CHANGES IN THE MUSEUM.

Dr. Boyd and Mr. Grant Have Lately Been at Work Re-arranging.

NUMBER INTERESTING AND RARE BOOKS

Additional Show Case Room—Number of First N. C. Histories Exhibited—Historical Works Received by Library Recently.

For the past week Dr. W. K. Boyd, president of the Historical Society and Mr. T. M. Grant, curator, have made considerable changes in the museum. A show case has been secured, and a large number of very interesting books, manuscripts, etc., of a rare nature are now on exhibition. All these things have been stored away in the vault for sometime because there has not been sufficient show-case room to make the proper display.

Among the most recent acquisitions of the Historical Society is a copy of Harper's Weekly for May 1865 which contains an interesting account of Johnson's surrender to Sherman at the Bennett House, four miles west of Durham. The paper contains a cut of the house as it then appeared, and also an illustration showing the two generals in the act of drawing up the articles of surrender. The society sometime ago secured the table at which the officers sat when the papers were drawn up, and other interesting mementoes of the occasion.

Some of the most interesting books that have been placed in the case are the following: "John Lawson's History of North Carolina," published in London, 1709, and is the first history ever printed of North Carolina; "John Brickell's Natural History of North Carolina," published in Dublin, 1737; "History of Campaigns of 1780 and 1781: Johnson's Life and Correspondence of Nathaniel Green," two volumes, published in Charleston, 1822; "Mrs. Anne Royall's Southern Tour, or Second Series of Black Book," Washington, 1830. She was a very notorious radical of her day, and said some very caustic things about certain conditions in this State; also "Coxe's Description of the English Province of Carolina, by the Spaniards called Florida," London, 1726. There is also a copy of the first book ever printed in North Carolina, which is called the "Yellow Jacket or North Carolina Laws." This book was published in 1752.

Among some of the most interesting manuscripts are the following: "American Slavery, the Immediate Duty of Slave Holders," by Eli W. Caruthers, a Presbyterian minister of Greensboro, and a native of this State. There are three or four hundred pages of this manuscript, and it was the intention of the divine to have the work printed in book form. It is a very severe criticism of slavery (Continued on third page.)

ANNUAL REVIVAL IN FEB.

Rev. G. T. Rowe, Class '95, Will Conduct the Meeting—They Will Begin Just After the Examinations.

Arrangements have been almost completed for the annual revival services to be held here immediately after mid-year examinations under the auspices of the local Young Men's Christian Association. As it now stands the meetings will in all probability begin Monday evening, Feb. 3rd, and will be held in the Y. M. C. A. hall, Epworth building. Just how long they will continue will depend on their success, but it is safe to say that they will last a week or ten days.

It will be interesting to the entire college community to learn that the committee on arrangements has been so fortunate as to secure the services of Rev. G. T. Rowe, of Central Church, Asheville during the series of meetings. This fact alone is enough almost to insure a certain success of the meeting. Rev. Mr. Rowe is a member of the class of '95 and is one of the strongest men that Trinity has sent out. As a pulpitator and as a successful minister in every respect he has won for himself an enviable reputation, and enjoys the distinction of being one of the foremost preachers in the Western North Carolina Conference. The members of the community are to be congratulated on the good fortune they have in the opportunity of hearing him during the period of the revival. He is a strong, forceful preacher, and it is a source of gratification to all who are connected with the organization under whose auspices the revival is held that Mr. Rowe has been secured to conduct the services.

The custom of an annual revival is an old one here, and is looked forward to by all interested in the religious life of the community with a great deal of enthusiasm. Every year immediately after the close of examination, in February, for a period of at least a week, religious services are conducted, and the amount of good that is accomplished by them in stimulating the religious faiths of the students, and of others in the community, is incalculable. Last year the revival was conducted by Dr. G. H. Detwiler, of Greensboro, and the year before Dr. K. Igo conducted it.

Dr. Nicholas Senn, professor of surgery in the University of Chicago, died of dilation of the heart January 1st. Dr. Senn was a surgeon of world wide reputation, being counted well in the front rank of his profession. His death is the result of a dangerous journey in the mountain regions of Peru where he went last summer to make a special study of certain diseases.

The Columbia Dramatic Club will play "Mr. King," a drama of Revolutionary times.

PROBLEM OF AIR FLIGHT.

Dr. Hendren Delivered Lecture Monday Evening Before Science Club.

