WINSTON-SALEM Y AND NEWBERRY DEFEATED BY BASKET-BALL TEAM; PLAY DURHAM Y TOMORROW NIGHT

TEAM LED BY JIMMIE SIMPSON HAS WON TWO OF THREE GAMES

Newberry Defeated 40 to 33 in First Game Played Here. Winston Y Lost by 29 to 26 Score Last Tuesday

Although using several new men on his squad, Coach Burbanke has already achieved success with his basketball squad in the first few games of the season. The team is in trim to meet the Durham Y team in the high school auditorium tomorrow night. Opening up the season on December 16, Trinity was defeated by Camp Bragg in a game played in Fayetteville by the close score of 28 to 26, but has defeated the Winston-Salem Y and Newberry College, of Newberry, S. C.

NEWBERRY GAME OF SATURDAY

Taking the lead early in the game and holding it throughout, the Trinity quint defeated the fast Newberry team in the initial basketball game of the season Saturday night in the college gymnasium by the score of 40 to 33. The Newberry quint threatened to tie the score early in the second half, but the stellar playing of Simpson and Bullock proved too much for the visitors and a Trinity victory was never in doubt.

During the first half the Trinity tossers clearly outclassed their opponents in passing and accuracy of shooting. Both teams guarded closely and the half was marked by many long shots. On several occasions, however, the Trinity forwards penetrated their opponents territory for easy shots at the basket. The Trinity forward defense played havoc with the Newberry men, they compelled to take long and difficult trips for the basket.

The visitors showed more life in the second half and repeatedly threatened to take the lead. They showed remarkable ability to cover up when Trinity had the ball and scored goals from every angle and on the floor. But the Trinity defense stiffened while Simpson and Bullock tossed the ball through the team's displayed fast form during this period.

The Newberry team, which is terminating a three weeks trip through the east, lacked endurance and accuracy, but showed remarkable teamwork and ability to cover up its opponents. It is one of the fastest quint seen on the Trinity court in many years, and should develop into a worthy opponent for any team in this section of the South. In Captain Walcott the team has a player of no mean ability.

Although playing its initial contest, the Trinity quint surpassed all expectations and demonstrated good teamwork and ability to work smoothly. The team was especially deft in its defensive work, compelling its opponents to take hard chances at the basket. The men who are playing on the team for the first time measured up to standard and showed capacity for development into star age artists. The game revealed several new players of noticeable ability. Roane, playing center, handled himself like a veteran, as did Bullock, while Winters at guard, proved that he was an experienced head at the game. Carter, at guard, displayed a deadly accuracy in shooting as well as covering his man.

The lineup and summary follow:

TRINITY POSITION NEWBERRY
Spikes	L. F.
Simpson	R. F.
Roane	C.
Carter	G.
Winters	R. G.

MANY GAMES WITH SOUTHERN INSTITUTIONS CALLED FOR IN NEW BASEBALL SCHEDULE

Team Will Take Trip South to Stage Contest With Georgia and South Carolina Teams

Below is published the 1923 Trinity baseball schedule. A date for the N. C. State game is now pending. A feature of this year's schedule is the commencement game with Carolina on June 5. This game will enable alumni and friends to see Trinity in action. The team will head south for its annual trip, leaving soon after Easter. The schedule as yet contains only fifteen games but it is practically certain that at least five or ten more games will be played.

Alumni Revolving Fund is Receiving Much Attention

At a meeting of an advisory committee appointed by President Few, J. H. Washburn, financial agent of Marietta College, Marietta, Ohio, last week conferred with Trinity college officials relative to Trinity's campaign to raise $70,000 annually. Mr. Washburn is an alumnus of Trinity, having entered the college with the class of '70.

The meeting was held for the purpose of preparing for a drive to bring the alumni and the college closer together during the present year. The announcement was made that S. E. Thigpen, a member of the class of '22 had been employed as assistant to the alumni secretary.

The New York alumni will have a meeting January 19th for the promotion of the campaign. J. A. Morgan is the campaign chairman for New York and New Jersey. President W. P. Few will represent the college at this meeting.

Thigpen Will Assist the Alumni Secretary in Work

R. E. Thigpen, '22 has been temporarily detailed assistant alumni secretary and will devote his entire time to this position. He has had considerable experience that fit him for this work. During his senior year here he was corresponding secretary of the Greater Trinity club and last summer he traveled for the college.

As assistant secretary he will work in co-operation with the various district chairmen who have been appointed in North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia to have charge of the Alumni Revolving fund.

Thigpen began his new field of work on January 1.

The first Vesper service of 1923 was held by Miss Kennedy in the Social Room of Southgate Hall last Sunday evening.

COLUMBIA DEFEATED HESPERIA IN DEBATE ON BONUS QUESTION

COLUMBIANS UPHOLD NEGATIVE SIDE OF QUESTION AND WIN DECISION

BRADLEY TO GO TO NEW YORK

Columbia Society Gave an Informal Smoker to Speakers and Judges After Debate

History repeated itself on Friday evening, January 5, in Craven Memorial Hall when the debating team of the Columbia Literary Society won over the team of Hesperia by a two to one decision. Columbia upheld the negative side of the query "Resolved, That Congress should enact legislation providing in some form to ex-service men of an amount that would be a fair equivalent to the difference between wages they received as soldiers and the wages received as civilian employees during the war."

