ENTHUSIASTIC MASS MEETING TO BOOST NEW ATHLETIC SCHEME

LARGEST STUDENT ASSEMBLAGE IN YEARS CONSIDERS THE NEW BLANKET TICKET

170 OF THE NEW TICKETS SOLD

Speeches by President Few, by Anderson, Brinn, Lucas, White, Warlick, H. L. Wilson, Prof. Wilson, and Hayes.—Many Tickets Sold.

In the best attended, the most enthusiastic and most generally successful mass meeting in the memory of the men of this college generation, the students of Trinity College met in the Memorial Hall Monday night to consider and discuss the general subject of athletics. Speeches were made by Professor Flowers, President Few, R. B. Anderson, C. B. Brinn, R. T. Lucas, N. L. White, G. A. Warlick, H. L. Wilson, Professor Wilson, and H. A. Hayes. The prime purpose of calling the meeting was to put before the student body the new plan for the financing of the college athletics, and to get them interested enough in its success to subscribe to it. This plan, which calls for a blanket ticket, to cover all athletic events, for the price of five dollars, is described in detail under another head in this issue of the CHRONICLE. A printed slip describing the operation of the new plan and giving reasons for its adoption was handed to each man as he entered the hall Monday night, and the scheme was still further explained by the speakers, so that no one could remain in the least doubt as to its purpose or advantages. Quite a gratifying spirit of enthusiasm manifested itself in the student body and at the close of the meeting one hundred and seventy odd tickets were sold to students and members of the faculty.

Prof. R. L. Flowers acted as chairman of the meeting, and introduced as the first speaker of the evening Dr. W. P. Few, President of the Greater Trinity. He made a forceful talk advocating putting athletics on a better financial footing. He said that for the past few years the finances of the college athletics had been in a deplorable state and that it should be the first endeavor of the students to put the various forms of athletics on a self-supporting basis. "Before anything is started," he said, "we must look ahead and see our way out. It takes youthful energy and enthusiasm to accomplish anything in the field of athletics, but this energy and enthusiasm must be joined to experience and practical business sense if the thing is to be made to go." The president expressed himself as very favorable to athletics and to intercollegiate contests in general, but said that especially near his heart were the minor forms of sports which could be participated in by a large majority of the students. As to the matter of purity and a high ethical standard in the conduct of intercollegiate athletics he said that Trinity has for a long time been traveling the road alone, but that a college could not afford to maintain high ideals in all ex-

TRINITY MAN IN TURKEY

P. E. King, of Class of 1904, Making Good as Tobaccoist in Orient.

Mr. P. E. King, class 1904, who for several years has been in Turkey, has been on a visit to Durham. Mr. King is stationed at Samsour, Turkey, as the representative of the American Tobacco Company. Mr. King has presented to the Trinity College Historical Society a valuable collection of curios, the oldest of which dates back to King Mithradates. His gift is a rare one and is very much appreciated. Mr. King is a native of North Carolina, and spent his boyhood days at Concord. He arrived in this country Sept. 7, and expects to be in the United States until the first of November.

Mr. W. D. Finger, of Charlotte, class 1905, expects to go to Turkey with Mr. King. Mr. King when a student in college was actively interested in all student activities. He was manager of the baseball team during his senior year. He is one of the younger alumni of Trinity College who has made a remarkable success in business.

Rev. N. S. Ogburn, a graduate of Trinity College, and a member of the Western North Carolina Conference, has been appointed a missionary to Japan. He is now on his way to take up his work in the foreign field.

BENEFACTOR'S EXERCISES

To Be Held in Memorial Hall.—President Martin, of Davidson, to Speak.

Following the regular custom, Thursday, October 3, will be observed in the college as a holiday in honor of the many benefactors of the institution. The principal exercises will be held in Craven Memorial Hall at eight o'clock. The feature of the evening will be an address by President William J. Martin, of Davidson College, after which the regular exercises always performed on this day will be held. All the students of the college are expected to attend these exercises and the whole public is cordially invited to be present.

