Since the inauguration of the cleaner athletics movement for Trinity several years ago, the inter-class baseball series has assumed a position of more importance, and the enthusiasm which it produces seems to grow with each year.

The class baseball series is regarded as the most effective way of developing any latent material that is already in our midst.

SOPHS VS FRESHMEN

The second game of the series proved well up to the fast standard set by the Junior-Senior contest, and although the Sophs won over the Freshmen 4 to 1, it is evident from the score that the game was closely contested.

Up until the last of the fourth, neither side succeeded in registering a counter, but during this inning the Sophs scored their first and in the sixth they piled up their additional three, which proved the undoing of the first year lads. With three men on, Love, a recent worthy addition to the Sophomore class, stepped to the counter and slapped out a neat single and two men scored. Anderson, who in the meantime had stopped on third to get his wind, when things had calmed down enough to make the play especially noteworthy, sent a newspaper reporter ahead to inform the stands that he was going to steal home, and then at the appointed time he did it.

The game was featured by the consistent pitching of both Powell and Earnhart, the former emerging with only two hits secured from his assortment and the latter with only four. Love and Mayes might be mentioned as featuring with the staff, and Giles, for the Freshmen, used the willow to good advantage. However, the only play that really drew attention from the spectators was a running catch made by Harris of a line drive to deep left.

Batteries: Sophomores, Powell and Love; Freshmen, Earnhart and Flythe, Umpire, Rone.

SENIORS VS SOPHS

With the score tied 3 to 3, leaving a Sophomore on third, darkness broke up what promised to be the most exciting game of the series.

In the first inning Anderson, the first man up, doubled to deep center and succeeded in getting as far as third, but his teammates failed to produce the goods, and there he died. In the third the Seniors scored their first run and in the sixth they added an additional two.

The Sophomores secured their first counter in the sixth, but it was in the seventh when the real fun began. Mayes lead off with a double and Anderson followed with a single over short, advancing Mayes to third. Bond, in an effort to catch Mayes napping, threw wild over third, permitting Mayes to score. In the meantime Anderson advanced to third. Richardson, recovering the ball, threw home in an attempt to cut Mayes off at the plate, but he too threw the ball away and Anderson came home with the run that tied matters up.

At this juncture both teams engaged in a debate as to whether it wouldn't be an admirable idea to call the game on account of darkness, but they compromised by agreeing to play just one more inning. The Seniors had the ins. but failed to stir up anything in their half, but Love, the same man who broke up the game in the previous contest, smacked one into the twilight, as it were, because when Richardson finally succeeded in discovering the whereabouts of the sphere and returning it to the diamond, Love had drawn up on third. For some reason a squabble ensued, and by the time the matter was settled, the Seniors unanimously decided that it was dark and that their catcher couldn't see the ball if it stuck in his mask. The Sophomores, who had a man on third with no men down, decided without an exception that the light was strong enough to hurt a normal man's eyes, but the Seniors couldn't see it that way and hiked off to supper, leaving the game tied.

The Sophomores claim the game as forfeit in that the Seniors had already taken their half of the inning and they were entitled to theirs, since a game can not be called in the middle of an inning. "Ram" Anderson featured at short, displaying good stuff with the willow, accompanied by Richardson and Bond, both of whom seemed perfectly at home with the cypress staff. For the Sophomores, Mayes and Love were the most vicious slashers of the horsehide.

Batteries: Few and Bond, Seniors.

"EKO-L" INITIATES

The annual initiation ceremonies of the "Eko-L" was held during the week just past. Five new members were introduced into the mysteries of the order. After the initiation, a seven-course dinner was served in honor of the new members just initiated. The initiation ceremonies were held at the Women's Building.

The "Eko-L" is a scholarship, honor organization, which was organized among the girls of Trinity last year. It is a society corresponding to the "9019" at Trinity, and to the national "Phi Beta Kappa."

The young ladies who were initiated into the mysteries of the order last week were Miss Iris Chappelle, of Creedmoor; Miss Lucile Bullard, Miss Ina Young, Miss Rosa Davis, and Miss Carrie Craig, of Durham. The old members are Miss Fannie Vann, Miss Janie Couch, and Miss Willietta Evans.

