WILLIAM AND MARY DEFEAT GIVES TEAM 50% RECORD FIRST DAVIDSON-TRINITY FOOTBALL GAME COMES NEXT SATURDAY BENEFACTOR'S DAY TO BE GREATEST IN TRINITY'S HISTORY

TRINITY AND DAVIDSON TO MEET IN CLASSIC OF SEASON IN GREENSBORO

Game Between Rival Denominational Colleges Attracting Much Interest Among N. C. Football Fans

Onward to Greensboro! is the cry reverberating on the campus now, and onward to Greensboro it will be, for Saturday the entire student body of Trinity College will move on Greensboro in hordes to cheer their team to victory. A special train will leave for Greensboro Saturday morning, and every student that can possibly go will be on it. Enthusiasm is at a high pitch, and the Blue Devils are out for victory. If victory is not theirs, a bunch of Wild Cats will know the reason why.

Although several players are not in the top of condition, the Blue Devils are far from downcast. Probably the hardest luck encountered by the squad this season was the injury sustained by Garret, the speedy little half back, Tuesday evening. The injury was of such a nature that it is highly improbable that he will enter the game for some time to come. This news will be greeted with regret throughout the entire student body.

The season is fortunate, however, in having much available backfield material on hand. Lagerstedt and Everett have shown up well in practice, and it is probable that one of these will be chosen to fill Garret's shoes. Captain Neal's ankle is still causing him some trouble, but he will be able to enter the game. Brown is suffering from a slight bruise, but he will likely start against Davidson Saturday. Doggie Hatcher has fully recovered from his injury and will be tearing open the Davidson line.

As for the Davidson squad, many in the opinion of Sprat Moore, every man is in the prime of condition. Hendrix will most likely play quarter for the Wildcats. Moore being out of the game on account of injuries. The Wildcats will present one of the fastest backfields in the state. Laird, who made the spectacular run through V. P. L.'s defense last Saturday, and Hendrix are two clever broken-field runners, and are liable to throw a scare into any team. The Wildcat line, although light, has shown wonderful defensive ability at times.

Davidson's line will average 170 lbs. to the man, and their backfield will average 150 lbs. Trinity's line has an average weight of 174 lbs., and its backfield averages 150 lbs. to the man.

Davidson's record is a good one, although its only victory was the first game of the season when the Wildcats defeated Elon, 24 to 0. They have been defeated by Presbyterian College of South Carolina and Georgia Tech, and played tie games with Wake Forest and V. P. L. Trinity's record is two games won and two games lost.

Both teams will come to Greensboro Saturday prepared for a lively scrap and both will find one. Neither has underestimated the ability of the other, and neither will be overconfident. The average weight of each team will vary little.

In spite of the recent defeats at the hands of Carolina and William and Mary, the Trinity Blue Devils are far from discouraged. Both engagements were hotly contested battles with heavier and more experienced teams, and the fight put up by the Blue Devils showed that they were fast rounding into form. The team is expected to show a complete

THREE TRINITY SENIORS ENTERED AS CANDIDATES FOR RHODES SCHOLARSHIP

Jackson, Bradshaw and Bridgers Are Trinity Candidates for Oxford Scholarship

The men chosen to represent Trinity College in the competition for Rhodes Scholarships are Jay L. Jackson, John E. Bridges, and Mike Bradshaw. These three men make up the quota for Trinity. The men to represent North Carolina will be selected by Dean H. S. Hilley, Secretary, at Wilson, N. C.

Oxford University again this year will get two more men from North Carolina according to the requirements of the Rhodes Scholarship fund. Cecil Rhodes established this Scholarship fund in America and in the English Colonies, the annual allowance amounting to 350 pounds, or about $1,650.00. If the holder wishes to travel extensively, and to take part in all phases of Oxford life,

SERIES OF THREE PLAYS TO BE PRESENTED HERE BY DEVEREAUX PLAYERS

Romeo and Juliet, Arms and the Man, and the Ghost Probable Plays to be Staged Here

The Devereaux Players of New York will appear at Trinity College on Monday and Tuesday, November 27 and 28 to present three plays—Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet, George Bernard Shaw's Arms and the Man, and Ibsen's Ghost. Dr. F. C. Brown and the other members of the Public Lectures Committee have been working on the project of bringing this company this fall, and as a result of a canvass made Saturday at the various class meetings, enough tickets were signed for to warrant the staging of a concert.

Much interest has been manifested by the students, and it is felt that many more will sign for tickets during the next few days. In case 600 reserved tickets are sold, the price will drop to $1.50 for the series of three plays, which is considerably lower than any series of plays offered to Trinity students in recent years.

It will be impossible to stage the plays on the Woodland Stage, and they will be staged in Craven Memorial Hall. One play will be presented on Monday night, and two on Tuesday, one in the afternoon and one at night.

The Devereaux Players have the reputation of being the leaders in their field, and the Public Lectures Committee, through its Chairman, Dr. Brown has been able to secure them at a very good rate due to the fact that the Players will stage a series of their plays in Chapel Hill after leaving Durham.

BROOKS TRIED FOR GRAND LARCENY AT MOCK TRIAL STAGED SATURDAY NIGHT

Hesperian Pulled Off Trial in Great Style—Bradshaw was the Star Witness

Saturday night in the Hesperian hall, instead of having a regular meeting, a mock trial was staged by some of the members of Hesperian. R. U. Brooks, Jr., was tried for grand larceny and was found guilty but not mentally responsible for his actions. The trial was featured by the natural acting of the defendant, the good work of the witnesses, especially Westbrook, Parson Lookout (W. C. Ball), and Miss Melissa Peiseger (W. G. Bradshaw), and the arguments set forth by lawyers, Allen for the defense and Dockery for the State.

