CHANTICLEER BOARD HOLDS SECOND MEETING

FURTHER ATTEMPTS TO CLEAR UP
BUSINESS.—CONSTITUTION AMENDED

RAND REFUSES POSITION

Athena Society and Sororities Given Representation.—Mr. Wilson Reports on Finances.—Organizations Will Be Asked to Pay.

The governing board of the annual held its second meeting Monday night in the Craven Memorial Hall. The board is still hard at work trying to wind up the unfinished business connected with the book of last year. The editors of this year's Chanticleer have their hands tied completely until the debt which still remains from last year is paid. The board decided Monday night to call on the organizations who back the annual to make at least a part payment of their pro rata share of the deficit, as the publishing company is demanding payment.

James Cannon, who was chosen temporary chairman of the board at the last meeting, called the board to order. The first business was to elect permanent officers. James Cannon was chosen permanent chairman and W. G. Suitor permanent secretary.

The board found that the first thing for it to do was to make several amendments to the constitution which was drawn up last year to govern the board but has been found very incomplete. In the first place it was amended so as to permit the Athena Literary Society and the sororities Kappa Delta and Alpha Delta Phi to take a unit of responsibility each. They were given this privilege last year but no provision for it had ever been made in the constitution. It was further amended by providing that the editor-in-chief and the business manager of the Chanticleer be made ex officio members of the board but without the power to vote.

Mr. H. L. Wilson, the resigned business manager of the annual, with whom the books are left until the new manager takes charge, made a more detailed report of the financial status of the publication than was made in the first meeting. Aside from all credits on the books in favor of the Chanticleer a deficit remains of about three hundred and ten dollars, or twenty-two dollars to each unit of responsibility. There are on hand, however, a little over fifty books which, if they can be disposed of, will cover half of this debt. In consideration of this fact it was moved and passed to collect from the organizations behind the annual the debt minus the selling price of the fifty annuals, which will call upon each unit for about eleven dollars and a half.

W. F. Starnes, the assistant business manager elected last year, was appointed to see to the collection of this and all other debts of the annual. The board then elected J. A. Rand to the position of business manager for this year. Having no further business the board adjourned. As the Chronicle goes to press word comes to us that Mr. Rand cannot accept the position of business manager of the annual. A meeting of the board is called for tonight to elect another man.

RELAY RACE TRY-OUT

Was Set for Tuesday Afternoon, But Postponed.—A History of the Race.

The preliminary mile run for the selection of the class relay teams teams was set for Tuesday afternoon but at the last minute was postponed. The date for it has not yet been definitely settled but it will probably be pulled off next Saturday afternoon.

The interclass relay race has become one of the most important athletic traditions of the college. It had its birth as an annual event two years ago. At that time it inaugurated as a practical means to inspire real work along the line of track athletics but proved to be such a very profitable event per se that it was determined to continue it as a permanent tradition. Hardly any event of the college year calls forth an amount of enthusiasm equal to that which is shown in connection with the relay race. It has a great advantage over the more specialized forms of athletics in that it brings so many men into exercise. Upwards of seventy-five men are encouraged to train for the event and 40 take part in the actual contest.

In the fall of 1910 the first relay race was run from a point on the Hillsboro road nine miles from the college flag pole. The last lap was run around the college track, making ten miles in all. The freshmen were the winners this year. The race proved so successful that it was taken up heartily in the next fall. Additional inspiration was added to it by the offer made by the junior order of the Toms to give a handsome loving cup to the winning class, which trophy should be the permanent possession of that class which should win it three times successively. In this year again, the freshmen won the race and were the recipients of the cup. This time it was run from a point on the road to Christian's Mill, thus giving some of the runners courses thru the city, a fact which lead to much popular interest in the event. The race this year gives all promise of being the most successful which has ever been pulled off. All the classes have been working and a hard contest is expected.

Bishop Kilgo to Theologues

Bishop Kilgo addressed the meeting of the Ministerial Band last Friday evening in the Y. M. C. A. hall on the subject, "The Preparation for the Ministry." The Bishop showed that the preparation for the ministry is different from that for other professions in that it deals with spiritual things as apposed to the material things of other professions. Going further on this line he declared that the spiritual realm is a thing of revelation but not of reason as witnessed in the lives of many historical characters.

Seats in Assembly Hall

The seats have been placed in the large assembly hall on the second floor of the East Washington Duke Building. This hall will seat more than five hundred people and when ready for use will prove a most excellent place for the meetings of the Young Men's Christian Association and other organizations of the College. It will be hard to find anywhere a more attractive assembly hall.

