DEVEREAUX CAST WILL BE AT COLLEGE THIS WEEK FOR TWO PLAYS

POPULAR DRAMATISTS TO COME AGAIN TO TRINITY WITH TWO FAMOUS PLAYS

TICKETS ARE GOING FAST

The Barber of Seville and The Mummy's Ear Ring Will be Presented by Devereaux on Friday

After making such a favorable impression here last year the Clifford Devereaux players are to visit Trinity again Friday, May 9, this time with two very famous Spanish plays. One play is "The Barber of Seville," a classic comedy by the renowned Beaumarchais, although a French author a man who knew Spain and Iberian customs and characters. The other play is "The Mummy's Ear Ring," one of the most powerful dramas of the celebrated Spanish dramatist, Jose Echegaray.

These plays will be presented on the woodland stage east of the East Duke building. This stage was built last year, and the result is a beautiful carpet of grass and a rustic stage setting and decoration of evergreens and reeds. All those who signed for tickets before the week were given until Monday to select their seats, but after that anyone was allowed to sign for tickets. By Friday the seats will likely all be sold, according to authorities.

"The Barber of Seville" will be given Friday afternoon. This delightful comedy was first written as an opera, but was rejected and after being twice revised and at last being cut down to a four act comedy—a masterpiece was finally produced which has been recognized ever since as a classic. Features of the original Spanish music will intersperse the Devereaux production of the play, which will give atmosphere and charm to the quiet Spanish classic. A critic says, "While the Barber of Seville" is classic, it is full of fun, most humorous situations and complications and has maintained an unequalled popularity during the last century and a half.

Beaumarchais, besides winning a great reputation as a writer of musical comedy was the distinction of having created one of the greatest characters of all literature. Figaro, a cunning giant of "The Barber of Seville," is as strong a character as Tartuffe or Hamlet, the character with which the Trinity community was so quoted when Tony Barge presented "Don Quixote" here this spring.

"The Mummy's Ear Ring" will be the drama which will be presented at the evening performance, is also a very powerful and moving drama. This is a case of Jose Echegaray's best drama, comparing favorably with his "Great Gatsby," which delighted the Trinity audience last spring when the Devereaux players were here.

In popularity no Spanish dramatist has ever surpassed Echegaray, who was a man of science and politics before he entered the field of drama writing. His work is that of an observer, which makes "The Mummy's Ear Ring" all the more successful.

TRINITY FRESHMEN BREAK RECORDS AND BEAT STATE

Freshman Teams Pitches a Good Game and Red Devils Come Back and Show a Winning Spirit

The Trinity Freshmen broke up their losing streak when they defeated the first year men from State College yesterday afternoon on Hanes field by one line marker. With the score tied in the third inning made the winning run in the path of the game. Elizabeth Kramer, a good game and received full support from the remainder of the team. The little Blue Devils seemed to have got their eyes on the ball having a total of twelve hits to their credit as against eight by their opponents.

Green, who had been shifted to short stop played his position well and garnered three hits. Waggoner, who is now playing second, Sanders, and Pearce got two nice singles each.

State played a steady game, and it seemed at times as if they had the game sewed up.

Score by innings:

State	001-000-013	R H E
Trinity	002-200-011	6 22 2

Batteries: State, Taylor and Griffin; Trinity, Thomas and Burden.

May Day Festival Attracts Many Visitors Blue Devils Take Every Game On Southern Trip N. C. Academy of Science Held Session Here

ELIZABETH KRAMER CROWNED
Folk Dances Featured at Ceremony on West Lawn—Tea Garden Was Well Attended

The celebration of the fourth May Day Festival which occurred last Thursday afternoon was probably one of the most brilliant functions which has ever taken place on the Trinity campus. Witnessed by a throng of spectators approaching nearly two thousand people, the coronation of the May Queen and the accompanying festivities were celebrated on the green in front of the West Duke building. With the smooth green turf forming a soft carpet, the white throng of the May Queen against the background of dense green shrubbery made a most appropriate setting for the impressive ceremony.

