HESPERIAN SPEAKERS ARE WINNERS IN TWENTY-FOURTH INTERSOCIETY DEBATE

UPHOLDING AFFIRMATIVE OF PREPAREDNESS QUERY,
HESPERIANS DEFEAT COLUMBIAN TEAM
ON DECEMBER 18

HENRY C. GREENBURG SELECTED FOR INTERCOLLEGIATE

Small, Greenburg, and West Compose Hesperian Team, and Few, Gwyn, and Allen are Columbian Speakers—Two-to-One Decision—Hesperian Society Gives Informal Reception

The Hesperian Literary Society was the victor over the Columbian Literary Society by a two-to-one decision in the Twenty-Fourth Annual Intersociety Debate on Saturday evening, December 19. The partisans of the two societies and other persons who composed the audience were kept intensely interested throughout the contest; and both societies were confident of winning until the decision was announced by Professor E. C. Brooks, who presided. Henry C. Greenburg, of Durham, a member of the Hesperian team, was selected to represent Trinity in the debate against Washington and Lee University on February 26.

The query debated was: "Resolved, That the United States should pursue a policy of military preparedness commensurate with the position of a first-class world power." The Hesperian team upheld the affirmative, while the Columbians defended the negative. The speakers on both sides showed unusual preparation and vigor; and enthusiasm was high among the society members in the hall. At the close of the debate the supporters of both teams, both winners and losers, rushed to the platform and congratulated their men amid great cheering.

The Hesperian team was composed of John H. Small, Jr., of Washington; H. C. Greenburg and H. C. West, both of Durham, with Ben Muse, of Durham, as alternate. The Columbian speakers were Eugene C. Few, of Greer, South Carolina; Allan H. Gwyn, of Yanceyville; and L. C. Allen, of Apex, with G. W. H. Britt, of Centerville, Pennsylvania, as alternate. Professor E. C. Brooks, of the department of education, presided; Isaac R. Strayhorn, of the second-year Law Class, officiated as timekeeper; and the following served as judges: Hon. Jones Fuller, Professor J. R. Conley, and L. P. McLendon, Esq., all of Durham. This victory gives the Hesperian Society a total of fourteen decisions and the Columbians ten.

At the close of the debate the Hesperian Society entertained at an informal reception, held in the society hall. The guests at this reception were the debaters, the judges and officers of the debate, former intersociety debaters, members of the Debate Council, the officers of the two societies, and the faculty members of the Hesperian Society. Refreshments were served consisting of fruit salad, ice-cream, cake, coffee, and cigars. At this time Dr. W. K. Boyd announced that Henry C. Greenburg had been chosen a member of the team to debate Washington and Lee. Brief speeches were made by the judges of the debate, Dr. W. H. Glasson, L. C. Allen, H. C. Greenburg, W. M. Pickens, and T. W. Sprinkle.

Following are synopses of the speeches:

J. H. SMALL, AFFIRMATIVE

Opening the argument for the affirmative, Mr. Small outlined the position of the United States today, its policies and its interests. He urged military preparedness as a preventive of war and for defense. As President Wilson has defined the future foreign policy of the United States, this country will never seek to acquire another foot of territory by conquest. The conditions and policies of European countries were shown to be completely different and to affect the question only as they increased the danger of war. The speaker defined the position of a first-class world power and showed that the United States was such a power with all the conditions which go to make the position of the country complex and precarious. The United States as a neutral and as champion of the neutral world was shown to present further issues equally fraught with opposing

SOUTH ATLANTIC QUARTERLY BEGINS FIFTEENTH VOLUME

DRS. BOYD AND KNIGHT AMONG
CONTRIBUTORS TO JAN.
UARY NUMBER

With the January issue, which is just coming from the press, The South Atlantic Quarterly enters upon its fifteenth volume. The current number contains an unusually interesting list of contents.

The number opens with a continuation of Major Rowland's interesting series of "Letters of a Virginia Cadet at West Point." One of the noteworthy features of this installment of letters is the description of the training and troubles of "pebes," or new students, at West Point fifty years ago. The installments of these letters which have already appeared have met with an unusually cordial reception in many quarters.

The second article, by Dr. J. F. Rogers, of New Haven, Connecticut, is entitled "The Physical Franklin." It is a popular discussion from the standpoint of a physician of the extraordinary physical endowment which enabled Franklin to accomplish so much during his long and arduous career.