NEW DORMITORY SOON READY FOR OCCUPATION

COMPLETION OF FOUR BUILD-

SION PLANS

JARVIS TWIN TO AYCOCK

Contractors About Ready to Turn Building Over.—Arrangement of Rooms in Suites.—Rooms for Barber Shop and P. O.—Disposition of Inn.

The new Jarvis Dormitory is now rapidly nearing completion. This is the fourth of the new buildings to be finished in the past three years and, as such, marks the completion of the greatest period of growth in the history of Trinity College. With its completion, the material side of the dream of the Greater Trinity may be said to have reached its full fruition. This building is the twin of the Aycock hall and situated opposite from it on the other side of the main drive way. In external appearance it is the exact replica of its sister building, constructed of white pressed brick with sandstone trimmings, granite steps and green tile roof. One important difference is made in the arrangement of the rooms, two of the sections having suites of two rooms each, for the accommodation of two students, instead of the single rooms. The building is heated by hot water, on the same circuit with the other dormitories. It has three stories with a basement besides in which are shower baths for the use of the students, rooms for different organizations, a room for the college post-office and one for the barber-shop. The experience of the past year with the Aycock hall has been so satisfactory as to justify the belief that these buildings are as near the ideal college dormitory as can be found anywhere in the South. Now that all the new buildings are up, the campus presents a very impressive appearance. The view from the Memorial Hall steps, looking across the quadrangle formed by the four new buildings, is such a change from the old Trinity campus that old students would scarcely recognize the place.

It is not certain when the students will be allowed to move into the new building. The carpenters are practically through with their work and the painting is about all done. The heating connections will be made in the next few days. It was at first thought that the north end would be rushed thru to completion allowing the rest to wait but it now appears that all the sections save the one at the far south end will be opened at the same time. Some finishing touches are yet to be made. The radiators are to be bronzed, the electric light fixtures to be fitted, and a few small plumbing jobs remain. After these have been done, the building will be ready for occupation, but it is not thought wise to move into it until the heat has been on for some days and the plastering is thoroughly dried. It is thought then men who have signed for rooms in this building will be allowed to move into it by the end of next week at the latest.

The intention is to close up the old Epworth Hall, after the Jarvis Hall is opened, until some disposition is made of it to render it more

DEBATE COUNCIL ELECTS

Dr. Boyd, President; Cade, Secretary.—
Varsity Debates to Be Arranged.

Having caught the organizing fever now raging in the veins of all new, old, and middle aged orders about the campus, the Debate Council met last week, and started this activity of the college on its course for the year. The election of officers resulted in the selection of Dr. W. K. Boyd, as chairman, and Mr. W. A. Cade as secretary. Prof. Holland Holton, of the Department of Debating was invited to meet and advise with the board, and to act as its corresponding secretary. In this capacity he was asked by the council to write to Washington and Lee, Vanderbilt, Tulane, Sewanee, Emory, and the University of South Carolina with regard to the possibilities of arranging debates with some of them. No challenge to debate will be delivered now, but the sentiments of all will be sounded and at least two debates will in all probability be arranged. After the success of last year's team there should be a greater interest in varsity debating this year.

A committee of the council was appointed to consider the matter of a new system of selecting judges for the inter-society debate, and the council also recommended to the societies the consideration of possible public social debates.

DINNER TO LAWYERS

Dean Mordecai Entertains the Students of the Law School.

Dean S. F. Mordecai entertained the students of the Law School Saturday to a stag dinner at his home on the campus. The dean is an Episcopian in his own way, he scorns culinary traditions and serves up old-fashioned, wholesome good-things-to-eat with a lavishness which is becoming proverbial in the community. He gives these dinners to his legacies whenever inclination leads him and they are so enjoyable as to be on of the chief delights and attractions of the Law and the despair of the academics. After the sumptuous food had been dispatched by the keen appetites of the aspirants-to-the-bar and had been topped off with cigars, the company adjourned to the front lawn for a fun fest which lasted well on into the afternoon, with the Dean and Bob Gantt as the stellar performers.

Inauguration at Oklahoma

Trinity College has received an invitation from the Board of Education of Oklahoma and the Faculties of the University of Oklahoma to be represented at the inauguration of Stratton Duluth Brooks, President of the University, October 21, 1912. The College will be represented by the Honorable Benjamin F. Harrison, class 1897, Secretary of State of Oklahoma.

