Co-Ed Ball

A Great Success

On Friday evening, November 24, the Co-Ed Ball was held in this Women's gymnasium from 9 till 11 o'clock. The affair was sponsored by the Social Standards committee and is always one of the largest and most successful dances of the year.

The guests of honor included Dean Alice Mary Baldwin, Miss Mary Grace Wilson, Mrs. James O. Oils, and Mrs. Carlotta Waters. These guests and Miss Helen Wyatt chairman of the Social Standards committee, comprised the receiving line.

The gymnasium was cleverly and effectively decorated by silhouettes in which a color scheme of blue and gold was carried out. The invitations were also of blue and gold. Nick Laury and his Blue Devils played for the occasion.

Methodist Conference Entertained at Duke

On November 24, the women of the Methodist conference were entertained at a tea at 4 o'clock in the Women's Union. In the receiving line were Dean Alice Mary Baldwin, Mrs. E. D. Menden, Mrs. William Preston Few, Mrs. Haen Smith, Mrs. W. A. Stanbury, Mrs. H. C. Smith, Mrs. Marshall Spears, and Miss Mary Grace Green.

Sarah Culbreth, Catherine Nickles, Alice Wooten, Cornelia Love, Mary Love, and Laura Nell Thrift, Methodist students of Duke assisted at the tea.

Evening wraps are long to protect your frock and to lend dignity to your appearance. Red and black predominate. In New York red wraps with black dresses are often seen. In a Durham shop there is a smart, long, red velvet wrap made to represent an English coachman's coat. It is double-breasted and has a scarf, tipped with ermine tails. New for some fashion tips every girl should have.

They are wearing hats with all long dresses now, even those with trains, mostly small, extravagant feminine ones. If you do not like to wear a hat, pay special attention to your hair which should be swept up in back to go with a high neckline. It needs something jeweled to set it off, so all kinds of ornaments are being worn in the hair, from diamonds to small rhinestone ornaments.

MANY NEW BOOKS IN CO-ED LIBRARY

Woman's College Library Circulates Recent Novels, Plays, and Biographies

Many interesting new books have recently been put into circulation by the staff of the Woman's college library. The greatest number are novels, but the list also includes plays, biographies, and absorbing non-fiction.

Among the novels are Hervey Allen's celebrated "Anthony Adverse" probably the most talked-of book in America at the present time; "Miss Bishop," by Best S. Aldrich, the moving story of a school teacher; "As the Earth Turns," by Gladys H. Carroll, a novel of elemental appeal; John Galsworthy's "Flowering Wilderness," the second of his recently completed trilogy, and his "Three Novels of Love"; Louis Bromfield's historical novel, "The Farm," a story of four generations of a family; "Let the Hurricane Roar," by Rose Wilder Lane, a short novel that depicts with vigor the human struggle for existence; "Grand Canyon," the story of a man's feat, by A. J. Cronin. Other new novels that are being circulated are "All Passion Spent," by Booth Tarkington; "Honor Among Women," by George Gibbs; "Clipsy Wagon," by Sheila Kaye-Smith; "The Fault of Angels," by Paul Horgan; "Hardly Premia," by Helen Hall; "Hear, Ye Sons," by Irving Fineman; "The Bridge of Dreams," by Muscavelli; "Fit is not Enough," by Joseph Herbet; "Queen's in the Parlor," by Helen Woodward, and a collection of short stories, "They Brought Their Women," by Edna Ferber.

As for recent plays, the library staff has set out Burns Mantel's selection, "Best Plays of 1932-1933" and two other single plays, Noel Coward's sensational "Design for Living" and M. Anderson's "Both Your Houses."

Five biographies are on the list: Frances Winwar's "Four Splendid Wings," a biography of the Rossettis; "Marie Antoinette," by Stephen Zweig; "Tallendard," by Duff-Cooper; "House of Exile," the biography of an American woman in China, by Nora Walsh; and

ANTI-CRIME CAMPAIGN BEGINNING ON CAMPUS

W. W. C. A. Social Service Group to Bring Problem Before Woman's College

"This Is Crime Month" posted in the Woman's college library was not a signal to get out the old forty-four! With committee of the "W" Social Service Council as chairman, the crime group has brought the problem of crime to attention on the campus.

J. J. Bradway, director of the Legal Aid Clinic, spoke on "The Rehabilitation of the Criminal" in the Woman's college assembly on Tuesday morning. Mr. Bradway pointed out the case of innocent men being convicted and explained the part students may play in helping to rehabilitate the criminal.

