DAVIDSON FROSH AND ELKS ARE TO FURNISH OPPOSITION FOR DUKE

DOUBLEHEADER WILL BE PLAYED TOMORROW NIGHT IN MEMORIAL GYMNASIUM

CONTESTS SHOULD BE CLOSE

Taylor's Freshmen Have State Championship. Snatched, but Vanity is Still on the Bottom

Tomorrow night, the 1925, the college community will have the opportunity of witnessing in Memorial gym one of the best double headers of the season when it comes to basketball. Two games of most equal importance will be played; the first contest of the evening being between the Davidson and Duke Freshmen, and a second game between the Davidson Elks and the varsity, which was arranged recently by Manager Pickens in order to all in the ten day gap intervening between the recent Carolina game and the one with Wake Forest on the 24th.

Although Coach Taylor's freshmen have already clinched the state championship with other games, having lost only a return game with Carolina, they have not as yet met the Davidson frosh who are expected to have a fairly strong aggregation. This game in itself should draw a goodly crowd, but the match between the Elks and the varsity should be even more closely contested affair. The Elks on account of poor training and the absence of some of their best stars in the big games have recorded only a fairly successful season, and have lost only their 1925 season with the game tomorrow night. They have won a number of games but have lost to practically every college in the state, dropping a game recently to Davidson by a score of 44-23.

The Duke quintet has made perhaps even a worse record, having won only three games this season, one from the alumni, from Guilford, and from William and Mary. These two teams, however, will put up a good, stiff fight and the fans will have an opportunity of seeing such renowned stars as the Mangum brothers, Heflin, Montgomery, Perry, and Sterling in action once again.

THIRTY-FIVE MEN REPORT FOR PLACES ON DUKE BAND

Director of 120th Infantry Band to Take Charge—Music Will Be Available Before Long

At last the dream of a band at Duke has begun to materialize. There are at present about thirty-five men out for places, and while it is not known definitely the exact number of pieces that will be in the band, it is safe to say that the number will not be small. Yet the thing that speaks loudest for the hopes of this department is the fact that Mr. Braxton, the band leader for the 120th Field Infantry of Raleigh, has offered his services to the Duke Band for a tryout. His is to direct the practice of the band for two weeks free of charge, and then, if he makes a go of it, it is very likely that the University authorities will retain him.

Kappa Alpha Fraternity Holds Annual Initiation

The annual initiation of the Duke University chapter of Kappa Alpha Fraternity culminated Saturday night in a banquet at the Marlborough Hotel for the new members and visiting alumni. J. R. Chamberlain acted as toastmaster, a position which he filled unusually well. J. P. Breckinridge and J. M. Ormond, charter members of the chapter, made the principal talks of the evening.

Several members from the chapters of State College and The University of North Carolina were present, making a total attendance of 35.

Those taken into the Duke chapter were: P. B. Bolch, Winston-Salem; Eugene Holston, Winston-Salem; E. H. Crisp, Ashboro; J. D. Belding, Jr., Ashboro; D. W. Newcome, Jr., Durham; J. C. Pennington, Thomasville; and T. A. Davis, Pamplin, Va.

Athletic Council Meets Tonight to Act on Recommendation that Jones' Resignation be Accepted

Committee Advises Acceptance—Tombs Asks That Coach Baldwin be Hired as Director—Council Offers no Comment

Official announcement was made Saturday night after a meeting of the executive committee of the Duke alumni council that Howard Jones will be released from his contract with the University. The council, which is composed of Dr. Wannamaker, and attorneys R. M. Gantt, and H. G. Hendrick will recommend to the athletic council that the release be made. The recommendation is tantamount to release, for it is believed that the acceptance by the council will be only a matter of form. In a telegram received from Coach Jones Saturday morning he urged that his resignation be accepted. He expressed his regret at leaving to make the request and stated that he was leaving at a financial loss to himself. It is generally believed that financial matters, while having no connection with athletics are partly responsible for his desire to leave.

Coach Jones Telegram
"H. G. Hendrick, Chairman, Athletic Committee, Duke University: With a full realization of the great possibilities of Duke University, and with a sincere belief that it will develop into one of the leading institutions of the country, it was with extreme regret and due entirely to personal reasons I have found it imperative for me to resign my position. I respectfully ask that out of courtesy to me that your athletic council accept my resignation in view of the fact that I am impelled to make the change at a financial sacrifice. In resigning my position I wish to emphatically state that it has not been due to any cause whatever that should be attributed to any attitude or action of your athletic council or administration of Duke University. They have been of the highest quality. Personal reasons only are the cause of my resignation.

A telegram was sent to Jones stating that recommendation would be made to the athletic council that the five year contract under which Jones is held should not be enforced.

Council Meets Tonight
A meeting of the athletic council will be held tonight at which the recommendation of the Committee will be acted upon. At this meeting it is expected that some definite plan will be made relative to securing another coach. At present (Continued on Page Three)

REVIVAL CLOSING SUNDAY EVENING WITH POWERFUL MESSAGE BY DR. SENTER

Successful Series of Services Held for One Week—Speaker Liked Greatly by Entire Community

With the service last Sunday evening one of the best during the meeting. The series of meetings, which has been conducted by Dr. S. T. Senter of Danville, Virginia, came to a close. Dr. Senter's preaching was characterized by its straightforward earnest appeal. He did not preach theories or dogmas, but limited his sermons to the presentation of the fundamental ideas of Christian living as exemplified in the life of Christ. He was a true and sincere preacher who, in the words of the evangelist, had depended rather upon the earnestness of his appeal.

