DOUBLE-HEADER OPENS BASKETBALL SEASON

ANNUAL CLASS SERIES OPENS WITH TWO INTERESTING GAMES

SENIORS AND JUNIORS WIN

Freshmen Lose to Seniors With a Score of 42-16—Juniors Defeat Sophs. to Tune of 28-11

W. L. P. C.
Seniors ..... 1 0 1000
Juniors ..... 1 0 1000
Sophs ..... 0 1 000
Freshmen ..... 0 1 000

The inter-class basketball series opened in full force Monday night when in a double-header, the seniors won from the freshmen by a score of 42 to 16; and the juniors defeated the sophomores 28 to 11. Both games were fairly fast and interesting. A good crowd was in attendance.

SENIORS-FRESHMEN

The senior team made an excellent appearance in its opening game against the first year men. The team has had good practice and has developed the art of passing as few class teams have. Anderson, the captain, was the bright star of the senior team, getting three field goals during the first half and six during the second half. Mills, playing his first game with the seniors, shot three field goals and pocketed two foul goals out of five chances. Jenkins, playing centre, was unable to get away from his opponent during the opening half, but during the last half he got four goals. Downey played a good game despite his crippled hand. Hawfield played his man closely and succeeded in getting three goals.

The freshmen have a good team when the ability of the individual players is considered, but they have been unable to get sufficient team work to play a very good game. Many of the freshmen have yet to learn that basket ball is not a contest in which one sees how many necks he can hold. The first year men committed ten fouls, seven of which Swan, playing guard, was responsible for. Richardson, playing forward, got two goals during the first half, but did not get any in the last half. Marr shot three goals when playing forward during the first half, but at centre during the last half, he got none. Cochran, playing centre during the first half, did not succeed in getting a goal, but was fast and guarded his man closely. Sholar, captain of the team, showed excellent form as a guard and got one goal.

Line-up:

Seniors: Downey, r. f. (2); Anderson, l. f. (18); Jenkins, c. (8); Mills, l. g. (8); Hawfield, r. g. (6).

Freshmen: Richardson, l. f. (4); Marr, r. f. and c. (6); Cochran, c.; Sholar, l. g. (4); Swan, r. g.; Long, l. f. (2).

SOPHOMORES-JUNIORS

The sophomore-junior game was characterized by considerable roughness on the part of both teams. The teams were evenly divided in strength, both teams passed well, and neither team made the freshmen's mistake of

Mr. Lee Speaks on the Subject of Brazil and Its Resources—Large Crowd Attends Lecture

Brazil was the subject of a very interesting address given by Rev. W. B. Lee, '01, before the Y. M. C. A. on last Wednesday night. Mr. Lee has been a missionary in Brazil for the last twenty years and is now an officer and teacher in Granberry College in that country.

Mr. Lee attracted the attention of the audience at the very outset by speaking several sentences in Portuguese, the language which he has spoken for twenty years.

The speaker gave a very lucid general description of the country in the beginning of his lecture. Brazil is a republic composed of twenty-six sovereign states embracing practically half of South America. Each state is shaped so as to represent some animal—one being a representation of a cat; one an Indian chief etc. There is a mistaken idea that Brazil is low and flat; the entire country is hilly, and most of it even mountainous.

"Brazil is rich in natural resources. There are rich diamond mines in the eastern section of the country. There are many species of brilliantly colored woods which do not need to be stained when used in furniture. The great money crop is coffee, upon which Brazil is just as dependent as the South is upon cotton.

MEDALS TO BE GIVEN WINNERS IN SERIES

Cap. Card Announces Offer to Members of Class Teams—Other Offers

The idea of giving medals for efficiency in various forms of athletics which Cap Card has had under consideration for some time now, is about to take definite form. Medals are to be given to members of various class teams in practically all forms of athletics.

Cap Card has already had on hand several samples of medals which he is thinking of buying. His plan is to give a bronze medal to each member of the winning class basketball team this year in the series just beginning. A medal will also be given to each member of the championship class tennis team; and one will be given to each man winning a first place in the interclass field meet next spring.

The exact number of medals to be given has not yet been definitely determined. Each medal will contain a different design, and the sample medals which have been sent here to choose from contain many good designs for the various forms of athletics. Each man winning a medal on field day will be given a medal with a design made especially to represent the event in which he won first place.

