

DEAN FEW ON SHAKSPERE.

Delivered Second Lecture in Series Friday Evening at High School.

HOW TO STUDY SHAKSPERE'S WORKS.

Characteristics of Great Poet Discussed—Hamlet, Lear and Othello Greatest Poems Ever Written—Prof. Meritt Lectures Friday Night.

Friday evening Dean W. P. Few delivered the second of the series of lectures given by the faculty of the college under the auspices of the city schools. The subject of Dean Few's lecture was "The Formative and Consoling Power of Great Poetry," and was delivered in the high school auditorium.

The lecture was not as well attended as was expected. However, the audience, though small was exceedingly appreciative.

Friday evening Prof. A. H. Meritt, of the department of Greek, will deliver the third lecture in the series. His subject will be "A Greek Woman."

Dr. Few spoke in part as follows:

SHAKSPERE AND HIS POEMS.

"I am going to discuss this subject this evening by reference mainly to the supreme part of the English race. And I do this because I believe that in the plays of Shakspeare made in the words of Matthew Arnold, 'the noblest, the most successful effort she has ever made as the priestess of the imaginative reason, of the element by which the modern spirit, if it would live aright, has chiefly to live.'"

"We live in a democratic country and in a democratic age. We place great stress on the dignity and importance of the average man, and we are very apt not to make enough of such a phenomenon as Shakspeare in a nation's thought and life. We are too apt in all of our acts, thoughts, and ideals to be content with the passably good, and not anxious enough in our search after the best. In our reading at least the best ought to be good enough for any of us. We ought to study more our very best poetry."

Here the speaker stated that it was doubtful if any man during any age had ever written poetry greater than Hamlet, Lear and Othello; and that it is an advantage to get back into the past away from the present into the serene atmosphere of the classics, into the "silence that precedes all creation." It is therefore, said the speaker, a precious inheritance to be born into the English language.

"Our effort should be to study Shakspeare for his essential value, because we wish to know just what his message to mankind is, because we wish to see him steadily and to see him whole. In reading a play of Shakspeare we ought first to understand the ar-

K. A.'S THANKSGIVING.

The Fraternity Party Left Durham Early Thursday and Spent Day in Roxboro—Guest of J. A. Long, Jr.

Trinity's Kappa Alpha men kept Thanksgiving in a highly enjoyable and unique way this year. Both themselves and their friends spent a most delightful day as the guests of Mr. J. A. Long, Jr., of Roxboro. The party, with the exception of a few who reached the station too late, and had to drive through the country, left Durham on the early Norfolk and Western train.

On arrival at Roxboro the party was met by Mr. Long and immediately driven to the hotel where a "quail on toast" breakfast was in store for them. After this the fraternity party drove out to Loch Lily for a regular old fashioned good time, in which "blind man's bluff" and the "Virginia reel" played an important part. After several hours of such fun the party returned to the hotel where King Turkey, cranberry sauce and other Thanksgiving dishes awaited them.

A musical evening at Mr. Long's home finished off a day full of pleasure, after which all left for Durham.

Those enjoying Mr. Long's hospitality were: Miss Pender, of Greenville, and Mr. J. L. Kilgo; Miss Annie Laurie Long and Mr. Fred C. Page; Miss Kathleen Turentine and Prof. L. E. Pender; Miss Ruth Green and Mr. W. W. Watson; Miss Susie Cox and Mr. H. W. Tuttle; Miss Evelyn Jones and Mr. N. W. LeGrand; Miss Mitchell Waddill and Mr. H. A. Page, Jr., of Aberdeen; Miss Lucile Waddill, of Carthage, and Mr. R. B. Potts; Miss Emith Tuttle and Mr. J. H. Potts; and Miss Hazel Munnings with Mr. W. D. Finger. Stage: Lee R. Page, B. L. Kilgo, M. E. Newsom, Jr. and J. A. Long, Jr. Chaperones: Mrs. J. A. Long and Mrs. Annie Long.

The Glee Club At G. F. C.

Many excellent numbers were rendered last night at Greensboro College by the Glee Club from Trinity College at Durham. This is the seventh annual tour of the club, which is under the leadership this year of Ouida Tyler, of Richmond, Va., and the concert last night was for the benefit of the senior class of G. F.

The singing of the club in chorus was especially effective, showing careful training. This was also the case with the quartet, while the solo parts were well rendered and evoked emphatic applause. An audience of good proportions greeted the singers.—Industrial News, Dec. 3.

Mr. K. B. Nixon was a park visitor during the past week. He stopped over here while on his way to Washington where he goes to accept the position of secretary to Congressman Webb. Mr. Nixon will also take advanced work in law at George Washington University during his stay in Washington.

