POLITICAL TIDE NOW BEGINS TO RECEDE

UNEQUALLED INTEREST IN POLITICS COMMENCES TO SUBSIDE

TWO PARTY CLUBS ENTHUSIASTIC

Climax is Reached Last Night When Students Assemble Down Town to Hear Reports on Election

Only a few more days and the state of affairs on the campus will become normal again. The strained, intense atmosphere, which for several weeks and particularly for several days bobbed over the campus, is now cleaning away. Heated arguments, blood-curdling yells of Wilson, Wilson! or Hughes, Hughes! have become a thing of the past. In fact the college community will soon be looking for a new topic of conversation.

Never has politics aroused so much interest on the campus. For weeks the presidential election has been the sole topic of discussion; basketball, and other forms of athletics have occupied a place in the background. With the two party clubs hard at work, the spirit of friendly, but to be sure, intense and strained, rivalry became prevalent between the doubts of Democratic faith and believers of Republican principles. Nor did these supporters keep their sentiments to themselves. They yelled, they argued, they eulogized their candidate; and it was this open way in which the students expressed themselves which added so much to the general feeling of interest and rivalry.

Last night the state of affairs reached their climax. All day yesterday an air of suppressed feeling and excitement was noticeable about the campus. A group stood here, another there, discussing the outcome of the election and only wishing they were old enough to vote for Woodrow or Charles E. which ever candidate happened to be their choice. And many students did vote, some down town and others making the trip home for the sole purpose of casting a ballot. Then last night the excitement could be suppressed no longer. The yelling of the past was nothing in comparison with that which broke loose last night. Everybody yelled, the campus represented one great uproar of first Wilson! and then Hughes! The interclass basketball game was almost forgotten—the election returns down town overshadowed everything else. Down town practically every student on the campus went, yelling, excited, nerves keyed to their highest pitch. For hours they stood in the cold, keeping up a confused shouting and patiently waiting for definite news about the election. Finally, when at a late hour victory apparently rested with Hughes, they began to disperse—the excitement began to die out.

Today, however, everyone on the campus has literally been "on pins." With the late returns coming in and an apparent turn in favor of Wilson, excitement has been created anew.

Y. M. C. A. HEARS ADDRESSES BY MATTHEWS AND SMITH

STUDENTS TALK TO ASSOCIATION AT LEAST WEEK'S MEETING

The regular weekly meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association last Wednesday evening was in charge of Mr. J. Raymond Smith.

Mr. W. W. Matthews was the first speaker, and taking "The Efficient Man" for his subject delivered a clear and earnest plea for efficiency in the college student's work. Mr. Matthews approached his subject from many different angles and developed the thought that men must cultivate efficiency in everything if they are to succeed and be one of the "survivals of the fittest."

Mr. L. L. Smith was the second speaker, and Mr. Smith spoke for a few minutes on the parable of the Master and the tree that He looked to for fruit but found fruitless. He summarized his quiet, earnest talk by saying that we cannot reach all around development until we reach a true conception and ready acceptance of Christianity.

The meeting tonight will be in charge of President C. S. Bunn, and the main talk will be made by Professor C. R. Bagley. An interesting program may be looked for as usual, and it is hoped that those students who are not now attending the Y. M. C. A., will come in and join those who are reaping the benefits of this very effective and serving organization.

9019 CONTEST

Annual Declamation Contest Again to be Given

Plans for the regular annual 9019 Declamation Contest are well under way. The contest as usual, will be held on Friday night immediately after Thanksgiving. Invitations have already been sent to practically every high school in this state and the southern part of Virginia, and, from the replies that are beginning to come in it is apparent that the contest to be held this year will be a decided success.

Over a dozen schools have already signified their intention of sending representatives to compete in the annual affair. The committee in charge is receiving numerous letters of inquiry every day, and it seems highly probable that the number of representatives taking part in the contest this year will greatly exceed the unusually large number which participated last year.

SENIORS—JUNIORS

Outclassed in every department of the game, the Juniors went down in defeat before the Seniors last Friday night by a score of 48 to 13.

From the very first moment of play the fourth year men were in the lead, playing their opponents off their feet and putting up an unusually strong defensive game when necessary. On account of the one-sided score the whole game was slow and uninteresting, only the difficult shots of Roth, the Senior left forward, occasionally arousing the interest and applause of those present.