FINAL ARRANGEMENTS FOR HANDICAP MEET

EVERYTHING NOW IN READINESS FOR NEW DEPARTURE
IN TRACK WORK

DATE MOVED UP TO OCTOBER 23

Coming Meet to be Used for Purpose of Eliminating Men Who Have No Chance to Make 'Varsity

The first handicap track meet in the history of Trinity College is to take place Friday afternoon at four o'clock on the New Athletic Field. This will probably be the last of track activities until spring training begins, although the men will be kept in a certain degree of training through the winter.

The handicap meet to be held Friday is a new departure here in track athletics. In all of the races tomorrow, each 'varsity man, whether the wearer of a "T" or not, will be handicapped for a certain specified distance. All new men, whether members of the freshman class or members of the higher classes who have not made the 'varsity team before, will be given a slight advantage in each race.

At a meeting of the captains of the various class teams with the 'varsity captain last Monday, the order of events for the meet was arranged finally. The list of entries has not yet been made out, since it will be practically impossible to get a complete list until immediately before the meet. Each event is open, of course, to all comers, so that one can enter even as late as the day of the meet.

The purpose of holding this handicap meet is to give new men a chance to see just what they can do, and to give the captain of the

EXTENSION WORK OF EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

Professor Brooks Gives Out Information Concerning His Work

The extension work of the department of education, which now for several years has included several of the adjacent county teachers' organizations has recently been somewhat changed, and in all probability more county organizations may accept the plan which Professor E. C. Brooks, head of the department, has recently announced. Already Durham, Orange, and Johnson counties have begun a reorganization of their monthly teachers' meetings in view of the new plan suggested by Professor Brooks.

When recently seen by a reporter, Professor Brooks said of the new plan:

"Organizing the teachers into county associations is the first step to take toward the progressive development of the teachers. But this alone is insufficient. The teachers meet only once a month, and the time is usually taken up in discussing organization, class-room work, and the reading circle books. This work is very essential, but we need to organize the teachers into smaller groups and provide courses of reading or study for them that will increase their own mental content, give them a richer enthusiasm."

'varsity team a chance to get a line on the men. The handicap feature is introduced in order to draw out those new men who might feel some hesitancy in opposing themselves to members of the 'varsity team in a race.

It is the idea of Captain Matton to take all of those men who seem to be qualified for the 'varsity and who seem to have some chance of making a permanent place on the 'varsity squad, and to put them into a gymnasium class together for training work during the winter. Cap Card is working in conjunction with the 'varsity captain on this matter, and all candidates will be trained throughout the winter. Each man will be given exercises to prepare him for the particular form of track work which he is to undertake.

The meet Friday will be run just as intercollegiate meets and interclass meets have been run heretofore. The long events, such as the two mile run and the mile run, will be run off at the same time as the high jump and broad jump, and the other field events, since this will economize time considerably. The judges in the various events tomorrow will be Professor R. N. Wilson, Professor Webb, and Cap Card. There will also be an announcer, to keep the men posted as to the order of events. There will be no hurdle races in this handicap meet, since it will be impossible to get enough hurdles here in time.

This handicap meet will not mean the giving up of the annual interclass meet. The handicap meet will be held early in the spring. It is probable that all 'varsity men at that time will be ruled out from participation in the races.

The amount of handicap to be allowed in each event was decided upon last Monday, and follows here: for the 100-yard, 1 to 2 yards; for the shot put, 1 to 12 inches; for the two-mile, 25 to 100 yards; for the quarter, 3 to 10 yards; for the broad jump, 1 to 12 inches; for the mile, 10 to 30 yards; for the hammer, 1 to 12 inches; for the vault, 1 to 12 inches; for the 220, 1 to 5 yards; for the half, 3 to 15 yards; for the high jump, 1 to 6 inches.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL NEWS

The Trinity Athletic Council held a meeting last Monday night, but little business of importance was transacted.

The matter of electing assistant managers for the various teams was brought up, but the Council did not act finally on the matter Monday. Final action will be taken in the election of these managers at the next regular meeting of the Council.

A proposition to change the size of the "T" given for track work was taken up, and this matter was referred to a committee of three for investigation. The proposition is to make the track "T" the same size as the base ball and basketball letters. It is probable that the committee will recommend the passage of this rule, since there is little opposition to it in the Council. Arrangements were made for ordering sweaters for those who failed to get them last year, and these will be ordered at once.

Features Text of Wiley Gray Oration
by Durham—Prize Winning Story by Miss Mary
Berry

The first number of the Trinity Archive is at last off the press, and has been distributed among the students of the college. The October number of this magazine speaks well for the work and ability of the editorial staff of the Archive, and bids well for the success of the magazine during the present year.

