai entertained at his home the editorial members of the college publications at what he humorously termed a "press convention." A very sumptuous dinner was served after which a smoker was given. During the entire evening periment ran high and the event will be long remembered by those who were present. The journalists attending the convention were Messrs. U. N. Hoffman, S. A. Richardson, E. W. Knight and W. H. Sanders, of The Chronicle; Messrs. H. E. Spence, C. M. Campbell, Jr., and Holland Holton, of The Archive; Mr. W. M. Smith of The South Atlantic Quarterly. The Dean's "press agents," Messrs. Kelly and Wissburg, were also present.

Former Student Dead.

Mr. Walter Johnson, a student last year at the Park School, died at his home in Ingold last week. He lived only a short time after being operated on for appendicitis. Mr. Johnson intended entering Trinity this fall, and in his death the college has lost a genuine and true friend.

Mr. Robert L. Durham, who for 10 years practiced law in Gaston county, has leased a room on the second floor of the Trust building, and will resume the practice of his profession. Mr. Durham is a graduate of Trinity College and a man of ability.—Charlotte Observer.

BRAIN AND EYE HOW EYE-STRAIN RETARDS STUDY

Many students possessing superior minds outshine fancy themselves dull because they fail in their studies. The reason is simply this: They are afflicted with so much eye-strain that it requires nearly all the nerve force they possess to fix the eye upon their books, thereby exhausting the energy of the brain. Many students unwise sacrifice their health in attaining an education, because of the large amount of brain-strain sustained in the close use of their eyes, though their vision seems excellent. This form of brain-strain is easily detected by an expert and most always remedied by glasses properly adjusted. If you break your glasses don't send them away for repair, taking the chances of delay and mistakes. Just bring the pieces to my office and I will do the rest.