The first half ended with the score 26 to 6 in the Seniors' favor. Falls, the third year center, was the only man on his team to secure a field goal during this half, four out of the six points accredited the Juniors in this period being secured by Captain Long on foul goals. For the Seniors Roth went wild in this half, throwing eight field goals and making good at shooting foul twice out of five chances. Two goals by Anderson and one each by Captain Mayes and LeGrand brought up the total of the Seniors to 26.

In the second half Roth repeated his performance of the former half by pocketing the ball five times. Captain Mayes and LeGrand contributed to the total score again with two field goals each, and Arendell who replaced Anderson at right forward, and Jordan, who replaced Roth, each managed to pocket the ball once. The Juniors bettered their score of the former half by one point. Saunders at right forward secured one field goal, Captain Long threw one foul out of six chances, and Whitener, substituting for Timberlake at left forward, pocketed the ball twice.

The work of Roth for the Seniors was the outstanding feature of the game, the fast Senior forward securing thirteen field and two foul goals. LeGrand, who

GLEE CLUB PRACTICES TO GET INTO SHAPE FOR TOUR

WINNERS OF PLACES ON CLUB ARE ANNOUNCED BY MANAGER

Manager Larkin announces that the Glee Club is practicing every day and is fast getting into good form for the coming tour of the State.

Prof. W. Y. Utermoehlen, an expert instructor of Durham, has been secured to assist the Club during this season. The Club expects to leave the College by the 11th of December for an extended trip through the State. A complete itinerary has not yet been made, but Manager Larkin says the Club will visit several of the principal cities and colleges of the State.

The following men have won places on the Club: first tenor, Harris, Hayes, Robins; second tenor, Giles, Brushingham, Matthews, Hall; baritone, LeGrand, Garret, Patton; bass, Britton, Redding, Larkin; pianist, Craft. Instrumentalists are to be selected later.

With the start that has already been made, it seems now that the Glee Club is really to be a splendid success.

There will be a meeting of the Trinity Alumni Association of the Western North Carolina Conference at Gastonia Thursday night, November 23. The local committee in charge is composed of R. G. Cherry, J. H. Separk, and S. J. Durham.

INTER-SOCIETY DEBATE

Hesperia and Columbia Prepare for Another Clash

For the twenty-fifth year the Columbian and Hesperian Literary Societies are planning to meet in the struggle for the college championship in debating. Last year the Hesperian Society was victorious and carried off the laurels.

The question to be debated this year is "Resolved: That the United States should adopt a policy requiring at least one year's military training for all men between the ages of seventeen and twenty-five inclusive."

Hesperia will uphold the Affirmative, while Columbia will support the negative. The preliminary in the Hesperian Society is scheduled to come off Saturday, November 25. The Columbian preliminary will be held Saturday, November 18. The date for the final debate will be announced later.

WELCOME RECEPTION GIVEN BY HESPERIA

LITERARY SOCIETY RECEIVES NEW MEMBERS IN BRILLIANT SOCIAL

MOCK PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION

Is Held, and Dr. F. C. Brown is Elected Over Hughes and Wilson—Music by Durham Orchestra

The Hesperian Literary Society's annual reception of welcome to its new members on last Monday evening proved to be one of the most enjoyable social events of the year. The hall was tastefully decorated with ferns, and music was furnished by the Durham Orchestra.

President Brady, after making a few remarks in which he defined the spirit of Hesperia, announced that the scene should be shifted to that of the House of Representatives of the United States and that since the electoral vote for the Democratic and Republican candidates had been tied, it should be incumbent upon the House of Representatives to elect the next president. Professor Brooks presided as speaker of the House and introduced the two campaign managers. Hughes and Wilson were impersonated by Earl Thompson and R. L. Fisher, respectively.

Acting as Mr. Wilcox, N. M. Patton made an able defense for Hughes, the one-hundred per cent candidate, and impressed upon the members of the House that it was for the best interest of the country that they elect Hughes.

J. H. Small, Jr., acting as Mr. McCormick, pointed out wherein the record of Mr. Wilson was a most commendable one. He also showed wherein his administration had been of distinct advantage to the suffragettes and solicited their votes. He further contended that it was not only the duty but the privilege of the nation to elect the Democratic nominee who had kept the country out of war.

