CHRONICLE STAFF TO BE CHOSEN BY COMPETITION

SCHEME OF NEW APPOINTING SYSTEM OUTLINED—CREDITS IN ENGLISH

IMPORTANT MEETING ON FRIDAY

Four Weeks' Competition for Places on Staff of the Paper—All Students Eligible to Compete—Details of the Present Plan Changed

In order to stimulate interest in newspaper work in general, and in the publications of the College in particular, THE CHRONICLE management has decided to put the appointments to the staff of the paper on a competitive basis for the coming year. Instead of announcing a list of staff appointees at the beginning of the year, the plan to be followed contemplates the selection of the regular staff, or including such alterations as may seem necessary, from those students of the college who manifest sufficient interest in the work of the paper to compete for places for a period of one month, or four issues of THE CHRONICLE. Beginning with the issue of next week the articles appearing in the columns of the paper will be selected from those turned in to the editor by any student of the College, and those who do the best and most consistent work for the full period of the contest will be awarded places on the staff at the end of the period set.

The only change from the present method is that for the purpose of aiding in the selection of a staff there will be used as a basis for choice the actual work done by the man who is trying for the place. There will be, as at present, provided, two Assistant Editors, the proper distribution between the two literary societies being preserved intact. The other appointments will be governed, both in number and degree, by the quality and quantity of the material from which the selections are made, but it is practically certain that there will be a Chief of Staff, a Staff Cartoonist, Staff Reviewer, and perhaps a Sporting Editor. In addition to these, there will be several appointments as reporters without special designation as to nature of the work to be done.

All that is necessary to enter the contest is to attend a meeting of these interested in the proposition which will be held in THE CHRONICLE Office, 210 Aycock Hall, at one thirty o'clock on Friday of this week, or to notify the editor of the paper of the intention to enter. A full explanation will be made of all details to any one who will apply for information, but the general plan will be that all those who try for appointments shall meet at least by the Saturday preceding every issue of THE CHRONICLE for the next four weeks. The material for the week will then be divided up and each man given assignments to cover and report on, at the same time turning in a written story of his assignments and any news items he may have gathered on his own account. Any student of Trinity College may enter the competition, but the majority of the places will not be open to freshmen, although there will be perhaps two openings for first-year men.

The following rules will be strict-

ENJOYABLE RECEPTION BY TRINITY Y. M. C. A.

EAST DUKE BUILDING FILLED WITH GUESTS TUESDAY NIGHT

GOOD PROGRAMME OF SPEECHES

The New Class was Introduced to Many College Activities by Men from Leading Student Interests—Dr. F. N. Parker was Toastmaster

No social event of the College in recent years has been participated in and enjoyed by a larger body of college people than the opening reception of the year given last night by the Young Men's Christian Association in the Washington Duke Building, East Wing in honor of the freshman class. Practically five hundred members of the college community were in attendance and the occasion was marked throughout by perfect informality. If there was any stiffness, it vanished almost immediately on one's entering the building, both floors and all the rooms of which had been put at the disposal of the Association by the College authorities.

At the front of the building guests were introduced to the President, Dean, and Secretary of the College, with their wives, who were receiving with the members of the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet in the parlor on the first floor. From this room all passed to the second story, where two punch bowls in the halls were the centres of interest. In the Association Hall most of the guests waited until all had assembled, and here were found on display the three banners won by the representatives of the Association at the summer conference at Black Mountain last June, and a large number of college pennants. The Durham Orchestra played during the entire evening at the entrance of the hall.

At the appointed time, the toastmaster of the evening, Dr. F. N. Parker, took charge, and presided with a dry humor that kept his hearers alive in expectation of some new sally. Partaking, as it does, of the nature of a reception and a college mass meeting, there was necessarily much speechmaking, but it was for the most part of such a nature as not to tire the hearers. After the opening remarks of the toastmaster, W. F. Starnes made a clear explanation of the work and scope of the Greater Trinity Club, of which he is the president. T. T. Spence, captain of the baseball team for the present year, spoke on the general topic of Athletics, and as he expressed it, laid down a sacrifice bunt and beat it to first. Rev. R. C. Craven made one of the real hits of the evening when he spoke in behalf of the pastors of the city of Durham, his freshman sympathies being somewhat pronounced. J. R. Davis, President of the Columbian Literary Society, spoke in the interest of literary society work, and made some effective sufragee rhymes. For the Coeds of the college D. C. Lewis was not able to speak with authority, if his own statement of the case were accepted, but he managed to reveal several mysteries to the uninitiated. He was followed by James Cannon III who spoke for the student publications and Dean W. I. Cranford, who represented the faculty as being a necessary adjunct of the average

