and how they might be remedied. Mr. Kingston presented a record of a solo, after which the president of the class introduced Mr. James Rink who made a few remarks regarding the needy conditions of the children's home. It was decided that the collections taken each Sunday should go to the home.

but that religious leaders disagreed with some of the moderns to the extent that religion stands for the hope that mankind will improve. He told of great changes that have taken place in the last quarter of a century that show that it is not impossible to change the social structure or the very nature of mankind itself.

The fact that today there is enough for everyone in the world, and yet there are millions who are in need, Dr. Kingston said, shows that there is something vitally wrong with the present economic system. Men have been seeking for centuries to be freed from the crushing effects of manual labor. Today machinery has made it possible for all to be employed, and at the same time for all to have some leisure time for self-improvement and yet this condition does not exist. Dr. Kingston explained the fact that Christians must lend their intellects as well as their emotions and their prayers to the cause of bettering the present system. The third problem the speaker brought out was the problem of establishing a stable society.

FROSH PETITION B. O. S. FOR REMOVAL OF DINKS

The frosh cabinet, composed of men from every state represented in their class, is now petitioning Beta Omega Sigma for the permission to take off their caps after the holidays. They base their request on the grounds that the universal opinion relative to the last never-to-be-forgotten struggle between the student body is that, although the score was 0-6, Duke clearly emerged as the victor, not only in a moral consideration, but in the fact that the Blue Devils displayed a far superior brand of football to that of their opponents.

Prior to the annual clash between Duke and Carolina, Beta Omega Sigma promised to give the freshman class permission permanently to take off the dinks after the Christmas holidays in the event of a Duke victory.

VACATION IS EXTENDED BY FACULTY MEMBERS AT THURSDAY MEETING

Classes will be resumed on the morning of Monday, January 4.

All unexcused absences incurred immediately before or after these dates will count double. The first official announcement of the change was made at the meeting of the various classes on Monday, although rumors had been in circulation since the faculty meeting last Thursday afternoon.

Thomas-Quickel Company

Problem: how to answer a million a day

Users of Bell System service ask "Information" more than 1,000,000 questions every day. Providing facilities for answering them promptly, correctly, was one problem put up to engineers of the Bell System.

So effective was their solution that this prodigious task is now a matter of smooth routine. They designed desks which enable each operator to reach quickly the listings of some 15,500,000 telephones. They developed apparatus which automatically routes calls to operators not busy—and should all operators be busy at once, it stores up calls and releases them in the order received!

Efficient telephone service depends upon working out interesting problems like this.

Duke University Day Will Be Observed Next Friday With Selected Programs

SMITH TO SPEAK
Former Speaker of House and Member of the Board of Trustees Will Deliver Message

ALUMNI WILL ASSEMBLE

The observance of Duke University Day, Friday, December 11, in 32 cities of the United States and in two foreign countries causes us to pause in retrospection and review the past accomplishments of Duke university when it was yet a small struggling school without a great deal of financial aid, but with the traditions of many years of noteworthy achievement.

Duke university was conceived and born on a very modest scale in 1858 in the county of Randolph, under the leadership of Brantley York. Two years later, in 1860, the school was enlarged and named Union institute academy, and in 1862 under the guidance of Doctor Braxton Craven it was incorporated under the name of North Carolina law as a normal school, primarily for the purpose of preparing teachers for work in North Carolina schools. A later proposal by Dr. Craven to the North Carolina Methodist Conference led to the change, making it Trinity college under the control and administration of this body. At the end of the Civil War, Dr. John F. Crowell, who was then president, suggested moving the school to a city, and upon the proposal of Durham, who offered one hundred twenty-five acres, the school was moved, remaining Trinity college until December 9, 1924.

On that memorable day when James B. Duke, multi-millionaire and industrial developer and capitalist, announced the creation of a trust fund totaling $600,000 for educational and charitable purposes, including the establishment and maintenance of a vast educational institution in Durham, began the building of what is now "The Greater Duke University."

Coe'd Field Day Takes Place Thursday

Coe'd field day which was postponed last week, will be held Thursday afternoon, December 10. The schedule will be as follows: 4 o'clock, tennis, hockey; 5:30 o'clock, football, swimming.

