INTEREST MANIFESTED ON BENEFACTOR'S DAY

GREATER TRINITY COLLEGE WAS

ON HOLIDAY

Several Speakers Deliver Addresses Before Audiences of Alumni and Friends of College

The idea of a greater Trinity College through the closer relationship of the alumni and the institution was the main feature of the Benefactors' Day exercises held on the campus Thursday night and Friday. The series of programs were attended by a large number of the alumni, as well as citizens of the state, who heartily endorsed the promulgation of a new spirit of co-operation.

One of the most important actions taken by the Board of Trustees while in session here Friday, was the adoption of the plan suggested by Prof. R. L. Flowers to employ a secretary to devote his full time to the interests of the Alumni Council. The work of this secretary is to consist of keeping in touch with the alumni as individuals, keeping in touch with the high schools in the state, and keeping the friends of the college informed of its work. The most important duty of this all-time secretary for the present, however, is the work of securing and collecting subscriptions for the erection of an Alumni Memorial Gymnasium, which will be left entirely in his hands.

The opening exercises of Benefactors' Day were held in Craven Memorial Hall Thursday night, October 2. President W. P. Few was presiding officer of the evening. Two very important gifts were announced, as follows:

For current expenses during the year, $24,000 by Messrs. B. N. and J. B. Duke. This gift was made by these benefactors of the college in order that the college might avoid serious retrenchment during the present scholastic year.

Sixty thousand dollars has been raised by the friends of Trinity College for the purpose of building a Memorial Gymnasium. This donation represents the first general, large movement on the part of the alumni to meet the material needs of the college.

Aside from these two outstanding gifts, Dr. Few announced many smaller gifts. The largest of these was $5,000 given to the B. D. Heath Scholarship and Loan Funds by the late B. D. Heath, of Charlotte.

The remainder of the gifts announced is as follows: John T. Ring Memorial Scholarship, $1,000; John W. Neal Memorial Loan Fund, $1,000; Rev. G. W. Vick and Wife, gift towards establishing A. D. Betts Loan Fund, $1,000.

LITERARY SOCIETIES INITIATE MORE MEN

Forty-one New Men Secured by Hesperia, while Columbia Added Six New Names

The literary societies held their regular meetings Saturday night.

The Hesperia Society had as orators for the meeting T. P. Thomas and E. W. Finch. Both men made creditable speeches which were well received by one of the largest audiences the society has had in some time. Extensive speeches were made by T. R. Wagner, W. E. Powell, T. A. Banks, L. M. Draper, W. G. Murphy, and W. N. Evans, Jr. On account of the initiation of new men, the debate was dispensed with, and a three-minute recess was taken. After this a call for names of new members was made, and forty-one were presented. Twenty-nine of these were present and were initiated into the society, and a short speech was heard from each new man.

N. C. Teague, W. C. Merritt, and Jesse Carpenter were the orators for the Columbian Society. Extensive speeches were made by A. H. Gwyn, and W. R. Rollins. The query for debate was: "Resolved that the manufacture and sale of tobacco should be prohibited before December 31, 1925." The affirmative was represented by Messrs. Stolk, Gibbs, and Telfer, while Messrs. Cooper, Grigg, and Jackson successfully upheld the negative. During the meeting six men were initiated into the society and three old men were reinstated into full membership.

Young Holton '07 in memory of their only son who died September 26.

Following Dr. Few, Mr. J. H. Separk '98, president of the Alumni Council spoke on the subject of "The Graduate and His College." He pointed out the fact that Trinity College did not keep in close enough touch with her graduates. Touching on the subject of college athletics the speaker said, "There are people in college and out of the college who are opposed to intercollegiate athletics here. In every institution where they have certain intercollegiate athletics there seems to be a kind of spirit that Trinity College does not have throughout the state of North Carolina and throughout the South. It is a part of the college and a part of the spirit of the college to put into the men who are students of the college a little more of the spirit of the college when there is a system of clean, wholesome and interesting athletics." Mr. Separk severely criticised these persons who were so ignorant as to say that Trinity College is a rich institution and hence does not need any help. He contrasted the college with a large business enterprise which always needs more capital, if it is to function properly and successfully. He stated the creed of Trinity College thus: "It is the hope of this institution to bring out of every man and woman the very best of

