HON. JAS. H. POUL DELIV- ERS PATRIOTIC SPEECH

NOTED PATRIOT MAKES AN- NUAL BENEFACTORS' ADDRESS

This is Not the Time for Peace—A Peace Without Complete Victory
Only a Compromise Peace—Must Fight War to Finish

In a stirring and patriotic speech Hon. James H. Pon, of Raleigh, addressed the students, friends and faculty of the College in Craven Memorial Hall last Tuesday evening on the occasion of Benefactor's Day. On account of the serious times in which we are now living the officials of the College decided this year to make the occasion a patriotic one. Patriotic music was fitting rendered by the college band.

Mr. Pon in the beginning of his remarks stated that this was not the time for peace. Peace at this time could not be a good peace. Peace at this time at the very best would amount only to a truce. It would only give us breathing time to begin over again. If we should have peace now, we would not have time to pursue our accustomed obligations and the nightmare of war would still hang over us. The only thing that peace could bring to us now would be a rest. If we make peace now by compromise, all the blood that has been spilt and all the treasure that has been spent will have been in vain and wasted, for the work would have to be done over again. On the other hand, if the Allies shall accomplish a complete victory, these great sacrifices will not have been in vain, for this will be the last great war. The only peace that will be worth while is one that will have to be fought for one for which we must pay the price.

Mr. Pon then proceeded to show why peace without victory would be no peace. This war is different from any war we have ever fought in and a compromise peace would be an illogical conclusion to such a war. This is not only a war between people and nations on a colossal scale, but it is a war between two irreconcilable and inconsistent ideas which cannot be compromised. It is a war between the spirit of force on one side and the spirit of fraternity on the other. The idea of force in government has reached its highest expression in the Prussian government, the one government which has never had a friend among civilized nations. It has been her policy whenever she desired to make an alliance with any country first to thrash that country and then form terms. Thus she has gradually acquired possession of the different German states, but since her very name carried with it such evil memories, she has called the country Germany instead of Prussia. War is the ruling passion in Prussia. Her ideals have been repeatedly expressed by Emperor William and other statesmen of that country. Bismarck, a Prussian in the truest sense of the word, has written how war should be carried on as a business for gentlemen and the nobility. War properly fought was not

FALL BASEBALL PRACTICE BEGINS ON THE NEW FIELD

NOT MANY OLD MEN BACK—
NEW MATERIAL PROMIS-ING—CLASS SCHEDULE

Base ball activities were begun on the New Hanes Field Monday afternoon when thirty eight men responded to the first call issued by Manager Bolich. Only three members of last year's squad reported for practice. These were, Carver, Edens, and Minshew. An abundance of Freshman material, however, seems sufficient to make the inter-class series interesting.

Owing to the fact that the diamond has not yet been put in readiness, only a short batting practice was required after which the candidates ran the track and left the field. Manager Bolich hopes to have the diamond in condition for practice Tuesday.

Practices will be continued throughout the week under the direction of Capt. Card and Manager Bolich.

The following men have given in their names and positions:
Pitchers: Blalock, Southard, West; Catchers: Carson, Carver, Thompson; First Base: Bamberg, Edens, Douglas; Second Base: Kopf, Minshew; Third Base: Carver, W. Blalock; S. S.: Shidmore, Outfield: Cole, Gray, Hathaway, Timberlake, Woltz, Wooten.

The following schedule for class games has been announced:

October 4—Juniors vs. Sophomores.

October 9—Seniors vs. Freshmen.

October 11—Juniors vs. Freshmen.

October 12—Seniors vs. Sophomores.

MILITARY TRAINING WILL BEGIN ON NEXT THURSDAY

SETTING-UP EXERCISES TO BE-GIN MONDAY—DRILL TO BE COMPULSORY

Professor W. H. Hall announces that regular drill for new men will begin on next Thursday afternoon, and for old men on next Friday afternoon. The morning setting-up exercises for all men will not start until Monday morning. The drill is to be compulsory, and all men who have sufficient reasons for being excused must see Dean Wannamaker at once or they will be expected to drill.

The students are to be divided into three companies. H. Y. Edgerton will command a company to be composed of seniors and juniors, H. M. Hurst will command a company to be composed of sophomores, and C. J. Fisher will command a company to be formed of new men. These officers are only appointed for temporary service. The regular officers and non-commissioned officers will not be selected until a later date.

