DETERMINED TRINITY ELEVEN TO MEET CAROLINA'S AGGREGATION TOMORROW FOR FIRST GAME SINCE REVIVAL OF FOOTBALL HERE

HOME-COMING DAY AND BENEFACTOR'S DAY TO BE ON NOVEMBER FOUR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES MEETING,
GAME WITH OGLETHORPE,
AND BANQUET

MANY ALUMNI WILL BE PRESENT

Trustees and Alumni Council Have Many Important Matters
For Discussion

November 4 has been decided upon by the faculty to be Benefactor's Day. The date as announced in the catalogue was October 3, but the faculty deemed it wise to defer the celebration of the annual holiday until sometime in November. In addition to the regular routine business that will be transacted on this day, such as the Alumni Council meeting and the Board of Trustees meeting a special program will be arranged to entertain the alumni of the College in a manner that will draw them closer to their Alma Mater.

The holiday will be known as home-coming day. Efforts will be made to induce all the alumni and the alumnae in the State to come back again to the college which nurtured them when they were but boys and girls. An elaborate program for their entertainment will be planned within the next week by a committee appointed for that purpose. There will be men here who used to play on the football team at Trinity which held the Southern championship at one time; there will be others who at one time were noted throughout the South for their ability to handle the baseball. Fraternity brothers who have been separated for years will again exchange the grip; members of the two rival Literary Societies will clash once more in a friendly way over the question of superiority which has lasted until this present day. Old yarns will be spun; memories will be stirred thoroughly in an effort to recall experiences which occurred in the good old days.

Many important business matters will be brought before the Board of Trustees and the Alumni Council on the morning of November 4. The new law building, the gymnasium, the disposal of the contribution recently made by James B. Duke, the probability of a new science hall, an additional dormitory unit, and the question which concerns all fraternities, that is the right to build fraternity houses on Trinity campus, will be among the most important business matters to be considered by the Board of Trustees. The Alumni Council will discuss in addition to certain business details a means by which the alumni will be brought in a closer relationship with the college which they claim as their Alma Mater.

Following the business meetings in the morning and a banquet at noon will come the Oglethorpe-Trinity football game to be played on Hanes field. The alumni will be given seats of honor at the game, and every effort will be made by both the faculty and the students to honor them and make them feel that November 4 is their one day out of all the year. The game will doubtless be exceedingly interesting to the men who were students at Trinity when she had reached the pinnacle of greatness in the football world. The game may appear somewhat tame to the old huskies who were accustomed to a rougher contest, but they will see the same loyal spirit of devotion to the College

STEINER'S MEN READY FOR FETZER'S STRONG MACHINE ON UNIVERSITY DAY

The biggest athletic event in which Trinity College has participated in the past thirty years will take place Thursday afternoon when the Blue Devils will meet the much vaunted Carolina varsity in the game of the season.

Interest in the game which has been smoldering ever since the game was scheduled last year has reached the fever point and now it is the sole topic of conversation on the campus. Can Trinity triumph over the team which played such a hard game against Yale? Will the Trinity defense crumble as did the Wake Forest eleven when the University smothered them in the first game of the season, two weeks ago? These two questions are the ones that are being discussed by everyone, and though opinions are naturally greatly diversified, the consensus of opinion around the Trinity campus is that Coach Steiner's eleven will put up the game of its life Thursday and will hold "Red" Johnston and his teammates in check.

After the fights which Trinity made against Guilford and Hampden-Sidney, the belief that the University second team would be sent in against the Methodists has been dispelled, and now the most faint-hearted believer that the Blue Devils will make the Tar Heels fight for every inch of ground, while the more optimistic among the Methodist supporters (and they are in the ascendency) believe that the unbeatable fighting spirit which carried the Blue eleven to victory against unsurmountable odds in the Armistice affair last year against Wake Forest, will enable the lighter team to triumph over its heavier and more experienced opponents.

This feeling has spread during the past few days despite the discouraging reports coming from the practice field this week which say that Trinity will be badly weakened by injuries when she tackles Carolina. Thursday, Captain Neal, who entered the Hampden-Sidney game with a bad leg received injuries to his ankle during the game and has been unable to take part in practice this week. Although the injury is not serious, it is very painful and will likely influence Neal's playing, even though it does improve sufficiently to allow him to start the game.

Carter, the freshman who has given such a remarkable account of himself in the first two battles of the season, suffered a bad injury in the game Saturday when a severe gash was cut over his nose and it has been rumored that he would be unable to play against Carolina. The latest report, however, states that it is probable that he will start the game and will continue unless the rust begins to bother him.

Boswell who played so well as half-back in the game against Guilford but who was unable to play last Saturday because of injuries received in practice is rapidly recovering and unless some unforeseen complications arise, he will be able to get into the game Thursday.

Brown the star of Saturday's game received injuries during the contest which has kept him off the field this week but it is hoped that he will be able to start again tomorrow.

Key Taylor the steady left guard was called to Richmond Sunday by the serious illness of his sister, and it is a matter of doubt as to whether he will return in time to play tomorrow.

The other men are all in good condition except for a few minor injuries.

The probable line-up given out Tuesday night consists of Neal and Carter, ends; Hatcher and Caldwell tackles;

Pennington and Taylor or Porter guards; Simpson center; Smith quarterback; Garrett and Brown halfbacks; and Weaver fullback.

Reports from Chapel Hill state that the Carolina eleven is in good condition despite its strenuous battle with Yale Saturday. The report which was out last week that Peter intended to use his second team against Trinity and to save his regulars for the battle with the University of South Carolina Saturday has been changed since the result of the Trinity-Hampden-Sidney game became known, and it is stated officially that the same men will begin the game against Trinity who started against Yale.

The offers to bet even money or better that Carolina would win by a thirty point margin which were made last week have not repeated since Saturday, and the belief among outsiders that Trinity would be annihilated by the heavier University eleven has been somewhat changed.

The Trinity student body is going over to Chapel Hill Thursday almost 100 per cent strong and will be pulling for the team with all the power of its combined voices. The "peppiest" pep meeting ever held at Trinity is scheduled tonight and the enthusiasm which will be aroused at this meeting is going to be carried over to Chapel Hill so that when the Blue Devils trot out on the field to take their positions, they will be met with a salvo of applause and cheers from the many hundred who will throng the Trinity stands.

Rushing their larger opponents off their feet from the first play and maintaining the offensive throughout the game Trinity's Blue Devils defeated Hampden-Sidney in the first football encounter between the two institutions to the tune of 27 to 0. Four touchdowns were scored, and Jimmy Simpson successfully drop kicked for the extra points on three occasions, eliminating the criticism that Trinity was unable to score the extra point because it failed to do so in the Guilford game.

The game Saturday was a football battle indeed, with the Blue Devils outweighted by the Virginia team, heralded as one of Trinity's strongest opponents. Coach Steiner's men played a splendid game, showing a great improvement over the Saturday before, especially defensively.

Captain Neal's work at left end was one of the features of the game, although he played with a bad ankle. Early in the game Trinity succeeded in making two first downs, but ground was lost on the next three plays when with eleven yards to go for a first down Neal received a pass from Smith and dodging Hampden-Sidney's safety man ran over thirty yards for the first touchdown. Simpson drop kicked the goal and at 3:16 the score was 7 to 0 in favor of Trinity. No more considerable gains were made during this quarter which ended with Trinity having the ball on the 45 yard line.