LAST GRADUATING CLASS AT WORK IN THE WORLD

HOW MOST OF THE MEN OF 1913 ARE LOCATED FOR THE COMING YEAR

TEACHING THE MOST POPULAR

Business, Preaching, Graduate Work and Miscellaneous Occupations Claim Their Proportionate Quota of Those Who Left in June

Few things are more interesting to men in college than to watch the actions of those just gone out from their midst, and in the early days of the session almost the universal topic of discussion is the fate that has overtaken the members of the last graduating class. Whatever may be said of Trinity College graduates, it is certain that no one can accuse them of laziness, for without exception every man of the last few classes has been found at work by the opening of college next after his graduation—all, that is, who do not pursue their studies further than the mere A. B. degree.

Out of the 54 members of the class of 1913, 21 are teaching, 7 are preaching, 11 are in business, 11 are still in college and University work, and the rest are scattered in different occupations.

Misses Ethel and Irene Abernethy are both teaching, the former being assistant in English in Greensboro College for Women, and the latter having a position as teacher of Mathematics in the Winston-Salem High School.

S. S. Alderman secured more than one man's share of jobs and titles, being at present, Assistant Editor of "North Carolina Education," Assistant Secretary-Treasurer of the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly and Secretary of the State Educational Campaign, the headquarters of all three of which are in Raleigh.

Miss Florence Baxter and Miss Lucile Hundley are teaching in the Lakewood Park School of the Durham City system, and Miss Susie Markham also has a position in the Durham Schools. Miss Mary Edens and Miss Edna Holtzclaw are teaching in State High Schools of North Carolina and Florida, respectively while Miss Bess Weidenhouse and Miss Nettie Tillett are holding positions in the Blackstone Female Institute.

C. B. Culbreth, B. B. Slaughter, and L. D. Hayman have charge of Methodist churches in Durham, and have their headquarters on the college campus for the present; W. A. Cade is pastor of the Franklin Circuit; Daniel Lane of the church at Greenville, T. W. Lee at Kenansville, and H. B. Porter at Carthage.

R. G. Jones, W. M. Edens, J. A. Rand, and C. W. White, form a colony of Trinity men at Petersburg, Va., where they are in the employ of the British-American Tobacco Company, while H. A. Hayes is with the Export Leaf Tobacco Co., at Richmond, C. T. Waggoner with the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company at Nashville, Tenn., and Luther Stuart has recently sailed for Turkey, where he will work for the Austin Tobacco Co.

Among those who still follow the pursuit of knowledge are D. R. Kirkman, H. M. Ratcliff, W. B.

TWO OPENING MEETINGS OF LITERARY SOCIETIES

SATURDAY SAW BEGINNING OF WORK BY THE DEBATING ORGANIZATIONS

MANY MEMBERS MADE MERRY

Hesperians and Columbians Inaugurated Debating Year by Entertaining New Men in Their Halls in East Duke Building.—Much Rivalry

A branch of student activity that has held first place through the passing years in the interest of more Trinity men than any other single student interest got together on Saturday night when the Hesperian and Columbian Literary societies opened their halls in the East Duke for the years, work. Interest in the first few meetings of the societies has always been very great, because of the fact that the long standing friendly rivalry between the two for first place in the several kinds of contests in which they annually engage is usually keenest in the opening campaigns for new members. Under the regulation in force, no new men may join either society until they have been in college two weeks, this being intended to allow every man a chance to visit both halls before making his choice. Since the passing of the old Washington Duke Building, with its small halls and dark passages, the rushes for new men have been none the less strenuous because less dangerous to the lives and persons of those sought after, and much time and persuasion has been spent in the past few days by the partisans of both organizations endeavoring to advance the claims of their respective bodies.

