Hinshaw Opera Troupe to Present Don Pasquale to Trinity Students

FAMOUS OPERA TO BE GIVEN BY SUCCESSFUL TROUPE AT COLLEGE

TICKETS ARE NOW ON SALE

Opera Comes to Trinity Highly Recommended by Critics—Will be Delightful Treat for the Students

"Don Pasquale" will give Trinity a taste of America's best opera when the William Wade Hinshaw opera troupe visits the campus Tuesday evening, October 21, 1924. The performance will be given in Craven Memorial Hall, beginning at 8:30 P. M. The opera is being brought here by the Entertainment Committee of the college, with the aid of the Woman's Club of Durham.

Not only is famous opera being brought to the city, and the campus, but the company is equally as famous and successful. The noted Irene Williams, celebrated American Prima Donna, is included in the troupe, along with Misses Ellen Ramsey, Lillian Palmer, and Messrs. Thomas McDermann, Leo de Brough, Pierre Remington and Alfred Calin.

Critics declare that the music of the opera "Don Pasquale" gives fine opportunities for vocal display. The voices and talents of these gifted actors, actresses, and singers, and the critics are very favorable in their estimation of the ability of the opera troupe.

"Don Pasquale" at Greensboro Last Year

The opera "Don Pasquale" was brought to a nearby city last year, and was probably attended by a few of the Trinity students; but those who did not attend have a new treat in store for them. The success of this opera at Greensboro may be judged from the following clipping from the November 1, 1923, issue of the Greensboro Daily News:

"Don Pasquale" sang a-forever popular. The performance was a revelation to people who were not acquainted with the work done by William Wade Hinshaw. The presentation, both to the eye and the ear, was impressive. The mounting and continuing were cleverly and beautifully done, and the singing was of a sort not often offered for the enjoyment of music lovers of this city. The outstanding value of Hinshaw production is educational; especially when sung not only in English, but in intelligible English, it inevitably opens the eyes of many of the hearers to what opera is, what, in fact, it is originally intended to be. It would be interesting to note to just how many it occurred for the first time that opera may be interesting, interesting and amusing, as well as 'cultural.' Anyhow, that is what 'Don Pasquale' was.

A Delightful Treat for Trinity Students

To many students at Trinity the very first opera suggests a delightful treat, 'high brow,' something to which many people go in order to show their aesthetic feeling, and parade their 'culture' and dress suits. If any have such ideas concerning the opera coming to Trinity next week, those who have seen the Hinshaw troupe present 'Don Pasquale' hope that such illusions may be dispelled before the date for the opera arrives, for it is just such a delightful treat as grandma's highbrow present used to be to us when we were in college.

The musician will, of course, find special enjoyment in Mozart's but even those who have had no special training in music will receive a great deal of pleasure more than pay them for attending.

"Don Pasquale"—Don Pasquale renews his sanction to the marriage of his nephew Ernesto to Norina, a lovely girl. The old man himself desires to marry, and his physician, Dr. Malatesta, proposes his sister, Sofronia, as bride. Don P. accepts and Norina declares herself as the doctor's sister and the marriage contract is signed before a supposed notary. Norina now behaves like a good woman of the house, and the doctor is miserable for the old man that he is delighted when he discovers that he has been duped; he readily consents to the wedding of Ernesto and Norina.

Among the many Alumni who returned for the Trinity-Carolina game last Saturday were: Robert Dettie, '23, Maxeyd Keoch, '23, Edgar Fisher, '23, William Richardson, '23, William Ricks, '24, Eugene Bullock, '24, and Harry Shotts, '24.

THE BLUE DEVIL TEAM LEAVES THIS WEEK TO INVADE VIRGINIA SOIL

COACH JONES WILL MARCH ON TO RICHMOND FRIDAY MORNING

THE TEAM IN GOOD SHAPE

Frank will Probably be out on Account of Sickness, but McIntosh Brothers, are Eligible for the Game

Coach Jones and his squad will leave Friday morning for Richmond where the first inter-state game of the season will be staged with the University of Richmond Spiders on Saturday afternoon. Practically no injuries were sustained in the Carolina game, and the whole team should be in good shape for the encounter. The Blue Devils are absorbing more and more of the Jones' system from day to day, and their morale has been constantly strengthening. Students and players are well satisfied with the Carolina score, and consider it a moral victory. The slogan now is 'On to Richmond,' and the team is expected to return Sunday having won a real victory.

