TRINITY QUINT LOSES FINAL GAME TO V. M. I.

TEAM WINS SIX GAMES OUT OF ELEVEN DURING SEASON

HOLDS HIGH RECORD WITH STRONG TEAMS OF STATE

Virginia Trip not so Successful as in Former Years—Record of the Individual Players

Trinity's 1919 basketball season came to a close last Wednesday night when the Methodist basketballers sustained a defeat of 32 to 19 at the hands of the V. M. I. tigers at Lexington. The game was the third of the Virginia series, but unlike the two preceding games the Trinity quint went into the game with the old time spirit to win. The game was hard fought throughout and characterized by excellent passing and splendid teamwork on the part of the Methodistists.

Despite this splendid exhibition of passing, the Trinity contingent was unable to check the scoring started by the cadets in the early part of the game. The first half ended 19-4 for the Virginians. For the victorious cadets, the work of Bacharach as right guard was the outstanding feature. This giant cadet not only played a splendid game but individually contributed exactly one-third of his team's total number of points. The work of Sullivan at left forward also deserves special mention. For Trinity, the work of Starling at left forward, Captain Cole at left forward, and Page at center were the chief factors in holding the Virginia team.

The line-up:

Trinity	V. M. I.
Starling (11)	Bunting (6)
	L. F.
Cole (4)	Sullivan (8)
	R. F.
	C.
Aldridge	Bacharach (12)
	R. G.
Hathaway,	Shannon, Thomas,
	Campbell (4)
	L. G.

With the losing of the final game of the season to V. M. I. last Wednesday night, Trinity emerged from the 1919 season with a total of six wins out of eleven encounters with strong opponents throughout Virginia and North Carolina. Although the Virginia trip proved disastrous this year, it must be remembered that the Methodist quint played the entire season without the aid of a coach. Under the pilotage of Manager Frank Wannamaker and Captain Henry Cole, the Trinity contingent has beaten the strongest teams of the State and emerged with a total of 225 points against that of 163 made by the opposing teams of the State.

As is the usual run of things at the beginning of the varsity basketball season, the Methodist aggregation first encountered the strong Durham Y. M. C. A. team. This engagement ended in a 39-34 victory for the Trinityans and caused Methodist stock to soar high for State honors. In the first

Sigma Chi Fraternity Holds Annual Initiation

On Tuesday evening of this week the Beta Lambda Chapter of the Sigma Chi Fraternity held its regular annual initiation. The initiates were J. D. Johnson, of Garland, N. C.; Robert O. Burton, of Nashville, N. C.; Gordon Vestal, of Rocky Mount, N. C.; and Martin Walt, III, of West Plains, Mo.

Immediately after the initiation a banquet was served in honor of the new men and during the course of the evening some very interesting and entertaining talks were made by the visiting alumni. Those present at the banquet were: active members, C. C. Alexander, Claude B. Cooper, E. M. Knox, E. M. Thompson, S. T. Carson, Jr., G. B. Daniel, E. F. Dunstan, W. N. Evans, Jr., James Leyburn, J. Earl Gilbreath; members from Alpha Tau Chapter of U. N. C., J. H. Bonner, Dan Holges, William French, David Duncan, Banks Bencini, Ben Whiting, Lawrence Ingram, Robin Phillips, and Coles Bristol; W. H. Powell and H. A. Moddiox, of the alumni, and O. L. Skinner and George Tandy, of Durham, were also present.

Rev. E. C. Fow, '17, was on the campus last Friday.

CAMPAIGN TO BE DIRECTED BY ALUMNI OF THE COLLEGE

M. E. Newsom, President of Alumni Association, Campaign Director for Fund

Plans for a new gymnasium at Trinity, which were started about two years ago by Bishop J. C. Kilgo, seem to have taken on new and effective emphasis last Friday when representative alumni from over the State met here and decided to push rapidly forward the securing of funds and the erection of a magnificent building as a memorial to the sons of Trinity who took part in the war, and especially to those who made the supreme sacrifice.

Mr. C. C. Hook, the College architect, was present at this meeting and presented plans which were heartily approved by all present. These plans were similar to those formerly presented with the addition of a large swimming pool at the rear of the building and an octagonal rotunda at the front, in which there are to be placed stone tablets, bronze busts, or other suitable memorials to the men who served their country in the recent conflict. Some permanent record will be placed in this rotunda of all the men who were in the service, very probably marble tablets being used. Two or more ideas are being considered as to the most appropriate form of memorials to be used for the score or more who gave their lives. One of these plans is to place a large and brilliant star for each man in the tower which is to rise above the rotunda, and the other is to place a bronze bust of each in the rotunda. These details are to be decided upon later.