W. H. Lefler, better known as "Dago," who has been with the Baltimore Orioles the past season, has returned to college and will be a member of the senior class.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF BEN- EFACTIONS TO TRINITY

LIST OF GIFTS TO COLLEGE IS UNUSUALLY LARGE ONE

MANY VALUABLE DONATIONS TO LIBRARY AND NEW EN-DOWMENT FUND

Following the patriotic address delivered in Craven Memorial Hall last Tuesday evening by Hon. James H. Pon, of Raleigh, in celebration of Benefactors' Day, a day put apart annually by the authorities to honor the men and institutions which have made gifts to the college during the year, President W. P. Few read the names of the givers.

The list of names this year is an unusually long one, and included among the gifts represented by the names are many very valuable donations. Outstanding among the gifts is the library of the late John M. Webb, of Bell Buckle, Tenn. This library was given by Mrs. John M. Webb through Professor Albert M. Webb as a memorial gift of the late Mr. Webb. The following is a letter from Professor Webb which sets forth the spirit in which the gift is made:

"My Mother has asked me to present to Trinity College, as a memorial gift from her, the library of my Father, the late John M. Webb, of Bell Buckle, Tennessee. This library was at once the feature and the chief extravagance of our home in Bell Buckle. While its present financial value is not very considerable, it is precious to us, and we feel that it will be a valuable and useful addition to the Library of Trinity. It is given in memory of one of Trinity's devoted and sympathetic friends. We feel that by this making it available to the Trinity College community we can let it continue to be, as it ever was, a source of inspiration to others and the expression of his rich intellectual life.

"We beg of you to accept it as a token of regard and of the sweet affection in which we hold his memory. In this we all join my Mother."

A complete list of the benefactors as read by President Few is as follows:

LITERARY SOCIETIES TAKE IN MORE NEW MEMBERS

INTERESTING PROGRAM WHICH NEW MEN TAKE PART IN—OUTLOOK PROMISING

In spite of the inclement weather, the meeting was well attended. After the regular chaplain duties were performed, the meeting was opened to new men who had been unable to attend previously. Ten new men were presented and initiated, swelling the number that Hesperia has received this year to a total of thirty-six.

W. S. Elias, the orator of the evening, made quite an interesting speech on "The Value of Enthusiasm." The debate, on "Resolved, That the United States is justified in placing an embargo on exports to all neutral European nations," followed. W. A. Thompson, J. D. Jerome, and H. L. Hoffman upheld the affirmative side of the question, while J. B. McCullen and T. P. Thomas opposed them—the third man on the negative team being absent. The judges returned a unanimous decision in favor of the affirmative.

After the debate, an election was held to fill the vacancies caused by the failure of a few of the officers chosen last spring to return. W. S. Elias was elected Vice-President; C. D. Douglas, Treasurer; R. C. Wiggins, critic; R. H. Durham, auditor. Inasmuch as the meeting had been in session an unusually long time, the installation was postponed until the next meeting. After the second roll call, the meeting adjourned.

The new men initiated were: W. D. Niven, F. W. Sandford, G. L. Tyree, R. L. Dunstan, R. S. White, J. S. Chapman, J. B. Mc-

DEAN W. H. WANNAMAKER SPEAKS TO THE Y. M. C. A.

BASES ADDRESS ON STORY OF CREATION AS TOLD IN GENESIS

Urges Students to Take Pride in Their Birthright by Proper Exercise of
Will That They May Become Sons of God

"Man's Great Inheritance Thru His Being Born a Member of the Human Race," was the subject of the address delivered to the Y. M. C. A. on last Wednesday night by Dean W. H. Wannamaker.

Dr. Wannamaker based his remarks on the story of the creation as told in Genesis, chapter I. The Bible speaks of the creation of the world and dwells on the beauty and perfection of it, and arrived at the creation of man with the distinct announcement that he was made superior to it all. The story of the creation in Genesis is told by a wise religious teacher of the primitive people and is very inspiring in a pedagogical way for it is of a nature to make man proud of his inheritance. However, this inheritance is something for which man himself deserves no credit. It comes to him simply by the accident of his being born a human being, and like all other inherited possessions, it may be used or abused; and while man did really come into this possession in a sense, the individual man is often known the better for the fact that he does have this inalienable right of being superior to the rest of the creations in the world. The psalmist in the 8th Psalm himself expressed a wonder that God should declare man superior to the rest of his creations.