Inhabitable. It will either suffer a rigorous overhauling and remodeling, with perhaps a coat of stucco applied to the outer walls, or if this proves impracticable it will be torn down.

BISHOP KILGO SPEAKS IN NEW Y. M. C. A. HALL

LARGE CROWD HEARS THE BISHOP SPEAK ON ENTERING THE MINISTRY

NEW HALL WELL EQUIPPED

Bishop Warns Young Men Against Entering the Ministry Because of Outside Influence.—Should Do So
Only When Convinced of Call.

Last night the college Y. M. C. A. held its first meeting in its new and elegantly furnished hall in the East Duke building. The meeting was addressed by Bishop Kilgo, who spoke on the subject of The Call to the Ministry. Dr. Kilgo gave a straightforward, heart-to-heart talk, and his words received full attention from an unusually large number of men.

The members of the Y. M. C. A. were highly pleased with their new home; which is, indeed, one to be proud of. It is a spacious hall situated in the East Duke building, equipped with everything necessary for such a hall. The seats are comfortable and elegant benches, which are finished in a very rich cherry coloring. The platform is provided with chairs and desk for the speakers; and the room is fitted up in a way altogether comfortable and beautiful. The Y. M. C. A. is deeply indebted to the college authorities for the furnishing of their hall in such elegant and tasteful style.

Bishop Kilgo began his talk with a few words of congratulations upon the new home into which the Association had entered. He expressed the hope that the new hall would soon acquire the same interest which attached to the old hall on account of the men who had, in years gone by, fought their spiritual battles there. Bishop Kilgo said that it was always with some timidity that he spoke of the question of entering the ministry, since he feared that some one might be influenced by his words who was not really called to the work of preaching.

The gist of the talk, after this introduction, was that no man should be forced by much persuasion to enter the ministry; that men were called, and called unmistakably, by God to this work; that if the call came, one should not neglect it; that one should first be sure of the divine source of the call which came to him. Dr. Kilgo said in part:

One thing to be considered in making up one's mind on this subject is the great influence and dignity of the ministry. Always the prophets have been in the fore. Wherever the prophets have been weak, the age has been an age of weakness. The great periods of darkness in the world have always awaited the coming of some pulpit master to relieve the darkness. Though some may say that the leadership of the pulpit has passed away, this will be found untrue in most cases. The lord of lofty minds and masterful spirits found among the members of the ministry is unsurpassed. In all ages they have been leaders. The young man should put his name, if he may, among the names of those other geniuses and leaders.

All subscriptions and bills for advertisements are payable before the first of February.

SUBSCRIBERS WILL PLEASE NOTIFY THE MANAGER OF ANY CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

Mr. Knott, the business manager of the Chronicle, is sending this week subscription blanks to be signed. If you wish the paper to be sent to you, you will confer a favor on him by signing these blanks and returning same to him. The only way to keep up with the affairs of your alma mater is by subscribing to the weekly paper. Our subscription blank makes an especial effort to but we will never be satisfied until it includes practically all the alumni of the college. In order to make the paper more interesting to the alumni we make an especial effort print alumni notes and news which will be of interest to those who, tho they have departed from the college, still feel a lively interest in its welfare and in the doings not only of the present college generation but also of their old school mates and acquaintances who have gone out into the world. Sample copies of the paper are being sent out this week to the alumni. Sign the blanks which the business manager sends along with them and confer a favor upon the publication of your college and upon yourself.

The present political situation of the country in general, and the enthusiastic attendance of college men at the Simmon's speaking Friday night in particular, lead us to think of the relation of the college man to politics. This year marks the emancipation of the college professor from the mediæval mustiness of the gloomy cell and his participation in the highest affairs of the nation, an event which many college men think augurs well for the future trend of politics. But the college student is yet to be emancipated. In England, as is well known, the universities play a considerable role in the national politics, electing a certain number of university representatives to Parliament. The fact that college men have had little interest in politics in this country, is one of the results of that American mistake in education, the belief that college men are in preparation for life, rather than that they are in the very vital, throbbing midst of life. And this removal of the students from the affairs of the work-a-day world is what has produced the much lamented unpractical college man. We believe that the students of the country ought to take a great interest and, to some extent, even an active participation in politics. As a class, college men of the voting age make up no inconsiderable percentage of the intelligence of the nation and should, if they become, active, constitute quite an influence in the political game. We believe the trend is in this direction. All over the country student clubs are being formed in support of the different candidates, moot conventions and straw votes are being held, and the college word-slinger is being impressed into service as local stump artist. It is a tendency worthy of encouragement and a promising sign of the times.