ANNUAL INITIATION OF TOMBS TUESDAY NIGHT

"PEANUT-BUTTER HIT ME HARDER" HEARD OVER CAMPUS ONCE MORE

FIFTEEN GOATS SUFFER MYSTIC ORDER TORTURE

Minstrel Show Featured in Program at Shack—Banquet to be Held Tonight

Promptly at 7:30 Tuesday night there assembled around the flag-pole all the old Tombs men, their numbers swelled by members of former years, all with the intent of picking on fifteen poor goats. The goats were blindfolded, and marched in true Tombs fashion around the park for about half an hour to the tune of the reprehensible "Peanut-butter, hit me harder." Sounds of paddles that made music like tinkling symbols and sounding brass rang out over the campus, and the first stage of the annual Tombs initiation was on. After the goats were prepared to eat off the mantle for a few days, and it was assured that each and every man would carry a pillow with him the next day, the entire body repaired to Alspaugh Hall to amuse the co-eds for a time.

The Tombs Greater Dixie Minstrels, presented by Gds Fields, was the act given at the Fraus-hack. T. P. Thomas acted as inter-locutor, while Sir William Towse and Squire Clay Wynn were end men, (bones). The program, which lasted more than an hour, was as follows:

HOT CONTACT WAGING OVER INTERCLASS CHAMPIONSHIP

Juniors and Freshmen Both Showing Good Form—Sophomores and Seniors Lose

The outcome of the interclass baseball series to date puts the juniors in the lead with a percentage of 666, while the seniors are at the bottom with 333. The sophomore and freshman teams have each won one game and lost one, while the juniors have played three and won two, and the seniors lost two out of three. In all probability it will be necessary to play more games than were on the original schedule to determine the champion.

In the first game of the series, played on Hanes Athletic Field last Wednesday, the Seniors trimmed the freshman team by a score of 12 to 11. The game was characterized by hitting, running, and a number of errors. Nevertheless, a number of enthusiastic supporters for either team were on hand furnishing pep for the contest. The freshmen exhibited some very good material, however, and it is predicted a large number of strong men can be developed from such a beginning.

Thursday afternoon the juniors met the sophomores and sent them down in defeat by a score of 8 to 7 in a ten inning game. Starting started on the mound for the juniors, but was relieved by Brady

MUSICAL PROGRAM Y. M. C. A. MEETING

Mrs. W. W. Card and Others Furnish Musical Treat to Y.M.C.A. Wednesday Night

The first regular meeting of the college Y. M. C. A. was held last Wednesday night before a large and appreciative audience. A musical program was given by Mrs. Card Misses Elizabeth Card, Dorris Overton, Estelle Warlick and Mr. James Leyburn. This new feature of the Y. M. C. A. work delighted all who were present and the musical programs planned for the future promise to interest the entire student body.

On Wednesday night of this week President W. P. Few will address the Y. M. C. A. and the usual large number is expected to hear him.

The ministerial Band held its regular weekly meeting last Friday evening. The meeting was well attended and an interesting prayer service was held. Mr. Richmond made the principal talk of the evening along the line of the duty of a ministerial student toward the other men in college. Messrs. Maxwell, Long, Chesson, and Tanaka made short talks, relating some of their personal experiences of a religious nature.

The Classical Club will hold its second fortnightly meeting in room 2 A, West Duke building, on Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock. A. B. Wilkins, of the class of '21, will read a review of an article on "The Number Three," "Mysterious Mystic Maggie," by Professor Lease of the College of the City of New York.

The freshman class held a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Hall in the East Duke Building Monday afternoon and elected officers for the year. The election was as follows: president, James Anderson; vice-president, J. M. Holding; secretary and treasurer, Miss Flora Meredith; representative on athletic council, Ed. Brown.

A committee was appointed by the president to select class colors and design a pennant, subject to the approval of the class.

Among the visitors on the campus on Benefactors day were the following alumni:

- J. H. Separk—Gastonia, N. C.
- R. A. Mayer—Charlotte.

