SONG, DANCE, AND A CARNIVAL FEATURED

Glee Club Concert, May-Pole Dance and Indoor Carnival Parts of Annual Coronation Program

The celebration of the second May Festival under the direction of the Women's Dramatic Club held the attention of the college community from the beginning of the Carnival last Saturday night, through the coronation of the Queen of the May, and the performance of the co-ed Glee Club Monday night. With the advantage of one year's experience to begin with, the girls were able to carry out an old English tradition in a manner commensurate with the auspicious beginning which the celebration had here last May.

THE CARNIVAL

The opening event of May Day Revels was the carnival in the Angier Duke gymnasium, Saturday evening. Gaily decorated booths, colored lights, confetti, balloons, hot dogs, and real carnival temptations in abundance were among the attractions of the carnival.

Popular side shows included the headquarters of the Royal Order of Shifters; the Chinese laundry; and the Chamber of Horrors.

The minstrel "A Trip in a Pullman by the Hal Ha! Route," was also extremely popular, containing many clever hits. The cast of the minstrel included some fifteen star performers. The proceeds of the carnival amounted to $97.

THE CORONATION

Witnessed by a throng of spectators numbering nearly a thousand, the coronation of the May Queen and accompanying festivities were celebrated on the green in front of the East Duke building, Monday afternoon. With the smooth green turf forming a carpet, the white roses of the May Queen thrust at a background of green lattice twined with white roses formed a most effective setting for the picturesque ceremony.

The Queen Edna Beasley was preceded by the herald, Mable Westcott; and the Goddess of Spring, Lillian Ransauer, who had charge of the ceremony and announced the numbers. Following the Queen came the train bearers, little Nancy Laparra, and Juliet Markham, dressed as white lilies. Harriet Wannanaker, the crown bearer, also represented a lily. The Queen was followed by eight maids of honor dressed as flowers—Helen Cantrell and Louise Berry representing orchids; Hunter Holloway and Coma Cole, roses; Elizabeth Anderson and Carolyn Ayers, poppies and Gertrude Smith and Margaret Seaton larkspurs. Hunter Holloway crowned the Queen. After the coronation, the Queen and Court were entertained with a barn dance by sixteen village maidens in pink and green; a Glow worms dance by two sylphs—Lois Clayton and Henrietta Reams in costume; and the Maypole dance by twenty wood nymphs in green with garlands of flowers in pastel shades and carrying baskets of flowers.

The tea room in the parlors of East Duke building was opened after the coronation and supper was served throughout the evening by Dutch maids in costume. The Dutch idiom was carried out in the menu booklet—like Dutch girls; the paper napkins and the decorations

ATHLETIC LETTERS AWARDED LAST NIGHT

At a meeting of the Athletic Council last night the following letters in basket ball were awarded: Spikes, Simpson, and Captain Richardson, (stars); Brooks, Pennington, and Neal (letters). At a very early date the team will elect a pilot for the next year. Action on other cases of awarding letters was deferred.

A new ruling which will allow a letter slightly different from the usual "T" gave letters to Midget, Taylor, Hardaway, and Bailey, wrestlers.

The woodland stage, said to be the best outdoor stage in the South, will be the place where the productions will be presented.

For many of us this is an opportunity of a lifetime: never before has the college been able to have such a thoroughly ideal group of Shakespeare's plays presented in any one year, and seldom has such a well balanced company composed of so many excellent actors visited this

STUDENT GOVERNMENT OUTLINED AT MEETING OF MEN LAST NIGHT

ISSUE WILL BE DECIDED NEXT SATURDAY AT REGULAR CLASS MEETINGS

PLAN DISCUSSED PRO AND CON

Majority of Speakers Favorable to Immediate Adoption of the Proposed Plan

Over 150 men students gathered in Craven Memorial Hall last night to discuss the question of student government at Trinity College. Oratory, wit, exposition, argumentation, and everything else had its place in the meeting, which ended by the passing of a motion to refer the "Constitution of the Men's Association of Trinity College" to the four classes in their meetings Saturday for final ratification or rejection. The meeting last night went on record as being in favor of the proposed scheme.