Trinity opened the second quarter by making a first down on three plays, and just then a Hampden-Sidney man was put out of the game for shoving, and his team was penalized half the distance to the goal. Trinity fumbled and the ball was in the possession of Hampden-Sidney. Brilliant work on the part of Hatcher forced them to punt. A pass and two backs, added six more points to Trinity's score and Simpson again added his mite of one point. Hampden-Sidney received on the 20 yard line and made their only first down of this half when Trinity was penalized for being off side. Carter suffered a bad cut and a broken nose just before the half was over, which ended after Trinity had failed to complete two passes.

Hampden-Sidney received the ball on the ten yard line at the beginning of the second half and carried it back up the field for 40 yards. Garrett made good gains during this quarter, and Simpson attempted a long drop kick but failed. Neal made 20 yards on a pass from Smith. Trinity was continually in the Hampden-Sidney territory but lacked that last ounce to carry the ball across when it was on the one yard line.

The fourth quarter opened with Trinity within 18 inches of the goal and Fritz Smith carried the ball across. Simpson added another point. Hampden-Sidney received the ball and started an aerial attack in the last desperate attempt to score but this was broken up when Brown, Trinity's brilliant half, intercepted a pass and ran 65 yards for the fourth touchdown. The final point

"We Want Blankets."

Four hundred and thirty years ago tomorrow Columbus discovered America. If the gym had been started then, we wonder, would it be complete by now?

News of the week: Physical Torture is again in vogue.

Blue and White will meet Blue and White tomorrow.

Bite 'em, Team!

"Cheer up, Freshmen! The way we'll wallop Trinity on Armistice Day will give balm to your wounds!" Wonder if the Old Gold and Black which printed this isn't guilty of a little too much anticipation?

The co-eds in the senior class wanted to know in black and white if they would have the use of the swimming pool in the new gym before they considered something toward the project. They forgot that the boys failed to have a clause in their subscriptions to the Southgate Memorial Fund stating that they could spend the night up at the woman's building once in awhile.

Trinity College Football Team must have blankets and it must have them now. Plans have been made whereby a permanent blanket fund is to be started and blankets for twenty men will be bought as soon as enough money can be raised. These blankets will last for years and since other schools have them Trinity must have them. A sample is on display at the College Store.

Lapel cards reading "WE WANT BLANKETS" have been printed and will be sold to the students for fifty cents each. Every man, woman and child on Trinity's campus should wear one of these cards. Buy your future wife a card and watch her smile. Let's have the old pep! Make YOUR team feel like a million dollars in their blankets at the William and Mary game, and you will feel a thrill of pride run up your spine when you see those boys strut out on the field. It's a grand and glorious feeling to wear one of these cards. Let's go, TRINITY.

TRINITY'S BIGGEST CAME OF PRESENT SEASON

Emerson said, "Nothing great ever be accomplished without enthusiasm." That is just another way of saying that a football game cannot be won without pep. The morale of a football team will break down when the odds are against them unless the college for whom they are fighting evidences a "never say die" spirit even when defeat seems most certain. One unquestioned trait in human nature is that men will perform seemingly impossible deeds when they can hear the plaudits of the people urging them on to even greater effort. On the other hand a man who believes that he is beaten before he enters a fray had better remain outside, for he will certainly not be disappointed.

Tomorrow the Trinity football team will back up against one of the most powerful opponents in inter-collegiate football that it has yet clashed with since the second entrance of the College into the most popular sport in collegiate athletics. While our previous gridiron contests have been intensely exciting, they are not to be placed on a par with the game which will participate in Chapel Hill. Trinity has already been recognized throughout the State and in some sections of the North as a formidable antagonist for the average college football team. But we are not going to remain in the general class known as mediocre. Trinity once wore the wreath of an undisputed victor, and if the students will cooperate with the men who manage athletics at Trinity, she will again attain the position which rightfully belongs to her.

Hundreds of men and women from all parts of the State will be on Emerson Field to witness the clash between Carolina and Trinity on tomorrow afternoon. Most of them will not be unfair in their estimate of a rival college because they have somewhat outgrown the petty jealousies and biased criticisms of youth. Consequently the opinion which they form of us will depend largely on our conduct throughout the game. If we show the alumni of the University of North Carolina that we are good sports whether we win or lose the game, we will have brought much more praise on our college than would the mere winning of an athletic contest. After all it is the game that counts, and the college that plays the game fairly and squarely even though it suffers defeat can hold its head much higher than the institution which strives to win by unscrupulous methods.

We have in mind one college in this State that deserted its colors when the team most needed its support. Such action can only be termed yellow and should be condemned by all loyal college students. There is another college in this State which has achieved distinction for its whole hearted support of the team which represented it in any athletic contest. While we do not advocate imitation of any college, yet we do believe in recognizing admirable traits in our rivals.

Lets completely desert the Trinity College campus on tomorrow afternoon. Every loyal Trinity student should be in the section assigned to Trinity on Emerson Field when the first kick-off sends the ball flying into the air. Every voice should join the yells and in the song, "Trinity," until the noise made by the University supporters will be drowned out by that of their visitors. And, when the game is over and the ball has been awarded to the victor, all those who witnessed the gridiron battle will speak not so much of the merits of the two opposing football teams as of the commendable college spirit displayed by the Trinity students.

REVIVAL OF PUBLICATION FEE QUESTION

Efforts to secure a publication fee at Trinity College have often been made, but in the last few years these attempts to have the traditional policy of "laissez faire" on the part of the administration removed have been of insufficient strength to make any headway. The movement has been revived and the opening gun fired right at the beginning of the college year, so that the matter may be fully investigated and the question settled before the publication of the next college catalogue.

The Editors and the Business Managers of the three Trinity publications have held several meetings, and as a result a memorial to the Board of Trustees has been drawn up and will be presented to them at their next meeting on November 4. The men now in charge of the publications are of the opinion that the adoption of a publication fee years ago would eliminate much of their speculation, worry, and extra work and they feel that this condition should be eradicated before a new set of editors and managers plunges into the work of getting out The Archive, The Chanticleer, and THE CHRONICLE.

At present the price of the three publications combined is $9.00. A publication fee of $7.50 would adequately cover the expenses of all the publications and guarantee larger and better issues. This amount could be divided more or less as follows: CHRONICLE and Archive,

$1.70 apiece; Chanticleer $4.10, approximately.

Trinity College endeavors to maintain its expenses at the lowest possible level and for an example the fact that the tuition fee has remained stationary for many years while other colleges round about were increasing theirs from time to time demonstrates the kind of spirit which Trinity maintains—to give every one a chance to get an education with the least possible outlay. Therefore those who have prevented a publication fee from being adopted have availed themselves of this tradition, believing that by increasing the necessary expenses of each student at Trinity College some students might be prevented from selecting Trinity as the place to matriculate. Whether the insertion of the publication fee of about $7.50 would really handicap many patrons is of course left up to the Board of Trustees to decide.

The fact that the Athletic Fee was recently raised from $5.00 to $10.00 at the request of the students themselves, brings another argument against having a set fee to promote the periodicals of the Trinity men and women at the present time. Several attempts to revive the old question of the publication fee have been pigeon-holed because the supporters of the policy that it would look bad to increase the cost of going to college a few dollars more, right after a small increase for something else had been passed, etc., etc. always gained the ascendancy.

Such sentiments do exist and they completely overshadow the question of the efficiency, convenience, and natural improvement in the publications themselves should the matter of subscribing to the periodicals be settled once and for all times, automatically, and financially when the students paid their bills at the college office on October 1.

