

'TAS TWELVE INNING GAME

Cornell Scored the Only Tally after Two Outs.

BATTLE ROYAL BETWEEN PITCHERS

Webb Outclassed Lovejoy but His Support Was Not so Good—Many Features to the Contest—Another Game To-day.

The game yesterday afternoon between Trinity and Cornell lasted for twelve innings and was won by the visitors after two men had been put out and it looked as if another inning at least would have to be played. But Bigelow, center-fielder, who played great ball in his garden, came up with the goods and Heilman trotted across the rubber scoring the single tally of the contest. Trinity had taken the first bat and the game ended when the run was scored. Lovejoy was up first in the twelfth and went out, third to first on a beautiful pick-up by Asbury. Heilman singled for the first clear hit of the game. Ebeling got to first safely through error of second basemen and Heilman stopped on second bag. Captain Brown lifted the sphere with the willow wand and on a spectacular run and catch Flowers hid it in his tar bucket, and two men were down. Bigelow hit the ball with all his might and it went sailing to center field far from the reach of anyone and the game was Cornell's.

The contest was a decided pitchers' battle between Webb and Lovejoy with the favorable side of the contest Webb's. Nothing with the least semblance of a hit was obtained by the Cornellites till the ninth stage was reached when Ebeling knocked the ball between first and second. Puryear fielded it safely but no one covered the sack for him and the man landed in good shape. The other two hits were clear cracks for one bag each. Trinity's hits were made one in the first, two in sixth, one in the eighth, another in the ninth, a two-bagger by Puryear who had singled when he was up the preceding time, and the last in the eleventh.

Strike outs were: By Webb 8, by Lovejoy 10. A number of times prospects were favorable for the home boys to score, especially in the first inning when three men got on bases by means of passes and a hit by Wrenn. In the sixth, things again looked bright but there was nothing accomplished.

The playing of both teams was gilt-edged from first to last only one error being made that amounted to anything at all. On third little Asbury nabbed everything coming his way, including some hot ones. Suiter played at second like a veteran leaguer though he made one error and at first Puryear handled all that came his way. In addition he worked his slick little trick and caught one guy. He also had on his batting togs and out of three times at the bat he hit for a single and a double. Flowers' chances were all difficult but he found it easy to sweep them all into his playhouse. Lane was in right field but no chance came his way. Wrenn worked in his usual perfect style. His wing was in prime condition and no steals were made on him. In the seventh he got a hard lick on the knee from a foul but stuck to his post. He also singled once.

For the visitors star work was also done, in the field only one error being chalked against them and that was a nonentity. Hastings caught perfectly and his throwing to second was fine. In center field Mantel was all over the ground and on one occasion reduced a three-bagger to a single by a fine run and stop.

The second game between the teams is scheduled for today. An account of it will be given next week.

Dr. Crowell Speaks.

Dr. John Franklin Crowell, president of this college from 1887 to 1894, who is now connected with the Wall Street Journal, of New York, delivered a short address to the students Monday morning, immediately after chapel. He spoke of the importance of the newspaper to the modern world and the influence it has locally, nationally, and internationally. The address was very masterfully delivered and was received by the students with much interest. They were greatly pleased to have the opportunity of hearing one who had formerly been president of their alma mater.

Dr. Kilgo, in introducing Dr. Crowell, referred to the beneficial work which he did, not only for this college while at its helm, but also for other similar institutions in this State and in the South. Dr. Crowell spoke for forty minutes, making an address of great significance.

Mr. John Tyer, 1900, is now in Sweden representing the American Tobacco Company.

Announcements have been received here of the marriage of Mr. A. G. Moore, class of 1905, to Miss Hallie Thomason on February 28 at Yuma, Arizona. Mr. and Mrs. Moore now reside at 1240 South Hill Street, Los Angeles, Cal.

Vanderbilt is preparing to give more attention to debating and a debating council composed of representatives of the literary societies and the faculty has been formed.

Statistics have been compiled at Yale which show that each student in the academic department costs $326 a year for tuition and administrative expenses of which amount he pays $155 as tuition.

AN ADDRESS BY DR. KILGO

Interesting Chapter of Some of His Early Experiences.

EARLY EDUCATION RECEIVED ON FARM

A Beautiful Tribute Paid His Father and Mother—Tobe, the Big Driver, His Hero—Large Crowd Heard Him.