Riding and hockey will take place on the Hanes field; tennis will be played on the women's courts; and the swimming contests will be at the Memorial gymnasium.

MCDONOUGH TALKS TO LIBERAL GROUP

Head of Psychology Department Speaks on Over-Emphasis of Physical Sciences

Speaking before the Liberal club on Friday evening, December 4, Dr. William McDougall, of the University psychology department, declared that emphasis made on the physical sciences in our era as contrasted with a lack of emphasis on the social sciences has resulted in a danger—fractured bipolarity of the modern world.

The speaker emphasized the need of greater knowledge in the social sciences. The universities of the world are holding the key to the problem, he further asserted. Many of the problems of the world dealing with people and their needs grow out of want of thorough understanding of social and economic conditions, he said.

Although the United States is playing a leading role in social sciences, yet she has much to discover and a great distance to go towards solving the problems of the present day. Social scientists should realize that different labor is needed now and will continue to be needed in the future towards the study of the complexities of human nature.

FRANK R. KINGDON GIVES FINAL TALK AT VESPER SERVICE

Visiting Minister Concludes Series of Messages Given Twice Each Day

MEETS WELL ATTENDED

Students Warned Against Over-Pratention in Concluding Lecture Sunday

Dr. Frank W. Kingdon, of East Orange, New Jersey, concluded his week of special lectures on the campus with a stirring message delivered in Page auditorium on Sunday afternoon, December 6, on the occasion of the regular weekly vesper service. The theme of Dr. Kingdon's talk was "Art thou a human being?" The speaker expressed the hope that the question, repeating itself in the days to come in our thinking, might help to keep us interesting and helpful.

"When you live with some of the modern interpreters of life, then you cannot bother with the question at all, for the answer wouldn't make much difference," said Dr. Kingdon, showing that the chemical analysis of life which shows that an average man is worth only eighty-eight cents, or the psychological analysis of man as a complex machine whose behavior is the mere mechanical reaction to artificial stimuli, does not have much claim to importance in being a human being.

Dr. Kingdon remarked that many people confronted by this question, answer by giving the profession in which they labor as though that meant all there was to being a human being. The speaker asked if that was really all we were. "We are losing the simple appreciations out of our lives," he said. "We are thinking of life solely in terms of what we can buy."

Declaring that some persons believe that being an American was being a human being, the speaker said, that while it was great to be an American, that wasn't all that we are. "Some people," he declared, "are in the grip of the trite platitudes of over-stated patriotism and are thus made less than human."

STATE TEACHERS MEET LAST WEEK

Saturday, December 5th, a meeting of the Teachers' association of North Carolina was held in Duke university. Following a dinner given in the Union building at 6:30, Mr. Lefley Martin, executive secretary of the equalization board of North Carolina, spoke on "The Fundamental Principles Governing the Policies of the Board." Dr. Wansmaker spoke of "The Effects of the Board." These meetings are held once a semester to discuss matters relating to secondary schools in the state.

The equalization board is composed of a group of men in the state who endeavor equally to divide a fund of about ten million dollars, which is given to them by the state, among the counties of North Carolina to help their schools. In some of the rural districts the schools have only a month session, because of a lack of funds to pay the expenses. The deficit is due to the inability of the counties to collect enough taxes to have a sufficient public school fund. It is a difficult matter to budget the fund so that all concerned will be satisfied, and the collection of reports entails an enormous amount of work.

In bringing his lengthy, intensely interesting message to a close, Dr. Kingdon spoke of the boyhood of Jesus in that small, poor house in that small town, where He must have felt the same things that we feel, but while He did that, according to Dr. Kingdon, He also went beyond and thought deeply and intensely over the problems of humanity. Then, beginning His ministry, He incurred the enmity of many people who feared the power of His truth. Finally they crucified Him. "Then they felt that He was dead," said the preacher. "Dead?" You and I know that there is no spirit in all the world so really alive today. Art thou a human being? Stand alongside of Him. Then, being a human being, become something very big. Something as big as being the son or daughter of God."