By the action of the Board of Trustees October 3 of every year has been set aside as holiday to celebrate Benefactor's Day. A list of all the donations to the college during the preceding year is read together with the names of all the donors. Some noted speaker is always on the program. The object of the exercises is to cultivate the spirit of benefaction and to give recognition to the generosity of all the friends of the institution who have made donations to it.

President William J. Martin is a forceful and interesting speaker and is sure to draw a large crowd tomorrow night. This will be his first visit to this section of the state since his election to the presidency of Davidson College and his coming is looked forward to with great interest.

TOMBS INITIATES PARADE STREETS OF DURHAM

TWELVE MEN TAKEN INTO SECRET ORDER.—TAREE JUNIORS AND NINE SENIORS.

BIZARRE STUNTS OF INITIATES

First Degree Given Tuesday Night in Epworth Hall.—Public Parade Wednesday Afternoon.—Second Degree Tonight.—Banquet at Corcoran.

Many things happen on a college campus, both fantastic and interesting, but we have no event around here so utterly bizarre as the initiation to the order of the Tombs. It is hard to attract the attention of people in these days of over-worked excitement in political matters, but even those who had not been drawn to the depot to see the mighty Theodore Tuesday afternoon, paused on the streets today to witness the spectacle of a round dozen college men from the upper classes, dressed in outlandish costume, parading up and down the streets of Durham, marching and deploying, and performing all manner of antics at the direction of a handful of seniors and graduates.

Their attire consisted of black suits, dress shirts and collars, derby hats, a black sock on the left foot and a white one on the right, around the ankle of which was a string of bells, to the monotonous clank of which the initiates trod for three weary hours the hard pavements of the city. Baby carriages were secured for each of them and they were compelled to file up and down

ANNUAL EDITORS MEET

Chanticleer Staff Launches Plans for This Year's Book.

The second volume of the Chanticleer was successfully launched Monday night at a meeting of the editors already chosen, when a full slate of editors was made out and plans for the next issue discussed and given form. Last year, from the midst of difficulties, a most creditable volume was produced, and plans are maturing which give promise of an issue even better than the first. If only the men at the head are backed up in the proper spirit there is no doubt of there being another Chanticleer added to our somewhat slender stock.

In an interview after the meeting, Editor White asked that especial stress be laid on the desire, and absolute necessity, of the editors for those not on the staff to lend aid in the way of suggestions and contributions. Attention is called particularly to the Literary and Humor departments, which are chiefly dependent on outside contributions, and men with artistic talent are urged to get in touch with the Art editors and start to work on this necessary feature of the publication. Some mention was made also of free copies of the Chanticleer for those making the best contributions in those departments, but this was merely tentative. The full staff as now constituted is as follows:

Editor-in-Chief, N. I. White; Assistant Editors, H. F. Taylor, James Cannon, Jr., F. B. Brown; Business Manager, H. L. Wilson; Assistant Business Managers, W. F. (Continued on page four.)

BENEFACTOR'S DAY

Well tomorrow is a holiday. We will all enjoy wasting it and then will spend the rest of the week getting over the effects. But here's to us! Come on, let's have the biggest time we can during the day but before the shades of night lengthen, let's stop a moment to think why we are loafing thus luxuriously. Then the thought will strike us that the day is in honor of the benefactors of the college, a class of people who, from our point of view, stand rather in the background, but without them there could be no college here. The college gives the holiday to celebrate a regular event and if we do not celebrate, the holiday is worse than useless. Besides, we will have guests. And they are not guests of the president, or even of the faculty, but of the community, and it is up to the community to entertain them, at least to the extent of turning out en masse to attend the exercises in the Memorial Hall. See to it that you, every member of the student body, get back from whatever you may be doing, however pleasant it may be, in time to hear the address of President Martin of Davidson tomorrow night.

