BASE BALL SCHEDULE OUT.

Manager Crawford Has Arranged One of the Best Schedules Seen.

TWENTY-ONE GAMES ON HOME DIAMOND

Season Tickets on Sale—Southern Trip Arranged for—Best Teams of the North and South to Play Here—Season Opens March 15.

Manager Clyde N. Crawford has just issued his schedule of the base ball games to be played here for the 1910 season. Besides the games to be played on the local diamond the team will take an extensive Southern trip, the schedule of which will be announced in a few days. In addition to the southern trip they will also play several games off the home diamond, all of which will be announced in the near future.

Upon examining the schedule, one is struck immediately by at least three things. The first is the absence of the usual number of games with preparatory schools. Only one appears on the list and that is the opening game of the season with the Trinity Park School. These games, as a rule, have not been very interesting in the past and Manager Crawford has seen fit to dispense with them and to plunge right into the season from the very start. This action will undoubtedly be approved by the fans in general and will give much more interest to the opening games.

The second significant feature about the schedule is the number of games to be played at home—twenty one in all. This is probably the largest number of games that has ever been arranged to be played here in one season. There will certainly be plenty to interest any lover of good base ball from the middle of March to the middle of May.

But the most striking fact about the new schedule is the character of the games to be played here. With scarcely an exception, every team to appear on the local diamond will represent a college or a university of high standing. In fact, local patrons of the national sport will have a chance to see the best college teams of the north and south in action here this spring. Glancing down the list one is pleased to see that Lafayette College has been booked for two games. This institution never fails to send out a husky nine and their coming always excites a deal of interest. Amherst undoubtedly had the spiciest team that came this way last season. They had one of the strongest college teams in the United States last year and it is indeed fortunate that they have been secured for two games again. One of the star attractions of the season will be pulled off April the first and second when the Trinity of the north, from Hartford, Conn., meets the Trinity of the

PRESIDENT KILGO TALKS

Takes Students Into His Confidence and Tells Them of the Trials of a College President—Encourages College Activities

Last Monday evening Dr. Kilgo called a meeting of the student body in the Memorial Hall at 7:30 where he met them and took them into his confidence and talked informally for about an hour on what it takes to make a college president and a college. He said in the beginning that he was not going to make a speech for the meeting was a sort of reception without the usual refreshments and therefore he kept his seat while talking.

His talk while not on any particular subject or arranged in any particular manner was mainly a discussion of the agencies and activities of college life and a college community. First of all he said that it takes two things to make a college, namely; men and money, or rather money an men for he said that the money must come first. He said that in order to run a college it is necessary to have money and an infinite deal of it and that the principal work of the President was to get money. For the President to get the needed money it is necessary that he beg and the question asked when a board of trustees is looking for a President is "Is he a good beggar?" He then said that Trinity was fortunate in having had friends who supplied her needs and that these men who had invested their money in this institution had contributed to the helping of humanity and thus had made a good investment. Referring to the recent utterances on subsidized education he said that it was preposterous for a man to think of hoping to buy college men into slavery and that a man could not have a selfish motive in investing his money in an institution of learning. They could not hope to get any money out of it and besides they did not need the money for they could not spend what they have in a life time. He paid a beautiful tribute to the unselfishness of Mr. Washington Duke and his son Mr. B. N. Duke, the benefactors of Trinity.

The next thing necessary for an institution of learning he pointed out to be men. Referring to the man at college handicapped financially he said that he was glad that the term poor man had never been in use at Trinity. There has always been a spirit of helping a man but not to make him a bulletin board for the advertising of the charities of the institution. In this connection he showed that Trinity offers the greatest opportunity for the man who is seeking an opportunity and that society here is democratic there being no distinctions of classes.

In conclusion he called upon the students to get the Trinity spirit in every phase of college life. He urged that they get be-

DR. BEAMAN MAKES ADDRESS

Presiding Elder of Durham District Talks to Young Men.

SUBJECT: "MIND, MORALS, MUSCLE."

Holds up Stanley as a Man of This Type—Makes Christ the Perfect Type—Good Audience Present to Hear Him.

Last Wednesday evening at the regular meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association, Dr. R. C. Beaman, Presiding Elder of the Durham district was present and delivered an address to the good sized audience present. The address was somewhat of an echo of the sermon he preached at Trinity church Sunday in opposition to immoral plays and carried with it some great truths and timely admonitions. Dr. Beaman was introduced by Mr. Vick, the Vice-President of the Association and begun by saying that he was glad to be present and to have a moment of christian fellowship with the members of the Association but that he felt like apologizing for he said, "I went over and enjoyed Dr. Lynch's most excellent address last night and then played the fool by going over to the Esperian Society hall where I sailed into two or three kinds of creams, apples, candy and all sorts of things and later in the night about forty nightmares sailed into me so I have been stupid all day."