On Saturday night a full attendance of old members in both camps was on hand with the glad hand and the dagger glance for prospective members and rival rushers respectively, and much oratory at both ends of the building was all aimed at the point of persuading the untutored that one or the other outshone its rival as the sun outshines a candle.

In the Columbian Society President J. R. Davis was in charge of proceedings, and had uncorked a racy and spicy literary program for the delectation of his guests. On the question, "Resolved: That there should be in this state a compulsory six months' school law," the affirmative, Messrs. E. S. Savage and H. E. Myers, locked horns with Grigg and Harrell for the Negative, while W. F. Starnes and M. B. Andrews dispensed oratory in between times. President Davis made a speech welcoming the visitors to the hall and invited them to return later and become members, and was followed by the Columbian standby, R. G. Cherry, in a typical appeal. H. B. Gaston was also on hand to urge the merits of his order, while V. A. Moore, an alumnus of the society, gave the benefit of his advice to those who were expecting to take up the burden. Prof. Holland Holton, of the Department of English, made a few remarks about the courses in debating offered by the Department.

Across the way the ardent Hesperians were also on the job, determined to do things a little differently from their rivals and make a strong pull for men without a liter-

REGULAR CEREMONIES OF COLLEGE OPENING

WEDNESDAY SAW AUSPICIOUS START OF SIXTY-FIRST SESSION

FLAG RAISED BY SENIOR CLASS

Speeches Made by Bishop Kilgo and by President Few to Incoming Class on First Day of College Year—Services Led by Dr. Sexton

The Sixty-first session of Trinity College began on Wednesday morning, September 10, at nine o'clock with the ceremonies in and around Craven Hall. All students and faculties of the college, and the Park School, and many people from the city formed a large and attentive audience to all that took place, and for an hour addresses, announcements, and other details of getting a great educational plant in motion after three months' rest occupied the close and undivided interest of the present.

Following a very fine tradition that is original and peculiar to Trinity College, the Senior class for the year 1913-'14 inaugurated its final year's work by raising on the flagpole before Memorial Hall its class banner, a large United States flag presented each year to the incoming class by the President of the College. The members of the class gathered at the foot of the pole, and while the president, J. R. Davis, raised the flag, the audience sang, "America." The ceremony ended with the class yell, lustily given by the class, and all then pressed into Craven Hall.

Devotional exercises were conducted by Dr. George S. Sexton, of Dallas, Texas, who prayed eloquently for a prosperous and profitable college year. President Few then introduced Bishop John C. Kilgo, former president of the College, to speak the first words on behalf of the College to the incoming class. In his own inimitable way Bishop Kilgo made a stirring appeal for soundness and cleanness of living, stating that when a man could do nothing else he could always give advice, and the advice offered by the speaker was that his hearers be first teachable in order that they might themselves teach, second that they be earnest, and third, and it was on this that he laid much stress, that they be clean. Above all, however, because chiefest of all, be God fearing.

Headmaster Peele made a brief statement to the Park School pupils, and after one or two routine announcements President Few said in part:

"I am very glad to welcome you here, and to welcome you to wholesome living. I welcome working students, and we do not wish or encourage any other kind of students here. This college is absolutely indifferent to mere numbers, making its appeal, as it does, to men who labor, and making this kind of an appeal I feel sure that this kind of student will keep your high aspirations and high hopes just as you came here with them."

Bishop J. C. Kilgo left Durham last week for an extended trip into Arkansas, where he will hold the Annual Conference of the Arkansas Methodist Conference the latter part of this month, returning to Durham about the first of October.

SUBSCRIBERS WILL PLEASE NOTIFY THE MANAGER OF ANY CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

TO THE ALUMNI

This and the preceding issue of the Chronicle have been sent to a large number of the alumni and friends of the College, who have not previously subscribed and whom it is hoped will hereafter subscribe to the paper. Those who desire the paper discontinued will save time and trouble by writing R. T. Lucas Business Manager, as to their wishes concerning the future of the paper.