Dr. Edgar W. Knight, of the department of education, contributes the first installment of a careful study of "Reconstruction and Education in Virginia." Dr. Knight's article is the result of research in the records of the convention which framed the Reconstruction constitution of Virginia. It

The Seniors won the interclass basketball ball championship for 1915-16 on last Friday evening when they defeated the Sophomores by the score of 39 to 11.

Having lost two of their strongest men, Corkran and Edgerton, both of whom had withdrawn from College, the Sophomores seemed to realize their weakness in opposing the Seniors, nearly every man of whom is a member of the varsity team, from the very start. The Seniors also seemed to realize this fact; and, as a consequence, the game was slow and uninteresting throughout.

Captain Patton, Bunting, Ferrell, and Matton all featured for the Seniors, each getting four field goals. Matton made good six fouls out of fifteen chances, and Ferrell one out of two chances. Lilley was especially strong on defensive play, holding his strong opponent, Richardson, to two field goals.

Although Richardson threw but two field goals, by effective passing, he was indirectly responsible for many other points scored by his team. Falls, at center, threw the only other field goal for the Sophomores. Captain Swan, was unusually strong at foul-shooting, throwing five out of six chances. Long, at right guard, also played an effective game, several times breaking up plays of his opponents.

The line-up:

Seniors—Ferrell, r. f., (9); Matton, l. f., (14); Grigg, l. f.; Bunting, c., (8); Lilley, r. g.; Brown, r. g.; Captain Patton, l. g., (8).

Sophomores—Captain Swan, r. f., (5); Richardson, l. f., (4); Falls, c., (2); Long, r. g.; Huntley, l. g.; Graham, l. g.; Page, l. g.

Referee, Captain Martin; Umpire, Coach Doak; Timekeeper, Edwards; Scorer, Arendell. Time of halves, twenty minutes. Foul goals, Matton 6 out of 15; Ferrell 1 out of 2; Swan 5 out of 6.

CHANGES IN SCHEDULE

The basketball game which had been scheduled with the Statesville Club for tomorrow evening in Angier Duke Gymnasium has been postponed until Friday evening, at the request of Statesville, according to the announcement of Manager Seerest.

Manager Seerest announced also that Roanoke College had canceled the game which was scheduled to have been played in Roanoke on February 8.

ALL GAMES CLOSE AND INTERESTING THROUGHOUT

Statesville is Held to Tie Score for Twenty Minutes, but the Game is Lost in Extra Five Minutes—Whole Team, Including Substitutes, Shows Up Well in All Games

Two victories and three defeats tell the tale of the pre-Christmas invasion of the western part of the State by the Trinity basket ball team. The first game, with Charlotte Y. M. C. A., was won on the night of December 17 by the score of 34 to 30. At Davidson on the following afternoon Trinity lost by the score of 27 to 23. The two games with Asheville Y. M. C. A. on December 20 and 21 were divided, Asheville winning the first by the score of 32 to 25, and the second going to Trinity, 42 to 37. The last game was lost to the Statesville Club, 31 to 28.

In all of the games the Trinity team made the usual good showing. Each time the opposing team was held to a close score, and two games were lost partly on account of circumstances over which the team had no control—the floor was especially bad at Davidson, and there was "too much referee" in the first Asheville game. The loss of games to Y. M. C. A. teams, however, counts nothing against Trinity in the race for the state championship; and supporters of the Trinity team hope that Davidson can be defeated in the game here on February 15.

CHARLOTTE GAME

Jumping away on a sprint in the last few minutes of play and pocketing three field goals in rapid-fire order, Trinity won the opening game from the Charlotte Y. M. C. A. team by the score of 34 to 30. The game was close and hard-fought throughout, being described by the Charlotte News as "one of the hardest fights ever seen on the local floor." Trinity obtained a two-point lead at the very beginning of the game, but this was soon tied by a field goal by Davenport. The two teams fought through the first half never more than four points apart, the half ending 14 to 13 in favor of Trinity. During the second half the fight went on much the same way. With but four minutes to play, the teams stood tied, 28 to 28. Trinity scored three field goals while Charlotte was scoring but one.

