

DUKE FROSH WIN SLUGFEST 13-11

Tar Babies Unable to Overtake
Duke Freshmen in Fast
Slugging Duel.

The Silver Bulldogs of Duke defeated the Tar Babies of Carolina on Emerson field last Friday by the score of 13 to 11. The game was not as loosely played as the score might indicate, and throughout the scintillating game features in fielding and hitting brought applause from the stands. Both teams used two pitchers during the fray, and they were not hit so furiously, they were constantly in hot water.

The Tar Babies were the first to cross the plate when they scored in the first inning as a result of a double and an error. The seventh and ninth innings proved to be the biggest for Carolina when they scored five and four runs respectively in these frames, and threatened Duke's lead.

The Duke freshmen took the lead in the fourth stanza when they pushed eight runs across the platter. Though in danger several times, they managed to hold this advantage for the remainder of the game. McCarthy started the fourth with a walk. Hollenworth was safe at first on an error. Rowe bunted safely and the bases were drunk. Carruthers then, cleaned the bases with a crashing three-base hit. The tall first baseman walked across the plate a second later on Barton's staging single through center. Adams sacrificed Barton to second and he scored on Wyrick's double. Crabtree grounded out second to first and Wyrick took third on Light's hit to third, and on an error Wyrick scored and Light advanced to second.

Pinlater, of Carolina, was the outstanding player of the game, gathering three hits, two home runs, the last of which came in the ninth with the bases loaded, and a single. He also played a nice game in the field. For Duke, Rowe, Barton, and Wyrick bore the brunt of a hitting while the guardians of the key-stone sack came in for their share of honors in the field. McCarthy also played left field in fine style.

FOREIGNERS FORMED COSMOPOLITAN CLUB

Eight Foreign Students Are Charter
Members of New Club to Promote International Goodwill.

With eight foreign students as charter members and several American students as associate members, the Cosmopolitan Club, formed primarily for the purpose of creating a higher standard of intellectual and social life and to instigate international good will, was organized at Duke recently.

The Club at present is only local but in time will become affiliated with Corda Fraternis, the national cosmopolitan club. The motto of the national organization is "Above all nations is humanity." This idea has been kept well to the fore when the constitution and purposes of the new club were drafted. Among the several improvements which the club will attempt to put into effect are: Unite students of all nations for the mutual benefit of all; to develop a higher social life; to promote intellectual understanding; to encourage the organization of chapters in other universities; to establish international good will; and to encourage foreign students to come to Duke.

The Cosmopolitan Club, which is a step to a greater and farther reaching organization, is the first of its order to be established at Duke.

A committee, composed of Miss Z. K. Zien, Chester Liu, and W. C. Huckabee, has completed the by-laws of the new movement and will present them at the first formal meeting of the club which meets at the residence of Dr. E. D. Soper in the near future. Several social meetings and business meetings, where the problems which the club will attempt to solve will be discussed at length, have been arranged. No dues, however, for these meetings are ready for publication.

The eight charter members are Misses Eliza Yonemura, Z. K. Zien, Y. S. Wang, and Messrs. Minoru Uramami, Fung Hui So, Chester Liu, Mike Lopato, and J. C. D'Amico. Associate members include several American students at Duke.

SOPER SPOKE AT COUNCIL MEETING IN BIRMINGHAM

Dr. Edmund D. Soper, dean of Religious Education at Duke University, was one of the principal speakers at the international council of religious education, which met to Birmingham, Alabama, last week. Dr. Soper, in one of his speeches, gave modern youth a clean slate. "The instincts and impulses of the majority of the young people of America are wholesome," was one of Dr. Soper's significant statements.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF COLLEGIATE TOURS

Schedule of Summer Students' Tours
Calls for Visits to Many Places of Interest in Europe.

New York, N. Y., April 21.—The Art Crafts Guild, collaborating with the Canadian Pacific Steamships, Ltd., has just announced that it will operate inexpensive collegiate tours to England, Holland, Belgium and France next June and July. The standard tour comprises 26 days, and at a total cost of $285, will include traveling, sight-seeing, hotel residences, motorcars and first class meals, to a daily total of little more than $10. All the student tours will begin at Montreal. Then follows a short period aboard a Canadian Pacific steamer down the scene to St. Lawrence to the open sea. Only four days will be spent on the high seas before Liverpool is sighted.