BOYS CONFERENCE HEARS WADE AND HICKMAN IN UNION

Banquet on West Campus Saturday Night Attended by 420 High School Boys

FROM 58 CAROLINA TOWNS

Duke university assisted in entertaining the Older Boys' Conference of the Carolinians during part of its three-day session at the end of last week. A banquet was given at the Union Saturday night which 420 high school boys representing 58 North and South Carolina towns and cities attended.

Dr. Frank S. Hickman and Coach Wallace Wade were the principal speakers. Dr. Hickman confined his address to the banquet to the topic, "Finding Ourselves in a Changing Vocational World." He asserted that in a complex age such as that of the present, one must have a sense of divine mission if one's highest usefulness and happiness are achieved.

"We are living in a day of specialization," he said. "There are changing social conditions, and we do not face the same problems in regard to vocations that our fathers faced. It is not enough that we must be good at things generally, but we must excel at something in particular."

He stated that thorough training, close application, and the desire to serve will win the qualities going into life work that count for success and happiness.

Coach Wade spoke on "Athletics and Character," dwelling at length on the making of football players and making particular reference to developing manhood and character thereby.

The Blue Devil orchestra and the men's glee club furnished special music. The boys' conference was held in Durham under the auspices of the Durham Y. M. C. A., which arranged the program for the session, of which the banquet here and a joint service at Trinity Methodist church, closing the conference, were a part. This was the first joint conference the organization has held, assemblies having heretofore been held by districts within the two states separately.

TULANE FINISHES SEASON WITH WIN FOR FINE RECORD

Green Wave Turns Back Washington State Cougars in 28 to 14 Victory

WILDCATS BEAT 'GATORS

Tennessee Looks Good in Defeating New York University; Tulane Defeated Wake Forest

Kentucky's 7-2 victory over Florida Saturday officially brought to a close the 1931 Southern conference season. This game was the final conference tilt on the schedule, however, other conference teams were in battle with outside foes. Tulane finished her regular schedule by trouncing Washington State 28-14, to remain undefeated or untied, and justify its claims to the national championship. Tennessee, also undefeated, but once tied, went North for the first time in some seven years, and was successful in downing the strong Violet from New York University 13-0. South Carolina bowed to 29-0; Alabama routed Chattanooga 59-9, and Maryland scored Western Maryland under by a 41-0 score in the remaining game which conference teams had on hand.

Reviewing briefly the season's play within the Southern conference, it is worthy to note that it's two leaders, namely, Tulane and Tennessee, are the only undefeated teams in the entire country. By virtue of its spectacular victory over Washington State Saturday, Tulane was immediately invited to participate in the annual Rose Bowl Classic on New Year's Day, which it accepted. Southern California is to be Tulane's opponent in this classic. The conference also placed its share of players in the Associated Press All-American, recognized officially this year with Grantland Rice's pick, Gerald Dairyn, Yale, and Vernon (Gallo) Smith, Georgia, landed the end positions of the (Continued on Page Six)

Final Intramural Game to Be Played Saturday

Pi Epsilon Pi will engage Sigma Alpha Epsilon Saturday afternoon at 2:30 in the men's gym to decide the fraternity basketball championship. This game is as arranged as not to interfere with the tea dance schedule at 4:00. Neither team has been defeated so a fast game is expected.

INTERFRATERNITY CAGE TOURNEY IS READY FOR FINALS

Pi Epsilon Pi and Sigma Alpha Epsilon to Meet Saturday For First Time

During the past week there have been several fast, close games played in the final round of the Interfraternity Basketball Tournament. A scrappy 8-7 A. E. quiet started the ball rolling last Monday night at 11:42 victory over the Delta Delta Delta. Tipton and Dulack fished great form for the win, while Bill and Nelson kept the Deltas in the running. In the second game of the evening, Pi Epsilon Pi trounced a hard-fighting Lambda Chi team 13-8. Hitey and Tarrall looked good for the victory, while Clark and Hitter showed up well on the losing combination.

On Thursday night, two exciting contests were played. A fast Kappa Alpha Epsilon very nearly upset the undefeated Pi Epsilon Pi game. However, the Pi Eps came back strong in the extra five minute period to chalk up four points and win 16-12. In winning this game, the Pi Epsilon Pi outfit completed its schedule undefeated. Following this contest, two teams of the Dormitory or Independent division met. The Commodities Club barely managed to squeak out a 10-8 victory over a newly-organized team from Dormitory B. Both clubs showed lack of sufficient practice, but put up a good game.