Both teams scored the same number of field goals, the game being won on foul goals. Captain Martin made good eight foul goals out of fifteen chances, and Davenport, of Charlotte, pocketed six out of ten. Ferrell, at right forward, led the scoring for Trinity, getting six field goals, and Captain Martin and Bunting came second with eight points each. Bunting, at center, held his opponent, Howell, to two field goals and scored four himself. Anderson, at left forward, did especially good work in passing and scored two field goals. Lilley, at right guard, scored one field goal and allowed his opponent, Dowd, who is especially fast forward, six.

Captain Dowd led the scoring for Charlotte with six field goals, and Davenport came second with ten points—six fouls and two field goals.

The line-up:

Trinity—Ferrell, r. f., (12); Anderson, l. f., (4); Bunting, c., (8); Lilley, r. g., (2); Captain Martin, l. g., (8).

Charlotte—Davenport, r. f., and c., (10); Captain Dowd, l. f., (12); Howell, c., (4); Ross, r. g.; Crook, l. g., (4).

Referee, Coach DeWitt Klutz, of Davidson; Timekeeper, Guldridge; Scorer, Pleasants; time of halves, 20 minutes. Foul goals, Davenport, 6 out of 10, Martin, 8 out of 15.

DAVIDSON GAME

At Davidson College the Trinity team again gained a lead in the very beginning of the game, but after about five minutes of play Davidson overcame this lead and remained ahead throughout the re-

EDITORIAL

After this number the CHRONICLE suspends publication again until Wednesday, February 2, on account of examinations.

Examinations again? Examinations to test our knowledge of what we foolishly and vaguely considered in the past, to test our ability to bring it all back and in three crucial hours tell it, to test our ability to keep our heads, and to test our very manhood!

It is to be hoped that no seeker for hie coveted 97or 98 will, in burning the midnight oil, burn his nerves to the breaking point. Such things have happened, you know. After all, the record is largely written already, and the one point one can add to his grade by going the limit of imprudence in sticking to the grind is not worth the price—perhaps a shortening of this span of life, which is all too short at best.

But why spend time and fill space which might be devoted to news in speaking to the one in a hundred who is in danger of overwork? The men who most need a word are the ninety and nine who are in no such danger. The tragedy of it all is that there is such a large number who do the opposite of overwork. For these men examinations can serve the useful purpose of measuring by the standard the infinitesimally small amount of matter accumulated and of causing a realization of the fact that, although the grind the overworker, may be evteme, after all, he is right to a certain extent. If examinations teach this lesson to the aforesaid ninety and nine, they will have justified themselves.

But above all, let us each resolve within himself that, whether he be the one or one of the ninety and nine, he will keep his self-respect, he will play the game fairly, that, though the examinations may mean intellectual flunking, they will not mean moral flunking.

COLUMBIAN ELECTION HELD

In the elections for the third quarter on last Saturday evening the Columbian Society chose the following officers: R. M. Johnston, Greensboro, president; B. L. Smith, Granite Falls, vice-president; E. C. Few, Greer, South Carolina, secretary; and L. C. Allen, Apex, marshal. The president made the following appointments: W. G. McFarland, corresponding secretary; M. G. Eatman, chairman; C. A. Poole, H. W. Kendall, E. M. Spivey, and L. L. Gohbel, executive committee; G. W. Harley, chaplain; Isaac S. Harrell, chief tribune; P. L. Groome and E. C. Harris, associate tribunes; D. H. Peeler, clerk of tribunal; and G. W. H. Britt, censor.

Hon. Frank Armfield, '91, of Monroe, was a visitor on the campus yesterday. He was accompanied by ex-Solicitor A. M. Stack, '84.

standards and interests. "But we are a world power without the power!" said the speaker, "and every phase of our neutrality has been attacked." Finally, the question was shown to be in accord with the present best interests of peace. An international police force was shown to be within the scope of the question, as well as compulsory arbitration for the western hemisphere; but world-wide arbitration was attacked as unfair and ineffective.

E. C. FEW, NEGATIVE

Mr. Few opened the negative argument with a brief interpretation of the question and an outline of the arguments of his side. After this introduction he took up the first point in favor of the negative, namely, the cost of maintaining the world policies of the United States by military force would be exceedingly great, and would impose a heavy burden of taxation upon citizens of this country. The speaker then concluded with a final emphasis of the enormous cost of the military preparedness advocated by the affirmative and by pointing out some of the evil results of this vast cost.