An increase of $7.50 on the column of college expenses in the catalogue marked 'tw would raise the total from $376.50 to $384 or something like 2 per cent more. Furthermore the fact that the price of the publications is not mentioned in the catalogue does not mean that they do not exist and the student who subscribes to three of them must necessarily pay $9.00, or $7.00 for either the weekly or the monthly with the year book.

The men who are in charge of the publications this year believe that the circulation of the periodicals should be increased, that the business managers should be relieved of some of their burdens, and that the publications should have a better financial footing to enable the men in charge to develop them to the fullest.

Should the publication fee be granted, there is every reason to believe that extra copies of the periodicals might be published at a very small additional cost and that they could be sent to the various High Schools and public libraries of the state, where prospective students might become better acquainted with the college. The situation has many aspects, and the petition presented by those in charge of the publications at present asks that the Trustees study the matter in all its phases.

SPEEDING ON THE PARK

Walking on the lawns of Trinity has practically disappeared, but another problem of the traffic variety is left to be dealt with—that of speeding within the college walls. The fact that several accidents and near-accidents have taken place on the campus within the last few months is enough to warrant the statement that unless something is done to ameliorate the present conditions of fast driving, a worse accident is apt to happen at any time.

Students going about the campus, and from classes, or to the boarding houses, are often suddenly forced to jump out of the way of someone who is trying to see what his car can do on the half mile track in the center of the campus. Many cars are driven at a steady rapid rate all along, regardless of the number of paths crossed, where someone may appear at any time. Not only are the pedestrians in danger, but normal drivers are in danger of being bumped into at any angle by the speed maniacs.

Since Trinity students are beginning to do things, they might take a hand in this situation and correct it as much as possible. Some of the speeding is done by students who generally want to show some girl how fast they can go, and find the campus the best place to do so; some of it is done by friends of students, and then there are outsiders who are likewise guilty. But the students have a chance to exert some influence, and measures might be taken by them to make the campus a safe place to stroll around in.

The college park was not constructed for a speedway or for reckless driving, and with the many paths, sharp angles, and turns there is danger when drivers are careless. To minimize the danger of accidents signs have been placed on the campus, and the bushes at the entrances have been trimmed but in order to eliminate the danger to pedestrians, students should take it upon themselves to let it be known that they do not consider it a worthy achievement to race around the track faster than the next man.

The college faculty has appointed a committee to deal with the problem composed of Dr. Marston L. Hamlin, Dr. Paul M. Gross, and Dr. H. L. Blomquist. They feel that the matter can be readily controlled by action of the students, instead of placing policemen on the campus or other measures.

Unanimously Lined Up for Publication Fee

The Editors and Business Managers of the various Trinity publications have recently held several meetings for the discussion of the conditions of their respective publications and at their last gathering they unanimously decided to petition the Board of Trustees to make a study of the advisability of adopting a publication fee at Trinity College. These men will not ask the student body to take part in this petition, but adherence to the movement may voluntarily spring up.

Although the publications of Trinity College at the present time are in the best condition that they have been in, the men in charge are devoting too much of their time to keep the machinery going. The necessity of collecting subscriptions should be obviated by the adoption of the fee with the collection through the college treasury. This leads on to the advantages incident to increased circulation, better planning, and increased efficiency in producing the papers.

While the Trinity publications are of a high grade, the men in charge believe that they can be improved if their affairs of a business nature could be attended to in a more definite manner.

The memorial which will be presented to the Trustees at their meeting on November 4 follows:

To the Honorable Board of Trustees of Trinity College:

Whereas, in the opinion of the editors and business managers of the three student publications of Trinity College, The Trinity Chronicle, The Trinity Archive, and The Chanticleer, circumstances warrant the adoption of a publication fee, we do hereby petition that the Board of Trustees to

(1) Investigate the present methods of production, distribution, and financing the publications.

(2) Consider the value of increased circulation with its consequent reduction of price for each student, the increased efficiency in the management of the publications, and the improved quality of Trinity's publications.

We, the undersigned, believe that a publication fee of $7.50 or $8.00 will ameliorate the present unsatisfactory conditions and will place each of the three publications in the hands of every student of Trinity College.

HONOR SYSTEM ADOPTED BY MEN'S ASSOCIATION BY A LARGE MAJORITY

Honor System Assumes That Every Trinity Man is a Gentleman and a Man of Honor

At last Trinity has installed the honor system. The proposed revision of the Constitution of the Men's Association was voted on Tuesday morning by the student body and carried by a safe majority. An attempt was made to let the student body vote on the revision Thursday morning but action was blocked by students who desired a clearer interpretation of the proposed system. The following article was adopted to replace section 3 of the constitution:

The Student Council shall have the power to adopt an appropriate honor system. The honor system shall not be in effect until approved by a vote of three-quarters of the members of the Men's Association.

The following by-laws were also presented and approved by the Men's Association:

1. The honor system shall assume that every Trinity student is a gentleman and a man of honor, and requires that he shall act accordingly in every college activity. Any violation of this principle in any phase of college life shall be considered a violation of the Honor System.

2. Any member of the student body who knows of a violation of the Honor System and who fails to take measures towards its correction and suppression makes himself particeps criminis.

3. Alleged violation and all reports shall be made to any member of the Council, who shall immediately report the matter to the Executive Committee for consideration and action.

This action was taken by the Student Council after serious consideration. The good and bad merits of the honor systems in the leading universities and colleges in the South were carefully studied, and it is felt that the Council has given to the Trinity students the best system possible. The Honor System at Washington and Lee, said to be the best in the South, came nearest to meeting the needs of Trinity than any other and many points were adopted from it. Several good points, however, came from the systems employed at Davidson and Carolina.

The Student Council, realizing that student government without an honor system would be impotent, set out in a quiet but forceful manner to get the latter. Many obstacles had to be overcome, for there was much opposition in the ranks of the student body. Meeting these obstacles and clearing up the opposition, the Council won a majority of the students to its cause, and today Trinity College has something that she has needed for a long time, a system to cultivate and uphold honor among her students.

Concentrated enthusiasm was personified at last Friday evening's pep meeting and consequently it was the predominating feature. The walls of the Craven Memorial Hall were made to ring, and the echo seemed to be the announcement of a complete victory. For fifteen minutes there was a continual roar, and the smiles which played upon the faces of the participants added to the success of the meeting.

Nancy Kirkman paved a liberal contribution to the occasion by making a short and a very appropriate speech in behalf of the co-eds in which she said: "We want you to know that we are for the team whole heartedly. We want Trinity to emerge from this season with the honors, and to make this possible we are going to do our bit."

J. L. Jackson taught the "pepists" a new yell to which there was a good response. Henry Sprinkle instated the "rooster" yell.

The brevity of the occasion and the true enthusiasm manifested made the meeting one of the best held at Trinity in recent years. The custom of having cheer leaders harangue the multitude has fortunately disappeared, and as a result the men elected to lead the organized yells find a greater response to the movements they go through in the direction of the cheering.

FROM GILBERT'S

"WORD MONGERS" and "CHATTERING BARBERS"

"Word mongers" and "chattering barbers," Gilbert called those of his predecessors who asserted that a wound made by a magnetized needle was painless, that a magnet will attract silver, that the diamond will draw iron, that the magnet thirsts and dies in the absence of iron, that a magnet, pulverized and taken with sweetened water, will cure headaches and prevent fat.

Before Gilbert died in 1603, he had done much to explain magnetism and electricity through experiment. He found that by hammering iron held in a magnetic meridian it can be magnetized. He discovered that the compass needle is controlled by the earth's magnetism and that one magnet can remagnetize another that has lost its power. He noted the common electrical attraction of rubbed bodies, among them diamonds, as well as glass, crystals, and stones, and was the first to study electricity as a distinct force.