Last Friday night Sigma Alpha Epsilon capped their shut straight win with a 20-0 decision over the Pi Kappa Alpha Eps. Polack ran wild, scoring fifteen markers for the victory. The S. A. E. club closed to victory in the second half with an entire substitute team to boot. Hence in this respective division. This coming Saturday will feature the fraternity championship tilt to be played between Pi Epsilon Pi and Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

WRITERS SELECT MYTHICAL TEAM

Brewer and Adkins Receive Special Distinction From Associated Press

In recognition for outstanding play during the season the Associated Press announced its selection for this year's all-southern team.

The first team:
Player Position School
Dalyrple End Tulane
Leyendecker Tackle Tulane
Hickman Guard Tennessee
Grady Guard Vanderbilt
Seade Guard Tulane
Saunders Tackle Tennessee
Smith Quarterback Georgia
Downes Quarterback Georgia
Emmerman Halfback Tulane
McIver Halfback Tennessee
Cain Fullback Alabama

The South's two undefeated teams led the men placed on the choice selection. Players from both Tennessee and Tulane being named on the list. An overwhelming vote was cast for the two legends, Dalyrple, of Tulane, and Smith, Georgia, while a dual for center on the mythical team was enacted between Grady, Vanderbilt, and Lott, Georgia, the former winning by a great margin. The other stars met with great favor on the part of the southern writers.

While no North Carolina player made first selection, there were four men who received one or more votes and were thereby given honorable mention. Duke was favored, in that two of her players received this special distinction. Adkins, center, and Brewer, fullback, were the objects of much praise from the Associated Press writers, who mentioned them as outstanding among the South's greatest talent at their respective positions. Brewer being fifth among the leading scorers in the South. Other North Carolina stars who received great praise from the press were Fyall, Center, guard, and Cobb, N. C. State, tackle.

COURTMEN MEET BALTIMORE TEAM IN SEASON OPENER

Northern Trip Includes Games With Baltimore, Georgetown, and Catholic Universities

TEAM PRACTICING DAILY

Candidates Are Fighting Hard For Permanent Positions on Cameron's Team

As the last day of the past grid season fades away, the many followers of sports at Duke focus their attention on basketball, the reigning major sport for the next two months.

The nine weeks of steady practice has finally reached the home stretch, with only four workouts remaining before the Devils depart for their opening game with the University of Baltimore on December 17.

Coach Eddie Cameron has spent more time than usual this year in drilling the squad, made up largely of green material, for the most ambitious schedule ever attempted by a Duke basketball team. Besides engaging in court tilts with three intercollegiate opponents, the Devil cagers play more Conference games than ever before.

These veterans, Carter, Horne, and Shaw, form the nucleus around which the 1931-32 team will be built. Past years' veterans, however, have proven the ability of several other stars who may give the Devils plenty of competition before the starting five is picked. Outstanding prospects have presented themselves in Albert and Burnham, centers; Jim Thompson, Neil Lewis, Guards, and Garber, forwards; and Herb Thompson, Tom Lewis, and Boyd, guards.

SWIMMING TEAM SCHEDULES MEET

Person's Men Will Open Season Against Irving Club of Durham on Saturday

Coach Jack Person's swimming team will open the season at 3:30 o'clock on Saturday when the Duke varsity meets the Irving Swimming Club of Durham in the Duke pool. The Irving aggregation is made up of Y. M. C. A. and Red Cross swimmers of Durham county.

Duke boys have gone through hard practice sessions for the past several weeks in preparation for the contest which promises to afford plenty of opposition for the Blue Devils.

Coach Persons has not yet chosen his starting line but following probable lineups, representatives of Duke 200 yard race, McNally, Everett, O'Connor, Smith, and Norman 800 yard race, O'Connor and Smith, 100 yard free style, Norman, 100 yard breast stroke, Dehn, Seash, Adkins, 100 yard breast stroke, McNally, 100 yard breast stroke, and McLean will be entered in the diving. Five or six other men will see action for the strong Oxford Orphanage crew who they will be.

As an added attraction an exhibition stock truck race may be staged.

