DR. W. L. POTAT CHOSEN
HEAD OF N. C. COLLEGES

Wake Forest president was the probable choice.

While his selection probably is in no sense colored with an effort to reveal the attitude of the other institutions of higher learning, toward the recent attacks on Dr. Potat as a modernist, it is taken as an emphatic endorsement of his record. He succeeds Dr. Julius I. Foust, president of the North Carolina college. Dr. Harper was unopposed for vice-president, and the election of Mr. Walker as secretary was forecast in the general satisfaction which had been expressed over his work.

The executive committee of the conference is composed of the three officers and the following: Dr. W. J. Martin, president of Davidson college; Dr. W. P. Few, president of Duke university, and Dr. R. H. Wright, president of the East Carolina Teachers' college.

The conference adjourned to meet next spring at the call of the executive committee, the call not to be issued later than March 20.

Important Resolutions

The first resolution approved by the conference was one relating to the whole question of college admission requirements, a question which was brought sharply to the attention of the conference in the Friday afternoon session in two addresses and in the open forum discussion in which most of the larger institutions of the state had men present to reveal a very active interest in the use of intelligence tests, already employed for grading of men admitted and considered as basis for governing admissions in the future. The suggestion was then made by Prof. J. A. Highsmith of North Carolina college, that standard intelligence tests might be given each summer to all high school graduates desiring to enter college.

This previous discussion led in the meeting Saturday morning to the introduction of a resolution by Dr. W. P. Few, of Duke University, outlining the course of the conference action. The resolution is presented.

"That a committee on admissions to college be formed to take over the functions of the committee on uniform examinations and the committee on psychological tests, and to consider all other questions relative to selective admission to college; that this new committee make report to the next conference at its meeting next spring and that it be instructed to prepare and conduct uniform examinations during the year."

The incoming and retiring presidents appointed the following committee on college entrance: Dr. J. A. Highsmith, chairman, D. G. W. Paschall, Dr. M. R. Trahe, Professor Holland Helton, Dr. W. J. Martin, Dr. J. G. Bonshour and Dr. J. H. Highsmith.

N. C. Athletic Conference

The resolution in regard to the athletic conference was also presented by Dr. Few. It is given:

"That the committee on athletics of the North Carolina college conference, as once be developed into a North Carolina inter-collegiate athletic conference to be composed of one faculty representative from each of the four-year colleges for men and these representatives to be appointed by the presidents of the member colleges."

"That the athletic conference be empowered to adopt eligibility and other rules that may look to the promotion of wholesome athletics and to take steps to assure a uniform, firm and just administration of these rules so far as the colleges of North Carolina are concerned."

"That the North Carolina athletic conference be asked to make an annual report to the North Carolina college conference."

Two years ago a body subsidiary to the conference was formed to handle athletic questions before the conference. That group consisted of the following representatives of the colleges: President W. L. Potat of Wake Forest, Dr. A. W. Hobbs of the university, Professor C. C. Taylor of N. C. State College, Professor R. N. Wilson of Duke University, Professor J. M. Douglas of Davidson, Professor S. J. Marion of Leont-Blynn, Professor R. L. Newlin of Guilford college and Professor A. L. Hobbs of Elon college. The action of the conference did not change the personnel of this group, that matter being left in the hands of the heads of the institutions.

Teacher Training

A third committee was appointed by President Potat, acting on a previously approved resolution.

This committee is to study the question of high school curricula, teacher training (teacher training program).

and the relation of the colleges to the

The committee is as follows: A. T. Allen, state school superintendent, chairman, Dean W. H. Wansamaker of Duke university, President Robert H. Wright of East Carolina Teachers college, Professor N. W. Walker of the university, Dr. John H. Cook of the North Carolina college and Dr. D. B. Bryan of Wake Forest.

This action was taken as a direct result of the presentation to the conference on Friday evening of the general survey of the teacher training problem. This was presented by Superintendent Allen and by Dr. Highsmith and Dr. Hillman, both of the state board of education.

In South American universities, students must take either a street car or a motor bus from one class to another, due to long distances between buildings. The time between classes is often two or three hours.

University of California, Dec. 16.—By a committee of his classmates, Lewis Russell, 28, was deprived of his position as editor of the University of California's literary magazine, The Occident. The action came as a result of the appearance of a satiric article on the Nativists in the November issue.

Suspension of the Occident was ordered, until another editor be secured. The new editor will "make such changes in the editorial staff as it deems necessary."