"After the final notes of 'Welcome, Sweet Springtime,' sung by the Glee Club, had died away, the heralds, Marie Garland and Sally Taylor, entered and proclaimed, with the loud blowing of trumpets, the coming of the queen and her royal train. The procession was, of course, led by the twelve attendants, who were Elizabeth Aldridge, Mary Eckridge, Beatie Hayes, Elizabeth Hicks, Mary Ellen Lloyd, Ethel Merritt, Ida Maynard, Anna Redberg, Kitty Stables, Elizabeth Shewalter, Lucy Taylor, and Mabel West. They were frocks of crepe, yellow, green, or peach, flowered chiffon, with a touch of contrasting velvet, and carried an array of roses and sweet peas. Mrs. Jennett, who was maid of honor, followed. She wore a creation of peach, green, and cream, trimmed, and her flowers were roses. Next in the procession were little Nancy LaPrade, the crown bearer, and six little girls who scattered petals in the path of the queen. Elizabeth Kramer, her own was of white georgette, heavily beaded, made with a court train, and she carried a shower bouquet of broken roses. Paul Cross was train bearer.

Folk Dances
As soon as the brief and beautiful gown having been crowned by Mrs. Jennett, the entertainment for her majesty, the reigning May-day, began. Eight girls, dressed to represent peasants, gave a folk dance. Catherine Cox executed a most individual solo dance. The third dance, also a folk dance, was participated in by peasant boys and girls in very colored costumes. The main feature of the festival was the coronation of the May Queen.

COACH HOWARD JONES LED BLUE DEVIL SLUGGERS IN A SOUTHERN TOUR, MEETING SOME OF FOREMOST TEAMS IN SOUTH, WITHOUT LOSING A ONE OF SEVEN GAMES

Returning from a highly successful tour through Southern States the Blue Devil Baseball team has again demonstrated that it has one of the best, if not the best team on the South. Playing one of the strongest teams in the South Trinity won seven consecutive games on their trip South without having a single game scored against her. If Trinity defeats Wake Forest, N. C. State, and Carolina in the three games remaining on her schedule she will be in the best position of any Southern team to claim the championship.

In a game played in a very high wind Trinity defeated the Darters of the University of Florida by a 11-6 score. The game was featured by the felling of the whole Trinity team and the hitting of Spikes who got a home run and a two-run hit out of four times at bat. Sanders pitched a much better game than the score would indicate.

Trinity beat John B. Stetson University on the following day by the score of 2-2. The pitching of Dempster and the felling of the whole Blue Devil team featured Trinity's play. Dempster allowed only two hits in the first eight innings but was touched for four hits and two runs in the ninth. The Trinity team outslugged Stetson throughout the game and showed an ability to hit in the pinch.

Trinity trimmed the claws of the Wildcats for the second time this season at Greensboro, Saturday. The Methodists dug the offerings of Laird from the beginning of the game and aided by out-field errors scored nine runs in the first before darkness fell. He ruthlessly called Harvey Johnson out before the ball reached the base at home, and Spikes was declared out even after the Elton player had dropped the ball.

Libra-y Receives Handsome Gift From Harvard Recently

A very handsome gift has been made to the Trinity College Library by Harvard University in the form of a two volume series of books which record the operations undertaken by a Harvard University commission in Palestine.

to keep an accurate record, but there are reliable rumors that several Blue Devil batting averages were considerably fattened that day.

Trinity opened with a rush, the first five men crossing the home plate before Elton could count up the required number of outs. Dempster started the game, and the Eltonites were helpless before his dandled delivery. In the beginning of the seventh frame Coach Jones decided to be generous, and he brought the mighty Dempster to the bench and sent in English, but Elton was crushed beyond doubt, and English batted from the mound with such effectiveness that they failed to get a hit.

The Elton pitchers were pounded at will. Spikes, Johnson, Turner, and Smith registered home runs, and Turner, Brown, Johnson, and McMurris tapped the offerings of Carby's twirlers for three base hits. Elton's only score came in the sixth frame when the man connected with the ball for a three bagger and scored on a sacrifice. Elton, as Trinity used two pitchers. Coach Carby in despair sent Barker to the showers after the fourth frame. Blue Devil had crossed the plate, and Underwood, who relieved him, was unable to do for his offense were hampered out for eleven more runs before the long game ended.