This is the first time in history that Trinity and the University of Richmond have been scheduled to meet on the gridiron, so this contest is looked forward to with a great deal of anticipation. Very little has been heard of the strength of the Richmond team, and there are no comparative scores from which to judge. The Virginians were defeated by Davidson in the first game of the season by a score of 7-0, and were overwhelmed by Maryland on last Saturday 38-0. The Captain, however, and a number of his men were out of the game on account of sickness and injuries. Many of their varsity men were last year, and before the Maryland game a regular varsity had not been picked. The Spiders seem to have a fairly strong backfield, and their line game against Maryland were accomplished through means of an aerial attack.

The trip to Richmond is the first to be taken under the guidance of Coach Jones and much interest is being manifested as to its conduct and results. Just who and how many will make the trip has been made known, although the regulars have practically been selected.

Frank has been in the hospital suffering from a severe cold and a boil on his right arm, but it is hoped that he will be in shape to make the trip. Coach Jones has practically recovered from the flu he received in the State game, and will be one of the mainstays in the game. The McIntosh brothers, however, Green will also be eligible to help in the "Old Dominion."

Taking all these things into consideration, the Blue Devils should come out with a win to their credit, and in good shape to go back on the following Saturday and take on the strong William and Mary aggregation.

Taurian Players Are Getting to Work in Tryouts for a New Play

NEW PRODUCTION TO BE FILLED WITH ROMANCES

Leading Character is Yet to be Selected

Play will be in the hands of the Taurian Players, yet Attempted by Taurians

Ever since "knighthood was in vogue" the average human being has been interested in drama. To be sure they have long ago been untamed from most of the cultured and sophisticated countries, but the romantic, the glorious, and perhaps the craving of the paganistic instinct, have caused most people to love to think, read, and hear of such affairs. In this manner, perhaps, it is if our feigned sophisticated humanness did not taboo it.

HOME COMING DAY FOR ALUMNI WILL BE DATE OF TRINITY-WAKE FOREST CONTEST

Tuesday, November 11 is Home Coming Day at Trinity for all alumni, and alumnae. Alumnae plans are being formulated by Alumni Secretary Thigpen and other college officials for the second annual Home Coming Day on November 11, when Coach Howard Jones' Blue Devils clash with the Demon Deacons of Wake Forest. Several hundred alumni and alumnae are expected to return to their old alma mater for a day of pleasure and profit from start to finish.

On October 15 the Executive Committee of the Alumni Council met, and on November 1 the Alumni Council will convene in the Columbia Literary Society Hall for preliminary business prior to the big day. The Board of trustees will also meet on November 1. On the 11th the actual home coming exercises will be held.

At 10:30 A. M. the Federated Alumni Clubs will gather in the Columbia Literary hall for their first annual meeting. This meeting is to consist of members from more than sixty counties and cities of the state and in other states. These county and city alumni units have been functioning for a couple of years, in more than sixty counties and cities of the country. For the first time, however, the federation of these units will meet together.

FARRISS IS ELECTED BY SENIORS FOR PRESIDENT

Ezra Chosen as Vice-President, Pickens Gets Athletic Representative, and Miss Eckridge, Secretary

In the annual class elections, which were marked only by the lack of interest in them other than the election of the President, J. J. Farriss of High Point was elected to guide the Class of '25 through the final college year. Several men were nominated for this office of honor, but Farriss was elected even by a substantial majority.

In a short speech of acceptance Farriss expressed his desire to prove himself worthy of the confidence and honor which the class had bestowed upon him, and declared his determination to make the Class of '25 a real factor in the Trinity of tomorrow.

The office of Vice-President was entrusted to W. A. Kale of Asheville. Kale was elected unanimously by acclamation. May Eckridge received a large majority of the votes for the position of Treasurer. M. L. Pickens was unanimously elected as Representative on the Athletic Council. The selection of officers for the year will be made with the appointment of Nancy Kirkman and P. A. Bridges as representative on the Public Lectures Committee.

Reitzel and Wilkerson Are Initiated by the Chi Taus

The Chi Tau Fraternity initiated two men last Monday night, October the thirteenth. The initiation took place in room 311 of West Duke building. The men taken in were B. P. Reitzel of Silver City, N. C., and S. D. Wilkerson, of Wilson, N. C. Both men are well known around the campus, the former being a varsity football player.

