

THE FIRST AVERA LECTURE

Dr. W. F. Tillett Delivering the Series This Year.

LAST NIGHT'S ADDRESS ONE OF POWER

"Bible and Modern Scholarship" Dr. Tillett's General Theme—Four Results of the Latter—Moral and Spiritual Truth Emphasized.

The first in the sixth series of Avera Biblical Lectures, which are given here biennially, through a gift of Mrs. McCullen, of Clayton, N. C., in honor of her first husband, was delivered last night in Main Street Methodist Church, before an audience which, though comparatively small, was very appreciative, the speaker being Dr. Wilbur F. Tillett, of Nashville, Tenn. Dr. Tillett is a native of North Carolina, having been born at Henderson; is an alumnus of Trinity, having been a student under Dr. Craven thirty-five years ago; an A. B. and D. D. of Randolph-Macon; a graduate of Princeton Theological Seminary; an A. M. of Princeton University, and at present dean of the theological faculty and vice-chancellor of Vanderbilt University. Dr. Tillett is a strong speaker and writer and his address last night impressed his hearers very deeply. The second lecture will be delivered this evening, beginning at 8 o'clock, and the last one tomorrow evening at the same hour.

Dr. Kilgo introduced the speaker. Dr. Tillett announced that the general theme of his lectures for the three nights would be "The Bible and Modern Scholarship." His subject last night was "The Bible within the Bible," and tonight he will speak on "The Gospel within the Gospel," closing the series with "The Word within the Word," tomorrow night.

Throughout the entire lecture Dr. Tillett laid special emphasis on the moral and spiritual truth of the Bible. He referred first to the changes that have taken place in the study and interpretation of the Book in the last thirty-five years, due to modern scholarship, which are accounted of greatest moral value. Biblical scholarship was clearly distinguished from "higher criticism," with an acknowledgement, however, of the debt of modern scholarship to judicious but courageous criticism.

At present the Bible is being studied and interpreted from three points of view, said Dr. Tillett; first, traditional theology, which, though not consciously not affected by modern scholarship is really re-interpreting the Bible in general light of new views; secondly, radical and destructive criticism which denies entirely whatever supernatural claims are made for the Book as divine and discounts its trustworthiness as human; thirdly, modern scholarship which may be defined as traditional theology, modified and

TENNESSEE LOST OUT.

Trinity the Winner in the Debate at Knoxville Friday Evening—Three Straights from Tennessee Universities.

In the first of a series of three joint debates between the University of Tennessee and Trinity the latter was victorious. The speaking was held last Friday evening in Science Hall at Knoxville, Tenn., before an audience of five or six hundred, the auditorium being filled with people, in spite of the fact that the weather was rainy, as is usual whenever and wherever Trinity has a debate.

The judges for the occasion were Mr. M. B. Arnstein, a business man; Dr. T. M. Lowry, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church, and L. H. Spilman, Esq., a lawyer, all of Knoxville. The debate was presided over by Dr. Edwin B. Olmstead. The question discussed was: "Resolved, That the will of the people operates more effectively upon the administration of government under the English cabinet system than under the presidential system of America." Trinity's speakers, Mr. E. B. Hobgood, '09, and Mr. A. W. Horton, '08, had the affirmative, the Tennesseans defending the negative. Tennessean speakers were Mr. Roscoe Word, a post-graduate student and last year a member of the All-Southern football team; and Mr. Lawson H. Meyers, a Senior and this year's manager and first baseman of the Tennessee baseball team. Only one speech on each side was made on rejoinder, Mr. Meyers speaking for Tennessee and Mr. Horton for Trinity, the latter's speech being the final one of the debate.

The speaking passed off without a single disturbing feature, every man acquitting himself perfectly. The hall where the debate took place was beautifully decorated with flowers and the colors of the two institutions. Prior to the debate a group of three songs were rendered by the University Glee Club and a vocal solo was sung while the judges were out.

Trinity's representatives returned Sunday afternoon. Saturday afternoon and night they spent in Asheville in viewing the City of the Sky. They report a most welcome reception and a very pleasant stay at Tennessee, everything possibly being done to make their visit enjoyable.