In this connection we sympathize with the editor of College Topics, the newspaper of the University of Virginia, in the fling which he takes at election laws which prohibit students who are not self-supporting from voting, even tho they are twenty-one years old and have fulfilled the residence requirements. He says in part:

"Many University of Virginia students have attempted to register in Charlottesville but were refused on the ground of residence technicalities. While the various state legislatures are considering the wisdom of allowing travelling actors to vote in their home cities, they would do well to remember the thousands of college students literally disfranchised by foolish provisions in election laws."

One of the most disappointing tendencies which we have noted this far becomes manifest in connection with the literary societies. Those who have society work and society success at heart had allowed themselves to be carried away on pinions of hope until they saw, as in a utopian dream, the freshmen falling all over themselves to get into these beautiful halls, saw both societies packed to capacity with earnest workers, saw them entering on a great new era in which they should become the most powerful factors in the development of the youth which the college could offer. But alas for the materialization of dreams! Thus far, not over sixty new men have joined the societies, where one hundred were expected as a minimum.

We think that one of three things is the matter. Either the societies are not offering a field of endeavor and line of work worthy of the consideration of the students; or the freshmen are of such a calibre as to not be able to withstand the attractions of Saturday night in the city; or, finally, some of the old men who have not joined societies have put in some noxious work in the worldly-wise-advice line.

We cannot believe that the first is the case. Society work has never before been in a position to be worth so much to the students as at present. The correlation of the work in the societies with that in the college course in oratory and debate is already proving to be of great aid and of material benefit to the societies. Their debates have been of unexampled quality both in regard to thoroughness of preparation and to earnestness of execution. But there would seem to be some matter in both the other above suggested reasons. We believe that no large percentage of non-society men stay on the campus and do serious work on Saturday night. The great majority esteem more highly the cultural effect of the cinematograph and the knowledge of human nature which comes from a first-hand study of it on both sides of the vaudeville footlights. These they prefer to oratory and debate, a training on which the ages have fixed their approval, and which was the cornerstone of the old Greek and Roman systems of education. For such as these we have little hope. But as to the old men who will strongly advise a freshman not to join a literary society, any of them will admit if pressed to it that the societies will be of benefit "if you will work," a proviso which has, however, been impossible in their own cases. You will have a hard time finding anybody who has amounted to anything in college, whether a member of society or not, who will asseverate that there is no good in them. It is to be hoped that not all this year's crop of literary society initiates has been harvested. If you have not yet joined, you will at least do well to give the matter earnest consideration.

Class Basketball Schedule

The manager of the basketball team has issued his schedule for the series of class games which are to decide the championship of the college. The schedule is much on the same order as that of last year. As the list below shows, the games are to begin November 1, and each team is to play every other team two games, making a total of twelve games. The games will be pulled off as strictly according to the schedule as circumstances will permit.

A large and beautiful banner, with appropriate lettering, has been ordered, and this will become the permanent possession of the team of that class which has the highest percentage at the close of the series. This banner will be on display in the gymnasium as soon as it arrives.

Following is the schedule of games:

- November 1—Seniors vs. Freshmen.
- November 5—Juniors vs. Sophomores.
- November 8—Juniors vs. Seniors.
- November 12—Freshmen vs. Sophomores.
- November 15—Freshmen vs. Juniors.
- November 19—Seniors vs. Sophomores.
- November 22—Seniors vs. Freshmen.
- November 26—Juniors vs. Sophomores.
- November 29—Juniors vs. Seniors.
- December 3—Sophomores vs. Freshmen.
- December 6—Juniors vs. Freshmen.
- December 10—Seniors vs. Sophomores.

Classicists Convene

The first meeting of the Classical Club was held in the Latin room of the Library, Thursday evening at eight o'clock. The chief business of the meeting was the election of new members to carry on the work of delving into ancient Greek and Roman lore. Several men from the senior, junior, and sophomore classes, were elected to membership, but pending the closing of the strenuous rushing season the names of these highly honored classicists are withheld from publication because of the strenuous competition that always marks the effort to enroll the highbrows in the pursuit of advanced knowledge. Suffice it to say that a gumshoe campaign is being carried on by the ardent spikers and their efforts are being crowned with great success.

