PLANS TO ADD INCOME FROM MILLION DOLLARS TO COLLEGE ARE MADE

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING OF THE ALUMNI WAS HELD FRIDAY NIGHT IN RALEIGH

S. C. VANN GIVES $10,000.00

Plan Presented by Joseph G. Brown
Unanimously Adopted and Meets
With Great Initial Success

Last Friday night in the City Auditorium at Raleigh the Trinity College Alumni were the guests of the women of the Edenton Street Methodist Church of that city at a banquet given for their regular annual meeting at the Eastern Conference of the Methodist Church. Places were laid for 700 alumni at a magnificent turkey dinner. The feature of the banquet was the resolution of the alumni members present to launch a million dollar drive in order to match the recent gift of Mr. J. B. Duke. This plan was originated by Mr. Joseph G. Brown, Raleigh's most prominent banker, a member of the Board of Trustees, and, most of all, a loyal alumnus of Trinity.

Dr. E. C. Brooks, once a member of the Faculty of Trinity and now perhaps the most prominent man in education in North Carolina, was toastmaster for the occasion. He introduced the Honorable Josephus Daniels as the first speaker of the evening. Mr. Daniels spoke of his wish that he could honestly call the members of the association present "Fellow Alumni," but he was only a member by adoption and thus could not do so with honest conviction. He claimed credit for the locating of Trinity in Durham, saying that an article published in the "News and Observer," edited by him, when the change of the college from Old Trinity was being considered, was indirectly the cause for its being moved to Durham. He concluded his remarks by stating that Christian Education is the hope of the world and should be fostered as much as possible by the churches of America.

Dr. W. P. Few was the next speaker. He spoke of the need for expansion of Trinity College, telling of the need for expansion because of the crowded conditions in the dormitories, and the fact that many were turned away because

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE HAS RECENTLY BEEN ANNOUNCED

Team Will Take Long Trip South—
Will Play Five Games—Prospects
Bright for Good Team

Although a full schedule has not yet been completed, it is an assured fact that Trinity's basketball squad will go south this year. Opening with a game against Davidson in Charlotte February 8, the team will invade Georgia and return through South Carolina. Georgia Tech, University of Georgia, Furman, University of South Carolina, and Clemson will be visited by the team, the last game being played with Clemson February 14.

Final arrangements have not been made for the state games, but Carolina, State, Wake Forest, and N.C. are scheduled. The season opens January 6 when Newberry will be contested and will end March 2 with a game, probably with Guilford. Two games have been scheduled with the Durham "Y" team.

Practice will start early in December, and a host of new candidates will be on hand to try for a varsity berth. There will be several vacancies left by the last year's team. It is doubtful if Pennington will be able to enter the practice, while Richardson will be sorely missed. Simpson, Crute, Spikes, Neal, Ormond, Ritch, and Brooks will be on hand to form a nucleus for the new squad.

NEW REGULATIONS FOR EXM UNDER HONOR SYSTEM

The Honor System is now in full force at Trinity and the Council has passed several rulings in regard to quizzes and examination. Instructions will hereafter leave classes when written work is given and no note books or test-books are to be taken to a quiz or examination. The college is planning to furnish blue books to the students at early date, but at the present students will leave their bluebooks on the instructor's desk to be redistributed among the students.

TRINITY WON FIRST PLACE IN NORTH CAROLINA CROSS COUNTRY MEET ON FRIDAY

Blakey and Mabry Won First and Third Places for Trinity—
Ransom Got Second

Trinity's track team, which has been undergoing strenuous training for the last few weeks under the efficient coaching of Coach Burbage, won its first honors in the cross-country run staged at Hanes Field last Friday afternoon. There were four contestants from each of the four colleges represented, and the team making the least numbers of points was given first place. The Trinity team, as a whole, showed great superiority over all other contestants, and their success in the first meet of the season gives promise for a most creditable track team for the remainder of the year. Some of the local men had never entered in a real meet before the one held last week, but from the way in which they outstripped the visiting runners, there is every reason to believe that they will win other meets before the college year is over.

Blakey, for Trinity, won first place, and crossed the goal line far ahead of the second man. He was breathing easily and seemed good for a few extra laps if necessary to win the place. Mabry, the new Freshman runner for Trinity, took third place. Mabry is still new at the game, but he has already demonstrated his ability to run, and under proper coaching he may develop into a valuable man before his four years are gone. Hargrove and Withrow, the two other contestants for Trinity, won fifth and seventh place respectively. Although they come last on the Trinity list, nevertheless when compared to the men that entered from the other colleges, they stand near the top.

Below is given the list of men entered from each of the four colleges, together with the numerical indicating what place they won, and also the final score in points.

HIGH CLASS FOOTBALL PLAYED

Ladgerstadt's 69-Yard Run and Pass
Which Brought About P. C.
Score Features

Probably the most thrilling gridiron contest staged on Hanes field this season between Trinity and the Presbyterian College of South Carolina resulted in a 6-0 tie. A 60-yard run by half-back Ladgerstadt, of Trinity, which resulted in the only touchdown for the Trinity eleven and a 35-yard forward pass from Hindman to Mason, of Presbyterian College, which paved the way for the sole touchdown of the Bluestockings, were the outstanding features of the game. Several brilliant plays throughout the contest brought the enthusiasm of the spectators at a high pitch until the final whistle announced the end of the exciting game.

The scoring by both teams was done in the second half. Ladgerstadt's run came in the third period after the Trinity eleven had been outplayed on the defensive by the dazzling end runs of Pearce and Wilson, the visiting half-backs. The Bluestockings by means of dazzling forward passes and a five-yard run brought the ball to the 10-yard line, after which Hindman carried the ball across the goal line in a line plunge.

Both goals were threatened on several occasions, but the remarkable defensive work of both teams prevented any further scoring. Although the Trinity eleven was more successful in its offensive tactics during the first half of the game, the Presbyterians retained in the second half with a series of forward

MUSICAL CLUB OPENS SEASON WITH A TOUR IN WESTERN CENTERS

INITIAL CONCERT WAS GIVEN AT LEXINGTON ON LAST MONDAY NIGHT

JAZZ ORCHESTRA IS A FEATURE

Musical Club Will Give Concert Here
After it Has Returned From Western Tour

The Trinity Musical Club, under the directorship of Professors Truett and Patterson and managed by C. E. Jordan, left Monday morning on an extended tour of the western part of the state. The first concert was given in Lexington Monday night under the auspices of the Men's Bible Class of the Methodist Church, and on Tuesday night the Club appeared at Queens College in Charlotte. Tonight a concert was given in Gastonia and tomorrow night Shelby will be visited. Congressman Clyde Hoey of Shelby has shown special interest in the Club this year, and it is under the auspices of his Sunday School Class that the Club will give its concert Thursday.