The second debate with the same university will be held here on the first Friday evening in April, 1908. By winning Friday's contest, Trinity has now achieved three victories within two years over Tennessee universities, making an exceedingly enviable record. Tennessee will be met again next session but nothing now is known as to a debate with Vanderbilt who lost last year and again this year to teams representing Trinity.

Mr. J. N. Cole, Jr., is a patient at Watts' Hospital.

MORE ERRORS THAN HITS

In Five Inning Game Trinity Lost to A. & M. at Raleigh.

RAIN BROKE UP GAME—SCORE, 5-0

Our Boys Saw Fate Rise Against Them and Played Listlessly—Their Chances to Score Were Numerous.

A large number of students and Durhamites—more than a hundred—went down to Raleigh last Friday afternoon to witness the second game of baseball between the A. & M. and Trinity and they saw the Farmers shut out the visitors in a five-inning game by a score of five to nothing. Rain broke up the game in the middle of the sixth inning, after the cadets had scored eight runs, while Trinity had failed to cross the rubber a single time. The score reverted to the preceding inning and went down in the records as 5 to 0 in A. & M.'s favor.

The Trinity boys had an off day, showing up in poor form. In the field they made errors on the easiest sort of chances, at the bat they could not connect with the ball, and on bases they took naps. A. & M.'s scores were all made mostly on errors. The Farmers made errors likewise, but the god of fortune never allowed the boys in blue to get a score on the board. In every inning men were got on bases and in two at least runs ought to have been secured, but they did not pan out.

A. & M. scored twice in the first inning, and once each in the third, fourth, and fifth. Webb, who was in the box for our boys, kept putting the ball across the rubber, but the umpire's eyes could make nothing out of them but balls, and the men walked. The team behind him got rattled and errors on errors were piled up and two runs were made in one inning without a single hit. When Trinity took the bat his majestic umpship's visionary machine took a complete reversal and everything that could have been measured with a ten-foot pole was a strike. Thus it was that several men fanned on high, low and wide-out balls which they had been taught to let go by without striking at. The boys lost heart and played in a listless manner, knowing the fates were against them.

The game went on till the fifth inning had closed, when rain interfered. After a shower the teams went back on the field, with A. & M. at the bat. Three runs more were made by them, putting their number at eight, but as more rain came before Trinity could get her turn at the stick, the game was called, the score of the preceding inning being recorded as the official one of the game.

The tabulated score and summary follows on page 3.

Prof. Meritt, of the college, delivered a lecture to the student body Saturday night. His subject was "A Trip to Athens." His talk was very much enjoyed by those present.

Mr. T. W. Lee left Monday for his home.

Mr. Thomas Dover, of the University, visited Mr. S. J. Gantt Monday.

On account of rain the game of ball with Warrenton High School was not played last Saturday.

On Monday the Park School baseball team, accompanied by about fifty students, went to Mebane to play the Bingham School. This was the first game that the Park School boys had played against a preparatory school. It was a good game. Both teams did good work. The feature of the game was the batting done by the Park School boys. Out of four times up, Moore got two singles and two two-base hits. Gantt and McLean also did fine work with the stick. Gantt, out of four times up, got two singles and a two-bagger. McLean got one single and a two-base hit, which was a home run on an error. Gantt pitched a good game, fanning 13 men.

The score by innings:

A large number of students, something like a hundred or more—went down to Raleigh to attend the baseball game with A. & M. on last Friday, the faculty granting permission to all who wanted it to go on the noon and return on the early evening train. The crowd did some good rooting, showing up better even than the cadets who greatly outnumbered them.

WAKE FOREST WALLOPED

The Baptists Put Under the Water to the Tune of 6 to 3.

MANY ENTHUSIASTIC SUPPORTERS OUT

Score Was 6-0 Till Eighth Inning Gay's Pitching Not in Class With Webb's—The Tabulated Score and Summary.

Trinity defeated Wake Forest, her old-time rival, in the ball game played here last Wednesday. A large crowd of enthusiastic supporters of both colleges witnessed the game. Although fought with much interest on both sides it was a game devoid of brilliant plays and special features. Both teams made errors—Trinity three and Wake Forest four.