The high spots in each standard tour will include a motor trip through the champagne country and the lake-dotted land of Wordsworth and Shelley. At Oxford the student tourists will carry two days, visiting the historic colleges of Magdalen, Brasenose, Christ Church, Balliol, and their sister halls of ancient memory. A short stay at Stoke Poges, where Grey wrote his Churchyard Elegy, will immediately precede London, where four days will be devoted to seeing the haunts of Dickens, the Houses of Parliament, and other scenes peculiar to the world's metropolis.

After a brief sojourn in Holland, another in the Belgian cities of Brussels, Ostend and Bruges, the collages will proceed through the battle-scarred districts of Northern France before arriving in Paris. Four days will be spent in the French capital. Older families with every need and corner of the Latin quarter and other picturesque sections will be provided for those who want them. The students will leave Paris for Cherbourg to embark, on a Canadian Pacific steamer with its bow pointed toward Montreal.

The first student tour will leave Montreal June 18. Selling dates for the others are June 25, July 2, July 9, and July 18. Information will be furnished by the Canadian Pacific Railway, Southern Department, 912 Madison Avenue, New York City, or the Arts Craft Guild, Chicago.

STANDARD TRAINING SCHOOL CONCLUDED

Last Friday night the eighth Standard Training School for Sunday school and church leaders was completed. During this session, which was a very successful one, 114 certificates of credit were earned out of an enrollment of 145. A large number of college students, a number of Durham people, and representatives from other parts of the southeastern section of Durham District composed this number.

The faculty of the Training School included, from Durham, Professors Spencer, Brancomb, and Soper, of Duke University, Mrs. H. E. Spencer, and Miss Georgia Keene, and from Atlanta, Mrs. H. D. Gurrant. Meetings were held afternoons and evenings, at which general instruction was given to leaders and to prospective leaders in Sunday School and church activities.

This Training School is a highly successful one and does much to promote that form of religious work that is so generally neglected—the education of the leaders themselves.

COLLEGE MINDS IN THE MAKING

All Chicanos look alike to a tourist, and all undergraduates look alike to the future-journalist. A few minutes spent with the entrance records might alter his judgment. College freshmen differ widely in social backgrounds, in geographical distribution in public and private school training. Some have been blessed or cursed with experimental school freedom, others have been crammed with knowledge as a Turkish sheep is crammed with mulberry leaves, with a hand over its mouth to compel it to swallow. Freshmen differ in health, in emotional control, in habits of work and play. The educator can no more prescribe the same policy toward all these purposes and minds than a physician can use the same formula for all his patients.—H. N. MacCadden.

THE TRADITION OF DISTANCE

Carter Goodrich in The New Republic Educational Supplement of April 14, describes some of the interesting attempts being made to break down the age-old barrier of hostility and distrust that exists between teacher and student. No doubt, says Dr. Goodrich, student suspicion and indifference and the absorption of students in the outside activities which they make their own do much to intensify both the shyness of the scholar and the stilted dignity of the professor who is conscious only of social prestige beyond his income.

SPORTS BLUE DEVILS DOWN BULLS; SCORE 12 TO 5

W. S. GRANT
SPORT EDITORSPORT
LIGHTS

By "TAR"

Since the game Saturday, I would say that there is no sport writer who can safely predict the state collegiate baseball champs.

All the college teams in the state have lost at least one game, and indications point to the upsetting of the "dope bucket" several times before the season closes.

The Durham Herald said that Carolina's victory over the Blue Devils was somewhat of a surprise. Well, it is the first time that Duke was wiped to win over the Tar Heels.

We have heard several alibis since Saturday which try to make the defeat seem easier to think about, but after all, we have never been known to beat Carolina on Hanes field.

It seems that there is a new name about for the Blue Devils. We wonder if it was not the coach himself who gave his players the name of the "Hillless Wonders".

One fan certainly made a wise statement in the opinion of some students when he said: "They ought to put all the players on Duke, State, Carolina, Wake Forest, and Davidson teams in a sack, shake it up good, and see if they can't chuck out some players." Is it really as bad as that?