"Not in books, but in things themselves, look for knowledge," he shouted. This man helped to revolutionize methods of thinking—helped to make electricity what it has become. His fellow men were little concerned with him and his experiments. "Will Queen Elizabeth marry—and whom?" they were asking.

Elizabeth's flirtations mean little to us. Gilbert's method means much. It is the method that has made modern electricity what it has become, the method which enabled the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company to discover new electrical principles now applied in transmitting power for hundreds of miles, in lighting homes electrically, in aiding physicians with the X-rays, in freeing civilization from drudgery.

BRILLIANT RECEPTION IS GIVEN BY Y. M. AND Y. W. C. A. TO FRESHMEN

ANNUAL SOCIAL AFFAIR GREAT-EST IN HISTORY OF
THE COLLEGE

ASSEMBLY HALL WAS CROWDED

Short Speeches by Leaders in the Activities of College
Delivered

What was conceded to be the most brilliant of the annual receptions given to incoming Freshman classes in the history of the College was given by the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. last Wednesday evening in the East Duke Building. The class of 1926 was present en masse and it was thoroughly delighted with the welcome to the College which was extended it by the various student activities.

The reception was featured by the absence of the usual large number of long dry speeches. Instead of having every official of all the student organizations make talks, a representative of each line of activity was chosen to present the claims of his phase of college life in a few well-chosen words.

The President of the College, Dr. Few extended a welcome to the new students on behalf of the College. He appealed to the students to throw themselves into college life and to derive all the benefit which Trinity offers to its sons. Dr. Few called upon the students to develop firmness of character, but at the same time a spirit of broadmindedness. He said that he was always willing and anxious to do anything possible for Trinity and for each individual student.

Coach Herman Steiner made a short speech in which he commented on the athletic situation at the College. He stressed the necessity of having more men trying out for the teams—especially the football team. He said that under modern conditions it is necessary for a school to have five or six football squads if it is to turn out a champion eleven. He predicted a successful athletic year for Trinity if all available men will come out for the teams and if the remaining students will support the teams to the best of their ability.

B. R. Harrison, President of the Y. M. C. A. spoke for the religious activities of the College and urged all men to become interested in the religious organizations of the College.

J. L. Jackson, speaking for the Men's Student Government Association, presented a plan for an honor system which has been drawn up by the Council and which is to be presented to the student body. He made an eloquent plea for assistance in making the first year of student government at Trinity a successful one.

Herminda Haynes represented the women's activities of the College. She told of the many organizations among the co-eds which offer all girls an outlet for any talent they may possess.

H. C. Sprinkle urged the cause of the two men's literary societies to the new students and advised them to join one of the two societies at their earliest opportunity.

W. W. Turrentine spoke in behalf of the student publications of the College—The Archive, The Chronicle, and The Chanticleer. He told of the plans which are being made to make the publications this year larger and better than ever before, and called upon all students to give them their moral and financial support.

C. E. Jordan made a few short but extended remarks about the musical activities and urged all men with musical talent to come out for one of the clubs.

After the completion of the program which was interspersed with several musical selections rendered by the orchestra, the glee club, and a soloist, W. R. Brown, all formality was done away with, and the rest of the evening was given over to having a good time and to meeting the many beautiful girls who were making their first public appearance before the sophisticated eyes of the male students.

While the orchestra played, refreshments were served in the two society halls, consisting of ice cream and cake, and punch. Everyone who attended the affair had a most enjoyable time and the new students also profited by gaining a clearer insight into the Spirit of Trinity and into the workings of the various organizations.

Dewey Nolan, '22 who is now with the State Highway Commission was recently on the campus.

HESPERIAN SOCIETY GOT THIRTEEN NEW MEMBERS ON ROLL LAST SATURDAY

Program is Featured by Good Debate and Speeches by H. J. Herring and R. W. Bradshaw

Thirteen new men were received into the folds of the Hesperian Society Saturday evening at the regular meeting of the society. After these men signed the constitution each of them made short inspiring speeches, pledging their loyalty and allegiance to the society.

A good debate was the feature of the program. M. R. Rich and G. V. Allen upheld the affirmative side of the question "Resolved: That the Government Should take over and control the railroads and coal mines." They undertook to point out that the railroads were not conducted as they should be; that the different railroad companies under private control caused confusion, and that the miners cared nothing for anyone except their own personal welfare. J. H. Bunn and J. R. Killian, defending the negative, won the decision of the judges by pointing out in a very forceful manner that the railroads in this country and England were the most efficient in the world, and that they as all important countries had their railroads and mines operated by the government. They also pointed out that our government can guard us against trust and monopoly but that it does not have the right to become a trust and monopoly itself. The negative concluded by arguing that the affirmative plan was more "beautiful in theory than in practice."

Several interesting extempore speeches were made. W. H. Bridges reviewed the Hampton-Sidney football game.

Bill Hicks spoke encouragingly on the "Prospects of Carolina Game." C. S. Clegg claimed that it was not fair to ask a freshman to speak on "Tomb Initiations" because the evidence goes to show that all freshmen were off the campus until exceedingly late; Bradshaw showed new men "What Hesperian Has to Offer."

Herbert Herring '22 and R. W. Bradshaw '20 were welcome speakers. These men gained prominence as speakers while in college. Herring requested members not to say he, "was a Hesperian, but I am a Hesperian." He advised the new men to put all they could into the society work because, he said, "if a man does not know how to express himself, he has missed an important part of his education."

R. W. Bradshaw claimed he loves the Hesperian hall better than any place at Trinity College unless it was the Fraternity. He emphasized what Herring had said and concluded by saying "If heaven is anything like Trinity College I want to go there."

WAR DEBT IS THEME OF DEBATE AT THE REGULAR MEETING OF COLUMBIA

Two Timely Orations and Humorous
Extempore Speeches Enjoyed by Those Present

Several new men were admitted to the Columbian Literary Society and a good program was given last Saturday night. W. Q. Grigg, the first orator of the evening, chose for his subject, "What an upperclassman thinks a freshman should do on the park." He gave some good advice to the class of '26 all of which was given in a spirit of helpfulness. M. Q. Tuttle gave a good oration on the subject, "1922." He pointed out our relation to 1922 and what we should hope to do in the remainder of this year in regard to our collegiate duties.

The subject of the debate was Resolved, "That the U. S. Should Cancel the War Debt of the Allies." E. L. Wall and L. E. Rock upheld the Affirmative while J. P. Boyd and E. G. Overton were on the opposing side. Discussion was sharp and to the point, showing interest and study on both sides. The decision was in favor of the negative team.

C. E. Jordan made a short speech on the football game, ending by saying that we can beat Carolina Thursday if the students get behind the team. The presiding officer gave C. H. Smith and J. D. Stott humorous subjects to speak on, and they took the opportunity to advertise the House of York and other enterprises, much to the amusement of the society.

After a short address on the part of the president the house adjourned until the next regular meeting.

INTEREST IN GOLF AS AN INTER COLLEGIATE SPORT MANIFESTED AT MEETING

Athletic Council to be Petitioned to Recognize Golf as Inter-collegiate Sport

The development of golf to its fullest extent as an inter-collegiate sport was the keynote of the meeting of the Golf Club on Thursday. Trinity and Davidson engaged in the first inter-collegiate golf meet in the state of North Carolina over two years ago, and Trinity's interest in the game is not being allowed to die down by those concerned. Several new men have been added to the roster of the Golf Club and all prospects for a strong team are bright. The men chosen to head the organization are going to secure a number of meets which will place golf in the same category with track, tennis, and cross country at Trinity College.