On Friday the Club will go to Waynesville, giving a concert there Friday night. Asheville will be host to the musicians Saturday and Sunday. A concert will be given Saturday night and at the Sunday morning service at the Central Methodist Church, the Club will have charge of the music. Dr. Clovis G. Chappell who four years ago held a revival here and became very popular with the students is pastor of this church. On Sunday afternoon the veterans of the World War who are recuperating at Oconee will give a concert, as is the custom of the Club when in Asheville.

The musicians will turn their faces toward Durham on Monday and begin to get in touch with the proper authorities.

SPRINKLE ELECTED MANAGER OF BASKETBALL TEAM

Henry Sprinkle has been elected manager of basketball for the coming season. W. T. Huckabee who was elected by the Athletic Council last year did not return this year and the Council picked Sprinkle as the logical man for the place. A tentative schedule has been arranged and practice will begin December 1. The Graduate Manager is negotiating with the authorities of the Central High School in the city for the use of the basketball court which is one of the best in the state.

TRINITY RESERVES WERE VICTORS IN HARD SCRAP WITH HIGH POINT STARS

Game Attracted Only Small Crowd of High Point Fans on Last Saturday

By intercepting a forward pass during the last three minutes of play and making a dash around left end for ten yards the Trinity reserves were able to defeat the High Point Athletic Club on Week Field in High Point Saturday by a score of 7 to 2. Although Coach Burbage's protégés outplayed High Point in the first half and were in their territory most of the time, fumbles at the critical moment were costly. After holding High Point on the two-yard line for four downs and then allowing them to make two points by a safety in the third quarter, Trinity made a come-back during the last few minutes of play when Captain Carraway leaped into the air, intercepted a pass and tore off eleven yards before he was downed. English then took the ball around left end for nine yards scoring a touchdown. Shipp added the extra point with a beautiful drop kick.

Neither side was able to gain through the line, High Point because she was unable to move Trinity's line, and Trinity because she did not have step ladders for her midge backfield to climb over their fallen teammates. Trinity's line from tackle to tackle averaged 207 pounds and from end to end 193 pounds. Her backfield weighed about 125 pounds. High Point had expected to gain on their cross-back play, but Trinity's line was too slow to be sucked in, and High Point was always thrown for a loss when this play was used.

At the end of the first half neither side scored, and High Point came back on the gridiron determined to score and win the game. By a series of long end runs and passes she rushed the ball down the field. Redding carried the ball within less than five yards of the goal when he dashed for ten yards down the field just inside the line, evidently attempting to imitate the famous McMillin. Here the Trinity line braced and held like a stone wall for four downs. The ball went over and since the wind was against them the Trinity backs attempted to bring the ball out on line plays but Shipp was tackled back of the goal line, thus giving High Point a safety and their only score.

Punting was positively banned in this game but drop kicking from any part of the field in any direction was highly in order. The Trinity backfield decided that they could pull something over the referee in doing this when Shipp drop kicked instead of punting and "Sonny" Porter recovered the ball. Shipp, in his winning way, convinced the referee that it was a free ball and Trinity kept it. However, the introduction of the game.

STATE GAME UNCERTAIN

The Thanksgiving game with State is not yet a certainty, and although Mr. Barnard made a trip to Raleigh Monday to investigate the matter he failed to get in touch with the proper authorities.

DEAN LILE EXPLAINED PRINCIPLES OF HONOR SYSTEM TO STUDENTS

CLEAR EXPOSITION OF SYSTEM
USED AT UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

FAITH IN SYSTEM EXPRESSED

Over 900 Heard Dr. Lile's Speech on Saturday—Is Authority on Subject

"Do you believe in the honor system?"

"Yes, as I believe in the Christian religion," answered Dean William L. Lile, of the University of Virginia, who addressed the student body in Craven Memorial Hall Saturday morning. Dean Lile, who for the past thirty years has been dean of the Law School at the University of Virginia, was the guest of the Young Men's Association and spoke on various aspects of the honor system at his university.

The speaker explained that the difficulty experienced in installing an honor system in a college was due to the ignorance, on the part of the students, in understanding its methods and purposes. That it can become a success and work smoothly in the average college has been proven, intimated the speaker, and in support of his statement said that he had been in close contact with the system for thirty years and was thus qualified to speak on it. He described the growth of the honor system in his institution which was installed in 1842, and said that a pledge system on examinations was the genesis of the honor system. Since then, he said it has been considered one of the most valuable assets the university possesses.

In discussing the nature of the system, he emphasized the fact that it had led the student body to become a miniature self-governing community, in which every student was supposed to be a man of honor. It became an association of gentlemen in which honorable conduct and true sportsmanship were developed to a high plane. The institution had a single system of honor which extended over all phases of college life and was in athletic contests. Having, which he termed as, "the most childish and cowardly exhibition," and like offenses were dealt with by the student government

PARAGRAPHS

So the seekers have at last been given the "key" admitting them to the storehouses of knowledge.

Just as we were beginning to believe that we were in for a few nights of peace with the Glee Club gone, the inter-society debaters begin to tune up. Tough, ain't it?

We wonder how many of the two hundred odd illustrations will be on exhibition at the illustrated lecture on "make-up" which is to be given Monday by the Dramatic Club.

Those courageous gentlemen who undertook to blow up the Science Hall last week must have forgotten the "guy" situation. With this building scheduled for completion in 1930, that would give the powers to be only 15 years to work on a new Science Hall if it is to be completed by 1950.

Trinity's Syncopeing Seven should create quite a sensation when they play in the churches that are listed on the tour.

A Track meet, a scrub game and a tie with P. C. can be checked up on the big book for last week.

About this time of the year a student likes to hear some gobbling going on in the neighborhood of his boarding house.

Something like a year ago this week Hatcher had a late date with some New York lassie.

Only two more games—what a relief sighs the tired lineman. But still we must win them though since an anticlimax in a football schedule is deadening.