The hopes for Duke taking state honors this season are not blasted yet. Not by a long shot. In the eyes of some sport writers we have the best chance of any of the contenders. And it is a certain fact that the Blue Devils are the most formidable team that any other North Carolina collegiate club has to fear.

The question of pitchers in Saturday's game is a question which is hard to discuss. We are wont to put too many "ifs" into it. Could Joe have held him or would the result have been the same as it is now?

The Blue Devils should be wiped to win next Saturday. State has done nothing but lose ball games since the season opened, but of course there is a chance of them making it a different story next Saturday against the "Hillless Wonders." State lost two games in succession to the Davidson outfit, when we seemed to trim with care last week. Wake Forest also secured a victory over the Technicians, and even the Elon Christians defeated them.

The track team went to Richmond and seemed to run true to form, losing to the faster and much stronger Richmond University team. "Cockey" Bennett keeps getting better and better distance in his javelin hurling. His distance Saturday was almost 170 feet and one of his trial throws went for over 172 feet, but he had to scratch because he stepped over the line.

Hanlin again came in for a first place in the high hurdles in a good time. These track athletes in the hands of other colleges had better look out, Duke men will be holding some state records before the season is over.

Hargrove came into the place in the honors when he beat Shattuck. It cost him a walk record by one-half inch. Hargrove's high at Richmond was 10 feet 6 1/4 in.

In this meet the Blue Devils were up against three all-Southern men, Goode, Sharp, and Hamilton. Sharp holds the mile record at 4 min. 21 sec. and he also holds his school record for the half mile and 440.

Coach "Bey" Taylor's young Blue Devils seem to want to divide things with the Carolina yearlings. The slug-out contest at Chapel Hill last week resulted in a win for the Duke men on Monday afternoon the Tar Heels took the best end of a 5 to 2 count.

Coach Taylor has set the prospects for a good team this year. Captain Carriers hold down the first sack to perfection, while Crabtree, Adams and Howe play the other field positions in fine style.

GAMECOCKS HELD
BY THOMAS TO A
5 TO 4 DEFEAT

Blue Devils Take Advantage of Hits and Errors to Win 5 to 3.

4 ERRORS FOR EACH SIDE

Peace and Bloom Hit At Right Time For Blue Devils to Push Scores Across.

Ralph Thomas held the Gamecock right under the charm of masterful twirling while his team mates romped off with a decisive, if not an easy victory. The inability of Jupiter to be peaceful caused many miscues on the part of both teams, each making four errors. When the umpire called a 5 day, Duke was standing on the long end of a 5 to 3 count.

Adams, centerfielder, and Jeffords, third baseman, entertained the spectators with several good catches. The former the Blue Devil's hit. His team-mate making five fence-busting smashes off was not able to come through with as many, but robbed Weaver and Saunders of two hits when he sent them. Saunders raced behind the pitcher in the sixth and scooped in a slow roller but received no credit for an error when he threw wild at first.

The Gamecocks started Lefty Higgins on the mound, and he hurled red hot, allowing his offerings to be touched for only six safeties. Those were lunched in the first and fourth frames and exchanged for runs. Thomas, Blue Devil pitcher, although allowing the Gamecocks the small sum of six hits, seemed a little off form and gave free passes to the first four men to face him in four innings.

Duke started the fireworks in the initial frame when Saunders shot a hot one through second for a single, took third when Duke's error, Buster's scribble and scored as Green was being retired. Chappell aimed a mean one at Barker, who was unable to handle it, and Barker, in turn, scored in the fifth frame. Two more runs were added in the fourth on a trier of hits. Peace led off with a single, and Peace followed with another. Weaver was robbed of a hit by Jeffords, but the dependable Mike lashed a single to left field. Farr let the old agitator get away, and Peace and Bloom ambled home. The final score for Duke came in the sixth when Peace hit a valuable single, while the South Carolina infield slept, and scored on a sacrifice fly by Brown.

The first blood was drawn by the Gamecocks in the sixth. After two men had been retired, Mike Smith doubled and scored on Rogers' three-base smash to right field. They also scored the plate during the next two on a single, and a field out, and an error. Their final score came in the eighth on two errors and a single.

DUKE NETMEN WIN
TWO MEETS IN VA.

Union and University of Va. Fall Before Duke Net Artists.

