Y. M. C. A. OPEN HOUSES BEGIN NEXT THURSDAY

The Y. M. C. A. has announced that Thursday night, November 3, it will hold its first open house of this year. Judging by their popularity with the student body during the past year, these open houses should be very well received. They will be held on every Thursday night, between the hours of seven and eight, in the Union hall. The Blue Devils will furnish the music for dancing. Although there will be no charge for admission tickets, the number will be limited. Stag and escort tickets will be given out by Russell Herbert, chairman of the social committee, in the "W" office each Wednesday and Thursday afternoon from three until six.

SOPHS PLAN FOR MANY CONTESTS WITH FRESHMEN

Present Second-Year Men Are Title Holders in Inter-Class Track

FINANCE STANDING LOW

Group Is Already Holding Discussions For Second Dance of Year

With an announcement by William Burke about participation in inter-class sports as the first item on the program, the sophomore class held its meeting during the chapel period last Monday in Page auditorium. The sophomores won the inter-class track meet last year, and if they win it this year, will set for future classes a record hard to beat.

Dr. W. H. Wannamaker gave a brief talk before the meeting began. He said that pictures for the Chronicle would be taken during the week, and reminded the class that all cars must be registered.

After the meeting had been called to order and the minutes of the last meeting read, the floor was given to William Burke for his announcement concerning inter-class sports. He said that, this year, keys will be given to the first three men in each event, and that at the meet which is to be held soon, the class should repeat its victory of last year.

William Bird, the class president, expressed his hopes that there might be established between the sophomore and freshman classes a series of contests which would promote a lasting feeling of friendly competition between the members of the two classes. This met with the approval of the class.

James Gill gave the treasurer's report which showed clearly that the financial standing of the class was low. The

CELESTINE SMITH HEARD BY INTERRACIAL COUNCIL

On Sunday, October 22, Miss Celestine Smith, national Y. W. C. A. secretary visiting negro colleges in the South, was the guest of the interracial committee of the Duke Y.W.C.A. The chairman of the Duke group is Janet Giffins. Mrs. Haas Smith is adviser to the committee.

At that time Miss Elsie Jones, chairman of the interracial committee at North Carolina college for Negroes was present. The two groups plan to meet for discussions during the year.

Next week-end there is a religion seminar being conducted at Greensboro by the national Y.W.C.A. Another conference will be held at Atlanta at the same time. Faculty members and students will attend the two meetings. Duke will be represented at Greensboro by Mrs. Haas Smith, Mrs. Greer Taylor, Rosabelle Cahn, and Elizabeth Jerome.

president asked for a show of hands of those who intended to pay their dues; the showing was practically unanimous.

A motion was made and carried that the dues be collected during the first week in November. Then, a suggestion was made by Carl Huff that tickets to the next dance be issued at the same time the members pay their dues. This caused some discussion, but it was put into the form of a motion, and the motion carried.

At this time, the president stated that the class intended to settle shortly the question of class dues, which sophomore classes of other years have wrangled over for most of the first semester.

Just before adjournment, a meeting of the social committee was announced for Wednesday, Oct. 26, in the Union lobby. The members of the social committee are: F. Hagur, E. Andrews, C. Carroll, H. Prindle, J. Schifferley, and T. Tyler.

Gymnasium To Be In All Its Glory At Co-Ed Ball

Duke Women Likewise Are in Fine Spirits Over Annual Dance Set For Tomorrow Night; Will Be First Formal in Gym

The Woman's college gymnasium used to nothing more exciting than lackadaisical tap dances performed to "Down in the Corral" sounded out hour by hour, will at last have its day. Or rather, its evening. And so, incidentally, will the co-ed.

For weeks now black and white advertisements have adorned the dope shop and have usurped the place of student government notices on the bulletin boards of the house offices. For the Co-ed Ball, one of the season's foremost social events, is about to take place.

Tomorrow night two hundred co-eds and their escorts will dance to the music of Jelly's orchestra from above to it. It is estimated that the stag line, when not reaching for punches, will reach from here to—well, there, anyway. (At this point the Chronicle statistics break down completely.)

In accordance with the trend to modernism, the gym is to be decorated in black and white. (Didn't we just read in Vogue that black and white balls are features of the season at all the stylish clubs?) The decoration committee has been working for weeks planning for the ball. There will be a ceiling arrayed of black and white streamers. A canopy of black streamers from the center, while there will be a rim of white streamers around the balcony, from which will hang black balloons.

And, mind you, they will be hung high, out of reach for even the tallest. But cheer up, they tell us there'll be a balloon shower sometime during the evening. Right chandeliers, clusters of black and white balloons, will carry out the color scheme. Behind Jelly's orchestra there will be an enormous silhouette of a dancing couple. In order that entertainment be not lacking, the committee has prepared an intricate game in which they are going to—well, we haven't the heart to tell it's a committee secret. But we can tell you that the committee members are wearing black and white.

There will be three no-break dances during the evening for the benefit of escorts and stags who have spent the entire evening in mad pursuit of the girl in red, in blue, or in white.

As the plans for the co-ed ball appear now, it will be highly successful. It marks the debut of the co-eds of '38, and it should go down in their memory books as "that swell black and white ball." We predict that eight hundred people will be sorry when "Home Sweet Home" is played tomorrow night. Co-ed balls are always memorable events; this one promises to be even more than that!