The cross-examiner for the State, Brady, by questioning witnesses Westbrook and M. Bradshaw, tried to show

"Dinty" Moore Scored Only Touchdown, after Receiving 35-yard Pass—Hatcher Done Great Work—Score was 13-7

The second defeat of the season was marked up against the Trinity Blue Devils on last Saturday afternoon at Norfolk, Virginia, when Trinity clashed for the second time on the gridiron field with the William and Mary Indians, and for the second time was forced to accept the small end of a close score. The game was poorly played from start to finish despite the fact that both teams fought hard throughout the entire contest. Approximately 3500 people witnessed the game; the Trinity alumni from that section of the State appeared in large numbers, wearing the colors of Trinity as evidence of their loyalty to their Alma Mater.

The two opposing teams were equally matched as regards weight. The average weight of the linemen was: William and Mary, 174, 6-7; Trinity, 174, 2-7; while in the backfield the average weights were: William and Mary, 150½; Trinity, 156½. Trinity had a bit heavier team on the whole than William and Mary, for the average weight of the Indian eleven was 164, while the Blue Devils averaged 166 pounds to the man. This difference was offset by the seasoned experience of the Virginia team.

In the opening quarter the Indians by means of a smashing attack which the Blue Devils could not resist swept down the field for their first touchdown. In the second quarter Trinity braced and held, but in the third quarter the Indians again scored by means of a 70 yard run followed by an end run. After that touchdown Trinity not only braced and held her opponents, but also staged a series of drives and bewildering forward passes to keep the Indians continuously on the defense, scoring her only touchdown by an aerial attack on the 40 yard line. The final quarter was featured by hard fighting, but neither team was able to add any more points to the score.

The game opened with Caldwell kicking off for Trinity. William and Mary received the ball and with a series of line plunges and short end runs, plowed through the Trinity aggregation for the first touchdown. Trinity seemed unable to halt the drive of the Indians despite their efforts. Levy succeeded in making an end run for the second touchdown, and Hastings missed the goal on a placement kick. The tide turned after this play in favor of the Blue Devils, and by means of a series of dazzling forward passes accompanied with short drives at the Indian's line the Trinity eleven succeeded in carrying the ball past midfield where a 35 yard pass from Smith to Moore completed the drive and scored the only touchdown for Trinity. Simpson made the extra point with a dry kick.

Monk White, Levy, and Hastings did stellar work for the Indians. White and Levy were particularly successful in making end runs and bucking the line in line plunges. The 70 yard run by Hastings was the most spectacular feature of the game. Running through a broken field, he attained Trinity's 10 yard line where he stumbled after shaking off his last tackle.

Among the Blue Devils the work of Smith and Neil in starting and receiving forward passes deserves commendation. The forward pass from Smith to

TRINITY WON SOUTHERN FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP IN 1891

Practicing on a field in which a ditch had to be jumped before the goal was reached, without a paid coach, but with the pluck that never gives up, the Trinity College football squad of 1891 presented the most formidable team the South has viewed for many years. In this year, having defeated Furman in Columbia by the score of 96 to 0 and the University of North Carolina 6 to 4, the team journeyed to Richmond to contest the University of Virginia for the championship of the South. The teams met, and in a game that was second only in importance to the Yale-Princeton game played on the same day, the Blue and White defeated the Purple and Gold 20 to 0, thereby claiming the undisputed championship of the South. The feature of this game was a punt of seventy-five yards by Bob Durham which was recovered by Plato Durham on Virginia's five yard line.

Composing Trinity's squad were some of North Carolina's most gifted sons. Captain of the team was Tom Daniels, of New Bern, who is now a prominent figure in the State. As captain, coach, and player he created a sensation in athletic circles. For his sheer nerve, head-work, and speed he has never been excelled in Southern football circles.

Playing right end was Plato T. Durham, now Dean of the Theological School at Emory University and one of the South's most accomplished orators. He held down the position of end for several years and later became captain. Playing tackle next to him was R. L. Davis whose playing attracted attention throughout the State.

At guard was Isaac Erwin Avery, North Carolina's most gifted prose writer. According to the Trinity Archive his ability to play football was no less than his ability to write prose. He scored the lone touchdown that defeated Carolina and put Trinity in the championship race. Many times this handsome and dignified guard opened holes in the opposing line through which the bullets rushed to victory.

The center position was held by E. S. Whitaker, of Laurinburg, now deceased. His playing received comment throughout the State. Quoting from the Trinity Archive of 1891, in its reference to the Virginia game: "Garth and Whitaker held the two centers like veritable Titans." Left guard was played by Doc Caviness.

Playing left tackle was A. W. Plyler, now editor of the North Carolina Christian Advocate in Greensboro. Left end was taken care of by Billy McDowell. Early reports from the football games refer to the vacuum created by this side of the line as the "Plyler-McDowell Avenue." The playing of Fred Harper at quarter was a sensation. S. J. Durham, a prominent lawyer in Gastonia, played left half, while Tom Daniels stuck to the other half. R. L. Durham, now president of Southern Seminary at Buena Vista, Va., played fullback for four years and amazed the spectators with his punting ability.

Many other men composed the squad, including W. W. Flowers, now vice-president of Liggett Myers Tobacco Co., and Dr. J. P. Turner, prominent physician in Greensboro, who was better known then as Pink Turner. His brother, Will Turner, was manager of the team.