The debate was an exceptionally good one, both sides presenting excellent speeches filled with convincing argument and persuasive eloquence. The speakers were enthusiastically received by a fair-sized audience. The two societies were present in force and evidenced unusual interest in the outcome of the affair, while quite a crowd of Durham citizens helped to fill the hall.

The judges were: Mr. R. L. Gray, editor of the Durham Sun, Rev. Stanley C. Harrell, and Mr. R. L. Baldwin. Mr. C. E. Phillips, Principal of the Durham High School, acted as time keeper. After a short introductory speech by presiding officer Dr. W. K. Boyd, the debate began.

First Speaker, Affirmative.
W. L. Clegg, first speaker for the affirmative, made a personal plea for the soldier. He urged that a bonus would not be a payment for patriotism. The good of the country, he said, requires

NEW CHANTICLEER TO BE BEST IN HISTORY OF TRINITY COLLEGE

1923 EDITION WILL CONTAIN
FOUR GREATLY IMPROVED
SECTIONS

WILL BE OF SUPERIOR QUALITY

Chanticleer Staff Has Already Done Much Literature as Well as Art Work

The 1923 Chanticleer bids fair to be one of the best—if not the best annual ever produced by Trinity students. It is the policy of those in charge to make the Trinity Chanticleer a mirror of the life on Trinity College campus, reflecting all student activities, ideas, and ideals.

H. G. Sprinkle, Jr., Editor-in-chief, with his staff of admirably chosen assistants, announces his intention to get out an annual that is typical of every phase of college life, and one which every Trinity student will be proud to own. K. W. Litaker, the able art editor of the annual, is putting forth every effort to make the 1923 Chanticleer a thing of beauty and a work of real artistic accomplishment.

The new Chanticleer will be divided into four main books. The following is the order in which they will appear: Book I, The College; this includes the Senior, Junior, Sophomore, and Freshman classes, photographic views of the campus, etc. Book II, Activities; this book will include athletics, the glee club, the debating teams, and other activities. Book III, Organizations; this contains

JOHNS-HOPKINS MAN SPOKE ON VITAMINES AND FOOD ANALYSIS

DR. MC-COLLUM TOLD OF GREAT PROGRESS IN SCIENCE OF NUTRITION

HE ILLUSTRATED DEVELOPMENT

Lecture Was Yearly Address Under the Auspices of the Crowell Scientific Society

The relation of vitamins to nutrition was the subject of the lecture given by Dr. E. V. McCollum, professor of chemical hygiene at Johns-Hopkins University, before a large audience in Craven Memorial Hall Monday night. The lecturer, who is one of the pioneers in exploiting the vitamin theory and who has gained fame in the scientific world as the result of his successful work, came here under the auspices of the Crowell Scientific Society which has arranged series of lectures pertaining to the field of science.

In beginning the speaker gave a brief review of the progress of the science of nutrition made in the last twenty-five years, explaining that up until 1875 little interest had been shown in this branch of science. The greatest progress in the study of nutrition has been made in the last fifteen years, intimated the speaker who proceeded to demonstrate this fact. "Even as late as 1910 an eminent professor of one of our foremost universities failed to mention vitamins in his book on the science of nutrition," the speaker said.

Dr. McCollum then showed that the old disease of scurvy and beriberi appeared as the result of malnutrition and lack of vitamins in the systems of humans. Although in olden times the sea captains recognized that scurvy came as the result of lack of some food element and although they were fortunate to cure the disease, they were at a loss to know what foods contained this element. Not until a few years ago was this element discovered and analyzed. Due to the tireless efforts of scientists the vitamins have been separated into three classes and the various foods have been analyzed so that the amount of vitamin in each has been determined.

The speaker then related the results of his own experiments with laboratory animals explaining each stage of development with laboratory animals, explaining each stage of development and showing slides to illustrate them. Although the vitamin theory had been exploited before, it was he who delved into its mysteries and gave it wide publicity in the scientific world. "Most foods are incomplete foods," he said and named over a

Classical Club Arranges Very Interesting Program

W. Rolfe Brown of Memphis, Tenn., will read a paper on "Gorgo," a Romance of Old Athens" at the meeting of the Classical Club on Thursday evening at 7:30 in the Greek classroom. This novel, written by Dr. Charles Kelsey Gaines of St. Lawrence University, was considered by Lord Bryce, "one of the best historical novels ever written—perhaps the best." Its literary and historical value is so great that Konyon is offering a prize of one hundred dollars for the best essay on "Gorgo" written by a student of any college or university in the United States or Canada.

W. R. Brown entered the contest for this prize, and has already submitted his essay to the judges at Kenyon College.

On Thursday evening he will tell his story of "Gorgo" to the members of the Classical Club and any others who wish to come.

PROPOSAL OF DR. FEW FOR MEDICAL SCHOOL IS STILL UNDECIDED

TRINITY OFFERED $4,000,000 FOR MEDICAL SCHOOL IN DURHAM

GOVERNOR COMMENTS PROPOSAL

Medical School Will Be Under State Control if Plan of Few is Adopted

The committee appointed by Governor Morrison to consider the proposal advanced by Dr. W. P. Few for the establishment of a medical school in Durham under State supervision concluded its meeting which has been in session in Raleigh for the last several days without announcing any decision on the plan, according to reports as this article was going to press.

There has been a vast deal of talk and publicity about Dr. Few's proposed plan within the last two weeks, but the State legislature and some churchmen are apparently having difficulties in reaching an agreement. Just why the State hesitates to accept Trinity's liberal and unselfish offer is not exactly clear. Both the Governor and the president of the University were the first to commend the proposal of Dr. Few.