It will be recalled that about one year ago the alumni were going rapidly forward with subscriptions for a new gymnasium. The plans then proposed the erection of a building at the cost of about $50,000. Mr. M. E. Newsom, Jr., who is president of the Alumni Association, was campaign director at that time and had reported over half of the required sum as subscribed. Later in the spring, however, it was decided to discontinue the effort until after the war. It was a resumption of this work which resulted in the meeting of alumni which was called by Mr. Newsom last Friday.

The building which is now being planned is to be erected by the alumni of the College and is estimated to cost about $75,000. It is to be used for alumni reunions and banquets of various organizations. It will be equipped with a complete kitchen and will have the biggest floor space of any building on the campus. In the spacious dome which is to rise over the main body of the building there are to be built-in balconies equipped with seats

SOCIETY PROGRAMS HELD FRIDAY NIGHT

Columbia Holds Open House Debate;
Hesperia Discusses Compulsory
Society Membership

Owing to the fact that the societies have been prevented from holding some of their meetings this year, and also the fact that the Annual Inter-society debate was held last Saturday evening, it was deemed wise and expedient to hold the regular weekly meeting last Friday evening.

In the Columbian Society, O. T. Bradley and A. W. Oaks delivered interesting orations. The regular debate was dispensed with and in its stead an open house debate was held on the following question: Resolved, That President Wilson was justified in making his trip to France. The following men participated: J. E. Gilbreath, H. W. Carter, J. E. Ramsey, R. K. Smathers, L. H. McNeely, and J. W. Norton.

J. D. Lewis and Wesley Taylor were the authors of two interesting orations in the Hesperian Society. The question discussed in the debate was as follows: Resolved, That all students in Trinity College should be compelled to join one of the two literary societies. K. W. Partin and W. A. Thompson successfully defended this question against the onslaughts of the negative, composed of H. C. Ripple and W. S. Elias.

Fortnightly Club Holds Semi-Monthly Meeting

Like many other college activities, the Fortnightly Club of the Sigma Upsilon Fraternity was suspended during the fall term. But having recently re-organized, the Club held its first regular meeting of this year last Monday evening. Dr. F. C. Brown, president of the organization, presided over the meeting.

An interesting literary program was rendered.

Clyde Brown read a delightful story, "The Reminiscences of Punch." The story is of the typical O'Henry style and was extremely well written. This is the story that won the prize in the sophomore short-story contest in 1917.

Another story of unusual merit, "The Legend of Aleazar," was read by Claude Cooper. This story deals with the gruesome, the supernatural. It relates a series of almost supernatural events, happening within the Castle of Aleazar.

After the program was finished, a pleasant social half-hour was spent, during which "eats" and smokes were served.

Ensign W. H. Powell, '17, who was recently discharged from the Navy, spent several days on the campus this week.

HESPERIA WINNER IN 27TH ANNUAL DEBATE

RAILROAD CONTROL ACCORD-ING TO McADOO PLAN
DISCUSSED

COLUMBIA GIVES RECEPTION IN HONOR OF THE DEBATERS

N. M. West Chosen as Third Man to Oppose Swarthmore; C. C. Alexander as Alternate

In the twenty-seventh annual inter-society debate, which took place Saturday night at 8 P. M. in the Y. M. C. A. Hall in the East Duke building the Hesperian team won a victory for Hesperia over Columbia. The question was: "Resolved, That the Federal Government should continue to control and operate the railroads for a period of five years, according to the plan of Mr. McAdoo." The decision was unanimously in favor of the affirmative, represented by Hesperia. The speakers for the affirmative were: R. L. Thornton, New Bern, N. C.; S. M. Holton, Durham, N. C.; and C. C. Alexander, Martin, Tenn., while the negative (Columbia), was represented by C. B. Cooper, Wilmington, N. C.; L. H. McNeely, and N. M. West, Zara, N. C.

