PURLOINED PARAGRAPHS

At a wedding last week the bride carried a handkerchief that had been in her family since 1608. We should like to know the name of her family. —The Homestead (London)

Still another revolt is threatened in China, it seems. These countries are adopting anti-Buddhist methods if they don't like the looks of a revolution. They should try it again. —Franklin

Even nature makes a mistake once in a while. If not, then the whole fish wouldn't be buying permanent rain and the colored ones still remain. —Cleveland (Fla.) Press

The New York police are investigating a group of nudists, but we don't see how they are ever going to do anything on them. —Boston Herald

PARAGRAPHS

Dances again have the floor of Duke activities. Every college organization, moreover, is planning for a big one.

In spite of our heartrending attempts to appear respectable, students continue to mistake the Chronicle office for those of the Chandler and Archives.

Mr. Barnes has again announced his concert series for the coming season. Lucky man—no student attends his performances. —Chronicler

The editor was deeply offended yesterday when some enthusiastic youth suggested that the Chronicle print something about school spirit manifested by Duke students at football games. We merely told him though that we were thinking about that.

Those privileged to attend 12-10 classes in Gray building lately have been bestowed the further privilege of having their lectures accompanied by peals of the chapel organ. Just how much of a help the sweet sounds are towards concentration we do not know, but of course make heads once and for all.

We are seriously considering conducting the regular meetings of the CHRONICLE staff in Dr. McDougall's introductory class in psychology. Among the two hundred students, the newspaper staff seems to be present to the last man.

Those privileged to attend 12-10 classes in Gray building lately have been bestowed the further privilege of having their lectures accompanied by peals of the chapel organ. Just how much of a help the sweet sounds are towards concentration we do not know, but of course make heads once and for all.

IN GENERAL

The editorial for this issue was written in defense according to information received by the editor, was to be unconditionally dropped from Duke's playing schedule this season. Since that time it has been learned that wrestling is not as yet off the list of varsity sports, but its continuance like that of swimming will depend on the financial success of the football season. Further information has been received that all varsity sports contrary to all other departments of the university, are to be budgeted but are not to be cut.

From time to time small items expressing student grievances or suggestions are noted to the editor or in the Open Forum column of the Chronicle. While in the past, due to the nervousness of the job to the still idealistic editor, these matters have not seemed of sufficient importance to merit a complete editorial, yet many of them are far from trivial.

From the sad state of the West campus walks on a rainy day. We recall seeing from some university bulletin a mention of the beautiful flagstone walks gracing the new campus, but we are inclined to doubt the fact that the writer ever observed this beauty first hand. In dry weather the flagstones are quite as serviceable as concrete paths, especially since in some cases the students may play a little game by jumping from one to the other, but in wet weather, the walks are intolerable. In some places the larger stones have sunk two or three inches into the ground, thus forming no small puddles of water. Obviously the casual walker will find to find beauty in such spots. At present all the walks seem to be sinking as the earth under them settles. It would thus appear foolish to attempt to reset the stones at the present time, but if a layer of cement were laid on top of the stones, serviceable walks could be had with no particular damage done, we feel, to the beauty of the campus.

Items of the briefs of the football games. On reviewing the briefs of this year's CHRONICLE we note that one issue of the paper was practically filled with vigorous denunciations of the lack of interest displayed by Duke students in the activities of the football team. Since that time a far better spirit has been manifested, and other than a commendation of this new attitude, we find no further criticism to make, though the West campus when lit the night.

EAST CAMPUS WEST

EVER, THE TWIN SHALL MEET.

Dances—such dances! I hope I remember from the two last week in time to take for the strut of the Greek gods. Alas! I have just seen the array of "Zeus and His Chorus of 1932-33" on one campus! At most places the tickets are too high—since everyone on the campus is honestly being attended to the Student Government. Snapping Affair, I don't dwell long upon it. Two freshmen were heard on the way to class Friday evening of the girls they were the previous evening. An argument broke out as to which had met the most girls. A gave up when B announced that he met fifty-two girls. I wonder if he could name five of them.

Did you notice that many couples suggest on the balcony long ago in the dormitory at the Snoppey was over? Some were old couples; some were new, getting off to a good start—May cupid have mercy upon their hearts.

Who called the dance Saturday night? "Sue Thence." If you pay attention to the fact that the sophomore were almost outnumbered by juniors, seniors, grads, alumni and visitors, why, I even got in—such a chance! (Accent upon, please.)