The speaker chose as his subject the three M's, "Mind, Morals, and Muscle," and said in part as follows: "In those three you have the foundation pillars of life itself. You cannot do anything without mind; you cannot do anything without morals even though you have mind; and mind and morals combined are handicapped without an iron muscle as a means of accomplishing their purpose. There is no hope for a man who is without a mind. God cannot do anything with a natural born fool. It is true that a mind may be crude and rough to begin with but when God takes a block of it so to speak as the sculptor would a block of granite, and begins to chisel it into form no one knows what will be the outcome. But there must be a mind to cultivate. When you have a mind to begin with then you can watch it unfold and it is good to see a mind reaching out to the infinite. That is what mind culture is. The significance and inspiration of all cultures lies in the fact that you are never going to reach the limit of expansion."

"Co-equal and parallel with the development of the mind comes the cultivation of the morals. They are inseparable. Sometimes we make the mistake of thinking, 'hemind must be painstakingly cultivated while the morals will take care of themselves. You can do no more with a young man with-

PARK SCHOOL NEWS.

Local Items from That Campus—Base Ball Prospects.

From the base ball practice, which has already begun, it seems that there is excellent material from which to pick successful team this year. Rapid improvements have already been noticed and all applicants for positions on the team are working hard. Captain Dockery, who was on the team last year, seems to be in excellent condition for pitching and it will be a hard contest between him and Fitzgerald for first place on the pitching staff. Low, who is trying for catch, has a wing that is hardly ever equalled and never surpassed. Whitted, who is trying for second seems to be a very promising player. Gonzales, who was on the team last year, is showing up well in his old position. Gillert, Benton, and Edwards are also doing good work in the outfield. Prof. E. W. Knight, who has been chosen Manager of the team, has already secured some good games and has several others in view.

Prof. Lockhart made an interesting address to the Y. M. C. A. last Wednesday evening.

Mr. H. W. Roberson spent last Saturday and Sunday at his home in Oxford.

Mr. E. W. Beaver, who has been spending a few days at his home in Spencer, returned to the Park last week.

out moral foundations than you can with the man without a mental foundation. The man who is unsound in morals is not to be relied on anywhere under any circumstances. Solomon sounded it to the bottom when he said, 'Keep thy heart with all diligence for out of it are the issues of life.' A man may be strong mentally but if back of it there be the rottenness of a moral impurity, his life cannot come to the highest and best estate. When you unsettle the moral foundations you weaken the mind."

"To back up and give strength to the proper moral and mental life a man needs a strong muscle, a trained muscle. A man in this day needs a muscle so trained that life leaps to the strife and is eager for the fray. The world calls for a strong mind, strong morals, and strong muscles. You want to get into the athletic life of the institution as well as the academic. There is a man whose life I have been recently reading whom I would hold out to you as the type of man who had all three of these qualities, W. M. Stanley, the African explorer. To see him as he led his men through the wilds of the heart of Africa, unswerving and unflinching, enduring attack after attack of the racking African fever and yet never give up is to admire and wonder at the man he was. Then I would if I had time point you to the perfect embodiment of them all, your Lord and mine, the Savior, but that is not necessary for you all know it as well as I."

WAKE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION.

Holds Annual Banquet in Raleigh on Washington's Birthday.

MR. BROWN MASTER OF CEREMONIES.

Prof. Flowers of the Department of Mathematics Gives Principal Address as Representative of the College—Those Who Were Present.

This second annual banquet of the Wake County Trinity Alumni Association was held Tuesday, 22nd 8 p. m., at the Hotel Giersch Raleigh. Members of the Association present were Dr. Albert Anderson, President; Jas. M. Templeton, Jr., Secretary; Rev. J. O. Guthrie; Mr. B. C. Beckwith; Mr. L. E. Blanchard; Mr. Holmes Arendell; Dr. W. C. McMackin, Mr. Fab Brown; Mr. C. P. Franklin; Mr. B. H. Lamb; Rev. H. M. North; and Mr. Jos. J. Brown. Messrs. E. C. Duncan, F. B. Arendell were guests; Judge O. H. Allen, of the Lenoir Association was also a guest; Prof. R. L. Flowers was the college representative.

Two and one half hours were consumed in partaking of a six course menu and listening to the happy words of those responding to the felicitous and apt introductions of the eloquent toastmaster, Mr. J. G. Brown. In order the speakers were Messrs. E. C. Beckwith, A. Anderson, W. M. North, W. C. McMackin, L. E. Blanchard, F. B. Arendell, E. C. Duncan, O. H. Allen, J. O. Guthrie, and Prof. R. L. Flowers.