COLLEGE GLEE CLUB TO TAKE TRIP SOON

MAKERS OF MERRIMENT TO TAKE ANNUAL TOUR TO POINTS IN STATE

GOOD SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED

Club Will Spend Two Nights in Greensboro—Many Other Cities are Included in Itinerary

Director E. M. Howerton and Manager F. R. Richardson have developed one of the best Glee Clubs the college ever had. There is a good prospect that the financial end of the Club will be well cared for; there is even a possibility that the Club will make a small profit.

Manager Richardson has announced the following itinerary of the annual trip of the Glee Club: Oxford, Nov. 21; Greensboro, (Greensboro College for Women), Nov. 23; Kenersville, Nov. 24; High Point, Nov. 25; Lexington, Nov. 26; Salisbury, Nov. 27; Concord, Nov. 28; Thomasville, Nov. 30; Greensboro (State Normal), Dec. 1. Before taking this trip, the club will give a concert on the campus; after the trip, a concert will be given at the Southern Conservatory of Music.

QUILL CLUB

In the next meeting of the Quill Club, which is to be held at 7:00 o'clock Wednesday evening, November 11, J. A. Robinson will address the members of the club and any interested in journalism. Mr. Robinson is well known in Durham, having served a number of years on The Durham Sun, and the talk will prove a source of interest to those present.

COLLEGE ENTERTAINS D. A. R. CONVENTION

Entire East Duke Building Given Over to the Convention

The fourteenth annual conference of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution in North Carolina began its annual session Tuesday morning in the East Duke building. The entire building is given over to the convention, and the Y. M. C. A. hall, in which the meetings are being held, is tastefully decorated with flags and palms.

The convention Tuesday was called to order by State Regent Mrs. W. M. Reynolds, of Winston-Salem, and invocation was made by Reverend E. R. Leyburn, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, after which the conference joined in the singing of the patriotic song "America."

Addresses in behalf of the college by President W. P. Few and on behalf of the General David Chapter by Mrs. J. F. Wiley, Regent, were briefly and appropriately delivered to the visiting delegates. Response was made by Mrs. A. L. Smith of Charlotte, vice-regent.

The feature of the morning's program was the address by the (Continued on Page Four)

JUNIOR CLASS HOLDS ANNUAL JOLLIFICATION

WEST DUKE BUILDING SCENE OF BIG HALLOWEEN CELEBRATION

ENTERTAINMENT IS SUCCESS

The annual Junior Jollification was held last Thursday evening in the basement of the West Duke building. This social event is celebrated during the fall in accordance with a custom of long standing, and is considered by the Juniors the most important function of the college year.

The hall was attractively decorated with autumn garlands and the Halloween effect was skillfully executed by Japanese lanterns concealed in the foliage of the decorations. In the corner opposite the entrance a rustic booth was constructed, at which punch was served throughout the evening by Misses Chappelle and Craig.

Mr. R. M. Johnson, president of the class, after a brief speech of welcome to both the freshmen and junior ladies, turned affairs over to Chairman C. F. Matton, who directed the games. The program was thoroughly informal and a variety of games was heartily enjoyed. A white-robed fortune teller, who dispensed his prophecies from a Delphic bowl in a dusky corner, proved very popular.

Upon the conclusion of the games seasonable refreshments were served. The chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. Peppeler, Professor and Mrs. A. M. Webb, and Professor Yost.

NEXT GAME—Juniors vs. Seniors—Friday.

CONTRACTS AWARDED FOR NEW CHANTICLEER

Arrangements are Completed for Printing and Engraving

E. S. Savage, editor of the 1915 Chanticleer, has announced the final awarding of the contracts for printing and engraving for the annual this year.

The engraving will be done by the Electric City Engraving Company, of Buffalo, N. Y. This is a company with a nation-wide reputation for the quality of its work. This company does the engraving for many of the other colleges and institutions of North Carolina, including Elon College, Davidson, Wake Forest College, the State Normal College, the North Carolina A. & M., and the University of North Carolina. All of these schools have been putting out good annual publications, and have carried engraving work of highest order. The Electric City Engraving Company has also been making the half-tones and zinc etchings for Cornell, and for various other colleges and universities all over the whole country.

