SENIOR CLASS OF 1915 HOLDS FIRST MEETING

GRADUATING CLASS GETS TOGETHER FOR ELECTION OF ARCHIVE MANAGER

REGULAR OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

B. H. Siler Elected President—Morgan Manager of Archive—Sophs Hold Meeting

For the first time this year, the senior class of 1915 came together last Thursday morning. The class was met by Dr. Few, who told the seniors in a few brief sentences what he expected of them during the coming year. After giving them a few words of advice as they entered upon this, their last year in college, Dr. Few turned the class over to the class president, and the annual election of officers was held without loss of time.

The reason for the extraordinary rush in the election of officers this term was the fact that R. L. Brown, who was elected business manager of the Archive last spring has this fall failed to put in an appearance. The failure of Mr. Brown to return to college this year made it imperative for the senior class to elect some one to fill the position which he left vacant. Since the meeting was a matter of necessity, it was decided that it would be best "to kill two birds with one stone," and accordingly it was determined to proceed with the regular annual election of officers.

The first matter taken up was the election of a successor for Mr. Brown on the Archive. For this position Mr. W. H. Morgan was chosen. Mr. Morgan was appointed by Mr. Brown last year as his assistant-manager in the publication of the Archive, and is fully capable of undertaking the job that has been given him. Since his return to school this year, he has already been working hard on getting advertising, and has the matter well in hand. Under his efficient business management, there is little doubt but that the Archive will see a year of the highest success, and will be a credit to the present senior class.

After the election of Mr. Morgan as manager of the Archive, the class turned to the election of its regular officers for the year at hand. Mr. Beal H. Siler was elected president of the class. Siler's fitness for the position is well known, since he has taken a prominent part in the athletic, literary, and social life of the college community since entering school. He well represents his class and is in all ways, a suitable man for the presidency of the graduating class. As Vice-president, Mr. W. I. Wooten was chosen by the class. Following the usual custom of electing a co-ed to the position of class secretary, Miss Mary Berry was selected for that important honor. A. R. Anderson was given control of the class purse when he was elected treasurer. W. A. Thorne, known as one of the two college "nails," was elected to represent the seniors on the Athletic Council during the present year.

Following closely upon the election of officers by the senior class, the annual election of the class of

COLLEGE MACHINERY MOVES OFF SMOOTHLY

TRINITY STARTS YEAR 1914-1915 UNDER MOST FAVORABLE CIRCUMSTANCES

REGISTRATION UNUSUALLY LARGE

Effects of War Does not Prevent Men from Entering School—487 Total Number

With the raising of the college flag by the president of the senior class, the collegiate year was formally opened at Trinity last Wednesday morning. Just as the sound of "Old Marse Jack" ceased and died away the new flag was slowly and silently raised to its place, and as it reached the summit of the pole, the sound of the class yell of the class of 1915 filled the air. This marked the beginning of what promises to be one of the best years in the whole history of the college, and in spite of wars and rumors of wars Trinity is setting out on a year of unparalleled success and development.

Up to date, the registration of new men amounted to two hundred and sixteen. Several of these, of course, have entered in higher classes, but the great majority of them were freshmen. In the senior class, eighty-one men had put their names on the college roll on Saturday morning. The total registration amounts to four hundred and eighty-seven; but this does not include the registration of men taking post-graduate work nor the registration of those taking law. The total figures will mount over five hundred. The Park School figures have been set at one hundred and twenty-five.

Immediately after the raising of the flag on Wednesday, the first chapel exercises of the year were held. The services were presided over by Dr. Few, and the prayer services were led by Reverend Harry M. North, Presiding Elder of the Durham District and at one time Headmaster of Trinity Park School. The burden of the talk by Mr. North was that the men entering college should cling firmly to the religion and the God which they had known at home. Whatever else they might do in college, this thing was necessary in order that they might get the greatest good out of their work and win the highest success.

After the prayer services had come to a close, Dr. Few, following a custom of long standing at the opening of college, called upon all the ministers connected with the various churches of Durham, and offered to them an opportunity of inviting the Trinity men to worship with them at their churches. Practically all of the churches of the city were represented, and each of the ministers gave the students an earnest invitation to join in their work and worship.

