SUCCESSFUL SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION BEING CARRIED OUT

ANNUAL INSTITUTE OF DURHAM SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS BEGAN ON SUNDAY

UNUSUALLY LARGE ENROLLMENT

Classes Held Their First Sessions on Monday Night, and Will Continue Through Entire Week

The annual Sunday School Institute of the Durham District began Sunday afternoon, when a preliminary meeting was held at the Trinity Methodist Church. At this meeting several hundred Sunday School workers of Durham and vicinity enrolled for the different courses, the classes were arranged, and all the preliminary work preparatory to the Institute was done. At this meeting Dr. A. D. Wilcox, pastor of Trinity Church, delivered an inspirational address to those present.

Monday night the first classes met in the different college classrooms at seven-thirty for the first lectures and the assignment of lessons. Following the first class the members of the Institute met in the Y. M. C. A. room of the East Duke building where a devotional service is held. Then the classes resumed for another forty-five minute recitation period.

The success of the Institute has already been assured. The enrollment exceeds all expectations, and the instructors are proving that their reputations as experienced and capable Sunday School workers is fully justified. The result in developing better teachers for the Sunday Schools of the Durham district, and furthering religious work in all the churches of the vicinity cannot be fully determined for months to come, but from the interest shown by the Durham people in the Institute and from the work being done in the classes, a better and more efficient corps of teachers will be in charge of the different Sunday Schools of the city.

A large number of college students have evidenced interest in the Institute, and are taking the courses offered to meet their respective needs. They will receive certificates of credit for the work which they do.

VOLUMES ON POLITICAL POLICIES FOR AMERICA ARE GIVEN TO LIBRARY

Class in Political Theories and Ideas Gave Valuable Books to Collection

The class in History 14, Dr. Adams class in the History of American Political Theories, has given to the library the following volumes: C. E. Merriam: "History of American Political Theories," 4 copies; C. E. Merriam, "History of American Political Ideas, 1865-1917," 4 copies; William MacDonald, "A New Constitution for the New America," 4 copies; Walter Lippman, "A Preface to Politics." The course in History 14 is being given for the first time this year and consists, among other things in a careful reading and discussion of the above volumes. The first two give the historical background, whereby the students are getting at all the ideas which in the past have gone to make up the history of American politics and political controversies. MacDonald's book is a searching criticism of the present constitution in which the author says frankly that the machine which the Fathers made was founded to keep things from being done and that since they have made a machine which will do things, the time has come to scrap the old constitution and form a new one. Since the American government is a frankly irresponsible one in the sense that the three departments of government can all evade their responsibilities and block progress, MacDonald advocates the adoption in the United States of the English cabinet form of government, which would prevent

Sanderson Held Delaware to Three Hits While Trinity Men Garnered Total of Twenty

The savage attack of the heavy hitting Trinity nine won another victory Tuesday afternoon, when the first University of Delaware team, conquerors of the University of Virginia, was swamped by the score of 18 to 2.

Sanderson was very effective throughout the entire contest, and though a triple wild, held the opposing hitters to three hits which he kept well scattered. In the first inning, Yap, the star Havana third baseman of the visiting team, hit a long drive to right field which counted for four bases, and drove in Wilson who had been hit by a pitched ball. In the third two bases on balls followed by a sacrifice hit scored their only tally.

Trinity began her scoring in the first when several errors, sacrifice hits, and a single by Ormand scored Folger. The real fireworks commenced in the second inning. Spikes led off with a single and scored when Dempster poked a long triple to right field. Sanderson then walked, and both scored when Folger hit a triple. He was brought in by Neal who singled sharply to left field.

The third inning was a replica of the second except that some of the characters were different. Turner hit a long double to left, Spikes singled, Dempster hit his second triple. Smith singled, and Folger singled, with the result that four runs were registered. For the next three innings Ramsay held the locals in check but in the seventh, five singles, a double and a triple put seven runs across the platter. Two additional tallies were added in the eighth.