FOUR WAYS OF TRAVELING THRO AIR

A Synopsis of Speaker's Talk—Discussion of Various Types of Flying Machines—Program of February—Meeting an Interesting One.

(Crowded out last issue)

The Science Club held its regular monthly meeting at 7:30 Monday evening, Jan. 6, and had a large attendance. The principal feature of the program was a talk by Dr. Hendren on "The Problem of Air flight." He started out by saying that man has found that he can move himself through the air in four possible ways: First, by means of a balloon driven forward by a motive driven propeller; second, by means of a machine designed to imitate a flapping bird; third, by means of propellers with vertical axes for lifting and horizontal axes for forward motion; fourth, by means of aero-planes designed to imitate the soaring bird.

The speaker discussed in detail the development and performances of these various types especially the motor-driven balloon and aero-planes as being the most successful up to the present time. He showed a drawing of the great German war ship built by Count Vonzeppelin which has repeatedly carried a load of 16,000 pounds at a rate of 33 miles per hour for considerable distances and return under perfect control of the operator. As an example of a successful aero-plane he exhibited a rough model of a machine in which Henry Farman of Paris made several sensational flights during last November, some of them being for a distance of a mile and return at the rate of thirty five miles per hour; the machine all the while being under Farman's control and landing without damage.

The aero-plane consisted of a double system of superposed planes driven forward by means of a seven foot propeller operated by a fifty horse power Levasour gasoline motor.

In closing Dr. Hendren commented upon the fact that this seeming realization of free flight through the air is only one of many illustrations of the fact that the present age is one of intense scientific activity and that the next hundred years bids fair to surpass the last hundred in scientific achievement, with proportionately great changes in our modes of living and views of material universe.

The next meeting of the Science Club will be held the first Monday evening in February, and the program will consist of a lecture by Prof. Pegram on "Modern Exposures" and also by Mr. Ivey on "Wireless Telegraph and Wireless Telephony," who will exhibit a wireless telegraph apparatus of his own manufacture. He will also make a practical demonstration of the working of the apparatus.

A PRELIMINARY DEBATE.

Trinity-Tennessee Preliminary to be Held Feb. 15—Several Students Will Enter—Question to be Discussed.

A number of students who are contemplating entering the preliminary contest which selects the representatives on the Trinity-University of Tennessee Debate are now at work, and while very little can be done in this respect until after the mid-year examinations have closed some work is being done. Several students will enter the contest this time, and the preliminary promises to be very interesting and enthusiastic. After the examinations have been finished those who are working on the question to be discussed on that occasion will go to work and get in readiness for the preliminary contest which takes place Saturday evening, February 15th. The question to be discussed is: "Resolved, That all great business corporations engaged in interstate commerce exercising monopoly powers of control over the necessities of life should be required to take out charters under the Federal Government, and thus submit to Federal regulations."

At the contest in February two men will be selected who will represent Trinity in the debate. This debate will be the second of a series of three with the University of Tennessee. Last year the first debate was held at Knoxville, at which place the University of Tennessee is located, and resulted in a victory for Trinity. For this reason a great deal of interest is now centered around the second of this first series, and it is with a great deal of speculation about its results that it will be entered by Trinity's representative.

This will be the second intercollegiate debate which will be held this year. The other is with Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee, and will take place in that city Friday evening, February 14th. This is the first of a second series of three debates with that institution, Trinity having come off with the honors in the first series. Trinity's representatives for this debate are Messrs. A. W. Horton and L. Herbin, the former being a member of the senior class and the latter, a member of the junior class.

The debate with the University of Tennessee will take place here Easter in Craven Memorial Hall.

At the University of Virginia a new idea has been set on foot by members of the faculty in the way of a "College Hour" a time set apart once a month for the faculty and student body to get together, get acquainted, and discuss questions of interest to the welfare of the university at large. The occasion will be informal and every student will be expected to enter into the spirit of the time, and to give what ideas he has for the improvement of college life.

PROF. WOOTEN LECTURED.

Delivered Third Lecture in Faculty Series Monday Evening.

COMMON SENSE VIEW OF BIBLE STUDY

Well Balanced Discussion of the Subject—In Studying History Bible Cannot be Neglected—Large Number Were Present.

A good sized audience heard Prof. John C. Wooten, of the department of Biblical Literature lecture in the Y. M. C. A. hall Monday evening. The lecture was the third in the faculty series, and his subject was "A Common Sense View of Bible Study" of which he gave a very discriminating and well-balanced discussion. He spoke in substance as follows:

So many changes have been brought about in these recent years that some adjustment is necessary, not only in the physical world but in all the forces that make for life. Not that our present attitude is more irreverent but more exacting.