The annual inter-society debate is a big feature in college activities. It formerly occupied the chief place in forensic honors, but is now a sort of mid-way station, serving as a preliminary for the intercollegiate debates. However the inter-society debate still calls forth as much interest as of yore, and induces the debaters to put forth additional effort in that a higher goal is offered. Each society holds a preliminary contest about two weeks before the regular inter-society debate is held. From the contestants in this preliminary each society selects a team to represent it in the annual debate. From the speakers in this contest are chosen the men to represent the college in the inter-collegiate contests that are now held each year.

Formerly it has been the custom to hold the inter-society debate on the last Saturday night before the Christmas holidays, but owing to the unsettled conditions which prevailed while the S. A. T. C. was here last fall, the literary societies were practically inactive until college work was resumed in its old form after the holidays.

The debate was interesting from the start, and the outcome was by no means certain. The speakers all had their material well in hand, and some strong points were forcibly made by both sides. Because of the fact that every man was well qualified for his part, the debate was lively, and at time during the rejoinders, it might be said that the discussion verged on becoming heated. According to some critics who have expressed themselves upon the subject, the hot rejoinder made by Mr. Alexander, who appeared last for the affirmative, was the winning factor.

The speeches in brief follow in the order of the speakers:

Alas, the photographer is gone.

Everybody, all together, on for the new gymnasium!

What about the "At Home Reception" given by the young women students last Thursday?

The Government's plan concerning railroad operation is evidently settled until the Trinity-Swarthmore debate comes off.

Some have asked why male students pass near the Alspaugh Hall in the early morning; others have asked for what purpose were shades put on the windows of that building.

THE NEW GYM

If we are to put faith in plans that appear to be materializing rapidly, within the near future Trinity is to have a magnificent, spacious, and adequately equipped gymnasium. This movement symbolizes a spirit that is dominating the friends and alumni of the College.

The present war has awakened the nation to the importance of physical development and the value of virile manhood. It is in response to this awakening that friends of Trinity College will erect this gymnasium by way of providing better facilities for physical development of Trinity students. This building, according to plans, will be something for Trinity, her sons, and her patrons, to be proud of.

If the present generation of students does not realize the need of a broader and more sensible scope of physical development and get this spirit that dominates the donors, to this cause, they will be as if they were sleeping. They should build up such a spirit on the campus that in the future the College will continue to turn out men, not mollycoddles. If the students in the future do not make use of all the facilities furnished them to develop into mental and physical men, they will be guilty of gross ingratitude.

On the other hand, it might be well for the administration to guard against crippling the purpose of the benefactors and the service to be derived from such a resource as the proposed gymnasium is to be. This crippling may come about by the holding of such regulations over the students as will make their institution unattractive for strong men and by ruling against such sports and indulgences as are calculated to cause the students to take interest in athletics and physical development. On for a greater and stronger Trinity!

Classical and Biology Clubs Organize for Work

The Classical Club, which is composed of students who are taking higher elective courses in either the Latin or Greek departments, was reorganized last Thursday night. The initiation of new members took place Friday night. The initiates were: J. E. Ramsey, Eugene Chesson, D. W. Kanoy, and A. B. Wilkins.

On last Wednesday night the Biology Club was organized, and a program of regular weekly meetings, which are to come on Monday nights, was arranged for. Membership in this club is restricted to those students who are taking advanced courses in Biology. The following officers were elected for the spring term: Professor Cunningham, president; G. W. Murphy, secretary and treasurer.

were M. L. Wilson, E. E. Snow, and C. W. Durham. Those selected were M. L. Wilson and E. E. Snow. As this was the time for the inter-society debate at the college, society was adjourned and its members went over to the debate at the college.

The Grady Society, at its regular Saturday night meeting last week debated the question, Resolved, That the Southern States were justified in seceding from the Union. The decision was given to the affirmative, composed of G. W. Brantley, W. H. Smith, and B. F. Batts, while the negative was represented by O. Z. Gentry, W. C. Thompson, and R. S. Edwards. The declaimers for the meeting were W. R. Perkins, and H. C. Woolard. Readers were E. L. Harris and W. C. Vaughan, and music was furnished by J. W. Ross and W. H. Smith.

Thornton

Private operation of the railroads under the control of the Interstate Commerce Commission has been inefficient and inadequate, and a radical change was required to prevent a complete breakdown of the nation's transportation systems. Acts passed by the Commissions have resulted in losses to private owners, and many railroad lines have gone into the hands of receivers. The railroad companies have been unable to settle the disputes which have arisen between employer and employee. Government intervention has been necessary to settle labor troubles. The executives of the railroads then attempted to effect the necessary transportation by co-ordinating their operations, but the result of eight months showed conditions worse than before.