The printing and publishing of the Chanticleer for this year has been given into the hands of the Benson Printing Company, of (Continued on Page Three)

GERMAN VIEW-POINT SUBJECT OF ADDRESS

SECOND OF LECTURE SERIES ON SUBJECT OF EUROPEAN CONFLICT

PROF. WANNAMAKER TALKS

Head of German Department Undertakes to Give German Side in Present War of Nations

"The German Point of View" was the subject of the second lecture in the series which has been scheduled to take place in the Y. M. C. A. Hall. Professor Wannamaker delivered this address on Friday evening October 30th.

Professor Wannamaker's first statement explained the point of view unbiased Americans should assume in considering the question. "There can be no one cause of the war and no one man or set of men can be responsible for it." He showed how the recent books and articles on the subject were only in part true in the causes suggested, while for the most part they are the work of men who set about the task with biased views. He continued, "the truth is that no one of the belligerents is wholly blameless, and that each of them, on the other hand has been more or less forced into the fight. In reality, the war is a battle of ideas incorporated in the several governments, is a struggle for mastery between different civilizations. This struggle was bound to come just so soon as the remarkable expansion of the German Empire and the German conception of government and German civilization reached the point where it aroused sufficient dread on the part of the other states to force them to take up arms to defend their civilizations."

Professor Wannamaker defined the cause of the war from a German standpoint as follows: "An unavoidable conflict to death or to victory brought about by the necessity, long expected, and carefully prepared for interference of other nations with the justifiable and necessary effort of Prussianized Germany to realize itself in every phase of its national destiny."

The old Prussian conception of the state has become that of Germany. Furthermore, all the bitter inimitosities of Prussia, engendered by the efforts of European powers to crush her while she was in the making of a great power, have been inherited by the new Germany. Prussia has been forced to fight her way to power and has necessarily become a military state. Professor Wannamaker traced the history of the treatment of Prussia and Germany by the French under Louis XIV and Napoleon, showing how both had treated the land with cruelty and injustice and how the former had taken Alsace and Lorraine and Strassburg from the German Empire and incorporated them in the French kingdom. He gave an estimate of the war indemnity secured by Napoleon from Prussia, placing it at more than a billion dollars. But all this time Germany was disunited. All good Germans yearned for a united country. This was voiced nobly in their literature. Grad-

EDITORIAL

To judge from daily reports from the theatre of war, it would seem that the Germans have quite effectually taken the "rush" out of the Russians. Not only this, but they have caused considerable anxiety lest they take the "land" out of England.

The recent narrow escape from a disastrous fire at the science building should make one stop and think. The fire there was probably started by a cigarette stump dropped carelessly in a basket of waste paper. The man who handles fire carelessly and throws cigarette stumps at the science building should be placed in the same category with the fool who rocks the boat. The upshot of it all is that "they are not all dead yet."

This issue of the CHRONICLE is being sent to many of the alumni of Trinity in an effort to add some of them to the list of the subscribers to the paper. This is the only way in which one can keep thoroughly in touch with his alma mater, and we feel sure that every man who has ever spent four years at Trinity still has a tender spot in his heart for the old college.

Surely, those men who have been here in the past, who in days long gone by were an integral part of this institution, who long ago were connected directly with its institutions and its clubs, who formed the personnel of the teams which fought for the glory of Trinity on the athletic field, who were members of the literary societies and who, perhaps, aided in the victories over other colleges on the floor of the debating hall, — surely, these men will wish to follow closely the history of the school, will wish to hear of the clubs and organizations to which they once belonged as active members. Through the columns of the CHRONICLE alone are they enabled to come once more into intimate relationship with the activities of the college.

Have you ever stood at the door of the college postoffice and watched the men who came there from time to time to get their mail? If you have not, you still have in store a thing most interesting. It is indeed remarkable to watch the faces that one sees there. Almost every variety of emotion is depicted.

For instance, here is a little freshman, rushing into the office almost at breakneck speed, anxious to hear from the people at home in regard to the old cow and the three black pigs. He tears open the envelope, and reads the scrawling lines on the pages before him, and his face lights up with interest as he reads of the commonplace occurrences that have happened back at home.