T. C. Kirkman, president of the Senior Class, was the presiding officer at the meeting last night, which was held in pursuance of a call issued by the presidents of the four classes. The absence

SANDERSON OR DEAL PROBABLY TO PITCH

Successful Pitchers Expected to Bring Glorious Season to a Still More Glorious End

Triumphs over the strong aggregation from State College, and the even stronger team from Washington and Lee University have engendered into the spirits of Coach Baldwin's sluggers a fighting determination to win in the game with Carolina on Saturday. With this affair at Emerson Field, Trinity will bring to a conclusion the most successful baseball season ever scheduled for a local team. A large contingent of students is expected to accompany Captain Johnson and his men in their effort to bring to a grand finale a season's play which at present shows but four defeats out of seventeen scheduled games.

Thus far in the State championship race the University nine has decidedly a better record than that of any other institution in North Carolina. No college in the State has defeated Peter's team, and at present people generally concede the championship to the Tar Heels. On Easter Saturday Lefty Wilson, pitching for the University, turned in a win over Trinity. Nine hits were made off him and five runs were earned, but costly errors by Trinity and timely hitting gave nine runs and the game to the opponents of Trinity's championship aspirations. Clearly the local nine was not at its best on that day, and although outplayed by Carolina, it gave promise of much better play. The success achieved on the recent Northern trip, a success hitherto unattained by any Southern baseball team, has developed teamwork and hitting strength that have become assets not to be treated lightly. The official batting averages show a team average of .317. So if the local warriors can continue the stride against Carolina and return victorious, so far as the two teams are concerned, they will be tied. The percentage column, barring unexpected changes, will show that the University team will have a higher percentage of wins, but Trinity will be justified in asking for another game to break the tie. This, in the event that Saturday's contest comes to Trinity's team, will be in accordance with a custom followed in instances of this nature; for instance, the basketball championship race of 1921.

Either Sanderson, who has developed rapidly into one of the best curve ball artists in the State; or Deal, a Freshman who has come to the fore, will likely be Neal's battery mate for the game Saturday. Captain Llewellyn, who recently signed a contract with the New York Yankees, will probably be Bill Peter's selection. The Trinity line-up will doubtless be the same as that which won over Washington and Lee yesterday, with a possibility that either Folger or Fritz Smith will play in the center garden.

Isard Thompson, who was injured Monday, is getting along nicely, her friends will be glad to learn.

Reid Garrett, who dislocated his knee, is today resting well. It is hoped that he may be able to be out again in a very few days.

Rutherford McKinney Patterson, '11, who has been in the tobacco business in Petersburg, Va., is now with the Imperial Tobacco Co. St. John's new Foundland.

FIRST NORTH CAROLINA OLYMPIC CONTEST BROUGHT ONE THOUSAND COMPETITORS TO DURHAM TO ENGAGE IN BIGGEST ATHLETIC EVENT IN HISTORY OF STATE

Approximately one thousand athletes, representing colleges, high schools, country clubs, Y. M. C. A.'s and military units, took part in the First Annual Olympic Contests of North Carolina, held all over Durham on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week. Trinity College played a prominent part in the Olympics by being one of the original sponsors of the movement, and by giving over the use of all the athletic fields as well as the clerical organization of its athletic management.

Of particular interest to college men were the State Track Meet, held on Thursday and Friday; the State Tennis Tournament, held throughout the Olympic contests; the boxing and wrestling matches at the Academy of Music on Friday and Saturday, and the Trinity-N. C. State game on Saturday afternoon.

On Friday afternoon the state college track meet, which had been incorporated into the Olympic was held on Hanes Field. At the same time the state high school track meet and the open events were also held. Only four colleges were represented in the collegiate meet, the other colleges being eliminated in the preliminaries. Carolina won the meet with a score of 54-1-2 points, while State scored 47-1-2, Davidson, 35 and Trinity 17. Shankle was the shining star for Trinity, scoring ten of her seventeen points by taking first place in the high and broad jumps.

The open events and high school meet resulted in the following scores. Open events: Carolina Freshmen 47; 17th State scored 47-1-2, Davidson, 35 and Trinity 17. Shankle was the shining star for Trinity, scoring ten of her seventeen points by taking first place in the high and broad jumps.

The collegiate results were as follows:

100 yard dash—Sinclair, Carolina; Morris, State; Koenig, Davidson; Barnhart, Trinity. Time 10.4 seconds.

220 yard dash—Sinclair, Carolina; Byrum, State; Koenig, Davidson; Randolph, State. Time 24 sec.

440 yard run—Haywood, State; Whitaker, Carolina; Calloway, Davidson; Garrett, Trinity. Time 53.9 sec.

880 yard run—Blakney, State; Calloway, Davidson; Durham, Trinity; Ambler, Carolina. Time 2: 3.9 sec.