A good part of the expressions were tributes to two men, one the conditor, the other the restitutor of the college; Mr. Beckwith, Dr. McMackin, Mr. Guthrie and Judge Allen indicated that Craven is to Trinity what Arnold is to Rugby; his prodigious labors as an administrator, teacher of law and theology as well as academic subjects, preacher and worker in civic enterprises were impressed; the attachment of the students seems to have been universal and profound—the greatest man our state has produced said several. The present head as a master-builder, a God-appointed man for the work, and worthy exemplar received his meed too—especially from the younger men. Dr. Crowell as a leader in the general educational upbuilding of the state, and momentous steerman of Trinity College from a mediaeval domicile to one demanded by the industrial, educational, and social verities of our civilization was not slighted. Another major note was an appreciation of the college: "It finds the germs of manhood in a youth and nurtures them," said Mr. North; its tolerance, i. e., discouragement of sectarian and partisan bigotry, was commended by one; "it is becoming one of the foremost colleges in the country," said another.

a team entering into an athletic contest and the team that plays another team is under a moral obligation to give that team a fair show or else be rated as a dastardly set, unworthy of the name of gentlemen.

Recently Trinity has had occasion to complain of not having had a square deal. While on their trip they played under adverse circumstance, their captain being out of the game on account of a sprained ankle and their best men only half able to play on account of suffering with lagrippe. Yet with all this they made a better showing than any other team has made on a trip through the state and on their home floor held the champions of the South to a closer score than any other team in the South has done with one exception. With this kind of a showing the team had hoped to redeem itself for the defeats suffered on the trip when return games were played on the home floor. Unfortunately, however, these scheduled games were never played, for a flimsy excuse or no excuse at all they were cancelled. One team not only had the affront to cancel the game without giving a reason but forthwith proceeded to claim the state championship. They know that they have never played Trinity at her full strength and that they would not have the ghost of a chance of defeating her on the home floor hence the cancellation of the game.

The faculty of that institution should demand that the game be played or the claim to state championship hushed. It is not altogether the proper thing to leave such an impression of the athletic morals of the institution.

The Runaway.

Last Saturday evening, on the West side of the campus where the cars stop for the Woman's Building, there occurred a rather serious runaway and traffic on the car line was blocked for about two hours. An old man was driving an empty wagon down the incline where the street turns toward the Park School, when the shafts of the wagon broke loose and falling on the horse's heels frightened him so that he began to run. The driver was unable to hold him and he was only stopped when he ran into one of the posts supporting the trolley wire at the foot of the grade. The force of the blow was so great that the post was broken off even with the ground and the two posts on either side of it not being able to hold the added weight broke letting the trolley wire down almost to the ground.

Fortunately the driver was not hurt and the horse received only a slight cut on the hind leg. About the only damage done was the breaking of the posts and the stopping of street car traffic for about two hours. All cars stopped at the break and passengers had to walk to West Durham.

Mr. A. H. Heitman, who has been confined to the hospital for over two months suffering from the after effects of an operation is now able to be out and has gone to his home at Old Trinity. He will not be in college again this spring.

south. This is the first time that these yankees have seen fit to come this far south, but they have often received credit for some of the great victories of the Trinity team from Durham, Hampden-Sidney College, Richmond College, and Washington-Lee University are three strong teams from Virginia who will play here this season. The State University of Kentucky is another strong team to be seen in action here this spring for the first time. The records of the University of Georgia are well known. It was this institution that prevented Trinity from winning the championship of the South two years ago, and there is certain to be an unusual amount of enthusiasm connected with these games. But from a local point of view, the greatest game of all will come off April 18, when Trinity meets Wake Forest for the first time in two years. There has always been a sort of friendly rivalry between these two institutions even here in Durham and the meeting of these two teams will be one of the most important athletic events of the season in North Carolina.

However, the schedule speaks for itself. It is one of the best, if not the best schedule that any Trinity team has ever had, and Manager Crawford deserves to be rewarded by having the largest attendance at the games this year in the history of base ball. The schedule on the home diamond is as follows:

- March 15—Trinity Park School
- March 19—Atlantic Christian College.
- March 24—Lafayette College.
- March 25—Lafayette College.
- March 26—Amherst College.
- March 28—Amherst College.
- April 1—Trinity College.
- April 2—Trinity College.
- April 5—Richmond College.
- April 6—Hampden Sidney College.
- April 20—State University of Ky.
- April 21—State University of Ky.
- April 25—University of Georgia.
- April 26—University of Georgia.
- April 29—Eastern College.
- April 30—Eastern College.
- May 4—Central University Ky.
- May 5—Central University Ky.
- May 10—Washington and Lee.
- May 11—Washington and Lee.