On December 28, 1917, the Government assumed control and operation of each transportation system in the United States, guaranteeing an annual income and an adequate maintenance of the properties. Great efficiency has resulted from government operation; delay and inconveniences have been eliminated, although abnormal conditions existed.

Improvements are considered necessary, such as, (1) the standardization of cars and locomotives, (2) the further consolidation of terminals, (3) a complete co-ordination of the rail and water transportation system.

Cooper At the beginning of the European war in 1914 the railroads of the United States were in a flourishing condition. As the war in Europe progressed, industrial conditions in the United States became threatening on account of labor troubles, and in 1916 the Adamson Act was passed in hope of a permanent settlement. Finding that the Adamson Act had failed to accomplish the desired results, and in view of the fact that the U. S. had been drawn into the war, Congress passed legislation allowing the President to control the railroads for a period lasting until twenty-one months after the conclusion of peace. The railroads have been operated by the Government for a period of over one year and during this time the public has had the most inefficient service at the highest rates ever paid. This proves the fact that if the Government made a failure in one year at increased rates in five years the result would be five times as great; thus, a plan of an extension of the present Government operation plan would not be for the best interest of the country.

Holton

Judging from past statistics, it is absurd to believe that the railroads could remain out of the hands of the receivers if turned back to the private owners in the near future. It would be disastrous to our transportation system to turn the roads back to their owners before conditions could be readjusted and stabilized. Since many of the railroads would go into the hands of the receivers if turned back to private owners, the common stock holders would lose the money sharks who happen to hold security on the roads. As many of the stock holders are just average citizens depending upon their dividends from these shares for their living, the return of the railroads to the private owners under the present conditions would prove a great misfortune to thousands of common stock holders.

McNeely

The existing status provides sufficient time for Congress to enact appropriate legislation for re-establishing the railroads to a pre-war status. Mr. McAdoo's plan fails in that it does not include the primary requisite in the process of readjustment and reconstruction; namely, definite and permanent settlement.

Moreover, his plan is approved only by a few contriving politicians and railroad employees, who have been favored by high wages under government control. Neither Congress nor the public accepts it as a solution for the railroad problem.

Alexander

Government control of the railroads for the next five years will be for the best interest of the public because conditions are such that under private control the roads cannot remain solvent; and any loss to the railroad system would likewise prove a loss to the public. Also since the Government is to have control of the merchant marine for the next five years, it is essential that it control and co-operate the land transportation system, the railroads, with it. Again the Government control of railroads and regulation of the wages of railroad laborers would help to stabilize labor conditions during the period of readjustment which we are facing. Considering the expense saved on transportation of war materials, the Government in reality did not lose on the control of railroads in 1918. Since it is evident that the Government can operate the railroads at a saving, and Government control would be for best interest of the railroads, the stock holders, and the public during the next five years, this is the wise policy to pursue.

West

A five year extension of Government control and operation would very probably lead to permanent ownership. Three things would tend to produce such a result. First, the continuation of the governmental "scrambling" process for five more years would destroy to a great extent the identity of the different roads. Secondly, at the end of five years the roads would be in such a financial condition that a return to the private owners would cause bankruptcy. Thirdly, on account of the high wages paid by the Government, the employees would form a political machine to work for the establishment of government ownership.

The history of government business, however, shows conclusively that the government is never a successful enterpriser.

Furthermore, it is quite possible to adopt an intermediate course of modified private control under a more unified and affirmative public regulation. Such a general plan, retaining the advantages of private initiative and enterprise, would eliminate the defects of government control and operation.

After the main speeches, which occupied twelve minutes each, five minute rejoinders were made by each speaker, following in the order, Cooper, Thornton, McNeely, Holton, West, and Alexander. When the time-keeper called time on the last man, the audience awaited the decision of the judges, who passed their votes individually, and when read, proved to be unanimously in favor of the affirmative.

In addition to the inter-collegiate debaters already in college, it was announced that one other would be selected from the Inter-Society Debate to make the third member of the team that is to meet Swarthmore at that institution on March 15. N. M. West, of the negative, was chosen to fill this place, with C. C. Alexander as alternate.

