

NATIONALLY KNOWN ENTERTAINMENTS APPEAR HERE SOON

Four Unusual Features Booked for Presentation During Fall Term

DUNCAN DANCERS FIRST

Are Now On Fall Tour and Offer Production of Rare Type As First Entertainment of Excellent Series Planned for Duke Students

Professor R. S. Rankin, head of the committee on Public Entertainment this year, released information concerning four exceptionally well known entertainment features that have been booked for presentation to the students of Duke University during the fall semester. The committee on Public Entertainment is a comparatively new feature of the reorganization of the University, having been functioning only a few years.

The committee is attempting to secure for the students a very large amount of entertainment possible and at a very reasonable cost to the individual. Working upon a systematic basis, this committee has been endeavoring to have brought here during the first semester a series of the most up-to-date and at the same time wholesome and entertaining performances that have been produced; and for the strikingly low cost of two dollars and fifty cents per person.

The first of this series will be the presentation of a terpsichorean program at the Duke auditorium on the evening of October 17 by the Duncan dancers, who are now on their fall tour. This type of program is rarely seen in this section of the country, and it is thought that it will be of unusual interest to the college community.

On October 30, Smullin's Capels come direct from San Francisco, comingprising thirty voices will present a Spanish program in costume. This organization is expected to be on a par with the Westminster choir.

The highlight of the fall's program will be the appearance of the Theatre Guild on November 27, bringing a large cast from New York to present "Maneuver Millions." According to the committee on Public Entertainment, this production of the organization is such that its appearance here will be an event to be anticipated.

Always popular with university students is Count von Luckner, "The Sea Dog," a world adventurer who is to lecture here on the history of the world, with fascinating tales of modern times, it is said.

For the recreational program of the spring semester, four other entertainments will be booked, and again they will be attractions of an unusual type. It is expected that it is the committee in charge.

MARION WILL HEAD FRIENDSHIP COUNCIL

First Meeting of Year is Held; Plans Are Now Completed

Having been already named by an appointed committee of advisors, Marion Williams, who was elected club banquet, Don Marion, was officially chosen Chairman of the Freshman Friendship Council. Some of the members of the new organization, under the guidance of Dr. W. W. Hines, Hines and Upham, held their first business meeting on the evening of October 7, at which time plans for the organization, including election of all officers. For secretary, Hines, nominated by the Selection Committee, also was elected without opposition, but ballots were made to be sent for the positions of vice-chairman and treasurer. The election was held on October 10, and Dr. Hines was elected, respectively, defeating Rankin and Johnson. During the brief session, which in attendance was considerably hampered by the absence of Jimmy Peak and Max Green, departmental executives of the Y. M. C. A. at Duke University, made short talks to the convening freshmen. Peak asked for the co-operation and support of all present in connection with the coming year's Jimmy Peak and Max Green fund, and announced a proposed "tag-up" between the new class and the sophomores.

Friday evening, October 11, was set as the date for a social to be given by the Council, and both young men and women, several ladies of Southgate to be extended invitations.

Frosh and Fraternities Rejoice as Rushing Ends

Adored and Respected Freshmen Will Gladly Part With Pledge Fees for Privilege of Becoming Valeds and Errand Boys to the Brothers

Tonight at six o'clock it was all over. Fraternity men all over the campus are breathing sighs of relief for the first time since school began, and many freshmen are wondering if they got by while a great many more were sewed up before school started and were just taking in the first run for all they could get out of them.

Tonorrow there will be many number of the old brothers hanging around the chapter rooms waiting to put a pledge pin on the freshmen of their choice—some of whom will never make their first. Some freshmen will be sure that their side were lost in the mail, entirely unaware that they got a dozen black nails in the last vote.

It has been a hectic season but very much like all those which have preceded it. There is nothing new in fraternity rushing. The freshmen will still be for three weeks, but they will be brought down to earth very quickly by some of the old men whose nerves have been frayed by rushing season.

The brothers have been most cordial to the freshmen—venerating all sorts of things. They have been very kind for three weeks, but they will be brought down to earth very quickly by some of the old men whose nerves have been frayed by rushing season.