Another feature of the game which was one of the amusing incidents was the umpiring of Major Henderson, who saw the necessity of speeding up the game if the ninth inning was to be reached before darkness fell. He ruthlessly called Harvey Johnson out before the ball reached the base at home, and Spikes was declared out even after the Elton player had dropped the ball.

Star Sunday morning the academy broke up into separate departments. The North Carolina section of the American Chemical Society presented a series of papers on physical chemistry. The North Carolina Physical Teachers' Association also presented papers on physics. The Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education took up the promotion of engineering in the State. The societies are allied with the Academy and there fore meet in conjunction with it.

SCIENTISTS OF STATE WERE GUESTS OF TRINITY LAST WEEK

WELCOME ADDRESS BY DR. FEW
Dr. Bert Cunningham Has Elected as Office of Secretary-Treasurer of Society

The North Carolina Academy of Science held its 23rd annual session at Trinity College last Friday and Saturday, May 2nd and 3rd. The session opened at 10:30 Friday morning. At the business session which followed the presentation of the various papers dealing with scientific subjects, officers were elected for the new year. H. B. Arkus, of Davidson College, was elected president for next year; Lela G. Winston, of Meredith College, Raleigh, vice-president; Dr. Bert Cunningham, Trinity College, secretary-treasurer; two members of the executive committee, C. M. Hook, of State College, and J. P. Grider, of N. C. College for Women, Greensboro. Dr. Cunningham was secretary-treasurer for the past year and his re-election was recognition on the part of the society of the valuable service he has done for the organization.

Thirty-six scientific papers on research work were read during the day. These papers took up discussions of many phases of scientific work, and showed something of the research work in progress in North Carolina. The papers proved to be very helpful to the scientific attending.

The evening session was held at 8 p. m. Dr. W. F. Few, president of Trinity College, gave the address of welcome in the South Gate dining hall where the academy members were entertained. C. M. Hook, professor of physics at State College and retiring president of the North Carolina Academy, delivered the presidential address on the subject, "Science of the Future and for the future."

Star Sunday morning the academy broke up into separate departments. The North Carolina section of the American Chemical Society presented a series of papers on physical chemistry. The North Carolina Physical Teachers' Association also presented papers on physics. The Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education took up the promotion of engineering in the State. The societies are allied with the Academy and there fore meet in conjunction with it.

TRINITY PAPERS RANK HIGH

Chronicle is Given Second Place in State Among Newspapers, and the Archive First Among Magazines

The Seventh Semi-Annual Convention of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association was held at Elon College last week from Thursday evening until Saturday morning. Sixteen collegiate publications of the State were represented at this meeting, at which every phase of the work of collegiate editing was discussed. The representatives were guests of the Maroon and Gold, the weekly student publication of Elon College.

A feature of the meeting was an address of Walt Pillars of an advertising agency of Greensboro, who took up the problems of advertisement of the college publications, and made several recommendations for the betterment of these existing conditions. Prof. Bobcock and President Harper also addressed the meeting on a topic of interest to the student editors.

At the Saturday meeting a vote was taken as to the best publications of the State, and the Trinity publications ranked higher than those of the other colleges. The Chronicle being given second vote as the best newspaper of the State, and the Archive getting first place as the best magazine. The Davidsonian, of Davidson College, was awarded first place as the best newspaper, but the Trinity publications were awarded a first and a second place.

Opening Meeting

Thursday the representatives met in a society hall for the opening service at which the Dean of Elon College welcomed the visitors. Following this meeting an informal reception was held in a reception hall of one of the buildings. Friday morning the business session convened, at which Prof. Bobcock gave his address, and the reports of the publications were heard. On Friday afternoon the representatives were given an outing at the Mooser Park near the College. Friday night a banquet was given to the visitors by the Maroon and Gold in the college dining hall. On Saturday morning the business session was held, at which President Harper addressed the meeting. Following the report of the executive committee the annual election of officers was held, and the Association adjourned after voting to meet at Greensboro College next year.