The judges for the debate were: Hon. W. G. Bramham, of Durham; Prof. A. C. McIntosh, of Chapel Hill; and F. H. Hallenbeck, principal of the Durham High School. Dean W. H. Wanamaker acted as presiding officer, while Prof. F. S. Aldridge served as time-keeper.

The debaters, judges, and other officials of the contest, as well as many other enthusiasts of the development of the forensic art, were invited to the Columbian Literary Society Hall after the debate, and a very enjoyable smoker in honor of the debaters took place.

TRINITY QUINT LOSES FINAL GAME TO V. M. I.

inter-collegiate game of the season, Trinity met her old time rival, Wake Forest, on the local floor and walked away with first honors by a well margined score of 41-20. The Trinity tossers played all round better basketball than their Baptist opponents and settled once for all Wake Forest's chances for State honors.

The first reverse of the season was met when the N. C. State contingent walked away with an easy victory on the Raleigh auditorium court in the first game of the series with the Aggie tossers. Although Trinity men did splendid work, they were unable to cut down the lead which the Aggies gained early in the contest, and the game ended 28-18 for A. & E.

Once again on the local floor, the Methodists garnered an easy victory with the Guilford team, netting a total of forty-seven points against the total of nineteen registered by the Quakers. In this encounter, the second string men were given an opportunity at the tossing and succeeded in demonstrating their ability to pile up a creditable score.

The second game with State College, which was played on the local floor, was by far the best demonstration of the indoor sport seen in the Trinity gymnasium this season. In this game, the Methodists obtained revenge from the defeat administered by the Techs in Raleigh. By hard playing, systematic passing, and accurate shooting, the Trinitians gained a 22-19 victory over their adversaries.

On the Western North Carolina trip, both Elon and Guilford lowered their flags to the local team in games won by well margined scores. Then in the last game of the season on the local floor, Trinity lost to Davidson by a narrow margin of 20 to 19. The contest was hard fought from beginning to end, but the Presbyterian "Wildcats" stole a march on their Methodist adversaries early in the game and despite the frantic playing of the Trinity men, managed to escape with a one point victory.

The Virginia trip, contrary to precedent established in the past, this year proved decidedly disastrous to the Methodist quint. In all three contests, the University of Virginia, Washington and Lee, and V. M. I., the Trinity tossers suffered defeat at the hands of the Virginians. The season closed with the game with V. M. I. at Lexington.

According to statistics compiled the Trinity team scored a total of 275 points. The Methodist left forward, Starlings, has the honor of placing the largest aggregate of points to his teams credit, making a total of eighty-three points in the eleven games in which he participated. Captain Cole is next, having participated in ten games and amassing a total of sixty points. Page follows with forty-nine, Aldridge with thirty-one, and Hathaway with fourteen. To Starlings also belongs the credit of scoring forty field goals, the largest number of baskets secured by any man on the team during the season. Page comes second with twenty-seven, Captain Cole next, with seventeen, Aldridge follows with eighteen, and Hathaway with nine.

The record of each Trinity player, the number of games in which he played, number of field goals and foul goals accredited to him follows:

Remember Well to Bear in Mind
A Faithful Friend is Hard to Find

Socrates once built a house, and everybody who saw it had something or other to say against it. "What a front!" said one. "What an inside!" said another. "What rooms! not big enough to turn around in," said a third. "Small as it is," answered Socrates, "I wish I had true friends enough to fill it."

Friends true and tried are not as numerous as we suppose. When the sunshines and everything is lovely, friendship is one thing. When things go "dead wrong," friendship is altogether a different proposition.

A never failing friend is a BANK ACCOUNT, and the FIRST NATIONAL BANK has a long list of friends that has never failed it, and there are hundreds ready to testify that often times the FIRST NATIONAL BANK has proven a FRIEND IN-DEED.

There are two sides to Banking, one is to keep the rudder true and to earn dividends for the Stockholders. The other side is the human side, which is really the better and bigger side.

To be ready with the Life Line to aid and assist the unfortunate, but worthy derelict. Sooner would the FIRST NATIONAL BANK close its doors and go out of business, rather than to be unkindful of its obligations to humanity, and do business only to profit its Stockholders.

Try us—let us be your friend. We have more than doubled our Capital Stock—once $150,000, now $400,000. We are better prepared than ever to serve the public. The glad hand awaits you. Come.