The Archive is a monthly magazine, devoted to the literary work of the students and alumni of Trinity College. The editor of the magazine this year is W. I. Wooten, of Raleigh; and the business manager is W. H. Morgan, of Washington, N. C. Editor Wooten has picked an efficient and talented staff to carry on the work of the publication, and this first issue proves that he has made no mistake in his selections. The following men compose the staff of the publication:

Editor in Chief: W. I. Wooten; Associate Editor in Chief: J. W. Carr, Jr.; Literary Editors: Miss Frances E. Vann and E. R. Sykes; Alumni Editor: S. L. Dulege; Wayside Wares Department: B. F. Few; Editor's Table: A. R. Anderson.

The October Archive opens with a poem by D. L. Edwards, entitled "Rosa Dulcissima." Other poems in the present edition are "An Allegory," by E. Lester Childreth, author of the Diadad; "A Sonnet," by F. A. R., and "My Rosary," by B. D. McCubbins. M. B. Andrews, who graduated here last year, contributes to the Alumni Department a poem entitled "Vacation Time is Over." "La Tomb Dit A La Rose" is translated from the French by John W. Carr, Jr. "My Rosary," perhaps leads these poems, although all are good.

The leading story in the issue is a story by L. W. Powell, entitled: "Monsieur Beaumont." This is a story of the detection of crime, and one with quite an original finish. The story is told in the first person, and the speaker is telling, at the opening of the story, of seeing a man arrested for the murder of a certain Monsieur Pardin. The police heard, however, that a certain Monsieur Beaumont was in the vicinity, and that he was the man who had committed the crime.

That night the speaker attended a ball, and at this ball a theft of valuable jewelry occurred. The police ordered the place searched, in order to find out the thief. Every man was searched, and at length the speaker himself was searched. By a wound in his shoulder, received at the murder of Pardin, the speaker was found to be Monsieur Beaumont. "Monsieur Beaumont" is quite an interesting story, and is well told.

Another story worthy of mention.

EDITORIAL

In another column mention is made of the final selection of the men for the staff of the CHRONICLE for the present year. These men have been selected after a long competition, and are, in the estimation of the editor of the CHRONICLE, the four men who are best able to serve the interests of the paper. It is a matter of regret that any had to be turned down, for all of the contestants did good work and deserve credit. THE CHRONICLE is to be congratulated on being able to obtain four such capable men for its reportorial staff.

The sounds of conflict which have been issuing from the old gymnasium lately remind us that the basketball season is not far away. Only a few weeks will pass before the class games will begin. It is high time that all four of the classes should elect their captains for the coming season, for it is the training before the season that counts more than anything else in taking off championships.

Cap's plan of giving medallions for proficiency in athletics is still before the public. It is hoped that some such plan can be introduced.

It will undoubtedly tend to put every man in college into some kind of beneficial athletic sport, and will improve the general physical condition of the whole community. Cap should be encouraged in this undertaking, for it promises to prove a good thing in every way. Cap is determined, and says that he will do his best to see to it that such a system is introduced.

THE SOCIETIES

"To speak or to write with distinction is an art that each and every one of you should seek to acquire," said Dr. Few to the students of Trinity, in speaking of the good to be derived from joining one of the literary societies. Dr. Few said that all men should "consider with great care and earnestness" the importance of joining one of the two societies.

Indeed, there is no one thing in college which will be of so much benefit, which will yield so much return, and which will be of such

TO RIDE OR NOT TO RIDE?

PREDICAMENT OF TRINITY FRESHMAN ON NIGHT OF COLUMBIAN RECEPTION

lasting value to a man as membership in one of the societies. The number of men who joined the two societies this year was remarkably small with regard to the total number of men in college. It is a matter to be regretted that more did not take advantage of the opportunity offered of identifying themselves with this work.

It is not too late, yet, however, and there is no doubt but that by joining one of the societies, and by working, not shirking, each man may be able to obtain something of lasting benefit to him. Each of you wishes to succeed; yet many of you are failing to take advantage of one of your greatest aids towards success. The man who succeeds will have occasion to make speeches, no matter what line of work he goes into. He will find occasions arising when he must address an audience, and much of his future success will depend on his ability to say what he thinks, to express himself before an audience. The literary society is the place to learn this, and it is the only logical place in which to learn it. Let us increase the membership of each of the societies this week, and make this the banner year for the literary societies at Trinity College.