H. C. GREENBURG, AFFIRMATIVE

The United States must pursue a policy of military preparedness commensurate with its position as a first-class world power in order to pursue and defend the well-defined policies of this country. The United States has asserted the Monroe Doctrine, which holds that foreign nations must desist from colonizing in the western hemisphere. This doctrine was challenged in the past by Russia, Spain, Great Britain, Germany, and France. Because of military superiority, the United States was able to enforce the doctrine against Russia, Spain, and France; and Germany and Great Britain were restrained in their action on account of fear of each other. Now, however, the status has changed, the balance of power has changed, and the United States, unaided by the European balance of power, must defend the Monroe Doctrine by military power. Commensurate preparedness is needed further to patrol the foreign shipping of this country. Today American ships are sunk or taken into prize courts and the United States gets no reparation because of poor military organization. Our open-door policy in China has failed for the same reason. The United States needs a sufficient preparedness to secure the country against invasion.

A. H. GWYN, NEGATIVE

In the beginning of his speech Mr. Gwyn summarized the argument of his preceding colleague and outlined his own argument, continuing that it is highly improbable that the United States will ever have to use military force in order to enforce the policies of the country. At the close of the European War there will exist a balance of power, just as before, perhaps a different balance of power, but none the less effective. This balance of power will make any violation of the Monroe Doctrine highly improbable. Such violation will be made further improbable by the crippled condition in which the European War will leave the nations involved. The economic importance of the United States will be such that the friendship and co-operation of this country will be worth more to another nation than the advantages which could be obtained by an attempt to colonize in America. The open-door policy in China is not worth fighting for. It is not wise to fix definitely a military policy during the progress of the present war, because this war will revolutionize all previous military methods.

H. C. WEST, AFFIRMATIVE

In closing the affirmative argument, Mr. West pointed out the fact that, because war is sometimes unavoidable and because a nation cannot possibly prepare for modern warfare after hostilities have begun, the United States must always guard against the possibility of war. At the present time the United States needs also to prepare against the possibility of war because of complicated foreign relations. Present indications are that the United States may become involved in the European War in spite of a desire to remain at peace. There is the possibility of a fight with Great Britain, as in 1812, for the freedom of the seas, or of war with the Teutonic allies to safeguard the trade of neutrals. Even if the United States succeeds in keeping out of the war, the possibility of attack at the close of the war is very real. Our insular possessions, our vast wealth, our abundant natural resources, the Monroe Doctrine, and our usurpation of trade with South America make the defenseless position of the United States an object of jealousy and cupidity to foreign nations.

L. C. ALLEN, NEGATIVE

In closing the argument for the negative, Mr. Allen offered the following reasons why the United States does not need to pursue a policy of military preparedness commensurate with the position of a first-class world power; first, our geographical position is not in any respect similar to that of other world powers; second, pursuing such a policy would mean that we should be entering a rivalry for armaments which would not increase the national safety; third, we shall be in a better position to fight, if the time ever comes that we need to fight, if in the meantime we have developed our economic resources and have not wasted our wealth on guns, ships, and munitions which will be out of date when they are needed. The nation which wins in a war is not always the one with the largest army and navy, but the one with greatest wealth and resources.

mainder of the game. The score remained close, however, through the first half, standing 18 to 15 at the close. In the beginning of the second half the Davidson team completely outplayed Trinity for a few minutes, but Coach Doak's men came back strong during the last few minutes of play, and the final score was 27 to 23.

The stellar performers for Trinity were the two forwards, Anderson and Ferrell. Each of these men was in the game during every minute of play, and each scored a beautiful goal during the last minute of the game. Ferrell got four field goals, and Anderson, two. Captain Martin held his opponent, Childs, to three field goals and pocketed nine field goals out of seventeen chances. Bunting scored one field goal and held his opponent to the same number. Lilley failed to score, but held the opposing forward to two field goals. It is a noteworthy fact that the Trinity team did not commit a personal foul during the course of the game.

Captain Reese, of Davidson, was unusually effective in passing and led the scoring of his team, getting four field goals and seven fouls out of eleven chances.

Line-up:
Trinity—Anderson, I. f., (4); Ferrell, r. f., (8); Bunting, c., (2); Captain Martin, I. g., (9); Lilley, r. g.

Davidson—Childs, r. f., (6); Wood, r. f.; King, I. f., (4); Hengeveldt, c., (2); Captain Reese, r. g., (15); Walker, r. g.; Perry, c.