Dame rumor has been bumpy spreading conflicting proposals both to the effect that Trinity would build a medical school regardless of whether or not the State cooperated with her and that Wake Forest and avoidance refuse to become entangled with the State in any educational enterprise or any other joint institution as for that.

The rather startling statement made Monday by Dr. Fewer of the general education board of the Rockefeller foundation in which he said that the talk of the gift of four million dollars to a medical college for North Carolina is all "hotcock" and "hot air" was answered yesterday by Dr. Few in a public statement which was as follows:

"I have never said that I have had the money, but that I believed that I could raise it, and I would not have made such a statement if I had not had good reasons to believe that in due time I could succeed in the undertaking."

The medical college-for-North-Carolina proposition was brought prominently before the public eye on December 19, the day after the closing of Trinity for the holidays. Dr. Few, president of Trinity, proposed a plan to the Medical School Committee of the University of N. C. whereby Trinity would give $4,000,000 toward the establishment of a medical school in Durham, providing the University gave an equal amount for its erection. The State was to have control of the management of the institution, with the assistance and probably advice of members of the board of trustees from Trinity, Wake Forest, and Davidson.

The offer was received favorably by the committee, and another committee was appointed to take immediate action on the plan. The next day Dr. Chase, president of the University, made a public statement in which he commended Dr. Few's offer and added that he was heartily in favor of such action.

Governor Cameron Morrison likewise made public his approval of Dr. Few's plan, and at a Kiwanis Club banquet in Raleigh on December 22 made the following statement: "The offer from Trinity College has been made in a big spirit, worthy of these big times and with a generosity and tolerance that ought to be commended by everybody. The plan is not for Trinity to annex the Medical college but to organize a medical school of North Carolina, with a board of trustees appointed by the Governor"

PARAGRAPHS

It has been complained that Cronic has kept the workman and his assistants on the gym from completing it sooner by constantly engaging in conversation with the bunch.

"Are you going to The Eternal Flame?" one student asked his friend two days ago and received this reply: "Yes, if I don't change my style of living."

Those who fail to sign up for an annual will in the long run wish they had a publication fee which would automatically give them a copy. Without doubt, after seeing the work done, this year's Chanticleer is a peach.

AN OBJECTIONABLE ELEMENT

There are two types of students in college. The student of one type attends a public lecture for the purpose of gaining constructive information and to satisfy his longing for knowledge, especially when the lecture is delivered by an eminent authority. This student makes himself inconspicuous as possible, sits quietly in his seat, and gives his attention to the speaker. Such a student is highly appreciative, shows respect, and usually possesses those manly characteristics of thoughtful home training. Happily this type of student is found in large numbers in every student body. The majority of men at Trinity College is composed of this type.

There is, however, another kind of student to be found here. This type attends a public lecture in order that he may be seen and heard. He usually occupies a prominent seat where he may be easily viewed and proceeds to net the monkey. Usually about the middle of the lecture he begins to squirm around in his seat, kicks the seat in front of him, gives his neighbor a punch in the side, and remarks about the dryness of the lecture, thereby giving publicity to its own ignorance. Obviously he is not disinterested enough to note that there are several hundred other listeners who are interested in the lecture.

This type of student, although in the minority, give a crude and unpolished appearance to the whole student body. By his restless and thoughtless actions he shows disrespect to the speaker and disregard for his fellow students. This type of man is heavy weight around the neck of the student body.

EXPANSION OF Y. M. C. A. FUNCTIONS NEEDED AT TRINITY

Several weeks ago the CHRONICLE spoke editorially on the question of attendance at Y. M. C. A. meetings, which were then being held with meager crowds on hand. Since then the meetings have been attended by more students, and many who get acquainted with the Y. M. C. A. hall during the recent revival will doubtless make it a point to attend the weekly Wednesday night meetings more frequently.

The Y. M. C. A. does some genuine work, especially in the matter of helping freshmen out by providing them with a reception committee, a handbook, and then staging a monster entertainment to get them acquainted with college life.

It is now time for the Y. M. C. A. at Trinity to expand its functions and provide some means for the social life of the men at Trinity. Plans for the growth of Trinity have apparently neglected to make provision for any community house, and Y. hut, or reading room where men may gather freely and feel at home. Many students at Trinity have no place to hang around outside of their rooms, with the exception of the dope shop. The men who run things at Trinity do have an opportunity for congenial social life, and that keeps them from realizing the fact that many students do not have such an opportunity.

To build a hut or a more pretentious Y. M. C. A. building takes money, but whether it can be achieved this year or not, it is certainly needed and the movement for the erection of some building should be started without delay.

USE OF OPEN-FORUM COLUMN

The fact that the Open Forum column is being used more than usual this year shows that students are beginning to think when they read over something, and then some of those who have ideas take time to write them down and send them in. The Open Forum welcomes contributions, provided they are not too long, and it is a pleasure to insert these articles, no matter how violently they disagree with the policies of the paper.

Many of the letters have dealt with the selection of a name for Trinity, and possibly more will come on this same subject. But the columns of the one meddled department of this paper have also dealt with such subjects as having freshmen speak to upperclassmen, the provision for the ducking of freshmen in the pool, library stackroom privileges for juniors, athletic eligibility, glee club concerts, objections and explanations, as well as communications of protest.