Season tickets can now be secured from Manager Crawford or his assistants, Messrs. Hanes and D. W. Bagley. Although there is an unusually large number of games scheduled these tickets will be offered at five dollars ($5.00) as usual. This will be less than twenty five cents a game and is certainly giving you your money's worth. Show your college spirit by getting behind the base ball team.

WAKE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION.

The principal speaker was Prof. R. L. Flowers. His connection with the college enabled him to know something of the so-called Old Trinity, and the New—but the college is one in spirit, and the artificial bisecting of its history is to be regretted? Dr.

Craven had wrought nobly, but the lack of funds was constantly the cry. The burden imposed by this condition probably hastened the death of the founder. His part in placing the institution in her present position was a work no other human being could have accomplished, was the speaker's opinion of Dr. Kilgo's work. Though we are fallen on better days financially, we are still plain and democratic, as instanced by the number of students working their way here. There is no delusion that elaborate and costly physical equipment makes a college. Training the powers of the student to the highest point of efficiency, and inspiring him with the spirit of helpfulness is the conscious ideal of the institution, as it is set forth in the preamble to the college constitution, which was commended by President Roosevelt. In conclusion the speaker urged the members to come to Commencement, see what is being done, and enjoy the love feast of the Alumni meeting.

The toasts were full of pregnant statements—the repeated avowal that quite probably Dr. Craven was the greatest man the state has produced, this by those speaking from the fullness of years. The men of later days have a polish and finish that those of the earlier didn't possess—by Judge Allen. In the former years unfriendly thrusts were not made at the college because it is a later development that she has come to be regarded as a strong force by those not in sympathy with her—by Mr. Guthrie. A striking observation—"How different it would have been with us, had we not had as our captains such resourceful, heroic and regally forceful personalities as the founder of the college, and the Restorer of the college?"

To Mr. Jas. M. Templeton, Jr., the active and efficient secretary of the Wake County Association, belongs much of the credit of the success of the banquet and the work of the association in general. He belongs to that race of younger Trinity enthusiasts and has done most efficient work for his alma mater since passing from her doors. He is a type of man that Trinity sends out and shows that thankful loyalty and devotion which is characteristic of all her true sons. The Wake County Association is one of the liveliest associations in the state and is doing some efficient work for the interests of her alma mater. It is the work of just such organizations as this that helps Trinity to grow.

Science Club Monday Night.

Next Monday night the regular monthly meeting of the Science Club will be held in the Physics lecture room of the Science building. Mr. George Nash manager of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. will be present and deliver an address on "The Manufacture and Use of Commercial Fertilizers."

The meeting begins at 7:30 and it is requested that all be there promptly in order to avoid the confusion of coming in late. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Mr. A. J. Templeton, of the law school, spent Sunday at his home in Cary.

Basketball Friday Night.

Manager Claude West has received from the Portsmouth team a notice that the Y. M. C. A. basketball five of that city will be here Friday night of this week, March 4.

The game will be played in the Angier Duke gymnasium. The Portsmouth team has gone up against some good teams in the east and is said to be very strong, playing both the army and navy. This offering will be as acceptable as either of the games lost last week by non-appearance of the opponents. The game is called at 8:30.

Society Preliminaries.

The date for the preliminaries to select speakers for the inter-society debate has been set as March 11. At this time the Columbian and Hesperian Literary Societies will select two speakers each to represent them on the following question: RESOLVED: That, the United States Government should establish a system of postal savings banks.

OPINIONS OF TRINITY.

What Two Prominent Men Think of Trinity—Its Prospects, Its Work and the Result.

Prof. Anderson Weaver, of Rutherford College, although not an alumnus of Trinity College, published in a magazine, of which magazine he is the editor: "Why do you recommend that our students go to Trinity College? This question has been asked. Well! it is not so much because it is a Methodist school. It might be called a Cosmopolitan school. Trinity College bids fair to become the Harvard of the South and that right early. Today a degree from it means much; five years from now it will mean a great deal more; and ten years from now vastly more. Yet the young man who gets his degree from there five years from now will have at the end of ten or twenty years all the accumulated benefits of a most prosperous institution. Logically, as a matter of business, a young man ought to choose as his alma mater the school that is going to grow the most. Trinity College has now the promise of the greatest growth. Therefore—"

The following comes from one of North Carolina's most prominent jurists who is a loyal alumnus and still seeks to extend the sphere of usefulness of his alma mater.

"Trinity College has educated men eminent not only in North Carolina but in other states as well," said Judge Oliver H. Allen, who is holding Wake Superior. "There recently died in Texas Judge David E. Bryant, of the Federal circuit bench, who was a class mate of mine at Trinity. He was a fine man and an able one. He was one of a number of Texas young men who attended Trinity when I was there as a student. He was appointed to the Federal bench by President Harrison and the Texas papers say he grew to have a close personal resemblance to General Grant."—(Raleigh News and Observer.)