As the result of a call for all students interested in golf twelve students and five members of the faculty were present Thursday night in the economics room when the Golf Club was reorganized for the new year. Robert Gray was elected President and M. J. Carver, Secretary and Treasurer. Dr. F. C. Brown was asked to petition the Athletic Council on behalf of the club, to recognize golf as an inter-collegiate sport, and to excuse the participants from physical training. The Council was also petitioned to award sweaters and T's to the men who make a score of 95 or better in a majority of tournaments. Action was taken to elect a greens committee to co-operate with the Country Club committee in matters relating to golf rules, etiquette, etc. An announcement was made by Dr. Brown that he was able to get the same special rates of $8.00 per year for the college students. Many students are expected to take advantage of these special rates.

It is probable that the Athletic Council will grant the petition to recognize golf as an inter-collegiate sport, and to award sweaters and T's to those making the required score in a majority of tournaments. A number of tournaments will be scheduled with the colleges of this section, and with a wealth of contestants, Trinity should forge to the front in this branch of sports. The students have access to a good course and are offered reasonable rates by the Country Club in a hope to stimulate interest in the game. This, with the granting of the above petitions should serve as an incentive to bring more candidates in the field.

Coach Burbage Has Started Work With New Track Team

Trinity's track team, under the direction of Coach Burbage, has started upon a definite schedule of training. All prospective candidates for track work met last Friday evening at the gymnasium and gave in their names and the position to be tried for to the coach. No schedule for meets has been arranged, but several colleges have already asked for a Trinity representation at their meets. "Track" Smathers, a former Trinity student, now coach of track at Emory University, has asked that five Trinity men enter a cross country run to be held at Emory University last Thanksgiving. Manager Asford of the Carolina track team has asked that three or five Trinity men participate in a track meet to be held at Carolina on December the second, while Coach Burbage is preparing for a cross country run by the Trinity candidates at an early date. Other meets will be arranged in due time with the other colleges of the state.

Trinity's prospects for a winning track team this year are bright with practically all of the old men are in college this year, and an abundance of new material. Several god men are on the football squad, but they will probably begin track work as soon as the football season is over. The first practice began Monday afternoon when the men took a three mile trot. When the weather will not permit outdoor training, Coach Burbage is planning to give his men regular indoor practice at the gymnasium.

Friends of Tina Fussell, '20 will be glad to hear that she is rapidly recovering from an operation for appendicitis in the James Walker Memorial Hospital, Wilmington.

Montrose Ballard, ex '24 is teaching the fourth and fifty grades in Vass Graded School, Vass, N. C.

Rosamond Clark, '22, is now on the staff of the Statesville Daily.

OPEN FORUM

The first letters for the Open Forum are published in this issue. The Editors of The Chronicle will print any letter of interest to the college at large, provided the authorship of the letter is made known to them, whether the name appears in full or by initials. Criticisms of THE CHRONICLE (which has no competitor to do so), discussions of student matters, complaints or commendations, advice, political propaganda, will be published provided they are not too extensive.

Dear Editor:

The question raised last year as to what name should be given to Trinity teams remains unanswered, and is, therefore, a fit subject for further discussion. Especially is this true since I note that in the last issue of THE TRINITY CHRONICLE our phenomenally phast and phurously phighting phootball team was referred to by a name which was voted down last year.

Now, Mr. Editor, far be it from me to dictate or even suggest to you what to print or what not to print in the columns of our CHRONICLE. Long live the freedom of the press! Long live the CHRONICLE! But, really, I don't think that the proper name for our college teams has been hit upon, and I should object very much to seeing the name which was used in the last issue become the accepted title throughout the country before the student body has passed upon it.

It is not absolutely necessary for us to join the procession of newly adopted titles. I am almost tempted to ask the time honored question, "What's in a name after all?" But if there is to be a title, it must receive almost universal approval; it must fit; it must not require so much effort to establish. There have been many names suggested, and I should like to add a few more which in my own personal opinion sound, look, and fit better than "Blitz Devils." The traditional mascot of Trinity is the game-cock. Were it not for the University of South Carolina, our natural name would be "Game-cocks." But, that is out of the question. Along this line names that might have been suggested are as follows: "Sharp-spurs," "Rampant Boosters," "Fighting Cocks," and "Thoroughbreds." "Chanticleers" is too stiff and formal. The possibilities of names of this type have not been exhausted, and the natural thing to do would be to select some name which would suggest the fighting game-cock which has for many years symbolized the Trinity mascot.

Another name of euphonious possibilities and expressive qualities has recently been suggested, and is certainly more in keeping with Trinity ideals. How would "Trinity Trojans" look in print? "Trojan" is a synonym for pluck, endurance, and fighting qualities. But whatever we do, let's not try to force any name across just for the sake of having one.

Yours truly,

H. C. SPRINKLE, JR.

To the Editor:

One of the best means of distinguishing a freshman from the rest of the student body is to observe his salutation. Among the many forms of greeting used by the newcomers are the following: "Howdy," the more extended "How do you do?" and "Good morning." These are all very good in their places, but before he has been at Trinity College very long, the student omits these words from his vocabulary, never to use them again while he is here. The word of greeting that has for a long time been prevalent at Trinity is the short "Heigho." There is something in the ring of the word that carries with it an expression of good-fellowship. Devlin used it to voice a feeling of exultation, and it is in a sense somewhat akin to this that it is used here. "Heigho" has a distinctive and important meaning; its use is a tradition worth perpetuating. We make our appeal for a continuous and more extended use of the good word "Heigho."

NORMAN M. WEST.

To the Editor-in-Chief:

Although elective courses may be selected by students in their junior year, members of the junior class do not possess the privilege of using the stack room in the library. The work of many students is handicapped by the fact that in working up papers in different courses, certain works are overlooked which might prove of value in the writing of these papers or theses. It is true that special stack room privileges for students below the rating of seniors may be obtained after going through certain processes, but these are generally issued only for limited periods, and the value of such privileges does not extend as far as it might.

The students in the higher courses in Economics and History are not all seniors, but many of them are members of the junior class. They are handicapped by the fact that they do not automatically obtain stack room privileges, and their ability to trace down important documents, and to get acquainted with the work of the library in general is thus curtailed.

The library has in the past few years received numerous contributions in the form of books and money from the students of the college. The granting of stack room privileges would in a large measure increase the interest in the work of the library in the minds of its recipients, and it is safe to say that the library would receive extra donations.

In view of these facts, it seems not asking too much of the library authorities to look into the matter, and to estimate the probability of granting stack room privileges to members of the junior class on the same footing with the seniors.

FIVE NEW MEN INITIATED INTO NATIONAL LITERARY FRATERNITY LAST WEEK

Elaborate Banquet in Honor of New Members Given at Local Cafe

Five men were initiated into the Fort-nightly club chapter of the national literary fraternity of Sigma Upsilon on last Thursday and Friday nights. The initiation ceremony commenced on Thursday night with the regular horse play. Cries of "Peanut butter; hit me harder" were heard all over the campus accompanied by the whacking of paddles. The outstanding event of the evening was the vaudeville given by the girls for the amusement of the girls in Southgate. Songs, hula hula dances, debates, pugilistic contests, and courting were the main features of the program. The literary test was administered in the English office of West Duke building after which the ritualistic ceremonies were performed.