Referee, Faul, of Charlotte Y. M. C. A.; Timekeeper, Richardson; Scorer, Matton. Time of halves, twenty minutes. Foul goals: Martin, 9 out of 17; Reese, 7 out of 11.

FIRST ASHEVILLE GAME

In the first game Asheville defeated Trinity by the score of 32 to 23. The Trinity team entered the game with a different line-up from that used in any other game. Richardson took Ferrell's place at right forward during the first half and Patton took Lilley's place at right guard.

The game, like all of the others on the trip, was an unusually fast one. The Asheville team, however, had the game going its way throughout, bettering the Trinity players in speed, passing, and accuracy of goal shooting.

Captain Martin was the star of the Trinity team, holding the opposing forward to two field goals, and making good thirteen out of fifteen chances at foul goals. Patton held his opponent to three field goals and scored two himself. Anderson dropped the ball through the basket twice for field goals. Bunting held his opponent to two field goals and shot one himself. Ferrell, who played only during the last half, got one field goal.

Line-up:
Trinity—Richardson, r. f.; Ferrell, r. f., (2); Anderson, I. f., (4); Bunting, r. g., (4); Patton, r. g., (4); Captain Martin, I. g., (13).

Asheville—Newton, r. f., (4); Lyda, I. f., (14); Chambers, c., (4); Brown, r. g., (2); Cline, I. g., (8).

Referee, Lipinsky; Umpire, Coach Doak; Timekeepers, Lilley and Dill; Scorer, Matton. Time of halves, twenty minutes. Foul goals, Martin 13 out of 15; Lyda 8 out of 15.

SECOND ASHEVILLE GAME

In the second game the Trinity team made good its promise to win with a different referee, winning by the score of 42 to 37.

Asheville began the game with the speed of the former evening, holding the big end of the 23 to 25 score at the end of the first half, but Trinity came back strong in the last half. The Asheville team was greatly weakened by the removal of Cline and Chambers during the second half for committing four personal fouls.

Captain Martin again starred with his foul shots, making good twenty out of twenty-eight chances and holding his opponent to four field goals. Anderson contributed two field goals to the Trinity score. Bunting held his opponent to three field goals and scored five himself, all coming in the second half. Ferrell shot three field goals, one in the first half and two in the second. Matton played center during the first half.

Line-up:
Trinity—Ferrell, r. f., (6); Anderson, I. f., (4); Matton, c.; Bunting, c., (10); Lilley, r. g.; Captain Martin, I. g., (23).

Asheville—Newton, r. f., (23); Lyda, I. f., (6); Chambers, c., (6); Brown, c., Brown, r. g.; Cline, I. g., (2); Randolph, I. g.

Referee, Jackson, of Asheville School. Times of halves, twenty minutes. Foul goals, Martin 20 out of 28; Newton 15 out of 19.

STATESVILLE GAME

At Statesville Trinity came near winning another game. At the close of the regular twenty minutes' play the score stood tied, 26 to 26. During the extra five minutes Trinity was able, however, to score but two points, while Statesville scored five, the final score being 31 to 28.

Kimball, a former student here, scored eight points for the Statesville team. Newman, formerly of Elon College, shot two field goals, but was able to make good only nine foul goals out of sixteen chances.

Although shooting but one field goal, Ferrell, with his passing and guarding, was the star of the Trinity team. According to a Statesville dispatch to the Charlotte Observer, he was "all over the floor and gave the locals more trouble than any two other Trinity players." Captain Martin held his opponent to four field goals, secured four himself, and made good six out of nine chances at foul goals. Anderson scored two field goals, while his opponent shot only one. Bunting scored two field goals to his opponent's three. Lilley held the opposing forward to two field goals and scored two himself.

Line-up:
Trinity—Ferrell, r. g., (2); Anderson, I. f., (4); Bunting, c., (4); Lilley, r. g., (4); Captain Martin, (14).

Statesville—Kimball, r. f., (8); Newman, I. f., (13); Etheridge, c., (6); Orr, r. g.; Grady, r. g., (2); Guy, I. g., (2).

SIGMA UPSILON MEETS

At the last meeting of the Fortnightly Club Chapter of Sigma Upsilon before the Christmas holidays, held on Friday, December 17, R. M. Johnston read a very interesting paper on "Isaac Erwin Avery and Idle Comments."