All connected with the publication of this sheet hope that even more letters to the Open Forum will appear in the future. Letters from faculty members as well as men and women students will be used. The CHRONICLE is desirous of feeling the pulse of the college community, and next spring it will ask students to express their opinions particularly on the question of a publication fee, which if put across will constitute one of the biggest jumps in the development of student life at Trinity.

CHRONICLE ENDS FIRST TERM'S WORK WITH THIS ISSUE

In view of the examination period which occupies the last ten days of this month, this will be the only issue of the CHRONICLE to appear during January. This is in keeping with the general custom maintained during the past years, thus making it possible for the members of the staff to be relieved of some of the burdens connected with the publication of this sheet.

Fifteen regular issues of the CHRONICLE are scheduled for the coming term, and efforts are being made to secure the publication of an additional High School issue and a commencement number. The regular issues will appear as follows: four in February, four in March, three in April, and three in May. The subscription price for one term is one dollar.

A TRUE SUPPORTER PASSES AWAY

A general pal of stillness swept over the campus Sunday night when the news came that Henry G. Farmer '25 had passed away at twilight in Watt's Hospital where he succumbed to an attack of meningitis. Undergoing an operation Friday for mastoid complications, young Farmer developed meningitis from which there was no hope for recovery, and death followed soon after. Dr. Wannamaker remained at his bedside all Sunday evening until death relaxed the patient's hold to life.

The body was accompanied to Bailey, the home of the deceased, Monday morning by Dr. Wannamaker, W. J. Liles, room mate of the deceased, and Reid Garrett, president of the Sophomore Class of which young Farmer was a member. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon.

The deceased was a member of the track squad last spring and won first place in the 440 event during the open events of the Olympic races. He was actively engaged in college affairs and was a good student. During his short stay here he cultivated a host of friends who mourn his death. His association was a pleasant one, and by his death Trinity College has lost a faithful son.

The young man was 19 years old and a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Farmer, of Bailey. Efforts were made to reach the parents by long distance telephone and by telegraph to summon them to their boy, but communication could not be established before death came. A. D. Farmer, a brother of the deceased, was graduated from Trinity in 1917 and served as a lieutenant in the army during the late war.

TRINITY DRAMATIC CLUB CHOSE "IF I WERE KING" FOR USUAL SPRING PLAY

Work Will be Started Immediately After Examinations by Dramatic Coach

At the regular meeting of the Trinity College Dramatic Club, which was held Monday night, the French Romance by J. H. McCarthy, If I Were King, was selected as the play to be given by the organization this spring. The play will be given shortly before the Easter holidays.

The date set for tryouts for the play was Thursday, January 11, at 2 o'clock. As there will be nine female characters and eighteen male characters it is the desire of the club that all Trinity Students, who have talent in this line of work, or who are interested in dramatics, to tryout for a part in this play.

Mrs. Paul Gross is to be the coach for this play, and the co-operation of the student body is desired.

NOTICE

ALL TRINITY STUDENTS ELIGIBLE FOR DRAMATIC CLUB TRYOUT

Students desiring to tryout for a part in the play to be given by the Trinity College Dramatic Club, are asked to register before noon on Thursday, Flora Merdith will be in the Alumni Room from 11 to 12 o'clock Thursday for the purpose of registering those who wish to tryout. Not only the members of the club, but ALL TRINITY STUDENTS are invited to take part in this tryout.

LANGLEY'S FIRST

MODEL IN FLIGHT

"The way of an Eagle in the air"

CENTURY after century men broke their necks trying to fly. They had not troubled to discover what Solomon called "the way of an eagle in the air."

In 1891 came Samuel Pierpont Langley, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution. He wanted facts. His first step was to whirl flat surfaces in the air, to measure the air pressures required to sustain these surfaces in motion and to study the swirls and currents of the air itself. Finally, in 1896, he built a small steam-driven model which flew three-quarters of a mile.

With a Congressional appropriation of $50,000 Langley built a large man-carrying machine. Because it was improperly launched, it dropped into the Potomac River. Years later, Glenn Curtiss flew it at Hammondsport, New York.

Congress regarded Langley's attempt not as a scientific experiment but as a sad fiasco and refused to encourage him further. He died a disappointed man.

Langley's scientific study which ultimately gave us the airplane seemed unimportant in 1896. Whole newspaper pages were given up to the sixteen-to-one ratio of silver to gold.

"Sixteen-to-one" is dead politically. Thousands of airplanes cleave the air—airplanes built with the knowledge that Langley acquired.

In this work the Laboratories of the General Electric Company played their part. They aided in developing the "supercharger," whereby an engine may be supplied with the air that it needs for combustion at altitudes of four miles and more. Getting the facts first, the Langley method, made the achievement possible.

What is expedient or important today may be forgotten tomorrow. The spirit of scientific research and its achievements endure.

NEW CHANTICLEER TO BE BEST IN HISTORY OF TRINITY COLLEGE

clubs, secret societies, and fraternities. Book IV, Features; a collection of cartoons, sketches, poems, and photographs relating to life on the campus.

The cover design, worked out by the artist, "Ken" Litzner in one of his inspired moments, will be elaborately executed in the colors of the senior class—grey and maroon. The book will contain three hundred or more pages, and will be superior in every way to last year's annual. An especially fine feature section is assured.

Among improvements over the last edition of the Chanticleer will be an improved view section. The campus views will be much better than those of last year; the cuts will be full-page, and are to be artistically arranged in order to show the more beautiful spots of the college. Some of the main title pages will be reproduced in striking colors.