One Mile run—Blakney, State; Ransom, Carolina; Elliott, State; Caba, Trinity. Time 4: 44.5 sec.

Two-Mile Run—Purser, Carolina; Cor-kill, State; Elliott, State; Ransom, Carolina. Time 10: 29.2 sec.

THE ISSUES DEFINED

The movement for student government and the proposed constitution for the Men's Association steadily gain in favor. The opposition has been unable to strengthen its force, apparently, because its immediate demands call for too much.

Undoubtedly the ideal of those in favor of student government and of those now opposed to the proposed constitution vary not at all. Each faction desires that the students should share more definitely and with greater authority in the administration of discipline and in the conduct of good order on the campus. The chief contention of the element led by Mr. Thigpen is that the Student Council, as now planned, has no final authority; that the "power" students will have in it is primarily a delusion, and that except for suggesting and recommending, the student body will have no voice in determining the final settlement of infractions of rules. With the essential points of these arguments there is no disagreement; the difficulty, however, appears when the opposition asks that these concessions be given immediately.

As the supporters of the constitution ably assert, movements of this nature must have a beginning; large bodies move slowly. To ask much less to expect that each desire and that the ultimate ideal be forthcoming at once is unreasonable. At Trinity where student sentiment has not always been articulated in administration, the ground must be broken carefully and developments must come gradually.

At present there is no organization for educating popular sentiment for definite ends; the students present no unity. Yet further, leadership in effecting educated opinion is practically nil. Each of the two factions realize this. But an analysis of the opponent's views shows that they will let their ideals now or they will prefer the present order.

On the other hand, the majority of the men appear to understand and to declare frankly that the principles of the suggested constitution are not what it wants, but rather a means whereby ultimately what is wanted may be achieved. The College administration, then, is interested in the present constitution as an experiment. If it works, an organized student body may then present its claims for still further power. The success or failure of the movement must determine what shall ultimately be granted.

As a means to an end, even though the complete details of this end be now unknown, the constitution should be adopted. Trinity must be ready to have a part in a movement general among student bodies and among mankind in general.

RESPECT FOR "TRINITY"

To see a group of visitors from another college rise and stand with bared heads while the song of Trinity was being played was a sight that constitutes something of a challenge. Who was it that did not keenly appreciate the very proper respect the baseball players from Washington and Lee paid the spirit of the institution of Trinity? The sight was something that is rare indeed.

After all, if we would but think, there are very many ways in which the students of Trinity fall down in just such matters as this. For that matter, no other representatives from any other school have ever done what the men of Washington and Lee did yesterday. The effect created was altogether to be admired. Its lesson calls us to attention. Let us, too, stand with bared heads and in silence when our song is being played, no matter where we are nor what the circumstances are. Then the spirit of Trinity will begin to grow to its own glory.

OPEN FORUM

THE NEWS SERVICE AGAIN

To the Editors:

I would like to congratulate the man who wrote the article for The Open Forum concerning the lack of news in the State papers. Perhaps no one is exactly responsible for this, but to an old Trinity man it is an unpleasant feeling to never find anything at all. I don't care if they tell of the halo trips too, but please give us some of the baseball, and other things that are of interest. Only a very small part of the ball games for this year have been reported at all, and then only the score and none of the details. I have asked some of the newspaper people about these things and they tell me it is impossible to get it, as the reporters hold it until too late. The college office told me at one time that the papers would not publish it when sent in, but I'm sure the Charlotte papers will. If you have any trouble with them let me know and I'll get some of the fellows here to write them and see if we can't have it. Some of the largest advertisers in both the Charlotte Daily papers are old Trinity men, and there is no reason why these news items are not published. My honest opinion is they are not sent out from the college in time.

If you can improve this service in any way the Alumni of the state will appreciate it more than mere words will say, and I'm sure they will give their support to any movement towards better news service.

Congratulating you on the splendid Chronicle you are issuing, and with very best wishes for the College, I am

ALUMNI REGISTER FOR APRIL CONTAINS MANY ARTICLES OF INTEREST

FIRST NUMBER OF VOLUME VIII MADE APPEARANCE HERE LAST WEEK

PROF. HORNADAY'S LAST ISSUE

"Administration of President Kilgo" is part of Work on History of Trinity College

The April issue of The Trinity Alumni Register, the first number of the eighth volume of the publication, made its appearance a few days ago, full of alumni notes, news of the college, and valuable contributed articles. Prof. C. L. Hornaday, for many years connected with the paper, and since 1917 managing editor of it, severed connection with The Alumni Register to assume the duties as president of Davenport College.