President Kilgo made an address in the Y. M. C. A. hall last Friday evening to an audience which nearly filled the room. His subject was "A Chapter from my Early Educational Experience." It acquainted the audience, which was composed of students and members of the faculty, with a number of things about his life which they but little surmised. The particular chapter opened up was his experiences on the farm, where he learned to do all that was to be done.

He was born on July 22, 1861, he said, the day following the battle of Manassas and his childhood was spent amid all the scenes and tales of a horrible slaughter. His father was a Methodist minister with a small salary and simple life as were the lives of all the preachers of that day. He was a descendant of Scotch-Irish folk and had the outward and inner qualities of that stalwart people, possessing especially an unyielding will and his own notions and convictions of things. He received but one year's schooling, he said, but that quickened in him an undying yearning for knowledge, and developing the methods of thinking soundly, he made himself a theologian of the deepest kind. To educate his five sons was the ruling purpose of his life. It entered into all his plans and was present in all his calculations. This yearning clung to him to the last, for on his death bed there were signs of trouble on his face, which were only dispelled when he was assured that his son, who was then a Senior in college, should finish his course. "It was no small thing to have been a member of a home over which a man of this type ruled. His fidelity and his ideals were an assurance of blessings."

Referring to his mother Dr. Kilgo said: "Sure in all this labor there was a mother bravely doing her part only as a mother can do her share. She heartily seconded the aims of my father, and turned many a good calculation into the enterprise. . . . She seemed best when looking after the home training of the children in the absences of the father. She kept us all close to the church and many were the Sunday-school books she read to us on Sunday afternoons."

After lamenting the fact that the old notions and ways of his mother regarding the bringing up of children have passed away and new ideas have come into the country such as kindergartens, the speaker began the account of his education. He was placed on the farm of his grandmother when he was eleven years old. He and his brother were welcomed to the country by the old darkies, who believed that "Dem chilluns is too tender to work." The first task to which he was set was picking cotton. From helping gather the crops he said that he was set to other work and by the time he was thirteen had risen through all the courses till he could drive the big four-horse team. The account the speaker gave of how he learned to plough, to split rails, to ditch, and to do all other things touched cords of appreciative sympathy in many of the hearts of those who listened to him.

"But every boy has his dreams," continued the speaker. "He has for himself an ideal world peopled with heroes. So my hero on the farm was Tobe, the driver of the big four-horse wagon. . . . Tobe was at the head of the teams and a master he was at the art of managing a team of four mules. It was this consummate skill of his that made him my hero, for I wanted to do it like Tobe."

"It was a boast of his that a team never got away from him, with but one exception, and not then till he had broken every bridle rein in the effort to hold them. Another thing was to the credit of his skill. He never used a lock chain in going down a hill. It did not matter how steep the hill was or how heavy the load, he said that lock-chains were made for fellows who could not drive. I have seen him by one word swing his rear mules with gigantic force against the breast chains while with stiffened legs they slid along, plowing the ground with their heavy shoes. The wagon never got beyond his management."

Dr. Kilgo then gave a fine word picture of Tobe and his four mules as they labored with heavy load through the muddy roads and up the steep hills of those days. "Well, Tobe took me in hand and taught me to drive and when I was thirteen years old I could drive a four-horse wagon over the big hills. I know that I was a good driver because Tobe said I was, and no man ever knew so much about it as he knew."

"Old 'Uncle George,' Mammy Jane' and Tobe have gone out of the earth," he said in conclusion, "but I shall always love their memory. They loved me and showed it in a multitude of ways. I am the friend of the negro and I have faith in his race. George and Jane and Tobe were negroes and they knew how to love with an unselfish love, and a race that has in it the power to love may rise, and be it far from me to hinder them in the rising."

LOST TWICE TO LAFAYETTE

Costly Errors Were Responsible for Trinity's Defeats.

THE SCORE OF BOTH GAMES WAS 4 TO 3

Webb and Lane Pitched Gilt-Edge Ball—Both Contests Taken by the Visitors in the Eighth Inning—Scores in Detail.

After leading off in the score and shutting out her opponents for seven innings, Trinity was defeated Friday in the eighth by the Lafayette team. A few costly errors on the part of Trinity and the timely hitting of the Lafayette players tell the story of the defeat.