Again, there comes in a man with a worried expression. His face is drawn as if with anxiety, and he fingers the keys to the post-office box as he enters the door. With nervous hands, he unlocks his box, and with anxious countenance, looks into it. He finds a letter and quickly opens it and glances inside for a long-forget check. It is not there, and with his face drawn more than ever, he leaves the office with melancholy tread.

Another enters. He, too, has an appearance of anxiety; he too finds a letter, and looks inside for that long-forget check. He finds it; his face lights up; he begins whistling, and rushes outside. Another follows him—a man with an air of indifference, who enters the office as though it were a matter of compulsion that he should. It is only habit with him. He glances into an empty box, makes some remark concerning the colwels which he finds there, and, with an expression of absolute unconcern, he ambles away.

Then there comes in one in whom all are interested—a lover. "All the world loves a lover;" and as he enters the office, one watches his movements with redoubled interest. With ill-concealed haste and expectancy he goes to the box, throws it open, and draws from it the heavy envelope with the well-known handwriting upon it. He tries to hold back all expression of his pleasure, but it is in vain. Who ever saw a lover who could conceal his love? In spite of all his efforts it is written all over his countenance.

And last of all, there comes in another—and he, too, is a lover. One can tell by the expectancy which gleams out from his eyes. With rapid tread, he goes to his box; he throws it open, and thrusts his hand within it. The letter is not there. He stops; looks about him with a lost expression, and feels in the box again. The letter is still not there. Again he looks about, then stoops down and gazes into his box, not trusting to the mere evidence of the sense of touch. The letter is still not there. With a most downcast countenance and with a most melancholy tread, he leaves the office, sighing as he leaves the door.

These and many more one sees at the post-office.

Those students who have signed the application for anti-typhoid vaccine will please meet at the Biological Laboratory, 2nd floor Crowell Science Hall, on Thursday evening, November 5, 1914 at 7:30 o'clock. Dr. C. A. Woodward will administer it. The charge is 50 cents.

GERMAN VIEW-POINT SUBJECT OF ADDRESS

ually the Prussian state attracted to its service the best spirits of all the German states and Prussia became the hope of all Germans. Finally, under the Prussian king, William I, Germany became an empire and has become with the years thoroughly Prussianized.

Prussian leadership has given Germany a government in which no absolute break has been made with traditional monarchy of authority, but which has combined this conception with the best of social democracy. In it more than in any other continental country, the traditional is respected, religion has not been outlawed, but still retains its power. Through the conception of an army that is a nation, and a nation that is an army, realized through the requirement of universal military service, the Germans today are the most efficient people on earth. The nation has all the good characteristics of a good army. In this monarchy, the most respected aristocracy is that of the laboratory, the study, the artist's studio, and the counting-room. A wise paternalism is practiced by the government that owns the railways, the telephone and the telegraph lines, with other public utilities. Yet Germany is the land of large individual enterprises, and has through wellmanaged commercial undertakings captured a great part of the world's commerce. Though the great "will to power" has made the land over-estimate force and seem a worshiper of force, it craves power for power's sake and wishes to make Might that is also right to prevail in the world. Germany of today, then, is the result of Prussian efficiency and German intelligence, utilizing the fruits of the application of the scholar's learning and the scientist's discoveries to lead the world.

Prussia's expansive idea has caused Germany to overflow, as it were, the narrow limits of European Germany. In order to retain for the good of the Fatherland the surplus energy and population, Germany has sought for colonies and has built war vessels to protect these colonies and her world-wide commerce. She has even been opposed by England, who has engineered coalitions against her, France being glad to grasp an opportunity to get revenge for her defeat of 1870. The war was, therefore, bound to come sooner or later. The Germans this time have followed the advice of Frederick the Great and struck rather than wait and be struck when the enemy would be the strongest.

The annual this year will be bound in limp leather, and will be a volume of about the same size as that of last year. A new method of arrangement will be followed for the senior pictures and write-ups. The annual will be divided into several books as heretofore. Arrangements have been made recently whereby all of the photographic work for the annual this year will be in charge of the Holladay Studio.

LIBRARY NOTES

In connection with the lectures which are being made on the European war a list of the books and pamphlets relating to this war may be of some interest to the users of the Library. The magazines, of course, are giving many pages in each issue to the war. These are so well indexed by the "Readers' Guide" that a list of the articles in the magazines is needless even if it were practicable to make such a list. #### CALDWELL COUNTY CLUB

Last Thursday night saw the organization of the Caldwell County Club, adding one more to that fair galaxy of clubs which makes such an impressive appearance in the annual each year and which appears at no other time.