I understand that some members of the class of '35 who were not freshmen last year have sworn not to cooperate with the illustrious (?) leaders of the class in as much as the announcement said they would be given a chance to secure tickets, only after all the freshmen had been given the refusal of same.

The next jury instructor seems a certain sort of anecdote—it seems as if a freshman (whose IQ evidently is close to 140) here he would have parodied the sentence, "May man into the garden muck." The innocent (?) had replied, "I'll have made a dash after Mary."

I felt slighted last week when my roommate was invited to the private showing of a movie in a house on Kille Court and no mention was made of me. I was invited to the chapter that guaranteed—also that no one complained after the show.

Town Girls Club Meets

The first full meeting of the Town Girls club of Duke university was held Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 10, at 4:30 o'clock, in the Ark. It took the form of an informal social hour or get-together. All women students residing in Durham were asked to attend.

Men's Association

Sponsors Dance
On Thursday evening, Oct. 20, the men's association sponsored a dance in the Women's college gymnasium, the first event in the series of homecoming entertainments. The gymnasium was appropriately festooned with Duke and Maryland banners and pennants.
The musical scores for the evening were furnished by "Jelly Letwisch's University Club Orchestra," and "Henry Ingle's Duke Collegians."

There was one no-break dance for the members of the student council.

Graduate English Club Holds Meeting

The Graduate English club held its first meeting of the year Wednesday evening, Oct. 12, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Allen Gilbert. Mrs. Gilbert addressed the club, speaking on the relationship between philosophy and literature.

The club intends to meet once monthly throughout the year. Officers of the organization are: W. S. Hoole, president; Ray McDavid, treasurer; Ida Heron, secretary.

JUNIORS SOLICIT BIG ORCHESTRAS FOR FIRST DANCE

Three Social Events Planned at Latest Meeting of Junior Class

DUES NOT COMPULSORY

Plan to Secure Gymnasium for Ball; New Hours for Sunday Services Approved

The social committee of the Junior class will attempt to secure Guy Lombardo, Royal Canadian, Ted Wexel and his band or some other nationally famous dance orchestra for one of the three Junior functions to be held this year. It was announced at the class meeting last Monday.

The Junior plan a program of three social events: an open formal, with tickets in the neighborhood of three dollars; a closed dance with one of the local collegiate aggregations furnishing the music; and a formal dinner dance, for Juniors, to be held later in the year. As no big band has ever

Visitors on Campus

Among the visitors on the East campus over the week-end were Misses Edith Parker, Wilma Long, Martha Plante, and Sothe, Sothe, Whitehead, Edith Leach, Bertha Estler, Lynda Banks, Margaret McCoy, and Mrs. H. B. Robey, president of the Duke alumni association.

Ma Lambda

Entertains Guests
Ma Lambda society entertained a number of guests over the week-end. On Saturday, Oct. 15, the officers of the society entertained the guests at luncheon.

From 5 to 6 o'clock, on Saturday afternoon, the parlors of Pagan House furnished the setting for a lovely tea, in honor of Miss Mary Hornaday, president of Phi Beta Kappa, and Miss Jane Brannan, representative from the Randolph-Macon college chapter; and Miss Sara, Mrs. F. J. R. of the University of North Carolina chapter.

The receiving line was composed of Ann Alice Baldwin, Polly, and Miss Hornaday, Ruth Fendley, Miss Brannan, Miss Parker, and Margie Voigt.

Out-of-town guests were: Mrs. Lawrence and Mrs. Caldwell of Chapel Hill, Mrs. Sipple of Baltimore, Md., Mrs. Hoberg, Miss Margaret McCoy, and Mrs. Allen McLean.

About one hundred guests were entertained. Mrs. Ernest Anderson presided at the tea table, and various members of the society assisted in serving. At 6:30, the homey guests of Ma Lambda were entertained at dinner in the fountain room of the Washington played at a Duke function here, it is hoped that the gymnasium may be secured for the concert, and the matter of late permission for the cords be satisfactorily arranged. The dance will be held in about a month as the best weather, but not too heavily booked at that time.

Means of collecting cash dues were discussed and it was decided to make the matter wholly voluntary. The class voted to approve the new hours for the social services. The Junior class All Juniors were urged to have pictures made to put in the Chancellor, before the photographer leaves on Sunday.

The question of having outstanding men in the faculty and administration speak on various subjects of interest was postponed until the next meeting.