As a part of the Greater Trinity that is developing so rapidly THE CHRONICLE hopes to be of aid in its own field. This opportunity it believes it will find in keeping as many as possible of the graduates of the College in touch with the life of the place instead of some two or three hundred alumni subscribers at present, it is not unreasonable to say that there should be as many thousand. Will not you co-operate?

THE COMPETITIVE STAFF

The thoughtful attention of all college men is called to the announcement made elsewhere in THE CHRONICLE of the competitive method of choosing the staff of the paper for this year. It is hoped that this beginning may be further developed by succeeding managements, but for the present year the scheme will serve merely as a guide as to those who desire to do newspaper work and are capable of handling it. Good as THE CHRONICLE has been in previous years, the fact remains that it has practically a one man paper, and no truly representative college activity can be properly conducted by any one individual. THE CHRONICLE wishes to state emphatically that the new system cannot work without the interest of a large number of students, particularly Juniors and Sophomores. No Freshman will be handicapped on account of his class, save as will result from his ignorance of persons, places, and conditions around the College, but only certain and few of the Staff positions will be open to competition by first year men.

Especial emphasis is laid on the fact that in the future, credit for CHRONICLE work will be given in the new course in English prose composition. An explanation of the basis of credits is given elsewhere, but THE CHRONICLE here extends its sincere thanks to the English Department for the recognition given the paper; it is hoped that in time further advantages and credits on college courses may be agreed upon.

FEELING OF THE OLD GRAD. HEARING OF COLLEGE OPENING

STUDENT INTERESTS

It is no exaggeration to state that the Trinity College of today offers the best opportunity a man could well wish for sane, able, and constructive, but above all loyal and unselfish service by the mass of its students. While, of course, any college can always use money and can usually bear at least with equanimity additions to the number of its students, these are not the problems that press for solution at the hands of the present generation of Trinity men. There are questions that have arisen during the recent phenomenal growth of the institution that have been perforce thrust aside until the absolute demands of the day could be satisfied, but now that other things have been laid to rest there come several matters that THE CHRONICLE believes should have the thoughtful consideration of the student body. Not that these things are any of them absolutely vital to the life of the College, for they are all involved largely in the broad general question of the relation of students to its internal affairs, a matter which the paper is not at present prepared to discuss, but that because having come to the front they should be spoken of.

Perhaps nothing is of greater interest to undergraduates in the mass, to every red-blooded, healthy-minded youth, and every earnest and loyal alumnus than the matter of and its allied problems. Trinity College has suffered in the past for its high ideals in the matter of purity of college sports, and it is probable that she will continue to feel the effects of her advanced state for some time to come. Be that as it may, that can be just as good and just as clean athletics here as the men on the various teams desire, and no better. If few men go into athletics there will be small reason to complain of few results, and it behooves every man who has any desire to make an athletic team to get into the game immediately and get started while the openings are equal for all alike. Basketball and track are things in which a great number of men can participate, and now is the time, dearly beloved new arrivals, to make yourself felt in the athletic life of Trinity College.

Somewhat different from this phase of activity, but equally as important and needful of hearty support by the new class is the debating work of the college as represented by the

LITERARY SOCIETIES

No detailed account of the advantages of society work will be given here, for few men longer maintain that this work in itself can be other than highly beneficial to all who participate in it. The chief purpose of this brief statement on the subject is to urge every man in college to attend the opening session become allied with one or the other of them. The sooner the matter is settled the better the individual and the organization will both be, and prolonged hesitation usually results in the drifting away of the man from the society.

THE Y. M. C. A.

which was such a cordial host to the college last night deserves the thanks of the community for a most pleasant evening, and THE CHRONICLE takes pleasure in extending thanks to these in charge of the affair, and all who contributed to the success of the occasion. No more worthy organization can be found in college than this one, which has stood so long as the friend to, old and new students alike. In the coming canvass for members there should be an almost total enrollment of the entire student body in the ranks of its members.

THE CHRONICLE feels it almost needless to urge a large attendance at the opening address of the President next Sunday night. No men who are really interested in their college can seriously consider any other course than hearing it.