MEMORIAL GYMNASIUM PLANS PROGRESSING

PERMANENT SECRETARY SECURED BY ALUMNI COUNCIL TO COLLECT SUBSCRIPTIONS

$60,000 FUND SUBSCRIBED BY FRIENDS AND ALUMNI

Board of Trustees and Alumni Council Postpone Election Pending Strike Conditions

Considerable light was thrown on the gymnasium plans by the meeting of the Board of Trustees and the officers of the Alumni Council at the college on Benefactors' Day. It was announced at that time, as appears elsewhere in the CHRONICLE, that $60,000 has been subscribed by the alumni, friends, and students of the college. The remainder of the funds necessary for the erection of the Memorial will be raised in the near future, and definite steps were taken by the men in charge of the movement to get action on the matter just as soon as possible.

The Alumni Council requested the Board of Trustees to meet Benefactors' Day in order to discuss the erection of the Alumni Memorial Gymnasium. The Alumni Council has undertaken to raise by subscription the amount necessary to build and equip the gymnasium as planned. $60,000 of the amount has been subscribed. The Board of Trustees authorized the securing of a secretary, to be paid by the Board, to devote all of his time to the interests of the Alumni Council. This means that the secretary will have charge of the subscription lists and will push the matter of further subscriptions and collections as fast as possible. The Board of Trustees and the Alumni Council both deemed it wise, however, on account of the labor strike and other market and steel conditions, to postpone construction for a while at least, instead of beginning work immediately as had been planned previously.

The Board of Trustees agreed, also, to take such steps as were necessary to insure the continuing of the work after it once begins, and push it to completion, rather than allow the construction to be delayed on account of lack of collections. After the full amount necessary to cover the estimated cost of the gymnasium has been subscribed, or pledged, and the first installment is in hand, definite action will be taken by the Trustees to place a contract.

The Alumni Council is confident that subscriptions will be sent in much faster than before, now that the plan is assuming a definite form. It is particularly desirable that all classes should promptly complete arrangements for their class gifts to the gymnasium fund. With $60,000 already pledged, an all-time secretary authorized, and with the co-operation of the Board of Trustees, it is quite safe to say that Trinity College will soon have one of the best gymnasiums in the South.

Joe Brendell, '19, is a visitor on the campus.

PARAGRAPHS

Al G. Field was put to shame by the Tombs Minstrel.

If one poor unassuming cow started the Chicago fire by kicking over a milk pail, and overturning a lamp, it is not surprising that there was something stirring when a Trinity student was hit in the head with a bottle thrown from the darkness.

Some excellent, but hitherto unheard of, track material has developed since Sunday night.

Football practice seems to have given way to interclass baseball. The Chronicle suggests the abolishment of one or the other, if both cannot be done well when carried on at the same time.

TRINITY SPIRIT

One of the speakers on Benefactors' Day said that "in most colleges where there are incollegiate athletics there is a spirit which is lacking in the Trinity College students." This remark is cutting, no doubt, to a great many loyal Trinity students, who feel that they have as much college spirit as the students of any institution. Nevertheless, we must admit that the statement is true, to a certain extent, and for an alumnus, who may judge the college from the standpoint of an interested outsider, to be forced to make such an admission for us, is deplorable, to say the least. The Chronicle firmly believes that Trinity students have the spirit, but that that spirit is not evidenced as it should be. Trinity College has a reputation for clean athletics. No other college in the state has a reputation so enviable in this respect as Trinity. Furthermore, our teams are nearly always winning teams. Trinity takes more than her share of the state championships, and puts up a close fight for those she doesn't win. There is no evident reason why we should not have the spirit. The Chronicle believes the trouble lies in the fact that there are so many outside attractions in Durham that the student-body is often divided upon occasions when a call for college spirit is made. The remedy lies wholly in unity. As individuals, let us not be indifferent, and think the other fellow will go out to the games and root for the team. Be on hand yourself, and back up the teams with all your might. Let nothing short of a fatal accident keep you away from the zone of action when you know you are needed. It is up to the students to see that such an admission, or such a charge, as the case may be, will not be warranted in the future.

which he or she is capable" and he showed that in order to accomplish this end she must have more money. In closing his address, Mr. Separk stated the success with which the Gymnasium movement had met, giving as the ideal of those who are pushing this movement this sentence, "Just as sure as God reigns in Heaven, we are going to build a Memorial Gymnasium here in Durham."