Prof. W. F. Gill was elected to fill the office of president and Dr. C. W. Peppeler was welcomed as a new member of the club.

Mr. Earl W. Webb, a former student at Trinity, is attorney for the Travelers Insurance Company with offices at No. 1 Madison avenue, New York city. After leaving college Mr. Webb read law at the University of Michigan and after being admitted to the bar began the practice of law in New York city.

Mr. W. C. Earnhardt, class 1884, is Vice-President and Secretary of the Greenville Cotton Mills Company of Greenville, South Carolina. This is one of the largest manufacturing establishments in the Southern States. Mr. Earnhardt has been very successful and is a loyal alumnus of Trinity.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS

W. J. Justice, of the class of '06, is the principal of the Dotham High School, Dotham, N. C.

Mr. Sam Gantt, a former baseball pitcher and wearer of the T, spent Monday in the community.

Mr. W. P. Johnston, a former student at Trinity, is in Turkey with Mr. King, and has been very successful.

Mr. D. W. Newsom, the registrar of the college, has been in Littleton for the past few days visiting his father.

Miss Ada Belle Isley, who was a former member of the class of '13, spent Monday on the campus visiting friends.

Miss Pearl Brinson, who is a graduate of Trinity College, class of '09, is a member of the Faculty at Louisburg Female College.

Professor W. H. Wannamaker gave a stag dinner Saturday evening to some of the members of the faculty. The affair was thoroughly enjoyable.

Big Bob Gantt, one of the greatest of the past Trinity base ball stars, an A. B. and graduate of the Law School, has been spending the week on the campus.

Dr. F. N. Parker, of the department of Biblical Literature, preached in Charlotte Sunday at Tryon Street Methodist Church in the morning, and at Trinity Methodist Church in the evening.

W. R. Ivey, a member of last year's ball team, in the class of '14, who had intended to enter the medical school of the University of Maryland this year, has decided to come back to Trinity for further preparation. He entered the junior class last Monday.

W. H. Crawford, Principal of the State High School at Andrews, a former student at Trinity College, was elected President of the meeting of Superintendents and Principals held at Marion, N. C., last week.

A Laymen's Missionary Convention is to be held in Durham, October 31, and November 1. Several noted speakers are to attend this Convention and the event promises to be a most interesting one. The exercises will be held in the Academy of Music.

Dr. E. C. Brooks last night gave a delightful dinner to friends of the faculty, in honor of Professor Hand of the department of Secondary Education in the University of South Carolina. The fact that Professor Hand failed to arrive in time to attend the dinner was a disappointment but in no way stopped the festivity. The guests of Dr. Brooks report a most enjoyable time.

A. T. O. Picnic

The N. C. Xi chapter of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity went on its fifth annual picnic last Benefactor's Day. The day was spent at the pump station of the Durham Water Company, about seven miles from the city. Fate could not have given a more ideal day for picnicking. It was warm enough for comfort but there was just enough chill in the air to add zest to the occasion, the woods were just putting on their variegated autumn colors, and the magic of the Indian summer was in the very atmosphere. Everything was conducive to an uproariously good time.

The happy crowd beguiled the time with the many delights of a college fraternity picnic. There was boating, shooting trapping, climbing, romping, soft whisperings, laughter and songs. And there was the invariable accompaniment and very necessary adjunct of such an occasion, the eatables. A feast fit for the gods was spread on the table provided for the purpose and the young people did it full justice, leaving only a few baskets of fragments. After a day full of all manner of good things the party drove away, with the sweet sorrow that is always the feeling with which such events are ended, all expressing the hope that they might spend such another day next year.

The chaperones of the party were Dr. and Mrs. W. K. Boyd and Dr. and Mrs. Peppeler. The following is a list of the young people who drove out to the picnic grounds: H. A. McKinnon with Miss Lucile Umstead, L. G. Cooper with Miss Cecelia Henry, G. C. Kimball with Miss Katie Lee McKinnon, S. S. Alderman with Miss Flossie Jeffries, J. L. Nelson with Miss Annie Turner, H. L. Wilson with Miss Hundley, Charles Matton with Miss Maie Bowling, P. F. Hanes with Miss Placide Kramer, Gordon Carver with Miss Mildred Koonce, Henry L. Sherrod, William A. Thorne, and Henry Newberry.

VARSITY TENNIS TOURNAMENT COMPLETED

TENNIS NEWS.—GAME SCHEDULED WITH UNIVERSITY OF S. C. SATURDAY.—OTHER GAMES

WHITE-ANDERSON VARSITY

Outlook for Tennis Bright This Fall.—College Building Six New Courts on Prop. School Diamond for Holders of Blanket Tickets.