In the first issue of THE CHRONICLE the management offered to give a free yearly subscription to the writer of the yell adopted by each class in college. To this time no class meetings have been held and for that reason no yells have been adopted, but as the offer expires with the next issue of the paper any one interested in the proposition would do well to take up the matter this week.

But aside from that, it is time that the various classes were organized, so that this detail may be out of the way, and chiefly that the class teams may get in practice for the relay, basketball, and tennis contests of the fall athletics.

E. C. McClees, ex-'13, left Monday for Richmond, Va., where he will take the four years' course in medicine at the Richmond Medical College.

ly adhered to in the contest: No news stories written for other papers and appearing in those papers on or before the date of issue of THE CHRONICLE for which they are submitted will be accepted, or credited. No editorials will be printed other than those written by the Editor himself, save that letters in the form of editorials will be published, where worthy of it, under a separate column and with the name or initials of the writer attached. All work must be in THE CHRONICLE Office by seven o'clock on Monday night preceding the date of issue of the paper. The Editor of THE CHRONICLE will serve as sole judge and will select the successful contestants without consultation.

Through the courtesy of the English Department it has been arranged that credit will be given in the course in English Prose Composition for work done for THE CHRONICLE, not only during the contest, but throughout the present year. Any student taking this course, will get credit for one weekly theme, or its equivalent, for every news story of at least a column in length that appears on the front page of THE CHRONICLE under what is called a four deck head, that is one of the large heads used on the front page. Under this scheme will be included also any editorial published under the condition laid down above, and sporting news and comment, if of sufficient length and merit. Also the work turned in to the Department in the form of themes will be turned over to THE CHRONICLE for publication wherever it can be used, and credits in THE CHRONICLE composition will be given for this work.

Further details will be made known on application and on Friday.

PRESIDENT'S OPENING ADDRESS TO COLLEGE

NEXT SUNDAY NIGHT IN MEMORIAL HALL, EIGHT O'CLOCK

The opening address of President W. P. Few to the college community will be delivered next Sunday at eight o'clock in Craven Memorial Hall. The distinct literary stamp of President Few's addresses have made them very popular among members of the college community and the citizens of Durham, large audiences of whom have always greeted him on these first formal openings of the College year. An former years the President has some times seen fit to make statements during the course of these addresses that have been taken to indicate his policy for the current academic year, and for that reason more than usual interest is attached to them.

The committee in charge of the program states that the fine commencement choir, under the direction of Mr. E. C. Check, has been secured to take charge of the music for the occasion, and this fact in itself is sufficient to assure the high character of the program to be rendered.

Former Professor Julian Blanchard has been in Durham for several days visiting friends; he will be at Columbia University again this year.

TRINITY WEDDINGS

Accounts of Several Marriages of Graduates

The wedding bells rang merrily for many Trinity ears the past summer and more than one friendship of college days culminated in the lasting bonds of wedded life.

On June 11, at the home of the bride in Durham, F. S. Bennett and Miss Maye Bowling, class of 1912, were quietly married in the presence of a few close friends, most of whom were class and college mates of the bridal couple. After a trip in the Western part of North Carolina, and a short stay at the home of the groom in Cleveland, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. Bennett returned to Durham, where they spent the few remaining days of the vacation with the parents of Mrs. Bennett. On the first of Sept. they left for Greensboro, where Mr. Bennett holds the chair of English in Greensboro College for Women.

On August 6th, W. B. Kiker and Miss Blannie Berry, class 1910 were married at Miss Berry's home in Durham, and after a brief wedding tour returned to live in the city for the coming winter. Mr. Kiker, following his profession as a civil engineer, has spent the year since graduation in Florida and Mexico, and has now opened an office in Durham as consulting engineer.

Miss Sara Blanchard Smith, class of 1910, became the bride of Dr. Gordon Lee, of Clinton on the fourth of September. The wedding ceremony took place in Durham at the home of Mrs. J. K. Mason, an aunt of the bride, and was attended only by friends of both parties. Dr. Lee is a practicing physician located at Clinton, North Carolina.