An alumnus relates an incident that preceded the game with Carolina in Chapel Hill. A professional runner, from parts unknown, sauntered into the park just before the game and challenged someone to race with him. Tom Daniels, who for his speed knew no peer in his neck of the wood, accepted the challenge. It is claimed that Walter Murphy, Carolina star, having great faith in his speed, made a small wager. The race was on and Daniels was completely outstripped, his opponent actually running backwards part of the way. Thus was a hero shorn of his glory and humiliated in the eyes of his own team and before the spectators who were attending the game. Probably for this reason Trinity failed to pile up a larger score in the game that followed.

During the first half of the Furman game the Trinity team scored fifty points. On entering the second half they resolved to roll up the score to over a hundred points. After the game only forty-six additional points had been scored, and it was said that the whole team was downhearted and discouraged over the fact.

When the team entered Richmond for the final contest they were slated for a sound licking. The game was well advertised as the football classic of the South. A paper commented on the large crowd present and remarked: "There were at least 1200 people present." The Virginians were generally ruled the favorites. The game started and as it progressed the lighter Trinity team steadily ground and admiration. Trinity made only one touchdown during the first half. As the game was in its final stages the noise of the Virginia rooters was drowned by the noise

ANOTHER SIDE REVEALED

From time immemorial it has been the custom for college students to rail and rant at college authorities and faculties for not cooperating with student interests and activities. This custom has been prevalent to some degree at Trinity during the past years. Whenever an athlete has been debarred from a college team for failure to come up to the scholarship requirements there has invariably arisen a wall of protest. The students would meet in small groups and the "narrow-mindedness" of the faculty would be the sole topic of conversation. Many students would harangue sympathetic listeners in the blood-red terms of anarchy, and would recount the sins of the authorities in the bitter and most unmerciful language.

At other times the failure of the faculty to grant holidays at a time when the student body wanted and felt that it should have them has proved the torch to set fire to tongues of incendiarism. In every case of this kind the principle argument made against those "higher up" has been that the faculty has no sympathy with the interests of the student body; that the professors are only concerned with studies and that they do not care whether the football or baseball team wins or loses.

The recent action of the Trinity faculty in giving permission to the students to go to Greensboro to attend the football game between the Blue Devils and the Wildcats is one instance which goes to prove that the prevalent belief is false; that there is not a total diversion of interests between the faculty and the students of our College. If the Trinity professors were interested only in classroom work, they would not allow the students to take a day off to go to Greensboro to cheer their team to victory. True, the students had to choose between going to the Fair and going to the Davidson game, but nevertheless it was a great concession on the part of the professors because it means that two recitations will be broken into, although each student is allowed to miss only one day.

This action of the faculty can mean only one thing—that the professors are interested in the success of Trinity's teams and in everything that pertains towards the well-being of the student body. "Tis true that they take a deeper interest in the serious side of college life than does the average student, but this comes from the clearer perspective life which they have, and which brings with it a better knowledge of the things that count the most. They know, as the students can not know, that in after life the work done over text-books is going to prove valuable, but they also know that there are other things in life besides books and work. They have college loyalty though it is more restrained than the boyant enthusiasm of the student; perhaps this restraint tends to make it deeper and fuller than the loyalty which is revealed by shouts and cheers. They are for Trinity heart and soul, and they are for everything that tends towards the promotion of the best interests of the students, though the students themselves often fail to see just what is for their best interest.

Knowing this, let the students of Trinity go to Greensboro Saturday to root for their team and for their College; but next Monday, having triumphed over the vaunted Wildcats, let them return and show their appreciation for what the faculty has done for them by playing into their work eager to make up the lost time.

WHY NOT IMPROVE THE PUBLICATIONS IN ALL RESPECTS?

The action of the Junior Class in unanimously petitioning the Board of Trustees for the adoption of a suitable publication fee is significant in that the action of the rising senior class represents the crystallized opinion of the men who are going to be the editors, business managers, and general leaders of the campus activities next year.

The necessity for a publication fee has been mentioned several years ago, but the need of concentrating all efforts in raising sufficient funds to carry on an enlarged athletic program has prevented the staging of any campaign for this purpose.

This fall no attempt is being made to attract attention and bring the matter up in a whirlwind fashion. The editors and business managers of the three publications discussed the problem among themselves and then signed a petition asking the trustees to "investigate the present methods of production, distribution, and financing of the publications." They furthermore expressed their belief that publication fee of $7.50 would be sufficient to cover the combined subscription price of the three publications of Trinity College.

The Junior Class then took up the matter and after considering it in two class meetings adopted the report of its committee by an unanimous vote, and has thus aligned itself solidly for a definite publication fee to be collected by the College Treasury.

Opponents of the scheme have raised the cry that it would be unwise to collect $7.50 from each student and then distribute it in the ratio of $4.10 for the Chanticleer, $1.70 for the Archives, and $1.70 for the CHRONICLE. Of course this would be unwise, and such a fear is easily found in the minds of the uninformed. With the adoption of a publication fee, the reorganization of the management of the publications would naturally result. The need for such a remodeling goes hand in hand with the need for the adoption of a set fee which will eliminate the speculative feature in the managing of a paper.

That is why the first petition of the subject asks the Board of Trustees to study all phases of the publication question. It seems that now is the best time to get rid of the old system which has proved to be impractical. For instance, why does the Senior Class control two papers and the two literary societies combined control another one through a representative board? With Student Government established, a more representative administration could be easily worked out.