The fielding errors of the game was a sensational catch by Turner in the ninth inning which robbed Wilson of a sure hit. Several of the Delaware men made spectacular stabs but failed to hold the ball. Spikes led the hitting with a total of three singles, and a triple out of five trips to the plate.

SANDERSON YIELDED A MEASLY BINGLE WITH VICTORY OVER FURMAN

DIMINUTIVE RIGHT HANDER A MISER WITH HIS HITS LAST THURSDAY

JOHNSON, FOLGER HIT THREE

Fifteen Hits and a Round Dose Safeties Gave Baldwin's Men a Complete Walkaway

Hard hitting coupled with all-right pitching gave Trinity an easy victory over Furman University last Thursday. In a slow game played on the local diamond by the score of 12 to 2. Sanderson, pitching his first full college game, was on the mound for Trinity and hurled a masterful game, allowing only one hit. He had the South Carolinians eating out of his hand after the first inning when two bases on balls, a sacrifice, and their lone hit of the afternoon gave the visitors two runs.

The entire Trinity team hit the ball hard, and played a great defensive game. Turner at short accepted several bad chances but fielded them perfectly. He showed remarkable ability to cover a wide range of territory, and bids fair to be one of the fastest college shortstops in the State. At the bat, Folger and Johnson each secured three hits out of five trips to the plate, while Turner scored two hits out of four at-bats.

In the second inning, Turner, who had singled, scored on a long triple which Spikes hit to the right field fence. In the third the local swatsmen turned loose all of their heavy artillery and drove Padgett from the mound. In this inning, consecutive hits by Folger, Neal, Johnson, and Ormand combined with errors gave the local team three runs.

After the third, things quieted down somewhat, both Sanderson and McDonald, who had been sent in to relieve Padgett, pitching good ball. But in the last half of the eighth, the Methodist sluggers got on the curves of the opposing pitcher, and straightened them out to all corners of the lot. After a melee of hitting errors, and base running which greatly resembled that seen at a track meet, the final score of 12 was reached.

PRESBYTERIANS SHUT OUT, 9-0, IN CONTEST PLAYED AT WINSTON

ANNUAL AFFAIR IN TWIN CITY WAS RUNAWAY FOR MEN OF OPPOSITE FAITH

SIMPSON WAS IN GREAT FORM

Southpaw "Jimmy" Merciless With Contenders for the First Honors Among N. C. Baseball Nines

Displaying the same vicious slugging which has characterized their work in all the games this season, Trinity swamped Davidson by a score of 9 to 0 in their annual encounter at Winston-Salem Saturday. Jimmy Simpson displayed his usual fine form, and was never in danger of being scored upon. During the past week, Simpson has pitched twenty-one full innings without an earned run being scored upon him, the one run scored by Wake Forest while he was on the mound being due to errors.

In the ninth inning the Methodists scored three additional runs but due to the fact that there were no balls on hand with which to give Davidson its bat, the game was called and the score reverted to the result at the end of the eighth.

The game started off in good style, each pitcher retiring the opposing batsmen in one-two-three order, but in the fifth inning the local slugs caught on to the offerings of Sorrells, the Davidson pitcher, and after that were able to score at will. Bruce who relieved Sorrells was unable to stop the onslaught of the Methodist swatsmen, though he did succeed in holding them in check during the eighth inning.

The Methodists outlasted the Presbyterians in every department of the game, and impressed the spectators as a team with championship possibilities. The team as a whole played a fast, snappy brand of ball, and displayed a pull-together, aggressive spirit which counts for so much in winning ball games.

"Every man on the Trinity team got at least one hit, and Johnson, Spikes, and Dempster led the field with two hits apiece. Simpson, Spikes, and Dempster secured the only extra-base hits for the local aggregation, each man playing the ball out for two bases. M. Erwin played the best game for Davidson, accepting several difficult chances without an error, and also securing a two base hit.