Apologies of the class election held during the past week we have noticed a rather regrettable tendency toward petty politics. Since we have known Trinity this has been a thing from which it has been singularly free, and it is a pity that it should be started. In many colleges it is carried to such an extent that no good man has a chance for any office unless he be in with the leaders of the "ring." They have their caucuses, employ steam roller methods, and sometimes even employ campaign funds to elect certain men. But if anything is foreign to what has been the spirit of Trinity students it is these pusillanimous attempts at politicking to control offices. Now, you follow there with a pipe in your mouth, you whom circumstances and a fond parent have decked out in a new English-cut suit and Jew aky piece, you are liable to get the idea that such things denote a real quality in you. But don't be surprised if what you call the "hard boys" run things, for "soft boys" were never leaders of men. On the other hand, you who are hard workers and are really deserving, the not unendowed with private property, you only make yourself appear little when you conceive a general spirit of jealousy toward others. An institution of learning like this ought to be the last place on earth where any such feelings should exist.

Well, we have about settled down now after two weeks of frothing and effervescing. Things are falling into their grooves and beginning to move on down the files of a new year. But before we get too definitely absorbed by our work we may take a little time off to ruminate a bit, and to philosophize about ourselves and things in general.

Perhaps the greatest problem of a college like this is that of assimilating to itself every year an infusion of some two hundred new men. These men are drawn from every walk of life, with a wide variety of ambitions, capabilities, and general ideas, but they must be taken up by the community and in a very short time must be made a homogeneous part of the whole. There are certain things about a college which should be eternal if they are right. There is no organism which has so definite, so palpable, so apparent a spirit as has a college. You can almost feel it as you walk thru a campus. You can feel the change in leaving one college for another, and you are immediately impressed with it, whether favorably or unfavorably, when visiting any strange college community. The men themselves retain their individuality all right, but they have certain things in common, certain ideals and traditions which become their combined intellectual heritage. It is in this sense that we speak of the American ideals, the intellectual inheritance of the entire people. And just as it is the great problem of immigration to teach the in-comers these ideals which must become theirs if they are to become good citizens, so it is the problem of the college to see to it that its ideals are ingrafted upon each freshman class, by it to be nurtured and handed on to succeeding generations. And we older men must see that this is done. Aside from all sense of duty we must help the freshmen for the very self-preservation of our ideals, for the new men will be the leaders in a few years and these ideals must be theirs if they endure. Don't be so little as to play practical jokes on a freshman, at least such as will cause him to lose his self-respect for a few of these can queer a man's whole college career. But do everything in your power to aid and encourage him. Above all don't assume a blasé air; put yourself out to give him the best advice in your power if he asks for it.

Trinity College has just come thru a period of great change. We have been materially very prosperous, but there is danger that along with the material changes we will lose much of the beauty of the old traditions of the place. It is this intangible but very real quality, always present in a college campus, which fills the heart of the old Grad with the sweet sorrow of parting with and the joy of returning to the familiar haunts around which he spent those four brief, happy years of undergraduate life. Those of us who were here before the old Main burned, still cherish memories associated with many a nook and cranny which exists now only in the mind. How they troop back to us as we think of the "calling of the mail," of the hour after supper when the student body rubbed shoulders, sang, and talked in the hall, and of the low wall in front of the door against which we kicked our heels until the side was worn away. We have hardly known the new buildings long enough to love them like the old. The stone steps have not yet been worn by the feet of passing generations; slowly, however, they are losing their newness, we are gradually accommodating them to our mental concept of our alma mater, we are growing to love them. Our traditions are to an extent in the making. We have new pegs on which to hang our associations of memory and we must see to it that these new traditions which shall arise shall be not inconsistent with the old. A little imaginative musing applied to things of the spirit of the place will be an expenditure infinitely worth while.

Trinity vs. Burlington

Burlington, N. C., Sept. 25th.—The Trinity College baseball team sojourned in the city of Burlington last Saturday, and was entertained at the ratio of 5 to 3, which is, at least, some revision downward from Bryan's figures. Excuses for the catastrophe are as thick as the proverbial fleas, ranging all the way from rotten umpiring to tough luck. Fitzgerald was Undertaker for the affair, and was treated inhospitably by the opposition, succumbing in the fifth as a result of several well-directed blows. "Fitz," however, who has turned up many a game, deserved to win, and only lost after his colleagues had shown rare skill in booting the ball. The two runs which won the game were grabbed in the opening round as a result of several fatalities, including a muffed fly, a bum heave, etc.