Another feature of the question is that at present too much burden and responsibility is thrust upon the editors and managers of the three publications, who work night and day to keep the papers going and do not even get excused from physical exercise, or get any academic credit. Why is it that the duties of the editors have no limitations, and the business managers do all the work generally covered by the circulation, advertising, auditing, and clerical departments?

The price of the three publications combined at the present rates is $9.00. A publication fee of $7.50 would pay for all three, and would distribute the burden equally among all students. Better management and better publications would result. The value of the papers as mediums of information, discussion, and literary work would increase in a corresponding manner.

OPEN FORUM

IS THERE NO RELIEF?

"Yet once more, O ye laurels, and once more, Ye myrtles brown, etc." lamented the lyricist. What more biting passage could be applied to the recent action of the College in restraining two football stars, who are apparently eligible, from participation in Trinity's contests? Little is known of the internal evidence that has been produced in the college offices to disqualify these players, for that information does not belong to your reporter, but much external evidence has been brought to light and can not be passed over without due comment.

It is a well known fact that many men leave this college every year with an unpleasant taste in their mouths. It is only natural that they should. They have been allowed to linger about the campus for weeks with the expectation and hope of being admitted to college, only to be told in the end by an official, "I thought you were visiting your brother," or the like. Probably, and most likely, the student should not have been admitted, but there can be little justice in allowing a man to hang on for weeks at his own expense of time and money and then to be politely informed that he is not in college. Such students, and there are quite a few, have left Trinity in disgust and have entered other colleges and done well. This policy is hurting Trinity.

There seems to be no definite machinery in the administrative office to take a definite and final stand as to the eligibility of players. Ever so often members of the squad are hailed into the dean's office and told that they can not play. It has become a weekly pastime, and the whole student body is kept in a state of anxiety. The patience of the athletic squad and the student body has been strained to the breaking point.

When is this hurtful policy going to cease? When will there be sufficient machinery erected in the administrative office to take quick and decisive action concerning the eligibility of athletes? The teams suffer, the student body suffers, and Trinity suffers.

No attempt has been made to place the blame at the feet of any individual, and it is right that none should be made. The trouble lies in the fact that there is not sufficient machinery in the college office to insure a system that will function properly.

BELIEVES "BLUE DEVILS" IS RIGHT NAME

To the Editor:

Trinity students have been endeavoring for several years to give their teams a name that will stick and one by which they will be recognized all over the State and nation. Attempts have been made by the student body to adopt a name and time and again these attempts have failed because of petty rivalry and jealousy on the part of certain leaders. The situation has finally simmered down to this: the student body as a whole can never agree on any suitable name, so it is up to some organization that has the power to take action in the matter.

I am glad to see the CHRONICLE take this action and to it goes the credit of really taking a step forward. The name, Blue Devils, is all right and no one can give any logical reason why it should not be used. When this name is mentioned no one ever thinks of the gentleman from below but immediately there dashes into the mind a picture of those gallant fighters from France who never knew when they were defeated, and such is the spirit that should and will typify our team.

WHY SHOULD THE CHRONICLE NAME THE TEAM?

October 21, 1922.

For Your Open Forum, Mr. Editor of THE CHRONICLE:

"Blue Devils Defeated by Carolina Machine in Hard Fought Contest." Ah, ha! what do we have before our eyes? A perplexing problem has at last been solved! "Tis needless to lie awake pondering over the question further. Sleep peacefully and worry no more; for a hero has appeared in our midst and has taken the load from off our shoulders and has carried along with ease, that which a student body consisting of over 800 men and women were together unable to carry. And who, do you ask, is this famous hero, who has so gallantly and spectacularly come to such a timely rescue. Prepare yourselves first before I remove ITS name. Now, dear readers, remove your hats and with them in your hands and with expressions on your faces of profound respect to and admiration for this BEING of now world-wide fame, be ye wies to this hero,— Mr. CHRONICLE! Can we ever pay the high tribute to IT that is demanded? For such service rendered, I fear we cannot even begin to pay this debt. We can only thank our hero and forever bow before IT, little and incapable as we surely must be.

So, our athletic teams have been named. The unfortunate part of it all is this: the parents of the baby had nothing to do with the naming of it. The name came from another source. The only time when the mother and the father had anything to say at all was on several occasions when names were being suggested, they not only failed to suggest any, but behold the name is: "BLUE DEVILS."

Hurrah! go to it, our Hero. Do our thinking. We're deaf, dumb, and ignorant. We don't know what we want. We are "incapable." Lead us, oh, our hero, lead us forward; we are blind! CONCLUSION: Personally the writer has little objections to the name Blue Devils, but he is so constituted as to dislike the scene of when the Tale Attempts To Wag the Dog.

Now, Mr. Editor, thanking you for this space, I am,

Very relieved,
WALTER WM. TURBENTINE.

Dramatic Club to Stage Two Plays During Fall

The Trinity College Dramatic Club is planning great things for this year, the first year that the men of the college have been included in the membership of this organization.

At the last meeting it was voted that the local Dramatic Club join the New York Drama League. It is the hope of those interested in drama that through this organization the work of the Dramatic Club will be forwarded in a pleasing manner. The present plans of the Dramatic Club are to have two plays before Christmas. The women of the club are to give one and the men the other. Then in the spring, a so called, main or big play will be given by both men and women.