Carrying out the program for November, the committee reserved one corner of the Book Lover's room in the library for material pertaining to crime. On the table are books on criminology, crime and its repression, society and prison, the criminal, the judge, and the public. A colorful poster stating "Crime Really Isn't Funny," and another poster, "Crime

"Sinner's Entrance," by Sigrid Boo. The list is completed by two non-fiction books, "American Through Women's Eyes," by Mary B. Beard; and a new psychology book, "The New Generation," by V. F. Calverton.

Is All Around Us" further follows this idea with newspaper clippings of recent murders and horrible crimes.

As a project for 1933-34 the crime committee has the investigation of crime, of crime, distribution of crime, treatment of women criminals, or treatment of Negro criminals to report on during the year. The practical work of the committee is Legal Aid Clinic work, in which the women go out to investigate cases and to obtain information for the clinic.

Glamour Is Keynote Of Formal Evening Models

The keynote to mid-season styles in evening clothes is glamour. When you select your evening dresses for the holiday dances and frolics, remember that the more glamorous they are, the more of a success you will be. Glamour in dress is attained by fabric and ornamentation. Lace is a brilliant fabric for evening, and beads remain the best ornaments. Sleeves in evening dresses are very new and trains lend a graceful and striking note.

There seems to be practically no difference between some evening dresses and frocks. Sleeves in both are obvious according to the newest styles shown in Durham—some long, some short, and some a mere suggestion of a sleeve. A striking Mazarin Bonif model is in a shade of green called olive has long sleeves, very loose above the elbow and tight at the wrist, ending in a graceful point which falls over the hand.

A band of gold beads separates the sleeves from the dress in front and continues around the back of the neck where it forms a tiny accent to the toppling attractively cut-out back. The newest style tip says that it is smart to wear tails above with green evening dresses. There is an attractive evening dress in town in an especially lovely shade of apricot velvet which has short puffed sleeves. The sleeves are novel in that they are full and opened on top from the shoulder down, the opening being faced with silver lame. It has a modified low back, a soft tie of the velvet high at the back of the neck, and a slight train.

A dress of aquatone crepe has the suggestion of a sleeve in loose bands of crystal beads and features a soft loose beaded cowl outlining the low back. One of the newest ornaments appears on this frock—a handsome rhinestone buckle made in the shape of a leaf.

Lame is as brilliant in effect as the brilliant new season demands. The most handsome evening dress we have seen this season has a background of lime-stone on which are patterns in gold and silver. Simple in style, the material itself, gives it glamour. It has a slight train and a lime-stone velvet flower at the neck as its only trimming.

You say
Chesterfields are not like other cigarettes

CIGARETTES are made of tobacco, wrapped in paper, and they may look alike; but that doesn't mean that they are alike.

Chesterfield Cigarettes are not like other cigarettes. The tobacco is not like the tobacco used in other cigarettes. It is mild, ripe—not harsh, or strong.

Then again, Chesterfields taste better. They are seasoned in the right way with the right kind of Turkish Tobacco. There is nothing flat or tasteless about them.

You're telling me "They Satisfy"!

PLAYERS PRESENT SECOND PROGRAM

Duke Dramatic Group to Offer
Original Plays of the Fantastic Type

BILL OF ONE-ACTS, DEC. 8

Using a Gougen theme as a basic theme, the Duke Players will present their second program of the current season December 8. The four one-act plays selected to compose this bill are of the fantastic type, depending for their effect upon the unusual and different.

In "Theatre of the Soul," the stage setting is an attempt at a pietization of the value of the soul. Suspended above the floor of the stage will be crude images of the heart and lungs. Through the use of unusual lighting effects and impressive scenery an attempt will be made to create an image of the inner man.

The second play on the bill is staged in a war-footing dispute. Here again unusual stage effects and lighting will be used in an attempt to create a fantastic and impressive effect. The other two plays on the bill are of the same mood and will be treated in the same manner.

The Duke Players have announced that ten passes will be given to their next production. These passes will be distributed according to the numbers found in the Duke Players ad on the back of the 1933 Student Directory. Ten numbers will be selected at random and will be announced in the next issue of the Chronicle.

This is the first time that a plan of this sort has been put into effect. If successful, however, it will be continued during the rest of this season. New numbers will be picked for each production and free passes on the basis of these numbers.

Lost and Found Bureau Established by Chronicle

THE CHRONICLE, in collaboration with the student government, is establishing a lost and found department. The Student Council has charge of receiving notices concerning lost articles; THE CHRONICLE will print the notices.