Trinity opened with a fine display of enthusiasm in her half of the first. Patterson, who was first up for the John Wesleyites, singled to center. After Anderson had looked over three from the standpoint of a disinterested spectator, John Thompson lacerated the fence in right field with a drive, being modest enough to accept only two bases, however. Outside of the fact that Burlington copped several more runs, nothing of especial interest occurred until the fifth frame, when Patterson, whose whole performance was coated with stardust, biffed one of Ryan's offerings clear out of civilization, the ball sailing out of Alamance county headed in a north-easterly direction.

Knight succeeded Fitzgerald as presiding officer after the fifth, and moved the enemy down with considerable regularity for the remainder of the game. The affair was called at the end of the seventh, to allow the visitors to catch a trolley car.

Prof. Wilson Talks to Y. M. C. A.

Prof. R. N. Wilson, of the Department of Chemistry, was the speaker at the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night. The subject was, "The Necessity of Bible Study," and in treating it the speaker discussed the various kinds of Bible study, such as the regular college courses, the spasmodic individual study, and the systematic group study. This last, Prof. Wilson said, was the system he advocated, and he gave an outline of benefits derived from it, these being a steadying of life and a drawing back to childhood faith.

At the close of the meeting a canvass of all the dormitories was made to enroll new members of the Association, and also members of the Bible study classes, which will begin in a few days. Exact results are not obtainable, but something over a hundred men signed membership cards, and a lesser number joined Bible classes.

Meeting of Journalists

A meeting of all who were interested in newspaper work was called by Professor Flowers and Dr. Glasson last Thursday to discuss ways and means of organizing the newspaper correspondence in the college. The purpose was to organize in such a manner as to facilitate the obtaining of news, and to bring about greater co-operation among the reporters for the various papers represented here. It is Professor Flowers' desire to have every paper of any importance represented here, in order, in this way, to keep the college more thoroughly in the public eye.

After some talk pro and con, it was determined to carry out the idea, and the first steps in organization were taken. A committee was appointed to suggest a suitable name for the association, and the following officers were elected: President, H. A. Dennis; Vice-President, F. B. Brown; Secretary, R. B. Murray. Professor Flowers and Dr. Glasson were appointed to the Executive Committee, to work in conjunction with the officers. Definite steps were taken towards getting representatives for all of the leading papers, both of this state and of other neighboring states. A meeting was called for Friday night, October 4, and all men who are now representing a paper, or who would care to represent one, are expected to be present.

Last Saturday a call meeting of the Sophomore class was held for the purpose of electing officers for the present school year. President Lewis opened the meeting with a few words of appreciation and thanks for the co-operation of his fellow class-mates, and then called for nominations for officers. The following were elected to serve the class this year: President, R. L. Brown; Vice-President, H. E. Myers; Secretary, Miss Cora Westcott; Treasurer, W. G. Mordecai; Representative to the Student Life Committee, D. S. Chapman; and Representative to the Athletic Council, B. H. Siler.

After these men had been elected, it was moved that the teams which were to represent the class should be allowed to elect their own officials. The motion was placed before the house, and was carried. The meeting then adjourned without transacting any further business.

Constable with Imperial

We wish to take this opportunity to correct a mistake in the second issue of this volume of the CHRONICLE. In the account of last year's graduates we stated that Mr. P. N. Constable had not yet been located. He writes us that he is at work with the Imperial Tobacco Company and doing well.

Junior Class Election

The class of 1914 organized for its junior year by the annual election of officers, which took place at twelve o'clock on Wednesday of last week. There was no speech-making, and the class chose its officers with dispatch and good feeling. The office of treasurer was separated from that of secretary, and given to one of the male members of the class. Those chosen to pilot the class for its third year are: President, J. R. Davis, Shelby, N. C.; Vice-President, B. W. Ruark, Southport, N. C.; Secretary, Miss Mary Y. Westcott, Poplar Branch, N. C.; Treasurer, R. B. Murray, Durham, N. C.; Representative on Athletic Council, R. B. Anderson, Wilson, N. C.