The college tennis tournaments were ended yesterday in so far as the selection of the 'varsity team is concerned when A. R. Anderson defeated R. B. Anderson with a score of 6-0, 6-4. N. I. White emerges from the tournaments undefeated, the champion of the college for his second year. Anderson holds second place, having been defeated only by White. In so far as the tournaments are concerned these two will be the team to represent Trinity this year. It ought to be a winning team. N. I. White has always been one of the best tennis men in college. Anderson has been noted for a steady game but he has developed a much harder and surer game since last year. These two men are well matched as they have been playing together in Statesville for the past two summers, and tennis lovers are looking forward eagerly to the games which are to be arranged with other institutions. Manager Carter announces that it is practically certain that a game will be played here next Saturday with the University of South Carolina. Other games are to be scheduled with Guilford and Davidson.

Following the policy of the college to give every opportunity for physical exercise to the rank and file of the student body, as well as to the 'varsity teams, a large plot of ground has recently been broken for the construction of tennis courts. These new courts will be on the ground hitherto used by the Trinity Park School as a baseball diamond, and lying just across The Circle in front of the Library. At least six, and if possible seven, courts will be made on the plot, all running north and south and forming a sort of tennis-court battery. The construction of the courts is in charge of Hibberd, the landscape gardener who has charge of the rest of the campus improvements. They will be made of packed and rolled earth. When completed these courts will be turned over to the Athletic Association, and under the new ticket arrangement will be open to the use of every student who desires to disport himself thereon. This matter has been delayed by the press of work being done by the force of men who are trying to get the plot in front of Jarvis Hall in shape for the opening of that dormitory.

Science Club Postponed

The meeting of the Science Club which was set for last Monday night was postponed on account of the inclemency of the weather and the consequent scanty attendance on the meeting. The meeting will be held next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, at which time the same program set for this week will be carried thru. Officers for the year will be elected and Mr. H. F. Taylor will read a paper setting forth the results of some original investigations on the subject of fish scales. All members of the club will please be present.

Y. M. C. A. MEETING

Professor Peele, of Park School, Warns Against Dangers in College Life.

The regular meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association was held last Wednesday evening at seven-thirty o'clock, and was addressed by Headmaster W. W. Peele, of the Trinity Park School. The talk was a very clear and forceful discussion of the subject, "Some Temptations that are Peculiar to College Life." The speaker outlined these temptations and gave a brief treatment of each, among those treated being temptations to be thankful, to put secondary things first, to form bad habits, to forget the home influence, and finally, to depend more on reason than on faith. Especial emphasis was laid on the tendency among college men to take as theirs by right the opportunities and advantages of the college without regard to the efforts of others to provide those advantages. Especially dangerous, in the judgment of Prof. Peele, is the fact that so many college students allow their faith to be weakened by the knowledge gained in the college course, and he gave as his belief that "there is no conflict between reason and faith."

God has reserved for himself the power to call men into the ministry. And the call of God comes, not to the men of any particular class or creed; the call of God is based on the man himself. God calls the man who will be truly, as was Paul, the bond-servant of the Lord. He calls men from all branches and circumstances of life. But although God has no particular circle from which he does call men, there are circles from which he does not call them. He calls none from the frivolous and shallow-minded circles. He calls none from the "city church"; none from the frivolous atmosphere and pretence at piety, which produces no man for the ministry. The call of God can not be defined in any definite terms. It comes to each man in a different manner, and in this calling there is infinite originality. No two are called in the same way. There is no sign by which you may know that the call of God has come to you. The fact lives in your inner consciousness, and is made known by no extraordinary outward sign or miracle. We must have the ability in us to recognize this call of God when it shall come to us; and not only that, but we must also have the power and the disposition to answer that call.

If one is disturbed and undecided in his own mind about this question, he should carry it before the Lord and there come to a definite settlement. Any man who does decide for this life, any man who is called and who answers the call, will be satisfied. But with the entry into the ministry, he must also accept poverty. That is, indeed, the highest pinnacle of the social world. The minister stands at the head of society. It is the preacher who gets the very best of this life. If God calls, go, without protest. If you are uncertain, make sure. Settle the matter at once. Those who have settled it are to be congratulated.

Mr. Russell D. Korner, Class of '10, spent Sunday on the campus visiting friends.