Just before the question was submitted to the House for voting, Uncle Sam, impersonated by R. H. Shelton, appeared in the balcony, and in serious and concise terms urged the members of the House to elect the right and best man and not let partisan views influence them in casting their ballot.

W. W. Matthews, serving as clerk of the House read the returns of the election as follows: Wilson, 3 votes; Hughes, 3 votes; Dr. Frank Clyde Brown, running as a dark horse, five hundred and ninety-eight votes.

Selections given by the Durham Orchestra were enjoyed by all present. Refreshments were served by Caterer Miles McCoy.

The Alumni of Cabarrus County are arranging to hold a meeting at an early date, probably Friday, November 24.

Mr. W. W. Hutton, '15, cashier of the First National Bank of Bell Buckle, Tennessee, was a visitor on the campus during the past week.

A GROUND RULE

Nearly every college campus has its peculiar ground rules, and this one of ours is not a new exception. One of our campus restrictions is in regard to a little matter of decency, and it has been requested that the new students, seemingly innocent of any knowledge thereof, should be informed as to this.

After the new athletic field was completed, the authorities passed a regulation prohibiting those who indulge both in indoor and outdoor sports from wearing running suits alone around the campus, not even on their way to the gymnasium or to the new athletic field. It is a custom now for athletes to wear trousers over their gymnasium suits when passing to and from their rooms.

Old students have been commendably considerate in abiding by this small but meaning regulation, and it is urged that all the new men may take notice and follow their example.

UNFAIR DISTURBANCE

A Trinity professor, who has his classroom on the train side of the West Duke Building recently told his class: "If a man who came to class with any sort of inspiration and that locomotive out there didn't drive it out of him, then I'd like to know what would."

It is not occasionally but regularly that Trinity students are interrupted by the unfair noises which come from inconsiderate trains on the tracks just opposite the College. This interruption hampers the learning ability of the students and discourages the indulgence of the professors.

Of course we do not intend to recommend that the Southern move its tracks further away from the College, or that the authorities move the College further away from the tracks; but it seems to the editor that the right kind of approach, perhaps of petition, to the proper parties might result in a more indulgent attitude on the part of trains and trainmen toward the serious and the beneficial work which our hourly classes are meant to accomplish.

A CHANGING STANDARD

Many conservatives have from the time when colleges in this country first started on a decided increase in number, widening out of scope, and elevation of ideals viewed with harsh criticism the college as a place to send a growing-up boy. These educational institutions were looked upon by such conservatives as places for the idle, for the unambitious, and for the wasteful young.

And such a depreciatory attitude was for a long time not without some foundation; the aversion on the part of strict parents which kept numerous boys behind the plow and very many boys in the mills is not entirely unjustifiable. College students, even up to recent years seemed to be of the haphazard and the good-time variety. Splendid opportunities were thrust down never to be picked up, and a very few students really applied themselves so as to reap the advantages offered by the average college.

These conditions can best be judged by taking the example of our own college. There has in recent years been a certain class of students, composed of more than a few, which was remarkable for its dumbness when it came to any kind of college work and for its alertness when there was anything stirring for affording a good time. Men of the senior class today can testify to the deplorable tendency of a vast number of former students almost incessantly to walk the streets, crowd the drug-stores, and frequent the movie houses.

But now there has come a change in this old-time prodigality. A new standard of education has floated into this as well as into practically all other colleges. Students have taken on a more serious attitude toward the advantages to be gained by a college course. Right here our students, with almost no exceptions, are thinking now rather of work than pleasure, the streets are no longer invariably thronged with spendthrifts from among our number. New ideals have seized upon them.

The old conservative notion about colleges is fast breaking down; Every father who is not comfortably able is working and delving in the attempt to send his son to college; ambitious but fatherless boys are working their way through to the final attainment of a college education.

Why should we all not strive to chime in with this changing standard?

SIGMA UPSILON

At its regular bi-weekly meeting last Friday evening, the Fortnightly Chapter of Sigma Upsilon heard a very interesting discussion of the American Humorist, Irving S. Cobb, life and works, by J. H. Burrus. Mr. Burrus presented Cobb in a very favorable light and analyzed his work when compared to that of Mark Twain. A critical essay on Cobb was discussed which predicted for Cobb greater fame than the renowned Clemens. Several of Cobb's best selections were read by Mr. Burrus.