Politics

"The Party System in Politics," will be the subject of a talk by Dr. Robert Rankin of the department of political science, who will speak tomorrow at the Woman's college assembly. Dr. Rankin's talk will inaugurate a series of programs dealing with the political situation.

“What on earth are you up to now?”

FINDING things out, smarty! I thought I'd examine the tobacco in a cigarette.

Look here...this is Chesterfield tobacco. Notice its lighter color...you don't see any dark heavy types, do you? I guess that's why Chesterfields are milder.

I'm told that uniformly lighter color is due to cross-breding. It sort of welds all the tobaccos into one.

And here's something else. Notice that these long shreds are all cut the same width. It stands to reason they burn smoother and cooler.

I don't pretend to be an expert but it looks to me as if they make Chesterfields right.

Here, light one. That's the best test after all. They Satisfy."

LANEY MAKES 60-YD. RUN
Laney's Jaunt and a Safety Only
Scores Game for State

In a rather lull-contest the Blue Devils continued their drive for the State championship and defeated the Wake Forest eleven 9-0. The game was devoid of anything spectacular with the exception of a brilliant run by Nick Laney in the first quarter and a pretty pass, Rosier to Laney, in the middle of the third period that was good for forty-five yards.

Ersler did some splendid work in backing up the line on the defense. This chap from New York State has been the blocking back for the Devils through the past three years, and he was in the best of form Friday. Time and again a Wake Forest man was loose until "Art" came barging in for the tackle. Of course it is his job, but he has been doing unusually well this year. Crawford took his customary workout. All the boys apparently were thinking of Tennessee after Wake Forest scored early in the game.

Wake Forest Fumbles
Wilson, of the victors, fumbled on his own thirty-yard line and Andrews recovered for the Devils. Then the Duke offense started to click, and the ball was worked up to the yard thirty and a fifteen yard penalty for holding checked the march. For the next five minutes the spectators saw nothing to get excited about, and then out of a clear sky Laney cut loose for fifty-eight yards and a score. Laney was shifted off as he sized down the field. He was five yards ahead of the nearest Wake Forest boy when he entered the end zone. Ken Abbott made the extra point.

First Safety of Year
Early in the second quarter a ball pass from center gave the Deacons two more points. The Deacons had the ball on their fourteen yard marker, and on an attempted kick play, the pigskin went past Russell over the goal line. Crawford made the tackle.

The rest of the first half consisted of incomplete and intercepted passes by both teams together with numerous punts. Neither side really threatened a score. Rosier and Wall played a little game with each other, seeing who could boot the ball the further.

Rosier Passes
One of the prettiest plays of the contest came early in the third period. It was third and about seven on the Duke thirty-eight yard line when Rosier dropped back in punt formation. He faked a kick, and then passed to Laney in the field of the wide man to take the Wake Forest twenty-five yard mark before he was downed. At this point Cox

Thoughts From the Side Lines
By PARKER HAMLIN

There's something wrong with this school and it isn't the administration, the buildings, the equipment, or the evaluation. It is the spirit of jealousy and hatred which this student body displays towards our rivals at the Hill.

No one has any deeper desire to see Duke triumph on November 19th than the writer. No one would do more to help the team, encourage the cheering and boost the school than the members of the sport's staff. But is there any logical reason for Duke boys yelling like hell when Carolina takes it on the chin? Is there any real glory in beating a team that already pummeled them from successive defeats? Wouldn't it be far better to see the Tar Heels carry through their schedule with a clean slate till the Blue Devils come along and give the deacons a set-back?

If you can't see it our way at least you can see the gentlemen when you're over at Koonan Stadium. And when you're in the stands and a Carolina score comes over the amplifiers you can give the Hill a hand.

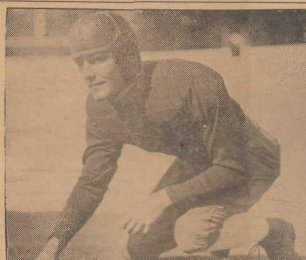

We're living in the twentieth century, and we're not all from the sticks. Carolina is a fine school; let's admit and help their boys on till they meet Duke.

A sport that should spring up around here is laying out some of the deers boys that have great fun calling boys about thirty-three thirty each night. A good bucket of water correctly applied is suggested as the remedy. The current problem, of course, is the proper application of said fluid.

The cross country team will be unusually strong this year according to all reports. A chap by the name of Burke who was discovered in a gym class doing some splendid running. Then there is the material from last year's cross country squad, and with Jerry Gray and Red Lewis in fine shape things are looking rosy. The only fly in the ointment seems to be that Carolina has their very good runner champion back for the season also.