Before reading the various announcements of courses and meetings, Dr. Few took the opportunity of saying a few words concerning the freshmen class, and to give them a little advice on their entrance to their new life. Dr. Few advised them to soar, if they would. It is all right to get above the common atmosphere of

TRINITY TRACK TEAM EXPECTS GOOD SEASON

CAPTAIN MAT PLANNING GREAT THINGS FOR TRINITY ON TRACK

WORK WILL BEGIN IMMEDIATELY

First Call is Issued, and Practice Will Start on Recently Completed Track

"Fall practice and plenty of it" is the motto by which the track team will be run this year. Captain Matton, known on the campus by the rather undignified name of "Freshman" Matton, is planning to do big things in the way of track athletics this year, and already is beginning to try out his material. A great many of the last year's team are back in college and much new material is in sight.

Captain Matton last Monday issued the first call for candidates for the track team. In order to train the men more properly and to get a better idea of just what to expect, a series of mile or two mile relay races will probably be run off. These will come each week, and will serve to keep the men up to the highest point of efficiency possible. The annual ten-mile inter-class relay race will also be run this year as usual, although no date has been definitely set yet. The relay race this year will end up with two or three laps around the recently completed running track in the new athletic field. This track is now in fairly good condition, and is being improved upon. A relay team may be organized for the purpose of meeting some other college of the State in an inter-collegiate relay race, provided the men show up sufficiently well to warrant such action on the part of the management.

Trinity's track team ought this year to see the most successful season of its history. Captain Matton is thoroughly interested, and will give his best work to developing a winning team. He himself will, of course, continue at his old ways and become the shining star of the team, and there is no doubt that he will overcome all rivals in the state this year, particularly in the pole vault. This is Matton's specialty and his motto seems to be "Excelsior." With the absence of Strong from Carolina, Matton will have little trouble in making off with first honors in the State meet, if held this year. Several of the old men are back on the campus this year, and all of them are prepared to do their best to bring the track team up to the standard that it should reach. For the regular varsity season, two or three meets are being planned with the colleges of the state, at least one of which will be held on the Trinity track. If the State Meet is held in Raleigh this year, Trinity will again enter.

The annual inter-class field day will be held this year as usual and the date will probably be set early in the spring. This fall, there may be held a handicap race in which varsity men will be held back in order to give new men an advantage. All varsity men will, in all probability, be ruled out of the annual field day, thus giving more ample opportunity to see just

DIRECTOR CARD TALKS OF GYMNASIUM PLANS

GREAT CHANGES WILL BE MADE IN GYMNASIUM WORK FOR YEAR

NEW GAMES TO BE INTRODUCED

"Cap" Card Proposes New Features for Athletic Work—Suggests "Badge" Test

"I am going to revolutionize athletics at Trinity College this year," said "Cap" Card recently in speaking of his plans for the coming year. A great variety of new games and sports introduced for the first time to Trinity students will undoubtedly uphold the statement of the gymnasium director.

During the summer just past, "Cap" Card has been working in Baltimore in connection with the play-ground movement and his head is reeking with ideas for the betterment of the athletic life of Trinity College. All manner of new games and hitherto untried forms of sport and athletic endeavor will form the basis of Cap's revolutionary movement.

Among other games that are to be played here this year, according to the testimony of Director Card, will be soccer. Some interest was manifested in this form of sport last year, but nothing definite in the way of organizing a team was done. This year Cap is determined to push the matter to a finish, and put out a varsity team. Lawn-ball and play-ground ball will also form a part of the new athletic curriculum. Both of these games are played with a large ball on open courts, and are in general principles on the same order as volley-ball. Volley-ball was introduced here last year, and many men played regularly for some time. It is the purpose of Director Card to have two courts put up for the use of the college men, and another for the use of the Park School men in this game.

Cap Card is also thinking of introducing here what is known in Baltimore as the "badge test system." This is a system which has never been put into operation here for getting all the men interested and giving them something definite to work for. By this system a series of medals or badges of distinction will be offered. The medals will be given to those men who can achieve a certain amount of athletic proficiency in various ways. A bronze badge will be given, for instance, to the man who can run sixty yards in a certain specified time, who can jump a certain designated distance in the running broad jump, and who can jump a certain height in the running high jump. A silver medal will be awarded to all men who are able to achieve yet greater proficiency in these things; and a gold medal will be given to those able to come up to a yet higher standard of judgment. The various tests will probably consist of a hundred yard dash, the running high and the running broad jump, and the standing broad jump, together with bar-chinning and similar exercises. Men competing for medals must reach a certain standard in each of these things.

Y. M. C. A. RECEPTION PROVES BIG SUCCESS

FRESHMEN AND UPPER-CLASSMEN ASSEMBLE FOR GENERAL GOOD TIME

NEW MEN GUEST OF Y. M. C. A.