Both teams bunched their hits in one inning to a certain extent. Trinity made five runs in the third inning and the whole nine faced Gay before the side could be retired. "Rastus" Smith, running for Webb, made the other run for Trinity in the sixth inning.

Till the eighth inning the score stood 6-0, and it looked as if the Baptists were going to be given the gooseegg. In this inning, however, they got three hits in a bunch and succeeded in getting three men across the home plate.

Webb pitched the game for Trinity and fanned eight men. Gay, the Wake Forest twirler, was pretty easy, there being only two wearers of the blue fanned. Trinity got seven hits and Wake Forest five.

JOURNALISM AS A PROFESSION.

The address of Dr. Crowell here recently on "News as a Factor of Civilization" was such a speech as is seldom heard being on a subject very little dealt with by speakers inasmuch as newspaper men do not often tell what they have to say on the platform and others are not capable. Dr. Crowell is a newspaper man himself and the message which he gave is therefore one of authority. Among other things which he said regarding news was that the world could not get along without it—in fact that there could not be any form of popular government without it for "it is the government."

For a long time the work of furnishing the world news was looked upon as nothing more than a mere trade but in these latter days it has risen to the rank of a profession. And it is a profession in which a man has an opportunity of wielding a great influence. Of course this may be for good or for evil as the individual desires just as it is the case in the other professions of mankind. But pre-eminently the newspaper worker is the builder and the upbuilder who leads the people in right paths and works a work of righteousness for his community and country. And a field offering such opportunities as this is not, like many of the other professions, overcrowded. Instead there is always a place waiting for the man who is ready to "make good" though the work may be and is hard and does not pay any too well. Comparatively few of the college graduates in the past have entered this field but today they are becoming awakened to the advantages which it has to offer and are laying hold of them. Recently Mr. Hart Lyman, editor of the New York Tribune, one of the foremost newspaper men of country, had the following to say regarding the opportunities of the college man in the journalistic field.

"There is an almost unlimited chance for the young college man who enters the journalistic field, but I should advise the contemplated journalist to hesitate a little unless he has a liking for that kind of work. It is no easy life nor is the pay high. In fact, I know of no other occupation in which men work harder for less money. The attractive feature about journalism for the college graduate is that it affords immediate occupation without further preparation and from the beginning pays moderately well. A particular adaptiveness to the work, however, is more requisite than in almost any other profession, but those who persevere and like it would rather fail at it than succeed in something else. It is a work in which the interest never flags. There is no monotony by its very nature, no repetition. The newspaper man never becomes a machine. There is a constant stimulus, and newspaper workers find themselves thrown into association with their fellow men as few others do, all of which experience goes to quicken and broaden the interest of life.

"Although there is a common idea that college men are under a disadvantage in taking up journalistic work, the college education is under no ban in newspaper offices today. Furthermore, the great majority of writers on the editorial staff of almost every large American newspaper are college-bred men.

"Several problems, however, confront the college would-be journalist. First he must learn the relative importance of things, and secondly he must early recognize the fact that whatever knowledge he acquires in his daily routine of work will prove of no more value to him in his profession than his classical attainments.

"This particular college education must by no means be underestimated. It is, indeed, an important requisite in his future. But his imagination, combined with common sense and good judgment, are things which he can develop only by experience.

"So, to the young college graduate who has a conviction that he is called to the work and is not looking alone at the material side, I would say that there is no profession where the field is more unlimited and those who take up journalism for the love of it will never regret it."

A WARM NUMBER.

The April Archive Anything But Dull—The Leading Contribution a Satirical Drama—A Review of the Issue.

The months of prose and reason have passed and balmy April has brought with it something warm—that is the proper word with which to characterize the April number of The Archive, which came from the printer on Saturday. In size, appearance, and departmental make-up it is about the same as the preceding numbers of the year, but within the covers there is something fresh and glowing—articles that are rich, and therefore very rare, and as racy as anyone could ask for.