In the course of his remarks Dr. Wannamaker further said that the greatest teacher that ever appeared on the earth had advanced much further in his inspiring appeal to men and had pointed out a new and glorious privilege open to all human beings; but that this inheritance depended on not mere chance but on the right to exercise of the will. He quoted from the first chapter of John where it is said that "As many as received Him, to them gave He the power to become the sons of God." While this privilege is open to everybody, the power to secure it depends absolutely on the exercise of the choice of the will in accepting the truth. For as is further said in the seventeenth verse of the seventh chapter of John, it is plainly stated that whosoever wills to do the right will have the power of seeing the truth of the teachings of Jesus Christ. Dr. Wannamaker appealed to all the students of the College, therefore, to recognize their great birthright as pointed out in Genesis and in a sort of pride in this birthright to make a conscientious and consistent effort through the building up of their wills to accept the much greater privilege to which they have the right and thus to raise themselves into the greater privilege of becoming actual sons of God.

TRINITY'S RESPONSE

The spirit which Trinity all along has manifested in response to the call of the country in this critical hour is one which is especially commendable. It was first evidenced last spring when war was declared. Although the time was short and the equipment inferior, Trinity was among the first colleges of the State to inaugurate military training. While attendance on this drill was not then made compulsory, the majority of the students took advantage of it and in an almost miraculously short time under the capable leadership of Professor W. H. Hall, an alumnus of the United States Naval Academy, and Captain Jno. O. Durham of the National Guard, marked progress was made. In order to make this drill accessible to even a greater number of students, the college officials consented to give credit for a three-hour course for the drill if the student was at the time of discontinuation passing the work.

Later when the training camps were opened up, all Seniors and then under-graduates were encouraged to attend if the government saw fit to engage their services. By action of the faculty those who were admitted to these camps or to any other branch of service and were doing satisfactory work at the time of their departure were given credit for a full year's work.

Nor have the authorities been idle during the vacation months. Early last spring the beautiful hill on the campus situated just in front of the new athletic field was ploughed up and planted in various crops. These crops have been harvested and canned. Arrangements have been made to sell these canned goods to the different boarding houses at cost and thus reduce the cost of living for the students.

Again this year arrangements are being made to inaugurate military training. Professor Hall, after additional training at Fort Oglethorpe, is to have charge of the drill. He is to be assisted by J. H. Coman, who received his commission as second lieutenant at Oglethorpe in August. Efforts are being made to secure guns. It is also probable that all participants will wear uniforms. Thus the authorities are entering into the military training wholeheartedly and in a way to excite commendation.

The splendid showing which the Trinity men made at the training camps is well in harmony with the spirit which has characterized the conduct of the College. Over sixty per cent of the Trinity men at Oglethorpe were officers at Columbia; and the majority of those who failed to do so were rejected from the camp on account of physical disabilities. Trinity men won three captainties, more than all of the other colleges in the State together. One of these men, S. S. Alderman, has just returned from New York where he has taken some special work in order to instruct other officers at Columbia; and Captain C. R. Bagley is at present stationed at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, where he is receiving special training in military tactics. He, too, will return later to Columbia to instruct the officers. In the present crises, as at all other times, the College and her sons have made an admirable response to the call to the colors.

R. L. F.

TRINITY AND DURHAM

In connection with the recent holding of the formal opening of Trinity College in a city church and in view of other striking instances of cooperation between the College and the city of Durham, it would seem appropriate to quote in full from a letter of Dr. John F. Crowell, President of the College at the time of its removal, in which he gives his reasons for bringing the College out of a quiet village in Randolph County into this growing center of population and industry:

"The removal of the College grew out of this leavening purpose to infuse into the life of the State a more forceful and better balanced type of individuality as a means of meeting the problems of the day. In the building of the character of the youth, I became convinced after a few years, that the village location was relatively a handicap rather than a help. Modern conditions of business and professional life made the readjustment necessary, and removal from isolation to contact was but an incident in the larger plan and purpose. Removal in itself was, as I saw it, an enduring endowment of resources. There was not meagre enough in the quiet little village of Randolph for the leaven of the larger college ideal to work upon; nor could the College, including students, and faculty and their families, get the needed advantage of contact with the larger municipality with a life of its own—a life that took pride in the work of the College and must in due time see the growing need of transmitting wealth into wisdom and learning. In short, the rural village, with all its merits, was not wide enough a basis on which to work out Trinity's destiny. Only by coupling up this institutional heart of spiritual power and service with the great arteries and veins of modern life could its actual mission be made good."