Notices of lost articles will be inserted in THE CHRONICLE free of charge. All notices must be brief and should be taken to the Student Government office. Found articles also should be returned to the same office where the notices were placed. The office hours are: Monday, 2-4 p.m.; Tuesday, Chapel period; Wednesday, 2-4 p.m.; Friday, 2-4 p.m.; Saturday, Chapel period.

Freshman Conducts Scientific Expedition In Florida Waters

Walter Williamson Has Many Adventures During Summer
Exploration of Florida Keys For Specimens of Rare
Mollusks to Add to His Collection

The most economical expedition in the annals of naturalists was made last summer along the Florida keys by Walter Williamson, a freshman at Duke. Williamson, a member of the Florida Malacological society, holds an ardent desire to become a naturalist or scientist. He has already collected a large series of land shells from localities never before visited by naturalists. He has also obtained for the American Museum specimens of rare mollusks that are practically extinct.

The log of Williamson's voyage is a thrilling saga of hazardous adventures in out-of-the-way places. He set sail from Miami with one companion. His equipment consisted of a twenty-one-foot sailboat, which towed a canoe for the exploration of shallow water, two boxes of gassed goods, and only $1.50 in cash. After first running into torrential rain that nearly swamped their frail craft, the adventurers were suddenly becalmed under a brewing sun which, as Williamson put it, "nearly steamed them." While crossing Pigeon Key a terrific storm was encountered. It was necessary to fight ferociously for two hours. If control of their boat had been lost for a moment the trip would have been a complete loss. The expedition ended at Key West, however, without further mishap.

Two days were spent at Key West for rest, and during that time the entire capital of the crew was spent for ice cream. Pushing on from Key West, the explorers sailed through little-known islands until they reached No Name Key. Leaving land for the first time, they proceeded to Northwest Cape Sable. Later when they landed at Middle Cape the sea pounded their boat in the shallows, opening a seam to such an extent that complete repair was impossible. Here the real hardships of the trip started. The scientists had to pull their clothes apart to sun for drying the boat, thus leaving their bodies to the blazing sun. Their supply of food was cut down to coconuts and a can of beans on one day and an onion and seven crackers other days. It was necessary to walk six miles each time they wanted a drink of water. The makeshift repairs having been completed in three days, the exhausted naturalists managed to reach Flamingo.

Williamson set out afoot, walking thirty-three miles across the desolate overgrown wilderness to bring ash to the marooned pair. He telephoned the coast guard station at Dinner Key, and a plane was sent to repair the boat and bring a much-needed supply of food. Once more ships, the expedition headed for Biscayne Bay with threats of a tropical hurricane now added to their troubles. Although buffeted by storms, they returned safely to Miami bedraggled, but victorious and victorious. Williamson afterward exclaimed, "We did not start to have real fun until the trouble began."

TWELVE HONORED IN B. O. S. ELECTION

Local Sophomore Honorary
Activity Fraternity Holds
Informal Initiation

SPECIAL MEMBERSHIPS

At a formal business meeting held Wednesday, Beta Omega Sigma, the honorary sophomore activity fraternity, elected twelve sophomores to special membership.

Membership in this organization is one of the highest honors which a sophomore may receive. Those who received bids, for special membership are: Charles Ballenger, Greenville, S. C.; Al Burford, Pearisburg, Texas; James Chandler, Gathersburg, Md.; Dick Griffin, Swarthmore, Pa.; John Hathorn, Hattiesburg, N. Y.; Steve Lamb, Malvern, N. J.; Miles McGinn, Brookline, Mass.; Tom Parsons, Albion, Pa.; Clifford Perry, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Roy Thomas, Rock Hill, N. C.; Carl Vaughn, Park Ridge, Ill.; Malcolm Wright, Westfield, N. J.

These new men were elected under last year's old point system. Many of the new men acquired points during the regular initiation last spring. Consequently, they were not asked to appear before Beta Omega Sigma prior to the initiation to offer themselves as candidates.

The initiates were dressed in the traditional dairy-maid garb which all B.O.S. initiates wear. They seemed to have no regard for the campus regulation which states that no women shall roam unescorted.

FOOTLIGHT PARADE—Joan Blondell, James Cagney, Ruby Keeler, Carolina—Wednesday-Saturday, Nov. 29-30-Dec. 1-2.

Fifty million Frenchmen, Or Fifty million Yanks, Offer up a lifting prayer To Warner Brothers, "Thanks." Laughter, love, and romance—Intertitles, sets, and pop—Girls who stop at nothing—Heat waves full of sap—That, good friends and people, Portrays in language simple, An idea of the musical, The Rolling new musical, Announced by Warner Brothers, and Declared by all reviewers, To exceed most all the others.