Why aren't the tennis courts on the West campus kept in a par with those at the Women's college? The playing surfaces of the courts over there are nearly perfect, but one certainly can say nothing for the Duke courts. Not only is the clay soft when wet or dusty when dry, but the lines are seldom faked a kick, and then passed to Laney in the field of the wide man to take the Wake Forest twenty-five yard mark before he was downed. At this point Cox

PLAINSMEN LEAD S.I. CONFERENCE WITH CLEAN SLATE

Win Over Last Year's Champions, Tulane, Puts Auburn at Top of Race For Title

HITCHCOCK AGAIN STAR

Flashy Back Goes Through Green Wave For Consistent Gain; Duke Leads North Carolina

By handling Tulane its first defeat in Southern conference football for the last four years the Auburn Plainsmen jumped into the lead of the championship race. Unless the Auburn aggregation is handed an unexpected reverse it will gain the coveted title. The Plainsmen have got by the rough spots on their schedule and are favorites to win their remaining games against Mississippi, Florida, Georgia, and South Carolina.

V. P. L. stopped Kentucky's winning streak and kept her own intact by defeating the Kentuckians 7 to 0 in a closely contested battle. V. P. L. is rated as Auburn's strongest contender for conference honors, but football fans doubt if the Virginia boys will defeat Alabama when they meet on Nov. 5.

Tennessee is still a strong holder for the title, but the Volunteers have some rather hard obstacles ahead of them in Duke, Kentucky, and Vanderbilt.

Vanderbilt kept her record unblemished by defeat in dropping Georgia 12 to 6. A tie game with Tulane, however, has spoiled Vanderbilt's chances. Georgia Tech showed surprising power in overwhelming North Carolina 43 to 14. N. C. State surprised Florida by defeating her 17 to 6. The Gators had been undefeated up to now. V. M. I. dropped Virginia 6 to 4 while Alabama was running up a 24 to 13 count over Mississippi.

N. C. State will try to avenge last year's 18 to 15 defeat by North Carolina by invading Chapel Hill to meet the Tar Heels in the only game on Saturday, which that will affect the Big Five standing. Duke's position at the top of the State championship race will not be endangered by the outcome of the

TOURNEY NEARS QUARTER FINALS

This Week Will See Beginning of Final Matches in Freshman Tennis Tournament

In spite of last week's rain, seven out of eight matches in the second round of the freshman tennis tournament were played. The completion of second round play will precipitate the tournament into the quarter-finals. Last week's match scores give evidence of close and well-fought battles. The freshmen have exhibited real talent and are during the progress of the tournament, and those watching have been privileged to witness some excellent playing by future Duke tennis stars.

Second round summaries: Bernstein won from Rathburn, 6-2, 7-1. Piper nipped out a victory over Coton, 6-1, 4-6, 7-5; Hamilton lost to Kunkle, 6-2, 7-5; Cole was defeated by Kellmeyer, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3; Parsons upset R. Taylor, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4; Duke defeated H. Taylor, 6-2, 6-3; Gek, was eliminated by Hadd, 6-3, 6-3; Harris and Wright, withdrew.

CROSS COUNTRY MEET SATURDAY

Varsity and Freshman Harriers Open Season Against Davidson Here Saturday

Cross country running—the sport which is won by the team having the lowest score—opens its 1937 season at Duke on Saturday afternoon when Coach Bob Tuttle pits his varsity and freshmen teams against Davidson. The race will start in the Blue Devil stadium at 1:30. The boys will come thru the bowl on the half way mark and again, enroute for the finish, they will give the students an excellent view of the run from the stadium. The course is two and one-half miles long and circles the stadium. The varsity will run this twice while the freshmen cover this distance only once.

Time trials have resulted in the following men winning places in the Duke varsity list: Bird, Heritage, Drake

Wademen Face Crucial Game Against Powerful Vol Team

Mahatma Mumbles
By LOU "MAHATMA" GANZ

Good evening, folks. Are yuh listening, huh? We were really surprised at the volume of the mail we received in response to our plea for suggestions on how to run the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics. Thank you! Thank you! But everybody said that if we wanted to see the program successful, we should assign, both as a Winchell and as a manager of the department, imagine our embarrassment! What's their opinion compared with millions of others?

Well, the moon came over the mountain, just hardly missed being eclipsed by Kate Smith, and there is excitement in the ranks once again. The boys around here, with characteristic promptness and dispatch, have all neglected to pass in their entries. Now we ask you, what have you got to lose? Look at all the fun you can have playing basketball with guys that cannot play football! So get going, peoples, and let's get those entries in as soon as possible. Think we can arrange our schedule and you can start in cutting your throats.

The intramural department crashes through once again with an admirable idea. Yes, we thought of it, you mean, and we are going to get all the result for it too. We are sponsoring a track meet, to take place two weeks from next Monday in the stadium. Golly, golly. Isn't that cute? There will be competition for individual trophies. At present we do not believe that there will be any restriction on the number of entries of which any one man may enter. Enter as many as you wish, please, as we are arranging to have a stretcher and an ambulance at hand for over-ambitious athletes. And we promise that, the prize will not be cakes but beautiful plaques and cups, guaranteed not to tarnish. Who could ask for more? Oh, we realize you could, but what do you think your chances are to get it?

And are you a prognosticator? Just ask us. Don't old Phil, our editor's

HAVE FAST BACKS
Duke Will Be Forced to Put Forth Everything to Defeat Tennessee Eleven

LINE STRUGGLE LOOMS

Blue Devils Must Also Stop Flashy Volunteer Backfield Men; Southern Back

The Blue Devils have tomorrow for Knoxville in an attempt to avenge their defeat of last year against the powerful Tennessee team. The Volunteers are at present one of the three favorites for the Southern Conference title, having won all of their games this year and the Devils will have to open up with everything in the bag to win this battle.