Cox and Markham Spoke to Chemistry Club on Friday

The first regular meeting of the Chemistry Club was held last Friday night in the chemistry lecture room, with about 15 new members present. It was decided that the chemistry club in co-operation with the Biology and Physics Clubs, would attempt to bring to Trinity during the year at least two noted scientists for the purpose of delivering lectures on popular subjects.

Catherine Cox and E. C. Markham read papers on the Natural Resources of the United States. Markham, who appeared first on the program spoke on the mineral and water resources of the United States. He pointed that the mineral resources of the United States was on a gradual decline and showed the immediate necessity of a check in the use of iron and coal and the use of the various minerals. It was shown how the water supply was responsible for the rapid development of the modern industry.

Cox considered the land and the forests as a natural resource of the United States. She told of the great loss in the forests of the United States by fire and by the carelessness of the lumber man. The necessity of protection for the forests of the United States was emphasized by comparison with the forests of Europe.

MIKE BRADSHAW AND HIS TENNIS SQUAD TO LEAVE TOMMORROW ON FALL TRIP

College Teams and Greensboro Club to be Met During Short Trip
Within State

The tennis team, under the efficient coaching of Dr. N. I. White, has been through a stiff practice routine for the past few weeks in anticipation of the fall trip. The entire squad has been working hard, and the players are showing up well. Two members of the squad are old tennis men, such as "Squirt" Turentine and Carol Summers. Among the seasoned racket-wielders, however, is Mayor, a freshman who is showing excellent form. There were numerous aspirants striving to make the team, and the preliminaries were hotly contested. The elimination games proved every player's ability. The members of the varsity team are as follows:

W. W. Turentine, Captain; J. C. Wilkison, Carol Summers, Ned Kearns, E. C. Brooks, Mayor.

From the varsity squad, Dr. White will pick four men to represent Trinity for the trip. Mike Bradshaw, manager, will accompany the team. The team leaves Wednesday, October 25. According to the management the schedule will probably be as follows:

Elon or Lenoir College, Wednesday, October 25, Guilford College, Thursday, October 26, Greensboro Country Club, Friday, October 27.

With the exception of Greensboro Country Club, the schedule will not be an especially heavy one. A much more extensive trip is to be arranged by the management for the spring. The prospects for the spring tournaments are very good with a reserve squad personnel as follows: D. S. Johnson, Sloan, Pinex, Shankle, Sprinkle, W. E. Scott, J. C. Irvin and Babington.

BLANKETS HAVE ARRIVED WILL BE USED SATURDAY

Fifteen Dollars Must Yet be Raised to Pay for Blankets—Donations
Will be Welcomed

The blankets have arrived. Trinity's Blue Devils will now be able to make a big show at the game in Greensboro before the biggest crowd of supporters that they have ever played before. The blankets arrived Monday and are now at the college store. While there is still a small deficit which must be made up before these blankets are presented the men in charge feel that they will meet no difficulty in raising the required amount. It is planned to formally present these blankets to the team at the pep meeting just before the Davidson game.

The following will show just how much more money is needed and where it will go.

Expenses
20 blankets	$147.00
Express charges	4.95
Telegram	1.40
Printing charges	1.75
	$155.10

Up to date 279 tickets have been sold which would mean that there is now on hand $139.50. This leaves a deficit of $15.60 which must be raised.

Classical Club Initiated Eight New Members Lately

The Trinity College Classical Club held its annual initiation last Thursday evening in the Greek room of West Duke Building; Drs. Pepler and Gates being in charge of ceremonies. This initiation is one of the most unusual on the campus and an innovation among the department clubs, for it is an adaptation of the old Aedon mysteries. The mysteries are of considerable interest to the Greek and Latin students who compose the membership of the club.

Following the ceremonies, speeches were made by the initiates in Greek and Latin. Plans were then discussed as to the years work of the club. Plans for the stimulation of interest in the classical department and the donation of some books to the library were passed. At the conclusion of the business matters, refreshments were served.

The following men were initiated: F. A. Brigrum, Wade Beck; W. R. Brown; E. S. Gilly; C. C. Jernigan; W. A. Kale; J. T. Lanning; W. F. Ricks.

L. E. Workman, ex '25, was a visitor on the campus Saturday.

David Brady '17, spent a few days here last week.

DEBATES WITH LEADING COLLEGES OF COUNTRY HAVE BEEN SCHEDULED

Teams Will be Sent to New York
Swarthmore and Emory University

The Debate Council has already scheduled intercollegiate debates at Swarthmore College, New York University, and Emory University, and is working on plans for one more debate, provided the literary societies agree to finance it.

A team of three men will be picked to debate Swarthmore at Swarthmore, Pennsylvania and the same team will go to New York City to debate New York University. These two institutions sent teams to Durham last year, which were successful in both cases.

A separate team to debate Emory University at Trinity will be chosen. If a third debate is scheduled, the number of intercollegiate debaters will be up to nine.

Wake Forest, Randolph-Macon, Furman, and Washington and Lee have expressed their desire to arrange debates with Trinity, and indications are that the third debate will be arranged with Washington and Lee. The Columbian Literary Society has agreed to pay its part of the expenses, and the Hesperian Society will take the matter up at its next meeting.

TRINITY VOLUNTEER BAND WILL ATTEND CONFERENCE

Trinity Volunteer Band Will Present
Pageant at State Volunteer
Conference in March

The State Volunteer Conference will be held in Raleigh from March 8-11, convening one day earlier than it did last year. The Trinity College Volunteer students have been asked to give a pageant which will be one feature of the Conference at Raleigh. More colleges will be represented at the Conference than have been represented before. The meeting will be held in the Y. M. C. A. building at North Carolina State College.