THE SCIENCE CLUB MEETING.

Regular Monthly Meeting Held Monday Night in Crowell Science Hall

SOME VERY INSTRUCTIVE PAPERS READ

Professor Edwards Delivered a Very Interesting Lecture On "Some Recent Discoveries in Physical Science"—Summary of Lecture.

The regular monthly meeting of the Science Club was held in the Physics lecture room Monday evening. The meeting, as usual, was interesting and instructive throughout. Under the head of current topics, Mr. W. M. Marr read a very interesting paper on the "Pasteurization of Milk" and Dr. L. L. Hendien, in his characteristic manner, discussed briefly the "Gyroscope."

The main feature of the meeting, however, was an address by Prof. C. W. Edwards, on "Some Recent Discoveries in Physical Science."

The lecture was a summary of some of the notable achievements in science during the past year, followed by an introduction to some of the rather remarkable controversies now engaging the attention of scientists the world over. This is a period of epoch-making discoveries in science and it is safe to say that more real advance has been made both in experimental and theoretical results during the last ten years than was made in the entire hundred years preceding. Quite a little of this revolutionary work, fundamental and epoch-making though it be, is not susceptible of popular treatment and was not treated on this occasion.

First in importance comes the realization of the alchemist's dream—the transmutation of matter and the consequent revision of many of our notions of matter. Ideas that were reduced three years ago now receive earnest and thoughtful consideration. Ramsay's experimental breaking up of copper into potassium, lithium and calcium during the past summer is now generally accepted—following as it does the resolution of radium emanation into helium.

Fifty years ago Uriah Boyden gave a prize of a thousand dollars for an experimental determination of the question as to whether or not all physical rays, now classed as light, were transmitted with the same velocity. It was not until this summer that the prize was won by an affirmative answer.

Since the days of Otto Stuve, about a century ago, there has been some question as to the make up of Saturn's rings. Recently the spectroscope has demonstrated that they are made up of millions of disconnected worlds.

The latest developments in commercial lighting were next discussed and the new Helion, tungsten, tantalum and flaming arc lamps were exhibited. A de-

FIRST CONCERT GOOD.

The Glee Club's Initial Appearance in West Durham a Success—Showed Excellent Training—Left Monday.

The Glee Club gave its initial concert of the season in West Durham last Saturday evening to a fairly large audience, and all who heard the performance speak in the highest terms of the quality of it. The members of the Club showed splendid training, and the concert reflected great credit on Professor Tyler, of Richmond, under whose direction the Club has been for the past several weeks. A large number of new songs have been learned by the twenty-five members of the organization, all of whom possess excellent voices, and the first performance of the season was one that was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The program rendered Saturday night was as follows:

1. Trinity Medley, by the Glee Club.
2. Violin Solo, "Cantileta," by Gilmer Korner, Jr.
3. "If You Know of a Heart," by Tyler and Hawks.
4. "Blow Soft Winds," by Glee Club.
- Intermission.
1. "Fly Away Birdling, and Sweet and Low," by Glee Club.
2. Solo, "Forever, Love Forever," by Tyler.
3. Violin Solo, "Waltzer," by Gilmer Korner, Jr.
4. String Duo, "Anona," by Hawks and Wyche.
5. "O, Silent Stars," by the Quartet.
6. "Goodnight, Beloved, Goodnight," by Glee Club.

The Club left via the Southern Monday afternoon for a week's tour in the Western part of the State where several concerts will be given. The first concert was given Monday evening in Greensboro at Greensboro Female College. Other concerts will be given in High Point, Burlington, Winston-Salem, Concord and Gastonia. The young men will return to the college next Saturday or Sunday.

The Sixtieth Congress met in Washington on Monday. Two members of the House of Representatives from this State are Trinity men, Hon. J. H. Small of Washington and Hon. H. L. Godwin, of Dunn. Mr. Small has served for several terms, and Mr. Godwin is beginning his congressional career. Mr. Godwin is one of the youngest members of Congress. He was a student at Trinity since the college was moved to Durham.

description of the latest developments in wireless telegraphy, color photography, telescope following. In closing the recent photographs of the transit of Mercury, the Chili photographs of Mars were discussed and an account given of the curious, yet bitter controversy now being engaged in by scientists concerning the N-rays and the evidence of life on Mars.

TRINITY AGAIN DEFEATED.

Game of Basket Ball Played at Wake Forest Monday Evening.

SMOKER GIVEN BY MR. J. W. BAILEY.

Several Respond to Toasts—President Potent Likes Basket Ball Better Than Base Ball—The Score of Game 11 to 20.