Sixteen publications were represented at the meeting as follows: The Trinity Chronicle, The Davidsonian, The Davidson Magazine, The Wake Forest Gold and Black, The Wake Forest Magazine, N. C. State Technician, The N. C. State Magazine, the G. O. Message, The N. C. C. W. Carolinian, The Meredith News, The Meredith Acorn, the Elton Maroon and Gold, and the publications from Salem, Queens, and Lenoir, J. D. Norrest.

All praise be to the Queen of the May who brought with her this balmy summer weather.

The Blue Devils went through the South like the renowned Sherman who made the famous march to the sea.

"There is a time for all things," says the Scripture, "a time to sing and a time to dance,"—but not at Trinity.

We suggest the following title for your Trinity song: "These wild, wild onions are going to make a wild man out of me."

Every dog has his day, and so the College editors had their last week when they mingled on the grounds of Elton.

Most of the co-ed dancers were able to interpret the folk dances admirably because of their early environment.

It is rumored that some Trinity ladies are intending to buy stock in the T. Drive-In automobile service to save expenses.

The ease with which some of the young ladies and ladies hereabouts take their seats on class may be explained by saying that skating is now one of the popular pastimes.

Wit and good looks seldom go together in the masculine circles, but with the feminine sex it is different, as we learned by our association with them at Elton.

Love is a peculiar disease that is very contagious and dangerous. It is irritated by warm weather, young blood, a summer moon, soft, velvet-like grass, and thick beds.

The quality of victrola music is not strained. It flows as a sluggish stream of sewage from all music stores. It is twice censored. It curdles him that sings and him that listens.

We propose the following song for the Senior banquet tonight. "How in the world can the Seniors talk that they ain't coming back no more!"

GENERAL JULIAN S. CURR

So much has been said and written about General Julian Shakespeare Carr that we feel that we feel that it is almost presumptuous on our part to attempt to cast any more palm leaves in one whose hour is already heavy with laurels. To repeat what has already been written in Southern papers about this magnificent personality would make these eulogies commonplace and trite.

That General Carr was one of the foremost citizens of the South, a gentleman of the old school of Southerners that is rapidly vanishing, that he held a unique position in the minds of his countrymen and a distinctive place in the hearts of those who knew him personally, all of that is beyond the boundary of doubt or question. There may be other great builders in North Carolina, other great philanthropists; there may be other patriots equally as zealous, other southerners who love their southland as well as he; but there can be only one General Carr. He stands alone among his contemporaries, a benefactor of his people, yet unobtrusively mingling with them. But our purpose is not to focus attention on his qualities of spectacular greatness. Many men have surpassed him in these. And it is not these attributes of a strong man that place him on his left place of fame, but it is rather his single love for humanity and the enthusiasm which he displayed over the less significant matters of his daily life.

We recall that four years ago he founded the Trinity Men's Bible Class for young men of Trinity College who attended Trinity Church. Though he was engaged in business which kept him away from home a great deal of the time, he took the position of teacher of the class and made it a point to attend every meeting unless he was so far away from home that it was not possible to return by Sunday. These meetings and the talks which came from the heart of the man who felt a keen personal interest in the young men who were just on the threshold of life will live in the minds of these students long after their college courses have been forgotten.

Always deeply interested in his boys, bubbling with the enthusiasm of a youthful spirit, possessing a distinctive and striking personality that dominated his associates, General Carr of the Old South found to his heart and his philosophy of life to a younger generation upon whose shoulders would some day fall the burden of carrying forward the work he and his comrades in gray had begun. It is for this that Trinity students will ever cherish him in their memory.

TRINITY AND HONOR

College students are by nature inclined to be critical, especially of local institutions. So it is with student government and the honor system here. The latter is a local feature on the Washington and Lee system by Dr. Henry Louis Smith, president of that Virginia institution, at chapel Monday morning has put some of the heretofore dormant students on the campus to thinking.

It is commendable, even though it is almost inexcusable. The trouble with this thinking for the most part is that it is not constructive. It tends to create a foreign institution far beyond its just deserts, while it greatly underestimates the potentialities of the home institution.