THE HONOR SYSTEM AT TRINITY

Members of the student body and faculty who heard the address of Dean Life in chapel Saturday will have something to think about for some time to come. Dean Life spoke with authority and, in no uncertain terms, furnished much food for thought. If only a small part of his address can be digested and assimilated by the student body, the honor system at Trinity will become a permanent success.

And this virtually means that the honor system adopted by the Men's Association will become a success, for it is inconceivable that any man who heard Dean Life could not fail to be stirred to his inner depths. Most of us knew before that we had some sort of honor system, but only a few troubles themselves to find out what it was all about. Most of us voted for something that we had only a vague knowledge of. We knew that it might be a good thing, and then too, it afforded a change. The message of Dean Life, however, pointed out the fact that we have installed the finest honor system to be found anywhere, and happy are we in the realization of this.

The system that we have installed is a time-tested and efficient system that will function properly under prescribed conditions. We have borrowed the system, but we ourselves will have to create the conditions, and it is up to us to complete the task. Now that we have the necessary machinery, it is up to us to place it on a firm foundation. No system, however efficient it may be, can function properly under adverse conditions, and the students of Trinity must rise to the occasion.

The conditions that will be necessary to insure the permanent success of the honor system can not be acted by a few; they must be created by the entire college community. This means that the system must be supported faithfully by every member of the student body and faculty. The honor system can not be expected to adapt itself to the present conditions; the conditions on the other hand, must adapt themselves to the system.

No doubt Student Government will encounter its roughest sailing during the next few years because a sufficient number of students has not yet given the subject serious attention. Its growth at the outset will be slow and gradual, but let it not be imagined that Trinity will not awake some day to catch the meaning of its wonderful possibilities. Then, and not until then, will Trinity College be enveloped in that atmosphere of honor and pride that has characterized her in the past, not that we lack honor and pride now, for we have both; but heretofore we have not had any effective system to enforce it in a fast growing institution.

The success of the honor system, therefore, lies in the hands of the students and faculty members. It is up to them to develop it to its highest possibilities and elevate it to a high plane of character and trust. But like any other thing that is worth while it will require work, sacrifice, and the wholehearted support of every man in college.

WHEN A "PEP" MEETING ISN'T A "PEP" MEETING

Spurious attempts to bring about the meeting of the student body in the form of a football rally such as took place on the Trinity campus last Thursday night should be condemned by everyone not only from the standpoint of an unwarranted assumption of authority, but from the angle of the creation of unnecessary disturbance and general waste of time of everyone in the vicinity.

The facts in the case are simple. Trinity tradition calls for the staging of giant pep meetings beginning soon after the opening of school, this being continued at moderate intervals until the end of the baseball season. These rallies are reserved for athletic contests of more than usual importance, when it is felt that no efforts should be spared to help the team do its bit, either on the gridiron, the basketball court, the cinder path, or the baseball diamond.

A pep meeting, duly announced and presided over by the proper authorities was held on the Friday night preceding the Wake Forest game. The next game was the contest with Presbyterian College last Friday, and the cheer leaders agreed that no pep meeting was necessary, and in view of this circumstance no notice was printed in the college weekly and no announcement was made in chapel. Soon after supper on Thursday night varied shouts were heard around the campus. The inhabitants of Southgate Building, seizing the advantage of obtaining an additional one-half hour of liberty and the chance of bumping into some gentleman acquaintances who might escort them back to their domicile, invaded Craven Memorial Hall. A few of the male tribe then began to approach the chapel hall and some self-elected leader gave the signal for a "Come Over Here" yell, which caused several more students to assemble. Then the coach, seeing so few of the men students present at a preannounced rally, proceeded to express their indignation in no uncertain terms by a yell all of their own.

As a result of this un-called for incident, not only was much time and energy taken up on a useless and unnecessary venture, but the cheer leaders became the objects of adverse criticism in view of the fact that they were absent on the occasion. Since no pep meeting had been announced, it is obvious that they would not happen to be loafing around Craven Memorial Hall when their time could be put to some more profitable use somewhere else.

It might be necessary here to proceed a little further, lest some reader think that the policy of the CHRONICLE is to discourage the realization of pep meetings.

Monster rallies should be staged with the presence of every member of the student body on occasions of sufficient importance. The benefit of such meetings is of great value to the athletic teams and to the spirit of the college. They should never degenerate into the casual assemblage of a minority of the student body, or a small majority. This will happen if they are held too frequently.

Let it be said in closing that the meetings this year have not been open to the objection prevalent in past years, that the cheer leaders practiced their oratorical ability at the expense of the students, who voted for the men to lead them in yells and not to deliver them campaign speeches.

No meeting was announced for last Thursday night and the performance carried on is worthy of censure. When the next pep meeting is held, the usual announcements will be issued, and every student registered at Trinity should be on hand. If certain students really need a stroll or an outburst of lung power when the day before a game arrives, go out to the football field while the team is practicing, but do not pre-empt a pep meeting and then disturb the peace of the community.

IN THE ENEMIES' CAMPS

In view of the consistent trail of Wofford's football team in getting defeated by every college team it plays, Trinity should have no trouble in defeating the team from Spartanburg by a margin of at least five touchdowns. In the Thanksgiving contest between Wofford and Trinity played in Durham in 1920, the game ended in a 0-0 draw. Last year the Blue Devils invaded the territory of the Terriers and secured their greatest victory, the score of the "track meet" being 68-0.

Wofford's last two games resulted in a defeat at the hands of Davidson in Charlotte, with the score 34-0, and another defeat at the hands of Furman University by the score of 41-0. This last game was played in Spartanburg Saturday, being a part of Wofford's Homecoming Day.

In the last two games the punting of Hoole, quarterback for the Terriers has been the feature for the losing team. Several of Wofford's men have played against Trinity before and are well known among Trinity students.

All clubs and organizations which have not yet had their pictures taken should see about the matter at once.

TWO MEN INJURED BY BIG EXPLOSION IN LABORATORY

Vick and Markham Escape Death by Narrow Margin When Match Is Applied to Gas

About 5:00 o'clock last Wednesday afternoon the usual quiet on the college campus was broken by a loud explosion on the third floor of the Cronell Science Hall. Those passing nearby heard the groaning of the victims following the crash. In an experiment conducted to determine the specific heat ratio of gases a 5 gallon demijohn containing methane and oxygen was sitting on the table in the Chemistry lecture room. One of the ten students present put a lighted match to the mouth of the bottle to ascertain whether all the oxygen had escaped. The explosion followed and it is thought that perhaps a little of the oxygen had remained.