Dukolina Captures Thrilling Tilt From Wakidson State

Honorary Fraternities Contribute Services

The Athletic department wishes to express its gratitude to the various honorary organizations of the campus for their wholehearted support in helping to make the Duke football season a success. These organizations helped the department by giving their time and energy to selling programs, acting as ushers and taking up tickets.

Only a meagre crowd answered the call of the game last Saturday, but the four or five thousand spectators who were on hand for the post season season witnessed the end of the most thrilling game of the season, one which went three scoreless quarters before the combined forces of Duke and Carolina were able to break through the defense of State, Davidson, and Wake Forest to score twice and gain a 14-0 win.

Each team made a scoring threat in the second quarter only to be stopped on the one yard line each time. The college team outstruck the University game in the third quarter, but the Duke Triple Alliance resorted to the air 22 times, but were able to connect only three times to gain 60 yards. Three of these either went over the end or into the end zone, one of them resulting in a touchdowns when O'Connell intercepted it.

On the other hand made five out of thirteen attempted punts, but only 24 yards and only had two intercepted. Dukolina and the edge on the Demon Wolfpack in the punting, averaging 32 yards per try as against 27. Each team was penalized 39 yards.

Dukolina fought with their backs to the wall for the last part of the first quarter, Lancy having to punt from behind his goal line once. However an exchange of punts towards the line of the quarter gave them the ball on their 33 yard line. Lancy passed to Chandler for his 33 yard punt. Then McQuage threw a long pass over the top of the goal line. Lancy passed to Chandler for his 33 yard punt. Then McQuage threw a long pass over the top of the goal line. Lancy passed to Chandler for his 33 yard punt. Then McQuage threw a long pass over the top of the goal line.

The close of the season found the "X" and "Y" in a tie for the intercollegiate championship. After playing twice to a deadlock, team "X" won the title on a toss, and by virtue of the toss will represent the University on the field.

McQuage kicked to Cronin to start the second half. Neither team did any threatening until late in the quarter. College got the ball on the University 43 yard line. University was penalized 5 yards and a pass from Dellinger to Brown gained 20 yards to put the ball on the 30 yard line. Another pass was grounded in the end zone to stop the attack. Lancy punting 32 yards per try.

some into Washington State territory. Bradley got 11 yards in two tries to get a first down on College 45 yard line as the third quarter ended. Crawford recovered a fumble on the first play of the fourth quarter. College intercepted a pass and punted back to midfield. Lantry passed to Branch for 13 yards. Stusser got three yards through the line and then caught a pass from Lantry to make another first down. Branch circled left end for 10 yards and the third first down in four plays, putting the ball on the 10 yard line. On the next play Lantry threw a short pass to Stusser who crossed the goal standing up. Branch dropped kicked for the extra point.

Lauster kicked off to Caminsky, who was downed on the 20 yard line. McQuage made first down on two plays, but College was forced to punt and Branch returned to the 35 yard line. On the next play Brewer broke away from a couple of would-be tacklers and ran through the entire opposing team for 45 yards and a touchdown. But this turned out to be a Brewer play again, and the ball was called back, Dukolina getting a fifteen yard penalty for holding. This made the second time in the season that Brewer had been touched down to have three tumbled back for penalties in the line. This penalty put the ball on the 20 yard line. Lauster punted to his 17. Hutchins made nine yards around left end for College, but the next play proved fatal for them. Brown stepped in and intercepted an attempted pass from Duke Wilson to Gresson. He caught it on his 20 yard line and ran 60 yards for a touchdown. Brewer place-kicked for the extra point, making the score 14-0.

Brewer kicked to Wilson, who was brought down on his 35 yard line. A pass and line plunge got a first down for College, but Dukolina got the ball when Washington state failed to gain any more. Croon attempted to pass, but Hutchins intercepted on his 25 yard line. Friedman intercepted a Demos Wolfart pass as the game ended.

Stars were numerous in both the line and backfield, the game being a truly magnificent battle. Of course the players did not play as hard as they might if they had been playing for their respective schools, but they were playing for charity and they certainly did their duty towards helping the unfortunate this coming winter.