For the second time this season, Trinity's Basket Ball team was defeated by Wake Forest Monday night by a score of 11 to 20. The playing started off fast, and for a time Trinity was ahead in matter of playing, but later on in the game the opponents came to the front, and gradually the Wake Forest team began to gain. As usual Kiker, P. J. played star ball. He threw four field goals and one foul goal, and Arnsfield scored one field goal. Wake Forest's leading man on the team was Conch, who scored two field goals, and six foul goals. Little, of the same team, scored one field goal, Duffy three from the field, and Gay one from the field.

The line up was as follows:

Trinity.	Position
Kiker, P. J.	r. f.
Baxter, (Tuttle, last half)	l. f.
Arnsfield,	c.
Lilly,	r. g.
Kiker, W. B.	l. g.
Wake Forest.
Little,	r. f.
Conch,	l. f.
Gav,	c.
White,	r. g.
Duffy,	l. g.

During the game Trinity made 12 fouls, Wake Forest, 6.

In comparison to the game at Trinity several days ago, the game at Wake Forest was more snappy, and everybody played better ball.

After the game Mr. J. W. Bailey gave a smoker complimentary to the visiting team. Refreshments were a served. None of the players were allowed to partake of supper in order to be in better shape for the game. Having gone without a meal, and the vigorous exercise incident to playing, it is needless to say that the repast was greatly enjoyed. President Potent was at the game and smoker also. In a response to a toast he spoke in the highest terms of the form of athletics he had witnessed, saying that he liked basket ball far better than he did foot ball or base ball. His reason was that there was "something doing" all the time, and no one could ever tell what would be the outcome of a certain play. He further stated that he thinks that it will only be a matter of time until basket ball will have a place in all the colleges of the South.

Director Card and Mr. Crozier responded to toasts also, both telling of their efforts to get the game for their respective colleges. Several of the ball players from both teams, Mr. Bailey and men from the law class also made brief talks.

In addition to those already mentioned, several members of the law faculty and some of the students of the law department were present at the smoker.

DURHAM, N. C., Dec. 4, 1907

It is understood that an invitation will be extended to the North Carolina Conference to hold its next session in Trinity church, Durham. The other Methodist congregations in Durham will join in the invitation. The Conference would receive a hearty welcome, and The Chronicle hopes the invitation will be accepted.

The last time the Conference met in Durham was in 1894. The members of the Conference who have not visited Durham since that time would find a great change in the city of Durham,
and especially would they find many changes and improvements at the college. At that time the college had been in Durham only two years. There were few buildings and little had been done to improve the grounds. The members of the Conference would not recognize the campus as the same place.

WORK OF SCIENCE CLUB.

The Science Club, the regular monthly meeting of which organization was held last Monday evening in the physics lecture room of Crowell Science Hall, is doing a work along scientific lines in this institution which is very commendable and praiseworthy.
Every month meetings of this nature are held under the auspices of the club, and always a very instructive and interesting program is arranged for the occasions, and matters thoroughly scientific and up-to-date in their character are discussed, all of which are calculated to stimulate a deeper interest in the work of the science department.

Of course, all students doing
special work in science are naturally interested in the work of this organization, and, co-operating with the professors and instructors, do all they can to develop
it. It is also true that those who are not prosecuting scientific courses pay practically little attention to its work, which is not unusual. But the work that this organization is doing should not only appeal to the scientifically inclined students alone, but there is value in it to be gained by those even whose work leads in entirely different directions.

The promoters of this interest
here are entitled to the co-operation and support of the entire student body and the community generally; and we feel safe in predicting that interest will increase in it and that the Science Club will be of even greater force and influence in stimulating and maintaining interest in scientific research.

A. T. O. Thanksgiving Picnic.

The Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity held its annual Thanksgiving picnic at Mr. Southgate's Cabin.
The couples drove out after dinner and enjoyed an afternoon full of pleasure at this ideal picnic
place. At six o'clock a sumptuous spread was served. After this the party gathered in the "Big Room" around the large open fire for tales and songs to the accompaniment of Mr. South-gate's banjo. The crowd then drove back to town. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. E. M.
Stokes, chaperons, Misses Cecilia Henry, Elva Crowell, Isabel Pin-
nix, Alice Franklin, Blanche Smith, Fannie Markham, Christine McIntosh, Irma Boyce, Anna
Branson, Douglas Hill, Luola
Tuttle and Messrs. J. N. Cole, Jr.,
E. S. McIntosh, Fred Flowers,
J. L. Hutchison, W. B. Lilly, H.
C. Doss, K. W. Parham, Sam
Angier, C. S. Warren and Claud

An Enjoyable Thanksgiving Party.