The Chanticleer staff is composed of the following: Editor-in-chief, H. C. Sprinkle, Jr.; Business Manager, O. A. Robinson; Art Editor, K. W. Litzner. The editor has chosen Edwin P. Gibson and H. B. Willis as associate editors. Herminia Haynes, Lillian Frost, John Tyler, and O. G. Sawyer are the assistants to Manager Robinson. Dr. W. T. Lippard, of the faculty, is head of the auditing committee.

The members of the art staff are Richard Spencer, H. E. Sheetz, Jr., and R. P. Harris. Dick Spencer will execute the title pages for athletics, while the fraternity designs, class title pages, and picture montages will be done by Litzner. "Hap" Sheetz will contribute much to the life of the feature section with his inimitable and mirth-provoking cartoons. A number of miscellaneous sketches and title pages will be worked out by "Jabo" Harris.

The literary department will be given closest attention by the editor and his staff. They will endeavor to make this part of the Trinity "Rooster" one of much interest and high literary merit. Only material which is entirely appropriate and which is of the best type will be used.

The entire book is arranged according to a well-planned scheme in order that the general effect may be one of unity and harmony. The engraving is being done by the Bush-Krebs Co., of Louisville, Ky. This company has a reputation for doing excellent work. The Chanticleer should therefore be of superior quality, both in material and workmanship.

The publication of the Chanticleer is entirely in the hands of the senior class. O. A. Robinson is an able manager and financier, and is showing much skill in handling the business end of the enterprise. The publication of this annual is by no means a small undertaking and the students who have it in charge have their hands full of work. Every cent subscribed by the students will be expended in making the 1923 Chanticleer the finest and best annual yet published at Trinity.

Co-Eds Seize Opportunity to Dip in Community Pool

The question of athletics for women at Trinity is one which perplexes those interested in the all-round welfare of Trinity women and is one which seems not to be given even the dignity of a question worthy of study and solution by those who for some reason or other are not favorably disposed toward athletics for women.

However, in spite of handicaps, the semi-finals of the inter-class basketball tournament were held in Angier gymnasium. In the Junior-Senior and Freshman-Sophomore series the Juniors and Freshmen came out winners. As soon as possible after exams, a consolation game will be played between Seniors and Sophomores and the final between Juniors and Freshmen will also be staged.

By arrangements with the Director of the West Durham Community House the opportunity to enjoy the swimming pool for a reasonable price a swim has been seized by a good number of the women. Will this always be the swimming pool for Trinity women of will the new gymnasium be a delight to Trinity women as well as Trinity men?

K. L. Elmore spent a few days on the campus last week, visiting friends.

M. A. Braswell and E. T. Harrison '29 were visitors on the campus last week.

Herbert Herring '22 was a visitor on the campus for a few days following the holidays.

CHANTICLEER CANNOT ACCEPT SUBSCRIPTIONS AFTER END OF NEXT WEEK

Editor-in-Chief:

In order that every student may have an opportunity to buy a 1923 Chanticleer, I have made special arrangements with the printers and engravers to extend the time of signing the contract for books. When the Chanticleer drive was on before Christmas, many difficulties arose which prevented many students from buying an annual.

There will be another Chanticleer Week beginning Thursday, January 11, and extending through Saturday, January 20th. The Chanticleer for this year will be the best ever published at Trinity and I can assure the students that it will not be a repetition of last year. The following students will take subscriptions: for the boys—O. A. Robinson, J. H. Tyler, and G. Sawyer; for the girls—Herminia Haynes and Lillian Frost. There will be no extra books ordered this year and only those who sign by February 20 will be able to get a Chanticleer.

All accounts for space in the Chanticleer are due and the above mentioned students have the collecting in charge. Help us in this work by paying your bill promptly. These bills are all due on or before February 1st, and all students who do not pay their bills cannot appear in the annual.

It is the desire of the Chanticleer staff to make the book one worth having and an object to cherish in after life. We alone cannot fulfill these desires. We must have your co-operation.

O. A. ROBINSON, 213 Jarvis
Business Manager, 1923 Chanticleer

SUGGESTION THAT LIBRARY RE- MAIN OPEN ON SUNDAYS

To The Editor:

The policy of keeping the library open on Saturday afternoons is a good one, and the library authorities are to be congratulated upon their effort to serve more efficiently the college community.

But since such a progressive policy has been instituted, why stop here? Why not go a step further and open the library on Sunday afternoons too? "Oh, horrors!" you say, "what infidelity is this? Do you propose to break the laws of Sabbath observance by opening the library like a workshop on Sunday?" No, dear protesting friends, not that at all. Instead of breaking the holy calm of the Sabbath, my proposal rather is designed to encourage the spirit of Sabbath observance. But how? By giving to those who otherwise might dissipate the afternoon in a useless, if not harmful way, the privilege of using this time for feeding the aesthetic nature with the store of good literature found in the reading room of the library.

There are many students who at home were accustomed to spending a part of their Sunday afternoons reading a good book or magazine. It is likely that in their rooms they do not have access to the cultural literature their tastes call for. Restless, they seek diversion on the street, in drug stores, or elsewhere, and in this abandoned state of mind, fall into various petty inquiries. Would it not be manifestly better to give them a chance to spend their Sabbath afternoons in the quiet of the library with a good book or a magazine than to invite them to go strolling aimlessly about courting divers temptations? Perhaps Sunday is the only day on which most of us could use the library for simply cultivating the aesthetic tastes, yet when it might serve us most nobly its use is denied.