Many subjects of general interest will be brought forward for discussion during the five-day assembly. National relations, publication work, student council and intramural activity are to be the chief topics of discussion. These annual conferences have as their purpose the betterment of student government and institutions of learning throughout the United States.

All delegates are to be quartered at the Commodore Perry hotel in Toledo. It is the custom for each school to send as representative the president or president-elect of its student body. In the case of Duke university, separate delegates will be sent as representatives of the east and west campuses.

KINGDON IS HEARD BY DUKE STUDENT BODY LAST WEEK

Friday morning, "The Necessity for Discipline" was the topic discussed by the visiting minister. "We must think of our lives in terms of control," he declared. "Yet when some suggestion of control is made, the intelligent cry 'Tyranny!'" Dr. Kingdon said that unless we have learned to practice control in our lives we are doomed to a destiny of confusion and despair. Mastery of self is the prerogative of mastery of other people and problems.

"Christianity and Some of Our Social Interests" was the topic on which the New Jersey minister spoke Friday evening. He brought out the fact that control of industry in the hands of a few was one of the chief causes of the graft and crime, and social evils so troublesome to the world today. In this new world Christianity must take a new place. Christianity must be a big part in the solution of racial, social and family problems that are facing the world today.

During the chapel period Saturday, Dr. Kingdon spoke on the actions of an individual with regard to the self-protection motivating those actions. The value of action depends on the self-protection that urged the individual to act. He emphasized the importance of the emotional side of life, but stated that the ideal personality was the one which found the intellectual with the emotional.

A meeting for the purpose of organizing a co-ed French club was held in the banquet hall of Union, Thursday night, December 3. A representative group of women students were present. The following officers were elected: President, Martha Physique, Stamford, Conn.; Vice-President, Rosalie DaBoko, Stamford, Conn.; Secretary, Jose Kitter, Collegeville, N. J.; Treasurer, Dorothy Weyl, Washington, D. C.

Plans for future activities were discussed, and though no definite action has been taken, it is probable that various members of the faculty of the French department will be invited to address the club in the near future.

At the second regular meeting of the women's debating group, held in the banquet hall of Union Thursday night, December 3, informal and extemporaneous debates were presented by the members. Dean Alice M. Baldwin acted as chairman of the discussion.

The jury system, participation of women in intercollegiate athletics, and the length of the university's vacation period were among the subjects debated. It was also suggested that books on debating would be placed in the library shortly for the convenience of members of the club.

TULANE FINISHES SEASON WITH WIN FOR FINE RECORD

first eleven, Don Zimmerman, Tulane, and Gene McVey, Tennessee, were placed in the second backfield, and Herman Hickey, Tennessee, landed a guard berth on the third eleven. It may be recalled that the conference also finished both All-American ends in 1931, when Shiver and Nash, the glorious combination from the University of Georgia, were elected unanimously.

Conference leaders were very successful in their intercollegiate battles during the season, and no doubt rubbed many outside cards of chagrin for a little. Georgia carved a big name for itself in intercollegiate life by defeating Yale for the third consecutive season, and also gaining a 54 triumph over N. Y. U. Tulane's and Tennessee's only sectional frays were last Saturday, having already been mentioned, Virginia and Washington. The game went inside the "Big Three" to take up Harvard and Princeton, respectively. Virginia dropped her game to Harvard by a 19-0 score, but the Generals of V. and L. brought glory to her name by downing the Princeton Tiger. Duke won its only intercollegiate tilt over Villanova, 16-0. Auburn tossed out Ohio State in the final period 14-0, while Florida dropped one to the Gators, 13-0. It is interesting to note in the administrative files which conference teams had on hand during the regular season.

Camels are KEPT Fresh!

You probably know that heat is used in the treatment of all cigarette tobaccos.

But you know too that excessive heat can destroy freshness and fragrance.

That's why there could be no truly fresh cigarette except for scientifically developed methods of applying heat.

Reynolds is proud of having discovered and perfected methods for getting the benefits of heat treatments and still avoiding ever parching or toasting.

With every assurance we tell you, Camels are truly fresh. They're made fresh—not parched or toasted—and then they're kept fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack.

If you wish to know why the swing to Camels is nationwide and steadily growing—switch to them for just one day—then leave them, if you can.