Speaking on the subject of a memorial to James H. Southgate, a late benefactor of the college, Mr. R. O. Everett, the originator of the Southgate Memorial Association, proposed the erection at a later date of a Southgate Memorial Building somewhere on the campus to serve as a nucleus for a woman's college. Mr. Everett stated that this would be a very fitting memorial to Mr. Southgate since it would not only be a monument to him, but it would also be carrying out one of his great ideals, the education of women.

In introducing General J. S. Carr, president of the Southgate Memorial Association, Dr. Few stated that it was General Carr who gave nearly all the land on which the present college buildings stand. General Carr paid a very fine compliment to Dr. Few by saying that next to Dr. Braxton Craven he held President Few as the greatest leader in whom the trust of the institution has been placed. General Carr named a committee of ten prominent men whose duty it shall be to push this Southgate Memorial to a finish. He closed with the assurance that this movement had his hearty support.

FRIDAY MORNING SESSION

The meeting was presided over by J. H. Separk '96, of Gastonia. Speeches were made by Professor R. L. Flowers, Reverend J. M. Daniels '08, Dunn, North Carolina, and A. H. Gwyn, Trinity College.

Professor Flowers speaking on the subject, "What the Graduate Can Do Through Organized Form," spoke in substance as follows: "This is an opportune time for all of us to think and think seriously in regard to what can be done for Trinity College. All resources are taxed to their utmost, and students have been away because of the lack of accommodations. We have made progress in the past and we are making progress at the present, but we all realize that if we wish to go ahead and fill out the destiny which is set before us, we must have the whole and hearty support of all. We want to form an American Federation of Labor, but for the purpose of being able to turn out more efficient material. We want to make our organization just as efficient as possible.

This institution is blessed in many ways. With a great religious body behind it, a co-operative body of alumni, and a competent board of trustees, Trinity College is indeed blessed. With such blessings we certainly ought to expand.

What can we do as an organized body of alumni? We should have an organized alumni association in every county of this state. This can be done and it has been done. What can we do after we have organized? We can look after the interests of every alumnus in each county, and influence men who have accumulated wealth to donate a part of it for educational and benevolent purposes. We can get in touch with boys who are preparing themselves for college and endeavor to influence them to come to Trinity.

The main thing we need now is a permanent secretary of the alumni association that will advance the interests of the college through the alumni association. It is now a question of co-operation. Upon the alumni rests the responsibility of the future of the college. We need a man who can devote all of his time to this work. This man can do an infinite number of things. He can keep in touch with the high schools of the state; he can keep in touch with the new men who are going out from the institution each year; he can see alumni who have not been on the campus for years, and can tell these men what the college is doing and thereby be an effective worker for the college, and in many other ways can a permanent secretary be of help to the alumni and to the college.

There has never been a time, since Old Trinity was founded in Randolph County, when prospects looked better for the institution than they do now. And there was never a time when the efficient co-operation of the alumni was needed more than it is needed at present.

Reverend J. M. Daniel's speech on the subject, "What the Graduates Can Do as Individuals," was in substance as follows:

"A college may be run by masses, but the majority of the colleges in this country have been built by individuals. There is a large class of individuals all over the state who are glad to do their bit. Just a suggestion is all that is needed.

There are many things that Trinity College needs. We need a new gymnasium and one that will be up to the standard of the college. We need a woman's college and we need it bad. In order to get these things we must get the majority of the money from individuals. As individuals let us go out and get the money. I heartily endorse the election of a permanent secretary, who can reach all of these men."

Mr. A. H. Gwyn's speech, "What the Under-graduate Can Do," was as follows: "Although the past record of the college has much to do with the prestige which it now enjoys, the greatest potential force which may be brought to bear in forming the public opinion of the institution and its worth is not what it has done in the past, but what it is today. What it is today must be determined by what the present student body is and how it conducts itself. In the under-graduate students, we find the total reflection to the real merits of the college. The under-graduate students have most to do with forming the public opinion of the usefulness of our college, and it is they who largely determine the extent of its sphere of influence.