We realize that we have been accused, unjustly so, of attacking student government and the honor system at Trinity College. Such criticisms look like a cloud and weakens with infamy and bias personal prejudice. We defy anyone to substantiate any accusation that our editorial comment on the honor system and student government has been anything but constructive. Of course we have pointed out certain errors and faults that we believe should be eradicated before the honor system could attain its fullest possibilities. But never have we lost faith in the ultimate success of this new experiment at Trinity.

Now there are those who believe that Trinity students could never be trusted to the extent that the Washington and Lee students are trusted. But we are not of that school. Washington and Lee has, obviously enough, outstripped most other educational institutions in this country in a rather rigid system of honor. But to say that Washington and Lee students have higher codes of honor than Trinity students is to make a gross misstatement.

The suggestion that Dr. Smith made with reference to carrying on the honor system were excellent and should be seriously considered, as they probably will be, by the local student council. But we must not lose our perspective nor our equilibrium because of the phantasm of another more finished piece of workmanship. Ours is in its infancy, and its possibilities are immeasurable.

SINK OR SWIM

We must confess we feel a bit elated over the outcome of the vote taken by the delegates at the seventh annual convention of the North Carolina College Press Association last week when Trinity position was given the highest position among college publications in the State. The honor was altogether unexpected.

The achievement of our student publication seems somewhat marvelous when one considers that those publications have been maintained by the editorial and business efforts of the respective students and papers without financial aid or other assistance from the College.

In every other institution of any size in this State there is a school of journalism. Trinity has only one course in journalism. Furthermore almost every other college of merit in this State offers scholastic credits for work done on student publications. But here an editor may work until he is a nervous wreck and until he has failed on almost all of his college work, and still he gets nothing but a nod of recognition from the College and a cuff from the student body.

As to the financial or business end of the publications, Trinity is again in arrears. Other progressive institutions in the State have already adopted the publication for as the most sound method of financing student publications. Here the matter has been agitated for the past fifteen years, but still the College officials refuse to see the wisdom of it.

So it is throughout. No assistance is afforded the distracted editor until he makes a slip or makes an unexcusable comment on College business. Then he is immediately called to account.

Of course we understand that the College officials are in fact vitally interested in student publications and are gratified at their achievements. But would they be more convincing if they adopted the resolutions of the N. C. C. P. A. and granted scholastic credits for work done on publications and then instituted the publication fee for next year? We think so.

MEMORIAL EXERCISES FOR GENERAL CARR WEDNESDAY

President Few Makes Short Talk Upon Life and Service Rendered by General Carr.

A short but appropriate memorial service was held at the regular chapel hour last Wednesday morning in the memory of General Julian S. Carr who died in Chicago. An unusually large number of students and visitors from the city were present at this service. President W. P. Few made a short talk upon the life and service rendered by General Carr. He especially called attention to the fact that Trinity and all Trinity sons and daughters were indebted to him because of the fact that he was responsible for bringing Trinity to Durham, he donated the original tract of land upon which the College is located.

This was the second memorial service of the week coming the day following the one held in memory of Mr. Joe Ruff. Dr. Few took advantage of the opportunity to impress upon the students the value of living a life of service by studying the lives of these two men as examples.

The weather is sultry tonight; and the atmosphere, thickened by foul to-morrow smoke, is oppressive. And so Ye Old Editor can hardly be held responsible for anything he writes. In fact he is inclined to revert and visions.

Time and space fade into nothingness as Ye Old Editor draws pictures in smoke and gases, as it were, into a crystal ball. Slowly the muffled figures begin to assume a more or less definite form until Ye Old Editor recognizes them as members of his dear old class of '24.

As they mingle and converse, Ye Old Editor catches bits of their conversation, enough in fact to determine their style in society and to learn how they have succeeded or failed.

Most of them have been branded with the sign of mediocrity and thus are spoken of as "good citizens." They are merely in the rut. Others have achieved positions of eminence and even a small degree of fame. But these are few.

NORTH CAROLINA BAR EULOGIZES JOE RUFF

DR. SAMUEL FOX MORDECAI OF LAW SCHOOL PREPARED RESOLUTIONS

WAS LOVED BY ADOPTED STATE

Bar Expressed Grief at Loss of Their Associate and Deceased Him a Southern Gentleman

Official recognition of the death of Professor Joe H. Ruff, instructor in law here and well known Durham lawyer, who died a short time ago in a Baltimore hospital, was taken at the annual meeting of the North Carolina Bar association, which met in Pinehurst last week. Resolutions were adopted by the association as an eulogy on the life of one of their esteemed members.