Last week the Tennessee eleven had easy going against Maryville, whom they defeated 60-0. They have a dangerous running attack such as Duke met when they last to the Auburn team the before last. In preparation for this the Wademen have been concentrating on tackling practice and defensive work this week against the freshmen and there has been a great deal of scrimmaging. However, Duke supporters have a great deal of confidence in the great Devil line which has stopped every threat so far except against the Plainsmen. The Vols also pride themselves upon an impressive forward wall and the battle of lines should be one of the highlights of the game.

Those who saw last year's struggle remember the closeness of the contest in spite of the 25-3 score. The Devils fought the Vols to a standstill, but they look advantage of Duke breaks and their backs slipped through for their scores. Apparently both squads have improved this year. Tennessee lost two great players in Hickman and McVee, but have a backfield which is as dangerous as any they have turned out in the past few years.

Feathers, who was all over the place last year, is back again at halfback and is faster and sharper than ever. Dor

LIBRARY HEAD SPEAKS IN CHAPEL HILL BEFORE CLASS IN BOOK SCIENCE

Mrs. Lillian B. Griggs, librarian of the Woman's college library, yesterday was guest speaker to a class in the school of library science at the University in Chapel Hill. Her discussion was concentrated on "The College Library," contrasting the organization and methods of the college library with those of the public library.

Mrs. Griggs emphasized the opportunity of the college to create an appreciation among the students for books and reading. The fact was also stressed that the college library should be made vital to the lives of the students that they will be enthusiastic and active in establishing public libraries in their own communities after leaving college.

On October 26, Mrs. Griggs will again be present at a library gathering in Henderson, N. C. At that time will be held the district meeting of the North Carolina Library association, of which Mrs. Griggs is president. The H. Leslie Memorial Library will be host to the district, which includes Weldon, Warren, Raleigh, Rocky Mount, and Durham.

Mrs. Griggs, prior to her coming to Duke two years ago to become librarian of the Woman's college library, was director of the North Carolina Library association in Raleigh. Besides her official duties, since coming to Duke, she has been actively interested in helping bring successful art exhibits to the university and is now secretary of the Duke University Art association.

NEWSOM CHOSEN HEAD OF CO-ED FROSH CLASS

Durham Girl is Elected From Field of Eighteen; Caldwell Named Vice-President

In a recent meeting the freshmen class on the East campus elected Anne Laurie Newsom, of Durham, as class president. The other officers are Dorothy Caldwell, vice-president; Katherine Conger, secretary; Helen Gray, treasurer; and Tempe Green, class representative to the Woman's college government.

In order to combat the customary "time-out" a new system of voting was tried this year. Eighteen girls from the freshmen class were selected by members of the administration and upper classes to make short speeches before the class. Each student then voted for one of the candidates receiving the largest number of votes automatically becoming president.

The sophomore class in a meeting held last week elected June Bailey to fill the office of treasurer. She replaced Solly Clark, who did not return to college. Any Duke was chosen by the junior class as its representative to the Woman's college government association.

fraternity, opened its tenth football season very suspiciously, so, accordingly by trouncing Phi Sigma Delta, the columnists' Greek affiliation, 26-0. What a club! What a club! (She's getting a raise). But seriously, the Phi Delta have a very powerful team this year, aided by a world of good individualists. SAE, Kappa Sigma and the Gallatin. Ghosts are in the field too, you know, and from all indications it looks like a lot of fun and frolic before the decision is awarded to anyone. Games are played every afternoon on the fresh football field and the soccer field. Yes, we have a soccer field. We have tried to secure impartial referees, but at that we only think of one man who would be just the man for the job. Max Schmeling? We tried it just once, but we are here only through the grace of Providence, the skin of our teeth, and a fast backfield.

We forgot to ask you if you would like to have a handball tournament any time soon. How about it? There are some very fine handball courts in the gym, which are not being used very much. We should like to utilize as many of the facilities we have as possible. Thus we exhort you to take advantage of them. See Mr. Grant to make arrangements for practice, etc.

When the trophies are awarded, we hope that they will teach you a lesson. That is, that there is no more depression—it's a panic now! But why worry? We are indebted to the Duke store for their co-operation, which is splendid, in procuring for us those trophies for which you are struggling. (Get it.)

And now the time has come to scream. Good night, children. We are screaming.

CROSS COUNTRY MEET SATURDAY

Running for the freshmen will be McQuinn, Withers, Ford, Dierks, Pate, Hollingsworth, Everhart, and MacCarthy.

Davidson was defeated by Tuttle's charges last year, 25 to 26, in one of the closest meets of the season. They again have a strong team which should be a worthy opponent of the Blue Devils. The latter men are in command of southern honors. They will meet four more strong teams on the four next weekends.

After the halfback, is another speedy runner. These men are two reasons the Devils are brushing up on their tackling this week. Duke Bradstreet, quarterback, is a shifty triple-threat.

By Breezy Wynne bears the brunt of the line plunging at fullback. Feathers is probably the most feared man in this quartet with his running, passing, and kicking ability and the Duke line is out to stop him above all others.