Miss Virginia Pritchard, the travelling secretary of the North American Volunteer Movement, recently made her scheduled visit here. She made a speech to the students of the college in which she reviewed the history of missions and made an appeal to the students in behalf of the missionary movement. After speaking to the students, Miss Pritchard spoke to the Volunteer Band. In her speech to the band she endeavored to simplify some of the problems relative to being a missionary. She also addressed the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. cabinets. In addition to the speeches which Miss Pritchard made she had eighteen individual interviews with students who are preparing to enter the missionary work.

The Volunteer band is striving to promote the interest of missions through the various religious organizations of the college. The Volunteer band does not have a definite program for the ensuing year, but some interesting educational work will be done soon by the members of the band. Each member of the band is to make a special study of the nature, work, and needs of a particular field and report the same to the band. In this way the members of the band will be enabled to secure a knowledge of the missionary work in general.

It should be understood that the Volunteer Band does not function exactly like the other religious organizations of the college. Most of the work is done individually, and the other organizations are the means by which the Volunteer Band forwards its purpose. Therefore the band has no definite program, and it varies the methods of its meetings to suit the immediate needs of its members.

Dr. W. P. Few, President of Trinity College, Prof. B. L. Flowers, and Prof. H. E. Spence last week attended the Western North Carolina conference held at Monroe. Prof. Spence was a delegate from the Eastern Conference, and he also appeared in behalf of the summer school for ministers which is held each June at this college. The conference took up several questions of vital importance to Trinity College.

F. E. Loftin '22, who is studying medicine at Carolina this year, spent Saturday and Sunday on the campus.

Henry Cole '21, who is in the bond business in New York, was on the campus with friends for a few days last week.

TRINITY WON SOUTHERN CHAMPIONSHIP IN 1891

of Trinity supporters. After the Trinity team had made several touchdowns, time was called, and by mutual consent the game was ended. Each team lustily cheered the other, and the umpire and referee (Messrs. Walter Murphy and Potts), and parted the best of friends. An alumnus who later studied law at the University of Virginia in writing back to a classmate at Trinity says, "They hold Trinity in great reverence and respect since she gave them a lesson in November last. And they never cease to wonder how such a team was found among 150 students. I explained that they grow that way in North Carolina, and they are inclined to believe it."

After a lapse of almost thirty years Trinity has reentered the sport in which she was the pioneer of the South. She is inclined to think that they still "grow that way in North Carolina." With the same spirit that guided her sons of '91, and with the pluck that never surrenders, she is going to Greensboro Saturday to match her strength and skill with Davidson. Going with her will be the entire student body and supporters, one thousand strong, to cheer their team to victory.

Although Trinity has been in the field for less than three years let it not be imagined that she will be represented by any weak team. Building up a strong team from comparatively green material has been no small task on the part of the coaches, and their excellent work reflects credit on themselves. Saturday Trinity will present a team of seasoned veterans that should gain respect from more than one North Carolina institution.

A. W. STAMEY.

IN THE ENEMIES' CAMPS

With a record of two games won and two lost thus far in the seasons schedule and with a squad which gradually seems to be rounding out into a creditable football team, Trinity faces no easy schedule for the remainder of the season.

Davidson, who had not been rated as such a dangerous opponent since the Wake Forest game, staged a bewildering comeback last Saturday when they held the strong V. P. I. team to a 7-7 tie, which team had lost to Center only by a four point margin.

The success of the Wake Forest squad has been as equally inconsistent. Having lost to Carolina in a 63 to 2 game and in turn to Elon with a score of 7 to 0, they turned around and held Davidson to a 6-0 tie. The last three games of the season, however, give more room for speculation than do the former two.

Presbyterian College, which is supposed to have an unusually strong team this year since they defeated Davidson 8 to 7 earlier in the season, has since lost to South Carolina 7 to 0 and to Clemson 13 to 0. These scores seem to throw some mystery on the real strength of the Presbyterian's team.

Randolph-Macon presents an easier record, having won nine points and lost fifty-three in the two games thus far played. N. C. State defeated them 20 to 0, and William and Mary swamped them in a 33 to 7 victory.

From all indications Wofford is going to put up a much harder fight this year than she did last season. Although having played only one game of any merit this season which was the one lost to South Carolina 20 to 0, this score does not cast any reflection on Wofford's ability to give Trinity a hard-fought game. With Rip Major as their coach, Wofford may yet improve.

PROPOSAL THAT FACULTY STAGE AUTOMOBILE SHOW IS FAVORABLY RECEIVED

Overland Model Molecule Slated to Win Blue Ribbon—Nine Fords to Compete

Some one has achieved the great ideal. From the world of imagination has sprung a plan to honor fitly Trinity's faculty. The idea is: to hold a college automobile show in which will be shown in imposing array the assemblage of automotive products owned by the professorship. Such an exhibition, it has been pointed out, would show the progressive tendencies of the faculty members to interested outsiders, and would prove a splendid advertisement for the college. Realizing the possibilities of the idea we have taken inventory of the faculty owned "gas wagons" and have pictured in a vague way the details of the show.

It has been unanimously agreed that Dr. Vaughan's "Molecule" should be given the place of honor. The Overland Company no longer makes parts for this model and it would be a curiosity. It is doubtful, however, whether it could be shown in operation. It would be a splendid example of the conservation of energy, for the Physics I class.