Opportunity is Offered to Freshmen to Get Acquainted—Several Short Talks

The unusual sounds which assailed sensitive ears on the campus last night were not indications of any extraordinary and unforeseen natural disturbances affecting the topography of whole sections, but it was merely the sounds which necessarily accompanied the attack of the Trinity freshmen on the refreshments provided for them at the Y. M. C. A. reception to the class of 1915.

The Y. M. C. A. reception to the freshmen class last night proved to be a most highly successful affair. Large crowds attended, and all seemed to be having a great good time. The freshmen were given an unexcelled opportunity of meeting the old men, and the old men were given a good chance to see just what kind of new material the new class was bringing in.

The guests were met at the main entrance of the East Duke Building, where the reception was held, by an officer of the Y. M. C. A., who directed all comers to the receiving line in the faculty room. In this receiving line were President Few, Dean Crawford, several other members of the faculty and their wives, and a great many of the officers and prominent members of the Y. M. C. A., and young ladies connected with the college. From the receiving line, the guests were guided into the regular Y. M. C. A. meeting hall on the second floor, where a rather formal assembly was held, and where several short speeches were made by various members of the college community.

Professor E. C. Brooks, of the Department of Education, acted as toastmaster of the occasion in a manner that was most pleasing. His remarks in his introductory speech and in introducing the men on the program elicited much laughter and considerable applause. As the first speaker of the evening, Professor Brooks introduced B. F. Few, vice-president of the Y. M. C. A., and ranking officer of that organization during the illness of D. C. Lewis. Mr. Few issued a welcome to all of the new students to join in the work of the Y. M. C. A. in Trinity College. He explained that the work of the Y. M. C. A. was to work for the uplifting of the spirituality of the place.

The next speaker on the program was Dr. Franklin N. Parker, who was called upon to respond as a representative of the faculty. In his usual witty and terse style, Dr. Parker, responded. He explained seriously that the aim of the instructor was to bring the student to the point which he himself had reached, in order that the student might reach out into fields yet untouched by the instructor.

H. E. Myers spoke of the literary societies and their work. He

THE STAFF

In this issue of THE CHRONICLE the names of J. W. Wallace and R. M. Johnson appear as Associate Editors. These two men have been appointed on the basis of their work last year on the staff of THE CHRONICLE under Editor Cannon, and in the judgment of the editor of that paper at present, these are the two men best fitted for the positions. Mr. Wallace is a member of the Hesperian Literary Society, while Mr. Johnson is from the Columbian. The appointments were made in this way in conformity with an action passed by the Chronicle Governing Board last year, which called for the appointment of an associate editor from each society.

Besides these two associate editors, it is the purpose to have on the reportorial staff, four other men, to be selected by a competition from the members of the present sophomore class. This competition will begin next week, and final announcement of it will be made in the next issue of THE CHRONICLE. It is hoped that this competition will be borne in mind by all sophomores, and that there will be many to answer the call for competitors which will appear in the next issue.

The name of Mr. J. H. Burrus is appearing in this issue as Chief Cartoonist of THE CHRONICLE. This position rightly goes to Mr. Burrus since he well proved his efficiency by his work last year. He will have complete charge of the work of cartooning during the present year, and will be the supervisor of all drawings submitted for publication. All men having drawings to submit for publication will submit them to Mr. Burrus or to the editor. Mr. Burrus will be the only cartoonist having a regular place on the staff of the paper.

Just at this period of the year, members of the Columbian and Hesperian Literary Societies are trying to persuade freshmen to join their ranks. The freshmen, poor, forsaken creatures, are without guidance. Which of the two to join is more than they can tell, and there comes into their minds a doubt as to whether it is best for them to join any or not. It is to dispel this doubt that this article is written.

There can be no doubt but that the literary society is one of the most important organizations which is to be found on the college campus. It is an organization which gives to its individual members far more than its individual members give back to it. It gives one a training which will be of use to him throughout the whole of his future life. No matter what business one enters, whether he becomes a lawyer or minister, a teacher or a legislator, or even a business man, a merchant, a manufacturer,—whatever he makes of himself, he will find that the time will come when he will be called upon to face a large audience and to give expression to his thoughts.

On his ability to express, clearly and concisely, his thoughts at a time such as this, much of his future success depends. A man may be never so brilliant, he may be gifted with thoughts little short of the thoughts that flow through the mind of a genius, but yet if he cannot give them expression, they are of no benefit to him. Thoughts unexpressed make little impression on the world where only a small minority of the people are gifted with the ability to read minds.