Every man in college who is correspondent for a newspaper or who is meaning to become one is invited to meet in the Faculty Office in the West Washington Duke Building, Monday evening at 7.20. At this time the organization of correspondents will be perfected. The officers were elected at the last meeting. The name of the organization will be selected and arrangements made for the collection of news items of interest.

Rev. F. N. Parker, of the department of Biblical Literature, preached in the Presbyterian church at Chapel Hill last Sunday.

EXPLAINING THE NEW BLANKET TICKET FOR ATHLETICS

TO EVERY MAN CONNECTED WITH TRINITY COLLEGE:

The Athletic Council has decided to sell, beginning at once, a blanket ticket, admitting the holder to all games played on the college grounds this year.

It also admits him to the use of the tennis courts and nets without paying an extra tennis association fee.

The price of the ticket is $5.00.

The Council wishes to sell one of these tickets to every member of the college community.

Persons not holding one of these tickets will be charged regular admission prices, and after October 15th will be denied the use of the tennis courts.

The proceeds derived from this sale will be divided among the various teams according to their estimated needs. A tentative estimate would give Baseball 70%, Basketball 17½%, Tennis 5% and Track 7½%.

Any ticket holder who may make good on any of the college teams will have as much money refunded him as was paid to his team out of the $5.00.

By means of this plan the Council will be able to make out its financial budget at the beginning of the year, and the managers of the various teams will be able to figure their expenses so as not to come out in the hole at the end of the year.

You are asked to take one of these tickets for two reasons:

1. The price is remarkably low. Less than half the total of single admissions.

2. It gives you an opportunity to powerfully help the athletic interest of your college.

The two make an argument that more than ten per cent of the men in Trinity College can honestly meet and deny.

ANDERSON, WILSON, WEST, Committee for the Council.

Opening of Rice Institute

Trinity College has been invited to send an official representative to the formal opening of the Rice Institute, in Houston, Texas. In connection with appropriate ceremonies of dedication there will be delivered a series of lectures by distinguished foreign scholars.

These exercises will be held on Oct. 10-11-12. President Few having an engagement which prevented his attendance, Dr. R. A. Law, Professor of English in the University of Texas, who received the degree of Master of Arts at Trinity College, will represent Trinity College officially at these exercises.

Ministerial Band Meeting

The Ministerial Band held its regular meeting Friday night in the Y. M. C. A. hall. Dr. F. N. Parker was the speaker and gave an instructive talk, dealing with the mission of the present-day minister, and emphasizing the need for his thorough preparation.

The business transacted consisted of the appointment of a committee to draw up a constitution, and a discussion of the North Carolina College Ministerial Association, which will hold its annual meeting at Chapel Hill during the month of October.

W. W. Peele in Sanford

Headmaster W. W. Peele of Trinity Park School, preached in Sanford last Sunday. The pastor of the Methodist Church, Rev. K. D. Holmes, is sick and unable to fill his appointment. Mr. Holmes is a Trinity man, and one of its most loyal friends and supporters. His many friends are sorry to know of his sickness and wish for him a speedy and permanent recovery. Mr. Holmes was a visitor at the College at the opening, having come with his son who is a member of the Freshman Class.

cept in one department, and in that to be constantly dishonest. He said that in his opinion Trinity is entering upon the best year in her history, and he expressed the hope that with the added advantage of the new athletic field and under the inspiration of the awakened interest in athletics, that this phase of college life will be one of the first to prosper.

The chairman next introduced R. B. Anderson, the baseball captain, who explained the new ticket, which the Athletic Council has decided to issue for this year, showing how the purchase of these tickets would make a saving of nearly fifty per cent for the majority of the students. He urged that every man in college buy one of these tickets.