Running a close second for first honors would come Dr. Cotton's "glorified perambulator" in the form of a 1910 Maxwell. Of course it is a splendid car, but the majority of the best economics students agree that it is a fragrant violation of every economic principle set forth by Dr. Cotton. Maybe the car has economic functions if no other kind.

Dr. Peppeler believes in comfort as well as Greek, for he has a Jordan sedan which has never been driven over fifteen miles per hour and is spotlessly clean. In the exhibition it would be the center of beauty. In the same section with the Jordan would be placed Professor Patterson's easy riding Dodge. Dr. Boyd's Durant with the patented split and pop feature, and Dr. Cunningham's Studebaker. Rumor has it that a sentimental reason was attached to Dr. Cunningham's buying a Studebaker—he used to ride in a Studebaker wagon.

Henry Ford would be represented in all his glory at the proposed show, for no less than nine "Tin Lizzies" rattle among the faculty ranks. In the ninety-eight cent section these Fords would be placed in the following order of ownership: Gross, Holton, Aldridge, Hamlin, Bloomquist, Jordan, Steiner, and Burdage. Dr. Gilbert has two bumpers with a Pliver hung between. This would be placed in the bumper section however. It has been aptly said that Trinity has a Ford full of knowledge with a shot car for every rattle.

To the best of our knowledge the above enumerated would cover the list of entries, and after reviewing the list, it is apparent that the faculty members have done themselves proud in their choices of mechanical perfection and automotive beauty. It is hoped that the cars will run at the time of the show. Especially do we want to note the eberations of the "Molecule." Whether the proposed show would be a success remains to be seen.

Second Football Team Not To Meet High School Teams

Trinity's second string men will probably not get a chance to show their ability at the major sport this season. There has been much speculation as to the strength of Coach Steiner's "scrubs," but it seems that they will not have a chance to exhibit it this year.

Many football teams of the State have made attempts to arrange games with Trinity's second team, but none of them have succeeded. The 17th Field Artillery of Camp Bragg, Oxford High School, and the High Point Athletic Club have all made attempts to secure games. Unless the unexpected happens the second team will have to be content to serve as a practice team for the Varsity.

The work of the Student Volunteer organization was explained by Miss Pritchard, field secretary of the movement, at last week's meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Miss Pritchard dealt with the foundation of the organization, which occurred in 1886 at the Mount Hermon School, Massachusetts. In the past 36 years, the movement has sent over 9,000 students to the foreign mission fields.

Using the call of the prophet Isaiah as a text, Miss Pritchard made an appeal for missionary workers.

Thursday night was program night in the Student Government Association. A model Bible I class in which the present "crop of flappers" were well represented was staged. The trials and tribulations of Professor Spence—personified by Nora Chaffin—were visibly depicted.

The association was made to realize that this condition was not restricted to Bible I but was true of all other courses according to the confidential conversation between Professor Spence and Dr. Adams—personified by Herminia Haynes.

These two eminent observers reached the conclusion that the present "crop" could be tamed even as was Aura Holton, Helen Contrell, Florence Harris, and Flora Meredith.

POOR PLAYING IN FIRST HALF GAME WILLIAM AND MARY SATURDAY'S GAME

Moore in the third quarter was one of the prettiest plays ever witnessed on the William and Mary gridiron. The entire team deserves special mention for its offense in the third quarter and its defense in the fourth quarter.

Hatcher evidenced the fighting Trinity spirit when, after suffering a dislocated shoulder in the first quarter and being placed under ether by attending surgeons, he returned to the game within 20 minutes after the accident and proved to be a powerful antagonist during the second half.

The line-up and summary follows:
Trinity—7 William and Mary—13
Position
Moore Chalkey
Left End
Hatcher Chandley
Left Tackle
Taylor Parsons
Left Guard
Simpson Todd
Center
Caldwell House
Right Guard
Boling Young
Right Tackle

Ladgerstadt Levy
Left Half
Garrett White

Score by quarters:

Trinity 0 0 7 0—7
William and Mary 7 6 0 0—13

Substitutions and summary:
For Trinity: Neal, Chute, Brown, and Boswell. For William and Mary: Keister, Rangeley, and Irwin. Touchdowns, Levy 2, and Moore 1. Extra points from five yard scrimmage line, Hastings by placement kick and Simpson by drop kick. First downs by William and Mary, 10; by Trinity, 8. Forward passes completed, William and Mary one in four; Trinity five in nine. Penalties on William and Mary, 10 yards; Trinity, 20 yards. Time of quarters, 15 minutes. Officials: Referee, James E. TRINITY AND DAVIDSON TO MEET IN CLASSIC OF SEASON IN GREENSBORO reversal of form in Greensboro Saturday, where Davidson will be taken on to decide who will be the runner-up in North Carolina football circles. Incidentally this will be the first football played between the two colleges in the history of the institutions.

Trinity will present one of the most formidable lines in the state Saturday. Caldwell has been shifted to guard, the position he played last season; and tackle will be played by Boling, who proved his worth and ability in the last two games. The Indians ran very few plays over his side of the line in the game at Norfolk. Caldwell's punting has improved wonderfully since the Carolina game, and it is probable that he will take care of the punting Saturday.

Every indication points to a battle royal in Greensboro. Both teams will be evenly matched in weight and speed, and the comparative scores indicate the same. Davidson has a scrapping team, and if they do not have an off-day, Trinity will have her hands full.

The game will be well attended, over four thousand persons being expected. Nearly all the students of G. C. W. and N. C. C. will be on hand, supported by the Greensboro High School. The Davidson student body will be present, and a large crowd from Winston-Salem will swell the ranks.