JANE ADDAMS SPOKE IN CONNECTION WITH P. B. K. CELEBRATION

WORLD FAMOUS SOCIAL WORKER ADDRESSED LARGE AUDIENCE THURSDAY

SPOKE ON EUROPEAN SITUATION

Speaker Told of the Terrible Conditions Existing Among the People of Stricken Countries

"We need to get back to those things that pertain to the kingdom of the mind," said Miss Jane Addams in her address concluding the celebration of Phi Beta Kappa Day last Thursday evening in Craven Memorial Hall. "They need it in Europe, and no one else has yet offered it better than our own President, Woodrow Wilson."

Miss Addams pointed out the need for a broadening influence upon the minds of the leaders in Europe as exemplified by the fact that while Hungary has great wheat fields, it is cheaper for the needy Austrians to obtain their wheat from Argentine than from Hungary next door. "It is a matter of bringing public opinion to bear in condemnation upon these national mistakes."

The speaker described the terrible condition of the peoples in the Volga Valley of Russia, which has thus far been neglected by the League of Nations "towards which we stand so curiously on the outside." She told of the starving children facing death, more than 60 percent suffering from tuberculosis.

"We cannot excuse ourselves of our duty to Russia because the government is one thing or another," said Miss Addams. From a humanitarian standpoint it is necessary for us to do our part to help relieve the suffering of any and all races and nationalities. The trouble in Russia, as pointed out by Miss Addams, is a lack of grain due to a prolonged drought. "They want food, not money," she said; "they have more rubles than they can count."

Miss Addams, who has recently returned from Geneva and a tour of Europe, spoke of the numerous difficulties raised in the League of Nations by the non-participation of the United States.

WAGGONER AND ELMORE SPOKE TO MINISTERIAL BAND ON LAST FRIDAY

Activities of Ministerial Students Discussed by Representative Men of the Student Body

The weekly Ministerial Band meeting on last Friday evening was featured by short talks by T. R. Waggoner and K. L. Elmore. Waggoner constructively criticized the Ministerial Band members as individuals in regard to their connection with other activities of the college. He advised each one of the men to align themselves with as many activities on the campus as possible. "Show the other fellows that you are good sports," said Waggoner, "let them know that you are interested in what they do."

K. L. Elmore commended the advice of Waggoner in regard to the minister's connection with college activities, and added some advice of his own. "If you have the right kind of religion, you will have a proper amount of influence," said Elmore. He advised the ministers to mingle with other men as much as possible but to refrain from doing anything that would degrade them in the eyes of these men.

Dr. Blomquist delivered a most interesting lecture on Dormancy at the regular meeting of the Biology Club Monday evening. Dr. Blomquist said the occurrence of dormancy in plants and animals pointing out the significance and characteristics of this phenomenon. The speaker then told in detail about experiments that he has been conducting this year with persimmon seeds.

The goal of all the nine seems to be "hit and run."

On to the Championship! What say ye, Men of the Nine?

"Violet" University Debates Trinity tonight. We hope the violet sees red!

"Washington Crossed Delaware," so also likewise Trinity's baseball team did the same, even as much!

The coming of the straw lids will deprive the ingenious college man of that opportunity to crimp the old felt.

"The flowers that bloom in the spring, tra-la, la, have nothing to do with the case." The playwrite certainly was not thinking of the modern co-ed school.

The Lord loveth a cheerful giver. By the staidness Trinity pitchers have in giving hits, we fancy there are some batters who might likewise do some loving if they had a chance.

If someone is wanting to know just how contemptible he really is, let that man who turned in the false fire alarm speak up and he shall hear. Unless he is deaf, he has probably heard already, but if he speaks up, denunciations will come in volleys thick and fast. No gentleman would pull a "joke" of that character.

A CALL TO THE ALUMNI

At the Senior class meeting on Saturday, President Fox presented the idea that each year each alumnus of the College should make a gift of $10. for the general expenses of administration. This scheme should meet with universal favor and response, and as the President intimated, where an alumnus is able to contribute a larger sum, he should do so. For to great a while, the alumni of the institution have not measured to their obligations in the way of financial support; they have depended too much on getting money from other sources, or perhaps, they have given the matter so little concern as to let the question of finance be answered in any fashion that might be found.