"But," you say "someone would have to work on Sunday in order to keep the library open." I am not proposing that anything but the reading room be opened, nor anything used save what is found therein. Suppose we do not have anyone at the desk. "Oh, that wouldn't do," the students would carry off all the magazines." Now, right here is a chance to use our honor system, that great institution recently established at Trinity to help us behave ourselves. Let's give it a job, let's like faith, it do for want of exercise. Let the doors of the reading room, only be opened for a few hours on Sunday afternoons, and let the honor system as a sort of impersonal monitor keep watch to see that we conform to the library rules. Is not the plan worth trying?

STATE CHAMPIONSHIP OF BASKET-BALL WAS THREE TIMES HELD BY TRINITY

Cap. Card Introduced Basket-Ball to Trinity Students in Fall of 1906

Basket-ball was introduced at Trinity in 1906. At this time W. W. Card, known to the students today as "Cap," was gymnasium director and was also in charge of the basketball team, using the first year only two inter-collegiate games were played.

The schedule of the basketball team grew from year to year and in connection with class games which were staged during this time it became a major sport at the college. During the college year 1911-12 the basketball season was very good, and the team lost but very few games.

In the college year of 1912-13 the basketball team adorned itself with glory winning the championship of North and South Carolina.

For the next three years Trinity did not produce championship teams, however, in 1914-15, three Trinity men were mentioned on the all-state team, and in 1915-16 one Trinity man was on the all-state team.

Again in 1916-17 Captain "Hip" Martin piloted his team to state championship. This team won 20 out of 24 games played.

In 1917-18 Trinity lost the state championship by one game. This was to N. C. State by a score of 15 to 10.

The state championship was captured by Trinity again in 1919-20.

Trinity was a runner-up for the honors again the next year and lost in the final game to Carolina. Trinity men were mentioned this year on the all-state team.

Last year's season (1921-22), was marked by a good fighting spirit in the team, but it seemed that hard luck followed the team at times. "Jimmy" Simpson, Captain of this year's team, was mentioned on the all-state team.

WHEN THE FOLKS CAME ALONG

I like to go driving alone in the flivver
For hundred and hundreds of miles;
The motor goes sweetly, she climbs the hills neatly
My face is a pattern of smiles;
Whenever there's something amiss with the engine
I quickly discover what's wrong;
A turn of a screw and she's fixed up like new—
But not when my folks come along!

For taking the family out in the flivver
Is far from my notion of fun;
If anything worries me it is their theories
Concerning what ought to be done.
It's "Dear, are you sure that you tested the tires?"
And "When did you look in the tank?"

"I think that she's boiling."
"I'm sure she need oiling."
"Take care!" you'll run into that bank!"

It's "Won't you please see what's the cause of that rattle?"
And "Please, you are going too fast."
And sometimes it's "What'll we do if the throttle
Gets stuck as it has in the past?"
It's "Oh how she booms! Go slow on the jounces!"
New springs are expensive my dear."
With such remarks flying I find it so trying
That now I pretend not to hear.

Yet still they continue their critical comments
Like "My what a terrible squeak!"
How long since you've greased her?
Let's see, was it Easter?
It ought to be done every week."
And then, if the flivver gets into real trouble,
If anything really goes wrong
It gets so much worse you can't put it in verse—

"Now what did I tell you? It's that spark plug again!" "I think it's the timer. We ought to have had a new timer put in months ago!" "Don't you believe her, it's the magnets. It always acts like that when the magnets goes wrong." "Don't stand there looking at us as if it were our fault! Can't you do something about it?"
"Oh, why must my folks come along!"

O'HENRY WAS DISCUSSED BY CARL KING AT LAST SIGMA UPSILON MEETING

Life and Works of Famous Short Story Writer Subject of Good Paper

The "Life and Works of O'Henry" was the subject of a highly interesting paper read by Carl King on last Saturday night at a meeting of the Fortnightly Club of the Sigma Upsilon Literary Fraternity. The paper was followed by readings from some of the foremost critics of O'Henry. Two of O'Henry's most popular stories were read by King in order to illustrate the points brought out in his paper. A touch of Christmas spirit was added to the program by the reading of the Gift of the Magi as one of O'Henry's best stories; the other one chosen was The Furthest Room.

The life of O'Henry was divided into four distinctive periods. The first was from 1862 to 1882, during which time O'Henry grew up in North Carolina in the city of Greensboro. The second period was from 1882 to 1896. Part of this time was spent on a ranch in Texas, and the remainder in Austin, Texas. At Austin he edited the Rolling Stone, after which he became a reporter for the Houston Post. The third distinctive period of his life was from 1896 to 1901. During these years O'Henry was accused of misappropriating funds while working in a Federal Bank in Austin. O'Henry fled to South America, where he led a rather adventurous life. Later he returned to the United States because of the illness of his wife, and gave himself up to the authorities. Although it has recently been proved that O'Henry was innocent of the crime of which he was accused, he was sentenced to five years in the Ohio Federal prison. The last period was from 1901 to 1910, the year of his death. It was in this period that his genius as a short-story writer culminated.

The stories of O'Henry have been read the world over by all classes of people. Much of O'Henry's material for his stories came from the West and his adventures in South America; however his term in prison and his knowledge of New York furnished the material for his best works in short-story writing.

O'Henry is said by many critics to be the foremost short-story writer in literature. His works are just beginning to receive public recognition as masterpieces of literary art. The most appealing phase of his stories, however, is not their technique but their human interest and human sympathy.

After the literary program the members took part in a general discussion of O'Henry and his works while they partook of the usual light feed.