In Hayburn and Warmouth the Volunteers have a capable duo of experienced ends, supported by Captain Alben and Franklin at tackle. They are running guards to lead the interference; these posts are filled by Ellis and Clark.

At center there is Magpie, one of their best players. According to reports received from Duke critics, this line is the better this year than last year. Blue Devils hammered away at last year.

The usual Duke line up will play the game, but there are several novices who have been getting a good deal of playing during the last few contests. Crawford and E. B. Dunlap seem to be the only ones certain of their posts in the line this Saturday. The ordinary backfield combination has been strengthened by the playing of Ken Abbott, quarterback, who has played sensational ball during the last games. He should fit in well with any passing attack, which the Blue Devils are more than likely to use in alternation with Mason and Con's line plunges and Lancy's end runs.

A victory over this outstanding team would give Duke by far the highest standing in this end of the Conference, and no chances are being taken to jeopardize this opportunity. The Vols are also taking no chances; they have scored the last three games the Blue Devils have played, their head coach scolding his person at the Wake Forest game last week.

TWO NAMED FOR RHODES TRYOUTS

Bradsher and Cunningham to Compete in State Selection Next December

Professor F. K. Mitchell has announced that Charles K. Bradsher and Merrett Cunningham are the candidates selected by Duke university for the Rhodes scholarship. These two men will appear before the state committee on December 15. Only two candidates can be selected by each state committee. The two selected by North Carolina will go to Atlanta for the District Regional meet. There are eight districts, each composed of six states; each district may send four men to Oxford.

Charles K. Bradsher, from Petersburg, Virginia, is a senior. He is a very high school track man, and has a very high school record. Merrett Cunningham, from Nashville, Tennessee, is a graduate honor student in English. He is a transfer from Vanderbilt university. Cunningham is an excellent tennis player.

All eligible candidates for the Rhodes scholarship must be between the ages of nineteen and twenty-five, and must have completed the sophomore year at college. The basis in making the selection is the quality of character, scholarship, literary and scholastic ability, and physical vigor.

The Rhodes scholarship is tenable at Oxford university. The appointment is made for two years, but a student may remain one more year if he presents a plan of study that is satisfactory to his college and the Rhodes trustees.

came in the game, and the fans were howling for another touchdown. The big sophomore made five yards through the line, but Lancy was thrown for two losses, and the ball went over.

Both Teams Threaten

Two completed forward passes mixed in with some line plays gave the Deacons the ball on the sixteen yard mark, but a fifteen yard penalty for illegal use of the hands stopped their only threat.

Later on in the contest Duke started a march from their own forty-five yard line when Mason intercepted a pass. The Devils carried the ball all the way to the Wake tree yard strip and a first down. It was at this point that Con again came into the game. On the first play he went through center for five yards but fumbled with Shins of the Deacons recovering. The rest of the game went even with watching. Neither team could get its aerial attack working properly, and the lines of both squads were strong enough to check any sustained drives, so the final score was Duke 9, Wake Forest, 0.

Delta Phi Alpha Members Hear Arnold On Germany

Duke Dean Tells of Experiences in Germany During Tour to Local German Club; Lundgren is President of Group

Dean D. M. Arnold, fresh from a recent trip through Germany, last Thursday evening enlightened inquisitive members of Delta Phi Alpha in a discussion of a visitor's impression of politically correct Germany. The average German, the speaker intimated, feels that Germany of today is not obliged to pay for the defeat of a generation for its appearing. But even that is aside from the point Dean Arnold explained, for the Germans believe that the government is financially unable to pay another cent.

The speaker attempted especially to impress the listeners with the importance of the rising animosity of Germany towards France, which is now again seen before. The German, Dean Arnold observed, look at France as a blood-seeker. The German majority do not fear French force of arms, he continued, because they are sure that England is war-weary and that France would hardly enter into open conflict with Germany without being certain of the English position. Mussolini, they feel, is too busy avoiding rebellion that is slowly building root in the depressed condition brought on by Italian economic reverses to take part in other struggles.

Of successful interest were the many souvenirs with which Dean Arnold illustrated his talk. The curious-looking night club program, especially, were of unusual concern to the listeners under the illusion that the system of clubs was an American institution. After explaining that it was merely a matter of curiosity that he attended, the speaker attempted to continue with a word of one club which yielded individual importance because of a unique telephone system which permitted guests to phone from their own table to those of other persons in distant parts of the club.

A detailed description of Dean Arnold's visit to the old castles was of course included, but it was old stuff in comparison to some of the refreshing anecdotes of his repetition. Many business matters for the coming year were presented by the president of Delta Phi Alpha, Ray Lundgren, who presided for the first time in his new capacity. Of special importance was the new two-year requirement which will make more desirable than ever the selection of new members from the group of eligible German students, the largest in the history of the university. It was decided that the club should meet Friday, October 28, in order that many new plans presented by the enthusiastic group may be considered.

SIXTH ART EXHIBIT TO OPEN ON CO-ED CAMPUS

The sixth of a series of art exhibits in the Woman's college library is to be opened to the university community November 12 through the 16. The exhibit, which is being sponsored by the Art Association of Duke university, is a collection of water colors and oil paintings by Mr. Lindsay Gidger, of Asheville.