The resolutions were prepared by Dr. Samuel Fox Mordecai, dean of the Law School here, under whom Professor Ruff studied law. The resolutions were adopted as follows:

Joseph Hinton Ruff was born at Plantersville, Mississippi, on October 24th, 1862. He was prepared for college at that great school at Ball Bluff, Tennessee, and under that gifted and thorough teacher, the late Senator Webb, at Trinity College, North Carolina, where he obtained his A. B. degree. His legal education was at Trinity college law school in which law school he was, at the time of his death, a most efficient professor and one greatly respected, appreciated and beloved by his fellow teachers and by the students of the law school.

At the beginning of the war between the United States and Germany, our deceased brother entered an officer's training camp and was from thence assigned to a regiment with the rank of lieutenant. He went to France and was engaged in active service on the firing line to the end of the war. He was in many of the bloodiest battles of the war. His record as a soldier is one of which his family and friends are justly proud.

By birth and rearing he possessed the characteristics of the true southern gentleman. He was honest and honorable; chivalrous to women; courteous to men; kind and considerate to the weak; brave amidst all surroundings; courageous in battle. He was loyal to his church, to our country and to our flag. He was a gentleman and a good soldier, of him it can be said "He feared no man and of him no god man was afraid." Endowed with a sunny disposition, good nature, wit, a fine sense of humor, good humor unadorned with pessimism was a charming companion. He was a warm-hearted, cordial and loyal friend. In the prime of life there came to him the "Destroyer of delights, and the Lord of calamities." "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away: blessed be the name of the Lord." May the peace of God be our brother's.

Be it resolved by the North Carolina Bar association: That by the death of Joseph Hinton Ruff our country has lost a loyal citizen and our flag a brave defender; his native state a son that was ever an honor to her; his adopted state a son of whom she was with good reason proud; and we, his brother lawyers, a companion most worthy and at whose loss we are deeply grieved. We loved the man, we honor his memory.

If you smoke a pipe (if you don't you ought to) it may be worth your while to read this

You know tobacco is a vegetable; it grows out of the ground, and when it's green, it is too harsh and strong to smoke. The very best way to remove that harshness and bitterness is by thorough ageing in wood. To age Velvet Tobacco in wood is expensive for us—yes, very expensive, and it takes time, but it gives you a milder, cooler smoke with a finer flavor.
It's 10 to 1 you'll like Velvet Tobacco—aged in wood.

Shakespeare Course to be Given Half of Next Year

Because of a request by a considerable number of students the Department of English has planned to offer English 3

(Shakespeare) for the first half of the coming college year. Students who desire to elect this course must arrange with the Department of English for changes in course-cards before May 20.

MAY DAY FESTIVAL ATTRACTS MANY VISITORS

The entertainment, however was the traditional May Pole dance. Clad in traditional costumes of pink, green, blue, and yellow, blithe and debonair nymphs wound the May Pole with absolute perfection.

After the regatta procession had departed the crowds went to the garden, which was in front of the woodland stage. Japanese lanterns and other devices had been utilized to transform the spot into a place of beauty, and beer refreshments were sold until a late hour.

Carnival
Le Grand Circus, the annual carnival which always unites in the May Day festival, was held in the Memorial gymnasium Wednesday evening. The main feature of the carnival was the one-ring circus which was conducted by a ringmaster in true Harlow and Bailey fashion. The famous Yellow Jacket tiger was there as an added attraction. The minstrel composed of black face comedians brought much applause from the audience of critical students. After the circus the crowd moved about among the various booths, taking a chance here and there, getting stung, and then trying again. So the evening waned until well up toward midnight.