COLUMBIANS HOLD SMOKER TUESDAY

24 Members Elected to Columbia Literary Society; Historical Records Reviewed

The Columbia Literary society held a smoker in the reception room of the Union, Tuesday evening, October 17. At this meeting 23 men were elected to membership, and Dr. George Gregory, of the English department, was made an honorary member.

Prof. Charles E. Jordan discussed the decline of the popularity of literary societies, and of the subsequent reliance taken in them in recent years. The literary societies add their members by teaching them how to express themselves confidently, and this proves of great value in after life.

Nelson Blake read several excerpts from the minutes of the Columbia Literary club of the years 1854 to 1857. In 1854 the society debated that it was unlawful for any state to secede from the Union. In the same year it was debated whether slavery was profitable to the nation. A negative verdict was rendered by the society. They also discussed whether the prohibition of the sale of liquor was consistent with the spirit of a free Republic, and decided by a large majority that it was. In 1856 Webster was voted to be a greater man than Calhoun, and in 1857 a debating team proved that young ladies and gentlemen should not be at college together. During the same year it was decided unanimously that the Northern poor were in a worse condition than the Southern slaves.

VOLUME BY RIPPY
JUST COMPLETED
Text Book on Latin-American History Acknowledged as Authoritative

Historians in institutions throughout the country have enthusiastically greeted a new volume written by Dr. Fred Rippy, of the Duke history department, entitled "The Historical Evolution of Hispanic America."

The new book is a text of 35 chapters and nearly 600 pages constituting a survey of the history of the vast region of the New World which lies south of the United States. Many university historians have examined advance copies and made known their intention to adopt the book in their courses. It has been pronounced the best text in its field yet published.

Dr. Rippy is the author of a number of other volumes dealing with Latin-American history and foreign relations, and has been associate managing editor of the Hispanic-American Historical Review since 1926, the year he joined the Duke faculty. Before coming to Duke he taught at the University of California and the University of Chicago.

The Duke professor has travelled widely in South America and Mexico. In 1927 he received a Guggenheim fellowship and the following year was similarly recognized with a Carnegie fellowship. In 1928 Dr. Rippy delivered the Albert Shaw lecture in American diplomacy at John Hopkins.

Nelson Blake read several excerpts from the minutes of the Columbia Literary club of the years 1854 to 1857. In 1854 the society debated that it was unlawful for any state to secede from the Union. In the same year it was debated whether slavery was profitable to the nation. A negative verdict was rendered by the society. They also discussed whether the prohibition of the sale of liquor was consistent with the spirit of a free Republic, and decided by a large majority that it was. In 1856 Webster was voted to be a greater man than Calhoun, and in 1857 a debating team proved that young ladies and gentlemen should not be at college together. During the same year it was decided unanimously that the Northern poor were in a worse condition than the Southern slaves.

DUKE G. O. P. UNIT ASKED TO CONFER WITH STATE CLUB

Charles "Chuck" Winslow May Be Offered Durham County Chairmanship

OPPORTUNITY FOR STUDENTS TO PLAN BY PRACTICAL USE OF TEXTBOOK POLITICS

The Duke republican club has been asked to join the "Young Republicans of North Carolina," the North Carolina agency of the G. O. P. for young people. It is rumored that Charles "Chuck" Winslow, the organizer of the Duke unit, may be offered the Durham county chairmanship of the Young Republicans.

The next regular meeting of the Republican club will be at seven-thirty Thursday evening, room 62, Page building. Plans will be made for the coming rally and a program outlined to take the initiative away from the large and active Chapel Hill club.

Mr. Winslow, as chairman of the Duke group expressed the hope that the students would take interest in the organization and said, "to take part in such a movement as this is to gain a true insight into our political parties which is so interwoven with our consciousness to profit by practical use of text book policies; and to realize more fully the problems which face us today."

The Young Republicans is a group of young people, sponsored by the State Executive committee, whose aim is, "to educate youth in the doctrines of Republicanism and to inculcate in them a true appreciation of the great party of which they are an integral part; to develop in them leadership and a sense of personal responsibility for the burden of government which they are ultimately to assume; to afford them an opportunity for practical political work in their respective counties and precincts and to place their full part in the national campaign and elections."

ALUMNI PLAN TO ERECT MEMORIAL
Classes of 1894 to 1910 Organize to Build Monument to Kilgo

The alumni of Duke university who attended school during the administration of President John C. Kilgo, from 1894 to 1910 have started a movement to erect a memorial to his memory.