On Friday evening an elaborate banquet was served in honor of the new members by the Goady Shop. Prof. H. E. Spence, one of the charter members of the organization, acted as toastmaster. His wit as at its best as evidenced by the limbericks he gave on each initiate just before he called on him for a short talk. Dr. E. A. G. Cooper, president of the fraternity, welcomed the new members into the organization and outlined briefly what he would expect of every new man during the year. B. W. Barnard and Henry Belk were both called on by the toastmaster for short speeches.

Each new member was required to write and submit a limberick of his own composition dealing with a subject of common interest to those present at the banquet. These limbericks and the talks that accompanied them added greatly to the hilarity of the evening.

The following students were initiated from both the senior and the junior classes: Mike Bradshaw, Jr., E. P. Gibson, Carl King, H. A. Oliver, and J. D. Secret.

Delta Phi Rho Alpha Goats Produced Successful Comedy

Delta Phi Rho Alpha carried its goats through the first degree Saturday night. The preliminary to the ceremony was a performance given by the goats for the special amusement of the Southgate girls. In this performance the goats were to show the spirit and ideals of Delta Phi Rho Alpha.

The Gambol of the Goats took the form of fortune telling and mind reading. Aura Holton as Monsieur Melchizedek Fozzlem, the oriental fortune teller, was inimitable. Each goat personified some member of the order and gave them the delight of seeing themselves as others see them. The Gambol of the Goats was delightfully risqué and was paid for in full by the goats in the ritual which followed the performance. The last event of the evening was a delicious feed in the Social Room.

The second and third degrees of the initiation are carried over to the next beautiful moonlight evenings.

Sam Maxwell, '22 stopped over on his way to the Yale Divinity School, where he will take up work leading to the B. D. degree.

ATHLETIC MANAGER IS ARRANGING SCHEDULES FOR TRINITY'S TEAMS

BASEBALL SQUAD WILL MEET
SOUTHERN TEAMS DUR-ING APRIL TRIP

TRACK MEETS BEING SCHEDULED

Wrestling Team Will Meet Colleges in Virginia—Basketball
Trip to South

At the present everyone is interested in only one sport, that of football, but there is one man on the campus who must plan ahead in order that when a season for a certain sport comes around that Trinity teams will have some one to play. This man is Mr. B. W. Barnard, Graduate Manager of Athletics, who is now very busy arranging tentative schedules for the various sports and planning how he can make the seasons successful not only from a standpoint of victory but also financially.

Last year was the first time that Trinity had sent out a cross country track team, but the team that was sent out made a creditable showing. Coach Burbage has already called for men to come out for this sport, and several men have reported for duty. Arrangements are being made for several meets this fall but as yet nothing definite has been decided. It is now the plan of the management to have the inter-class runs on November 4 in order to give the coach a chance to pick the best men for his varsity squad. On November 17 a inter-collegiate meet will be held in which Trinity, Guilford and Elon will take part. Emory University has sent Trinity an invitation to participate in the Southern Melodist Inter-Collegiate Road Run which is to be held in Atlanta on December 2. The team which Trinity sent to this Run last year took third place in the meet.

The tentative schedule for basketball has not yet been completed but it is very probable that a southern trip will be made again this year during the second week in February.

There will be two tennis matches this fall, one with Guilford and another one.

Wrestling, a sport which was begun last year also, is beginning a second season with good prospects, according to Coach Bailey. He has practically all his varsity wrestlers back with him this year and around them as a nucleus he will be able to build up a good team. There will be two of these matches here this year, one on February 19 with Guilford and one with Davidson on the 23rd of the same month. A trip through Virginia will be made again and the same schools that were visited last year will be met again this season. Washington and Lee is scheduled for February 26, V. M. I. for the 27th and a match on the 28th with the University of Virginia is pending. If the prospects indicate that the team will be stronger than the team of last year a match will be scheduled with the University of Pennsylvania on this trip, who last season defeated the University of Virginia by the same number of points that Virginia defeated Trinity.

The baseball schedule is being rapidly arranged and will be published within a few weeks. The team will make its annual trip in April. Last season the team went as far North as Connecticut but this year the opposite direction will be visited and negotiations are being made with Mercer, Georgia Tech, Oglethorpe, University of Georgia, Furman, Clemson, University of South Carolina and Davidson for games this spring. Trinity this year will have practically the same team that it had last season, and the different players have improved their baseball ability by playing summer ball.

WILLIAM AND MARY TEAM TO BE MET IN NORFOLK BY STEINER'S WARRIORS

Blue Devils Are Anxious for Revenge of Only Defeat Handled Them in Two Years

Saturday October 21 about 23 athletes will make a trip into Virginia to engage the William and Mary Indians in mortal combat on their own battleground. Trinity's Blue Devils are making this trip with the expressed hope of obtaining revenge for the great measure of 1921 when the Indians came down from the north and administered defeat to them by a score of 12-0.

Trinity's team of last year was handicapped by injuries received by several of her stars in their game of the preceding week. Among this number two were unable to get in the game at all and the other four were in only a small part of it. The William and Mary team also had the advantages of experience and weight. This year the only advantage the Indians will have will be the advantage of playing on their home field and this will not be a great one if the students of Trinity will give the team a good send-off and let the team know that they are behind them.

William and Mary will have very few changes in her line-up this year. The Levy boy who made such big gains around Trinity's ends last year will be in the game but his brother who also did good work is out on account of injuries received last year. The Indians have a new coach this year and even if he is as good or better than "Bill" Fincher, their coach of last year the change in the methods of coaching will to some degree offset their advantage of experience. The only way a line may be gotten on the comparative strength of the two teams is to compare their game with V. P. I. and the game of Trinity's opponent of Saturday with V. P. I. This comparison would indicate that Trinity has the stronger team but it is very indirect. V. P. I. beat William and Mary by a decisive score while Trinity beat Hampden-Sidney by a larger score than did V. P. I.

ALUMNI OF LAW SCHOOL TO INITIATE DRIVE FOR FUNDS AT BIG BANQUET

Many Alumni Will Gather to Start Off
Drive for Funds to Match
Duke's Pledge

Much interest is being shown in what will be done at a Banquet which is to be held at the Marlborough Hotel Thursday Evening at 8:30. The interest is not confined to the present law classes and faculty, but to every patron of Trinity College and all who are interested in this institution. The banquet is held on Thursday night with the hope that a larger crowd of the alumni will be in attendance than otherwise, due to the Trinity vs. University of Carolina clash that afternoon.

The founding of a law school at Trinity College in 1904 added much to this institution. Men who have graduated from this school have been exceedingly successful. The law school has influence and helpfulness in a very creditable manner. Mr. Duke in the recent gift to Trinity College set aside a certain amount to a new law building which in all probability will be placed between the new gymnasium and the Park school buildings. This will make a connection between the two separate groups of buildings on the campus.

The purpose of this banquet to be held Thursday evening is to discuss plans and means of raising a substantial amount to add to the expense fund for the new law building. If a substantial amount can be raised more money will be forthcoming and a law building will be erected.

At least one hundred and twenty-five alumni are expected to attend the banquet. Dr. Mordreel, dean of the law school will be present in addition to the present law class and faculty.