From the time of Professor Jowett's article in "Esays and Reviews" in which he advised that we "interpret the Scriptures like any other Book" English speaking students have studied the Bible differently. If men wish to cover the entire ground when they study History they cannot neglect the Bible. The Christian religion is historic; the Old Testament is historic, and so is the New. It was impossible then for the Scriptures to escape the significance of this historic spirit. This spirit instead of destroying or weakening the influence of the Bible, as many churchmen thought, has brought the Bible into touch with real life.

The dates, headings and places of composition are left off in the Revised Version. Such a theory breaks down in the actual use of the word. The conception of inspiration was a natural and almost inevitable one. The seventeenth century was a time of storm and struggle. Protestants refused to recognize the authority of the Roman Catholic Church; it was natural that they should turn for authority to the Bible. The Jesuits pointed with pride to an infallible church; it was natural that the Protestants should point with pride to an infallible book. The style language and every thing about it was perfect, they said, and any suggestion of imperfection was blasphemous. Such a theory full grown led to untenable positions. This theory is the simplest, and the most easily managed, "But an easy theory may minister to man's laziness." A man may say every reverently "This is God's Word" and then let the dust settle on the pages of it. A man does not reverence the Bible simply by saying nice things about it, he reverences it (Continued on third page.)

ANENT EXAMINATIONS.

Before another issue of The Chronicle shall have come from the press, one of the only two periods during the college year, in which almost perfect tranquility seems to reign supreme on our campus, will be upon us. We will soon be in the throes of examinations when the studious keep "the noiseless tenor of their way," the non-studious assiduously "cram," and both "await alike the inevitable hour" when they must give an account of what they have done during the term now ending.

The merits and demerits of this "hedge of hydra" we cannot now discuss; we have no right to assume without inquiry that it is either good or bad. Nor is it necessary to assert that examinations are odious for among most students it is usually the consensus of opinion that they are unnecessary evils, and that some other way of ascertaining one's knowledge of a subject should be devised. After all has been said, however, pro and con, it must be admitted even by these who most ardently advocate their discontinuation, that there is a certain educational value in examinations. And while all of us who are pestered with them should rejoice to sing their dirge, it seems that there is just now to be found no better substitute, and the only thing left for their victims is patient resignation to their fate.

There are two features of examinations, however, which are not only not praise-worthy, but are, on the other hand, despicable, the chances examinations afford students who have a propensity to such things, to use unfair means to pass their work; and the moral degeneracy and the physical and mental decay which must be the natural consequences of what is known in academic circles as "cramming." The former is dishonest, the latter indiscreet and preposterous, and both are contemptible. Of those guilty of the former we have reasons to believe Trinity has a small percentage, and advice of or warning to that minority on this point would be superfluous and repetitions. Those depending on the last method as a means by which they hope to advance, yield to a policy which will sooner or later work havoc in their mental mechanism. The latter class is of course the larger and consists of those who have neither regard nor respect for times and seasons. Mid-night oil is burned by them when they should be sleeping; their philosophy is tis better to have crammed and passed, than never to have crammed at all.

Had we any advice to offer to those students it would avail nothing at this late hour, but our advice for the next term and all terms the reader is to get what you can as you go along, and when the time of tests comes, approach your examinations with the satisfaction that you have done what you could and go to them not as an ordeal through which you must necessarily pass but as the next thing for you to do.

Reflections of a College Graduate.

There is a certain combination of good digestion, good cigar, song of car wheels and evening lights that makes one forget the discomforts of travel for a brief moment at least. The man reclined luxuriously in a deep chair as the train swept away to the west, and looking upon life, found that it was good. The train careened around a wide curve and the campus and buildings of his old college came into view. This was not an unusual thing to the wanderer; his pathway often wind by the old beloved place. But all things, mood, light and the majestic presence, seemed to be ready for the event. He slowly rose to his feet took of his hat and stood uncovered as the familiar place whirled by. This was all. But something invisible and inaudible transpired; it was a dialogue between great mother-college and exiled son. The college was to him some august and gentle Soul standing in stern judgement of his life.

"You come back, my son. What life do you bring?"

"A life without crown and with little achievement. I hoped in other years to bring honor to you oh mighty mother; but my hands are empty."