The following casualties resulted from the tragedy: C. L. Vick received numerous cuts on his arms and a severe acid burn on his shoulder, while E. C. Markham had an artery in his right arm severed and a few small cuts on his arm and face. Both these men were thrown to the floor by the force of the explosion and Markham's life was undoubtedly saved when a piece of glass flying through his vest was interrupted by a good-luck penny nestling in his pocket. Although acid sprayed the room and even more casualties occurred save for the slight shock suffered by all present. The clothing stores of the city will probably profit by the explosion as several suits were ruined. The damage done to the science hall and apparatus is estimated at $25.

GAS, GOSSIP, AND GUMPTION

BY "221 G"

Thank heaven! A few nights of peace and quiet.

All of which will go to prove, we hope, that a Glee Club is not without honor save in its own college.

Meanwhile prospective intersociety debaters will monopolize the library boning on the bonus.

It is an unsubstantiated rumor that certain seniors will not be awarded the customary diploma this year until they have passed their Physical Torture. Aw, come on now, Cap; you never did anybody that way before. We are inspired, to write an ode on the subject: Within the antiquated gym

The college Captain stands,
A class arrayed in front of him
Obeying his commands;
His hair is gray, his body slim,
But zealous are his hands.

Old Cap, a mighty man was he,
When he was in his prime,
Would vent the ball so wickedly
They say it was a crime.
He played right well for Trinity
In that primeval time.

How much this college owes to him
The seniors understand;
The chances for our dips are slim
If he should take his stand,
For now within that ancient gym
He rules with iron hand.

The Orpheum is pretty good this week; a guy pulled this old gag on the ladies: When you go to church, you hear the girls giggle, "Te-he-he-he," not "Tee-he-he-he"; the preacher announces a certain "hymn," not a "her"; and when all is over, he says "Amen," not "A-women." No wonder Miss Kennedy won't let her girls go there and become a party to such heresy.

OUR LETTER BOX

Freshman Hike: There is no set date specified on any official calendar. Let your conscience be your guide in this case, and look to comfort, not etiquette, for guidance in the matter. Personally I should advise you to put 'em on right away; it's getting cold.

Fritz and Tom: It is strange that both of you should have written about the same thing. To be sure, Fritz, necking without a chaperone is taboo in all conservative women's colleges. Merely celebrating the Davidson game, Tom, is no excuse for kissing a G. C. girl, and there is no excuse whatever for kissing an N. C. girl. Both of you had better make yourselves scarce around the educational institutions of Greensboro. Can't you claim to be cousins?

Senior in Eng. II: I have learned that the theme-reader who gave you 24 on your Woolley quiz rooms in 202 Inn, that he does not carry a gun, that he boards at Mrs. Dennis's, and that he often returns from supper alone. Now I have gone to some trouble to answer your questions believing in your sincerity of motive, but warn you that if you are planning violence, the court can force me to testify against you. No, the Dope Shop does not handle firearms.

John: Yours is indeed a delicate situation, but do not give up in despair. Let her see how gracefully and ardently you can make love on the stage. She will understand if she is worthy of you. She will know that she is really the leading lady though she is not on the printed program. If you had described her more definitely, I could give you more detailed advice. Of course she is exquisitely cute, but is she inclined to be flirtatious? Does she have a large number of innocents on her string? The tone of your letter would indicate this, and I warn you to beware.

Stis G.: Yes, the Red Cross is almost certain to put on another drive next year. We cannot say with certainty, however, that they will use the same kind of buttons as were used year before last. Find out if Bo Robinson is saving his; he probably knows.

Dot: "What did Clarence do when Ethel wouldn't kiss him out on the lake the other night?"

DELTA PHI RHO ALPHA USED HANES FIELD AS DESERT IN INITIATION

EIGHT GIRLS CROSSED BURNING SANDS ON FINAL PATH TO MEMBERSHIP

INITIATES SAID TO BE BIRDS

Jarvis Men Kept From Their Rest by Unearthly Noises After Hard Week in Class Room

Surrounded by the black shroud of night and wrapped in the cloak of mystery the annual initiatory ceremony of the DeltaPhi Rho Alpha which was held Saturday night resulted in eight new sisters being added to the roll of this organization of athletic females. This organization, which corresponds in a very slight degree to the Toms, scattered the ceremony from East Duke to Hanes Field.

From the shrieks that arose from athletic field that night one would judge that some fair maiden had seen her loved one borne from the gridiron, a shapeless, bleeding wreck, and had expressed her woe in an unearthly manner as the maids of yore were wont to do when their lovers were so bold and indiscreet as to be killed in a tournament fighting for only love and honor. Or perhaps these doughty wielders of the rolling pin were feeling the initial pangs of a misguided conscience which they are sure to feel in the future when they maliciously put Hubby in the head because he merely sat up with a sick friend until two o'clock. But regardless of the noises that bothered the weary men in Jarvis after strenuous week's work, eight neophytes crossed the burning sands, five yards at a clip, and with hope raised to the hundredth degree realized when the desert had been crossed that everything, like the old home town, is not like it is cracked up to be.

While part of the ceremony was secret the usual rough house took place on Hanes Field. The initiates were hopping, blindfolded, from the bleachers to the box, from the box to the shed, from the shed to the fence and back again like sparrows in a tree. They even climbed the goal posts and one girl had the audacity to skin a cat on the cross bar of the goal on the East side of the field. Some walked the rope blindfolded and did other such stunts. Truly, if the All-Southern management of football had seen the way the precious equipment was being handled, it would have immediately called an indignation meeting and appointed "Inefficiency" as a committee of one-third to inflict proper punishment by due process of law.

One freshman returning from the last show at the Orpheum upon seeing one woman leading another one, dressed in an informal manner and blindfolded, down the path back of East Duke immediately broke into a run but was finally caught and convinced that there was no immediate danger from the women now, but remarked in addition that he would certainly hate to be a freshman here in a few years.