If it is your duty, then, to learn, if you do not know now, to express your thoughts; and to learn the art of thinking on your feet. You owe it to your future life and career to make the best of your opportunities offered to you here by these two literary societies. Not a single freshman in the class of 1918 should let this opportunity slip by. You came to college, each of you, with an ambition to make of yourself the highest success possible. If you fail to join one of the societies, you are throwing away the greatest opportunity that will come to you in your whole college career for bettering yourself and improving your future. Join, and join to work.

A DREAM OF FAIR WOMEN

Some years ago, when the co-eds were less frequently seen upon the Trinity campus and when their numbers were by no means as the sands of the sea, now and then a smothered remark would burst from the interior of some room that "angels are on the campus," and immediately, from each dormitory the heads would begin to pop from windows, and each of the dormitories would assume the appearance of a multiple-action jack-in-the-box. To day, this is not the case, "Angels on the campus" no longer describes an unusual state of affairs, for the co-eds this year are numerous and their presence on the campus is no longer a sign for such general excitement.

All this is excellent, but the presence of so many beautiful and entrancing co-eds is having a disastrous effect upon the rest of the community. There is as yet no genuine alarm, but there is a mild dread among members of the college community lest there come to pass an epidemic of love, for surely Cupid will not long stay apart from such an excellent field of endeavor.

The final effects of introducing a larger crowd of ladies to the college community is a matter interesting to conjecture. Already many effects are being felt. How can a man study; for instance, when a good-looking girl is passing below his window? Impossible

COLLEGE Y. M. C. A. HOLDS FIRST MEETING OF YEAR

B. F. FEW FILLS CHAIR IN PLACE OF PRESIDENT LEWIS—DR. FEW SPEAKS

It is hoped that the interest which was shown in the first meeting of the Y. M. C. A. on last Wednesday night will keep up throughout the year. Serving as president in the absence of President D. C. Lewis, who is sick, Vice-President B. F. Few advertised a meeting for Wednesday night. The meeting was attended as few have been by both new and old students.

A quartet composed of P. G. Farrar, M. A. Osborne, J. W. Bennett and L. C. Larkin sang, and those in charge of the music promised that special music will be provided for almost every meeting.

In a short talk to the assembly, President Few said in part: We live in two worlds. If we allow ourselves to live only in the physical world, life is like a dreamless sleep, dull. The beautiful things of this life are but glimpses of what God has for us in eternity.

Coming to a new place does not mean that the new men must give up everything old, but they should not be ashamed to keep up the things which they have been taught at home.

The words of Kipling in a recent poem,

"No easy hopes can bring us to our goal,

But iron sacrifice of body, mind and soul," may well be applied by every student in college. We can not get along on Mr. Micawber's hope that "something will turn up." The sacrifice of will is among the greatest of sacrifices. You are soldiers in the warfare of life. Though your hearts may sometimes break, keep your swords unbroken, and by uniting in the work of the Y. M. C. A., cause evil to cover.

ble! As surely as the proverbial duck will take to water, so surely will the college man give up his lessons and feast his gaze upon the passing show of feminine beauty. From an occasional indulgence in hanging out of windows at the time when the co-eds were few, this propensity has now developed into what threatens to be a perpetual and continual use of window-sills as impromptu observatories. Another effect which will be felt is likely to be a decrease in post-office receipts at the Trinity Station. Soon, very soon, perhaps, there will be less and less love-letters handled through that department; for already some among us have heard that indefinable call which might be termed the call of co-ed to ed—the call which makes one forget the girl he left behind him. During the next week or two, many and many an erstwhile pair of lovers will break off their correspondences, and the old days will be forgotten.

Why should such things be, you ask? It is simple enough. Where is the man who can resist the battery of deep, brown eyes of the brunette or the artillery of flashing blue eyes with which the blond is armed? Where is the man who will not succumb to the charms of the fair ones about him here?

'Breathes there a man with soul so dead,

Who never to himself hath said: This is my own, my fair co-ed?"

These September morns are certainly cold.

PARK SCHOOL ITEMS

The beginning of the second week of the school term finds work at the Trinity Park School moving along in a smooth and orderly way. Almost every book has been secured and the irregularity and confusion incident upon the opening week has about passed. Owing to the general uncertainty all over the country due to the disturbed condition of affairs, it had been thought that the opening would not be so good in point of members as in former years. The opening however, was all that could be desired. On account of this uncertainty, the contract for the large new brick dormitory was not given out during the summer. It is now planned to let the contract for this building in a few weeks and have it ready for use by the first of the next session.