The features of the game for Trinity were the fielding of Bivins and Flowers and the splendid battery work of Webb and Wrenn. The bat work of Bivins, Suiter, and Wrenn was also very good. Webb pitched a magnificent game, striking out nine men and allowing only three hits. For the visitors, Schneider pitched a fine game. Seven men fanned and six hits were made off him. Snook was at the other end of the battery and did good work. The batting of Peters and Kelley was also good.

This game was the first important one of the season, and although the final score was 4 to 3 in favor of the Lafayette line-up, the Trinity nine showed up well. It went to pieces, however, in the latter part of the game for a few minutes and the earned victory was turned into a defeat.

Just how Trinity made her runs will be found in the detailed report following:

Trinity took the bat first and Puryear, first man up, was thrown out at first. Smith struck out. Wrenn hit safely over second. Suiter made a fine three-base hit, scoring Wrenn. Flowers was thrown out at first, retiring the side.

Second Inning—Nixon was put out at first. Asbury succeeded in making first bag on error of first. Bivins knocked high foul, which was caught by Peters. Webb failed to make first, retiring the side.

Third Inning—Puryear got a pass on the Big Four Line and made third on a bunt by Smith, and came home on Wrenn's single, making the score 2 to 0 in Trinity's favor. Suiter sacrificed, putting Wrenn on second, but Flowers, thrown out at first, retired the side.

Fourth Inning—Nixon, Asbury and Bivins fanned.

Fifth Inning—Webb was thrown out at first. Puryear put a liner to second basemen, which he caught. Smith fanned.

Sixth Inning—Wrenn died, pitcher to first. Suiter made first on error of short stop. Flowers struck out and Nixon was out, third to first.

Seventh Inning—Asbury was

Yesterday was the last of the groundhog days. If there are still any unbelievers in the varmint as a weather prognosticator, they must have been denizens of the great Sahara for the past forty days.—Trinity Chronicle, March 13th

We agree; certainly they have not been near Blacksburg, for we have had everything from snow and freezing one night to thunder storms and electrical displays the next.—V. P. I. Tech.

At Purdue an agitation has been started to confer suitable insignia upon men who devote time and labor to non-athletic activities. The insignia suggested is a "P," and non-athletic wearers include varsity debaters, editors and managers of papers.—Exchange.

Here's hoping that the agitation may be successful for the three classes mentioned are those who do a great deal for their institutions and get but little thanks or anything else favorable for it.

Last week the faculty of George Washington University barred three leading members of the baseball team from taking part in any branch of athletics under the jurisdiction of that university for the coming season. The new athletic rules forbid a student's taking any active part in athletics who does not attend school nine hours a week. It is a very hard thing for a student body to suddenly lose three players from a team, but the action of the faculty seems wise and proper. College teams ought not to be mere aggregations of men who are not full students of the institutions which they represent. It is far better to have a truly college team which may not win always than to have one which is not and does win. The students who are no doubt very sore now will probably see it in this light later on.

Mr. F. S. Carden, 1902, taught school for several years after leaving college, then entered Cumberland University as a law student. After receiving this training he hung out his shingle in Chattanooga and shortly after was sent to the legislature from that city, which is an additional honor when one considers the size of this city.

put out at first. Bivins hit the hide, getting on first bag. Webb followed with a punk fly to second baseman, which was caught. Puryear knocked a high fly in right field, which was taken in by Kelley.

Eighth Inning—Smith was thrown out at first. Wrenn swatted out one to center field for two bags. Suiter knocked a fly, which the second baseman caught. Flowers followed with a hit, scoring Wrenn and making first himself. Nixon batted out a long fly, which was caught.

Ninth Inning—Lane, who batted for Asbury, fanned. Bivins was thrown out at first. Webb hit safely to left field. Puryear was out on a long fly to right field, retiring the side in the last inning, with three runs to Trinity's credit, while the Lafayette team had crossed the plate four times.

With Lafayette it was three up and three down almost every inning until the seventh, when the first hit was made by the visitors. Peters took the willow and smacked a high one to right field. It was muffed. Long waited for four balls. Schneider was retired, pitcher to first. Wrenn stuck to a fly off Swank's bat and two men were down, with two on bases. Kelly met the occasion with a single and brought in Peters for the first tally. Long essayed to score also, but Flowers making a star throw-in, Wrenn caught him at the plate by a very close margin.