"The Administration of President Kilgo," by Dr. W. T. Laprade, is one of the most valuable articles published of late in The Register. It begins a series of articles which will culminate in a thorough history of Trinity College by Dr. Laprade and Dr. Boyd, of the Department of History. The installment in this issue shows the importance of the work done by President Kilgo, who assumed his duties at probably the most critical period in the history of the College. Dr. Laprade not only shows the material growth of the College during this period, but describes the part which Trinity College played in raising the standards of higher educational institutions in North Carolina by bravely raising its standards at a time when it appeared that the securing of patronage was the most important thing.

This influence of the College in the life of the commonwealth was an outgrowth of statements made by Dr. Kilgo in his report of 1901. Quoting from the article:

"College, as well as individuals, have character, and this character is not the total of the individuals that compose their faculties. There is a fixed set of ideas that enter into the foundation of a college, and members of a faculty serve these ideas rather than create them. . . Colleges cannot and should not expect to get money from the world they will not serve when service is most needed. . . The claim to gifts must be founded in the importance of Dr. Kilgo's administration, which began in 1894 and ended in 1910, is evidenced by the fact that in this period the number of the student body more than doubled and the number of faculty members more than trebled.

In the "President's Page," now one of the important features of The Alumni Register, Dr. Few calls for the alumni to organize in each county, and explains the plan of the college to build up an annual fund, in addition to the revenue from the endowment. At present these funds should go toward the maintaining of the Memorial Gymnasium, but there are many other movements which should be financed by the alumni through the adoption of a system of alumni donations similar to the ones successfully worked out at Yale, Wesleyan and other institutions.

Announcements relative to the fifth Summer School for Ministers, and the fourth regular Summer School, by Rev. M. T. Plyler and Mr. Holland Holton, respectively, show that both of these schools will be directed by leaders in their own particular fields.

Of interest to those desirous of seeing the different aspects of Trinity College chronicled for the use of future generations of students, is an article on "The Biological Club," by Dr. Bert Cunningham. The Biological Club was organized in December, 1911, with the late Dr. Wolfe as president, and Mr. W. M. Marr as secretary, but was known until 1918 as the Botanical Club.

The regular departments of "On the Campus" and "Athletics" give all the news of the College through the baseball victory over Delaware. Although not a new announcement at this time, the emphatic statement that "it will be recorded in the July issue of The Register that the cornerstone for the Alumni Memorial Gymnasium was laid at commencement, Alumni Day, June 6," is good news for all who have doubted that such an event could really ever take place.

In connection with the "Alumnae Department," it is interesting to note that the hundred and twenty-five alumnae who live in Durham county have recently perfected their organization, electing Miss Lucille M. Bullard, '16, president.

SANDERSON TIGHT, GENERALS UNABLE TO BEAT TRINITY

In the second as the result of three errors. Frew got on first on Turner's error, and came home on Dempster's error in right field. Turner errored the next batted ball and Terry scored. Sanderson then fanned three of the next four batters facing him.

Trinity was held hitless until the fourth inning when, after C. Smith and Neal had been retired at second, and with Johnson on first, Ormond doubled to deep center, scoring Johnson. Another run was made in the fifth as a result of doubles by Spikes and Dempster. The final run came in the sixth as a result of a hit by Neal, who was advanced to second by Johnson, to third on Hsie's error and scored on Spikes's infield hit to third.

The entire Trinity outfield started, on several occasions difficult chances being fielded brilliantly. Sanderson was not hit hard, but fast fielding by his teammates kept licks labelled for base hits from counting against the Virginia south-paw.

RED FRIARS CELEBRATED BY TAKING SEVEN MEN IN

Spinkle, Pennington, Lander, Hucks-bee, Jackson, Harrison and Neal are Goals

The annual initiation of the Red Friars, the local Senior order, began this morning, when the seven initiates, J. G. Pennington, T. G. Neal, J. L. Jackson, B. B. Harrison, W. H. Lander, W. T. Hucksbee, J. D. Johnson, Jr., and H. C. Spinkle appeared on the campus clad in the usual regalia consisting mostly of red stockings, flowing red ties in Buster Brown collars, and black caps. The initiation will conclude this evening after the horseplay has been carried out in the customary manner.