Duke's tennis team has just returned from a highly successful invasion of Virginia. Union Theological Seminary and the University of Virginia both fell before the Duke netmen, composed by Barnes, Whitener, Rodgers, and Holton. Both these teams were defeated by the score of 4-2, and a meet was scheduled with Washington and Lee, but it was not played because of wet courts. The trip was featured by the consistent play of the Duke net team, every man showing up well.

At the University of Virginia, in singles, Rogers lost to Thurfield, 6-1, 11-3; 6-2; Whitener won from Wilmer, 6-4, 1-6; 6-1; Burns won from Motion, 6-2, 6-4; Holton lost to Smith, 6-1, 6-3; and in doubles, Barnes and Whitener defeated Wilmer and Wilmer, 7-5, 1-8; 6-3; and Rogers and Holton defeated Thurfield and Alderman, 6-3, 8-6. The matches were closer than the scores would indicate, and were well contested. The Duke netmen were congratulated on defeating such a large school.

The Union Theological Seminary fell to much the same way. In singles, Rogers lost to Bradley, 6-4, 6-1; Whitener won from Fowler, 6-2, 1-6; 6-1; Burns won from Lewis, 6-1, 6-3; Holton won from Carr, 12-10, 6-1; and in doubles, Barnes and Whitener defeated Bradley and McWhorter, 6-2, 7-5; and Holton and Burns lost to Fraser and Lewis, 6-8, 6-4, 6-4.

The team will enter the state tournament at Chapel Hill next Thursday, April 22, and the members of the team expect to make a very creditable showing. This year's action have been hailed as the best team that has represented Duke at the net for many years and their record thus far is devoid of defeat. Barnes, Whitener, Rodgers, and Holton have been hailed as all having fallen before them.

Expert swimming, fancy diving, and life saving demonstrations featured a aquatic exhibition given by Mr. Caudill and his proteges in the pool at the Memorial Gymnasium last Saturday night. Before a well-dilled gallery the boys kept a being working hard all winter getting in shape for the stuff.

The first event of the evening was the 100 yard relay. C. E. Barnes, A. E. Barnes, P. B. Tottle, Shipley, and P. E. Barnes participated. Then came the 50-yard dash with A. W. Wood winning by a hair. Varsity Club
Announcement

Latters announcing that the Varsity Club of Duke University will formally come into existence at a banquet at the Washington Duke Saturday evening, May 1st, have been sent to all present varsity men and to all old athletes of Trinity College and Duke University. These letters are in the form of invitations, with a return card included so that the management will know just how many to expect to enroll as members and be present at the dinner.

Coach Dellart has worked out some excellent plans for this organization, with his most paramount object being to create a better spirit of athletics at Duke and a closer connection between the athletes of the alumni. If any man who is or has been a varsity athlete and letter man at Duke University or Trinity College has not received one of these cards, it was because of some oversight or mistake. If there are any such men, it would be greatly appreciated if they would get in touch with T. A. Rodman, acting secretary, the Varsity Club.

WHITTED COHORTS

Hillless Wonders Live Up to Their Name and Fail to Connect.

HATLEY AND MACKIE STAR

Each Team Uses Two Hurlers All of Which Get Into Hot Water Quite Frequently.

Timely hitting, free passes, and errors were errors not clearly accounted for the five to four victory the Carolinians won over the Blue Devils on Hanes field Saturday afternoon. For nine batters the game could have been anybody's and it was not until the umpire called the last Duke man out that the Duke supporters were willing to admit that they had been defeated.

Between 6,000 and 7,000 spectators watched the two teams tussle through the contest. It was a case of one being able to hit and the other team being able to fan the air, and as usual the "Hillless Wonders" prevailed with the exception of their stick work, but it seems that stick work is what will ball games.

Joe Thompson started the game for the Blue Devils and allowed five hits during the six innings he worked. His hurling was about as good as anyone would expect a game in the fifth when Lefty suddenly developed a sore finger and was relieved. Bill Poyner, who finished the game for the visitors appeared nervous and was frequently in tight places but he allowed only two hits during the remainder of the contest.

CAROLINA WINS
HARD GAME FROM
WHITTED COHORTS

Hillless Wonders Live Up to Their Name and Fail to Connect.

HATLEY AND MACKIE STAR

Each Team Uses Two Hurlers All of Which Get Into Hot Water Quite Frequently.