"The situation at Trinity has forced us, I fear, to consider either of two possibilities, one is that we limit the enrollment, a thing which I should dislike very much to see, or that we have more money to enlarge and expand the service we now render by strengthening our teaching personnel and physical equipment. Unless we have money that will enable us to keep abreast with what our growing student body needs, we will have to limit the number who enter." Dr. Few said. A great number of endowed colleges have faced a similar situation and the results in many have been a limiting of the enrollment. Davidson has limited the number to 500, Washington and Lee to 700, Vassar to 1,000, Smith to 2,000, and so on. All of these came as a result of insufficient funds. On the contrary the alumni of Yale last year contributed the incomes off of several million dollars. Some other institutions have large annual gifts from their graduates.

There can be little doubt as to the fact that Trinity is badly in need of additional teaching strength; what is now here is badly overworked. And as for money to maintain running expenses and funds for supplies, the need is just as great. But other instructors of the caliber that Trinity requires cannot be had so long as state institutions are able to pay larger salaries. What is needed in equipment cannot come so long as an endowment sufficient to the needs of ten years ago when expenses were comparatively low and attendance much lower than now is the only means whereby the needs are met.

Take the matter of student activities, debating, for instance. If from some where a fund of from three to four hundred dollars could be realized each year, embarrassing situation in this connection would be obviated. Other student interests present a similar problem; and it is just such interests as these as well as the great obligations of the administration that an alumni fund would help to meet. If each alumnus would pay $10. each year with the understanding that a reasonably small proportion of it would be directed to the promotion of worthy interests among the students and that the remainder would be applied for administrative purposes, a great end would be served. Such a program should net approximately $65,000 each year. As a result alma mater would grow in usefulness and influence and debts of gratitude would be paid. After all, when the actual figures are computed, one pays a comparatively low figure for his education at Trinity. The student expenses have remained what they have always been, the only raise being that of a couple of dollars on the matriculation fee.

Besides meeting the financial needs of the College, this revolving funds from the alumni would serve to connect the graduated with the school in a way that would make for a larger union of common interests. A spiritual tie would more nearly bind and the spirit of Trinity would be more of a moving force.

MISMANAGED BUSINESS

For several recent years the students of the College have issued a year book, the Chanticleer. Labored efforts in this regard have resulted in very creditable proportions, but the matter of finance and management has been woefully short of efficiency. Carelessness, indifference, and incompetency have entered into this part of the work, and as a result those who assumed responsibility for getting the book out have had to bear burdens that they otherwise would not have had to carry.

One of the fundamental reasons for this regrettable state of affairs has been in the manner in which the undertaking has been promoted. As the practice now runs, the Senior class at the end of the Junior year elects one of its number to manage the business and another to edit the book. Disregarding the question of politics, which most certainly have entered into the selection made, and the way in which these political favorites have betrayed the intelligences of the several classes which have named the managers, a serious indictment may be brought against the classes themselves as well as against the incapable work of the managers. Those placed in charge have gone to work apparently with free reign and without consultation with or advice from the class. Entering into this has been a rivalry with the classes of former years to see which class would produce the "best book ever issued." Proceeding blindly to this course, little consideration has been given to economy and expediency. Toward the end of the year deficits have been presented to the class and the diplomas have been withheld pending the settlement of obligations. Plainly this course of action is very, very faulty. Management and editing have not co-operated in any degree commensurate with the exigencies of the program. Little systematic work and plan apparently have been used.

This year in spite of the impressive experiences of last year, a bad situation again faces the Senior class. The principal indictment this year, from all accounts and ideas, is with the management. It looks as if nothing systematic and definite is ready for the inspection of an investigation committee. Efforts to procure data for publication in the college newspaper have been unavailing; no report has been given to the Senior class; and some of its members have timidly declined to inquire, all of which indicate that something is badly wrong.