Announcement cards have recently been issued stating that on No. 13th, Miss Mabel Isley, 1912, will become the bride of S. J. Gannt, '12. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride at Burlington, N. C. Mr. Gannt is now located in California, where he is in business with his brother.

During the month of July the marriage of Miss Elise Mimms, class of 1908, of Durham, to Mr. Nicholas Lewis Walker, of Raleigh, was announced as having been set for the fifteenth of October.

Mr. J. H. Haydon, class 1896, is Manager of the North State Telephone Company with headquarters at High Point, N. C.

Rev. F. S. Love, 1906, who has been pastor of the Methodist Church at Kinston, N. C., has resigned in order to take a position in Granberry College, Brazil, for which country he leaves the first of October.

R. M. Patterson, 1912, has been on the campus on his way to Littleton, N. C., where he has a position in Littleton Female College.

Beale J. Fancette, who graduated in the class of 1910 and later took two years of graduate work at Trinity, has been elected Professor of English in the Durham High School. He was during the past year Principal of the schools at Seaboard, N. C.

M. A. Briggs, a graduate of Trinity, has recently been elected Principal of the Durham High School.

H. R. Hunter, 1911, during the past year Principal of the Graded School at LaGrange, N. C., has been elected Principal of the school at Monroe, North Carolina.

ALUMNI BANQUET

Hertford the Scene of Interesting Summer Event

An interesting event of the summer among Trinity alumni was the annual banquet of the Elizabeth City District of the Eastern Carolina Conference which was held at Hertford, N. C., on July 22nd. The president of the association of the district is Rev. M. T. Plyler, and Mr. W. H. Brown of Gatesville is the secretary. The college was represented by Prof. R. L. Flowers, and the following were the speakers: Rev. T. A. Sikes, Supt. S. B. Underwood, Dr. S. B. Turrentine, Dr. Wm. Blanchard, of Purdue University, Rev. B. T. Hurley, and Professor Flowers.

PRESIDENT FEW TO STUDENTS

Address of Sunday Afternoon

The first religious meeting of the year was that held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in the Association Hall when President W. P. Few spoke to a good audience of college men on the general theme, "The Need of the complete commitment of yourself to the highest that you know in life."

President Few said in part: "Exhortations to young men take the form of general urging to moral soundness rather than in regard to the details of living, because once the principal is fixed the details will take care of themselves. In any cause an absolute giving of itself to that cause is necessary. Our physical development appears slow, young men often measure and weigh themselves at frequent intervals, but it is true that if one is faithful unto death,—that is unto abnegation and self sacrifice, even in youth one may have a disciplined body. The same is equally true of the inward development that takes place imperceptibly. It is not the one who gives as little as he can and asks much in return, but he who gives all that he can and then counts himself an unprofitable servant, who achieves real success. It is what one does after he has done his day's work that measures what he is, and if a man does only what is assigned him by a taskmaster, he is merely a galley slave in the great moral forces of the universe. I covet for all of you a certain kind of moral ruggedness, and this kind of ruggedness is harder to find where circumstances are easy than in different places. I pray that none of you may make the Great Refusal that is the scolding of the highest and the choosing of the lowest."

The meeting was closed with a few words by Dr. F. N. Parker, relative to religious work in the college, and President Secrest in behalf of the Y. M. C. A.

V. A. Moore, 1912, has been on the campus several days on his way to his school at Wesley Chapel, N. C.

ary program. James Cawson III, leader of the Hesperian hosts for the time being, called the clan to order, and after the usual routine of opening ceremonies a number of society members put forth their best efforts to show the results of their years in society work. Regardless of the results shown, the efforts seemed to be appreciated, and after a short address of welcome by the President, Conly, Sheppard, W. B. Kiker, and Buster Brown set forth the traditions and ambitions of the society. Prof. Holton here also gave a general explanation of the debating work of the college. Much interest was manifested in the announcement that Dr. C. A. Moore, Dr. T. S. Graves, and Prof. J. J. Donegan had all accepted honorary membership in the society.

For next Saturday night there seems to have been planned an exact reversal of programs, the Hesperians offering a short literary program and the Columbians trusting in their turn to a straightout appeal for new members.

Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A., meeting tonight will be in charge of Mr. E. G. Wilson, state secretary of the Association, who will address the local branch on the subject of Membership. After the meeting there will be an enrollment of Y. M. C. A., members and a canvass of the several dormitories.

THE keen-witted cartoonists of the most keen-witted nation on earth have to possess a mighty big fund of never-failing cheerfulness—else they could not give you, day after day, the high quality of good humor which they do. And they have to keep their minds sharp—to say much in little space is the main rule of the cartoonist's art.

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

They wouldn't smoke Tuxedo if it didn't keep their minds alert and cheerful all day long, day in and day out. A tobacco that can do that stands in a class by itself.

Tuxedo does stand in a class by itself. It has had many imitators but it has never been equaled.

Tuxedo is made of the very highest grade of choice mellow sweet Kentucky Burley leaf—treated by the original "Tuxedo Process", which removes the sting so that it cannot bite your tongue—granulated so that it smokes freely and uniformly—packed 40 pipefuls to the 10c tin.

Tuxedo deserves every good thing that has ever been said of it—and to prove it, Tuxedo sells by the millions upon millions of tins annually.

CECIL RHODES EXAMS COME ON OCTOBER 15

CONTEST FOR APPOINTMENT TO OXFORD UNIVERSITY, ENGLAND

Although the best opportunity of the present day for advanced study and University work to which college students may attain is afforded by the Cecil Rhodes scholarships at Oxford University, there has not been hitherto a very great deal of interest among North Carolina colleges over the appointments to these scholarships. During the present year a vacancy will occur in the representation of this state at Oxford, and examinations to fill it will be held at Raleigh about the middle of October. A similar set of examinations was held last year at this time, but there was not sufficient material available to warrant the appointment of a man to fill the place, and so the position was left vacant.

The modus operandi of securing the appointment is somewhat as follows: qualifying examinations will be held in every state capital in the United States. The subjects set for examination are Greek, Latin and Mathematics. The papers on these subjects are sent to Oxford, where they are graded, and an announcement of all those who pass the examination is then sent to the chairman of each state committee. All the successful candidates then present themselves before this committee and from among their number one is selected and given the appointment. In choosing a man the relative grades of the qualifying examinations do not count, save where everything else is equal. The chief points taken into consideration aside from scholarship, are moral character, athletic ability, and general interest in college activities, as evidenced by past records of the various applicants in their respective colleges.

The restrictions are that the candidate shall be between nineteen and twenty-five years of age, must have taken at least sophomore work in a first class college, and be a citizen of the United States.

Information on the whole subject of the scholarships may be obtained on application to Prof. E. K. Graham, Chapel Hill, N. C.

TENNIS ENTRIES

Entries in the annual interclass tennis tournament are being taken by Manager A. R. Anderson this week, and it is stated that the contests will start if possible on Friday or Saturday. The men who come out for the class teams will also be those who will be considered as having entered for the Varsity team, and the class teams will be used as a kind of recruiting ground for Varsity players. Court No. 2 has been reserved by the manager for contestants for the Varsity and they have been given to right to use it at any time necessary for practice.

Matches are on foot with several colleges in the state, certainly those played last year will be played again and at least three others are under consideration.

MINISTERIAL BAND

The men of the College who are preparing for the ministry met last night in the Y. M. C. A., committee room in the East Duke Building. President E. C. Durham called the meeting to order and welcomed seven new members of the Ministerial Band. The number of old and new members for the present year now reaches about thirty.

C. B. Culbreth made a short address to the Band after the organization had been perfected.

SUCCESS ASSURED BY FIRST SUMMER SCHOOL

DURING PAST SIX WEEKS' SESSION STUDENTS WORKED HARD

An announcement that caused much comment towards the close of last session was that which dealt with the opening of a summer school on the campus during the vacation. Although the idea was conceived only in the last week of the session, and on that account not much publicity could be given it before the end of the year, the results of the first effort were entirely satisfactory to those in charge, and from the successful beginning of the past season it can easily be foreseen that there is a possibility for very great expansion and development of the idea. While the enrollment was necessarily not exceedingly large, the students who took the work were all in earnest and splendid results were gained from the six weeks' session that ran from June 23 to August 1. All told thirty-five students registered.