Among the many new students it is a coincidence worthy of note that but two young ladies have registered up to this time. They are Miss Katie Stevenson, of Newborn, N. C., and Miss Carrie Rogers, of Durham. It seems that these will be the only young ladies in the school this year.

Among the number of visitors here recently was Dr. E. L. Stamey, of Greensboro, N. C., whose sons were in school here two years ago. He made a short, pleasing talk to the students in Chapel last Monday morning.

It is noteworthy that six out of every seven graduates of the class of 1913 are now in Trinity College. About sixty per cent. of the seniors who were here all the year last year are now in the freshman class. A few were not able to continue their course this year on account of the continued drought of the early spring that did much damage to the farms.

A very interesting and impressive meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was held last Thursday evening. Quite a large number participated for it was a students' meeting and not conducted by a special leader. The president, Mr. D. B. Robinson, and his assistants hope to enroll every student here in the Y. M. C. A. work.

Those freshmen who sat patiently waiting before the chapel Saturday morning have probably found out by this time that chapel closes down on Saturday. At any rate, they are to be congratulated on their fine spirit, their energy and patience, and their excellent endurance.

A bald-headed man and his hair are soon parted.—Ex.

showed how important literary society work is to the man in his future life, no matter what might be his life work. There is room for every one in the societies, he said, and the societies need men. He urged all new men to unite themselves with one of the two literary societies.

F. B. Brown next spoke on the subject of "The Ladies," and gave a very brief discussion of the co-eds. H. A. Maddox was then called upon for a talk upon the subject of athletics. Mr. Maddox showed how important it was that every man should take an active interest in the welfare of the team which was representing his college, and even if he was unable to take an active part in the athletic games themselves, yet he should remain interested and do all in his power, by his moral support and his financial support, to help his college team. "Crip" West, 1915 coach of the baseball team, was then called upon, and responded with a few words apropos of the baseball situation. He too emphasized the fact that each man in school should partake in some form at athletics.

The last speaker was E. S. Savage, who spoke on "The Publication of Trinity College." Mr. Savage gave a short description of the nature and aims of each of the three publications, the Archive, THE CHRONICLE, and the Chanticleer. He concluded his speech with a plea for aid in the work of the papers, and showed that there was a place for many new men to work upon the staffs of these publications.

After this regular program was finished, Professor Brooks called upon Dr. Few for a few words. Dr. Few responded with a brief but pithy speech of advice and encouragement to the new men.

Immediately after the conclusion of the speech-making the meeting was adjourned to what Professor Brooks was pleased to call "the cream of the occasion." Refreshments were served on the first floor, and the crowds did not leave the building until a late hour. All in all, the reception will pass into history as yet one more successful conclusion of an annual undertaking of the Trinity Y. M. C. A.

the world, and to soar. He warned the new men, however, against the dangers of roaming. One of the great evils of the day, he said, is the tendency among men to roam, and not to concentrate their energies. To roam is well, but merely to roam is dangerous. He advised the freshmen to cling, as Mr. North had already told them, to their religion and God, and to connect themselves at once with the religious life of the college.

All day Wednesday and practically all of Thursday, the freshmen were busying themselves with entrance cards and matriculation, and not until Friday morning were the new men thoroughly at home and settled in their new work. The college machinery is now running along smoothly and without a hitch. The opening has proved much more satisfactory than had been expected, on account of the effects of the European war.

what new material can be developed from the four classes.

A great deal of new material is expected to show up in the class just entering college, as there are a great many promising athletes among the freshmen. According to Captain Matton, the prospects are especially good for developing some new material in the pole vaulting and in the high and broad jump. New men are also entering college who give much promise of making good in the quarter and in the half. Men whose reputation as athletes and track men in the various preparatory schools of the state has preceded them to college are in evidence on every hand, and from the unusually large class there should be little trouble in picking a number of good men for the track team. Under the captaincy of Matton, the track team should make this year its banner year, and should do much to retrieve its former losses to the colleges of the state. This year bodes well for track athletics at Trinity, and this year, if at all, Trinity is going to begin forging ahead and taking a front rank among the colleges of North Carolina in track work.

When some men grasp opportunities they choke them to death.

LITERARY SOCIETIES HOLDS OPEN MEETING

COLUMBIA AND HESPERIA EACH
STRIVE TO WIN OVER
NEW MEN

The Hesperian Literary Society opened its doors to the members of the incoming class for the first time last Saturday evening, and an unusually large number of the new men took advantage of the opportunity to attend.