The closing service Sunday evening was one of the best during the meeting. At this time Dr. Senter preached on the ministries of Jesus. The success of this service was attested to by the great number who sat in the pews, and the devotion of the faculty, who were present at the close of the sermon. Dr. Senter has gained a warm place in the hearts of many of the students and members of the faculty, who will miss him and hope that he will at some time return to conduct another meeting.

MUSICAL CLUB TO TAKE SPRING TOUR TO CITIES IN WEST PART OF STATE

Many Offers Received by Manager—Trip to Begin Next Week—Wed Trips Are Planned

In the Musical Club popular? One would think so, if he could see the food invitations, offers, and suchlike that deluge the manager's desk each day of these days. Many have written in, and in doing so the greater portion of Frank Warner's, the business manager of the Club time, is taken up.

The manager of offers is so great that the making of the schedule for the trip which is to begin with an intermission at Salisbury on March 22, has been fairly difficult.

Legal Fraternity Holds Its Annual Initiation

The local chapter of the Sigma Nu Phi National Legal Fraternity, held its annual initiation last Thursday evening. After the usual "good riding" an informal fest was given in honor of the initiates. Short speeches were made by several of the old and new members.

Membership in the Sigma Nu Phi is quite a distinction, in that it ranks as one of the highest legal fraternities in the world. Its roster includes several members of international renown—Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of France, Chief Justice Taft of the United States Supreme Court, Charles Evans Hughes, and others.

Those of the first year law class initiation and received full membership in the local chapter of the Sigma Nu Phi were: J. D. Johnson, W. H. Smith, R. R. Holt, F. L. Townsend, and Fred even.

NEW LOCAL FRATERNITY MAKES ITS APPEARANCE

Epistol Alpha Delta Formally Organized Last Week—Next Week Will Much Promising Material

A new fraternity made its appearance on the Duke campus last Friday evening when the formal organization of Epistol Alpha Delta was effected. Fourteen students form the charter membership of the new organization, among them being outstanding students in scholarship and athletics.

Following a short ceremony at the university, a five course banquet was served at the Marlborough Hotel. The members and guests of the new frat. Dr. Wannamaker, dean of the university, acted as toastmaster. Short talks were made by Dr. Wannamaker, dean of the university, and by Messrs. L. B. Black, R. E. Rock, R. L. Biggerstaff, and Louis Carter, student members.

WOMEN CHOOSE STUDENT OFFICIALS IN ELECTION HELD TUESDAY EVENING

Julia Potts Chosen President of Women's Student Council—Frances Holmes Pres. of Y. W. C. A.

Much interest was shown last Tuesday evening at Southgate College, when the coeds of Duke University met together for the election of officers of the Women's Student Council, and of the Young Women's Christian Association. For the ensuing year. The old method of nominating from the floor was done away with in a recent amendment to the constitutions of both organizations, and each nominee had to be supported by presentation of a petition bearing at least thirty names.

The officers of the Woman's Student Council were: President, Julia Potts; Vice-President, Annie McSwain; Secretary, Ellen Huckleback; Corresponding secretary, Blanche Clark; Treasurer, Edith Parker; Vice-Treasurer, Frances Holmes; Town Girl Representative, Blanche Broadway.

Those selected to head the Young Women's Christian Association are: President, Frances Holmes; Vice-President, Fannie Hutcheson; Secretary, Mary Kesar; Treasurer, Dorothy Sabiston.

REGULAR COURSES GIVEN IN LIFE SAVING TACTICS

Swimming Department Aims for Students to Participate—Public Sunk Night to Be Held

Those who witnessed the excellent display of aquatic feats given last fall will welcome an announcement of a similar one to be held in the gymnasium this Spring. Mr. Cordell, the swimming instructor, announced that this meet will take place at the interval occasioned by the ending of the swimming course, and the beginning of the course of modern life-saving tactics.

The swimming department is now offering aquatic instruction to the students, and it is the earnest wish of the instructor that more of the students will come out for this sport. In the interest of the student and the safety of the person who does good work in the last named course will be given a Certificate of Graduation and affiliation as members of the American National Red Cross life-saving Corps, and if a person makes a grade of ninety-four or over, he will be recommended to a Teacher's Certificate.

FEW FACULTY CHANGES ARE MADE AT DUKE U. FOR SPRING SEMESTER

Dr. Brown and Granford Take Sabbatical Leave—Mr. N. I. White Assists in English

Duke University began its first semester of academic work with practically the same faculty that was here before Trinity College lost its institutional name. With but few exceptions the Trinity faculty constitutes the Duke faculty in so far as this semester is concerned. There are, however, a few irregularities which have arisen from the absence of the two professors who are on Sabbatical leave. A few changes were made in sections of English and Bible; otherwise the transformation was effected without a ripple.