"Speak not of these things. There is but one crown, but one honor. It is not in wealth or station. Have you been faithful to Truth and—un-afraid?"

The man bowed his head, something in him seemed to break.

"I have tried."

"You are my son."

The song of the car wheels changed as the train sped on in the west.

The following clipping will show how much the students of Columbia University are in favor of the re-establishment of inter-collegiate football:

Columbia's most recent alumni, the class of 1907 College, in a reunion smoker held last month at the Faculty Club, put themselves on record as favoring the resumption, next fall, of intercollegiate football with a restricted schedule. The resolution embodying this sentiment reads as follows:

Whereas, the members of the class of 1907, Columbia College, keenly feel that it is advisable for Columbia to participate to a limited extent in the revised game of intercollegiate football, as in keeping with the best interests of Columbia University and particularly Columbia College, be it

Resolved, that the class of '07, Columbia College, petition President Butler, and through him the proper University authorities, to sanction a limited schedule of intercollegiate games in the autumn of 1908.

Rev. Mr. Bradshaw Tonight.

This evening at 7 o'clock, in the Y. M. C. A. hall, Rev. M. Bradshaw, the pastor of Main Street Church, will address the Young Men's Christian Association, and a cordial invitation is given every one to be present and to take part in the services. Rev. Mr. Bradshaw, as all know, has recently come into this community, and it is desired that a large number of the students be present tonight and make his acquaintance. He is a graduate of Trinity, being a member of the class of '78, and the community is to be congratulated on the good fortune of having him so near and on being able to hear such an interesting and instructive speaker. Everybody in the community is invited to attend the services tonight.

AN ATHLETIC CONTEST.

Proposee to be Held in Charlotte Soon Provided Enough Entries Received From Carolina Colleges-List of Stunts.

There is a plan on foot to hold an athletic meet in Charlotte on February 21st in the new auditorium, provided entries from enough colleges are received. The following institutions of the Carolinas have been requested to send representatives to enter the contest: University of North Carolina, Trinity College, Davidson College, and A. M. College, in North Carolina. From South Carolina, Wofford College, Clemson, South Carolina College and South Carolina Military Academy. The athletic associations will be required to pay the expenses of the men sent to contest, but the management will furnish to the successful contestants trophies, consisting of cups and other suitable prizes. The proceeds of the meet will be turned over to charity.

The auditorium in which it is proposed to hold this meet has a seating capacity of about 5,000 people, including the gallery. The centre of the main floor will be left open for the events, the spectators sitting around in the gallery and under the gallery. The meet will cover the following:

- High jump.
- 1 mile run.
- Pole vault.
- 800 yard run.
- Shot put.
- Short dash.
- High hurdle.
- Relay race (four men) 1 mile.
- 20 yard dash.

Nothing has been said by the athletic authorities as to whether Trinity will be represented or not; but in as much as it is only a short time before the event comes off, it seems that it will be impossible for the college to train men for the purpose of entering, in case there is a desire to do so.

Enlargement and Equipment of Trinity College.

Rev. J. C. Kilgo, D. D., President of Trinity College, Durham, N. C., delivered a forcible address at the session of the North Carolina Conference in which he advocated the formation of a Trinity Brotherhood among the former students of that college. This institution is having marked influence in North Carolina, and it is destined to have even greater influence. The endowment of Trinity College is now $441,339.33. The buildings are worth $333,850; its lands $266,577; its library, $52,540; its scientific apparatus, $14,368; its furniture, $16,855. The total valuation of the institution is between $1,100,000 and $1,200,000.—Nashville Christian Advocate.

most when he goes into it most deeply, questions it, wrestles with it, and compels it to "give up its deep secrets."

The task of the last century was to complete the reformation and to discover the Bible. The task of the present century is to instill its essential teachings thus revealed into the mind of the individual, so that they will become controlling factors in human life. Here lies the great responsibility and opportunity of the Christian church. If it is to renew its hold on modern men it will be through the mind as well as the heart and its most efficient method will be religious education.

We are not losing the Bible, it is the false traditions that have gathered about it. The church is passing through a revolution in its own conception of the Bible. Not a particle of truth which the Book contains has been destroyed. Instead, some of the traditions and dogmas have been cleared away and the true Scriptures at last stand forth in their own splendor.

The old vagueness and mystery have in part disappeared and instead, it is found to contain thousands of living messages for today. Through it God speaks with a new clearness and authority.

Washington Duke Monument.