The usual feed was enjoyed by the club at the conclusion of the discussion.

TRINITY STUDENT IN WRECK

C. S. Bunn Hangs to Door Knob and Escapes Injury

The value of the common, everyday door-knob and the extreme danger of standing on the platform of a train while the locomotive is in motion are two things which a Trinity student has just had very deeply impressed upon his mind.

C. Settle Bunn was on his way home to Bailey last Saturday over the little one-horse section of the Norfolk-Southern Railroad that runs from Raleigh to Washington. Traveling by one's self on a hot day, among a bunch of strangers, and on a jogging, jumping, and jiney-like locomotive is a very unattractive sport; and this was exactly the way our friend Bunn found his trip. Twenty-four miles of this unpleasantness was too much for him, and he walked out on the platform of his car to get a little fresh air and see something of the surrounding country.

At this juncture the train was pulling into the town of Zebulon. Bunn walked out on the platform, and the conductor, whom he was following, went on into the car ahead of that in which the Trinity senior had his perch. After a very brief recreation, Bunn suddenly thought of the possible danger to which one standing on the platform is liable. An innate impulse caused him hurriedly to seek the inner part of the dinky coach. And it was lucky for him that he did, for, in a space of time too short to be conceived of, the colored car had turned over on its side, killing the conductor and three black passengers; and Bunn's car had whirled around and sided up against a large saw-dust pile.

Bunn had just closed his car's door when the accident happened. In fact, he had not yet removed his hand from the door-knob. Nor did he for some time. While his car was disarranging itself from its wheels and was settling upon the soft saw-dust pile, he swung with a vice-like grip to the knob which he held in his two hands.

After the smoke had cleared, Bunn shook himself free of his unwelcome coat of saw-dust, left his much-prized hat where it had fallen, and climbed kid-like out of the wrecked car. During the smashing of glass windows and doors and the consequent spreading of the dangerous bits of glass, Bunn dragged himself again into day-light with a kitty-looking scratch on one hand. He even had wits enough about him to lend aid to the injured passengers.

Bunn went through a precarious experience without getting any noticeable physical injury. But there is one thing that he did get, and that is the unmistakable information that the familiar sign "Passengers are warned not to ride on the platform" is not without its real significance.

SCIENCE CLUB

The Science Club will hold its regular fortnightly meeting in the lecture room on next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Dr. J. J. Wolfe, of the department of Biology, will read a paper on some research work done by him at the Fisheries Laboratory at Beaufort, covering a period of some six or seven years. Election of new members will be held and other business transacted. The College community is invited.

Rev. H. E. Spence, '07, of Sanford, was a visitor on the campus last week.

PARK SCHOOL NOTES

The members of the Y. M. C. A. have donated to the school a life-sized picture of Prof. Peele, former headmaster of Trinity Park School. The picture was presented to the school by President C. C. Parker of the Y. M. C. A. on the morning of the 6th, and was accepted by Professor West in behalf of the school. The school is very proud of this gift both because of the spirit of the donation and because it feels honored in having the picture of Professor Peele in the Chapel. This completes the list of pictures of ex-headmasters with the exception of S. B. Underwood, and it is hoped to add his to the number some time soon.

The first quarter examinations begin Monday the thirteenth and continue through the week.

The boys from the different counties of the state have been organized into a "Quill Club" and will send items of interest to the weekly newspapers of their respective counties.

It is to be regretted that Lee Small from Edenton of the Lower Middle Class was compelled to leave school on account of illness. He hopes to return, however, as soon as he has sufficiently recovered.

During the last few days several new men were added to the student body, and more are expected in a short while.

The students are giving a great deal of time to out door sports and athletics. Plans are on foot for the building of a floored out-door basket ball court. This will be quite an improvement, and will enable the students to play during damp weather. One hundred dollars has already been collected for this project, and it is hoped to obtain the remainder of the necessary sum in the near future.

Two old students, Leslie Hornaday, '14, and H. O. Shell, '16, visited on the campus last week.

Mr. J. E. Kanipe, '15, spent the week-end here among old friends.