LAGERSTADT AND GRIGG STAR

Final Score Stands at 6 to 0—Methodists Get Stronger as Game Goes on—Jones is Satisfied with the Team

With a show of increasing strength throughout the entire game and playing a wonderful defensive game from the beginning to the end the Trinity Blue Devils held the frustrated Carolina team to two drop kicks in the annual game between the institutions last Saturday at Chapel Hill. In spite of the rash of the Tar Heels, the defense of wide interest. It has been received with much enthusiasm throughout the state where it has been exhibited during the past months.

All federated, societies, and other such organizations are urged to keep open houses all during the day for returning alumni and alumnae. The cooperation of these several organizations in giving publicity to the occasion and in getting their old men and women back is expected to be a great aid in making the day as crowl greater success.

SENIOR LAW STUDENTS TO HOLD MUCK TRIAL

EVERY YEAR THE LAW STUDENTS TREAT CAMPUS TO THRILLS OF THE COURT

ONE TRIAL HELD EACH MONTH

First Trial by Senior Law Students—One Trial Held Each Month

Old students at Trinity will remember with pleasure the Mock Trial of the Senior Law Students presented last year in the Columbia Literary Society Hall. In one of which a fair crowd of students gathered to witness the trial for $50,000, the trial was a success. In another trial, which was the murder case, the court tried a woman who was accused of murdering her husband. Several trials will be held by the fraternity at an early date, the purpose of the trials being to give the students a large amount of practical training, so when they leave college they will not have to be an infant, but can immediately begin active practice. The students plan to present one trial each month throughout the college year, only students belonging to the Sigma Nu Phi fraternity being allowed to participate in them. The first trial this year will be composed only of Senior law students, as the first year law students have not as yet been taken into the fraternity. The trials are not farces; they are real trials and are judged by a professor of law. They are exactly like trials which occur daily in our court houses, and no student who will be allowed in the room where the trial is held will be able to see the trial.

It is to be remembered that Trinity is the only college in the State that has a law school, and that there are only three other colleges in the South that can even rival the law school at Trinity, they being the University of Virginia, Washington and Lee, and Emory University. Many notable men belong to the Sigma Nu Phi fraternity, among them being Chief Justice Taft, Charles E. Hughes, and a chief justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. The fraternity is one of the largest in America, and has chapters in all of the leading law schools.

The officers of the law chapter are: W. Newsham, Chancellor, Charles E. Jordan, 1st Vice-Chancellor, Wally Carver, 2nd Vice-Chancellor, Charles W. Bundy, Master of Rites, Don Turley, Eschequer, Tom Noll, Marshal.

Rah for Coach Jones again!

One Carolina man must have thought he was in the grip of the Yale Bulldog again when Caldwell swung him around several times by his pants.

The Tar Heel correspondent writes that the game was lull and apathetic, and that few thrills were furnished by large numbers of spectators. If our writer had been on the other side of the field, probably things would have seemed different.

No student is expected to attend the state fair unless he has received expressed permission from his parents to do so. No doubt the older men who are acquainted with the regulations will see that the freshmen do not begin the custom of leaving the city without the required sanction.

Old scenes are being enacted again this week. Freshmen and sophomores doubtless in English Comp view each other as an attempt to swell the ticket for the opera. How vain is their strategy!

The sport writer for the Davidsonian advises that Trinity be watched in the last game of the season rather than in 1925. This gentleman is certainly thinking correctly, and no doubt there are others in the state who have come to the same conclusion about the future games with the Blue Devils.

The collegiate year has begun in earnest. The freshmen have their badges, and the seniors have ordered canes. Now more both classes have been placed in the same group of collegiate duties, the rest of the students might adopt the foolscap as their insignia.

It is remarkable how the system of driveway improvement works at Trinity. Just before a rainy week the holes in the drives are left open (probably for the purpose of holding any surplus water), and after the rain is over, these places are filled with dry yellow dirt (presumably for the purpose of giving a smoke screen effect to the passer-by).

The football team takes its first trip of the season this week to meet Richmond. It is interesting to note that the last game with this institution took place about thirty years ago when the famous football team of Trinity swept the country for all-Southern honors.

Another rumor is afloat: A freshman appeared in the gym just after college opened, and desired to know if all of the boys in the football coach were taken care of. He expressed such willingness to sign up if there was a vacancy.