The John C. Kilgo Memorial foundation has been started and Charles R. Warren, of Chatham, Va., was named permanent chairman of the body. The organization of the group was one of the main features of the Homecoming day celebration.

No definite plans have been announced by the officers of the group who were elected, who are: D. W. Newsum, of Durham, and E. S. Bowling, of New York, vice-presidents; Henry R. Dwire, Durham, secretary; C. B. Markham, Durham, treasurer. It has advisory council consisting of delegates from the sixteen classes graduated during the Kilgo administration was appointed.

A committee of seven, consisting of the president and vice-presidents of the foundation and five others, was organized to receive and make suggestions as to the form of the memorial which will be the second that has been made most desirable. The proposed memorial in Kilgo's honor, the first being the Kilgo dormitory on the West campus that was opened more than two years ago.

Concert Given
Miss Peggy Strowd, a pupil of the Durham school of music and a Junior at Duke, was the guest soloist in the third of a series of Friday morning musicals held during the chapel period on the East campus on October 14th. Mrs. Strowd, who was introduced by Mrs. J. Foster Barnes, director of music in the Women's college, entertained with a group of piano solos including a Sonata by Beethoven, Tales by Vivaldi, and Concert Etude by MacDowell.

In accordance with a vote taken among the freshmen of the East campus last spring, Mrs. Barnes has arranged for the continuance of these musicals, the most popular type of chapel program, each Friday morning.

Peppy Rally Held Friday Before Maryland Game

Enthusiastic Crowd Follows Band Up-town to Let Frosh Give Stage Show For Carolina Theatre Patrons; Pep Meet at East Campus Later

Encouraged by the shouts of instilling cheerleaders, by the submergence and hideous reberations of musical instruments, and by the shrieking sounds of motorized stunts, the students of the West campus of Duke university became enthusiastic over the impending rally and the subsequent football game and turned out last Friday night in surprising numbers to contribute to what later turned out to be the most imposing demonstration ever staged by members of the university community.

Automobiles were available for the members of the university band, and those which were not filled by the musicians were readily made resounding by students who, otherwise, would have had to make the trip on foot. In addition to those who were fortunate enough to obtain a ride, several hundred faculty were forced to resort to what facilities they were endowed with and consequently occupied the sidewalk between the campuses.

After a slow and monotonous trek across the familiar land which lies between the two schools, the wheezy party finally reached that part of the university which is officially occupied by the women. On the Women's campus the celebrating group was joined by a number of women, who were equally as enthusiastic as the men. Evidently some of the Durhamites joined the parade during the last lap for some respectable-looking automobiles were seen participating in the file.

The sounds emitted by the horns of at least one hundred automobiles, numerous Halloween horns, several clarinets, and continuous noises discharged from the exhaust-pipes of the cars, drew hundreds of curious persons from their pursuits. The spectators gazed wide-eyed and amazed at the passing procession as if it were a curious parade.

After a spectacular presentation of the freshmen to the patrons of the Carolina theatre, the entire party returned to the East campus where a pep meeting was staged the like of which had never been heard before by people familiar with the happenings on the university premises. The yelling was as vociferous that it was veritably deafening. The spirit of the non-participants in the impending game was almost perfect, and as probably already known, the spirit of the players on Saturday was also commendable, and Duke piled up a score of thirty-four points, while the opponents, at the end of the game, had the same score with which they had started.

Knight, secretary; Henry Wynn, treasurer; Deane Mathison, librarian; Professor W. W. Hankin, chairman of the program committee.

Pi Mu Epsilon is an academic fraternity in institutions of university grade. The purpose of the fraternity is to foster general scholarship among its members with emphasis on mathematics, to promote the advancement of the science of mathematics, and to encourage the mutual and personal advancement of its members.

The program arranged for the first meeting of the Duke chapter includes a pep rally by Miss Cannon, Japanesque, and a talk by Dr. W. W. Elliot, head of the mathematics department, on Gallies of Geometry. All present or former college students are invited to the meeting.

GOVERNOR OF VA. INVITES RUSSELL FOR CELEBRATION

Dean of School of Religion Represents Friends Denomination at Celebration

13 GOVERNORS ATTEND
Celebration Held in Boyhood Home of George Washington; Commemorated His Religious Life

Dean Elbert Russell of the Duke school of religion was invited by Governor John Garland Pollard of Virginia to represent the Friends denomination in a celebration held at Frederickburg, Va., on Sunday, October 15, participated in by dignitaries of the leading faiths in America.