SPORT EDITORSOPHS WIN OVER
JUNIORS 6 TO 0Sophomores Score Touchdown
As They Block Out Deep in Enemy Territory.

The second game of the class football series resulted in a 6 to 0 victory for the Sophomores over the Juniors. It was an interesting and close game from the very outset, and it was not until the final period was well under way that a Sophomore player was lucky enough to break up an enemy punt from the toe of Parker, and Jack Crawford recovered the ball across the corral line.

The game seemed to be a series of continuous fumbles and bone-headed plays on the part of both teams. Many times in the initial half the enthusiastic fans on the side lines were given a thrill when the ball was placed in scoring position by virtue of some completed pass, a thrilling end-run, or just by some chance of luck. On these occasions it seemed that it was an impossibility for the offensive team to push the ball over, and on two occasions placement kicks were barely missed.

The plays which netted the Sophomores the most yards were their effective end runs. Their line would line up in a formation which seemed to have the Juniors eleven guessing, and before anyone could realize what was happening their swift backs were sweeping over the line and into a good gain. These plays were well performed, and the interference on the majority of these runs would have been hard to beat, even by a variety of devices. As a whole the Sophomores were on their toes and showed perhaps a harder fighting spirit than did the Juniors earlier in the season. The punting of Bolich, and the unusual running ability of Erwin and Palford were perhaps the features of the back field work of the game.

The Juniors team seemed to show a lack of proper organization, and their offensive playing seemed to show a lack of spirit and pep, as if the team did not have the proper confidence in themselves. Their plays were good and would have resulted in good gains if the whole team field had done their part. Most of the ground gained by the Juniors was a result of completed passes coming at the opportune moment. The Juniors did serve a lot of credit for their great defensive work, and their line held fast for every occasion. The offensive line, which the class of '25 had thought would be their greatest ground-gainer, failed utterly on almost every occasion. The interference seemed to forget which way it should go, and on many occasions the runner was left to himself. The playing of Morecock on the line was a real guard versus performance in the line, while Saunders, Waggoner, Green, and Parker made up a good backfield.

The scoring of the Sophomores in the final period when Parker tried to punt from deep in his own territory, and his attempt was blocked. A well-scrambled follow-up when the ball finally came to rest it was in the possession of Crawford, Sophomore end, only about a yard across his own line. This score caused the spirit of the Sophomore team a considerable rise, and although the Juniors resorted to wild passes and made valiant attempts to reach the goal line, they were not able in these last few minutes to get even in a probable position for scoring.

FUTURE STADIUM
TO SEAT 40000Athletic Equipment, All Kinds,
Will Be Adequate For Future Needs.

The athletic equipment of the Duke University of the future is being planned on the same vast scale as all the other departments of the institution. When the new unit of the University is completed across the railroad it will have adequate facilities, adequate for many years to come.

The Stadium, the principle item of this equipment, capable of seating about forty thousand spectators, will be easily approached by numerous driveways and surrounded by adequate parking space so that there will be no little congestion as possible among those attending the games. The need for a stadium is being constantly felt now, and when this one is completed many of the important games among the other colleges of this section are expected to be played here. The new Gymnasium will be larger and better equipped than the present one, furnishing plenty of space for physical exercises and gymnastics for larger crowds to attend the basketball games.

Besides the stadium and spacious Gymnasium there will be several large athletic fields for practicing football and any other kind of outdoor sports which may be developed. No longer will the Varsity and Freshman teams have to use the same field for practice, and the track team will have ample room of its own. There is to be a golf course, too, one of the few among the colleges of the country.

The lake, which is to occupy the center of the campus, will be even more than an ornament. It will furnish facilities for aquatic sports such as are enjoyed solely by those colleges which are situated near large bodies of water.

Aided by these excellent facilities, a large and effective staff of physical directors and coaches will develop the physical side of the students while the professors are developing their mental side. Thus the Duke University students of the future will have an even better all round development than the present ones are getting.

ED BULLOCK WILL PLAY BASKETBALLAbsence from School As Result of Father's Death Kept
Duke Star from Court.