While Trinity got the small end of the score in the Carolina game, certainly the team won a great moral victory. If there is such a thing as a moral victory, the fight of the men was wonderful. But the students should be commended upon their spirit. As long as such enthusiasm is evident on the sidelines, regardless of the score, it is a safe bet that the team is not going to give up.

Whoever won the check that was sent over from Wake Forest to be put up on Carolina should return it to the loser. It is too bad that such a person should misjudge the strength of the Blue Devils, but it is a good thing for him that he erred in judgment on a bet and not on an actual game.

UNPARDONABLE CONDUCT

The Trinity students and the other spectators at the game last Saturday at Chapel Hill who occupied the section of bleachers reserved for the Trinity supporters left the field with a feeling of disgust at the unpardonable conduct of two Carolina men who made themselves very objectionable visitors in that section reserved for the visiting students.

The facts are these: Soon after the game began, two men who stated that they were Carolina students entered the Trinity bleachers. Both were in an intoxicated condition, and during the game, until they were arrested by an officer and carried from the field, persisted in making themselves objectionable by repeated outbursts of profanity, in spite of the fact that there were Trinity girls and other visiting ladies in the same section. Nor was their gross misconduct confined only to their remarks, but several times during the game one of the offenders exhibited his fruit jar and offered drinks to his friends on the sidelines, and taking one himself if no one accepted his invitation.

One official of Trinity College who was seated nearby asked the men to leave themselves or to leave the bleachers. His request was greeted with more profanity and a counter request that he put up his money if he was a Trinity supporter. As the game progressed these two men engaged themselves in a wrestling match and the spectators about the scene moved to other seats. Happily, someone noticed the offenders, and the two were carried off the grounds under arrest after they had made themselves a nuisance for three-fourths of the game.

If the occurrence was the first of its kind, the matter would be viewed in a different light, but at the Carolina-Trinity game last year the same thing happened. Certainly no one wishes to lay the blame on the University, for the attitude of the Carolina officials last year showed plainly that they did not approve of such conduct. However, the blame lies in the attitude of the students at that institution. If the time has come when visitors cannot attend an athletic contest where there are students of this institution without being subjected to insulting remarks and conduct of a very objectionable nature, then the time has come for the indignation of public opinion to fall with full force upon such offenders.

It is a deplorable fact that students from practically every college in the state feel that they should not attend the important games unless they are more or less intoxicated.

COLLEGE COLLECTIONS

Practically all the colleges of the state are making their freshmen wear a cap, badge, or some other insignia to distinguish them from the upper-classes. There is one thing we take pride in regarding to this movement. That is that the University of North Carolina has not taken on an old custom. The Tar Heel, University of N. C.

Though being the opening game to state for two touchdowns, Trinity had the Engineers baffled with Howard Jones' famous shift. Jones says, "Watch us 1925." It wouldn't be a bad idea to watch them the last game of 1924. The Davidsonian, Davidson College.

It is noted that collegiate clothes are becoming very popular throughout the country, and it is believed that college students will, perhaps, eventually adopt them. The Temple Weekly, Temple University.

Freshmen must stay in the grandstand during the games; they are not to have tables during a game. The Flat Hat, William and Mary.

Crash! Bang! Splash! O-o-o-Oh! The rock came crashing through the bath room window. The tall red headed girl stepped into the tub and went into hysterics. Davenport Record, Davenport College.

less intoxicated. The presence of drunken students at athletic contests has brought about a resultant reaction from people of reputable standing who will eventually demand that such contests be stopped unless the objectionable features are removed, and certainly the demand will be justified if it comes.

There is no need to discuss the question as to whether open drunkenness injures the reputation of a college. That fact is obvious, and has been proved time after time by actual experience. The present question should be "why does such a state of affairs exist?" That the condition actually exists is equally obvious, and while efforts are being made to increase the educational facilities of the state, it would be well to place some emphasis upon a radical reformation of the moral life of the college man.

A NEW FEATURE

Beginning with the issue this week is a new feature which its appearance in the columns of The Chronicle. The new section is entitled College Collections, and if the plan works, it will be a general digest of the important news or happenings of the colleges and universities in the state and in nearby states.

In general the column will serve to give a brief opinion of the other college publications. In some instances this section may take the form of a humorous column, made up from the blunders of the amateur collegiate journalist. In other cases, it is the plan of the editor to use this section of the paper regularly as a space where the news, furnished through an exchange with the other institutions, may be given in a condensed form.