President Few in his recent report to the Board of Trustees covering the life of the college in Durham and entitled "Twenty-Five Years of Trinity College," added these words:

"And we all feel that this purpose so clearly discerned from the beginning has been fulfilled in the satisfying experiences of these twenty-five years."

NOTICE

There will be an important mass meeting in Craven Memorial Hall tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock. It is important that all loyal Trinity men be present.

W. S. "Jew" Elias was called to service in the army, and left Sunday for his home in Asheville to make a brief stay before reporting to the training camp. Jew will certainly be missed, for he was prominent in many college activities.

only the best business but a profitable business. It was the duty of the strong to overcome the weak. It was the duty of the country to violate treaties when it was to its interest to do so, and to make them only as a matter of expediency. No country has a right to paralyze its future by keeping a treaty. The noblest calling for any man was warfare. Men were made to be soldiers.

The German writer further stated that men sometimes spoke about God. But these were foolish people, for God was dead. These are concrete expressions of Prussian thought. For a long time the world could not realize what these expressions meant. But now when they are being put into practice, when poisonous gases are being used on every side, when scientific methods are being used for the spread of disease among women and children, when peaceful fields are being devastated, the world stands aghast. And the greatest danger of it all, the greatest danger of Prussianism is that these people believe in these things and cannot understand why the civilized world does not. They have become a part of the life of the people. So any peace short of victory is a compromise. If America had entered the war in 1915, the great conflict would have been over, but if she makes peace now, it will only cause a delay. If this is to be a fit country in which to live, Prussian ideals simply must be crushed and crushed completely. It is, therefore, the patriotic duty of all American not to pray for an early peace but for a decisive victory and thus guarantee perpetual peace.

In conclusion Mr. Pou gave five suggestions which embodied the duty of American citizens in this hour of tragedy. In substance they stated that no one should during this war do anything that would embarrass our government or weaken the patriotism of our people, but should do everything that the government asked to carry on this war. No man should be considered for an office who does not give his earnest support to the government in the prosecution of this war. And finally, when the conflict is over and the period of stagnation sets in, preference in positions should be given to those who have taken an active part in the war.

PARK SCHOOL NOTES

The Park School is beginning its third week of the scholastic year with prospects for an excellent year's work. Students are still entering, and the Headmaster is expecting several more new men this week. The enrollment is larger at the present time than it was at the corresponding date of last year.

Reverend Harry M. North, Pastor of Memorial Church, delivered a very interesting address before the Y. M. C. A. on last Thursday night. The Association is planning to have a revival in the near future, but the speaker has not been chosen.

The Calhoun and the Grady Literary Societies initiated their new members on last Friday night, at which time the Calhoun received into membership thirty-two and the Grady twenty-three. After the formal initiation, each of the new members was called upon for a short talk. Each of them responded with such a good talk that we feel sure Trinity Park School will have some good speakers to contest for the medals which the School and Societies offer.

Arrangements have almost been completed for military training, and active work under the direction of Professor J. H. Coman, of Trinity College, will begin in a few days. The drilling will be compulsory for all students whose parents do not object to their taking it.

At a recent meeting of the Senior Class, the following officers were elected for the year: J. C. Knox, President; L. W. Northington, Vice-President; and Calie Phillips, Secretary and Treasurer.

Mr. T. K. Adams, of Faison, N. C., spent last Thursday on the campus after having entered his son in the Park School. Mr. C. W. Finch, of Henderson, visited his son on Sunday.

RIFLE CLUB ANNOUNCEMENT

The first meeting of the proposed Trinity Rifle Club has been postponed on account of the absence of Mr. I. G. Hersey from the city. Mr. Hersey is secretary of the Durham Rifle Club, and he will be asked to help in organizing the club at Trinity. The first meeting will be held sometime during the early part of next week.

The Historical Society met last Monday night for the first time this year and elected the following officers: Dr. W. K. Boyd, president; C. M. McKinney, vice-president; R. K. Smathers, secretary; S. M. Neal, collector of material for the museum. Dr. Boyd announced that the work of the Society was devoted to North Carolina, and that there would be a $25 prize for the best historical essay.