HAVANA WIDOWS—Joan Blondell, Gilda Farrell.

Parsonage—Wed.-Thur., Nov. 28-29.

Themes: gold diggers, the gold that they dig, and the men that make it. Let's take the hot and hysterical Havana of fact and fancy. Elements: gangsters, the unfaithful husband, the ardent youth, etc., etc.

Cast: Leslie Farrell and Joan Blondell as the two lady prospectors who make the mining profession their business. Roy Kibber, as the sucker who gets away. Lyle Talbot, as the youngster who falls in love. Allen Jenkins, as the gangster who falls for the mother-in-law-in-Kansas gap. Ruth Donnelly, as the wife who is none too sorry to lose her sucker husband.

Recommended—if you like that sort of thing.

HALLELUJAH, I'M A BUM—Al Johnson. Quadrangle Pictures—Wed., Dec. 6. A film with Johnson, the first name is Al Johnson with Johnson, his best friend and pal. It's done with a tilt, and a swing, and a tune. And neat little ditties for Johnson to croon.

The berry's bums in New York's Central Park, And life (so he claims) is mostly a lark. His friends are the Mayor, a street sweep, the mob—

Though the latter desert him for taking a job.

For humor there's the Morgans, who came from the stage, (And Conklin and Langdon, who don't act their age).

The Mayor and Johnson both love the same girl, With eyes that are diamonds, and teeth that are pearls.

The film's a mixture of romance and fun, served up in a way to attract attention. The lines in the picture (as in this review) are rhymed in a way that is different and new.

THE WORLD CHANGES—Paul Muni, Carolina—Sun-Tues., Dec. 3-4.

Theme: four generations in the life of an American family. Contrast: the rapid life of pioneer times as compared with the tension and hysteria of present-day existence. Time: seventy years, from 1852 to 1922; from the covered wagon to Wall street.

Cast: Paul Muni, as the central character whose seventy years of active life connect the days of the pioneer with those of the bull snare. Aline McMahon as the wife. Mary Astor, Donald Cook, and William Jacey as some other members of the Northhorn family. Direction: Mervyn LeRoy, Warner's ace, megaphone-master. Photography: under direction of Tony Gaudio, one of Warner's ace crack-and-camera men. Result: a picture distinguished by fine production and direction.

Recommended—because of the excellent acting of Paul Muni, because of the interest and importance of the theme, because of the general excellence of the production.

CAPTURED—Leslie Howard.

Quadrangle Pictures—Sat., Dec. 9.

Theme: war, the accompaniment of thrill, whistles, the report of machine guns, and the shouted commands of Prussian officers. Subject: the terrors and discomforts of a German prison camp and the activities of the French, English, and American soldiers confined in it.

Cast: Leslie Howard and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., as two of the prisoners; Margaret Lindsay, as the woman in the case.

Romantic plot; the usual three-cornered affair, with the usual heroic sacrifices by one of the male characters at the climax.

Recommended—for one reason alone—because of the usual superb acting of one Leslie Howard.

The University of Chicago has the largest football stadium in the country. It is capable of seating 110,000 people.

DUKE RAMBLING WRECK ASPIRES TO HALT DUKE VICTORIES

Duke Meets Georgia Tech at Atlanta to Close 1933 Football Season

TECH POINTING FOR DUKE

Captain Schick, Rogers, Crawford, Hendrickson, Lancy, Jester, and Means, Duke players in action.

With nine consecutive victories already chalked up this season Coach Wallace Wade's Duke Devils march on to Atlanta to meet the first strong Georgia Tech team—the last opponent of the season. A win over the Engineers would give Duke a season's record of ten victories and no losses or ties.

It can be truthfully said that the game will be the toughest assignment of the season for the Blue and White grid men, as the great stands she has made in the last two weeks evidence the complete power of Coach Bill Alexander's players.

The famous Wrecking Crew has not yet to pull another upset for which it is justly famous. The Atlanta schism is noted for its victories over supposedly stronger opponents. Many title-bound teams have met their Waterloo at the hands of the fighting Engineers.

Georgia Tech has been pointing for the Duke Devils since the latter evidenced hopes for an undefeated season. The game will be played on Grant field at Atlanta—a gridiron on which many favored teams have fallen. Tech is famous for the great games she plays on her home field and Saturday's contest will be no exception.

Both teams had tough games last Saturday. Georgia Tech, however, came out of her contest with Georgia without any major injuries, but Duke suffered the loss of several players at the hands of N. C. State. Tom Rogers sustained a leg injury which may prevent his playing against the Engineers. Nick Lancy and Bob Cox also may not be able to see service.