After the ceremony an informal feed was given to assuage the injured feelings of the newly initiated sisters. Those who were qualified by this service to hereafter wield the pin that is without doubt mightier than the sword are: Aura Holton, Elizabeth Aldridge, Nancy Kirkman, Ida Green, Elizabeth Ferguson, Jeanette Strauss, Mabel Wescott and Ethel Merritt.

BONUS BILL IS QUESTION FOR THE SOCIETY DEBATE

Columbia Has Won Last Four Debates and Hesperia is Determined to Win This Time

The Debate Council will meet within the next few days to decide the date for the inter-society debate. Although no definite announcement has been made, it is generally understood that the debate will be held on the last Monday before the Christmas holidays. It has been the custom in past years to hold this annual event on Saturday night, but owing to the small crowd in attendance at the last one a change in date will be necessary.

The query as chosen by Hesperia reads as follows: Resolved: That Congress should enact legislation providing for the payment in some form to ex-service men, of an amount that would be a fair equivalent to the wages they received and the wages received during the war by civilian employees. This query was presented to Columbia

SEVERAL NEW REGULATIONS RECENTLY MADE CONCERNING THE USE OF TENNIS COURTS

Under the New Plan Only Trinity Students and Professors Will be Permitted to Play on Courts

A number of regulations concerning the use of the Trinity College tennis courts have recently been formulated by the Tennis Management and will be put into effect as soon as a few necessary arrangements can be made. These will probably be completed by the first of next week so the new system will be officially inaugurated next Monday, although many of its provisions will go into effect this week.

The regulations adopted are as follows: (1) ONLY TRINITY STUDENTS AND FACULTY MEMBERS ARE TO BE ALLOWED THE USE OF THE COURTS. (2) THREE COURTS BACK OF THE LIBRARY ARE TO BE RESERVED FOR THE VARSITY TENNIS SQUAD. (3) THE FIRST THREE COURTS ACROSS THE DRIVEWAY FROM THE LIBRARY ARE TO BE RESERVED FOR COEDS ON TUESDAY AND THURSDAY AFTERNOONS FROM 2-4.

It is hoped that everyone will co-operate with the tennis management in carrying out these regulations which will insure the best results for all concerned. In the past, the courts have been over-run by boys and girls from downtown, but hereafter they will be prohibited from playing on the College courts; since there are not enough courts available for the use of the college students alone. The students will confer a favor upon the management if they will call this regulation to the attention of any town people who are on the courts.

The three courts which are to be marked "Varsity" may be used by other students when not required by members of the tennis squad; but it is earnestly requested that the students recognize the priority claim of the varsity men and willingly give up the varsity court when members of the team go out to play. Unless the students do this, it will become necessary to prevent everyone except the members of the team from using these courts at all times. Hereafter, when a court is to be used for some specific purpose it will be marked "Reserved" and all students will be expected to keep off of it, even though it is not being used. When a court is so designated, it signifies that the court has been marked off for some special use, and, consequently, no one else can play on it, because such play will wear off the lines and make the court unsuitable for the purpose for which it was reserved. The assistant managers have been instructed to take the names of any persons playing on a court marked "Reserved" without permission, and these persons are liable to be deterred from the use of the courts for the remainder of the year.

Class Football and Intra-Mural Athletics Beginning

Coach Steiner, in a statement yesterday, said that he thought it advisable for class football aspirants to start work immediately. Uniforms will become available after the Thanksgiving game and until then the classes can organize and the men do light work. The freshman class must elect a captain, the other classes already having leaders. Games will be scheduled immediately after the close of the varsity season.

Intra-mural basketball will cover a much wider scope this year. There will be three series of contests: intra-mural, inter-class and inter-fraternity. The intra-mural games will be among the dormitories and the sections this year. The order of the contest will probably be intra-mural, inter-class and lastly, intra-fraternity; giving the fraternities a chance to use new men initiated in February.

Every dormitory, every class, and every fraternity is expected to form a team, and with the inducements the athletic authorities propose to offer, every organization should endeavor to have a winning team.

SEEMED STRANGE TO DAD

A student attending Wakeham College, wishing to make a good impression on the folks back home, wrote in a letter: "I'm reading a bit of the Bible every day."

Two days later he got a telegram. "What's the matter?" it asked, "Are you ill? Come home immediately."

BISHOP KILGO'S LECTURES PUBLISHED IN BOOK FORM

"Dr. Kilgo's Chapel Talks," a book containing fifty-two gems of spirit and eloquence is soon to be given to the public through D. W. Newsom, treasurer of Trinity College. The book contains the most famous chapel talks which the late Bishop Kilgo delivered during his many years as president of Trinity College. The Publishing House of the Methodist church South is getting out the book and has promised delivery in a few days.

When the late Bishop was president of Trinity, his chapel talks, through their directness and simplicity of appeal, endeared him to the heart of every Trinity student. The talks were the most discussed platform addresses in North Carolina. During these years D. W. Newsom, now treasurer of the college, was a student at Trinity and acting as secretary to the gifted president. He was so impressed with Dr. Kilgo's chapel talks that he formed the habit of taking stenographic copies for future reference.

Of the great number taken down in this manner, Mr. Newsom has selected fifty-two of the best for publication. Some titles are "On Being Alone," "Christ as an Educator," "Country Above Party," "The Post and the Cart-Driver," "The Voter in America," "Cotton and Character," "The Family on Trial," and "Goodbye."

This book is the second book that Mr. Newsom has published in less than a year. A book of his poems was accepted for publication by a Boston house and given to the public several months ago.

HUNDREDS OF TRINITY MEN INVADED EAST DURHAM AND HAITI TO SEE BALL GAME

Keen Interest Manifested Saturday in Football Game Between Negro Colleges

Possibly no football game played on Hanes Field this year has attracted so much attention as the game between Shaw University of Raleigh and the National Training School of Durham, which was played last Saturday on a nearby football field. Such unimportant details as who won the game are not known, but the interest manifested by Trinity supporters who had to see a game on Saturday gets the famous "ivory tooth-pick."

Football encounters between negro teams are known to be played on a grand scale, with an abundance of sideline thrills. The calling of signals, the fierce tackling and the long distances punting which is generally manifested in contests between rival teams always attract thousands of spectators.

Trinity students have been in the habit of seeing a football game every Saturday, and in view of the fact that the P. C. of S. C. Trinity game took place on Friday, the students found themselves with a Saturday on their hands and no game on Hanes Field. But word got out that the greatest rivals of North Carolina grid activity would meet—it would be a genuine negro athletic contest.