The old men of the organization from the present Senior Class, T. B. Crawford, H. J. Herring, R. C. Leach, J. M. Barrett, T. A. Banks and Fred Folger, directed the initiates in their performance of some very interesting and amusing antics for the benefit of the spectators during the horseplay, and it is rumored that the girls of Southgate have completely surrendered to the attentions of the mystic order. Glenn Pennington was the scintillating star of the brilliant troupe of what appeared to be schoolboys of grammar school age, and the shapely curvature of his comely calves won the admiration of everyone who saw him. Jay Jackson and Bill Hucksbee were likewise the objects of many admiring glances for the same reason. Tom Neal, B. Harrison and Bill Lander came often to the limelight during the course of the entertaining activities carried out between classes and throughout the day, and with their winning smiles and graceful movements seemed naturally talented for the role they played.

THREE SHAKESPERIAN PLAYS WILL BE GIVEN

territory; in fact it has been impossible for the past three or four years to secure any company to give Shakespearean plays. Several companies have essayed separate seasons from several of the plays, but no company has been able to carry a sufficiently large company of high-class actors to give one of Shakespeare's masterpieces in its entirety. The members of the college community should feel that they are fortunate indeed.

The fact that Shakespeare's plays are to be presented here among us should cause all students to sacrifice to see them because the accomplishment of this man is one that has challenged the admiration and astonishment of the world for three hundred years, and his works next to the Scriptures, occupy the first place in all the literature of the world. A wonderful man indeed was this, whom one of his contemporaries named "the sweet swan of Avon" and "Fancy's Child," for "his mind was an intellectual ocean that touched all the shores of thought. He knew all crimes and all regrets, all virtues and their rich reward." Of his Hamlet, the greatest American critic of his works has written: "No one of mortal mould (save Him whose blessed feet for our advantage to the bitter cross) ever trod this earth, commanding such absorbing interest as this Hamlet, this mere creation of a poet's brain. No syllable that he whispers, no word let fall by anyone near him, but is caught and pondered as no words have ever been, except Holy Writ. Upon no throne built by mortal hands has ever 'beat so fierce a light' as upon that airy fabric reared at Elsinore."

Although the play is a tragedy, it is filled with wisest philosophy of life, the kindest and tenderest human sympathy, and such a reach into eternity as has made it one of the most quoted pieces of secular literature in the world.

As Hamlet stands perhaps highest in literary richness, of all his tragedies, Twelfth Night unquestionably stands first as "high comedy" among all his comedies, and this play, along with As You Like It, challenges the world for its equal.

The comedy covers the entire gamut of the emotions of humor, and keeps the audience in laughter; the musical poetry of love and romance and the most fascinating story preserve interest at the highest pitch; "the love of Viola is the sweetest and tenderest emotion that ever informed the heart of the purest and most graceful of beings with a spirit almost divine. Perhaps in the whole range of Shakespeare's poetry there is nothing which comes more unbidden into mind, and always in connection with some image of the ethereal beauty of the utterer, than Viola's "She never told her love."

The Taming of the Shrew, a farce comedy of high order, is always popular with every class.

The leading actors in Mr. McEntee's company and the parts they will take are as follows: Mr. Frank McEntee as Petruchio, Hamlet, Malvolio; Miss Mary Holton as Viola, Gertrude, Katherina; Miss Sydney Thompson as Olivia, Widow, Ophelia; Mr. J. Sayre Crawley as Sir Toly, Claudius; Mr. Harry Neville as Sir Andrew, Grimo, Grave digger; Mr. Frank Peters as Baptista, Antonio, Grave digger; Mr. Marc Loebell as Sebastian, Hortensius, Laertes; Miss Gertrude Linell as Brabantio, Maria, Prayer Queen; Miss Grace Carlisle as Crute's, Officer, Servant; Mr. Charles Webster as Lucen, Oring, Officer; Mr. Charles Brown- ing as Biondello, Servant, Officer; Mr. Henry Allen as Peste, Vivencio, Officer.

Some of these especially Messrs. McEntee and Peters have played here before, and they will be here again with much pleasure.

Bradley and Ormond, of Davidson, evolved from the State Collegiate Tennis tournament last Saturday as champions of the doubles in North Carolina. E. Garrett, of Thomasville, defeated all opponents in the men's single horseshoe pitching contest at the State Olympic Meet and was declared champion of the favorite American pastime in the State. Warner, of the Durham Y, and Harrell, of Trinity, were given second and third places respectively. In the open tournament of the doubles Heilig and Lyon, of Trinity, were declared champion horseshoe pitchers of the State when they downed Leder and Cotton, of Trinity, in an extremely close contest.