SENIORS—SOPHS

By defeating the Sophomores 34-14 last evening, the Seniors redoubled their hold on the class series, and are now leading by the safe margin of three victories and no defeats. They have now completed just half their class schedule. The games during the coming week will probably decide the pennant issue, for the Juniors and Freshmen have equal chances of capturing second place Friday evening, and next Tuesday the Freshmen may well reverse the close score made against them in their last contest with the Seniors. Roth was out of the game for the Seniors last night because of absence from town.

The game last night was an easy victory for the Senior Class. At no time was their goal in serious danger nor did the Sophomores ever approach the lead. Both teams put up a pretty exhibition of "pep," and the team work on both sides was rather marked, though the goal shooting was inconsistent and poor. The Sophomores were much lighter than their opponents and were at times considerably nervous. Their playing was, however, remarkably free of technical fouls. The whole game was, in fact, cleanly played throughout. Of their fifteen free shots the Seniors made good six, the Sophomores eight out of sixteen.

By far the best work done on each team was the defense. The guards were at all times active in the game, and provided most of the interest. The Seniors in particular were effective in blocking men and in breaking up the passing of the whole Sophomore team. Their passing, on the other hand, was team-like and sure.

Of the members of both teams, Mayes was perhaps the stellar player. His work at center was at all times good; he usually secured the tip-off and was consid-

Everyone has been asking questions, talking about the election, and claiming the victory for his favorite. The tension has been almost at the breaking point, and the loud, noisy excitement has given away to an intense, nerve-racking suspense. Until some thing definite supersedes the conflicting reports of victory, classes, basketball, and other less important things will occupy a place in the far background.

WAKE COUNTY CLUB

The first Wake County Club in the history of the College was organized last Friday night with the following officers: president, E. C. Harris, of Wendell; vice-president, W. H. Pridgen, of Raleigh; and secretary-treasurer, M. G. Eatman, of Cary. Other members of the Club are: Banks Arendell, of Raleigh; F. R. Yarborough, of Cary; R. B. Templeton, of Cary; L. J. Braudwell, of Wendell; A. S. Barnes, of Raleigh; B. H. Barrow, of Zebulon; W. H. Hargiss, of Raleigh; and A. Merritt, of Raleigh.

erably more active in his offensive work. He shot five field goals all during the first half, and bagged two out of seven chances at fouls. Anderson, at right guard, played an excellent game, backed up his an excellent game and backed up his four goals with a good hand at in the second half and split even in four free chances. LeGrand, at guard, was in the game every minute of play. He held his opponent scoreless during the entire game, and at the same time entered effectively into the work of offense. One goal and one foul shot went to his credit during the second half.

For the Sophomores, Aldridge played god ball. Although he made no field goals, he showed the greatest element of team-play of his class and made nearly half the Sophomore score by succeeding in six out of eleven foul shots. Corpening at center bagged one field goal and two free chances. McMullen worked well with these two in some pretty passing.

GRADUATE HONORED

The following account from the Smithfield Herald speaks for itself concerning Edward P. Lore, '16.

"For Surveyor, the Democratic party has put in the field this year Mr. Edward P. Lore, a young civil engineer, who is well equipped for the work he will have to do. He has been doing surveying in different parts of the County for the past two years and has been so successful in pleasing the folks with his services as a surveyor that he easily won in the June primary without even going into the campaign to ask the support of a single man. This is a case where the office seeks the man."

There will be an important meeting of the Quill Club Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the economics room of the East Duke Building.

CLEVELAND COUNTY CLUB

At the first regular monthly meeting of the Cleveland County Club on last Monday night a real concerted movement was launched to secure a large delegation of students from Cleveland County next year. The Club decided to have the Chronicle and other publications of the college sent to each of the several high schools of the county.

Also, the Club is arranging to secure a list of all the students of the high schools of the county who are to be graduated this year, in order that the corresponding secretary of the Club may have catalogs, bulletins, and other advertising matter of the College sent to them. The Club expects to send a personal letter to each of the to-be high school graduates of the county. In addition, the Club hopes to be of real service to the high school of the county by aiding them in securing literature for debate, declamation contests, etc.

The Club this year has eleven members, the largest number ever here from Cleveland County, and a great effort is being made to secure a larger number for next year.