Dr. P. C. Brown, head of the Department of English, is now on Sabbatical leave. While he is now spending his time about home and on the campus, he is not neglecting his instruction in classrooms. During his absence Dr. N. I. White is acting head of the English Department. The courses of instruction carried by Dr. Brown have been distributed among other members of the department for this semester. In dividing and arranging the work it was discovered that there were new sections scheduled than the limited number of professors could meet conveniently. The burden was somewhat alleviated by the work which Mr. N. I. White has instructed to two classes in English Literature at Southgate. Mrs. White holds an A.B. and an A.M. degree in English from Washington University, St. Louis, Mo. She has served as assistant in English at Washington University, and as an instructor at other places.

Dr. W. L. Crawford, head of the Department of Philosophy is taking his Sabbatical holiday also. During his leave he plans to spend the majority of his time in the northern part of the United States and in Canada. While in New York he expects to attend a series of lectures by the eminent psychologist, Dr. John Dewey, of Columbia University.

METHODISTS LOSE IN DEFENSIVE GAME 34 TO 18

BULLOCK WINS ADMIRATION

Moss and Kimball Feature for Duke—Cobb and McDonald for Tar Heels

The Duke quintet lost their second and final opportunity this season of defeating the University of North Carolina when they went down in defeat before the strong offense of the Tar Heels last Saturday night in the tin can at Chapel Hill. The methodists played a consistent defensive game throughout, but were forced to trail by six points for most of the contest, the game ending 34-18.

The game was poorly played, with teams playing wild, fumbling, and making very few sure shots. The first half ended with Carolina leading 17 to 10, and during the second period the Tar Heels scored 17 more points to the local team's 8.

STATE GETS THREE POINTS BY MARGIN OF ONE SECOND

Blue Devil Grapplers Willow Technicians by a Score of 24 to 3—Matches Were Fast and Exciting

Beginning with a fall in the first three minutes the Blue Devil grapplers swamped the N. C. State grapplers by a score of 24 to 3 last night in the first collegiate match of the year. Although the methodists were outwitted by the Blue Devil grapplers, their training and experience counted for much, and the three points registered to State came as the result of a one-second margin by Hulse over Taylor. The Technicians were strong, and fought hard throughout the match but only the Mildred-Harrell match was as close as the last.

Johnson-McWade
"Red!" Johnson, the sprightly young wrestler who dropped out of school during the fall and who came back in time to make his place, took his first scramble on the mat with McWade. The men were of about the same size, but Johnson kept on the offensive from the beginning. He kept his opponent within three minutes and fifty-two seconds. Score 5 to 0.

Hardaway-Sherman
Captain "Buck" Hardaway, the man who has never lost since he pulled on the Blue Devil trunks, was next matched against Sherman. The match seemed slow at first but then sped on from their feet longer than expected. Hardaway rushed his man suddenly and scored a body hold, and lastly won the mat, where he won the decision on time, 2 minutes and 18 seconds. Score 8 to 0.

May-Kellam
The hard fight of the evening came in the tussle of May and Kellam. Neither of the two were able to bring the other to the mat during the first ten minute period. May feinted repeatedly, but his man was too strong to be played with. Two extra three-minute periods were necessary. May lost the tussle-up and took the mat, but was on his feet again in a few moments. Kellam was about winded, when he took the defensive. May had little trouble in pinning him in two minutes and 29 seconds. Score 15 to 0.

Yearly-Hicks
The next bout was between two Trinity men. Yearly, one of the dependables of the Blue Devils, and "Red" Hicks, captain of State, were matched in the Blue Devil team last year. Both men were fighters, but they were too evenly matched for either to get a fall. Both went to mat, and out of the two extra periods, Timekeeper Burch declared Hicks to have one second advantage; so Referee Chapin declared the Technician winner.

Mildred-Harrell
"Sawed!" Mildred next stepped to the mat amid the cheers of the spectators, and from the first the outcome was easily known. Harrell grinded goodly, but he was stepped around, but he was no match for the salty Mildred. Mildred pinned his man in 3 minutes and 40 seconds. Score 15 to 3.

Unabridged-Lambe
The match between Unabridged and Lambe was the sensation of the evening. When Lambe stepped out of his blanket, he seemed to be a veritable giant, and it looked as though the Blue Devil lost under the heavy muscles and sagging shoulders of his opponent. But Unabridged knew his game, and craftily worked him and stayed clear of the death clutch. The match ran into the extra periods. In the last period Lambe was caught unaware, and Unabridged rolled him to the mat before the spectators realized what had happened. The superior strength of the Statesman enabled him to twist his shoulders out of danger, and the period rang off with Unabridged getting the decision on time for 1 minute and 58 seconds. Score 31 to 3.

Matheson-Nicholson
The Matheson-Nicholson match was one of strength, but the thrill of the former matheons was gone on account of the tightness of the State man in getting off the mat whenever he felt in danger. Both men stayed on their feet most of the time. The extra periods were allowed. Matheson took the defensive first, but soon got to his feet. Nicholson took the defensive in the last period and was beaten by a four-second margin. Score 24 to 3.

PARAGRAPHS

The Hoodoo has been broken at last; William and Mary have beaten.

But it is evident that more than one jinx is coming on our trail: Carolina is still a hoodoo, and until that bluff is broken, very few championships are coming our way.

According to one of the community critics, the ringing bells of the morning yells, "Arch! Arch!" sounding out across the campus these mornings, is a sure sign of the approach of Spring, perhaps so, but when the yells of the campus quartet begins to break out about ten o'clock each night, there is no room for doubt.