From the time when the first Blue Devil came artists began their daily practices on the Memorial Gymnasium floor, here has been prevalent over the campus many and various rumors regarding the probability of Ed Bullock playing on the Duke basketball team. The Duke team papers had long indicated which pushed Bullock forward as the greatest basketball player at Duke University this season, and following this came the statement that he would soon don his togs and be on hand to lead the team to the many victories which would characterize their 1926 season. But as time goes on and a team is gradually being developed by the hands of Coach Bullock, no Bullock was in line for even a slight practice. As the basketball fans would wander over to the gym in the afternoon to watch the practices of the coming team, they would always leave and go on their way with a remark to their friends such as, "Wonder where Ed Bullock is. Perhaps the absence of this ex-pat-in and star from the daily practice games can be explained. Something about the Thanksgiving holidays Bullock was called home because of the death of his father, and of course it could not be expected that Ed should return to school in just a few days. It was not until after two or three weeks had passed that Bullock's face was again seen on the campus. Since his return, Ed has been forced to put a great deal of time on his scholastic work, and of course this accounts for his close confinement and absence from basketball practice. Added to this, our ex-game star does not seem to be in the mood that is characteristic of the average athlete who enters into every game with even a surplus amount of pep and energy. Not that Ed will ever go into a basketball or football game without fighting for the team to the last, but since the death of one of his loved ones he seems to be in more of a melancholy mood without the happy-go-lucky spirit of the aspiring athlete.

Bullock states that he is planning to go out for basketball practice in a short time, and really when this comes to pass he might already be in the Blue Devil uniform. But the fans cannot expect as much from him as his past performance. In this class we find men like Sullivan, Bick, Herring, and others, while in the list of names of men who have gone into the larger realm we see listed there Frank, Porter, Simons and other just as important.

The Sophomores have truly won themselves honor in this signal victory. They defeated the strong Senior aggregation in the finals to the inter-class football series. For a time it looked as if the dignified second-year men came back strong and began on onslaught which the Seniors were unable to stop. Both sides had several chances to score but lacked the necessary punch. The Seniors attempted a field goal in the first half, and the Sophomores attempted the field goal in the second half. It was in the third quarter with the ball on the thirty-yard line that the Sophomores pulled the trick play which they have used before this season with good results. Finley failed to line up with the team, and when the ball was snapped he was to be seen spearing down the side-line toward the goal. Bolich passed the ball to him and he ran for a touch down. Bolich dropped kicked for the extra point.

The mighty Sophomores eleven defeated the strong Senior aggregation in the finals to the inter-class football series. For a time it looked as if the dignified second-year men came back strong and began on onslaught which the Seniors were unable to stop. Both sides had several chances to score but lacked the necessary punch. The Seniors attempted a field goal in the first half, and the Sophomores attempted the field goal in the second half. Bolich dropped kicked for the extra point.

The Sophomores, and especially their backfield, did some brilliant playing. Several of them showed promise of making Varsity material in the future. On the other hand the Seniors showed that some fighting spirit which has characterized their playing in the past. This was the first time they have been defeated in their four years of playing, having won in their freshman, sophomore and junior years. Thus to the Sophomores goes the honor of having defeated the college champions.

SENIOR WARRIORS
LOSE FIRST GAMEGoal Line Crossed for the First Time in Their Entire College Football Career.

By defeating the strong Senior aggregation, the victorious Sophomores have accomplished a feat which they may well be proud of. Not only have these bloody Sophs succeeded in winning the Class Football Championship, but they have the special distinction of actually losing the first kicking that has ever been handed out to the war dogs of the class of '26.

For the past three years the Seniors have been the undisputed champions, and furthermore, during this whole time their goal line has been crossed only once. This unlucky incident happened when Bob Finley strolled across their line for a touchdown in the finals on Friday last.

When the class of '25 entered college there was no organization such as the present Freshman team. There was a Freshman team of course, but it acted only as a sort of auxiliary team to the varsity and as soon as a freshman began to show up well in this phase of athletics, he was immediately shifted to the varsity. Many there were who made this shift during their first season and more have made the shift from class teams to the varsity since, but even at that there are a number who still are related in the ranks of their class.

These men have proven themselves exceptionally valuable to their class, and from this number can be picked some of the stars of this latest series of classes. In this class we find men like Sullivan, Bick, Herring, and others, while in the list of names of men who have gone into the larger realm we see listed there Frank, Porter, Simons and other just as important.

The Sophomores have truly won themselves honor in this signal victory.

DUKE BASKETEERS
TO PLAY 19 GAMESPast Durham Y Team to Be Played Here Saturday Evening Next—Elen Licks Y.

The Duke Basketeers will play the first of their 19 games of this season on the come Saturday night when they will meet the Durham Y. M. C. A. quint.