The young people residing at the home of Mrs. Carr's, on Watts street, gave a very enjoyable party Thursday evening. In addition to those living at this place, a number of their friends on the park were present. The event lasted from 8 till 11 o'clock, during which time a number of very interesting games were played.
But the most interesting of all the games was "progressive" jackstraws. There were five or six tables with four players at each table, and during the entire time every player put forth all the skill and interest possible in order to get promotion and a heart on the tally card. Mr. J.
B. Sidbury was the most successful player, and was awarded a beautiful bunch of chrysanthemums. The most unsuccessful participant in the contest was
Mr. D. L. Elder, and he was consequently given a "booby" prize,
which was a miniature representation of a donkey.

Four or five kinds of fruits and candy were served as refreshments.
Mr. Q. Holton, being an accomplished musician, rendered a number of piano selections, to the enjoyment of all. Those present were:
Misses Perry, Parkin, Gray, Wes-
cott, Currin, White, Koonce, Mann, Newman, Lela Newman
and Messrs. E. der, D. L. Elder, J. N. Bivins, W. A. Sanders, Finch, Heitman, Currin, M. and
R. Sidbury and Parsons.

Mr. W. S. Deloatch, of the Senior class, left for his home at Lasker Saturday. He was suffering with a slight case of blood poison in his hand and may not return to college until after the Christu as holidays.

CABINET MAKES PLANS.

Y. M. C. A. Soon to Have an Election—Series of Six Addresses by Prominent Men—Revival Meetings in Feb.

During the past week the Y.
M. C. A. cabinet has had several meetings for the purpose of considering nominations for president and other officers of the organization for the next association year. These nominations will be made known next Wednesday evening at the regular devotional meeting of the Y. M. C.
A., at which time the election will be held. Just as soon as the election comes off the newly elected officers will take charge of the association work. In all probability the president and vice-president will come from the Junior class, but a man can be elected for such positions even though in one of the lower classes.
It is understood that there are several men in the Junior class who are capable of making good presidents, and the nominations will not be made until considerable consultation and reflection of the men constituting the cabinet.

The members of the cabinet
have also arranged a series of six lectures by men from different parts of the State, which will come off weekly. The first lecture of the series will be about February 15th. So far only two or three men have been selected to make talks. The subjects of these talks will be on problems of vital interest to college men.

The association has also selected a very strong man to conduct the annual revival services. It is the custom to have these meetings
each year just after the fall term examinations. It will be remembered that Dr. Detwiler, of Greeds-boro, had charge of the meetings
last spring.

The names of the men and the subject of their addresses will be announced later. The names of the preacher selected to have charge of the revival services will also be announced at an early date.

November 26th is the three hundredth anniversary of the birth of John Harvard, founder of the institution which bears his name. Preparations are being made by the Harvard Memorial Society to suitably commemorate the occasion. This will include a memorial service in the Appleton Chapel and a celebration in the Stadium by the student body.

Mr. A. L. Wissburg, of the Senior class, spent Thanksgiving in Raleigh visiting friends.

DEAN FEW ON SHAKSPEARE.

tistic purpose, to see, if possible, just what he is undertaking to do. We must realize that he set about writing a play, and he must observe the laws that make possible an effective acting drama. Unless we keep this in view we cannot appreciate his matchless power and unequalled genius."

Dr. Few said that we should not read this great poet simply for the things that appeal to our prejudices, our sentimentality, or our shallow emotions. To do so would be to miss nearly all in Shakspeare that is essentially great.

"A minute, sympathetic interpretation of his thought," said the speaker, "then, I regard as the chief end of a study of Shakspeare, to know him, to feel him, to enjoy him. This is the kind of knowledge of him that will be formative, sustaining and consoling over your whole life. To understand Shakspeare is not so simple a matter as it is often regarded. I imagine ninety-nine people out of a hundred who read an average page of Shakspeare fail to understand a great deal of it, and as a consequence get quite a wrong or quite an inadequate impression."

The speaker here stated that Shakspeare was possessed with a kind of "divine madness," and that he had a healthy contempt for unimportant facts and faithfulness to useless details. He had in a wonderful degree the instinct of genius that enabled him to comprehend the truth of life, to see the heart of things. After he came into possession of his full powers he held all his faculties in perfect poise, and was master of himself and his art.

In speaking of the tragedies of life, the speaker mentioned how Shakspeare brought face to face the great impenetrable mysteries of human life and death. Great as Shakspeare was he gave us no easy going answer to the riddles of our existence that has, and will always puzzle the minds of men. Shakspeare does not attempt to solve problems.