The first of this series will be the presentation of a terpsichorean program at the Duke auditorium on the evening of October 17 by the Duncan dancers, who are now on their fall tour. DUKE RADIO HOUR TO BE CONTINUED

Jelly Lefkovich and His Music Makers Will Broadcast First

The Duke University Radio Hour from station W. P. T. F. at Raleigh is proving highly successful again this year. During last year a program was broadcast from the station on the Duke and this year the radio public will again be favored by programs from Duke on every Tuesday evening from eight to eight-thirty. These programs always prove highly entertaining and also serve to let the radio world know more about the Duke University and its important men on the campus.

The first of the programs was given by "Jelly Lefkovich and His Music Makers." The program of jazz music which was given was equal to that given by professional ensembles. The outstanding numbers on the program were: "The Blind Piousman" by Clark; "Goin' Home" by Dvovak; which were sung by Mr. Barnes, and "Little Star" by Frank La Forge and "Lullaby" by Brahm sung by Mrs. Barnes.

The Duke University radio will broadcast Tuesday night at eight o'clock. The fact that Duke has the best college band in the south is well known. The fact that Duke has the best college band in the south is well known. The fact that Duke has the best college band in the south is well known.

DR. GEORGE T. HARRITT TO SPEAK FRIDAY EVE

Dr. George T. Harritt, visiting professor to the Duke department of Science, from Syracuse, will deliver an address before the Crowell Scientific Society on Friday evening, October 11, in room 111 of the new Science building.

Many fresh were led to believe that they were being sought after because they measured up to the ideals for which old Duke Beta Pi has always stood. That sounds good, but this same Beta Pi needs to pay off some debts incurred last year. And about twelve freshmen can help the treasury of the fast disappearing Beta Pi.

Some of the fraternities will boast of the large number that they were able to win in (over) the rush. They will claim to be alphas or betas. Others will boast of the quality of the few that they colored, and still others will develop at length the new grape line. But after all a fraternity is judged not by the men that they take in but by what they have been able to do for the university.

And next year it will have to be gone through with again, and the same fresh will grip the throats of the old men who will have to take their daily dose of five foot paddle will be the very ones who will do the most effective rushing and paddling next year.

ARCHIVE PRESENTS FIRST NUMBER SOON

O'Hare Prize Winner Continues the Feature Story for Opening Issue of Publication

The first issue of the 1929-30 Archive, the monthly literary publication of Duke University, will appear about the middle of October. The Archive is a publication of the state of Virginia. It will feature the opening issue, Miss Stait will be remembered by readers of the Archive as the author of India Is, which appeared in the magazine last year, and which subsequently won one of the O'Hare prizes.

The frontispiece for the opening number, Dance of Dawn, was contributed by Professor Mason. Along with other poetry will appear the work of Dillard Shook Harold McCreary, and John Marshall. The poetry and fiction will be supplemented by critical book reviews and recent public talks. This year's Archive is under the management of Gerald Cronin, editor, and Julius Cronin, business manager. For the past two years, it has been edited by the best college literary publication in the state; and according to Editor Cronin the new policy will be maintained which have been used by the magazine during this period.

PROMINENT MEN SPEAK AT COLUMBIA MEETING

Dean Arnold and Dr. Myers Address Second Meeting of the Year

The Columbia Literary Society held its second meeting of the year at 7:15 P. M. October 1, in the Columbia Hall in the East Duke Building.

The program of the evening, presided over by Mr. Arnold, director of the Freshman, spoke upon "The Value of the Literary Society in College Life"; and Dr. H. E. Myers, of the School of Religion, spoke upon the subject "Former Columbia." Following the regular meeting, the society adjourned for ten minutes in order to allow the new men to make their choice between Columbia and Hesperia. At the meeting, the new members were received into Columbia.

NEW TYPE PROGRAM PLAN FOR VESPERS

Programs Planned on Basis of Worship; Speeches Eliminated; Music Important Feature

According to announcement made by the vespers committee of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. both the purpose of the vespers will be to be decided differently from that of the vespers of the past. The first program of this new type will be given Sunday afternoon at five o'clock in the chapel. The purpose of such a change is an attempt to provide something that will be more interesting and attractive, as well as helpful to students in general.

Although the programs in the past have been of excellent quality, it is felt that they have been more or less duplications of other religious services, such as chapel and the various church programs. In order to supply the demand for a different type of service, the committee plans to work out its future programs on the basis of worship.

Speeches, for the most part, will be eliminated; and when talks are used they will be of unusual interest and not more than ten minutes in length. Music will be a prominent feature of each program. More of special numbers and selections will be offered, and singing by the soloists will receive more attention than heretofore. Such features as interpretative readings from the Bible, selections from literature, and opportunities for silent meditation and prayer will be introduced.