The Washington Duke monument has been completed and will be shipped to Durham in a few days. Already stone for the base has been placed on the ground by the contractors, and it is understood that this part of the work will be completed in a week or so. The monument will be placed in position as soon as it arrives. After erection some kind of covering will be placed around the statue until the unveiling takes place, which will be sometime about commencement. Mr. Valentine, of Richmond, the sculptor, will be here while the monument is being erected.

The January South Atlantic Quarterly.

The South Atlantic Quarterly, published at Durham and edited by Drs. Edwin Mims and W. H. Glasson, of the Trinity College faculty, has just entered upon its seventh year, the January number being the first of the seventh volume. It was predicted when this magazine was started in January, 1902, that it would not live more than a year, but by able management and pure merit it has stemmed the billowy tides that every new magazine encounters and is today, from many standpoints, the best magazine in the South and one of the best in the country. Each number is filled with strong articles on timely literary, economic and scientific subjects, from the pens of the best writers of the entire country. The leading contribution to the current issue is by Dean W. P. Few, of Trinity, who, writing under the title of "The Standardizing of Southern Colleges," gives a splendid survey of the development of educational standards in the South, together with a discussion of the work of the Carnegie board. The other articles are of equal merit and should be read especially by every North Carolinian.—Charlotte Observer.

and the conditions prior to the civil war. Also manuscript sermons by Rev. Samuel E. McConkle and Rev. David Caldwell, leaders in the Presbyterian church during the 18th century. Also a letter from W. C. Mendenhall, on the means of emancipation of the slaves; and signatures of the following noted men of their day: Gov. Thomas Ashe, William Harper, Benj. Rush, and others.

No less interesting are a number of letters in manuscript form from a number of important personages during the ante-bellum period and the reconstruction era: Thomas Hart Benton, Martin Van Buren, Levi Woodbury, Amos Kendall, George M. Dallas, Weldon N. Edwards, John K. Paulding, Edward Livingstone, W. C. Rives and Mrs. Dolly Madison.

All historians acquainted with American history since, and prior to the Revolution cannot fail to appreciate the large number of interesting and rare books and papers which have been placed on exhibit. The society has been at work for a long time making its collection, and every significant movement, and men of all periods of the State's history is represented in some way. Of course only a partial list of the rare books are mentioned. Those that were mentioned were spoken of because they have not heretofore been out of the vault.

Dr. Boyd and Mr. Grant have been at work for sometime in the vault arranging and classifying ancient letters and documents in order to ascertain just what the museum is most in need of.

The most interesting books of a historical nature that have been received lately by the library are "Journal of the Convention of the People of South Carolina, held in 1860, 1861 and 1862," which treats fully of the secession movement; "The Ku Klux Trials," 1872, at Columbia and the Public Laws of South Carolina," printed in 1790. These books were very hard to obtain and were also very expensive.

Cornell University has increased its entrance requirements: Fifteen units are now required, a unit being the equivalent of a course pursued in a preparatory school through one year with five recitations a week.

THIS remark is often made concerning the young man wearing our Handsome Suits.

The young man of today demands the very newest fashions—the very latest innovations. No stubby coats, no narrow lapels, no bag-hanging garments for him this season. The Cut of the Coat Tells the taste of the tailor. The garment that strikes your fancy may not be the one that you should wear. In the mirror of the retail clothier you cannot see yourself as others see you. Is it safe to trust your appearance to the judgment of the ready-made salesman; biased by the necessity of fitting you to the clothing rather than the clothing to you? Individuality and character are subtly expressed in every garment I make. Years of experience in serving the best dressers guarantee that clothing made by me is perfect in style and finish, and is of the color and cut best suited to the wearers' complexion.

The Tennis Association expects to arrange some good games to be played here during the spring term.

The next edition of the Archive will be a historical issue, and will be got out by the Historical Society.

The faculty did not see fit to grant the petition of the seniors requesting exemption from examinations.

Mr. J. S. Stroud, 'ex-08 was on the park Saturday. He is a member of the graduating class at the A. & M. College.

Headmaster H. M. North, of the Trinity Park School, preached at the Second Baptist church in the city Saturday evening.

Mr. W. G. Jerome, class '07, Headmaster of the Trinity High School, at Old Trinity, was on the park Saturday visiting friends.

Mr. H. B. Adams, class '70, of Monroe, a member of the Board of Trustees, spent some time in Durham last week on legal business.