The eighth inning began with the score 3 to 1 in favor of the home boys, but before the inning was finally over fate had caught Trinity in her net and the game was lost. Updgrove walked. Snook sacrificed. Knox, A. and M.'s old short, rapped out a two-bagger and Updgrove tallied an earned run. Knox purloined second. McAvoy got to first on fielder's choice and Knox landed on third through error of that baseman. McAvoy stole second and Peters' two bagger did the rest. The wearers of the Blue had one more bat, but nothing was achieved therefrom.

FRIDAY'S WORK REPEATED SATURDAY.

The story of the second game between Trinity and Lafayette College teams resembles, in many respects, the game on Friday. Trinity made three runs in the first part of the game, and played the Pennsylvania team a shut out game till the eighth inning. At this late stage of the game the visitors pulled themselves together and tied the score. In the ninth they came to the bat and before the side could be retired another man had crossed the home plate. As Trinity failed to score in the ending of the ninth the final score stood 4-3, as day before, in Lafayette's favor.

Lane was in the box for Trinity and did fine work, striking out seven men. He was well supported till the "fatal eighth." Other features of the game were the good work of Puryear on the first base, the batting of Smith and Wrenn in the first part of the game, and the field work of Bivins and Flowers. Flowers made an especially pretty catch down in center, and robbed Mc-

Avory of a hit. Suiter's stick work was also good. He made one long drive down in right field, but Swank made one of the prettiest and most difficult running catches of the game, and robbed him of what would have otherwise been a two bagger. The Lafayette team had Edwards in the twirler's box, and after the first inning he pulled himself together and pitched a good game for the Pennsylvanians. In the first part of the game he was rather wild. Three men went to first by the Big Four route in the inning and one man was forced across the home plate. He struck out nine men, and four hits were made off him. Knox A. and M.'s old shortstop, besides playing star ball at short stop for Lafayette, made three timely hits that helped snatch victory from Trinity. Swank also swatted out a ball in deep center in the ninth inning. It was one of the longest balls knocked, going over Flowers' head almost to the fence. Although these were some of the things that won the victory for Lafayette, Trinity's costly errors at critical times more completely tells the story.

HOW TRINITY MADE HER RUNS.

All of Trinity's runs were made in the first inning. Puryear, the first man up, was thrown out at first. Smith, the next man up, placed a ball over in right field making two bases. Wrenn and Suiter walked to first forcing Smith to third. Flowers fanned. Webb was given his base on balls, forcing Smith across home plate. Bivins swatted out a shrieking two-bagger, scoring Wrenn and Suiter, making three runs for Trinity. Webb was caught between second and third retiring the side. After this first inning Trinity was unable to score.

THE JONAH EIGHTH.

Until the eighth inning the Pennsylvania team was unable to make a single score off Lane and his supporters. The first man up in the eighth was Kelley, who knocked a long fly to left field which was caught by Bivins. Updgrove was safe on first by error of short. Snook, Lafayette's catch, made first the same way. Knox, A. & M.'s old short, singled scoring Updgrove, who had advanced to third. McAvoy scored Snook and Knox, with a long two-bagger. Peters was out on fly to catch, and Flowers caught Long's fly to center retiring the side after the score had been tied. In the ninth, with the spectators in a frenzy of excitement, Edwards took up the stick for the visitors. He could do no more than drum the ozone. Swank cracked the ball to the fence in center field and stopped at second safe. Kelley was out, pitcher to first, but Swank was safe on third. Updgrove waited for four balls. With Snook who had touched the ball with his bat only twice in eight times up, at the bat, Updgrove started to second. The sign for the short play to second base was unwisely given and Wrenn threw to second but the ball was not returned in time and Lafayette had her fourth run. Snook fanned and the side was out.

Trinity could do nothing and the game was Lafayette's.

The tabulated score and summary of the first game with Lafayette follows on page three.

SOME SPECKS OF DIAMOND DUST

Thirteen and twenty-three can't hold even a tiny light to eight, Captain Snook should learn what a strike is and not stand up at the plate and have three called on him and then try to break the bat when the umpire says he is out.

Those two Lafayette games are uncontrovertible proof of the uncertainty of baseball. You certainly don't know whose victory it is till the last man is out in the last inning.

The kind of hits that count were such as Suiter batted out in the first game and Bivins in the second. Both were peaches of the first juice.