The officers elected to serve the Caldwell County Club for the present year were as follows: President, L. P. Smith; vice-president, R. C. Goforth; and secretary, R. K. Courtney. The club enters up on its existence with a membership of ten persons, including Hartley, Moore, Hickman, Smith, B. L., Miller, Bush, and Miss Martin.

TRINITY ALUMNI TO MEET IN CHARLOTTE

The Trinity College Alumni will hold a banquet in Charlotte on Thursday night of the Teachers' Assembly in Charlotte from six to eight o'clock. All former students of Trinity College who expect to be in Charlotte during the week of the Assembly are expected to attend the banquet. The price will be about one dollar a plate. Those who expect to attend are requested to write to Mr. F. P. Wyche, of Charlotte, or to Professor E. C. Brooks, of Durham.

SOPHOMORE SOCIAL

In a special meeting of the sophomore class Monday afternoon plans were discussed and put into operation for the fall class social, which is to be given in the West Duke building Friday evening, November 20. Much class spirit was manifested by the members, and it is planned by the second year students to make the coming occasion, their first class social, a success in every way. Dr. C. A. Moore, of the English department, has been asked to serve as master of ceremonies. The committee in charge is composed of Misses Ruth Fallon and Edna Taylor, O. D. Smith, J. S. Anderson, and C. S. Burn, chairman.

Smart styles, newness, quality and value are the things that young men demand in clothes.

DOUBLE-HEADER OPENS BASKETBALL SEASON

working itself to death in the first half. The junior team was practically the same at last year's, except for Lilley at guard. Matton, captain of the juniors, was the chief winner of points for his team getting two field goals and six foul goals out of twelve chances. Patton guarded his man closely, allowing him only one goal, and got four field goals himself. Ferrell and Rone shot two goals each; and Lilley, one.

Captain Martin, of the sophomore team, by getting one field goal and five fowls out of nine chances, led his team in scoring. Anderson did not succeed in getting a goal, but deserves much credit for allowing Ferrell only two goals. McKinnon played a steady game at guard during the first half and was replaced by Smith, who got one goal in the closing half. LeGrand got one goal. Mayes did not succeed in getting a goal.

Line-up:

Juniors: Rone, r. f. (4); Ferrell, l. f. (4); Matton, c. (10); Lilley, r. g. (2); Patton, l. g. (8). Sophomores: Anderson, r. g.; Martin, c. and l. g. (7); McKinnon, l. g.; LeGrand, r. f. (2); Mayes, l. f.; Smith, c. (2).

Referee, Carver; Umpire, Thorne; Scorer, Bagley; Timekeeper, Johnston; Time of halves, 20 minutes.

W. B. LEE ADDRESSES

TRINITY Y. M. C. A.

about fifty per cent white and about fifty per cent a mixture of whites, Indians and negroes. The descendants of Europeans and Africans, not Indians, are spoken of as Brazilians. Many of the people of mixed descent are the leaders in many fields of the country's life. There is not a state of social equality in Brazil, but color is no handicap, except that white people refuse to inter-marry with the other races.

"The people are hospitable and affectionate. They are intensely interested in each other and are willing to make almost any sacrifice in order to be of help to each other.

"Why send missionaries to these people? Because they are naturally bright and capable of development; and therefore, they deserve the best.

"The influence of the Catholics upon the Brazilians is one of the greatest problems a Protestant missionary has to deal with. Many of the Catholic practices there have all the essential elements of heathenism. The Catholics have built up what is practically an elaborate system of polytheism. In spite of the difficulties with which they are confronted, the missionaries are doing good work."

On Thursday night Mr. Lee held a conference regarding missionary work with the Y. M. C. A. cabinet, the Ministerial Band and a number of other students.

Rev. L. L. Johnson, a former Trinity College student, and for a number of years a member of the Oklahoma Conference, died in Oklahoma a few days ago. Mr. Johnson was a minister of prominence, having served for several years as Presiding Elder in his Conference. He was for several years a member of the North Carolina Conference, and was at one time pastor of Carr Church in East Durham.