An invasion on the most select district around Durham followed, and every vacant lot was impeded by the mob, but no signs of a football battle could be found. Finally someone found out from a prominent follower of the sport of that neighborhood that the two teams from the higher institutions of learning of the State were at that very moment engaged in their annual football contest in or about the city of Raleigh.

After a meeting of the Trinity football fans held in the reserved area of the Orpheum Theatre, it was agreed that nothing less than ostracism should be inflicted on the members of the negro game hunt who should by any word or action intimate that the said contest was not duly carried out in the vicinity of Durham, and that the said followers had witnessed all the 75-yard punts, all the sweeping end-runs, and the signals of "Watermelon, cabbage, give it to me, let's go!" yelled out by some fierce quarterback.

Nobody knows who won the game, but it obscured the attention of every man who ate supper at some boarding house, and each and every individual that didn't see it excused himself for his lack of judgment in not going by stating that his absence was due to difficulties between him and his banker.

BLUE DEVILS WILL MEET RANDOLPH MACON'S TEAM IN GAME NEXT SATURDAY

Advance Dope is in Favor of Blue Devils in Game With Light Virginia Eleven

When Coach Steiner's fighting eleven faces Randolph Macon on Hanes Field on November 25, they will have to deal with a more or less unknown quality. While it is possible to deduce or dope out the potential strength of a football team, it is quite another matter to accurately forecast the outcome of a game. Judging from the season's scores of the two teams, Trinity should find a rather easy opponent in Randolph-Macon.

The advance dope is, indeed, all in favor of the Blue Devils. Out of seven games played, Trinity has lost but two; Randolph-Macon has won only one game out of four games played. Trinity has a total of 105 points against the 45 made by her opponents; Randolph-Macon has a total of 29 points against the 94 of her opponents.

Both Trinity and Randolph-Macon lost to William and Mary College, but Randolph-Macon was defeated by a score of 23 to 7, while Trinity lost by the comparatively close score of 13 to 7. In all her games however, R. M. C. has not been held scoreless this season, having been able to score on such strong opponents as N. C. State, William and Mary, and University of Richmond. R. M. C.'s only victory, however, was when they defeated Gahandah, a deaf and dumb institute. Gahandah's quarterback probably got his fingers mixed up in giving the signals.

With the odds in favor of Trinity, the element of chance will by no means be lacking. Unless a team is very weak (which R. M. C. manifestly is not, as has been shown by her ability to score on William and Mary), it cannot continue to lose consecutively. Having started the season indifferently, Randolph-Macon will certainly attempt to wind it up with some victories.

It is possible to point out a team in this state, namely, Wake Forest, which started off its season very badly, but is managing to finish it up fairly creditably. Trinity was scheduled to beat Wake Forest by much more than a mere field goal.

All things considered, however, Trinity should be able to send the Virginians back to Ashland without a victory. Unless "Lady Luck" smiles very benignly upon the victors, the score should be about the same as that of the Trinity-Davidson game. At any rate, the game should prove an interesting and exciting affair. Trinity supporters are looking forward to a fast game, but one which the Blue Devils are scheduled to win.

tion of such a system so early in the game nearly proved disastrous to the wily Trinity warriors, for during the second half High Point would either pass or hit the line for three downs and then drop kick on the fourth, receiving the ball every time. The ball was in their possession the major part of the second half and the only way for Trinity to get it was to recover a fumble or intercept a pass.

The game was a hard scrap and the kids from Trinity believed in getting a man down when he had the ball. Charles Ashby, Trinity's sturdy left tackle, upon seeing a High Point back show slight signs of life by wiggling his foot (after he had been tackled by the entire Trinity backfield and the whistle had already blown) made a flying tackle for eleven yards, and landed in the bunch, thus eliminating any danger of further movement on the part of the High Point man. The referee promptly penalized Trinity half the distance to the goal.

There was considerable trouble caused by the lack of rope around the field to keep the crowd back. The babies and wives of the High Point players were highly excited throughout the game and seemed to be very much relieved when Papa walked off the field uninjured. The attendance was something less than 150 but the crowd was very enthusiastic, and continually ragged the big boys in the Trinity line. Porter became familiarly known as "Big Beef Trust." "Conchie" Hatcher was forced to do the umpiring, and when he heard some one remark from the sideline that they would kill the umpire after the game, he calmly walked over and told the man that the umpire was not in a pen and the man that was planning to do the murdering was not tied. This broke up further argument.

Captain Craven did the stellar work in the backfield for Trinity. He intercepted two forward passes, made several long end runs for gains and ran the team very smoothly. Porter in the line broke through several times, and made tackles back of the line. Groome, a former State College star, played end for High Point and was the best man on the team. He was in every play and made the majority of the tackles. Redding starred in the backfield.

The line-up was as follows:

DEAN LIFE EXPLAINED PRINCIPLES OF HONOR SYSTEM TO STUDENTS

He then explained that the system did not embrace the whole moral law, but only the official relations between the student body and the university officials. Only these relations came under the head of the honor system. Examinations are held under the honor system in a prescribed place. The professor in charge acts merely as head of the council to make necessary explanations, and not as a detective. Cheating and theft are both considered equal at the university. If a man is suspected of either, he is closely watched by a self-appointed committee. Then, and only then, does the system take on a detective aspect.

Taking up the administrative duties of the system, the speaker went into detail and explained that it imposes no burden on the faculty. The students are governed by themselves and resent any usurpation of their prerogatives by the faculty. He pointed out that the faculty could violate the system by unnecessary intrusion. He claimed that the system would relieve the dean of his weekly interviews with gentlemen of leisure.

After a man has been judged guilty by a self-appointed committee, he is allowed the privilege of quietly withdrawing from school or, as an alternative, to face trial before the honor committee, which is composed of students of the five branches of the university and the president of the defendant's class. "Less than two score cases have come up before the final committee during my association with the university as an official," the speaker said.

If the honor system in a college becomes a success, the college officials will have to relinquish their power, the speaker intimated. It can not become a permanent success unless it is handled exclusively by the students. He added, however, that the college authorities should relinquish their power gradually as the system progressed to insure its success.