Before this space has been used for various purposes, usually for a special column on local happenings, but since all of the important events about the college are contained in the paper in their regular places, such a use is unnecessary. But there is a need for a place where the news and opinions from the other colleges may be put, and for this reason the staff is attempting the new feature as an experiment to find some method by which the students can be benefited by the exchange of college publications.

DR. LAPRADE SPEAKS TO THE COLUMBIAN SOCIETY

Seventeen New Men Takes In, Lewis and Boyd Was in Debate
President Speaks

After the performance of the chaplain's duties by J. G. Stough, the president made a few remarks, outlining in brief the year work.

The president then introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. W. T. Laprade, a loyal Columbian and noted professor of history. He began his discourse by giving a short history of the society and commending a few of the many Columbians, who after receiving training in this hall, have gone out into the world and attained great success and renown as brilliant speakers. Among those mentioned were Senators Simmons and Overman. The speaker emphasized the importance of being able to speak in public, regardless of one's chosen profession.

Next in order was the debate. The query, "Resolved, that the State should prescribe the textbooks to be used in the public schools and colleges of the state," was upheld by W. S. Grant and I. E. Grigg, who lost the decision to J. P.

Boyd and M. A. Lewis, of the negative. After an intermission of five minutes, during which time the men of the freshmen class were canvassed for membership. Seventeen new men were received into the society. The attendance was rather small on account of the game over at Carolina, not all the men returning after the game.

Kirkpatrick Elected President of Sophomore Class

The Sophomore Class of this year is having almost as much trouble electing their officers as the Sophomores of last year had. Last year several meetings were necessary before a President was decided upon, while the Sophomores of this year were able to elect a President in one meeting. However, it occupied the whole meeting.

Professor Flowers acted as chairman and succeeded in keeping fairly good order. After several ballots, D. E. Kirkpatrick was chosen to pilot the class, although Bob Finley ran him a close second.

The election of the remaining officers was put off until the next regular meeting.

There is one dud, fought on the stage, in Cyrano de Bergerac which for eloquence, romanticism, and sheer appeal to the spectators has perhaps never been equaled either in literature or in drama. The challenge is given the stage, and the action begins promptly.

Not only, however, does Cyrano fight a wonderful duel, but while fighting he composes rhymes and sells his acting to his words. He begins in this manner: I bow, I draw my sword. As guard with steel and wit I stand, you at first stand.

At the last line, I hit! (They begin fencing) You do so to afford Your foe a rhyme in 'titer'!

You thrust at a ward— And balance is restored. Lord! Look to your spite! No, you shall not be floored Before you come to hit!

Cyrano has promised Valvert, his opponent, that he will strike him down in the last line of his ballade. And does he hit at the last line?

Prince, call upon the Lord! I skimpish. . . felat a bit. I lunge! . . . I keep my word.

At the last line, I hit! Valvert, the Vicomte, staggers, and falls, then Cyrano bows to the audience in acknowledgement of the applause. But this final must be seen enacted by living characters in order to be appreciated.

As yet Mr. Gross, the Taurian coach, has not decided whom he will select for either Valvert or Cyrano, but he intends to select actors who can do justice to this scene, and all the other scenes, too. The try-outs for Cyrano de Bergerac, the play to be given by the Taurian Play-ers, are still going on, and Cyrano, the leading character, has not been selected yet; but whoever wins this role will have a very unusual character to depict.

CAROLINA IS UNABLE TO CROSS THE BLUE DEVIL LINE FOR A TOUCHDOWN

The late time of the game. A long pass from Frank was intercepted by Backney who ran the ball back toward the Trinity goal. Carolina attempted to score by pass, but this failing, Sparrow was called back to drop-kick from the 25 yard line, thus scoring the additional three points in this short few moments of the game. The game ended just after the kick-off. Score 6 to 0.

The game was one of the hardest fought ever witnessed in the state, and the 7,500 spectators were furnished thrill after thrill by the close hard-fought defense of the Blue Devils. No penalties were given out for unnecessary roughness and while Carolina suffered a total of 50 yards in penalties, the Trinity team were credited with one five yard penalty for being offside.

For the Tar Heel Devin and Pughman deserve the praise for the game of Carolina. Devin ran quarter, and the dangerous offensive in the early part of the game was the result of his leadership. Pughman made consistent gains and was the only man in the backfield who was able to give any creditable help to Devin. Pughman's defensive work was especially good, and he probably showed up better than any man of the team.