Chemistry Club Announces Series Interesting Lectures

Beginning with its next meeting, the William Howell Pegram Chemistry Club will launch a series of lectures that will be of great interest to the college community. Among them will be the lecture by Mr. Dixon, of the Liggett and Meyers research department on "Tobacco." Mr. Dixon will deal with the redrying, storing, flavoring, and cutting of the tobacco prior to its being made into cigarettes. He has had several years of experience as a worker in the tobacco business both in the laboratory and in the practical application of the principles worked out in the research laboratory.

Probably the most interesting lecture that is to be given by student members of the club will be given in the month of March. This lecture will be on the subject of "Dyes and Dyestuffs." The students who are preparing this lecture are spending much time at the present in research in German editions on the subject. From the standpoint of undergraduate activities in science, this probably will be the most interesting lecture of the year.

Dr. Gross will probably deliver an address on "The Rare Gases," a lecture that he has given once before since he has been connected with the chemistry department here.

Mr. E. P. Jones will deliver a lecture on "The Chemistry in the Laundry," during the coming term.

Arrangements are being made for several more lectures under the Chemistry Club's auspices.

TRINITY TO PUT A FRESHMAN BASKET-BALL TEAM ON COURT SCHEDULE WILL BE ARRANGED

Uniforms Have Already Been Ordered and a Good Schedule is Being Arranged for Team

Rumor has it around the campus that the Freshmen will have a basketball team this year. It is certain that one or two games have already been scheduled with strong prep school, quints and other college freshmen both in this state and in Virginia.

Coach Burbage has had the matter in mind since the beginning of the basketball season. Trinity will in all probability have to join the Southern Inter-collegiate Athletic Association very soon to keep its athletic standing among other colleges, and the material developed on this year's freshman team would form a nucleus for a varsity quint of future years. Men for the team would be chosen from the freshmen candidates who did not make the varsity this year.

Uniforms have already been ordered for the yearlings, and this announcement should induce other candidates to come out for the team. Negotiations were under way early in the week to play Greensboro High School a practice game in the college gym, on Saturday night, but as yet no definite arrangements have been made for the game.

The management of the freshman team will probably be in charge of the two junior assistant managers. They will look after a schedule and will alternate in accompanying the team on trips. Coach Burbage will definitely decide about a team this week and will issue a call for candidates.

The State and with the Governor as chairman."

Since that time there has been much said pro and con the plan as proposed by Dr. Few, and now the State legislature is fighting it out in the halls of the capitol.

Both Dr. Few and Professor Flowers have devoted practically all their time to the issue. Durham clubs and medical organizations have been practically active of late in endorsing the proposal for the establishment of the medical college in Durham. The cities that were loudest in their bids for the medical school previous to Dr. Few's proposal have remained remarkably quiet within the last two weeks, and Greensboro has gone so far as to announce her public approval of the plan and her wish for its success.

WINSTON-SALEM Y CONTEST

After going at a rather slow pace during the first half, the Trinity Blue Devil quint opened up and defeated the far-famed Winston-Salem Y. 49-26. Tuesday night, January 2 in Winston-Salem. The game was arranged after college closed for the holidays, and the men had to be notified to come to Winston-Salem for the game to be played on the night before college resumed work. The team had not practised together for two weeks, but the score showed that they did remarkably well.

Neither Hipp Martin nor Skin Ferrell, former Trinity stars were in the game. Carlyle, who played for Wake Forest during his college days, was the outstanding star for the Y. Simpson led the scoring for Trinity with six baskets and eleven foul shots out of fourteen attempts. Crute and Spikes scored four goals each, while Carter shot three and Graham and Roane got one each.

Winters did not make connection in Greensboro and did not get to Winston in time for the game.

The line up was as follows:

Trinity (49) Postman, Winston (26)
Simpson R. F. Clay
Spikes L. F. Carlyle
Roane C. Sapp
Crute R. G. Caldwell
Carter L. F. Fulton

Substitutions: Bales for Fulton, Wilson for Caldwell, Cofer for Sapp, Brooks for Carter, Carter for Brooks, Graham for Spikes, Spikes for Roane. Referee: Burbage, Auburn.

Dr. Hamlin Delivers Fine Lecture to the Chem. Club

The William Howell Pogram Chemistry Club held its regular semi-monthly meeting last Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock. This meeting was featured by a talk by Dr. Hamlin of the Science Department on "Interesting Facts about Embalming Fluid." During the course of this talk a slight explosion occurred. No casualties were listed, however.

Following the regular program, delicious refreshments were served by the young ladies of the club.

Miss Virginia Ferrell, president of student Government at North Carolina College for Women, was the guest of Hermina Haynes last Thursday. The main purpose of her visit was to discuss plans and methods of carrying out the Extension Service policy of the Southern Inter-Collegiate Association of student Government.

Miss Terrell is chairman of the Extension Committee in this state.

The annual Glee Club concert has been again postponed, and will be given during the first ten days of February.

The Greensboro College Glee Club will give a recital here either on January 31 or February 1, under the auspices of the Trinity Musical Clubs. While here the G. C. girls will be entertained at Southgate Hall.

The two literary societies were unable to meet last Saturday night on account of the presentations of films of the Yellowstone National Park. The societies will meet next Saturday night at 7 p. m.