The Carolina matmen are going to meet the Blue Devil grapplers. Good for Carolina! However there seems to be other items in the state to which the outcome of a match with the Blue Devils looks too doubtful to enter.

The foolishness of public opinion has been amply proved here on this campus. Last week just one year ago all was praise and enthusiasm; one year later there is general condemnation for the same act. Since the affair is over, now is the time to meditate upon the justification for either view. Human nature, however, explains why.

The head is actually here. Yesterday afternoon the boom of the big brass drum and the noise of the other band instruments could be heard from all parts of the campus. But they'll have to make a lot of noise if they hope to even up for the silence of the last four months.

Rumor has it that certain habitude of the Orpheum were required, in order to atone for their indiscretion, to reproduce before the tribunal the scenes enacted in that unwholesome place. The idea was a splendid one, but it was down right selfish for the judges to have all the fun to themselves. The reproduction might take first place over the original.

The Tombs have recommended that the Athletic Council get big Jim Baldwin back. No doubt it would be an excellent plan. Coach Baldwin liked the place and he was liked equally by everyone here, and, incidentally, he put out better teams than have been put out since his departure.

FRATERNITY DANGER

Just at this time of the year when the freshmen have been taken into the various fraternities, there is a tendency among the newly elected to feel that they are somewhat above the student who remains among the non-fraternity group. The older men in the fraternities have themselves to blame for this attitude on the part of the freshmen, for in a large measure the new men are reflecting the feelings of older ones.

Fraternity life will be brought before the attention of the community more than ever during this month, and in fostering the good feeling between the various groups, the Fraternity and non-fraternity men, the task belongs alone to the fraternities. They have the majority of the leaders, they have the conspicuous men of the campus, and they are supposed to have the influence, yet they must realize that they have the minority in numbers. Needless to say, the attitude between the two will be the direct result of foolish demeanor on the part of the fraternities men.

Fraternity men are not looked upon by all as models of college life, but rather as selfish cliques and exclusive groups with little regard for scholarship and a strong canting toward dissipation and vice. Although this opinion is not so much in evidence on the campus, it is very often in evidence among serious thinking people of the state, and certainly the fact must be admitted that this adverse opinion has some justification.

As an example the following article might be quoted, which appeared in all of the state papers just after the freshmen have had some of their high school "Shall North Carolina Have an Anti-Fraternity Law?"

In a leading paper of the state the date appears a list of new men, with their addresses, chosen at a certain college, for fraternity membership. A lot of North Carolina boys from a dozen or more North Carolina cities and towns, have selected largely from their own cities and towns, a number to a false position of elevation, to the harm of the college, and to the increased bitterness of hundreds of their college-mates, largely North Carolina boys from the small villages and rural sections of the state.

Recently another leading paper in the state declared editorially the fact that so many especially worthy young men had been and were declining fraternity invitations, showing that just what we are attempting to call attention to now is already being appreciated by students of local strength, standing, and manliness—a preference for an influence college-wide to one circumscribed by artificial bounds and maintained at the expense of hurting and estranging other North Carolina boys just as worthy as themselves.

Look at some of the men, who have held places near to the hearts of the people of the state, and when it gave us pleasure to honor, who will say that T. W. Blakett and W. W. Kitchens ever lost favor by coming from a college where fraternities were then barred?

It took laws to protect from insult and ostracism the boys from the rural sections of Mississippi and South Carolina; it looks like the same thing has become necessary in North Carolina. A little more love charity, college-wide, will not hurt either the student body or the teaching force.

Whether or not the writer of the above is correct in his views is not the question. He may be unduly prejudiced, but he may stand his case unfairly, but somewhere he has seen something upon which to base his accusations. He may be called a sniggerer, and he may be, but it must be admitted that he is voicing the opinion of many others in this college. We have only to call to mind the agitation and the serious discussion which took place at the Baptist Convention at Raleigh a few months ago to see that there are prevalent men and leading men making practically the same accusations against college fraternities. Again, if we call to mind the violent agitation which took place at this institution not so many years ago, and which resulted in the abolishment of fraternities, we may see that this campus is no exception to the rule.

Fraternities can be a wonderful source of good in a college, and, in the same way, they can be equally harmful. They have the majority of the college leaders, and they can maintain their position of respect and goodwill if they show themselves worthy. The fraternities are the powerful minority of the campus, and they may use the majority easily if the majority is satisfied that integrity and fairness of the leaders is unquestioned. If a dissension arises, it will arise through the negligence of the fraternities themselves. The position of the fraternities sets them at the head of all action, and they will be allowed to remain in such a position gladly and willingly if the non-fraternity men, if they have enough common sense to act decently toward the non-fraternity community.

At this time of the year when the new men are being taken in, and when there is a bit of pardonable jealousy and misunderstanding on the part of the less fortunate freshmen, and when fraternity life is in the limelight of college affairs, the fraternities are in a crucial period in their relation with the other students. They can antagonize and embitter almost with a word, and, on the other hand, they can show at this time of their promiscuity that they are co-operative and friendly. The bad reputation of fraternities has been given far too much publicity, but the fraternities are to blame. The defects would never have been publicly broadcasted if the fraternities had not given the pretext. No doubt many of the accusations have been false, but they would never have been believed if there had not been some truth involved.