Mr. Gidger is a young North Carolinian of much ability. He was educated at the University of North Carolina and the Georgia School of Technology.

He received his instruction in painting at the Atelier Jaque in New York under the famous William Sanger, and he was for some time presentation artist in the department of architecture of New York state.

Mr. Gidger has previously exhibited at the academy of art in Albany, N. Y., the Atelier Jacques, N. Y., and with Miss Katherine Koonce, in Atlanta, Ga. Many of his paintings are North Carolina subjects, and his work has received favorable comment from such critics as Fribble Saunders, Paul Jaquet, and George W. Smith.

North Carolina Collegiate Press Association Holds Fall Meet In Wake Forest

OPENS TOMORROW

Editors and Business Managers of 40 State Publications Will Attend Convention

THREE DAY CONFERENCE

Hon. Josephus Daniels Will Probably Make Chief Address Tomorrow Night

Over 100 delegates will meet at Wake Forest college tomorrow afternoon when registration will open for the annual fall convention of the North Carolina Press Association. Delegates will be composed of editors and business managers of the various college publications throughout the state.

In recent years, the North Carolina Collegiate Press association has attained a position of prominence among the journalistic organizations of the state. It now comprises 40 publications representing 22 universities and colleges scattered throughout the state.

The association holds conventions in the fall and spring for the transaction of business and the planning of programs. The primary purpose of the organization is to promote cooperation and effectiveness among the collegiate publications of North Carolina, and to secure prominent news in the field of journalism to address its conventions.

Registration at Wake Forest will be concluded by five o'clock tomorrow afternoon. That evening, the feature banquet of the convention will be held with the Honorable Josephus Daniels probably making the address.

The following morning at nine, a group meeting of the association will be held and general matters of business will be discussed. After the general meeting, small group meetings will be held by the editors and business managers of various types of publications. Social programs have been arranged for Friday afternoon and evening.

Saturday morning, the association will again meet for general and group discussions. The small group discussions are especially valuable to those attending, because recognized leaders in the various fields are obtained to give practical suggestions to the student journalists.

MINISTERIAL MEN STAGE INITIATION

The annual initiation ceremony of the Duke undergraduate ministerial association took place at eight o'clock last Friday night in York chapel with 12 new men being received.

After the singing of "Holy, Holy, Holy," which opened the ceremony, scriptural passages dealing with the consecration of ministers were read by one of the members of the association. Following this was a short prayer.

The Holy Sacrament was given by Professor J. A. Ormsdell, of the school of religion, and a few appropriate words of advice and hope were spoken by Mr. Ormsdell to the new initiates. The new men, then welcomed into the association by the old members, were the following: Prand Meacham, Grady Harlin, John McCray, Jack Page, W. G. Bell, Robert Houser, Allen Budd, Rosalie Holmes, Robert Morris, A. S. Noblitt, H. Shaw and Bowling.

In the business meeting afterward, Nicholas Grant was selected to be the treasurer of the ministerial association, filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of the former one. The constitution of the organization was read by the president, Walters Jones.

Dean Speaks

Dean W. H. Wammann spoke at the weekly luncheon of the Durham club last Monday. The Duke professor stressed the fact that librarians were having their fraternalism on one of the oldest attitudes of mankind.

Delta Phi Alpha Meeting Is Changed

The meeting of Delta Phi Alpha honorary German fraternity, scheduled for the weekly convocation for tomorrow, will take place instead on Friday evening, October 28, on the college grounds of the Woman's college Union.

At this time election of new members will take place, and other matters of importance will be decided.

GREENE SPEAKER AT FROSH Y MEET

Topic, "What College Means to the Modern Youth" - Nominations Committee Chosen

Dr. W. K. Greene was the guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Freshman Friendship Council last Thursday evening. His topic was "What College Means to the Modern Youth."

He began his discussion of the subject with the assumption that every person lives in two worlds, namely: the world of reality, which most everyone sees with the same eyes; and the world which each individual makes for himself. Although as a student he has guides and instructors, he must make what he learns a part of himself without outside help. Thus, no two individuals have college having made idealistic creations of themselves, but their application of knowledge is made for success or failure in varying degrees.

Dr. Greene stated furthermore that college is a place where more digging than building is essential. It is a place where students must enrich their experiences, combine with the great spirit of yesterday and today by means of the related work, and share all a place to which they must come with an open mind, seeking to acquire a love of truth and an understanding of the manifold aspects of life.

The speaker said that the freshman must of necessity become adjusted to an environment totally different from that to which he has heretofore been subjected. Here he encounters scholars in larger numbers and of higher degree of education. Failure to obtain the highest grades, however, should not be cause for discouragement since no one knows all of the truth, but each and everyone in college has wonderful opportunities for his development into a useful man.

At the conclusion of Dr. Greene's talk, John Myers, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., came before the group representing the discussion committee of the Y and presented a plan for the closer association of students with professors other than in the classroom; and this the council heartily endorsed. It is later to be introduced before the whole student body.