TRANSPORTATION PROBLEMS DELAYED BUILDING OF THE NEW MEMORIAL GYMNASIUM

Brick and Other Building Material
Can Now be Secured—Will Be Completed Soon

Trinity students have been making guesses and bets as to when the gymnasium will be finished, and the earliest date that any bet has been made on is 1930 but it will be finished long before that time. Mr. J. B. Duke's gift of $25,000 makes the students' demand for a reason as to why work is not being rushed forward even stronger than ever before, and they have a right to demand a reason. The contract has been let and work was supposed to be rushed forward as fast as possible but since this has not been done Mr. Barnard, engineer of Contractor Underwood last week what the trouble was. The rail and coal strikes seem to be at the bottom of the whole trouble, for sometime ago the Interstate Commerce Commission put an embargo on builders supplies, and there was no such thing as getting brick and timbers for the first floor to the site. However, the National Builders Association took the matter up with the Interstate Commission and as a result of their demands the Commission turned over 40,000 cars to them, and Contractor Underwood expects to have supplies on hand at once. In fact one car of brick is already on the ground.

It will be of interest to the students to know just what the contract calls for since up to this time it has not been published. The main part of the building is to be enclosed for $63,000 and when this work is half done the contractor is to be notified, if he is to enclose the swimming pool for $8,000. In case the money is not on hand when the enclosing of the building is half done and the contractor is not ordered to enclose the pool, new bids for this work will have to be called for. Then if within thirty days the contractor is notified to complete the building, the contract calls for $25,000 more. The best bid on a heating plant and pumps and mechanical equipment for the pool is $16,000 and all this will make a total of $112,000 for the completion of the Memorial Gymnasium.

To begin with there is $65,000 in cash on hand which includes the gifts of members of the Duke family. There are pledges amounting to $30,000 which must be collected and at the present there is $6,000 in the general alumni fund which is available for this work. This makes a total of $101,000 and leaves $11,000 to be raised in some manner. The Senior class at its last meeting made some pledges to this work which are to be paid in five years, the first payment due during the current year, and plans are being made to present the matter to the student body asking them to render assistance in raising the necessary funds to complete the building.

While it is hardly probable that basket ball games will be played on the new floor this year Trinity students may at last rest assured that this will be the last year that it will be necessary to use the old gymnasium.

Various Clubs Organized and Students Get More Titles

During the past week many county and state clubs have been organized as well as several other college groups. Among these whose pictures were taken last week was the Guilford County Club, the Hades Club, and the Virginia Club. The officers for the Guilford County Club are W. W. Turrentine, president; H. C. Sprinkle, vice-president; and Miss Nancy Kirkman, treasurer. This club is one of the largest on the campus and will probably rank first in the county clubs. The Hades Club was also organized this week and this year the club is the largest in the history of the college. Its officers bear new titles this year: His Satanic Majesty, C. H. Smith; Pitchfork Custodian, W. W. Turrentine; Brimstone Dispenser, M. Bradshaw, Jr.; Chain Rattler, Ethel Merritt; Master Fire Builder, C. M. Jordan; Leading Feminine Representative in the Hot Regions, Marie Davis. The officers of the Virginia Club are as follows: J. C. Williams, president; Laura Winston, vice-president; Ed Cannon, treasurer; Lillian Frost, secretary. O. A. Robinson, Business Manager of the Chanticleer, asks that every club member pay his dues as soon as possible.

Clothes and Sundries Stolen In Alpaugh Last Thursday

Alpaugh Hall was the scene of a burglary of clothing last Thursday night. While the residents of section 103 were away from home, five brand new suits of clothes and other articles were stolen. Another section in the same building was also entered by the burglars, and another suit was taken. The Durham police are working on the case, and the Student Council officers are lending their aid, but so far no definite clue has been uncovered. It is thought that the theft was committed by one or more negroes, not connected with the college. One negro, apparently a stranger, was seen near the building on the day of the theft.

The burglars seemed to have a preference for blue suits, since a majority of those stolen were blue. E. I. Stamey, Jr., proved to be the largest contributor losing two brand new suits, several shirts, a frat pin, and other articles.

Ned Karnes, Joe Ellis, and John Craven each lost a suit, while Fritz Crute, of another section lost his best suit.

A reward of twenty-five dollars has been offered by one of the victims for evidence that will lead to the arrest of the guilty party.

It will be of interest to Trinity students to learn of the marriage of P. Dameron Midgett, Jr., of Wanchette to Miss Thelma Edwards to Durham on last Friday afternoon. The groom is a graduate of the class of 1922 and made his letter in football while here. He will be principal and athletic director of the Cape Hatteras High School at Cape Hatteras for the coming year. This marriage comes as a culmination of a collegiate romance.

Prof. R. N. Wilson is in Fayetteville this week giving a course in Sunday school work. His work will consist of giving lectures in organization and administration in the Sunday school.

TRUCK LOAD OF BRICK FOR NEW MEMORIAL GYM RUNS THROUGH CAMPUS

MAKES RECORD RUN THROUGH COLLEGE CAMPUS AND IS CHEERED BY ALL

SHORTLY LOVE PRESENTED PLAN

Another Load Expected to Arrive
Most Any Moment and Excitement Prevails
By Harry Hoarce

An interesting bit of news has just been known earlier, they would undoubtedly have resulted in an early completion of the new far-from-completed gymnasium. It is a fact, only too well known, that the work on the new gym has been badly delayed. Due to this fact an admirable scheme has been proposed by a well known member of the campus personnel, but for some reason it was not offered to the building committee until too late. The instigator of this notable project was none other than that worthy celebrity, "Shorty Love." The plan was as follows:

Let a miniature golf course be laid out on the site of the future gymnasium. Then let every "golf-hound" and every pseudo golfer assemble there, each using a million, million, or two-million. Every time a ball is missed there will be a small bit of terra firma dug up by the action of the iron on the turf. No golfer shall be allowed to make the course in less than 500.

It was estimated that the effect of this scheme would have been a very material aid in digging the foundation for the new gym. "Shorty" is not a member of the local golf club, but perhaps his natural fondness for "African Golf" prompted his suggestion. He expected no monetary returns from his proffered scheme, merely offering it from altruistic motives, and in the hope that the completion of the gym might be aided.

Another, and perhaps less practical idea was suggested by a boarding house representative, (of whom, forsooth, there are many!) The principle of the scheme was to arm each member of the student body with an ordinary teaspoon and station him at the place where the proposed gym foundation was to be laid. The object was to stage a digging race. At the crack of the starter's pistol, all contestants were to dig industriously; strict table etiquette was to be observed. The person digging the deepest hole in a given time was to be declared winner. The prize—a lifesize photograph of the new gym, if it is ever erected. The chief objection to this project is that had it been carried out, the excavation for the foundation and basement would have been ready long before any work would have been done by the builders.

Of course neither of these plans are of any use now, as the excavation has—at last—been made, and the foundation laid. If another genius, however, will offer a plan by which the completion of the gymnasium will be assured, he will indeed merit a place in the Hall of Fame.

The work on the new gymnasium is being pushed forward with great (though unapparent) speed. It is beginning to look as if it will be ready for use for the basket ball games in the Spring, of 1930. The large force, consisting of a contractor, a foreman, and a laborer, now engaged in the task of erecting the building are working zealously almost every day in order to lose no time. Only last night a whole wagon load of brick was hauled down to the spot where the foundation is being erected. A great quantity of building material is already to be seen about the location; one of our staff reporters discovered no less than three dozen virgin bricks hidden under some old scrap-wood. More material is expected in the near future—perhaps at the rate of a load every three weeks. Much erection machinery, including one hoe and two wheelbarrows, may also be seen on the site of North Carolina's future finest gymnasium.