The fraternities here should realize their peculiar position. They should appreciate the attitude and feelings of the non-fraternity man. Naturally, the fraternities are in position to be leaders, and the others will follow without hesitation if the leaders prove they are worth following. If they do not, they may sit back and await more fatal publicity as is voiced in the article quoted above. They may be ready to wait the gradual decline of influence and control from the fraternity side as it rises with equivalent strength on the other—in which case the other side will be anything but a friendly one.

Over at Duke they are having a bit of trouble over reports that Howard Jones is going to leave for California. A trip to the Davidson athletic authorities: Sign up Younger, Tison, and Rawson before the Methodists lose Jones and begin their hunt for some good men! The Davidsonian, Davidson College.

Disappointed in love, T. Marion Dixon, a second year student from Winston-Salem, attempted to commit suicide late Monday night by taking a large dose of bichloride of mercury. He was found by another student, A. C. Justice, in front of the University campus shortly after midnight.

When found, the boy was in a stupor and unable to walk. Justice took the would-be suicide to the infirmary and Dr. Abernathy, University physician, pronounced an immediate investigation. Dixon, in a semi-conscious condition, told the doctor that he had swallowed two tablets of mercury tablets, and combined with it, had taken half a bottle of cough medicine. The boy has been under the constant attention of Dr. Abernathy since he was carried to the infirmary, and his recovery from his near death is now regarded as certain. The Tar Heel, University of North Carolina.

Drove University students voted 460 to 250 against compulsory chapel which has been in force since 1764. A vote was also taken concerning the inauguration of afternoon classes on the schedule this present semester. By a vote of 600 to 154, they indicated their desire to return to the old schedule. Their objection was that the men working their way through college have found late classes a hardship, and that the football coaches last year complained that Brown would soon be without an adequately trained team unless the members of the squad found it possible to report before 5 o'clock. The Herald, Furman University.

That a smoking room be provided for students at Vassar College is the opinion of almost 200 young women attending the Poughkeepsie Institutes of Learning. This amazing fact was brought to light as a result of a questionnaire on smoking, which was recently sent around to the students of the college. Out of 937 girls reporting, 433 admitted they had smoked, while 504 stated that they did not use tobacco. Of the smokers only 362 declared that they had permission of their parents to smoke. The ministry of education of China is opposing the sending of Chinese students to American Universities, saying that American college courses are inefficient and degrees are obtained too easily. What do you know about that? Semi-Weekly Campus.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL MEETS ON JONES' RESIGNATION

no such efforts have been made. Many applications and recommendations have been received by officials of the University, but no action has been taken. It is very probable that the council will decide upon the matter of selecting a coach for basketball at this time. Nothing definite can be announced until after this meeting of the athletic council, but there is every evidence to believe that the University will continue its program of expansion in the athletic world.

Action of Tombs

At the last regular meeting of the Tombs the order went on record as favoring the acceptance by the University of Coach Jones' resignation, and made recommendation that the University make efforts to secure Coach Jim Baldwin to fill the vacancy created by Jones' resignation. This recommendation will be presented to the athletic council tonight. There has been much sentiment on the campus in favor of securing Coach Baldwin. His record here some years ago was splendid, and it is understood that he is now free from contract.

DUKE QUINT INFLECTS DEFEAT ON INDIANS

Graham, Moss, Duke's elongated guard, was a tower of strength. He handled the ball often, and held his man well in check. Kinball at center was another player to do excellent floor work. Captain Ed Bullock was in excellent form, and this alone meant that he played a beautiful game on the court.

For the Indians, Kahn was the high score man. He did some rather neat floor work, and directed most of his passing. L. Todd and Sexton were the other outstanding men for the visitors.

Close to the campus of the University of Pennsylvania is a new delicatessen store. It started about two months ago. It did a tremendous business from the start, despite other established sandwich emporiums.

The owners serve sandwiches "on white or rye," "your coffee, serve soup and sight." Their investment is $4,000. In a few years they'll be living on Prosperity Boulevard, while most of us of the white collar variety will be pushing pens and making "steady progress" at $2,000 a year.

One of the attractions at the new delicatessen is the Campus Special Sandwich, consisting of everything in the store. To use the latest collegiate expression, the Campus Special is "cart-fu-lee."

Cart-fu-lee is the most recent importation from Oxford. Cart-fu-lee is the very English for swank, keen, kippie, the snook's nips.

If you slobber a prof into sliding you through a final grade, everything is cart-fu-lee. If you rate a red-hot-meat on a blind date, everything is cart-fu-lee.

As for the sandwich shop, there may be an opportunity for dollar-making students to establish similar shops around their respective campus. A partner with a couple of thousand dollars, and who understands the business would be the chief requirement. The balance for fixtures and cetera could be secured on installment.

An industrious student could soon become the leading sandwich merchant in the town. He might even become the delicatessen king of the State.

Those industrials who are not delicatessen inclined might try selling the new collegiate tackle to freshmen and other unapologetics. College men throughout the continent are buying it from seniors down.

The new neckband is known as the John College tie. It originated at the University of Southern California. It is expected to enjoy a big sale in the college from Pacific to Atlantic. It probably will.

After about six months' wear around the handsome, arched necks of college men, the public will take them or High school boys and cake-eaters will affect the collegiate drape. Such a prophecy is neither smug nor far-fetched. It is merely a repetition of the old story. The public always follows. Industries collegians may profit thereby.