C. B. Brinn was called on to speak in behalf of the basket ball interests. He told the students to go home and practise with a hat and waste basket until proficient, and then to come out and try for the basket ball team. He said that he wanted to see every man in college play the game.

R. T. Lucas rose to speak of Track. He gave the endeavors of the community in that line of athletics, told of the class relay races, and urged that many men try for the one which is to come off October 19. He said that if we are to have a good Track Team next spring we must train all winter.

N. I. White spoke in behalf of Tennis. He said that he had too high a respect for the intelligence of his audience to tell them of the advantages of the game, but that he did want to commend the new plan, first because it ought to give Tennis a better financial footing, and second, because it would, by increasing the interest of players, result in a better college team.

G. A. Warlick was called on next. He said that he was very much in favor of the blanket ticket scheme because it would certainly pull the athletics of the college out of the hole where they have been for the past few years. He was of the opinion that there ought not to be ten fellows on the campus who will not buy one of the tickets. H. L. Wilson spoke for the senior class. He said that the senior class, as a body, is in favor of the new plan, and he recommended that those of the class who are advisers to the freshmen advise them to buy the tickets first thing. Professor Wilson then took the floor, and in his brusque and forceful manner put the proposition before the student body, declaring that the doors would be shut and nobody let out until they had signed one of the cards which he had sent around. He decided that if desired the tickets would be sold on the installment plan, half to be paid before Christmas, and the other half after.

While men were canvassing the hall to sell tickets, H. A. Hayes, after some trouble in making himself heard amid the hubbub, made a rousing speech in favor of withdrawing from the S. I. A. A., provided we can get some better arrangement. His proposition was greeted with applause, but the chairman explained to him that steps had been taken to form an association which will allow of playing the colleges close to us, and he withdrew his motion that the meeting should go on record as favoring withdrawal from the S. I. A. A.

After about one hundred and seventy men had signed the cards promising to buy the tickets, the meeting broke up amid wild enthusiasm.

Main street pushing these and carrying signs advertising them, much to the amusement of the passers-by. During the course of the afternoon every species of mortification was inflicted upon the unfortunate. They went into the five-and-ten-cent store and had to buy articles to the amount of one penny and then all joined in a chorus of song. They took copies of the Durham Sun wet from the press and acted as vendors of the news, meeting the trains and selling the papers wherever they could. Each initiate took his turn in treating the rest, and before the rounds had been made all their pockets were bulging with such delicacies as bananas, pretzels, cigars, and peanuts. The crowning achievement, however, came when they were forced to make impromptu speeches from the postoffice steps to the crowd of onlookers, which had by this time grown to large proportions. When the CHRONICLE went to press they were just starting for the Southern Conservatory of Music, there to give vocal renditions for the benefit of the young ladies.

These exercises, if they may be called such, form the second part of the initiation of members in to the Tombs. The first degree was given Tuesday night in the hall on the top floor of the old Epworth Building. The recipients of this degree and the performers in the public exhibition were: A. T. Knott of Oxford, J. H. Rose of Franklinton, N. C., G. A. Warlick of Newton, N. C., from the senior class; and C. R. Bagley of Moyock, N. C., E. M. Carter of Elkton, Tenn., R. L. Jones of Fairfield, N. C., H. L. Sherrod of High Point, W. F. Starnes of Monroe, James Cannon, Jr., of Waynesville, N. C., C. M. Johnson of Windsor, N. C., and R. T. Lucas of Charlotte, from the junior class. The initiates will be taken thru the second degree tonight and a banquet will be served in the Corcoran Hotel, where the feasting will make up for the hardships which have been endured.

The Tombs is an order of the junior class which fills a very worthy place in the life of the college. It is the most democratic of all the secret orders, drawing men from every phase of the life of the college. Its avowed purpose is for the encouragement of athletics, and in carrying out this purpose it has been the inspiration of the annual relay races between the classes, having offered every year a loving cup to the winning class. Also to this order belongs the credit for starting the agitation which resulted in the launching of a movement for an annual and which produced the Chanticleer.