For the Blue Devils it is harder to state tribute the laurels. The whole team fought with a new spirit, and the precision and clockwork of the squad was admirable. Lagerstadt at quarter was one of the outstanding players of the game. Grigg, the star of every game played this season, showed up better than ever last Saturday. His spectacular work at back aroused favorable comment from every side, and his march for all-star honors was considerably increased by his playing against Carolina. Kimball plays a wonderful game at end. Time after time he rushed into the play, and several times threw the Tar Heel back for a loss.

In every phase of the game the Blue Devils showed improvement and increased strength. The strategy of their defense, and the solidness of the line was far above expectations. Time after time the Tar Heels seemed to be on the way for a touchdown, but each time the Trinity team came back with an unbelievable spirit and fought until the ball was again in their possession. The fact that the Tar Heels were forced to resort to drop kicks to win the game is evidence enough to prove the power of the newly developed Jones' machine. The team put up one of the most brilliant fights in the history of the college, and the resulting score tells the story itself. Live-up and summary:

SEVERAL MEETS ARRANGED FOR CROSS COUNTRY TEAM

Coach Buckheit Preparing for Meet with Washington and Lee

October 31

Coach Buckheit, coaching the cross country track team, is planning an interesting series of trials for the fall between Trinity cross-country men and other teams from several colleges in North Carolina and Virginia. Two meets have already been arranged. Trinity meets State here on Nov. 15th and Washington and Lee at Lexington on the 31st of October. Negotiations are also under way for a meet with Wake Forest which will take place soon.

On Saturday of the week there will be a close meet which will probably begin between the halves of the freshmen football game. Coach again makes an appeal for men. There are some good men in the freshmen class who are not out. These men who can and will run in cross-country runs see the coach at once. The freshmen team will have several runs this fall with other freshmen teams in the State. Runs with N. C. U. and State are already being planned.

Coach Buckheit is attempting to make cross-country track a minor sport separate from regular track. If this is accomplished letters will be given for cross-country the same as any other minor sport. This will be brought up before the Athletic Council soon and an attempt will be made to put it across.

HESPERIA HEARS SEVERAL INSPIRING TALKS BY OLD MEN

A Large Number of New Members Taken in Who Manifested True Hesperian Spirit

The last programme for the benefit of visitors given last Saturday evening in the Hesperian Literary Society was featured by interesting addresses and brief orations. At the close of the programme the society adjourned for a few moments to select new members. Old members of the society were elected, and the initiation of twenty-four new men who appeared to be unusually promising, if their initial appearance are indicative of anything.

Following the opening ceremonies, President Brown introduced Mr. E. B. Fisher, an enthusiastic Hesperian of the class of '24. Mr. Fisher discussed the purpose and value of literary societies and made a forcible appeal to the visitors to not overlook identifying themselves with society activities. Mr. Fisher also cited his presence in the hall as evidence of his staunchness of belief in the theory of college literary societies.

Mr. W. L. Grigg, Mr. Fisher's classmate and colleague, using several humorous analogies spoke briefly in supplementary argument for the principles advanced by Mr. Fisher.

Mr. W. F. Craven, Jr., speaking on the subject Trinity Students, mentioned several laudable characteristics that are imputed to Trinity students; he also suggested that these characteristics be maintained and increased.

President W. B. Brown introduced Professor Holland Hodge, the last speaker of the evening, who spoke concerning the things that can be gained by society membership. He declared that the ability to think quickly, to judge instantly, and to act accordingly in marshalling the faculties of the mind and body are valuable abilities that society encounters can develop. The initiation of new men, following the short recess, suggested to the old members and ex-members that the lot of men taken in contained more impressive material than has any body of men in several years. Each of the twenty-four men made creditable talks before the society that were exceedingly timely.

President Brown expressed his belief that the society would have a successful and profitable year.

FRESHMEN LOSE OPENING GAME TO GREENSBORO HIGH

Captain Swift and His Men Clearly Outplay their Opponents but Bad Luck Defeats Them

In a splendid, close fought game of football at Greensboro last Friday, the Trinity Red Devils were defeated by the small score of 7 to 0. The Purple Whirlwind players achieved a touchdown on the first kick-off when Goodwin booted the ball behind the methodists goal and Burroughs pounced on it uninterrupted for a score. The Greensboro boys were afterwards not only bad, but were outplayed by the Trinity players. The score was 12 first downs to Greensboro's two. While possessing the ability to gain ground, the freshmen were unable to score during the remainder of the game.