Due to the fact that the season has not begun as yet, no accurate predictions as to the outcome of the game can be made. Comparisons of last year and the game last week between the Y. M. C. A. and Elen furnish the only sources of information.

The Y. M. C. A. lost to Elen by a fairly close score and their defeat seemed to be a result of getting started right, but they played a brilliant game in the last half. Only the big lead of the Elen team enabled the visitors to keep enough points ahead to win.

The Elen quint was not so very strong last year, but with the addition of new material, among which are two Durham boys, they seemed to have gained strength considerably, and will probably surprise somebody this year.

The Duke cagers should be as strong, if not stronger than they were last year. With Bullock and Moss, last year stars, still in the lineup, reinforced by material from the last year's freshman team, they will have a strong and fast combination.

Thus we see that, though nothing is certain, the dope points toward a Duke victory. The Duke Basketeers, however, is really upset! Sometimes with startling results.

MR. HATCHER HUGHES
VISITS DUKE CAMPUSNoted New York Playright Speaks to Local Organization on Subject of Dramatics.

Professor Hatcher Hughes, noted playwright and author of "Hell Bent for Heaven," in address before the Graduate Club, Sigma Upsilon, and Chi Delta Phi last Friday afternoon expressed the belief that the drama should exist primarily for the portrayal of life and that propaganda and educational purposes should be secondary. Professor Hughes declared that the interest which is being given the dramatics in colleges and universities today assures the drama of a great future.

The noted speaker, a native New York, now professor of drama at Columbia University, spoke enthusiastically of the interest that is being given to dramatics in the colleges and universities of North Carolina. He especially commended the efforts of the University of North Carolina and the Tar Heel Players of Duke University, expressing the belief that the work of these two dramatic clubs will mean much to the State in the leadership of fine arts.

"There is enough color life and variety to be found in North Carolina to afford abundant material for the native playwright so that he will have no need of going afar for either inspiration or material," declared Professor Hughes in discussing the possibilities of dramatics in North Carolina.

The annual inter-society debate between Columbia and Hesperia has been definitely postponed until after the Christmas recess, by order of the council. The preliminaries, however, were held last Wednesday, both societies selecting their teams from a goodly number of contestants. The annual contest, which is to be held on Saturday night, will be held by the Hesperia team, which has coached the Columbian team for many years, will no doubt, develop a meritorious team with this material.

The query, "Resolved, That the Federal Government should exercise control over the coal mines sufficiently to compel their operation to supply the coal needs," will be upheld by the Hesperian speakers against the Columbian opposition.

Spence's Play.

The immortal "Christmas Carol," by Charles Dickens, arranged in dramatic form by Professor H. E. Spence of the Department of religious education, will be presented at Caryn Memorial Hall, at 6 o'clock, Saturday night, December 19. This is the same play that was given last year, just prior to the holiday season, by Mr. Spence, and the cast, as in last year's production will be composed largely of students interested in the work of his department. There will be no admission charges, and the public, both students and towns people, is cordially invited to attend.

So great was the success of the play last season that it has been planned this time to take it on tour to Wilson Friday night, Sanford, Sunday night, and on Monday night, the day of the Duke University Girls' Glee Club, between acts will add greatly to the effectiveness of the drama.

Cresty said Scrooge will be interpreted by W. A. Kane, creator of the role last year. Mr. Kane, who graduated about midway of the class of '25, is returning especially for its production. C. F. Strout will play Scrooge, the young man.

perian preliminaries were Professors Glascock, Cannon, and Chidley. Professor Hatcher Hughes, who has coached the Columbian team for many years, will no doubt, develop a meritorious team with this material.

AT SOUTHGATE

On Wednesday evening at six o'clock the annual Y. W. C. A. drive for membership was initiated. Wednesday was considered "tag day" at Southgate, and before the campaign was over, practically 100% of the girls at the hall were wearing the blue ribbons of the Y. W. C. A. On Wednesday evening the recognition service for new members was held. A most beautiful and impressive program was given in which all the new girls lighted their individual candles from the one large candle representing the nation at Y. M. C. A.

An unusual amount of interest is being shown in the Y. W. C. A. at Duke this year. Larger plans than have ever been made before are being materialized daily. The Y. W. C. A. is the one organization on the campus which ministers to the needs of the women students from the time it bids them welcome when Freshmen until they leave college forever. The Y. W. C. A. takes care of all sides of a student's life. Services of a more or less religious nature are held each Wednesday evening at Southgate and at Vespers on Sunday. The social side of life is not forgotten as nearly every holiday finds the Y. W. social room decorated in gay colors—ready for the season's festivities.