The fact that Avery was a graduate of Trinity made an account of his life more interesting and acceptable. In his Senior year he edited the Trinity Archive, in this way getting valuable training for his future work. He began newspaper work permanently by conducting a news bureau in Greensboro. Later he became city editor of the Charlotte Observer, in which position he wrote the Idle Comments as a regular department of the Monday paper. At the close of his paper Johnston read several of these Comments which best showed Avery's ability to see the significance of every-day happenings, his versatility, and his interesting style.

At the meeting on last Friday evening J. W. Lambeth, Jr., read a very entertaining paper on "Owen Wister."

Lambeth first took up the ancestral lineage of the famous author and showed how he inherited certain qualities which fitted him for the position as a writer which he now holds. Then he took up the early travels and education of Wister and showed how these influenced his later life. Finally he mentioned several of the author's best works and discussed in particular the following: Serenade, a poem; Philosophy 4, a short story; and The Virginian and Lady Baltimore, novels.

The following former students were visitors on the campus during the few days previous to the Christmas holidays: M. R. Pleasant, '14, principal of Shelby High School; C. R. Bagley, '14, a teacher in the high school at Spartanburg, South Carolina; Misses Irma Tapp, '15, and Rose Lewis, ex-'17, both of whom are teaching in the schools at High Point; E. R. Sikes, who is teaching in Kingston High School; T. B. Downey, '15, principal of Tarboro High School; J. E. McLean, '15, principal of Dover High School; Floyd S. Bennett, '13, professor of English in Greensboro College for Women; Rev. H. E. Myers, '15, of Graham; and Rev. C. B. Culbreth, '13, of Elizabeth City.

At the meeting of the Classical Club in the Latin Room of the Library at seven-thirty tomorrow evening there will be read a paper on "Constantin von Tischendorf and the Discovery of the Sinai Manuscript of the Bible."

George N. Earnhardt and Paul H. Mason, both students in the College, have purchased and will in the future conduct the College Lunch Room. They announce that the method of conducting the canteen will be entirely changed and they hope to have a large regular patronage.

paper on an interesting period in the life of the remarkable French woman, Madame de Staël. The essay deals with her literary successes achieved in England and with the acquaintances she made there. The title is "An Essay in Friendship, Madame de Staël's English Triumph."

Dr. William K. Boyd, of the department of history, writes for the current number an article on "The North Carolina Fund for Internal Improvements." This is an important contribution to the economic and financial history of the State and supplements Dr. Boyd's previous investigation along similar lines, some of which have been published in the Quarterly.

Professor Benjamin Brawley, formerly of the graduate schools of the University of Chicago and of Harvard, contributes a well-written literary essay on "Pre-Raphaelitism and its Literary Relations." This is an interesting study of a group of English writer and artists whose work is shown to have had considerable importance in the history of English literature.

The Department of Book Reviews is unusually well filled. Signed reviews are contributed by members of the faculty of Trinity College and of other institutions.

DR. GLASSON HONORED

Appointed Collaborator of Carnegie Peace Endowment

That Dr. William H. Glasson, of the department of economics, has been appointed a collaborator of the department of History and Economics of the Carnegie Peace Endowment will be of interest to Trinity students.

The Peace Endowment takes up different topics in history and economics and assigns them for research to various economists and historians both in the United States and Europe. When these topics are completed, they are published in the form of monograph publications by the Peace Endowment. Besides Dr. Glasson Professor A. S. Johnson, of Cornell University, and Professor F. W. Taussig, of Harvard University, were recently appointed collaborators.

Dr. Glasson has been greatly interested in these studies for a number of years. A few years ago he wrote a book entitled "The History of Military Pension Legislation in the United States" and since that time he has written a number of articles on allied subjects for magazines and encyclopaedias. Some years ago he delivered a series of lectures on this subject at Johns Hopkins University.

At the present time Dr. Glasson is preparing "A Study of Federal Military Pensions." When this is completed, probably by the close of 1916, it will be published under the auspices of the Peace Endowment.

"Trilby," perhaps the most popular book and play ever presented internationally, comes to the Paris on tomorrow as cinimatized by the Equitable Motion Pictures Corporation, with the queenly screen artiste, Clara Kimball Young, and Wilton Lackaye, who originated the role of "Svengali" in the legitimate production in the leading holes, supported by Chester Barnett, Paul McAllister, and an all-star cast.

"Trilby," produced under the able direction of Maurice Tourneur, had its initial run at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre, in New York, and voted by "those who know" as being the best five-act feature production yet seen.—Adv.