G. V. Allen, G. W. Allen, and F. H. Shinn were the representatives of the Trinity publications.

Resolutions Adopted

Among the improvements adopted for the coming year by the Association was the recommendation of a standard column of 12 1/2 lines for all college papers in the state. Some discussion was made upon the advisability of letting the advertising be handled by an agency, but no action was taken. The following resolutions were adopted by the Association, and were ordered published in all of the college publications represented:

"Whereas, the plan has met with favor and has been instituted in several institutions of the State, and

"Whereas, the work of student publications has attained such a degree of importance in fostering literary effort and production,

Trinity Freshmen Defeated by Young Deacons Saturday

Errors and poor slugging again proved the downfall of the little Blue Devils when the Wake Forest yearlings took their measure last Saturday on Hanes field by a score of 7-4. Turt pitched a nice game, but poor support from his teammates worked for a loss.

TOMBS TO AWARD MEDAL TO SENIOR

On next Wednesday morning immediately after the chapel exercises the president of the Tombs, a local organization for the promotion of College activities, will award what will be known as the Tombs medal to what the members consider the most versatile athlete in the Senior class.

This is the first time that the Tombs has offered such a medal, and there is quite a little speculation on the choice of the organization. No announcement of the decision of the Tombs will be made until the medal is presented.

HIGH SCHOOL LADS TO MEET ON LOCAL TRACK

FIRST HIGH SCHOOL TRACK MEET WILL BE HELD HERE ON NEXT SATURDAY

The officials for the meet have been selected and are Starter, Merrill Knight; Times, "Coy" Carl; Judge, R. H. Frink; Finals Judges, Ketchie, Waggoner, Ralston, Gaston, Withrow, and Burns; Field Judges, Hatcher, Jones, Hinchey, and Swearingen; Clerk of course, R. E. Long; and Grand Marshall, J. Tyler.

During the week Coach Burbage will send every male student in college a questionnaire in regard to rooming quarters for these athletes, and it is especially important that those receiving these questionnaires respond promptly and co-operate as much as possible in preparing for the entertainment of the 75 to 100 men that will be the guests of the college Friday night, May 9th.

A silver cup for the winning School was already been secured through the co-operation of the Rotary Club and the Chamber of Commerce of the city, and the thirty-six medals for those placing in the meet have also arrived.

CAROLINA AND GUILFORD COP THE OTHER TWO CUPS

Harmony, Novelty, Genuine Music, and Every Type of Musical Program Enjoyed by Audience

The University of North Carolina, Trinity, and Guilford were the winners of the first North Carolina Intercollegiate Glee Club Contest that was held in Craven Memorial Hall last Thursday evening. Harmony from four North Carolina Colleges delighted a capacity audience when the first of what is planned to be a series of annual intercollegiate glee club contests. A group of more than 100 young men representing Trinity, Carolina, Wake Forest, and Guilford presented a program that is rarely compared in excellence.

Handsome silver cups were awarded to the winning contestants at the conclusion of the contest. Professor F. M. Martin, superintendent of the Durham schools made the speeches of presentation. The contest was fostered by the seven civic organizations of the city of Durham, and Mr. M. A. Briggs, former president of the Kiwanis Club, presided over the program.

The evening's program opened with all the clubs singing two verses of American. The song was sung by the young men without previous practice together and was gone through with exceptional perfection and harmony.

Trinity's quartet composed of Frank Warner, "Hay" Sheets, Allison Ormond, and Fred Green carried off with ease the cup for the best quartet, combining both harmony and entertainment. Guilford had also an exceptionally good quartet, and Wake Forest put exceptional feeling and harmony into "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot."

Guilford's secret of uniformed "wooden soldiers" won the silver cup for the best novelty. The Quakers presented a novelty that was given with perfect drill, a group of young men pantomiming "wooden soldiers" mechanical drill movements excellently. Frank Warner was Trinity's sole representative in the specialty contest, creating much fun and entertainment with his singing and playing.

The University of North Carolina Glee Club showed remarkable harmony and won the judges' decision on the glee club contest, singing Bach's "Grant Us to Do with Zeal." The Tar Heels presented an exceptionally well trained group of singers. Each college, however, presented some splendid singers, and it was no easy decision for the judges.

HENRY CAVENDISH

English chemist and physicist, of whom Biot said, "He was the richest of the learned and the most fervent of the rich. His last great achievement was his famous experiment to determine the density of the earth."