"One of the greatest benefits of the system," he said, "is that it does not die in the college days." It continues with the graduate through life and develops honorable character and integrity. He feared that the system did not function under an atmosphere of suspicion and distrust. He warmly praised Trinity as a great seat of learning and lauded her influence in the educational world.

PLANS TO ADD INCOME FROM MILLION DOLLARS TO COLLEGE ARE MADE

there was not enough room for them. He also spoke of the plan of establishing a school of religion at Trinity, to be dedicated to the late Bishop John C. Kilgo, formerly a president of the college.

Dr. M. T. Plyler, presiding elder of the Durham District was the next speaker on the program. He followed up Dr. Few's talk with an eulogy of the late Dr. Kilgo. He praised the loyalty of the Bishop to Trinity and more especially to God.

Bishop Collins Denny, the next speaker, talked of the meaning of Christian Education to civilization. He showed how a man's real value to his community was not so much through his money as through his character. He said that a Church College builds up a man's character even more than does a State school, and in this, if in no other way, is the Christian Education beneficial to the community.

Dr. Harry M. North went into details over the plans to expand Trinity. He also spoke a few words praising Bishop Kilgo. He finished his speech with an exhortation to the Alumni to pay some money towards helping the college and spoke of a tendency among them to "let Buck do it."

Mr. Brown then spoke of the plan of raising a million to match that given to Trinity by Mr. Duke. He spoke of the greatness of Mr. Duke, saying that his greatness lies not in his ability to raise money but in his willingness to give freely to good causes. He said that the alumni should be able to raise enough money from their incomes to cover the amount given by Mr. Duke. He then concluded his speech asking the alumni to give as liberally as possible.

Following Mr. Brown's speech the members were asked to make their pledges. Indications show that the fund was well started by the members present. As a result of the meeting Mr. S. C. Vann of Franklinton has contributed a cash donation of $10,000 to this fund.

LARGE AMOUNT GIVEN RED CROSS BY STUDENT BODY

Sophomore Class Won Banner Given to the Class Enrolling Largest Number of New Members

Trinity students contributed $203 to the Red Cross Roll Call during the recent drive for funds. The contest between the four classes for the highest number of subscribers was won by the Sophomore Class, which enrolled sixteen new members. The contest was keenly fought, and much enthusiasm was shown by the various workers. Every student on the campus was solicited for membership.

Dr. F. C. Brown, who is chairman of the Roll Call Committee of the Durham County Chapter, expressed for the president and members of the board their heartfelt appreciation for the manner and spirit in which the students responded to the call. He personally expressed his appreciation for the work done by the student solicitors and subscribers.

The central committee that put on the drive in Trinity was composed of J. L. Jackson, Helen Cantrell, E. B. Fisher, Ethel Merritt, Reid Garrett, Frost, M. Cannon, and Lucile Roberts. Each member of this committee chose assistants to aid in the drive. These men gave their time and work cheerfully, and saw that every student was canvassed.

MUSICAL CLUB OPENS SEASON WITH A TOUR IN WESTERN CITIES

"set lap of the trip, making three more stops on the way. A concert will be given in Morganton on Monday night, and Tuesday night the Davenport College girls at Lenoir will have the opportunity of hearing the musical makers from their President's Alma Mater give a program. Dr. Hornaday, President of Davenport, a Trinity graduate and former professor of German here, has written Manager Jordan that preparations are being made for the entertainment of the Club and promised them a royal time. The last concert of the tour will be given Wednesday night in Greensboro at N. C. C. W.

The Club promises to be better than ever this year, for Professors Twaddell and Patterson have spared no efforts to make the programs highly entertaining, and the different departments of the Club have been doing some intensive practicing. Trinity students will have an opportunity of hearing a concert given by the Club on its return. Manager Jordan has not yet decided on a definite date for the concert here but stated that it would probably be given about December 15.

Trinity's Syncopean Seven, a jazz orchestra, will be featured in all the programs. This orchestra is made up of men who are filled with music and who know how to get everything out of an instrument. Spann will be the pianist, Turrentine will be at his usual position behind the drums, and a pair of saxophones will be handled by Meacham and C. H. James. May blows the cornet, Rudge is the Van der Meer of the outfit, while Frank Warner blows his trombone until exhausted and then picks up his banjo ukule. This orchestra made quite a hit in Lexington and Charlotte.

The Mandolin Club this year has been cut in number but the music that it sends forth ranks far above that of former years. There is one piece of music that mandolin clubs in years gone by have been trying to play and have failed, but this year the club has mastered it and listed it on the program. R. H. James plays the first mandolin, Dilling the second mandolin, D. S. Johnson the guitar and Warner the banjo ukule.

The Orchestra, composed of 14 pieces, and the Glee Club make up the main part of the musical club. Both these departments have been practicing night and day and are prepared to give a highly entertaining program. Professor Patterson is directing the Orchestra while Professor Twaddell has charge of the Glee Club. The following men left with the Club Monday morning for the ten day tour: C. E. Jordan, B. B. Harrison, R. H. James, C. H. James, J. L. Jackson, R. W. Spencer, W. J. Rudge, F. M. Warner, C. H. Underwood, Joe Chamberlain, Carl Holmgren, D. S. Johnson, P. F. Dilling, W. H. May, F. W. Green, W. B. Ricks, A. D. Wilcox, J. M. Oliver, W. W. Turrentine, Freeman Twaddell, H. A. Spann, C. T. Meacham, G. T. Tripp, B. R. Holt, S. W. Piekens, A. L. Ormond, Professor W. P. Tyndall, and Professor K. B. Patterson.

JOHN BRIDGERS PRESENTED PAPER ON HENDRICK IBSEN AT SIGMA UPSILON MEETING

Ghosts, A Doll's House, The Master Builder Are Ibsen's Most Notable Plays

The life and works of Ibsen, the Norwegian dramatic and lyric poet, were discussed by John Bridgers on last Friday evening at the regular meeting of the Sigma Upsilon literary fraternity. After giving a brief, but compact, biography of the famous dramatic poet, Bridgers read extracts from two of Ibsen's most notable and popular dramatic productions, Ghosts and A Doll's House. The paper attracted unusual interest among the members of Sigma Upsilon because the Devereaux Players, who have agreed to present three plays at Trinity on November 27 and 28, have included Ibsen's Ghosts among the three presentations.