Registrar D. W. Newsom has been confined to his room for several days with an attack of tonsillitis, but has now recovered and is back again at his work.

The University of North Carolina has three debates scheduled for this spring. The contests will be with Georgia, Virginia, and George Washington University.

Mr. J. C. Bundy, of Monroe, and Mr. E. L. Smith, of Laurinburg, have not returned to the college since the holidays, having decided to discontinue academic work for a while.

Mr. A. R. McPhail, of Clinton, spent Sunday and Monday on the park with friends. It is Mr. McPhail's intention to return to college February 1st and resume his work in the law department.

Mr. V. S. Ivey, '10, is in the hospital at Statesville, where he recently underwent an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Ivey will return to college as soon as he sufficiently recovers from his illness.

Prof. W. F. Gill, after about a week's absence, has returned to the college from his home at Henderson where he went to be with his father who has been seriously ill. The condition of Prof. Gill's father warranted his return.

Mr. Herman Stevens, a senior at Wake Forest College, spent the day on the park Thursday the guest of Mr. L. Herbin. Mr. Stevens is getting ready to enter the Wake Forest-Mercer preliminary debate, and he came here to spend sometime in the library getting up material pertinent to the question to be discussed.

Profs. Pegram and Tillett, of the department of chemistry, spent the day in Raleigh where they went to attend the midwinter meeting of the North Carolina Section of the American Chemical Society. The meeting was held in the rooms of the department of agriculture. There was a large number of chemists present, and the program was one of interest.

The Ben Greet players and Sousa's Band will visit the University of Virginia about the last of this month.

The University of Chicago Athletic Association cleared $35,000 on football this past fall. The largest receipts were $17,000 from the Indian game, $13,000 from the Minnesota game.

TENNIS ASSOCIATION.

Will Be Held in Atlanta This Spring—Object to Build Up Interest in Tennis—Trinity Representatives Invited.

The Tennis Association has just received an invitation to send representatives to the Southern Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament, which is to be held at Atlanta under the auspices of the Atlanta Athletic Club, May 16-18. Students of all Southern colleges, preparatory schools, male and female, and professional school students, are entitled to enter; and the number of contestants from any given school is unlimited. The only requirement for entrance is that each contestant shall be a bona fide student of some Southern educational institution.

The singles and doubles will be played on the courts of the Athletic Club at East Lake. The winner in singles will be president of the Southern Intercollegiate Tennis Association for the following year. The two winners in doubles will be the first and second vice presidents of the association, and the runner up in singles will be the secretary of the organization for the same length of time.

The entry list will close on May 1st, and the entrance fee which will be $1.50 in singles and $1.00 in double for each contestant. It is the object of the association to build up general interest all over the South in this form of athletics; and those who have the matter in hand are planning to have a large number of players from all kinds of schools and colleges present. It is not now known whether the tennis association will send any men or not, but the college certainly has several men capable of making good records.

New Chairmen of the Various Y. M. C. A. Committees.

Wednesday evening after the devotional feature of the Young Men's Christian Association was over the president of the association appointed chairmen for the various committees in the organization. The following is a list of those appointed to serve during the year: T. M. Grant, Bible study; W. B. Lilly, finance; L. E. Blanchard, mission study; G. M. Daniels, membership; E. W. Knight, religious meetings; Edwin McIntosh, conference; L. Herbin, publication, and W. A. Stanbury, music. The men selected as leaders of the various departments will appoint the men who are to work under them.

As has been previously stated, the association is in a most excellent condition this year. The Bible study classes are large, the membership has been greatly increased, and the meetings on Wednesday evenings are well attended.

Andrew Carnegie has just given $1,000 to the Harper Memorial library at the University of Chicago. This is the first donation the great steel magnate has ever made to the Chicago institution.

Harvard has eighteen basketball game, on her schedule. The first game was January 7th, with the Boston Tech, and the Crimson team will close the season on March 7 at West Point.

THE DANGER OF BEING ALIVE.

Drink water and get typhoid fever. Drink milk and get tuberculosis. Drink whiskey and get the jim-jams. Eat soup and get Bright's Disease. Eat meat and encourage apoplexy. Eat oysters and acquire toxemia. Eat vegetables and weaken the system. Eat dessert and take to paresis. Drink coffee and obtain nervous prostration. Drink wine and get the gout. In order to be entirely healthy one must eat nothing, drink nothing and even before breathing one should make sure that the air has been properly sterilized. Moral—Smoke Lygia Perfecto Cigars and be healthy.