The celebration was held to commemorate the religious life of George Washington, religious freedom, and the separation of Church and State. In the morning in the churches of Frederickburg separate religious ceremonies were being led by the leaders of the respective denominations, with exchanges of pulpit being made among many.

In the afternoon the principal celebration was of a civic nature presided over by Governor Pollard, and Duke played a ceremony that the invitation to Dean Russell applied. In addition to the leaders of the various faiths, the governors of the 13 original states, and many men of distinguished religious, social, and civic circles in America attended.

The address of the afternoon was made by Dr. Francis Peniston Calves, president of Washington and Lee university, who spoke on, "The Religious Character of George Washington."

Frederickburg is the boyhood home town of George Washington, and it was there that Washington's mother lived, died, and was buried. The Sunday assembly was held under the auspices of the Virginia George Washington bi-centennial commission.

HOSPITAL HEARS CLINIC BY HOPKINS PHYSICIAN

The Duke hospital was host to Dr. William Sydney Thayer, prominent physician and professor emeritus of medicine at Johns Hopkins university when he conducted a clinic last Saturday morning in the amphitheatre.

Dr. Thayer, who is the author of several renowned medical studies, has held many positions of worldwide importance in medicine as well as other scientific organizations. He was brigadier-general in the American Expeditionary Forces during the war, and was chief consultant in the medical services. Among many awards that he received is that of commander in the Legion of Honor which he received from France.

Partly due to his participation in the commencement exercises here last June, he is well known in Durham. The prominent physician was the principal speaker at the play planning exercises of the first graduating class of the Duke Medical school.

BAR ASSOCIATION OPENS TOMORROW

William R. Perkins Will Deliver Feature Address at First Meeting

At the opening meeting of the new season of the Duke bar association tomorrow evening, William R. Perkins, of New York, vice-chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Duke endowment, will deliver the feature address. The speech will be given at 7:30 in the ball room of the West campus Union building. The subject for the address will be "The Lawyer-Citizen."

Mr. Perkins is a leading member of the New York bar holding membership in the bar association there as well as in the national organization. The president of the Duke university Bar association, William G. McGuire, of Franklin, is to preside over the season. Dean Justin Miller will give an address of welcome, which will be responded to by J. Paul Cioe, of the senior law class. In addition to members of the college community, invitations have been extended to many out-of-town visitors including all members of the Board of Trustees.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS TO HOLD MEET IN DURHAM

A joint meeting of the Young Democrats of Duke university and the Durham county Democrats will be held at 8:15 Friday evening at the Durham county court house. The Honorable Clyde Hays, of Shelby, will give the address.

The campus democratic club was organized some time ago in order to educate students along governmental lines and is known as many democratic votes in the November election as possible. Before November 4, it is expected that J. Taylor, national president of the Young Democrats organization will address the Duke representation.

The Duke chess club will meet at seven o'clock tomorrow evening in the music room of the West campus Union. Continuing the program carried out last year, the organization is again sponsoring several tournaments and intercollegiate matches. With outside competition, the Duke team last year was particularly successful. The University of North Carolina team was put down in short order, 16-2, while the strong chess club of Roanoke was tied 9-9.

Mr. Paul J. Miller, national president of Chi Rho Sigma, chess fraternity, will give a series of lectures on the history of chess and the various plays. Mr. Miller, who is taking graduate work at Carolina at present attended sessions at Duke last year.

Committee Appointed

John Miller was appointed chairman of the social committee of the senior class to serve with Claude Cresshaw, Arthur Brasley, Joe Gallia, Bill Gertelmann, Don Kuykendall, Alex McLean, and Bob Vaughan.

The tobacco that is cut best for pipes might be termed "whittle cut" or "rough cut," like Granger. It requires a type of tobacco different from the tobacco used for chewing tobacco or cigarettes. Then again, Granger is made by Wellman's Method.

Granger has a pleasing aroma. It is slow burning and cool. Just try it!

New Head Of Giles House Gives Account Of Travels

Mrs. Grover Taylor Relates Experiences Encountered During Trip Around the World; Found Near East and Orient Most Interesting Spots

Interesting tales of travelling through China in boccards, and stories which twenty-five courses are offered to the guests, are among the details which Mrs. Grover Taylor, new head of Giles House, has to tell. A native of Mobile, Alabama, Mrs. Taylor has travelled extensively. Her last trip was a tour around the world, which took a year.