HICKMAN PRAISES PAUL AT SUNDAY CHAPEL SERVICE

Interesting Sermon Delivered on the Making of the Character of Paul

SPEAKS ON "GOOD FIGHT"

Had Aristocratic Environment and High Training as Well as Privileges of the Roman

Beginning with the familiar passage of Timothy, "I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith," Dr. Frank S. Hickman, speaker at the morning service in Duke chapel, Sunday, October 16, gave a sermon of vital interest to the congregation. Speaking on "The Good Fight," he told of Paul's own battle fought and won in the making of his character, and the fight that Paul made as a leader of the forces of Christianity against the vice and corruption of the world of his day.

Explaining the two meanings behind the scriptures, Dr. Hickman stated that the struggle referred to in the Epistle to Timothy was both of a personal nature, that of Paul's own fight for his character, and of a world-wide one, in that the apostle was leading his followers in the fight of Christianity.

It was only Jesus who brought order out of chaos in Paul's life, the speaker showed. Previous to the incident of the disciple's conversion on the Damascus road, Paul had been restless and dissatisfied with his life.

Said of Tarsus had the environment and training given the highest of the aristocratic Jews of the Pharisee group, as well as the distinction and privileges of a Roman citizen. It needed Jesus' influence to fill this out, however, Dr. Hickman went on to prove. With the aid of Christ, Paul led a valiant and slowly winning battle against the forces of law, vice and vicious superstitions that were prevalent in that time.

The fidelity of life was very apparent, as shown in the picture of Paul's life.

Chanticleer Staff to Meet Monday

Two meetings of the Chanticleer staff will be held next week. All men on the staff as well as new men are to report at 7:15 Monday evening in 98 West campus Union. Council will meet at the same hour Wednesday in 10 East campus Union.

many in Paul's day felt. Suicide and nothingness were the logical ends to such an existence, they said. Paul, however, preached that this was not true, and that this state of life should be banished from the world. It was only three centuries later that his doctrine was shown to be true by the fall of Rome from its pith, Dr. Hickman pointed out.

Concluding, Dr. Frank Hickman said the question, "What did Paul mean to his world?" An example of a leader who won his personal fight against sin by making his character of the best and who led the Christian men and women to do the same, this Paul meant very much. "Whenever the world has to turn a corner, God sends a creative, illuminated spirit to help it turn the corner," Paul of Tarsus was such a one.

Y. W. C. A. Holds Meeting

Nearly one hundred new members of the Y. W. C. A. participated in the annual recognition service held Monday evening at seven in the "Y" hall of East Duke building. Rosalind Cash, vice-president of the organization, read the responsive service, which was held by candlelight.

After a violin solo by Rachel Metcalf, the new members of the Y. W. C. A., all of whom were dressed in white, danced a table on the platform, each lighting a small candle from the large one held by Miss Cash. In an impressive service, they pledged their support to the campus "Y" and to the "Y" movement everywhere.

Korstian, Duke Forestry Head, Returns From Tour

Is Delegate at the Quadrennial Congress of the International Union of Forest Research Organizations, Vienna, Britain, Germany, France, and Switzerland

Back from Europe is Dr. C. F. Korstian, Duke forestry chief, where he attended the quadrennial congress of the International Union of Forest Research organizations, at Nancy, France, September 4-10.

Among the leading participants at the congress was the Duke professor. His suggestions more than once were adopted by the group composed of the world's outstanding foresters. Dr. Korstian, in addition to reading a paper on the physical-chemical properties of leaves and leaf gases as indices to the water relations of forest trees, served in the International committee as the official representative of the forestry research organizations of the United States.

Having sailed July 16, Dr. Korstian was on the continent two months previous to his attendance at the congress. During this time he visited the leading European forestry schools and made contacts with the many eminent forestry experts of which Europe boasts.

Berlin, headquarters of the German forestry society, was Dr. Korstian's first official stop. Here, with the aid of the officials of that organization, he arranged a complete tour of the forestry centers of Europe.

Dr. Korstian first visited the 102 year old forestry school at Eberswalde. From here he journeyed to Schminke in Mecklenburg, where are reputedly the best forest forests of all Europe. In quick succession thereafter, he visited the forestry school of Saxony at Tharandt, and the Bavarian school at Munich, where he saw their interesting arboretum.

Jumping to Switzerland, he traveled to the national forestry school and experiment station at Zurich, the city forests of Zurich and Winterthur, and the communal forest at Arosa. Back into Germany again, the Duke professor went

LIBERAL CLUB TO HAVE SOCIALISTIC DISCUSSION

Organization Supports Thomas For President; Carrier to Represent Club in Political Rally

The first student-led meeting of the Liberal club will be held at 7:30 tomorrow evening in room 201, Gray building. The principal feature of the meeting, to which all students and faculty members are invited, will be a discussion of socialism. This meeting is to be one of the most important ones of the year, and all old members and those planning to join should be present.

The Liberal club is working in the interests of Norman Thomas, the socialist candidate for president. It has done active work here on the campus, such as furnishing a library with reference material for the use of those interested in socialism. On this shall be found the latest books of radical sympathies, and several periodicals of similar tenor.

At its last meeting, the club appointed Tom Corrigan, a former member of the Duke debating team, to represent the organization at the political rally which is to be sponsored by the Political club on Nov. 3. Also, plans were made for a group to go to Raleigh in order to hear an address by Norman Thomas

POLITICAL RALLY TO BE HELD SOON

The student body of Duke university is expected to enter into the realm of politics again this year on the night of November 3, on which date the Political club is sponsoring political speaking in Page auditorium on the West campus. Beginning at 7:30, representatives of the democratic, republican, and socialist candidates selected recently from democratic, republican, and socialist clubs on the campus, are to explain the platforms of their parties to the attending.