OCTOBER N. C. EDUCATION OUT

The leading article in the latest issue of the North Carolina Education, a paper published weekly under the editorship of Professor E. C. Brooks, is an article entitled "Nationalism in the Balkans and the European War" by Dr. W. T. Laprade. This article takes up the present situation in Europe in Dr. Laprade's characteristic, analytic way, and puts in brief form the causes leading up to the present conflict.

Other contributed articles in this number of the Education are: "A Fairy Story of the Flag," by Mrs. P. P. Claxton; "Geographic Influences in American History," "How One Good Town Goss About Putting up a New School Building," and "The Longer School Day in Marion," by I. C. Griffin. The issue contains also an article on the late Henry Jerome Stockard, which is an appreciation of his poetical works. There are several other items of particular interest to those interested in educational work and educational topics.

GANTT TO MARRY

Mr. R. M. Gantt, '00, usually known as "Bob", who has practiced law in Bryson City since finishing his law course in 1912, is to be married to Miss Katherine Claywell, of Morganton, on December 16. Miss Claywell is a graduate of the Southern Conservatory of Music.

EXTENSION WORK OF THE EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

ism, and supply them with more life, for life is what they need. It seems to me, therefore, that the subject matter to be selected for the teachers of the smaller groups should be of a nature that will give them joy or pleasure in the reading. It was William James, of Harvard, who said that if we miss the joy in doing a thing, we miss the whole thing. And much of the reading outlined for many of the teachers is done in a mechanical way and is little above drudgery; hence there is little pleasure and no joy. It is not my desire to argue against hard work or some drudgery, but some of the work should carry pleasure to all the teachers in order that we may hold the group together.

"I am proposing, therefore, to the county associations that the superintendents divide their teachers into small groups, either by townships or communities, and organize them into clubs called teachers' clubs, and insist on the members meeting once a week if possible. The leading idea that I have in mind is to select so far as possible the subject matter for discussion in these clubs that will give the teachers pleasure so that they will desire to attend rather than hunt for excuses to be absent. Having once acquired through pleasure the habit of attending, the teachers then will be united into community clubs of such a force that the county superintendent can undertake work of a more serious nature.

"After having made a study of the story, the teachers then should find great interest and pleasure in biography. We might take the leading men who have made this nation, read their lives and discuss their characters, and finally at every meeting they could discuss the reading circle books. We outlined in the October number of Education the first two chapters of Brigham's Geographic Influences in American History, the first book suggested for the regular work, and later further outlines will appear. Meantime we are perfecting the organization of the county into smaller groups such as I have mentioned, and we believe this will prove a more effective way for providing professional training for teachers already in service."

Bishop Kilgo has recently been elected a director of the Southern Railway. This is an excellent commentary on the reputation of Bishop Kilgo throughout the country as a man of good judgment and business ability, and is highly complimentary to him.

CHRONICLE STAFF PICKED

After three weeks of competitive work, the men who are to compose the reportorial staff of the CHRONICLE for this year have been picked. These men, four in number, have shown themselves to be competent to fill the positions for which they have been working, and have been chosen after careful consideration.

Practically all of the men picked are men who have had experience in corresponding for various papers, and all of them are men of interest in literary lines. Each of them was chosen not only for his ability to write good news stories, but also with an eye to his interest in newspaper work and the spirit with which he conducted himself during the contest in getting up his assignments.

The men chosen, and whose names will hereafter appear as the members of the staff of the CHRO-NICLE are: Banks Arendell, G. S.
Sexton, Jr., J. H. Small, Jr., and
R. A. Stamey. All of these men will be expected each Thursday night at the weekly meeting of the staff.

SENIOR CAPTAIN ELECTED

At a recent meeting of the basketball team of the class of 1915,
A. R. Anderson was elected captain of the class team for the coming season. "Ram" made good last probably be faster than ever, and will give somebody a run for the varsity.

Y. M. C. A. Hall is Scene of Open Meeting of Columbians—Social

and Debate

The Columbian Literary Society
entertained in its hall in the East Duke Building on last Thursday night in honor of its new members.
All the co-eds were invited, and a good number attended despite the bad weather.