Miss Smith, Dr. Hickman, Dr. Dranscombe, and Mr. Barnes will assist in the working out of the program. The students members of the committee and those connected with it feel that the vespers will be more than heretofore, satisfy the religious needs of the students.

JUNIOR SCHOLASTIC ORDER CHOOSES MEN

9019 Will Initiate Thirteen New Members Thursday and Friday

The annual initiation of 9019, Duke's honorary scholastic fraternity, will be held this Thursday and Friday, October 10 and 11. Potentially enough, thirteen is the number of lucky students to be admitted into this ancient order this year.

There will be no difficulty in recognizing these who are being initiated. Each of the future members will be accompanied with a red cap, large spectacles, and will carry a huge book under his arm.

The 9019 is the oldest honorary fraternity at Duke. It was established in 1890 by John Bassett, Professor Alford, Professor Cranford, and Dr. Boyd. The fraternity has as its objective the promotion of high ideals, academic attainment, and everything that tends to the best interest of Duke University.

W. F. Howland, President of 9019, announced recently that the fraternity would again sponsor a state-wide tournament. The winner will, as usual, be given a scholarship to Duke. These contests have, in the past, and athletic competition will undoubtedly be had this year.

HICKMAN SPEAKS TO BIBLE CLASS

Judge Bryson's Group Discusses "The Sanctity of the Law"

Dr. Hickman conducted Judge Bryson's bible class Sunday morning in the chapel. The class was held at the college around the general theme for October, "The Sanctity of the Law." In his introduction, Dr. Hickman pointed out that the law is a very old thing. The law is a very old thing. The law is a very old thing. The law is a very old thing.

"The mind has its own peculiar type of law. It is a law that is not written. It is a law that is not written. It is a law that is not written. It is a law that is not written.

Bands and Teams of Both Sides Make Part in Ceremony Which Are Witnessed by Governor Gardner and Members of Duke Foundation—Flag Is Run Up Just Before Game

(By Edgar J. Hootch)

Twenty thousand voracious customers to whom the issue of a football game was newly incidental to a greater spectacle gathered on the new campus Saturday afternoon to see Duke dedicate its $5,000 seat athletic stadium, the largest structure ever built to accommodate the dress and idleness of any southern university.

The blue-shed of the amphitheatre facing the stadium was a sea of yellow for the Blue Devils and the Pitt freshmen stacked a heavy advantage on the score board, but this did not dampen the fans' enthusiasm or spoil their interest in the game or the dedication which was run off in fine style with Governor Gardner, Dr. Hootch, and other notable visitors from seven states running.

The game was headed up with fitting ceremony, both university bands and cheering sections gave the Duke soldiers their money's worth of noise and novelty while the Duke gridders and the smooth workmen from nearby shops, in a demonstration of big scale football.

Many sections of the country were represented by the crowd which filled the stadium to capacity. The Duke freshmen called on mass, observing a holiday and calling it Duke-Durham day. The Pennsylvanians, who were the visitors, called it the Blue Devils and the Pitt freshmen called it the Duke-Durham day.

FLIGHT

A bird may curve across the sky—
A feather of dusk, a streak of song,
And save a space and a bird to fly
There may be nothing all day long.

Flying through a cloud made place
A bird may tangle east and west,
Maddened with grief, crushing space
With the arrow of its breast.

Though ever mind our notion bring
It back again from indefinite land,
The thin blue shadow of its wing
May cross and cross above your hands.

NUMBER OF PROFESSORS ARE FOUND IN WHO'S WHO

Names of Twenty-Two Members of Faculty and Administration Listed

A recent comprehensive study of Who's Who in America discloses the fact that of the faculty and administrative officers in the University, twenty-three are listed in the latest issue of this volume.

Most of the names listed are those of officers and faculty members with long records here, but a number of the newer additions are also found in the book. It is interesting to note that three of the new professors who were added to the faculty this year have their biographies in Who's Who. All but two of the twenty-two have doctor's degrees of one type or another, including Ph.D., LL.D., J.D., D.Sc., etc.

A rather extraordinary fact is that twenty-one of these men are either married or have been married. The only bachelor in the group is one of the new professors.