In the collegiate tennis singles Cunningham, of Davidson, defeated his teammate Ormond by a score of 6-4, 7-5.

This victory will place him in the finals to play Bradley, of Davidson for the State championship of tennis singles in collegiate circles.

Tabor and Leder, of Trinity, outplayed Cunningham and Wilkinson, of Davidson, in the semi-finals of the collegiate tennis doubles by a score of 6-4, 2-6, 8-6. Bradley and Ormond, of Davidson, likewise defeated Brown and Merriam, of Guilford, in the semi-finals by a score of 6-2, 6-1, and then were declared champions of the State when they emerged victors from a hard fought battle with the Trinity victors, Tabor and Leder, with a score of 5-7, 6-2, 2-6, 6-2, 8-6.

In the men's open tennis tournament at singles Graves, of Chapel Hill, defeated Whitener, of Cornelius, by a score of 6-3, 6-4. Winston, of Chapel Hill, outplayed both White, of Durham, and Lasley, of Chapel Hill, with a score of 6-4, 1-6, 6-2 and 6-3, 6-4, respectively. Quillian, of Durham, beat both Briggs and Turrentine, of Durham, in the semi-finals with the following score: 6-1, 6-0, and 6-2, 6-2. This victory will put Quillian in the finals against the winner of the match between Graves and Winston.

At the open tournament of men's doubles White and Quillian, of Durham, defeated Wiley and Carr, of the Durham High School, by 6-2, 6-2. Graves and Winston, of Chapel Hill, likewise beat Turrentine and Whitener, of Durham and Cornelius, by a 6-1, 6-1 victory. These two teams of victors will play a match in the near future to decide the amateur double tennis championship of the State.

In a well-matched horseshoe pitching contest Clogg and Broom, of Trinity, were each eliminated by Harrell, of Trinity, and Warner, of the Durham Y, respectively in the singles. E. Garrett, of Thomasville, defeated both of these aspirants and thus automatically became the champion single horseshoe pitcher of the State. Warner defeated Harrell in a contest for second place. The chief feature of the tournament was the excellent form of Garrett displayed while pitching for honors in the finals.

The finals in the horseshoe pitching match was also played on Saturday, and Heilig and Lyon, of Trinity, emerged as victors over Lefler and Cotton, of Trinity, after a decidedly close contest of five games in which the victory seemed to lay first with one team and then with the other until the end of the match. These Trinity teams had already eliminated N. C. State, Carolina, and the Durham Y. M. C. A. in previous matches on Friday. Barnyard golf at times was the most popular sport of the Olympic Meet.

TRINITY THE BEAUTIFUL
To the Tune, "America, The Beautiful"
By E. G. DURHAM, '14
How beautiful, O Trinity,
According to design,
Thy buildings, grounds, and every tree,
And all that now is thine!
How beautiful thy paths to see,
Through flowers and the green,
How beautiful, O Trinity,
By whomsoever seen.

How beautiful thy teachings, set
Like diamonds, in the truth,
How clearly truth's strong light is let
Upon aspirant youth!
So brilliantly thy light doth shine,
For all who yearn to see,
That rightly is great honor thine,
O blessed Trinity.

How beautiful thy friends who place
Their treasures in thy hand,
Which brighter make thy glowing face
To shine in every land,
And these thy friends shall live and die
To realize for thee
The vision held, as now they cry,
"A Greater Trinity."

A delightful musical program was rendered at the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last Wednesday evening. A large number of students both men and women, were present and thoroughly enjoyed the first program to be presented by the new officers of the organization.

The College orchestra under the direction of Professor Patterson was easily the feature of the entertainment, playing several numbers, each of which was enjoyed by the audience. The Glee Club sang a number of selections which were also received enthusiastically by those present. Especially pleasing was the group of medleys rendered by the quartet composed of Waggoner, Rackley, Ormond, and Sheetz. They were forced to appear time after time, and finally had to quit without having satisfied the desire of the audience in respect to the Solos were rendered by Mattie Lou Russell and by W. R. Brown, each of which proved to be very good. In fact, the whole program was well-arranged and was rendered in a manner which won round after round of applause from the entire audience.

Here's why CAMELS are the quality cigarette

BECAUSE we put the utmost quality into this one brand. Camels are as good as it's possible for skill, money and lifelong knowledge of fine tobaccos to make a cigarette.

Nothing is too good for Camels. And bear this in mind! Everything is done to make Camels the best cigarette it's possible to buy. Nothing is done simply for show.