A number of collegians once considered organizing an employment bureau exclusively for college men and women, from any college, anywhere. Such a bureau offers possibilities. It would be a sort of intercollegiate appointment bureau. It would give employers a consistent-wide choice of personnel, college trained. It would give the graduate a wide range of vocational possibilities. It would have a great opportunity to serve employer and grad. It would be a clearing house for men and women of training. A bureau offering such a fine service to employers, to grads, it seems, would almost surely succeed—if it were not managed by a would-be Katherine Blackford as vocational advisor. Katherine Blackford's success as a reader of character and adaptability has encouraged many an incompetent industry.

Quite recently Colgate hunted for Katherine Blackford. Not Colgate, the lecturer, but Colgate, the university. Colgate had ten photographs, all of persons of "measured intelligence." Four of them showed their ability to choose the most intelligent, the next most intelligent, and so on down to the least intelligent.

Character readers and vocational experts' tried and did not better. Older people did no better than younger people. Intelligent people did no better than those of less intelligence. And so intelligence could not rate intelligence.

Everybody believed that he can "size up" people. You meet a person, get an impression, register. According to the Colgate test your registration is all wrong.

In actuality, however, the error is not in the presence or absence of intelligence as registered in the face. The error is in the judgments of the four hundred. Else why are all faces different? Why do we not all look alike? Our faces express joy or sorrow, gaiety or sadness, depth of shyness, penetration of vanity, integration or belief, faith, cynicism, stolidity or frailty, confidence or hesitation. Do they not also express intelligence? Are not one's thoughts engraved upon his face?

Four hundred failed at Colgate. So much the worse for the four hundred. The test was simple, unchanged.

So with intelligence. So with ability. So with adaptability. Adaptability is outstanding in the faces of a certain group of collegians who control a serious for defying the law legally. Being good collegians, they extended the "benefits" of their plan to other collegians.

They sent a letter to fraternities, fraternities at one of the big universities. Its frankness was refreshing. Said the fraternity, addressed letter, "It is utterly impossible for anyone to judge the quality and contents of any beverage from either taste or appearance."

"A chemical analysis will quickly and positively show the presence of foreign matter, and only a chemical analysis will do that."

"The usual cost of such a chemical analysis is six dollars. We have organized a special branch of laboratory to specialize in analysis of all types of beverages."

"Fifteen dollars a year will insure you against any bad 'hook' that you may have. It protects you as well as your friends."

"The cheapest form of life insurance you can obtain."

Fraternally roared. Enthusiastic recipients, celebrating over the proposition to taking out one of these "insurance policies," decided that its greatest difficulty lay in the fact that a half-pint was desirable for an analysis.

Students Offered Chance to Get Free Trip Abroad

One of the most interesting tours to Europe this coming summer for college men and women is being handled by the Students Co-operative Society, of Fifth Avenue and Forty-sixth Street, New York City. WRESTLERS LEAVE ON TRIP TO-MORROW FOR STRENUOUS SCHEDULE

DEFEAT OF TECHMEN GIVES BAILLEY MEN BOOST IN SPIRIT

NAVY TEAM A DANGEROUS ONE

V. M. 1 and Washington and Lee Are on the Blue Devil's List—First Match Comes Next Monday Night

Having swamped the Raleigh V. M. C. A. team a week ago, and after gaining a victory of 24 to 3 over the strong college team at State College, the Duke University grapplers will start on a tour of the North next Thursday morning. Although the prospect is a good one, the prospects are not as bright as they were at the beginning of the season, due to the fact that a number of invaluable men have been lost from the squad recently, but Coach Bailey is confident that his men will make a good showing and eliminate, if possible, the obstacles in their path.

The first meet on the trip will be with the state of United States Navy team at Baltimore, Md., next Saturday night. The Navy have been the undefeated champions for the past seven years, and their record is considered the best in the country. Last year the "Wildcat" wrestlers from Davidson were defeated by the Navy 27 to 0; the results showing that the Navy is "on deck" with a team of great strength. The second meet will be on Monday, when the Duke team will meet the strong Virginia Military Institute grapplers, and it is expected that the outcome will be a close one. Next Tuesday night the strong team of Washington and Lee enters will be the opponents of the Duke team, and the Army men will be in good form to keep up the tradition that "Might is Right." These making the trip will include Duke University's May Yearly, Middlebrook, Harbison, May Yearly, Middlebrook, Harbison, Mathison of the varsity squad; Coach Bailey and Manager Burch.

TRACK MEN REPORT TO GET READY FOR SPRING

MATERIAL IS SHORT IN SOME PLACES BUT TEAM LOOKS GOOD

SPRING SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED

Coach Buckheit Issues Call for All Men Eligible—Several Valuable Men Have Returned

Track practice began in earnest Monday afternoon when about thirty aspirants assembled on Hanes field and went through light work-out under the guidance of Coach Buckheit's tutelage. A good many of these track enthusiasts are old men from a year's team, but there were many new men who are out to put up the earnest effort to "make it" the first track team which will represent Duke University. Everyone seemed to have the right spirit and if the first few practices are any sample of the entire season, everything points to a successful season for the Blue Devil track team.