If situations of this sort are to continue, then there ought not to be an annual; but situations of this sort need not arise. There are ways by which a good year book, one that will reflect credit on the College and one which will bring honor to the staff, can be issued; there are ways by which embarrassing situations at the close of the Senior year need not come. Begin planning systematically to put men in charge of the publication who have acknowledged ability plus capacity and willingness to work together in harmony and men who do not have too numerous outside attractions and then hold those men responsible for systematic and efficient work. It can be done. It is necessary, or the Chanticleer will perform pass out of existence.

the situation so often arising in the United States in which the President and congress are deadlocked. This is impossible in England, says MacDonald, and he suggests that we might as well admit honestly that we have an unworkable machine on our hands and it time to get rid of it. The spectacle of Mr. Fordney rushing from one end of Pennsylvania Avenue to the other with a Bonus Bill which the president won't sign, is an eloquent commentary on the good sense of MacDonald's book. Lipmann's Preface to Politics, is justly famed as one of the few real contributions to Political Thought which have been made in our own times. Lipmann was until recently on the staff of the "New Republic" and in his volume he writes suggestively on the problems of politics which confront us today. President Lowell of Harvard has likened the state to a vehicle in which a lot of noisy gentlemen are quarreling on the front seat in an effort to guide it in whatever way they see fit. These gentlemen are the politicians and so called statesmen. On the back seat are a couple of solemn looking owls who are busy with spy glasses examining the road which has been passed, these are historians. Lowell says that he, as a Political Scientist is none of these, but rather is he mechanic who is busy with the machinery, trying to see how the wheels go around. The course in Political Theory is being run on the idea that there is yet a fourth group who are mainly interesting in finding out what makes the wheels go around, and that is what History 14 is trying to discover. In addition to reading the above volumes each member of the class is writing a paper on some worthy in American political history representing all shades of political thought, from conservatives like John Adams and John C. Calhoun to radicals like Tom Paine and Eugene V. Debs.

A Y. W. C. A. cabinet council for the purpose of training new members of Association cabinets for their duties was held at Salem College, Winston-Salem, last week. Representatives from Winthrop, Meredith, Trinity, Salem, Greensboro College and the North Carolina College for Women attended the council. Representatives from the Trinity Young Women's Christian Association were: Florence Harris, Norma Dutton, Alice Thomas, Mary King Ellison, Hazel Thompson, Elodia Yancey, Margaret Frank, and Lillian Frost.

At the meeting of the Brooks Literary Society, Monday afternoon, a very interesting program was rendered. There were April Fool jokes by Sarah Dashiell; a talk on Jane Addams by Blanche Barringer; an interesting discussion of the wireless telephone by Dorothy Kanoy; and Home Rule for India—a humorous presentation of a serious subject—by Nora Chaffin.

TRINITY TRACK TEAM IS READY FOR FIRST MEET WITH BOB FETZER'S MEN

Freshmen and Sophomores Tied Score in Second of Saturday Track Events on Hanes Field

The Freshman and Sophomore class tied for honors in an inter-class meet of three events held Saturday afternoon. These two classes took every place in the meet, and, while the Sophomores took two first places out of the three, they did not have enough second and third place winners to take the meet. Garrett made the 440-yd dash in 51.4 seconds and was followed by Farmer and Cherry in the second and third places. Cabe took the mile race in 3.2 minutes and Hefner and Leeper filled the second and third places. The shot was put 32.3 feet by Blades, while Caldwell did 30.4 and Whitaker tossed it 28.45 feet.