Take the Camel package for instance. It's the most perfect packing science can devise to protect cigarettes and keep them fresh. Heavy paper—secure foil wrapping—revenue stamp to seal the fold and make the package air-tight. But there's nothing flashy about it. You'll find no extra wrappers. No frills or furbelows.

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And remember—you must pay their extra cost or get lowered quality.

If you want the smoothest, mellowest, mildest cigarette you can imagine—and one entirely free from cigarette aftertaste,

It's Camels for you.

TRINITY COLLEGE NOW BELONGS TO COLLEGES WITH ATHENIAN SCHOOL

JOINS ASSOCIATION WHICH IS SUPPORTING CLASSICAL SCHOOL AT ATHENS

IS GREAT HONOR FOR COLLEGE

Trinity Students Are Now Eligible for $1,000 Scholarships in the Grecian Institute

Trinity College has just been made one of a group of American institutions of learning that unite to support and to manage the American School of Classical Studies at Athens, Greece. This group consists of all the foremost colleges and universities in the country, such as Amherst, Columbia, Cornell, Chicago, Harvard, Johns Hopkins, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Williams, Wisconsin, and Yale; and Trinity is thus accorded a place by the side of the leading educational institutions of America.

The School at Athens furnishes students an opportunity to study Greek literature, art and antiquities with the help of experienced scholars and in the midst of the most stimulating surroundings. It affords the means of carrying on original research in the field of ancient and modern Greek, ancient and medieval history, church history, Greek and Roman art and architecture, and ancient religion and folklore. It thus becomes an extension of these departments of the Supporting Institutions. As the Carnegie Institution stands on a plane that is a little higher than our universities, so in the above mentioned fields of study the School at Athens offers superior advantages for independent investigation.

The American School of Classical Studies at Athens has just become the recipient of what is probably the finest library in the world in the field of Greek studies, some 50,000 volumes of the greatest rarity, selected during two generations without stint of money by the donor and his father—His Excellency Mr. Gemadious, Envoy Extraordinary of Greece, now in Washington for a time. The collection is valued at about a quarter million dollars, and the additional quarter million required for a suitable building in Athens in which to house it, will most likely be given during the present month by the Carnegie Corporation. The School at once leaps into the front rank of learned bodies in Europe, so that this is a most auspicious time for Trinity to become associated in its management and to participate both in the leadership of learning which the School represents and in its benefits.

The American School already has a large and valuable property in Athens. It stands, on ground given by the Greek government, on the southeastern slope of Lycabettus, just beyond the tower of the British School which adjoins it. Here more than 200 American students have had unusual opportunities of pursuing their studies not only in close association with congenial spirits in their own School and among the officers and students of the English, German, and French Schools, but also in personal contact with the scenes, the monuments, and the people of this most fascinating of lands. That four of the leading nations of the world, Great Britain, Germany, France, and the United States, should have established schools in Athens for the study of the art and civilization of ancient Greece, is a fact without parallel in the history of human culture, and the most extraordinary testimonial to the permanent power of the Greek ideals. It is as if the days when Athens was a university for the youth of the Roman Empire had come again.

Another phase of the American School's activity is the excavation of ancient cities and places of interest. Thus our School has excavated the great temple of Hera or Juno in Argolis, one of most important excavations ever conducted in Greece. Another of its notable achievements is the excavation of the famous fountain of Peirene in Corinth where Bellerophon was fabled to have tamed the winged horse Pegasus.

One member of the teaching force of the American School at Athens is drawn from the faculty of one or another of the Supporting Institutions. He is called the Annual Professor, and is chosen by the Managing Committee for a year of service in Athens. Each of the Supporting Institutions is entitled to free tuition for each of its students as attend the

The May Day Revels were concluded Monday evening with the concert by the Women's Glee Club in Craven Memorial Hall. Owing to the fact that Miss Hazel Thompson, student director of the Glee Club was painfully injured in an automobile accident Monday, some last minute changes in the program were made necessary. Miss Thompson's part on the program being taken by Mrs. K. B. Patterson, faculty director of the organization. The program given by the Glee Club was excellent, every number being thoroughly enjoyed. Perhaps the Japanese chorus—Three Little Maidens—was most popular. The solo numbers by Mrs. Patterson and Miss Russell and the readings by Misses Merritt and Draughton deserve special mention. The stringed instrument selections were also very popular.

The stage had been effectively decorated for the Glee Club concert by a committee under the direction of Coma Cole, president of the organization.