President Carr prefaced his remarks by extending a few words of welcome to the new comers, urging upon them the importance of their doing society work and of their allying themselves with one of the two societies.

Professor Holton, of the argumentation department, spoke briefly of the advantages that accrue to a man proficient in the art of public speaking and urged upon the freshmen the necessity of joining one of the societies.

Messrs. Hamilton, Barbour, Greenberg, Sexton, and Wallace were called on by the president for short talks, and each responded more or less humorously, nevertheless less succeeding in impressing on the new men the value of society work.

Messrs. Quinton Holton, '13, Harbison, and Reap, old Hesperians, were called upon, and all expressed their pleasure at seeing so many new men present.

Mr. B. F. Taylor was elected to fill the Vice-Presidency, left vacant by the absence of R. L. Brown; and a novel campaign for new members was inaugurated.

The Columbian Literary Society began the year's activities with a speech of welcome by President H. E. Myers, who assured the new men that they would always receive a hearty welcome in that society.

J. R. Davis, a Columbian of last year's graduating class, spoke on the importance and value of literary work and extended a hearty welcome to the new men to join with the Columbians and uphold the society's record in the future.

Rev. S. A. Stewart, 1900, spoke entertainingly of his experiences in literary society work and drove home the benefits derived from literary work.

The outlook for another successful year is encouraging and the whole society seems to be united in the campaign for new members.

In a spirited debate on the query. Resolved: That the United States should abolish the Monroe Doctrine, J. S. Cox and J. H. Grigg, representing the negative, carried off the decision over B. W. Barnard and A. B. Farmer.

The presence of the Greater Trinity Club men at the trains proved a great help to the new men. They were easily distinguishable by white badges, and busied themselves by unselfishly helping old as well as new men secure boarding houses and by directing them to reputable clothing stores.

In the rush attending the first meeting of the class in History II, several men were reported to have been injured. Psychology and astronomy have not been heard from but it has been rumored that there was much disorder in the ranks.

An onlooker at the reception last night remarked that Y. M. C. A. must stand for Young Men's Cramming Association.

1917 was held Friday morning in Memorial Hall. The election went off smoothly enough, and without any unusual or extraordinary "anti-freshman" demonstration on the part of the large class of sophomores. R. A. Stamey, of Greensboro was elected to the presidency of the sophomore class for the present year. Mr. Banks Arendell of Raleigh was elevated to the high dignity of Vice-president. The position of secretary of the class of 1917 fell to the lot of Miss Ruth Fallon, of Durham. J. O. Durham, of baseball fame, was elected as representative to the Athletic Council from the sophomore class.

Up to the present time, none of the other classes have had their annual elections, but these will probably be held some time in the near future.

Director Card is positive in his statement that this system will be introduced, and that it will be worked out here to perfection. No one will, of course be compelled to enter into these various events, but the competition will be optional. Cap believes that this system will bring out a great deal of latent energy, and will work good to the college in this way. He believes that such a system will give everybody an incentive to work and improve himself physically. In all of the new games which are to be introduced, a series of inter-class tournaments is contemplated.

Regular work in the gymnasium will begin as soon as the examination of the freshman class has been finished. Until that time none of the apparatus will be put into place, and the gymnasium will be used only for the examination of the new men.

ALUMNI NOTES

Mr. H. A. Dennis, class of 1913, on the staff of the Rocky Mount Telegram, spent the day on the campus last Sunday.

W. B. Covington, class of 1914, has been elected Principal of the East Durham High School.

Mr. W. L. Bost, class of 1914, is at his home in Matthews, N. C. He expects to teach this year.

Rev. S. A. Stewart, 1900, for some years a missionary in Japan has been spending some time on the campus as the guest of Professor F. S. Aldridge. Mr. Stewart delivered an illustrated lecture at Memorial Church, and also conducted chapel exercises Monday morning. He was formerly a member of the faculty of Trinity Park School, and later attended Yale University.

W. M. Marr, A. B., A. M. Trinity, who has been teaching in Elizabeth City has been elected Principal of the High Point Graded School.

CLASS ELECTIONS

At a meeting of the class of 1917 Tuesday afternoon, temporary captains were elected for the class teams. These men are to hold office until the teams are in good shape and when the most incompetent men have been eliminated. Permanent captains will then be elected by the various squads. The following temporary captains were named Tuesday: basketball, Martin; baseball, Anderson; track, Ruff; and tennis, Larkin.