Coach Steiner and Manager Rose will take 22 men to Chapel Hill Saturday for the first inter-Collegiate meet of the season. The men are being put through stiff workouts each afternoon, and the team should be in good shape by Saturday. Cabe is the leading two mile man and Shuster and Hefner are making the mile in schedule time. Pinnix, a letter man, and Garrett show good form in the 440 dash. In the 220-yd dash Barnhart is the letter man and Farmer, a Freshman, shows especially good form. Garrett and Barnhart are also making the 100 yd dash. Shankle is still leaping high and wide and promises to be even better than last year. Harrison and Captain Scott are covering the hurdles and D. L. Farmer and "Check" Gray are striving for Roy Giles' place in the pole vaulting event. The javelin and discs are being efficiently handled by Jackson and Whitaker. There are also many other men on the field who are fast working into good form and who should add points to Trinity's scores this year.

The next meet will be held at State College on the 22nd of this month and the State meet which is to be held here this year, will be on the 4th and 5th of May.

SECRETARY OF BUENOS AIRES Y. M. C. A. SPOKE ABOUT MISSIONARY WORK

Mr. Schuman, Secretary of Y.M.C.A.
at Buenos Aires, Delivered Address at Y Meeting

"Why send missionaries to South America?" was the subject of the interesting talk delivered by Mr. Schuman to a good audience in the Y. M. C. A. Hall Wednesday night. The speaker, who is secretary of the Y. M. C. A. work in Buenos Aires, was introduced by Dr. Adams who gave a short discourse on the early history of South America and its Christian background.

The speaker started his talk by telling of the immense possibilities of industrial and religious growth in South America. He explained that South America was a progressive country and that its growth in the next century will be parallel to that of the United States in the past century. This view was supported by a short explanation of international affairs which are peculiarly favorable to the future development of South America. The enactment of immigration laws in the United States has turned the flow of emigrants to South America. This, he said, will furnish more labor and opportunities to develop the country.

A sharp contrast was then given between the motives which prompted the early settlements of North and South America. He drew a contrast between the religious atmospheres initiated in the two countries and told of the miserable failure of Catholicism to satisfy the spiritual longings of the Southern people.

The speaker then told of the necessity of the establishment of Y. M. C. A.'s there, and said "Now is the time to begin the work." He then discussed the internal, moral, and religious problems of the country, and told of the utter lack of religious feeling there. He said the people were tired of the old church organization there, and that they were responsive to the correct interpretation of religion. He pictured the wonderful opportunities of the Y. M. C. A. to aid in forwarding the spiritual uplift of the South American people. Instances were related how the Y. M. C. A. was welcomed and aided by the people there.

A challenge was given to the students to cultivate the leadership that is so badly needed in South America today. He said that the great problem confronting the Y. M. C. A. to-day is to get people to thinking about South America, and to get financial aid.

Man-Made Lightning

FRANKLIN removed some of the mystery. But only recently has science really explained the electrical phenomena of the thunderstorm.

Dr. C. P. Steinmetz expounds this theory. Raindrops retain on their surfaces electrical charges, given off by the sun and other incandescent bodies. In falling, raindrops combine, but their surfaces do not increase in proportion. Hence, the electrical pressure grows rapidly. Finally it reaches the limit the air can stand and the lightning flash results.

And now we have artificial lightning. One million volts of electricity—approximately one fiftieth of the voltage in a lightning flash—have been sent successfully over a transmission line in the General Engineering Laboratory of the General Electric Company. This is nearly five times the voltage ever before placed on a transmission line.

Much valuable knowledge of high voltage phenomena—essential for extending long distance transmission—was acquired from these tests. Engineers now see the potential power in remote mountain streams serving in industries hundreds of miles away.

Man-made lightning was the result of ungrudging and patient experimentation by the same engineers who first sent 15,000 volts over a long distance thirty years ago.

"Keeping everlastingly at it brings success." It is difficult to forecast what the results of the next thirty years may be.

SOUTH CAROLINIANS GOT ONLY TWO BINGLES AND LOST
BY 8-0 SCORE

NEAL'S GREAT CATCH AND STEAL

Spectacular Work of Methodist Battery With Support of Slugging-Mates Made it Easy

With Jimmie Simpson yielding but two measly bingles, the Trinity nine had little difficulty in whitewashing the Erskine College team 8-0 Thursday afternoon in the first intercollegiate game on the home field this season. While the tricky Trinity southpaw was striking out ten men, his team mates touched Beard for an equal number of hits, including triples by Folger and Spikes.