Timely hitting, free passes, and errors were errors not clearly accounted for the five to four victory the Carolinians won over the Blue Devils on Hanes field Saturday afternoon. For nine batters the game could have been anybody's and it was not until the umpire called the last Duke man out that the Duke supporters were willing to admit that they had been defeated.

Between 6,000 and 7,000 spectators watched the two teams tussle through the contest. It was a case of one being able to hit and the other team being able to fan the air, and as usual the "Hillless Wonders" prevailed with the exception of their stick work, but it seems that stick work is what will ball games.

Joe Thompson started the game for the Blue Devils and allowed five hits during the six innings he worked. His hurling was about as good as anyone would expect a game in the fifth when Lefty suddenly developed a sore finger and was relieved. Bill Poyner, who finished the game for the visitors appeared nervous and was frequently in tight places but he allowed only two hits during the remainder of the contest.

PRESENTATION OF MOLNAË'S SWAN BY TAURIANS FRIDAY

after" before the eighteenth amendment was passed. The scenery committee, lighting committee et cetera are not the only persons ready for the grand opening night, but better still, Mrs. Gross has her cast all cooked and primed and in condition to put their part of the play over in great style. Perhaps the most novel feature of "The Swan" production will be the appearance for the first time on the Taurian stage of Miss Amy Childs, who plays the role of the Princess Beatrice, mother of Alphonso, and Mr. Gene Tomkey as Casar. (No, not Julius.)

The properties which will be used in "The Swan" will do much to add to the magnificence of the play. Morden Buck has the properties in charge, and he is getting his silver service which is used in the "Banquet scene" from Jones and Frazer and Co. The baguettes which the Princess Domitica will carry are also to be dazzling, particularly to some who have never seen them in use.

The cast will have its final and dress rehearsal on Thursday evening. For the past week the cast has been rehearsing the entire three acts each night, so there is no doubt that "The Swan" will thrill by with as great success as the previous Taurian productions.

Friends, rather than war in opposition to each other as is so often the case. As we look back to 1871 when Bismarck engineered his war with France, we try to find the cause, and an investigation will reveal the fact that we must go back to 1833 which marks the fall of Constantinople. This is the great date in all history and Constantinople is still the sensitive heart of the world. When Mohammed came into the Balkans it became necessary for new lands to be discovered in order that new ideas might be grown, thus we have the era of discovery and the beginning of the new world. The human conscience is an interrogation point that is continually asking what it is all about, and why am I here?

"There are three ways to face the world, and these are complacency, complaint, and conservation. Civilization will not be pulled down by a modern Samson, but his fable to perish because of complacency. Isolation can never hope to be a success when the old and new world are only twenty-one hours apart. We must feel our wonders with the rest of the world. The mood of criticism is almost as bad as complacency, and what is needed to cure such critical attitudes is to infuse the minds of our young people today is a fuller, deeper fellowship. No great personality has ever been born while that has not possessed reverence and gratitude. These are the greatest days the world has ever known, and it is a challenge to the younger people to dedicate their lives to the things that are best in the world. 'Now may God be thanked who made this with this hour!'

ORATORICAL CONTEST PRELIMINARY FRIDAY

The preliminary for the State Oratorical Peace Contest will be held Friday afternoon, April 23, at 4 o'clock in the Hatterton Hall, according to announcement of Mr. Herring. In this contest a student will be chosen to represent Duke in the finals at Davidson College on May 1.

Two cash awards go to the best orator in the final contest: first prize, fifty dollars, and second prize, fifty dollars. Last year the top prize was won by Frank Craven, of Durham, who represented Duke. This has stirred up considerable enthusiasm among the students who are competing for the honor of representing Duke this year.

COLLEGES SUPPORT MISSION ACTIVITIES

ince of Paso Punda, Brazil. In the town of Rio Grande do Sul they have established a co-educational school for the natives called "Texas Hill." In early time missionaries were sent; later a mission house and a church were built and then the Texas Hill school, all supported at least in part by Texas University students, who now send out graduates from their university to teach there.