The political affiliations of nine are as follows:

given as Democrat, one as Republican, and two seem to be or have been affiliated with the Progressive party. Thirteen of the men are Methodists, one Quaker, one Episcopalian, one Unitarian, one Baptist, and one Congregationalist.

Dogs are not responsible for all hydrophobia. Some men are mad and crazy because they have nagging wives.—Atlanta Globe.

TAURIAN PLAYERS HOLD OPEN HOUSE

Local Dramatists to Begin Ninth Season Thursday Evening; Call for Men

The Taurian Players herald the opening of their ninth season with an open house in the Little Theater, basement of West Duke at 8:00 P.M. Thursday evening. An important business meeting, at which all active members are urged to be present promptly, will be held at 7:30 sharp, prior to the open house. All those who aspire to any of the various departments of Taurian work are invited to mingle in this get-together meeting. A cordial invitation is especially tendered to freshmen. Taurian Players are a sort of organization, open to all who have talent. Artists, electricians, stage-hand, and publicity men, as well as wearers of the mask and wig, are needed.

At this time the first play will be announced. We have with us again this season our director, Mrs. Gross. Old Taurians will also be pleased to know that Dr. Baum has returned to our advisory board. A number of test plays will be taken up this year. The original work which is characteristic of Taurians will be seen again this year in all departments of the craft. All those who remember the unique stage effects of "A Thousand Years Ago" will be interested in the further work planned for this year.

The trials for the first play will be held on Friday night at 7:30 in the Little Theater. Associate members only are eligible for participation in the try-outs. Those who have not yet had the opportunity to obtain their associate membership tickets can do so by sending any active member of the Taurians, or the president, Ennis Atkins. With able and experienced directorship, with splendid leadership, with a live nucleus of active members, the Taurians need only your cooperation to make their ninth season a ninth success.

PITT PANTHERS WIN STADIUM OPENING GAME

DEVILS DEFEATED
BY PITT PANTHERS

Duke Overwhelmed by Superior
Teamwork of Pitt Team in Game Here Saturday

(By Bob Patton)

Duke fans and others who were at the Duke-Pitt game last Saturday saw a game team go to defeat under the attack of a superior football team. The 52-7 score does not indicate to the outsider who did not see the game that there was a terrific fight going on throughout the entire game. This is well shown by the fact that the Devils made their one and only touchdown during the last quarter.

To the fans who came to see the game without any feeling for either side, it was a great event. Pittsburgh brought the greatest team that has ever been seen on a southern gridiron. Football as these men played was unknown to the southern teams. There were a number of outstanding men on the visiting team, but the victory was not due to individual playing. Teamwork was the thing that won the game. All the touchdowns that Pitt scored, with the exception of one, were made by a play which was an end run with a cutback to the other side. On this play there were six men running interference for the runner. It is easily seen why Duke was unable to get to the runner before he had made a good play.

There were several outstanding men on both teams. One of Pitt was probably the most important player in the game. Twice he reeled off runs of over 75 yards to victory. Rooney of Pitt was also a very fast back. He scored twice for the victory.

Duke was not without her individual stars. Sam Bule proved to everyone that he is a worthy of being called one of the outstanding passers in the game. Despite a wet ball and a wet field Bule threw the ball with fine accuracy. Nick Warren played a nice game both on offense and on defense. "Buz" Bosky came through well on a tough job as quarterback.

Beaver, a sophomore, was the man who carried the ball over the line for Duke's only tally. He caught a long pass from Bule and passed by a safety man, and then ran across the goal line. Robeson, another sophomore, was said to have been the best broken field runner in the game by several of the men in the press box.

Bill Murray was the game twice and during the second time caught a pass from Bule which was the longest to be completed. The play was costly though because Murray twisted his ankle and had to be taken out of the game. Bob Thorne played a beautiful game in the line.

One of the greatest mares on the game was the fact that Captain Henry Kistner was forced to sit on the bench as a result of an injured knee. Two of his teammates were also out on account of injuries. Zasko was on the bench in uniform but was not sent in because he had recently had an attack of flu, and without a uniform. Brewer clipped "Kitt" Brewer was also on the bench a bone in his leg during practice before the game.

The Blue Devils fought from the beginning to the time the whistle blew. To summarize it, as most people did, it was a great game.

SAM BULE

Sam Bule, Duke's passing ace, more than lived up to his reputation last Saturday against Pitt when he passed the ball accurately from all sorts of positions. Sam, who has been rated as the best forward passer in the state, showed Pitt that the man who will be named as the best passer in the nation this year plays for Duke. Bule was not content with doing All-American passing, but made several nice runs for gains through the Pitt line, and around their ends also.