Another big factor in the Trinity victory was the spectacular work of Tom Neal, who has left his accustomed position at the midway station to fill Red Ormond's place behind the bat. He brought the crowd to its feet in the third inning by a phenomenal play in which he caught a foul after a long run, fell over the player's bench, and then regained his feet in time to make a double play out of the performance. Neal figured in two double plays, stopped every Erskine attempt at pilfering, and pulled off the rare and spectacular feat of stealing home.

Neither team scored until the fourth inning when Trinity began to find Beard, and with three men on bases, after Neal stole home, Dempster followed with a hit that scored Turner and Johnson. In the fifth, Folger swatted out a long triple and was brought in by Neal. Spikes, Dempster, and Simpson scored in the sixth, and Dempster made the circuit again for the final score in the eighth.
The Erskine pitcher was hit hard, but poor support from his team mates aided materially in the defeat. The South Carolinians never seriously threatened to score, and played against fielding marred by only one error.

JANE ADDAMS SPOKE IN CONNECTION WITH P. B. K. ELEBRATION (Continued from Page One)

She mentioned the universal gratitude of the Europeans for American help, but added that through our lack of action and indifference "we are breaking down our reputation as a big brother to the nations in difficulty." The only word sent from Washington to the League of Nations is word of protest; never do we help in the solving of the many problems arising.

In concluding her remarks Miss Addams mentioned the fact that European women are beginning to take an active part in politics, and that they have showed their immediate purpose to be almost universally the alleviation of the present condition of the children.

Craven Hall was well filled with those anxious to hear Miss Addams, and her address was widely pronounced to be most helpful.

Dr. Peppeler formally announced the election of those who had been added to the local chapter of Phi Beta Kappa during the past year. A dinner was served in Southgate in honor of the guests of the Scholarship society.

ORIGIN OF THE WORD "YANKEE"

Among the volumes recently presented to the library by Mr. William B. Guthrie, of Durham, there is a set of Thomas Anburey's Travels Through the Interior Parts of America, (London 1791), in which appears the following interesting item:—

"The lower class of these Yankees—apropos, it may not be amiss here just to observe the etymology of this term, it is derived from the Cherokee word yanke, which signifies a coward and slave. This epithet was bestowed upon the inhabitants of New England by the Virginians, for not assisting them in a war with the Cherokee Indians, and they have always been held in derision by it." (Vol. II, p. 46.)

The "Chronicle" is indebted to Dr. Adams for pointing out this gem of thought.

"My girl is like an umpire."

"How is that?"

"She never believes I am safe when I am out."

True Economy in Purchasing Clothing

By Pritchard, Bright Co.

Men are divided into two classes in the matter of purchasing outer garments; those who buy on the impulse of the moment and take the first garment they try on acting on the theory that one is as good as another; and those who think out just what they need before entering the store and insist upon getting the best possible clothes for the least money.

While the first class are by far the most popular with the careless clothier and the latter class may carry their attitude to an extreme and prove the bane of the clothier's life, it is, however, to neither extreme that the writer refers.

The first way is wasteful and disappointing. Often the suit that was bought in a hurry proves to be an error in judgment either because it is not durable, is too expensive, is not appropriate, does not fill a present need or is unbecoming to the wearer.

It is to be conceded that most men are always in a hurry. They are not generally considered as vain as women and their clothes they do not purchase with the object of creating envy in the heart of a friend or of competing with associates. A man usually buys a suit because he actually needs it, and he does not want to spend any more time than is actually necessary in its selection.

If the ordinary man feels that his time is too valuable to spend in selecting clothing, there is all the more need of forming the acquaintance of a reliable clothier who, guided not alone by thought of profit, can tell at a glance what is best suited to the needs of the individual customer and wastes no time in displaying inappropriate clothing.

Know a Man by His Clothier.