The Duke runners had themselves confronted with an unusually hard schedule this season, and every member of the track squad realizes full well that he must work hard and put forth the necessary power to make a winning team for the Duke aggregation. Coach George Buckheit has coached track successfully for several years, and he will not fail to put forth his best in instructing the Duke runners this season. Although there is not a word of material, it is a good bet that there will be a track team full worthy to represent this institution.

The first few practices were only light work-outs. The Coach instructed the weight and javelin throwers as to form, and also the hurdles and jumpers were given some valuable points. This distance runners took several days off around the track, and the dash men tried a few starts and got some of the "kinks" out of their muscles.

If Coach Bailey said that the distance runs are the best taken care of, for there are several letter men back for the mile and two mile.

Mabley, Holl, Clegg, and several new men will run the two mile, while Redmond, Withrow, Overton, Bollich, and others will take care of the mile run. In the middle distance runs will be found Stevens, Black, Powell, Kelen, Downey, and others. The probable dash men are Caldwell, Waggoner, Duncan, Barnes, Lagerstadt, Allen, Lagerstadt, and Rose will do the hurdling; with Beverly and Leath doing the high-jumping. Hargrove will double on the broad jump and pole-vault Caldwell also doing some broad-jumping. Several good men are on hand for the weight and throwing events; Kirkpatrick and "Big Jim" Thompson are working on the shot put, while Downey, Stevens, and Lagerstadt will hurt the javelin and discus.

Coach Buckheit is slated to be about the best all-around man on the squad this season, and it can be counted on that he will bring in his amount of the points when the meets come off. Much is also expected of Mabley, Redmond, Caldwell, Withrow, Holl, and other letter men. Coach Buckheit makes a very urgent call for all men who think that they can take any part in the track events to report on the field any afternoon at three o'clock. Following is the schedule for the coming season:

March 28—Class Meet
April 4—Carolina (here).
April 11—State College (here).
April 18—Wake Forest (here).
April 25—Davidson (here).
April 27—Wefford (here).
May 12—State Meet at Chapel Hill.
May 19—William and Mary (here).
May 22—Southern Invitation Meet at Richmond.

DUKESTERS ARE STILL IN LEAD

Taylor's Men Still Have First Place in Championship Contest—First Game Lost This Year

Things were not so well when the undefeated Duke basketball team journeyed over to Chapel Hill to do battle with the Tar Babies on last Thursday night. It was a combination of accurate passing and careful guarding on the part of the Tar Heel freshmen that sent the young Duke back home under a 28-14 defeat. The Duke players, skidding about on the ice-covered floor, were only at short intervals able to show any of their usual basketball skill, and the Carolina freshmen were able to maintain their lead throughout the entire contest. Perkins of Carolina registered seven field goals and easily led the scorers. Morris of Carolina added a point to the game by his spectacular defensive work. The playing of the Duke freshmen was generally inferior and erratic. Hartness, however, was a usual able Duke player, and the Duke technique and to be effective on the defense.

Until this game the Duke freshmen and senior team had not lost an easy way from the five teams previously met. Earlier in the season they defeated the Carolina freshmen on the Duke court.

Thompson was chosen to succeed Mr. Chosen as Treasurer, and Miss Evelyn Miller, who has the honor of being the first woman to hold office in the Biology Club, was elected as Secretary.

Following the election of officers, several students were elected to membership in the Club due to their excellent record in the department of Biology. The new list includes three women students and eight men students.

Next Monday evening, after a short program, all new members, including seven young ladies admitted to membership in the fall, will be initiated in the most formal manner. Following the initiation ceremony, the old members will entertain new members at an informal banquet in their honor.

Last Saturday evening the Alpha Delta Pi Sorority initiated Ed Parker and Melia Farmer. The initiation took place in the west parlor at Southgate, after which the girls of the sorority returned to their chapter room, and after the usual activity connected with an initiation, an informal feed was enjoyed. The alumnae present for the occasion included: Irma Tray, '13, Romana Adams, ex-'26, Elizabeth Hicks, '25, Janet Smith, ex-'24, and Mrs. Bruce Lodge, '20.

Co-Ed Basketball

The co-ed team at the University were defeated last Friday evening at the Erwin auditorium, in one of the fastest and cleanest games witnessed by a local audience, by the girls team at West Durham High School. Both teams made unusually wild shots, failing to locate the basket a number of times, and many fumbles were the cause of the score not making a better showing. Neither team during the first half proved superior, for the score remained a tie until the second half, when the West Durham girls opened the attack with a neat sport, holding the spectators breathless. The Duke girls played a consistent defensive game and they broke up the aggressive goal shooting of their opponents many times.

OPEN FORUM

This article is presented to the under graduates and college community merely by way of suggestion, but I trust that it may be taken as a piece of constructive criticism. It would take no argument in my opinion to convince one that there is something radically wrong with the cheer leading situation at this institution. It seems to me that one of the best ways to build a true university spirit is and to add to the prestige of our school is to have an active group of cheer leaders over on the alert to offer the leadership which this student body deserves and is now only to willing to follow.

In the past we have had no organized, successful system of electing our cheer leaders, and as a result we have this year three men serving in this capacity who have had no previous training or experience before this year. These men, lacking under difficulties, have thrown their shoulders to the wheel and merit the praise and further co-operation of the college community.