Work similar to that of Princeton is being done by Yale with its "Yale in China" group, but still a different field is that of home missions, served by the Garrett Institute, the University of Illinois, Evanston, Ill. Dempster Street Mission is the name of the institution supported by Illinois students, who through it try in some way to relieve the sufferings of the poor. Other schools are interested in missions. The work done by Princeton, Yale, Texas, and Illinois Universities are but four instances of institutions which have a definite plan of service to humanity through such work.

MODERN SIGNAL SYSTEM BOUGHT FOR UNIVERSITY

lition of these clocks, which will number approximately three hundred and will cost several thousand. According to the guarantee of the manufacturer, none of the clocks possibly vary three seconds a month, and then would be reset to split-second accuracy.

A similar system of time-keeping will be utilized on the new campus, now virgin forests, but the details have not yet been worked out.

In addition to the completion of plans for the clocks, much actual work has gone forward this week on the buildings on the present campus. The library walls are climbing rapidly, each day's work revealing more of the architect's plans of beauty. The four dormitories which are to be in use next season have risen above the second story windows. Buildings on the east side of the campus, which heretofore have progressed slowly, are evidencing much more energy at the present.

The most marked improvements during the past week, however, lie in the mechanical equipment of the school, such as heating, plumbing, and lighting. Here tofore this part of the building program had not been begun. Now, however, the foundations for this phase of the building program have been laid. The heating system will connect with a huge plant, conveniently located in order to provide heat for the buildings on both the new and the old campus. This plant will be most modern with splendid control of the heating and cooling system.

REV. J. C. CANIPE GAVE LECTURE AT VESPERS

Rev. J. C. Canipe, evangelist, who is giving a series of lectures in Durham, spoke to the students at Vespers, on a subject, "How Can I Let My Life Count for Most." Devotionals were in charge of L. B. Sather and Edith Parker, Quaker by Carolyn Soter, Janis Tucker, Mildred Michaels and Alice Herman, added to the program.

Rev. Canipe in discussing "How can I make my life count for most," stated that sacrificial life is a necessary factor to humanity. The dead sea is dead because it takes in and never gives. Dr. Silvers Horn sacrificed his life as an Evangelist. He was a mighty preacher and an author of a well known book, entitled "Romance of Preaching." This book is an inspiration to any one who reads it. It also takes a busy man to succeed. Jesus was a busy man. A clean life is also necessary to success. Rev. Canipe used to illustrate this "As a man thinks, so he is."

BLAKENEY OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCES RETURNS

In a few words Whitford S. Blakeney, Jr., president of the Men's Association, yesterday congratulated the male students upon the splendid selection of new student officers for the coming year. He expressed pleasure in officially announcing the return of the recent election. Blakeney stated that the installation of the officers elected will be held April 30th in Craven Memorial Hall immediately after chapel.

Blakeney explained that there is a general idea prevalent among the students that the Student Council trials are conducted altogether secretly. Diametrically contrary to this, he asserted, any student trial will be held openly. If a petition signed by fifty men students is handed to him requesting that a certain case be publicly tried. This, however, does not mean that the students would be allowed to pass judgment upon the accused, he explained.

STUDENT COUNCIL CLASS ELECTIONS SATURDAY EVENING

sufficient time only one balloting was taken at chapel period, but election was completed at seven o'clock Saturday night when the contest narrowed down to four men, Fred Brummitt, Joe Carruthers, Spruill Thornton, and Little John Paulsen. On the next ballot the race was between Thornton and Carruthers. In this ballot the final choice fell to Joe Carruthers. Other nominees for the office were, A. B. Crabtree, Wood Dorsett, Geo. Hatcher, and Cotton Veach.

Only two ballots were required to elect Hester and Weaver as council members from the class of '28. They were selected as the choice over nine candidates, but the amusing thing is that both Hester and Weaver received, on last ballot, the same number of votes, and that R. G. Tuttle and A. R. Harris, their runners-up, each received, although it was a minority vote, an equal number of votes, the difference in the votes of the first two and the last two being seventy-two. Other candidates were C. A. Kirkpatrick, W. R. Hartness, Bob Hatcher, C. H. Miller, and Stuart Rogers.

Of the candidates from the siding senior class, Clay Bridges, Brooks McInnis, C. J. Kirby, Sam Bundy, T. A. Tedman, Murray Atkins and Walter Biggs, only one ballot was required to elect Atkins and Biggs, the two last named.