N. C. STATE DEFEATED SATURDAY IN A GAME REPLETE WITH THRILLS

CURTIS BLEW UP IN SIXTH WHEN
SIX OF THE METHODISTS
CROSSED PLATTER

DEAL PITCHED A GREAT GAME

Many Sensational Plays Kept Large
Crowd of Spectators on Edge
Throughout Game

An explosion in the sixth inning proved fatal to the fast N. C. State nine, when a half dozen Trinity men crossed the rubber and enabled the Methodists to come out on the big end of a 6 to 5 score on Hanes Field Saturday afternoon. The renowned Curtis with the exception of one bad frame twirled a great game, allowing but five hits, but his teammates were, unable to find Deal Trinity's freshman phenomenon, opportunity enough to make their eight hits win.

Three hits, one of them a triple, and several walks and errors accounted for the Trinity scores which came in a rush and uproar after five innings without a bingle from the delivery of Curtis. Deal, first up, was out on a fly, but Fritz Smith was safe on first through Redfern's error. Charlie Smith followed with a hit to right field and rounded up on third after Fritz had scored on a wild throw. Neal laid down a perfect sacrifice scoring Charlie Smith. Curtis then lost control and walked Johnson who was advanced by Ormond's hit through second. Turner then received a free pass filling the bases, and Johnson was forced in for a tally when Spikes was hit by a pitched ball. With the bases loaded and the score tied, Dempster poked out a triple scoring the three men ahead of him. With Deal taking his second bat for the inning, Dempster was caught stealing home, but the dirty work was done.

State had a three run lead until the sixth, Norwood scoring in the third on an error, a walk, a passed ball, and a drive to short. Two were scored also in the fifth on a walk, a sacrifice and two batters by Norwood and Johnson.

Charlie Smith got two hits and played errorless ball in the hot corner, making three assists. Turner made a spectacular stop in a critical moment of the ninth when State staged a rally that looked dangerous. Spikes played his outfield position to perfection, and it was his catch of a hard drive to left field which ended the game after State had scored twice in the final frame. Dempster muffed a perfect record in his garden, making two difficult catches. Past relaying from deep centerfield to home on what looked like a sure sacrifice hit with a man on third, robbed State of a run that would have tied the game, and was one of the exciting features of the contest. J. D. Johnson played his usual game at first, robbed State of a pretty double.

Norwood and Lassiter for State got two hits each, and the whole Red and White team looked great with the single exception of the sixth inning, when it seemed that an entirely different team was in the field.

of the town students and many of the men of the dormitories made it impossible for any final action to be taken, but the matter will be decided Saturday.

In opening the discussion, Kirkman explained how the work of drafting the constitution had been carried on last spring and stated that it was a simple framework, from which other powers such as the honor system would be worked out.

Mr. B. W. Barnard, who classed himself as "neither a student or a professor, but an interested onlooker," was called on for a speech. He stated the fact that the alumni of the college were almost unanimously in favor of some form of student government, and had hopes that this plan would be ratified. "This constitution is a good beginning, which does not include all the powers you are going to get. It is an introductory step, which makes the fundamental question at present that of student government or no student government."

Kirkman then outlined briefly the plan, which was published in the last issue of THE CHRONICLE, and opened the meeting to discussion. R. E. Thigpen, one of the members of the committee of the Class of '22, expressed himself as bitterly opposed to any constitution that was a compromise, and described this plan as comparable to the system of the American Confederation—without any power.

J. L. Jackson opened up the argument for the adoption of the proposed constitution, explaining that it was the only process by which it might come about. Henry Belk characterized the plan as a step toward greater things. Speeches by E. C. Brooks, C. E. Summers, W. H. Lander and B. B. Harrison followed, all of them in favor of the Trinity student body taking advantage of the present situation and adopting the constitution. Cecil Gray made a short talk on the general subject of "We want more," and W. H. Smith and H. E. Sprinkle asked for a vote.

A motion was then made by S. S. Parabow that the gathering go on record as favorable to the proposed plan of student government, with the expectation of being granted more powers after the elected council had manifested its fitness, and that the referendum vote be taken at the class meetings on Saturday, May 13. In the discussion of the motion, W. J. Bundy expounded the doctrine of the gradual assumption of powers, which is part of the plan to keep the students from getting literally "drunk on student government."

The vote was taken, resulting in a decision by a big majority to have the question decided Saturday by each class voting on the question and having the totals added. Although not half the student body was present at the meeting, the men there manifested the general opinion of the students as being practically unanimous in their desire for getting student government started right away.