The present plan of the contractors and builders seems to be to keep matters strictly on the quiet and to let no one know the extent of the work that is being done. The construction is being carried on in such a manner as to make it absolutely impossible for the ordinary layman to see any of the operations. It is thought by some people that the building has been ordered ready-made direct from Sears, Roebuck & Co. Others think that the architects are contemplating an open air affair, after the model of the old Roman amphitheater. Still others are of the opinion that it is to be erected suddenly over night. If this is indeed the case, who knows but what we may wake up some fine morning to find the new gym—the pride of the South—standing complete where only the foundation stood the night before!

An interview with the foreman and his assistants (both of whom are nice fellows) did not tend to throw any light on the subject which is uppermost in the minds of all the students. It is hoped that all Trinity men will co-operate in helping to draw attention to the need for the new gymnasium. If anything can be done to hurry up the completion of it, by all means let it be done. The present outlook is certainly not bright for the students of the college. Verily, the slogan appears to be: "Make haste slowly, lest ye be pinched for speeding."

But the old adage that every cloud has a silver lining hidden away somewhere holds good even in the case of the situation mentioned above. It rained the other day. The excavation work of the new gym promptly responded to the wishes of a certain bunch of boys domiciled in West Durham by converting itself into an improvised swimming pool. Naturally it wasn't a filtered water pool such as Trinity students will some day have, but it was just as good as "ye olde swimming hole" and certainly more convenient for the Western boys. Bathing suits are unknown to them, but to use the gym's pool without one—right in town—was out of the question, so the old blue denim came into use again, and half a dozen boys spent Sunday afternoon swimming, fussing, and fighting in an attempt to overcome the heat of this October weather.

HISTORY OF SCIENCE IN TRINITY COLLEGE THEME OF DR. PEGRAM'S TALK

Growth of College and Its Science Departments Outlined by
"Grand Old Man"

On Monday night the Crowell Science Club was addressed by Doctor W. H. Pegram on THE HISTORY OF SCIENCE IN TRINITY COLLEGE. President W. P. Feiv in introducing Doctor Pegram stated that the club's purpose was the promotion of science. He also mentioned the great work of John Francis Crowell, one time president of Trinity College, and the founder of the science club. Dr. Pegram spoke of Doctor Pegram as a man who had given his life service to the college and had been instrumental in the promotion of science here.

Doctor Pegram in the beginning of his review of the scientific history of the college, spoke of the foundation of the institution and its early stages of development. In 1838 a grammar and preparatory school was founded in the upper part of Randolph county. In 1842 this school was organized under the name of Union Institute, and in the same year Braxton Craven was elected president of the institute. 1848 marked the organization of the college; at the same time the preparatory part of the school was abandoned. The college was chartered in 1851 by the legislature, and in 1852 the state assumed partial control of the college. Again in 1858 the college was rechartered and was renamed Trinity College. At this time the Methodist Church South assumed control of the college.

In speaking of the curriculum of the college in the latter part of 1880 Dr. Pegram pointed out the fact that only a few units, compared to our present requirements, were needed for entrance. However, with the advent of President Crowell a new era dawned for the college. The curriculum was gradually raised, and in 1891 the college was moved from Trinity, North Carolina, to Durham. An interesting fact concerning the finances of the college during this period was that it had no income except the fees paid by the students, which was barely enough to pay the salaries of the professors.

Dr. Pegram then took up in general the scientific progress of Trinity College. From 1859-87 the science department included only one department. In 1891 the science department was divided into the present divisions. At that time Dr. Pegram was elected head of the chemistry department. Dr. Pegram related some very interesting things in connection with the facilities that were available. No heating apparatus was in use except an alcohol lamp and a charcoal burner. Dr. Pegram contrasted the conditions then with the more modern equipment which is now the property of the college. Drawing a final contrast between the relative number of courses in science in 1887 and 1922, Dr. Pegram declared that in 1887 there were only seven half year courses, while today there are over 680 students enrolled in the science department which includes thirty-six scientific subjects.

Dr. William H. Pegram graduated from Trinity College with the class of 1873 and joined the teaching staff the following year. From 1882 to 1883 he was acting as president of the college as chairman of the Faculty. When Dr. Crowell established the new science courses, Dr. Pegram became head of the Department of Chemistry and at the same time continued to teach Physics and Biology. He remained head of the Chemistry Department for many years, and is now Emeritus Professor of Chemistry.

Harvest Fair Opened at Lakewood Park Yesterday

Tuesday morning marked the opening of the Durham Harvest Festival which is expected to be the biggest and best county fair ever held in this state. The occasion will be one for giving thanks for the year's blessings and practically every phase of life in Durham will be represented in this big affair.

Lakewood Park has been converted into a huge fair ground and five new buildings have been erected to take care of the exhibits which will be a feature of the week. The community that sends the best display will be given a prize of $100, and there has been much rivalry between the different communities of the county. There will be exhibits of farm products, livestock, factory products and everything of interest to Durham county people.

The World of Mirth shows, a company which has been showing at the fair all over the country and declared to be one of the biggest and best in the country, will furnish the amusements for the Festival. There will be big fireworks displays every night and plenty of fun for everyone. The Camp Bragg Orchestra will furnish the music for the dances that are to be given each night of the Festival.

The best exhibits of the Festival will be sent to Raleigh to be exhibited at the "state fair" which is to be held next week. Preparations have been made for handling the large crowds that will enter the gates Tuesday morning when the Festival is officially opened with an address by Governor Morrison.

Tennis Team to be Picked During Remainder of Week

Captain Turrentine and fifteen or twenty other aspirants for the tennis team have been playing an elimination series for the past week. Several freshmen have shown that they are going to give somebody a chase for first team honors. Mayer, a freshman from Charlotte, has played several elimination sets without having met defeat. Whismant, who did not show up so well last year, is showing splendid work this year. Shankle, Sloan, Brooks, and several others are doing good work this year and should be serious contestants for the first team. Captain Turrentine has lost none of his ability at the game, and appears to have improved his serve considerably.

The past week has been in the form of an elimination series. There will be six men chosen for the team, and these men will be picked from the ones who win out in a majority of the series. These men will then be coached carefully by Dr. White, who has again taken charge of tennis activities.

Several tournaments have been scheduled for the college and the state. Elon, Guilford, Davidson, and Wake Forest County Club will be met this fall.

At its class meeting which was held Saturday morning the Junior class elected W. H. Carstarphen and J. B. Harris as its representatives on the Student Life Committee. W. L. Clegg was made the Junior representative on the Public Lecture Committee. The election of these officers completes the list of officials of the class of '24.

Trinity students will learn with regret of the desperate illness of "Iky" Taylor's sister in Richmond. "Iky" left Sunday morning for Richmond and it is doubtful whether he will return in time to participate in the Carolina game.

William A. Ellison, Jr., '23, of Belhaven was initiated into the Beta Lambda Chapter of the Sigma Chi fraternity Sunday evening. Following the rites of initiation an informal feed was held in the fraternity rooms in Jarvis Hall. In addition to the members present, Hunter Beams and M. W. Blades of the alumni were present.

Mrs. Shirley Graves of Chapel Hill visited friends in town and in Southgate Hall last week.

The student body of Rhode Island State College has adopted and observed for years a few so-called customs. Some affect only the Freshman class, yet all are instrumental in kindling a love for dear Rhode Island, and should be respected by every undergraduate:

1. Freshmen shall tip their cap to all Seniors and Faculty members.
2. No under-classman shall be allowed to wear preparatory school insignia of any kind.
3. No undergraduate shall smoke upon the Campus.
4. Freshmen shall allow all upper-classmen precedence in entering rooms, boarding the college truck and similar courtesies.