"Nature hangs the rose upon the bush and paints the clouds that gather around the setting sun. We are left to get from these our lessons, and we are likewise left to get our lessons from Hamlet and King Lear. We must not expect to find Shakspeare a moralist like Solomon or Emerson. Unless I have wholly misconceived the character of Shakspeare, this is impossible from the constitution of the man as well as from the nature of dramatic poetry. Shakspeare was not endowed with the moral earnestness and enthusiasm for humanity that make missionaries and moralists. He had a sort of moral instinct that forced him to do his work the best he could, just as the natural instinct compels the birds to build their nests. He had the highest form of morality that runs itself out through the fingers into his work."

THE CONSOLING POWER.

"Nor does Shakspeare finally leave us groping and shivering in the cruel world of the tragedies, a world full as it was of death and life without resting place or guidance.....The most winsome book, I have long felt, written by Shakspeare or ever written by human hands," is Cymbeline, a great dramatic poem, full of peace and full of final triumph, symbolizing as it does that far day for which men have toiled and prayed through all the silent centuries—that glad day when all tears shall be removed from all eyes."

Here the speaker mentioned how the writings of Shakspeare sustained and consoled Tennyson during the supreme moments of his life.

In conclusion Dr. Few said that if we understand a single line of Shakspeare's greatest work we must get a higher conception of the dignity and essential greatness of man's life, a finer conception of the beauty and glory and poetry of the world. When we get this higher conception of man's life we will feel that life is worth while, and that it pays to be the noblest we can. A finer perception of the beauty and glory and poetry of the world will make us more in love with all that is good and beautiful. If we get out of Shakspeare's writings a deeper sense of the inscrutable mystery of all things, it will make us modest, patient, humble, and will also cause us to bow our heads in silence before the awful mysteries of life and death.

ALUMNI NOTES.

[Items for this Department are Solicited by the Editor from All Students and Graduates of Trinity.]

H. P. Boggs, '93, is now living at Seneca, S. C.

Rev. J. T. Erwin, ex-'94, a member of the Western North Carolina Conference, has been transferred to the Kentucky Conference.

Edwin M. Harrison, who was a student at Trinity during the collegiate year 1893-4, is a practicing physician in Chicago. His practice is limited to diseases of the eye, nose and throat. His office is in suite 1104, Heyworth Building, Chicago. He has had a most successful career. He has been offered a position as medical examiner for an insurance company in New York, and will probably accept. He is a native of Forestville, Wake county. His many friends who were in college with him will be glad to know of the success he has achieved.

Faculty Lectures.

The faculty committee on lectures has made arrangements for a course of lectures to be delivered before the college community. The lectures provided by the committee are open to the public and are well attended. Dr. W. K. Boyd, of the department of History, will lecture Monday, December 9, on "Some Intellectual Aspects of the 13th Century." Prof. E. C. Brooks, of the department of Education, will lecture on Tuesday evening, December 17, on "J. Y. Joyner, Superintendent Public Instruction of North Carolina, date to be announced later; Prof. J. C. Wooten, of the department of Biblical Literature on Monday, January 13; Prof. Chas. W. Edwards, February 1; Dr. C. A. Woodard, of Durham, sometime in March.

An event which attracted a good deal of attention and which, incidentally, has done a great deal of advertising for colleges, is the touring through Europe last summer by six boys from Vanderbilt University, who sang their way through the continent,

John Schuknecht, Minnesota's football captain, has found the ideal summer training for prospective football candidates: he spent the latter part of the vacation in a stone quarry.

The Dartmouth Athletic Council has decided ten of the twelve men of last year's baseball team ineligible to ever represent the college on any athletic team as these men played professional ball during the summer.

Here's a Clean-cut Looking Fellow

THIS remark is often made concerning the young man wearing our Handsome Suits.

The young man of today demands the very newest fashions—the very latest innovations. No stubby coats, no narrow lapels, no bag-hanging garments for him this season. We select certain lines of suits from tailoring houses that are specialists in young men's clothes—whose styles are patterned after what one sees on the college campus—dashingly daring, but not to the extreme.

$15 or $18.60 or $20 or $25

But reserve your opinion until you have seen the suits.

The Cut of the Coat

Tells the taste of the tailor. The garment that strikes your fancy may not be the one that you should wear. In the mirror of the retail clothier you cannot see yourself as others see you. Is it safe to trust your appearance to the judgment of the ready-made salesman; biased by the necessity of fitting you to the clothing rather than the clothing to you? Individuality and character are subtly expressed in every garment I make. Years of experience in serving the best dressers guarantee that clothing made by me is perfect in style and finish, and is of the color and cut best suited to the wearers' complexion.