The Near East and the Orient were the parts of the world which Mrs. Taylor found most interesting. While in Jerusalem she had the privilege of taking a tour around the country which the average tourist does not make. Dr. Hart, who founded Y. M. C. A. work there, entertained her while she was in Palestine. Mrs. Taylor took a long trip through the cutting lanes, Thales, and other places of interest.

Since there are few passenger trains in China, Mrs. Taylor had the unique experience of riding from one town to another in boccards, in company with numbers of curious natives and Chinese. The Americans to take their pleasure. Although the natives were curious about the travelers and their possessions, they did not ask questions. For Mrs. Taylor pointed out, the chief characteristic of the Chinese is the ability they have to mind their own business. "They are interested only in their immediate family and in their clan. They often do not mind their own business," she said. "They are interested only in their immediate family and in their clan. They often do not mind their own business," she said.

While she was in China, Mrs. Taylor made a special trip to see the Great Wall. Out of every one hundred persons of different nationalities who visit China, only twelve go to see the Great Wall.

In Hangchow Mrs. Taylor was the guest of a Chinese doctor and his wife. At a dinner which they gave in her honor, twenty-five courses were served, including shark's fin, sea bream, bird's nest eggs and other questionable delicacies.

OLD RIVALRY TO FEATURE GAME

All are set for Mason, Laney, and Cox. With seven men passing the ball, the Wademen will take to the air if they fall to score by the other route. Wake Forest places a great deal of confidence in their center, Owens, their guards, Demagis and Hood, and their tackles, Palkewich and Chetty. The flanks are taken over by Captain Green and Hardie, who will be out to stop Laney on his end runs. Blue Devil supporters think that Bob Cox still will lead the state scorers after this game, but there is considerable difference of opinion at Wake Forest.

Duke's first string line will start the game. Crawford is by far the outstanding man in the line and will hold down most tackle position, supported by Porreca on the other side. Andrews and Shock will be in at guard while E. B. Douglas has apparently climbed his post at center. On the flanks we may expect several different combinations to be used. James, Rossiter, Wozniak, and Rogers are all excellent workmen and at present are being called back to do some of the passing and kicking. It is expected that Captain Mason, Laney, Cox, and Eshler will again start the game.

This game will decide whether Duke will retain her lead in the state title race which she now holds with one victory and no defeats. There are no other games which effect this standing on this week-end.

BOXING PRACTICE TO BEGIN MONDAY

Next Monday all varsity and freshmen boxing candidates will report for the regular fall practice. Coach Warden will give all prospective fighters a lecture on the science of boxing at 4:00 in the gymnasium and all men are requested to be present at that time. No previous experience is necessary and there are several openings for good men.

Mrs. Taylor mentioned that she had a greater number of Europeans are travelling every year in the Orient. On a steamship she saw a Japanese ship, the Shanghai there were twelve first class passengers. These represented seven Japanese and the other two were Americans. She said that these people could converse with each other. Even in the dining room she said the Japanese waiters were forced to carry out orders given in many languages, the diners pointing to the dishes they wanted.

Production at various American and British clubs made the trip more pleasant for Mrs. Taylor, she said, but that the way to see the foreign country is by mingling with the people, not by stopping at the best hotels and seeing the usual places of interest.

POLITICAL RALLY WILL BE STAGED

Polity Club to Sponsor Meeting at Which Speakers Will Present Presidential Platforms

On the first Thursday in November before the national presidential election, which will be two weeks from next Thursday, there is to be a political rally in Page auditorium. This meeting is being sponsored by the Polity Club, the international relations group in an effort to stimulate interest in national affairs among the students.

The Democratic, Republican, and Socialist organizations on the campus will have student speakers, who will present the platforms of their respective candidates. Each party will be allowed twenty minutes in which to present the qualities of their favorites.

Quite a bit of interest was aroused last spring when the political science classes sponsored a Democratic National Convention. A president and vice-president were nominated after a series of speeches and balloting.

Judging from the enthusiasm shown last year and the continued showing this year of the organization of parties, a large crowd will turn out for the rally.

both mental and physical symptoms which are interesting and of equal importance for the patient's welfare. The doctor next gave concrete examples of the harm which uncontrolled psychopathic tendencies have been known to wreak in the life of a patient.