The first and highest duty which devolves upon a Trinity man is so to conduct himself as to present a living example of the principles which the college has

Noon Luncheon Speeches

Henry A. Page, speaking on "What the Trustees Can Do," appealed for the college spirit to be carried into every Methodist church in the state. The bulk of Methodists who own this institution should support and take pride in it. The trustees can do a great deal for the institution, and with the combined help of all these other agencies great things can be accomplished for the college in the future. Trinity College, he declared, is the property of every Methodist in North Carolina.

"The faculty can do more for the institution by sending out good men than by going out themselves to solicit," Dr. W. I. Cranford told the audience, speaking from the standpoint of the faculty. He declared that the college must have buildings, equipment, and means.

"What the Church Can Do," was the subject of Reverend M. T. Plyler's talk. Mr. Plyler stressed the idea that the college has reached a point in life where it must appeal to sources other than denominational. He said that the college cannot get money by depending entirely upon denominational loyalty.

after a terrible onslaught by the second year men in the first few innings, when they built up a lead of seven runs. Phelps, pitching for the sophomores, held the juniors to one run for the first five innings, and gave way to Millican in the sixth, when the game was considered won. Millican went wild, filling up the bases with free passes. The juniors rallied in the seventh and eighth hits, tying the score. Johnson relieved Millican in the tenth, and sent the first two men straight back to the bench. The third man went to first on an infield error, was advanced to second and third, and scored on a single to center by Brady. The pitching of Brady and the work of Chandler at short were the features for the juniors, while Carver and Johnson did stellar work with the stick for the second year freshmen.

The sophomores came back with a vengeance Saturday afternoon when they walked away from the seniors with 9 to 4. Their victory is largely credited to the fine pitching of Millican, who redeemed himself. West, on the mound for the fourth year men, was rather wild, but put forth plenty of speed. The game, although marked by a large number of errors, was one of the most enthusiastic contests of the series.

Monday afternoon the freshmen distinguished themselves by defeating the strong junior aggregation by a score of 7 to 0. The Juniors were not lacking in pep and determination, but they couldn't seem to reach the fresh-

CO-ED NEWS

The Athena Literary Society held its first meeting of this session in the Hesperian Hall Tuesday afternoon, September 30. The attendance at the meeting was rather small, due to the other important meetings that were being held at the same time.

In spite of the absence of many members, the meeting was an enthusiastic one. Miss Kennedy gave the society a real treat in a short talk on the various phases of work now being done by the National and Southern Associations of College Women. She explained the work that she thought would interest Trinity girls most. Although she spoke only a very short time, she showed that she is going to be an ardent supporter of literary society activities.

The most important business matter transacted at the meeting was the forming of the clubs which will probably be the units for all of Athena's future work. Miss Bernice Ulrich as chairman of the program committee is "director-general" of clubs. The clubs already started are the Debators, the Short Story, the Current Events, the Music and Poetry, and the Dramatic Clubs. The first three of these have met, and are planning to furnish the program for the next meeting. The purpose of the club system is to give each member of the society an opportunity to choose the kind of work she prefers, and at the same time to make her feel the responsibility of contributing some definite part to the programs. This plan is an experiment here, but it has worked well in other schools and those who have already joined clubs show unusual interest in what they are beginning to do. If there is anything literary in Trinity girls this year, Athena is going to find it.

The members of the Alpha Delta Pi Sorority were the hostesses of an informal "open house" party Tuesday night. The house was beautifully decorated with evergreens, Japanese lanterns, and flowers, and bowls of punch were located at either end of the porch. A special performance was given by the Tombs goats after the minstrel show at Alsbaugh Hall. Quite a number of students enjoyed the hospitality of the girls during the course of the evening.

man southpaw, Brown, who struck out 13 batters, and allowed only five hits during the game. The freshman team made a fine showing. Ten hits were made by them, four of which were made by Neal out of five times up.

The juniors took their spite out on the seniors Tuesday afternoon when they cleaned up on the senior team with a score of 18 to 6. J. Ashe was on the mound for the third year men, and held the seniors powerless. Jeffries, West, and J. Harrison all took a try at twirling for the seniors, but the juniors succeeded in making a great number of scattered, but effective hits. The entire game was characterized by numerous errors. A large crowd witnessed the contest.