The probable line-up for the game Saturday is as follows:

Trinity	Position	Davidson
Carter	Faison
	Right End
Boling	Clark
	Right Tackle
Caldwell	Sorrells
	Right Guard
Simpson	Bryce
	Center
Taylor	S. Davis

he is supplemented with three to five hundred dollars extra. The primary purpose of the scholarship is to attract the best men from the best colleges to go to Oxford to continue higher training. The men that Mr. Rhodes had in mind when he gave the great sum were those who are talented for leadership. He above all things despised a book worm.

Each state has two representatives, and the representatives are elected every two years, thus keeping two men in the university all the time. When these graduate, others fill their places. The scholarships are not altogether competitive, they are based upon force of character, literary talent, and scholastic ability. This combination goes to make up the selection. The committee prefers men who are capable of going out into the world to accomplish things and thus boost Oxford.

The annual drive which the Young Men's Christian Association staged last week for money resulted in the pledging of $170. The Y. M. C. A. has no way of raising money since every man automatically becomes a member of this association upon entering college and the running expenses must be raised by subscription.

This organization is a very active one and the things that it accomplishes sometimes receives very little credit. The Handbooks which contain valuable information for every student are gotten out by it and every freshman remembers those men who welcomed him at the station and helped him get settled at the beginning of the college year. These men were put there for that purpose by the Y. M. C. A.

The freshman reception which is given annually by the Y. M. C. A. and its sister organization, the Y. W. C. A. The biggest part of the money that was raised during the drive will be used for the paying of the bills incurred by this reception.

The Y. M. C. A. has been instrumental in bringing lecturers to the college who give very valuable talks to the students, and these lecturers have exerted great influence in the past. On practically every Wednesday night at its regular meeting some man or woman of note gives a talk on some timely subject.

At present not so much interest is being manifested in track, but the indications are that the team will be up to par. Those who are out are showing up exceedingly well for this season of the year. Some good material has been found in the freshman class.

Twenty-three men are now out for places and others are expected to report at any time. Some of the regular standbys have not reported for practice yet. Coach Burbage wants those who are contemplating entering any of the field events to come out now and practice at the year, as this is necessary if any worthy vaulters, hurdlers, and other contestants for places are to be in the best shape.

On December 2 six men will go to Emory University, Atlanta to contest in the Southern Methodist Road Race which will be an excellent trip.

On the same date of the road race at Emory University the State Tract Meet will be held at Chapel Hill. It is necessary that the track team be in good shape for this meet as Trinity is desirous of capturing several first places.

Blakney, a first year man here, is showing up well. Harrison, Hatcher, Phillips, and Bolick are also showing good form. Barnhardt, the dash king, for some reason has not yet reported.

The North Carolina Collegiate Press Association will meet in Raleigh at Meredith College on Friday and Saturday of this week. This organization was perfected three years ago and since that time, it has grown very rapidly until now it occupies a prominent place among college activities in the state. The association includes practically every collegiate publication in the state of any rank. Trinity has three representatives in the association, some of whom will attend the meeting this year. Each member is entitled to two delegates to the convention held at Meredith, but as yet it has not been decided as to who will attend from Trinity. The Davidson game on Saturday makes it almost impossible for Trinity to be represented on that day.

that the defendant was at the Y. M. C. A. meeting on the night of October 17, on which the defendant was supposed to have stolen gold-fish from the Anne Roney fountain, the property of Trinity College; that they saw him by the fountain taking the fish; and that his actions were those of a normal man and not an insane one.

The examiner tried to prove by questioning Wiggins, another witness for the State, that he (Wiggins) saw the defendant by the pool removing fish when passing by the pool on the night in question.

The cross-examiner for the defense tried to confuse these witnesses in making contradictory statements concerning the affair in question.

The defense tried to prove by cross-examining Parson Lookout that the defendant had been more or less feeble-minded since he reached the age of 6 years, due to the fact that a mule kicked him in the head at that age and that for a short time preceding and following the theft of the fish the said Brooks had been acting in a manner which showed him to be unusually incompetent mentally.

Dr. I. Saw Bones told, on being examined by the defense, of being a specialist of the brain and of having examined Brooks and finding him insane. He told of having recommended that the defendant be sent to the hospital for the insane at Morganton. The State tried to show Dr. Bones up as an inefficient brain expert, but as Dr. Bones (Bill Ricks) has an established reputation, was unsuccessful.

The defense then put the defendant on the stand merely to show his insanity. Mr. Brooks then showed his wonderful natural ability to act the part of an insane man. The feature of his testimony was that when questioned as to his name answered that he was E. C. Brooks, Jr.

The beautiful Miss Felpaper was then put on the stand. There was a general craning of necks on the part of the fair co-eds to see if Miss Felpaper was dressed in the latest style (long dresses) and it was found that she was not. It was shown by this beautiful maiden of West Durham that by having a date with Mr. Thigpen, the judge, she had given Brooks mad through jealousy. She told of several instances which had come to her attention showing him to be absolutely non compos mentis.

The State's attorneys tried to show mainly that Brooks had taken the fish and that his actions were those of a sane man at the time. The defense endeavored to show that Brooks had been feeble-minded since he reached the age of 6 years, that he was rendered altogether mad through jealousy, and that for this reason he was not responsible mentally for his actions.

The jury found the said defendant guilty but non compos mentis and returned the verdict that he should be sent to the hospital for insane at Morganton.