The band which was out in full force Friday added much to the jollity and excitement of the game. And it assisted the rooters greatly. Lafayette has a good team but it was not so good that it should have taken both of the games from our team.

Carolina, with whom Lafayette played Monday, went down by a score of 2 to 1.

If there were any who thought that our pitching staff would be weak this season, they surely had all their fears dispersed by those two games last week. Lane and Webb were both steady and cool and only ten hits were made off their delivery in the eighteen innings. The games were lost through no fault of theirs.

For the first time in several years our team will be at home Easter. And it will give us something of interest on Saturday and Monday.

To err is common to all humanity and there is no use of cussing the boys because they fell down a couple of times. Give them a chance and we are sure they will redeem themselves.

New Books for Law Department.

The Library has just received a large shipment of books for the use of the department of law, the total number of volumes being 529. These books are sets of the reports of the highest courts of New York, Massachusetts and Michigan and were obtained by an expenditure of more than $500. Of the Massachusetts reports there are 190 volumes, of the New York 185, of the Michigan 145, and miscellaneous 7. These are all valuable works to the Law School and will add greatly to its equipment. The books, with the exception of fourteen, are all now in the library and are being catalogued as rapidly as possible.

Mrs. R. W. Haywood, of Greensboro, nee Miss Laura Scott, and Mr. R. W. Haywood Jr., were visitors in Durham recently. Mrs. Haywood was a special student at Trinity for several years, being one of the first to enter here after the college was opened to women.

BRAIN AND EYE

HOW EYE-STRAIN RETARDS STUDY

Many students possessing superior minds oftentimes fancy themselves dull because they fail in their studies.

The reason is simply this: They are afflicted with so much eye-strain that it requires nearly all the nerve force they possess to fix the eye upon their books, thereby exhausting the energy of the brain.

Many students unconsciously sacrifice their health in attaining an education, because of the large amount of brain-strain sustained in the close use of their eyes, though their vision seems excellent. This form of brain-strain is easily detected by an expert and most always remedied by glasses properly adjusted.

If you break your glasses don't send them away for repair, taking the chances of delay and mistakes. Just bring the pieces to my office and I will do the rest.

WITH THE COLLEGES.

Interesting Items About Different Institutions Culled From Our Exchanges and Elsewhere.

Statistics of Columbia show that there are representatives of thirty foreign countries at that university. Canada leads with thirty-one and Japan follows with twenty-four.

The University of Virginia's new pipe organ, the gift of Andrew Carnegie, has been formally dedicated.

At the semi-annual meeting of the board of trustees of Princeton held on March 14 gifts to the university aggregating $75,260 were announced.

The University of Pennsylvania will engage in swimming meets with the University of Chicago, the Chicago Athletic Association, the University of Illinois, and possibly the Illinois Athletic Association during April.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The Young Men's Christian Association was conducted last Wednesday evening by its President, Mr. W. V. McRae. Dr. Kilgo was expected to conduct it and an unusually large crowd was present to hear him, but he was unavoidably kept away and the meeting was turned into open service. Prof. W. H. Pegram, a strong friend of the association, was present and made some very helpful remarks. Mr. McRae then made a short talk, and the remainder of the hour was taken up in song service. It is always very helpful to have a strong speaker to conduct the association meetings, but the open meeting, such as was held last Wednesday evening, and such as have often been held, are always a source of untold benefit to the members and all others who attend them and take part in them. This evening at 7:30 o'clock the Association has for its speaker Mr. Arthur Bradsher. Mr. Bradsher needs no introduction to the members of the college community, and the association is expecting a large crowd to be present to hear the message which he has to bring to it. Mr. Bradsher is a member of the class of 1904, and for five years was Trinity's star baseball pitcher. Besides being a splendid athlete he was a leader in all the other phases of college life and was considered while here a man of much influence and power. For the speaker's convenience the hour of meeting has been changed for this evening only from 7:15 to 7:30. Song services will begin promptly at 7:30. Let everybody be on time.

Two Easter Holidays.

According to the custom established by the President three years ago, Saturday and Monday will be given as holidays for Easter. A large majority of the students will spend the time at their homes. However, there will probably not be as many to go this year as there were last, many remaining here to take in the ball games which will be played on the home diamond with the A. & M. and the Delaware College teams. This will be the first time in several years that the Trinity team has spent Easter at home, it generally being away on its Southern trip at this time.

Mr. E. O. Cole visited at Greensboro last week.