Henrick Ibsen was born at Skien, Norway, on March 20, 1828. He went to school only a few years, after which he was apprenticed to an apothecary in Griestad for seven years, and it was this drudgery which left a mark upon his spirit and influenced his writings. In 1850 he entered the university at Christiania where he published his first poem, Callina, a blank-verse tragedy.

Beginning as a journalist and later receiving the appointment of "stage poet" at the theatre of Bergen, Ibsen turned his attention to the study and production of the drama. He soon threw off the influence of the Danish tragedians who had influenced his earlier writings, and developed an art of his own. Despite the fact that his plays were received with disapproval by the theatre of Christiania, Ibsen persisted to his own art, and it was during these years that the ironic qualities in his genius were developed.

A few years filled with misfortune and disappointment caused Ibsen to leave Christiania in 1864. He went to Berlin and finally to Rome. Ibsen was bitter towards his fatherland for his treatment, and wrote Bran as a satire on the state of moral and religious life in Norway at that time. From that time on until his death Ibsen wrote many plays which became famous all over the world. Some of his notable plays are Ghosts, A Doll's House, The Master Builder, The Pillars of Society, and When We Dead Awaken.

On his seventieth birthday in 1898, Ibsen received great honors from his own country and gifts and congratulations from all parts of the world. In September 1899 a classical bronze statue was erected to him outside the new National Theatre in Christiania.

In 1901 his health began to decline, and his physician ordered him to cease all work. He soon became unconscious, and on May 23, 1906 he died.

Ibsen has often been attacked by dramatic critics as being immoral especially because of his attitude on the individualism of women in A Doll's House. His next play, Ghosts, in which he again tries to diagnose the disease of society, was attacked no less than A Doll's House. Ibsen believed that no reform could come from democracies, but that the sole hope for the future lay in the development of the individual character.

The program of Sigma Upsilon for the year as published in last week's issue of the Chronicle contained an error in that the paper on Masfeld which is to be presented on January 5 will be prepared by E. P. Gibson instead of B. B. Harrison. A paper on Hauptmann will be presented on March 16 by B. B. Harrison. The paper on Booth Tarkenton by A. W. McGeorge will be read on May 4 rather than May 14 as announced in the last issue of the Chronicle.

The usual light feed followed the literary program of the fraternity.

PROF. R. N. WILSON ADDRESSED Y. M. C. A.

One of the most interesting Y. M. C. A. meetings of the year was held last Wednesday night in the East Duke building. Professor R. N. Wilson, of the Chemistry department, made a talk on the "Qualifications of Leadership." His text was taken from the book of Jeremiah. He clearly brought out the principals that enables a person for leadership, and said that first man must be human, second should be strong physically and spiritually, and third must be well prepared for leadership whenever called upon. Prof. Wilson delivered these points into a good talk and was of benefit to those present.

BLUE DEVILS CONTEST WITH BLUESTOCKINGS ENDED WITHOUT VICTOR

passes and end runs which made them as great ground gainers as their opponents.

The contest opened with an exchange of punts, intertwined with the efforts of the rival quarterbacks to ascertain the strength of their opponents. Caldwell kicked off to the Bluestockings' goal line, and Pearce returned the ball to the 20-yard line. Then followed the punts in which Hindman outdistanced Simpson by a few yards, but Meehan offset this advantage by his ability to gain ground upon receiving punts. Trinity succeeded in gaining two first downs before the end of the first period.

Trinity opened the second quarter with a smashing offensive which brought her within 20 yards of the Presbyterian goal line. A forward pass from Meehan to Carter netted the Blue Devils a first down, and Johnson plovered through the opponent's line for another. In attempting another forward pass on the fourth down, Trinity lost the ball which rolled over the goal line after an interception, and was brought back to the 20-yard line for the Presbyterians. In this period Bullock recovered a punt which was blocked when Simpson attempted to kick. The Bluestockings regained the ball by intercepting a forward pass. Hindman was forced to punt, however, and Trinity carried the ball to opponents 30-yard line, where Simpson attempted a field goal, which failed to attain its mark. The ball was brought to the 20-yard line, and the half ended.

The brilliant end runs by Pearce and Wilson which followed the famous Swathmore shift proved to be remarkable ground gainers for the Presbyterians in the second half. The excellent interference displayed by the Bluestockings backed by the lightning speed of the two halfbacks made it difficult for the Blue Devils to defend their territory.

Meehan received the ball from Hindman's kick off, and carried it to the 30-yard line. Simpson punted after Trinity had failed to make a first down. Wilson and Pearce each made 30-yard runs, but Wilson on another attempt was thrown for a 15-yard loss by Hatcher who plunged through his opponents line and made the tackle. Presbyterian College made a first down, but Hindman failed to make a score in an endeavor to drop kick.

After Simpson had punted the ball back to the Bluestockings, Meehan intercepted a forward pass on the 30-yard line. On the initial play which followed, Lagerstadt, who shot his way through the Presbyterian College line on a right tackle play, and ran 69 yards for a touchdown. Simpson failed to make the extra point by a drop kick. Trinity was penalized for off-side before the end of the period.

The Presbyterian attack gained additional strength at the opening of the fourth quarter, and in a few minutes they had made a first down, which was followed by a 25-yard forward pass from Hindman to Mason. The ball was carried across the goal line by Hindman in the second line plunge. Neal prevented Hindman from registering an extra point with a place kick by plunging in front of the ball.

During the remainder of the game neither team seriously threatened its opponent's goal.

The outstanding players for Trinity were Lagerstadt, Neal, Meehan, and Hatcher, while Wilson, Pearce, Mason, and Hindman did the most creditable work for the Presbyterians. The capable leadership of quarterback Meehan, of Trinity, deserves especial mention, while the remarkable ability of Pearce to elude his opponents and his speed in making end runs, which resulted in numerous gains for the Bluestockings, has not been equalled on Hanes field this season. Johnson, of Trinity, proved to be a tower of strength in the offensive.

Lagerstadt's run was the outstanding feature of the game. After dashing through the line of scrimmage on an off tackle play, he evaded three Presbyterian backfield men who vainly tried to catch him. Pearce almost succeeded in tripping Lagerstadt on the 10-yard line by grabbing his leg. For an instant the spectators held their breath as Lagerstadt stumbled, but the halfback regained his balance, and carried the ball across the goal line amid the ringing cheers of the Trinity supporters.