SCAB, TRINITY'S DOG LOST HIS TAIL DURING HOLIDAYS

"Scab" Lost Tail in Operation After Being Wounded in Flight from Janitor

"Scab," the well-known campus dog has recently suffered a most humiliating and painful indignity—he has lost his tail! It is said that a peacock, once shorn of its brilliant plumage, will hide itself from view until its feathers grow back to their usual beauty. "Scab" may hide himself in vain, for never again will his handsome, albeit mongrel, tail wag in greeting to his numerous student friends and admirers. No more, for "Scab's" tail is gone—irrevocably and retrievably gone.

It all happened during the holidays. "Scab" has an uncontrollable enmity for all colored folks. While the campus dog was paying a visit to one of his student friends in Aycock Hall, he chanced to encounter one of the janitors. Said janitor was of color, black, and a black man represented to "Scab" the original version of the bete noir.

The janitor ordered "Scab" out of the building. "Scab" declined to remove himself and replied with a canine curse upon the entire black tribe. Whereupon followed a battle royal wherein the appearance of Black Beauty over the Roast was established. "Scab" found it instantly necessary to retire as gracefully as possible from the scene. In his retreat he was a second too slow, and the door slammed shut on the tail of the vanquished pup. Exit pup. Continues tail.

With hurt feelings and wounded pride, "Scab" wondered about, presenting a woeful, even gruesome sight. Finally some student with a humane spirit secured the services of a surgeon, and an operation which accomplished the entire removal of "Scab's" caudal appendage was performed in Crowell science hall. "Scab," now minus even the slightest suggestion of a wagging apparatus, is developing a remarkable facial expression to replace the wag of his lost tail. He takes it all with a sort of sardonic philosophy and seems to be of the opinion that "all's well that ends well."

Dr McCollum took up the three kinds of diet, first showing that the European diet was composed primarily of milk, butter, cheese, and meat because the Europeans are inherently a pastoral people. The Oriental diet is composed mainly of vegetables and the leafy plants. He emphasizes the great food value to be found in the leaves of plants. He then demonstrated how the teeth of different people were healthy or unhealthy according to their diets, showing how the early inhabitants of Iceland had healthy teeth.

HESPERIA IN DEBATE ON BONUS QUESTION

that its citizens be well cared for, and that some kind of adequate compensation is necessary if the country is to remain on a firm financial basis.

First Speaker, Negative.

L. L. Wall dispensed with his usual stentorian oratory and talked in a conversational, yet forceful manner, his appearance on the floor was that of a dignified and masterly speaker. He gave some interesting statistics concerning the affairs of the government and endeavored to show that a Soldiers' Bonus was illegal by dwelling upon the poor financial conditions of the treasury.

It was in his rejoinder that Wall was perhaps at his best. Here he abandoned the calm and measured tone of his earlier speech and, in a manner that was unmistakably senatorial, he drove home his statements with the air of a seasoned statesman.

Second Speaker, Affirmative.

Taking up the thread of his colleague's thought, yet pursuing it along different lines, J. R. Killian made a good speech for Hesperia. He gave instances of unemployment and even poverty of ex-service men. He dwelt at some length on the need of a bonus now, before many of the veterans become impoverished by want.

Killian gave a rapid-fire volley of statistics, and ended his speech by offering some good suggestions for means of arriving at the bonus-money,—such as paid-up insurance, and the use of payments on loans by foreign debtor-countries.

Second Speaker, Negative.

T. B. Bradley made an eloquent appeal to the patriotism of the country as opposed to mercenary motives. A compensation for the men who fought and suffered in France, he insisted, would be nothing short of a payment for patriotism and would not be in keeping with the finest traditions of the nation.

In his rejoinder, which was in some respects even better than his first speech, Bradley confronted his opponents with arguments which he declared could not be answered except to the disadvantage of the affirmative.

Third Speaker, Affirmative.

W. R. Brown stressed the need of an adjusted compensation for the ex-service men, who had been taken from their employment and from college to fight for their country. He expressed desire to see these men helped in order that they could again take up the pursuits of normal life as engaged in prior to the World War.

Third Speaker, Negative.

The impracticability of an adequate and just compensation plan was argued persuasively by G. C. Erwin. Erwin's speech contained a great deal of humor and some real wit. His ironical allusion to the beautiful but impractical cotton-picking machine won him a round of applause from the audience.

BRADLEY CHOSEN TO DEBATE
N. Y. U. AND SWARTHMORE

After the debate an informal smoker was given by the Columbia Literary Society to the speakers, the judges, and the officers of both societies. At the smoker, which was a most enjoyable affair, T. B. Bradley was selected as the best all 'round debater.

Dr. Boyd as toastmaster, was full of quiet, jolly banter. The good-natured rally in which members of the faculty engaged kept everyone amused.

Plans and suggestions for the approaching inter-collegiate forensic contests were discussed in an informal, "round-the-punch-bowl" way, not the least important event of the smoker, however, was the announcement that Bradley was selected to represent Trinity in the contests with Swarthmore and with New York University.

FRIDAY'S DEBATE WAS THIRTY-FIRST INTER-SOCIETY CONTEST

The debate Friday night was the thirty-first inter-society debate. Since the series began in 1889, Hesperia has won sixteen contests, and Columbia has taken fifteen. Columbia Friday night won its fourth consecutive victory, but in the four years preceding that, Hesperia took all the contests.

Before Trinity took up inter-collegiate debating, the inter-society debate figured as the forensic event of the year, being one of the commencement features, along with the Wiley Gray Oratorical Contests which were started in 1880. Members of the Columbia Society have won nineteen of the oratorical contests and Hesperian members seventeen.