Each party is to be given 30 minutes of the program to do with as they wish, more than one speaker if desired. A representative has already been chosen by one of the three political groups, and the two other clubs are engaged in the selection of men at present. Bob Vaughan, president of the Political club, is to preside at the meeting. The purpose of the meeting on November 3 is to show the student body the interest of the Political club in political affairs, and to give the students an opportunity to hear the issues of the campaign.

REPUBLICAN CLUB TAKES FIRM STAND

Outnumbered, G. O. P. Group Holds to Principles as Election Draws Near

As interest in the approaching presidential election nears its height with the election itself less than two weeks off, the Republican club of Duke university has been engaged in formulating plans for taking part in the rally being sponsored next week by the Political club.

Chairman C. H. Winslow and the members of the Republican club are earnestly opposing election, and they feel that all Republicans on the campus should make every effort to aid the principles of the G. O. P. and to defend Hoover against the attacks made upon him by the opposing parties. The backers of the local Republican group are firm in their determination to avoid bitter personal attacks on the candidates themselves and to limit the campaign to the true issues facing the nation, feeling that Hoover has done great constructive work during his term in office, and that the severe criticism which has been directed against him has been most unjust and harsh. His administration has been confronted by especially trying problems, one of these being the world-wide "depression". Although the Republicans here on the campus are outnumbered by the Democrats they are determined to take a very active part in the Political club rally Thursday night, November 3. What they may lack in numbers they intend to make up in enthusiasm, and to that end the chairman and other members of the campus Republican organization are urging that every Republican on the campus join in the principles.

PLANS FOR BIG JUNIOR DANCE ARE TATTERING

Elaborate Affairs Proposed by Class of '34 Lead to Land on Rocks

At present the prospects for a large junior class dance are not very good. The voluntary class dance are not coming in as fast as they might, and further complications arise from the fact that permission to use the gymnasium seems to be difficult to obtain. General opinion of the local Republican group is that the plans for a dance with music by one of the local orchestras would be a better alternative for the elaborate affair previously considered.

Dane H. Herring suggested that more members of the class come to his office for personal chats so that the office and students could become better acquainted. The advantages of such consultations lie in the fact that recommendations are more easily made when the officer knows personally the man being considered for a job.

Dean Herring also stated that the Chronicle's report that he was more easily found in the "dope" shop than in his office should not be taken too literally. He confessed, however, to indulging in a reasonable number of "dopes." The Chronicle to date has been unable to locate the report mentioned.

DEAN MAKES PLEA FOR CONVENTIONAL CONDUCT

"What is our attitude toward Law?" was the subject of a talk given by Herbert Herring, assistant dean of men, who spoke before the Women's college assembly last Thursday.

Dean Herring stated that he did not believe that youth is inherently law-breaking, but that pressing problems of the present, the youth of today, have stressed the fact that although this is a universe of law and order, people do not live as if they actually believed in universal law. "Universal laws are truth, solid and unchangeable," he said. The speaker expressed the belief that "our modernism is our undoing." He stated that men have sought to find great moral concepts such as the ten commandments and the golden rule, yet now there is a tendency to disregard them. Dean Herring then spoke directly and intimately to the women of the college, closing with a plea for conventional conduct and respect for universal law.

SPIRITUAL VALUES FIRST TODAY, HERRING'S PLEA

Blaming the World war and the American attitude of placing money above everything else, Dean Herring told the members of his Sunday school class last Sunday morning that the world today is a place of spiritual and intellectual uncertainty.

The Americans at present put too much emphasis upon the value of material things, and do not place spiritual things first. Quoting Walter Lippman, Mr. Herring stated that they have tried to substitute quantity marks in place of faith, and that "a question mark is a poor place for a tired soul".

It will take a hundred years to recover from the results of the World war, the dean went on to state. Cook-ness has become too widespread, and shows itself in our finance, the teacher showed.

Citing a case of a New Yorker who rarely sees anything but machine-made things, the dean said that these become meat, food, and even to him, nature as exhibited in the trees and moon is entirely unappreciated by this person.

Duke Smith gave a fate note for the afternoon which the group was led in sentence prayers by its president, Pauline Bunch.

The meeting for the coming week, on October 30, will see a joint assembly of the members of the North Carolina students' conference and the members of the Sunday school class in York chapel at the regular hour of 9:30.

FRENCH FILM WILL BE PRESENTED ON CAMPUS

"LE MILLION", hilarious French film comedy will be shown Monday, October 31, by Quadrangle Pictures. The picture was filmed in France but the dialogue has been interpreted by two Britishers so that none of the fun and frolic is missed by those with no knowledge of French.

The plot has to do with a last lottery ticket, and the picture is mostly the long and hilarious chase for it and the fortune it means to its owner. It is gay and amusing, and introduces several times that have gained wide popularity in Europe.

Quadrangle Pictures will continue its series of Monday Evening Educational performances through the month of November and December. A concert orchestra will be heard each Wednesday evening between shows, in light classical numbers.