Other colleges and universities, however, have a systematic method of electing their cheer leaders from year to year and allowing them to "grow up with their jobs." The head cheer leader at these institutions is regarded as one of the leading figures on the campus, and it is indeed a mark of distinction to be chosen for this responsible position. I dare say the head cheer leader in his official capacity can do as much toward moulding school spirit as any other man on the campus among the under graduates.

Furthermore, I should think that it would be a comparatively simple matter to work out and put into operation a system for electing these cheer leaders before this school year has ended. I have no direct information concerning the system used at other colleges, and no doubt it would be well to investigate their methods before anything definite is done here.

By way of suggestion, however, I would outline a system somewhat as follows:

1. At their meetings sometime about the first of May, let the rising Sophomore, Junior, and Senior classes elect two men from each class to serve as cheer leaders next year. Through personal contact and observation the members of these classes ought to be able to judge pretty well who would make their best cheer leaders.
2. That in the future until more than six men are needed, let those two men chosen from each class continue to serve in this capacity, moving up each year with their class. After this year the rising sophomore class would be the only one to elect the new cheer leaders each year. In case of a vacancy or a man's falling down on the job, a new man should be elected from that class.

3. That every year toward the close of the spring semester, let one of the two rising seniors be chosen as head cheer leader by a vote of the entire student body. If in the opinion of the athletic council this head cheer leader serves faithfully and creditably during his senior year, he should be given his letter just as a manager is rewarded. The candidate for the head leadership should be chosen as to his faithfulness to duty, his ability to create or get hold of an idea, and as to his qualities of leadership.

4. That all cheer leaders be exempted from physical training and that they be sent by the athletic association along with the teams to such contests as may be thought necessary for them to be present.
5. That these cheer leaders adopt a regular uniform and wear it upon all official occasions and that the athletic association furnish them with all necessary equipment.

I realize that difficulties and situations will turn up that are not covered by the suggestions, but the system will have to develop through a period of years and adjustments will have to be made from time to time. The system could not be much worse than it is now, however, and there is nothing like making a beginning now.

Yours for a true University spirit,
GEO. P. HARRIS.

TRIAL WALLS WILL BE CONSTRUCTED TO TEST GRANITE FOR QUALITY

FIVE CAR LOADS OF GRANITE HAVE BEEN PLACED ON CAMPUS

PLANS BEING WORKED OUT

No Expense Will Be Spared to Get Exactly Right Kind of Material for Work

A caravan of wagons loaded with granite contained for several days last week to roll through the campus, finally dumping the stone on the northeastern corner of the campus, and in doing so arousing much interest and anticipation among the students. Inquiries revealed the fact the architects have ordered five car loads of different kinds of stone with which to build experimental walls as a preliminary to the great building program, involving an expenditure of $6,000,000, soon to begin at Duke University.

These specimen walls will enable the Duke officials to see how the different kinds of stone harmonize with the surrounding buildings and landscape, thus avoiding any disastrous effects in changing the style or architecture or material of the new buildings.

Officials state that they will give special consideration to stone from North Carolina quarries, due to the greater ease in securing stone from nearby quarries, but durability and artistic effect will not be sacrificed merely for financial savings. One car load of stone has been shipped from Princeton, N. J.

The Duke officials realize that they are building for future generations, and they are giving the careful consideration to every detail in the new building program. Each day they draw up new plans, discuss them, and finally tear them up and make new ones.

This is the only thing that is holding the building program up at present. As soon as all of the details can be worked out satisfactorily, the first corner stones will be laid. The Duke officials do not know yet just when the actual building will begin. Many months will be required to erect all of the buildings after operations are begun.

The Duke officials are quietly going about their task of making preparations. They are not having their private conferences press-aparted, and they are not even discussing outside of their conferences the details of their intentions and plans, except that they intend to give Duke University the very best buildings possible for the $6,000,000 recently donated for building purposes by Mr. Duke.

Of peculiar campus interest and comment during the last two weeks have been the honor stands, which have made their first appearance on the campus of Wake Forest College. Such stands have been prominent for several years at Carolina, Duke University, State College, and a few other colleges and schools in the State.

Four splendidly equipped stands, displaying well their products, were placed in popular campus locations. These offered to the students the sale of several varieties of fruit, candy, peanuts, and gum.

They were placed on the campus for the convenience of the students. Every student was placed on his honor to pay for what he got. The success of the stands was not as expected. They didn't prove to be a paying proposition. Two hundred and eighty-two articles were stolen from the stands the first week, or six days. Old Gold and Black, Wake Forest College.

The girls at Greenville Woman's College have challenged the Senior Class at Furman University to a cross-word puzzle contest. Much interest is being shown in this new inter-collegiate sport. Building.

At Duke University, Hartford, seniors and others having an average grade of B are allowed to take as many class cuts as they choose. The Queens Blues, Queens College.

Those who disapprove of student government can point to the fact that the student body is of such honorable and worthy caliber, it is possessed of such excellent qualities that it is not needed as a corrective—all of which sounds well on the rostrum.

"Making the University safe for Necking" is the slogan of the college paper at the University of Indiana. 'S just another one of those all-embracing movements. The Mercer Cluster, Mercer University.

Initiation day is at hand. The pledges are looking forward to the banquet; the old men to the horse-play. But as a matter of precaution, every junior should be issued a Club with instructions to assist locally any new initiates who is seen going about with his chin on the plane which formerly was occupied by his nose.