The leading piece and pre-eminently the richest one of the many nuggets is, "What's the Matter?" This is a drama in a single act. The scene is "an upper room in the College Big House. Time, midnight, March 31st. Personae, President and Lesser Satellites." The writer (no name whatever is signed to the article) proceeds to satirize the faculty and other things connected with the college, showing wonderful ability in making the situations and characters really dramatic. The play is written in a parodic style, with the Merchant of Venice as its archetype. The blank verse runs smoothly and shows that only a skilled hand could have fashioned it. Aside from its subject-matter, the composition is a rather remarkable production to appear in a college publication.

Mr. J. M. Templeton, Jr., contributes a solid article—the only one in the issue—on "Some Biological Considerations of General Interest." After suggesting the scope and history of the science, he goes on to show that the science is one that interests and that it leads to a discipline of the mind. The article is well-written and shows a good mastery of the subject on the writer's part.

"The Senyire" is a poem of stinging satire on the Senior class for having ability to help carry on different student organizations yet not lending a helping hand. It is unsigned.

The next article is a story with comparatively original plot, told in a first-class way and is a good contribution for a student. It is well-named "The Call of the Waters" and is written by "Tollmann."

"Americus and Its People" (as viewed by an Esquimaux Gulliver, is a Swift satire by M. A. B. on the President, the Senate, and some sights of New York City. The article strikes right to the mark. One bad break, however, is made when the Speaker, so called "possibly because he said so little," is given as chairman of the Senate.

"The Colonel—A Character Study" is a good sketch of one of the world's original characters. It is not fiction but a chapter taken from real life. The article is contributed by Mr. Jule B. Warren, The Chronicle's sporting editor.

The remaining contributions of the number are two poems, "The Poet's Dilemma" and "Life," and "A Nonpareil Athletic Rally." In the editorial department a short discussion of the evils of sensational journalism is given first place and a word or two to the college kickers the second. Both ring as true as steel and touch on subjects of much timeliness. The number closes with "Literary Notes," the exchange department coming up missing in toto. The issue is the best perhaps gotten out this year and is attracting much attention, especially locally. The May number will probably be turned over to Sophomore contributions and the June issue will be a special Senior number.

At 7:30 o'clock Friday evening the Science Club will hold a meeting to which all persons of the community are invited. Prof. E. N. Tillett, of the department of chemistry, will speak on the new pure food laws of the United States: Mr. J. M. Templeton, Jr., will read a paper on the "New Theory of Cancer and Its Cure." A paper will also be read by Mr. Luther Kilgo.

Mr. E. W. Knight is confined to his room this week on account of sickness.

Trinity Scored Thirteen Runs on V. P. I.—Flowers Got a Home Run—Game Was Very Slow.

The Trinity team found the Virginia Polytechnical Institute's team an easy mark yesterday. The visitors were given the goose-egg while Trinity piled up thirteen runs during the game. The V. P. I. team did not have a single chance to win out and were outclassed in every respect.

The home team played a good game making three errors. The playing of the V. P. I. team was rather ragged. Twelve errors were charged against them. Pritchard was in the box for the Virginians, fanning six men and allowing twelve hits. He played a better game than did his team, and has the possibilities of a good pitcher. Powell down in left field was the only man on the opponents' side who played the game as if interested. He handled everything in his garden to perfection. He made a home run in the seventh inning, scoring a man in front of himself.

For Trinity Lane struck out seven men and played a fairly good game. The two double plays between Smith, Suiter and Puryear in the first part of the game were very pretty work. Flowers also played star ball. His fielding was perfect and his batting was good. Trinity played a good game.

On the whole the game was uninteresting and slow on account of its one sidedness. Trinity made four runs in the first, four in the sixth and five in the seventh inning—a total of thirteen. The battery for V. P. I. was Pritchard and Fontaine, for Trinity Lane and Wrenn. Umpire W. W. Card.

Presented With a Pipe.

On behalf of the student body of Trinity, as a token of the high esteem in which he is held, the members of the baseball team presented Coach Stocksdales last Thursday with a handsome pipe. It was accepted with many thanks by Mr. Stocksdales as he appreciates very much the good feelings which the student body has shown him in every way during all the time he has been connected with the college as a coach of the baseball team. Mr. Stocksdales left Friday afternoon, accompanied by his family, going directly to Memphis to get in shape for the opening of the ball season of the Southern League.