For Greensboro the defensive work of the entire team and the passing and punting work of Williams was the feature. Captain Burroughs' at end and Goodwin at center startled the spectators with their deadly tackles.

For the Methodist yearlings, too much praise cannot be given to Captain Swift and fullback McLean. It was around the Swifts that the Methodist's attack center and the yearling quarter-back acquitted himself every time. McLean showed a spurt of strength on line plunges and carried the ball consistently.

While suffering defeat, the Red Devils showed up well for their first encounter, after long than three weeks training, and the team will be in better condition next Saturday, when they battle against the Davidson yearlings, at Durham.

BIOLOGICAL LECTURE FOR THE SCIENTIFIC SOCIETY

Dr. Cunningham Will Tell of "Microscopic Life at Chesapeake Bay" and His Summer's Work

The executive committee of the Crowell Scientific Society met last Monday evening and decided to call a meeting of the Society next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Dr. Cunningham of the Biology Department will give a talk on "Microscopic Life at Chesapeake Bay." Dr. Cunningham has been working on this all summer, and the talk promises to be an interesting one.

The Society wishes it to be understood that every one in the college community is invited to hear its lectures and discussions. The Society has made it its aim to give good scientific talks for the college as a whole. It is not primarily for the scientific student but for all students that these lectures and talks are arranged by the Society.

Rushing Season

October 6, at 8 P. M., a little was ended, a little which was probably the briefest and most unwarlike contest which has ever been waged among the co-eds at Trinity College. Every year the annual rush season is anticipated by the men of the college with no little interest and amusement, by deeds with anxiety and fond, and by the girls themselves with mingled emotions. Some face the ordeal with fear and literally with much trembling, some with enthusiasm and real gusto, others count the days to the end of the contest. Pretense and sham, the tearing apart of friends, and the shattering of hopes, finds little sympathy with many of the participants of this annual contest. Yet, just as surely as the new girls come, their arrival is accompanied by the marshalling of forces and the matching of wits. Each year the campaigns are more carefully planned and executed.

But one stunt which is common to all these contesting parties in the ten o'clock feed. At these informal feeds each group of girls attempted to outdo the other in delicacies which they offered, in the witfulness of its members, and in the individuality of their attire, which was so becoming in the softly shaded lights of the chapter rooms.

Kappa Delta Entertains

Practically every afternoon and evening was filled with gay events. On Monday the members of the Kappa Delta Sorority entertained their rubes at the Forest Hill Club with dancing and bridge, after which the company rode to the home of Miss Louise Ballington for refreshments.

Alpha Delta Pi

On October 4 the active members of the Alpha Delta Pi Sorority was hostess at the Peacock Alley tea room in Raleigh at an afternoon bridge. Sarah Dill won for top score a combination powder box and perfume bottle. Mary Duncanson received the consolation. During the game salads and almonds were served, after which the guests enjoyed a delicious salad course with iced tea, followed by angel food cake and whipped cream. Besides the active members and the rubes several alumni were present: Janet Smith and Mrs. Bob Mierle of Durham, Raynard Adams of Linden, and Elizabeth Hicks of Oxford.

Zeta Tau Alpha

On Tuesday afternoon Zeta Tau Alpha entertained its rubes at a theater party at the Park. Miss Rowe chaperoned the Alpha Delta Pi's and their rubes to a circus party on the evening of October 3. A very delightful party was the Kappa Delta affair at Loh Lilly Friday night. The party and rubes left Durham at five o'clock. They were greeted upon their arrival by a cheery log fire, and after a most enjoyable dinner, spent the evening dancing and playing bridge. Near the hour of twelve peanuts and marshmallows were roasted, but the necessity of attending eight-thirty classes Saturday morning forced the gay party to retire early.

The last event of rushing season was a luncheon given by the Zeta Tau Alpha at the Malheur on Saturday evening. Mrs. R. H. Wetzel, Grand President of the Zeta Tau Alpha, was guest of honor. Others present besides the active members were Miss Margaret French, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Gross, Dr. and Mrs. Albert M. Wells, Mrs. James D. Wolfe, Miss Alice M. Baldwin, Dean of Women; Mrs. Evans, Mrs. W. H. Glessner, Mrs. Ervin Allen.