"Many a case of typhoid," he concluded, "had probably most cases of tuberculosis suffer more from fear, anxiety, worry over the future than from their physical symptoms. One ought always to look for and to relieve as far as possible, the psychic strains as a necessary part of treatment."

Crawford Recovers Fumble

Freddie Crawford started the Duke boys toward their fifth touchdown by recovering Busche's fumble on the Old Line's 30 yard line. Abbott pass to James was good for 25, and Manning finally took the ball over. Abbott missed the only place-kick of the afternoon.

On exchange of punts, a few ineffectual passes, and the game was over. Final score: Duke 34, Maryland, 0.

North Carolina football fans again get a chance to see two good games this week-end. On Friday we will meet the Wake Forest Deacons here and Saturday Carolina plays Georgia Tech at Chapel Hill.

Just a thought while passing. We wonder if the game this Friday will be the last time the Wake Forest football game looks more like a fight than anything else; perhaps the new rules will cut out some of this but we will be watching just the same.

FOUR TEAMS IN S. L. C. CONTEST

batted 34 to 9, North Carolina and Georgia had 24 to 6 to 6. Carolina averaged a six point lead in the last session of the game. The game was played at Mississippi State 24 to 6.

Friday the Duke Blue Devils will attempt to hold their lead in the Big Five by meeting the fighting Deacons of Wake Forest. Wake Forest has an unusually strong team this season with a victory over South Carolina and scores of 24 to 6. This will be the only game that will affect the Big Five standing.

Conference games scheduled for Saturday are as follows: North Carolina vs. Georgia Tech at Chapel Hill, N. C. State vs. Florida, Alabama vs. Mississippi, Auburn vs. Tulane, Georgia vs. Vanderbilt, Kentucky vs. V. P. L. Tennessee vs. Maryland, and Virginia vs. V. M. I.

After five, Captain Lewis, who has been handicapped with a sore ankle, was unable to run this week but will be in shape for the first trials next Friday. It was also announced that Garis and Byrd, who have been indefinitely out because of weak hearts, will be able to maintain training.

Reports from Davidson are that the Wildcats are producing a strong team this season, and are out for revenge for the licking which the Blue Devils runners gave them last year. The meet last fall was a 24-28 victory for Duke, which indicates the dominance of the staff, and the Wildcats have several lettermen back on their squad this year.

Five meets are on the schedule, and it is the first time in the history of the school that all the meets will be run on consecutive week-ends. With these successive runs the squad has a rough course ahead of them, as each meet will be a five mile jaunt. After meeting the Davidson barriers here they will face St. Johns of Annapolis, Carolina, Southern Conference meet at Chapel Hill, and then the team winds up the season with a trip to Annapolis to meet the Navy barbers.

INTRAMURAL INDICATIONS

pens to be off in a strange interlude, just speak up to Mr. Gerrard.

It's a long lane that has no parking space at the end of it, but here is where we turn off the previous subject. We are looking for suggestions on how to run intramural athletics on this campus. Furthermore, we are looking for new and interesting sports which we may sponsor. Are any of you staid intercollegiate in a ping-pong tournament sometime soon? Let us know and we'll see what we can do for you. Write to us at least.

Our other fans are doing us dirty by not writing, so why don't you smart money men come through for ye columnist? Shall we run off a fall track meet, but with such fellows as King Henry the First Palmer, who scored the highest number of points last year, being from competition? Shall we arrange for you to down each other in a swimming meet, and how soon? So let's have it, folks, because we are just bubbling over with surplus energy to run athletic meets. Ho hum!

Lastly, but not leastly, just what do you want? You probably won't get it anyhow, but we are just checking up to see if you are reading this piece.

Our spies report that the fair ladies from the East might be interested in a novelty relay carnival. If they are like the one we dated the other night, perchance a losing tournament would be more appropriate. We are thinking! Last year, we offered them cups and medals to come over here to do their stuff, but they thought that we were pulling a gag. After the war was over, and they saw the cups we had for them, were they feeling inadequate? That paroled them to pay attention to the guy what knows.

And so to bed! We could write more and we did last week, but ye editor cut it out. But you just wait with his fraternity with something in this intramural competition. Will we tell you about it and praise them? Aw, how'd you guess it—we will. After all a man must keep his job. Yes, Mr. Editor.

"Nature in the Raw" is seldom MILD

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies ... the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Luckies as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, whenever overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so proper fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.