BRAIN AND EYE

HOW EYE-STRAIN RETARDS STUDY Many students possessing superior minds oftentimes fancy themselves dull because they fail in their studies.

The reason is simply this: They are afflicted with so much eye-strain that it requires nearly all the nerve force they possess to fix the eye upon their books, thereby exhausting the energy of the brain. Many students unwittingly sacrifice their health in attaining an education, because of the large amount of brain-strain sustained in the close use of their eyes, though their vision seems excellent. This form of brain-strain is easily detected by an expert and most always remedied by glasses properly adjusted.

If you break your vision don't send them away for repair, taking the chances of delay and mistakes. Just bring the pieces to my office and I will do the rest.

THE FIRST AVERY LECTURE

enriched by the best results of modern criticism.

The subject of Biblical inspiration was treated first the different definitions of traditional theology and modern scholarship being compared and contrasted, with differentiation in the manner of distinguishing and defining the divine and human elements in the divine-human Book.

The results of modern Biblical scholarship were classed under four heads. First, a new and larger recognition of the human element in the Bible; second, a new emphasis on the moral and spiritual element of Christianity, as that to reveal which the Bible was divinely inspired; third, the new and larger appreciation of the saving truth and power that is in the gospel and its mission to evangelize the world; fourth, the dominant place which it gives to the divine-human person and the ethical teaching of Jesus Christ.

Free discussion was spoken of as the glory of Protestantism and the only safe-guard and guarantee of truth in theology. To suppress freedom of inquiry and discussion is to endanger the progress of Christianity. Is the divine-human Book to be classed with the infallible divine-human person, Christ, or with the fallible divine-human institution, the Church? Can a divinely-inspired book contain errors of any kind?

In answering this question, Dr. Tillett spoke of the place of the Bible in literature and said that it was indispensable in modern education. As a book divine the Bible's essential place in the Christian religion and its ethical value to the world arises from the fact that it is the source and standard of moral and spiritual truth. The Christian scriptures are dominated by the ethical elements in them, at their foundation is the spiritual element of God.

Miracles and prophecy were discussed by the speaker in closing. Traditional theology, said he, gives the crowning characteristic place of Christianity to miracles. However, its real triumph is not in miracles but in the transformation of man—in its moral and spiritual power.

Prophecy foretells the divine will and predicts future events. To the traditional school of theology what was said, what was foretold, was all—important but to the modern school the prophets' high conceptions of moral and ethical power, their courage in speaking their message, their vision of the coming Messiah are the key note of their prophetic power. The crowning credential of the prophets as messengers of the Holy One is their passion for righteousness, their optimism, and their universalism. Dr. Tillett spoke of some length of Whittier as being a true prophet of modern times, than whom there is no better example of the Christ inspired poet.

Rain Prevented Game.

The second game with Wake Forest will be played on the 30th at Wake Forest. This game was to have been played last Saturday, but rain prevented it, thereby causing much disappointment at Wake Forest. The third game will be played at Raleigh on the first of May.

Miss Nan Walker, of Greensboro Female College, has been the guest this week of Miss Isabelle Pinnix at the Woman's Building.

Miss Rebecca Henderson, of the State Normal at Greensboro, was the attractive guest, for a few days this week, of Miss Elise Mims.

The committee which is to decide who is the winner of the $25 offered by the Archive for a Trinity song, has not yet acted. The lucky person will be announced next week in case the committee finds a song among the ten or twelve submitted which it thinks is worthy of adoption.

The Educational Board of the N. C. Conference, which met here last week, adjourned on Wednesday. A number of important matters were acted upon. The full account of the conference, however, will not be given to the public until a record of the proceedings are published. The pamphlet will be issued shortly.

Two More Games Before Northern Trip.

The Trinity nine has only two more games to play on the home diamond before it takes its annual tour, which will this year be North, instead of South. These games are with the team of Washington University, of Washington City, and will be played on Friday and Saturday. Both will doubtless be interesting contests, as the Hatchettes are playing good ball. They played Davidson at Greensboro Monday and Tuesday, splitting even by close scores.