A program made up entirely of freshman speakers was given at the beginning of the social. The question for debate was: Resolved,
"That the United States should subsidize its merchant vessels operating between the United States and South America for three years." The affirmative speakers were E. M. Spivey and A. H.
Gwynn; the negative, W. R. Jenkins and J. E. Brown. The decision was in favor of the affirmative. Declamations were delivered by W. M. McGrady and J. T.
Hendley.

The judges, Dr. F. N. Parker,
Dr. W. I. Cranford and Dr. W.
T. Laprade, all honorary members of the society, made short speeches.

After the program, delicious refreshments consisting of punch, ice cream and cake were served in the Y. M. C. A. hall.

This social took the place of the regular society meeting on Saturday night.

JUNIORS VS FRESHMEN

The Freshmen experienced no difficulty in defeating the Juniors yesterday afternoon 8 to 0, in an exhibition that concluded in what might be called satirized base ball.
In the second inning the first year lads ran four men across the plate in quick succession without having to earn a single one, for at times the Junior infield proved itself merely ornamental, and this inning happened to be one of those times.

The Juniors might have had the goods but they kept them well concealed and at no time during the afternoon did they threaten Earnhart. In fact, Lambeth, in the first inning, was the only man who succeeded in securing anything that resembled a hit, besides an infield scratch credited to Ferrell in the fifth. Earnhart had things his way from the beginning, and many times he retired
the side in one, two, three order.
Ring, for the Juniors, pitched consistent ball, but he was given miserable support and in the fifth the Freshmen amassed their other four runs.

Giles featured both at second and at the bat, and Lambeth, for the Juniors, played well at first considering the fact that the infield insisted on throwing to first on the bounce.

At the last of the sixth, the Juniors, following the example of the Seniors, framed up to mutiny against the "umps", and when the umps rightously called a strike on Glaze, the entire junior squad streamed out on the field and told the ump that they refused to play,
and the game broke up in a farce,
viety going to the freshmen.

ARCHIVE FOR OCTOBER
MAKES ITS APPEARANCE

tion in the Archive is "The Shield of Calixtus," written by E. W. McCullers. This is the story of two archaeologists who went in search of a certain remarkable shield. This shield was entombed, but the two braved the horrors of the cavern, found the shield, and brought it to light. Once in daylight, however, the shield, so long buried, fell to pieces, and the work of the two men was all for nothing.

Perhaps the most interesting story in the entire issue is that by Miss Mary Berry, called "Beneath the Surface." "Beneath the Surface" is the story which Miss Berry submitted last year in the competition for the literary prize offered by the Athena Literary Society, and was the winning story in that contest. The story is well handled, and deals with the soul of a man, and not with his mere actions. It might be called the history of the inner life of its chief character, for it is a discussion of the changes and transmutations which went on within the nature of a man.

Other articles in this number of the Archive are: "America and Evangelism," by E. C. Durham, the essay which won the Wiley-Gray Orator's Medal last year. "Anne's Career," a story, by Miss Lucille Bullard; "The Spirit of Fellowship at Trinity College," a short essay by W. K. Carr; "The Lion of Janina," a translation from the Greek, in the alumni department, by Theogenis Kaikjoghlu and others; and "Wild Noises I Have Known," in the Wayside Wares, a story of the terrors caused by the unexpected bursting forth of a freshman quartette at midnight, by R. A. Stamey.

SIGMA UPSILON MEETS

At the regular meeting of Sigma Upsilon on last Friday night, Dr. T. S. Graves, of the department of English, read a paper entitled "The Armada and Elizabethan Literature." This paper was something of a reply to the statement of Prof. Brander Matthews that Elizabethan literature was caused directly by the Spanish Armada. This program was the beginning of the Club's study of the influence of wars on the world's literature, which will be pursued this year. Dr. Graves showed that the influence of the Armada on Elizabethan literature was very slight. The Club entered into an informal discussion of the paper after it had been read.

W. I. Wooten, editor of the Archive, became a member of the order.

DR. GLASSON TO TALK

Dr. W. H. Glasson, of the department of Economics, will speak to the Commonwealth Club of Durham on the subject of "The Commission Form of Government" next Friday night.

This address is one of a series which is being given at the Commonwealth Club. The first address of the series was delivered by Dr. Laprade recently on the subject of "The European War." This is the second address of the series.

Dr. Glasson is as thoroughly acquainted with this subject as with all subjects pertaining to economics and politics, and the Commonwealth Club is to be congratulated on getting him to deliver this lecture before its members.