At conclusion of rush week pledge day was observed. After 6 o'clock October 6 the following girls were pledged: To Alpha Delta Pi, Margaret Wassamacher, Durham, N. C.; Elizabeth Parker, Gastonia, N. C.; Edith Parker, Gastonia, N. C.; Millie Farmer, Newman, Ga.; Kathleen Pascoe, Jamestown, N. C.; Mary Duncanson McAnulty, High Point, N. C.

To Kappa Delta: Sarah Dill, New Bern, N. C.; Margaret Bailey, Weathers, Va.; N. C.; Ellen Huchabee, Albemarle, N. C.; Betty Solomon, Durham, N. C.; Beryl Jones, Durham, N. C.; Virginia Lee, Portsmouth, Va.

To Zeta Tau Alpha: Olivia Browne, Marion, N. C.; Mary Johnson, Cincinnati, Ohio; Ruth Daly, Durham, N. C.; Dorothy Hancett, Albemarle, N. C.; Mary Glessner, Durham, N. C.; Annie Lee Mann, Charlotte, N. C.; Rebecca Lamb, Haullet, N. C.; Antonette Bury, Middletown, Conn.; Margaret Clumby, Somerset, Ky.; Tullius Zachary, Colesmore, N. C.; and Margaret Draughn, Whiteakers, N. C.

Visitors at the "Shack"

Among the visitors at the "Shack" during the past week-end were, Norm Chaffin, '24, who is now teaching in Goldenrod, Franklin Institute, '24, teaching in Princeton; Lucy Taylor, '24, teaching at Colesmore; and Julia Wyche Allen, '24. Anna Holton, Sarah Da Shields, and Linda McChene all of the work of '23 were on the campus last week-end, Virginia Court of Shen spent several days with friends at the "Shack."

Wesoot-Martin Announcement

The many friends of Miss Mable Wesoot were indeed surprised to hear of the announcement of her marriage to Mr. George Martin of Greenville, Ky., which took place on August 29, 1924, at Silver, N. C. Mr. and Mrs. Martin are now living in Greenville, Ky.

OPEN FORUM

To the Editor

Sir:

Each year this college graduates some twenty or more students who during their college careers have majored in the science courses offered by the science departments of the college. They have studied these courses with the evident intention of equipping themselves with in which a specialized knowledge of some branch of science is requisite. It is to be assumed that for these men their knowledge of science will be the basis by which they will achieve their destiny. In other words they as engineers, chemists or biologists will leave this college to carry their living in scientific employment. Such men receive the degree of Bachelor of Arts when they graduate. Now such a degree is not popularly construed as a designation of non-trained in science, but as indicative of those who have confused their studies to general academic and cultural subjects. Furthermore, popular construction of the letters A. B. is not at fault. The degree is intended as a recognition of the graduate's knowledge, gained in studies of the general scientific course of his college. Such a degree was never intended to designate other than this. Such a degree does not give true recognition of the scientific knowledge possessed by a science graduate of this college and thereby a hardship is worked upon those who are to carry their bread in scientific work. Employers seeking scientific knowledge are not prone to seek it in the ranks of the A. B.'s. They seek it in the ranks of those who have the genius's stamp of their knowledge.

There is but one degree that gives such recognition to an institution's science graduates, and that is the degree of Bachelor of Science. Trinity's science graduates deserve such recognition. Other colleges with a much weaker science curriculum than that of this college have not been truly in bestowing such recognition upon their science graduates. Such degrees are, in the greater majority of cases, recognized by other institutions to which these graduates may go to continue their scientific studies.

The time has come when Trinity may bestow the degree of Bachelor of Science without fear of injury to the prestige of the institution. The scope of the scientific departments is such that a course of study leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science can be arranged with ease and no great amount of expense.

It should be done in order that the science graduate of Trinity may receive true recognition of his work and that he may not suffer the injustice of discrimination in seeking employment of his scientific knowledge.

Kappa Sigma Takes in Bernhart, Schellburg and Linney

Two men were initiated into the Eta Drive Chapter of Kappa Sigma on last Monday night. The initiation ceremony took place in West Duke building. The two initiates were: Baxter M. Linney '27, Boone, N. C., and Norman B. Schellburg, New York City. Douglas Bernhart, graduate of Davidson and now a law student at Trinity was also affiliated with the local chapter at the initiation meeting.