NICK WARREN

Nick Warren, Duke end and guard, lived up to the name which he made in the Mercer game as a fine receiver of passes. Nick got several of Bule's passes for good gains, giving the Pitt backfield quite a bit of trouble in stopping him after he had gotten hold of the ball.

Warren also played a good defensive game at guard, which position he is shifted to on the defense.

STATISTICS
First downs—Duke, 17; Pitt, 29; Yards from scrimmage—Duke, 37; Pitt, 258. Forward passes attempted, Duke, 42; Pitt, 13. Forward passes completed: Duke 16; Pitt, 4. Yards gained on passes, including distance of pass and run of receiver: Duke, 368; Pitt, 70. Passes intercepted: Duke, 3; Pitt, 4. Penalties: Duke three times for 15 yards; Pitt seven times for 85 yards. Fumbles: Duke, two; Pitt, two. Fumbles recovered: Pitt, 1. Points: Duke, six for 219 yards, averaging 36 1/2 yards each; Pitt, five for 181 yards, averaging 36 yards each.

THORNE AND FRIEDMAN

Bob Thorne and Bert Friedman, two of the mainstays in the Duke line, both showed up well in the Pitt encounter. Thorne was especially adept at breaking through the Pitt first defense and mauling plays. Friedman stopped Pitt's time and time again on plays against the center of the line. Parkinson, who is being mentioned as All-American for this year, has formerly gained heavily over the center of the line in other games.

DUKE HAS MASCOT AT LAST

The Chronicle Named the Teams of Old Trinity Back in 1922 After Numerous Unsatisfactory Names Had Been Given the Fighting Men of Our Old College Days

(By Esther Morris)
The first half of the Duke-Pitt game had just ended. Down the field marched the Duke University Band resplendent in shining new uniforms. Suddenly one of its ranks faltered badly, and amid the confusion of frenzied notes, Duke University's own Blue Devil shook hands with Pitt's Panther.

October fifth was the first time that the Blue Devil had made his appearance. Prior to this it had been but a myth of tradition. Along with the stadium the Devil with its horns, tail and blue make-up has its visible appearance as the University's mascot.

ABOUT THIS GAME

Sports writers in the press box last Saturday were all high in their praises of both teams. Of course, it goes without saying that they were all impressed with the playing of Pittsburgh, since the Panthers won the game, but what will be surprising to the average layman is that they were all impressed with the showing which the Blue Devils made. The passing attack which the Dukebackers worked so well against Pitt caused the representatives of the so-called fourth estate to sit up and take notice. One of the nation's leading sports men said after the game that if Sam Bule did not get national recognition as a passer that there would be a big catch in it somewhere.

ALSO ABOUT THIS GAME

We would like to pass on a little information to any man on the campus who may be griping about the showing that the Blue Devils made last Saturday. Here is said information: during the entire season last year, only 15 first downs were made against Pitt. Last Saturday Duke made 17 first downs against them. Last year, in the Pitt-Nebraska game, Nebraska made only 1 first down. Nebraska won the Big Six conference title last year, so they must have been good. Pitt's team is rated as being better this year than it was last, yet Duke made 17 first downs. All the men who started in the Pitt backfield weighed 180 or over, and all of them can run the 100 in 10.3 or better.

Obviously, few of us have the change—or tendency—to make mounds out of ourselves. But even in the normal course of human events, there's nothing so welcome as a refreshing pump. Happily there's a soda fountain or refreshment stand—with plenty of ice-cold Coca-Cola ready—around the corner from anywhere. With its delicious taste and cool after-served refreshment, it makes a little minute long enough for a big one.

Flap, turning in his peculiar "high-kick" style, got one of Bule's passes and eluded several Pitt men to run for a touchdown. According to reports in the press box, Beaver will be one of the few men in the East to score on

Jack Coombs Issues
Golf Defit to Judge

When Judge K. M. Landis, Big League Commissioner, comes down in late October to visit Judge Brannan, Sally and Fredmont President, he won't want for golf opponents. Jack Coombs, Duke baseball coach and stadium manager, and one of Landis' early baseball heroes, has issued a golfing and shooting challenge to the commissioner. If Jack can golf as well as he can coach baseball, the Judge had better look out.