The subjects offered during the past summer were Latin, Mathematics, and German. As the school was really conducted in the name of the Trinity Park School, the teaching in Latin was done by Prof. I. B. McCay, and that in Mathematics by Prof. F. S. Aldridge. The German work was in charge of Prof. W. H. Wannamaker, whose classes were held in the East Duke Building. Most of the students were those who needed some additional work to prepare them for college, although three or four college students also took various branches of work. No student was allowed to take over one course, and recitation periods of an hour and a half in length for six days in the week were sufficient to allow the covering of a full year's work because of the intensive method of study that was insisted upon.

Every one connected with the school appears very sanguine of its future and abundantly satisfied with the work of the first session.

TRINITY RECEIVES TRINITY

The authorities of Trinity church have extended an invitation to the faculties and students of Trinity college, Trinity Park School, and the Southern Conservatory of Music, to attend a reception to be given on next Friday night, September 19, in the church auditorium. This event is in charge of the Young Peoples' organizations of the church and has come to be looked forward to by College students as one of the most delightful social events of the year, and it is the rule for the whole community to turn out in force.

Professor G. B. Pegram, '95, of Columbia University, in the city of New York, has been on a visit to his father, Professor W. H. Pegram. Dr. Pegram, who so quickly won his place in the department of physics in Columbia is an example of the sort of contribution Trinity is constantly making to higher education in this country.

CHANTICLEER APPOINTMENTS

Pleasants to be First Assistant to Bagley

Near the close of last session Editor Bagley announced the staff appointments for the 1914 Chanticleer but as the list was not quite complete at that time there have been some changes during the summer, so that the full staff is now given out for publication for the first time. Work on the new book has already begun, a dummy having been made up during the summer months and every member of the staff having been assigned definite work.

The volume gotten out by the 1913 staff set a mark that will be hard to pass and has been the cause of much very favorable comment among those circles interested in college annuals. The financial affairs of the volume have not yet been wound up, but definite assurance have been given that prospects are very bright for a favorable outcome. Copies of the Chanticleer can be obtained at the College Book Room or from B. F. Few, assistant manager. The price is $3.00 each.

The staff for the present year is: Editor, C. R. Bagley, First assistant, M. R. Pleasants; Junior assistant, F. B. Brown; Sophomore Assistant, H. L. Dalton. Department editors are: Athletics, W. I. Wooten and J. W. Lambeth; Art, Lawrence Dixon and Amos Stack; Organizations, E. R. Sikes and R. L. Brown; Literary, E. S. Savage; Humor, F. B. Brown and H. L. Dalton; Coeds, Miss Estelle Flowers and Miss Irma Tapp.

The Business Manager is W. F. Starnes, with B. F. Few as Assistant Manager.

GREATER TRINITY CLUB

Work Carried on During Summer

Four years ago much comment, both locally and in college circles all over the country, was caused by the organization of a body of Trinity college students under the name of the Greater Trinity Club. Upon investigation it was found that the membership of the club embraced everyone connected with Trinity college in any capacity whatever, and for the past four summers a secretary has been employed in the name of the club to look after the students' part in helping to push forward the interests of the college. During the past summer the work has been in charge of P. H. North, of the Junior Class, who remained at the College during the summer and in conjunction with the college office sent out a great deal of literature, and corresponded with several hundred prospective new students. During August R. L. Brown, of the Junior class also worked with the Club, an account of his work being given elsewhere. No small number of new men were brought to the College by the work of the club through the old students themselves.

PATTON GLEE CLUB MANAGER

At a meeting of the College Glee Club held Monday night, N. M. Patton, of the Junior class, was elected manager of the club to fill the place left vacant by the failure of G. C. Kimball to return to college this year. Patton has been assistant manager, and his elevation was in the natural order of events. A further meeting of the club has been called for Friday night.

Rev. H. E. Spence, '07, who has held the position of Assistant Professor of English for some years, has returned to the active ministry and is located at Sanford, N. C. Prof. Spence, whose verse has always ranked high, has recently published a volume of his poems that has had a very wide circulation.