One of the most interesting departments of the Y. W. work is that of Social Service in which help is given of the campus as well as on. Very often on Sunday afternoons groups of girls go to sing at the Old Ladies Home. On Thanksgiving eleven poor families were supplied with baskets of food by the Y. W. At present a Christmas party for poor children of East Durham is being arranged.

A rather recent venture of the Y. W. C. A. is the Student Industrial Commission which was organized last year. This is a club composed of eight university women and eight industrial girls from the Durham Y. W. C. A. The Commission meets every two weeks to study social problems. This enables the college girls to get the point of view of persons of an entirely different station in life from their own.

These are a few of the activities of the Y. W. C. A. and with the growth of the university, it expects to expand also.

Miss Harriett Hitecock, of the national Y. W. C. A. council was a guest at Southgate for several days. On Monday evening she spoke to the girls on Y. W. C. A. work.

On Thursday afternoon Blanch Henry Clark, Lella Hobland, Carolyn Shuster, and Frank Kuh-Zien were present at Chi Delta Psi.

Miss Evelyn Callicutt, National Inspector of Zeta Tau Alpha, was guest of Phi chapter for several days.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR CAGE TEAM

Captain Moss Looks Good in Daily Practice—Two Games Played Before Christmas.

The loss of four varsity men from last year's basketball squad tends to throw a shadow into the prospects for a good winning team this season. But since regular practice has been in progress for about two weeks, the prospects for a representative team of Duke University are beginning to look brighter. Coach Buchelt has been working his best and most promising ones at the fast and furious pace, and when the season opens there are bound to be results.

At present there seems to be about twelve men of which the coach will pick his team, and some of these are showing up exceedingly well in the daily practices. The team will be centered around the mighty Captain Moss, who, with his height, speed, and accurate shooting will be one of the most formidable cage men in the state—and even in the South. "Pete" Moss's performance on the Blue Devil quintet was a sensation last season, and this year he bids to be even greater than ever. Those who have seen him in action during practice predict that at the end of the season "Pete" will find his name high up among the basketball stars of Duke University and Trinity College.

Another player who promises to play a stellar role in this season's cage contests is Beall, who played basketball on the Davidson College freshman team two years ago. He was ineligible to play on his team last year, and the first of this season finds him ready to give the Duke fans an exhibition of his ability. Along with these two players there are the state championship freshman team from last year. All of these are back with the exception of Brantly, and Harkness, Weaver, Bennett, and Kelly are all bidding fair for places on the team. Harkness seems to be the same fast little forward that he was last season, and he is sure to have many opposing guards this year on the varsity. Stewart Rogers also seems to be showing some good stuff, and he will probably make a good substitute at center.

Butler and "Fritz" Waggoner, from last year's varsity squad, and also exhibiting a fast brand of basketball in the short practices so far, and they are sure to prove a valuable asset to the team this season.

Student Conference Breaks Up With Election of Negro

The national collegiate world court conference which began at Princeton Saturday, December 12, and to which Duke University sent W. S. Blalock as a representative, was thrown into an uproar and broke up when a negro was elected to the executive committee, according to an Associated Press dispatch. The following account appeared in the state papers Sunday:

The election of the negro threw the conference into an uproar, several persons attempting to speak at the same time. After the withdrawal of the representatives, the conference was adjourned without date.

Mabel Holloway, negro, representative of Howard university of Washington, D. C., was the center of the storm. She was elected to represent the entire south on the executive committee, which is composed of seven members representing geographical divisions of the country.

Immediately after the election, K. L. Kiser of Louisiana State university withdrew from the organization and his move was followed by the withdrawal of William Webb, representing Brenau college of Gainesville, Ga.

When the two southern representatives withdrew, the conference voted to have two southerners on the executive committee. Upon the passage of this motion, Edward Duffy of Dartmouth university declared such action had raised a racial distinction and he would take no part in the student organization. Robert E. Lewis of Leland Stanford university, also opposed the measure, but did not threaten to withdraw, and later Duffy withdrew somewhat from his stand.

The conference then voted to have 14 members on the committee instead of as originally planned, each section to be represented by two members.

Lewis Cox, presiding officer, called for the members to unite in prayer and after repeating the Lord's Prayer, the conference adjourned.