He first made water from gases

Henry Cavendish, an eccentric millionaire recluse, who devoted his life to research, was the discoverer of the H and the O in H₂O. In fact he first told the Royal Society of the existence of hydrogen.

He found what water was by making it himself, and so became one of the first of the synthetic chemists.

Cavendish concluded that the atmosphere contained elements then unknown. His conclusion has been verified by the discovery of argon and other gases.

The Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company have found a way for argon in developing lamps hundreds of times brighter than the guttering candles which lighted Cavendish's laboratory.

In this age of electricity the General Electric Company has blazed the trail of electrical progress. You will find its motors on the giant generators used by lighting companies and even on the lamps and little motors that mean so much in the home. It is a symbol of useful service.

DR. SMITH ADDRESSES STUDENTS AT CHAPEL

PRESIDENT OF WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY TALKS TO STUDENTS

Henry Louis Smith, President of Washington and Lee University and a national figure, gave a timely and highly instructive talk to the Trinity students Monday morning, May 5, during the chapel hour in Craven Memorial Hall. The talk dealt with the Honor System at Washington and Lee and was timely because of the recent campus discussion over the questioned success or failure of the Honor System at Trinity; it was instructive because of Dr. Smith's intimate knowledge of the system at Washington and Lee, where the system has been more successful than in any other college or university.

At a very early date Washington and Lee, one of the first colleges of Virginia, introduced the Honor System as a means of disciplining, and it has become so efficient that today a clerkship alone is run on the campus. The doors of the University offices are seldom ever locked.

The President of Washington and Lee declared that the Honor System cannot become efficient in any college overnight. Washington and Lee has arrived at her present efficiency in the Honor System only by a long and tedious process.

MEN'S ASSOCIATION INAUGURATION MAY 1

BARNES' INAUGURAL ADDRESS

New President of Trinity Men's Association Outlines Plans for Coming Year

Thursday, May 1st, marked the close of the second year of student government at Trinity College. At that time during the chapel hour the new officers of the Men's Association and the members of the student council took their oaths of office and were duly installed. J. D. Harris, the retiring president, in a few words thanked the student body and the faculty for their co-operation with the council during the past year, and asked that they support the new council with as much and even more loyalty than they had in the past.

Harris then administered the oath of office to the following men. W. F. Craven, Secretary and Treasurer of the Men's Association; W. G. Bradshaw, Vice-President; and W. S. Barnes, President. The members of the council took their oaths as a body. This council is composed of W. S. Barnes, '25; J. J. Farniss, '25; W. F. Craven and G. T. Leach, '26; Euel Jones, '27; and J. E. Dempster, '25 who was elected on last Saturday at the regular class meeting.

The new president, Barnes, in a few well chosen remarks outlined a few of his plans for the coming year. He pointed out some of the faults of the past and showed wherein some of them could be corrected. It is his plan to give the honor system more publicity than has been given it in the past, especially among the incoming freshmen.

Barnes emphasized the fact that the members of the council were not a bunch of detectives, but that each member of the student body is and shall be responsible for the conduct of the students on the campus.

Dr. Wannamaker closed the exercise by stating that the Council and the honor system would have the support of the Dean and the faculty as long as they showed that the merited such support.

The forceful remarks of President Barnes showed that he is a clear thinker, and that he and his council will deserve the confidence which the student body has placed in them.

SENIOR BANQUET WILL BE HELD ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Elaborate Preparations Are Being Made for the Annual Banquet to Take Place at Cafeteria

The big feature of the senior banquet, which will be given in the cafeteria this evening, May 7, will be the address by Hon. Sidney Alderman, an alumnus of Trinity and a well-known lawyer in the city of Greensboro. Mr. Carl Knox has been elected toastmaster and will deliver the address of welcome.

The banquet will be rather elaborate both in decorations and menu. Seven courses will be served, and "Petes" has promised to do his best. Doyle has charge of the decorations and will include lattice work in flowers of the class colors. The guests of the seniors will be Miss Baldwin, dean of women, and the class advisors, Drs. Wannamaker, Few, Cranford, and Professor Flowers.

In the mind of every serious thinking college man there arises a question—"What am I going to do after graduation?" This question presents a serious crisis. It demands a definite decision.