Duke will have plenty of trouble in stopping Jack Phillips, a triple-threat halfback. Phillips, a native North Carolina boy, has been the spring-heel of the Engineers' attack all season. His expert punting has pulled the Atlanta team out of many holes this year.

The game will be the last for eight of the Duke players: Fred Crawford, Harold Hendrickson, Nick Lancy, Harry Roush, Al Means, and Walters Balle. They will be representing Duke on the gridiron for the last time.

Coach Wade is losing no time in getting his team ready for the game. The season's record depends on the outcome and both the coach and the players will be at their best to try to give Duke her first undefeated and untied team.

BLUE DEVILS BEAT N. C. STATE TEAM IN ROUGH CONTEST

Duke Drives 45 Yards in Last Period to Score Only Touchdown

ALEXANDER CRIES OVER LINE-PLUNGING SOPHOMORE SCORES FROM THREE-YARD LINE; STATE WITH LANCEY AND HENDRICKSON

Haltling a North Carolina State drive in the first quarter of the game with the Wolfpack, Duke's Blue Devils fought back during the remainder of the contest and won 7 to 0 in the closing minutes of the last quarter.

The adversity of the "jinx" that State has held over Duke for the past several years came center to carrying the undefeated, untied record of State's favored rivals than has any other team on the college gridiron.

After the Blue Devil line had bottled up Rex and McQuage, State's battled line-backers, Duke's offense, led by Alexander, Hendrickson and Lancy, drove deep into State's ground for three successive periods, but was halted short of the goal line during the last quarter.

SWIMMERS HAVE TOUGH SCHEDULE

Tentative Card Is Announced by Coach Persons For 1934 Swimming Team

With the opening swimming meet to be held at Washington and Lee on February 10, the Duke swimmers have been hard at work on the tentative card for the 1934 season. The card is a tough schedule. The Generals have a crack squad and will be "out for blood," seeking an opportunity to average the best landed time of the year by Duke's undefeated team.

Virginia again will be a strong foe for Duke, and the Devils will go there for a meet in the early part of February, the exact date not yet determined. The southern conference championship meet will again be held at Virginia on March fourth.

Duke will again meet State twice, once at Raleigh and at home. The Big Five championship meet, held at Duke for the last three years, has been shifted to Raleigh. The Devilfish will probably meet George Washington some time in February, and on the same trip will probably engage Johns Hopkins and Delaware. These three teams are members of the Eastern Intercollegiate conference, and will offer the Duke swimmers a tough test.

Several of last year's freshman swimmers have been coming along in fine shape, and the Duke team is well equipped for the short dashes and should prove to be an excellent spirit man. Mervine has been a high school record holder and should prove to be an excellent teammate for Whiting. Abraham and Ghent are the only two men who have appeared so far for Duke. The team has been fast approaching the stage which will make him a finished diver.

One Big Five Game Slated For Saturday

To some people Thanksgiving Day means turkey, but to many it means racing. On this day, Carolina and Virginia will meet in a football game at Chapel Hill, the leading fixture of North Carolina Turkey Day football.

Less glamorous, from the angle of versatility, the Davidson-Wake Forest clash at Charlotte, with the cellar of the Big Five at stake, nevertheless, is of major interest, while the Duke-Blue Devils, in an inter-conference game with Georgia Tech, will endeavor to continue their march for national recognition.

Ray Rex, scintillating State star, and his East Raleigh battalion, again nearly upset the dope bucket last Saturday when they rode through three quarters of their annual clash with the Blue Devils on a rather ferocious animal named "Jinx."

The under-pow of this State team had a habit of creating a stone wall which all but says, "Here we stand." Not so last Saturday. In the final canto of the Devils, under the leadership of their master devil, Jack Alexander, Wallace Wade's sophomore didn't break the ice and chalk up the score which gave the Durham lads the Big Five title and allowed them to retain their leadership in the Southern conference.

And now, these Blue Devils, one of the three undefeated major devils of the college scene into Georgia to protect their name against the "Rambling Wreck" team which has caused much discussion in the last league conference.

Georgia Tech's "hard luck" reputation continued by failing to convert an extra point attempt after the touchdown, and culminated in a 7-0 loss for the fourth year in a row to Georgia, 7-0.

CONFERENCE CARD DRAWS TO CLOSE WITH TWO GAMES

Ties Exist in Two Brackets as Southern Conference Season Nears End

CAROLINA PLAYS VIRGINIA

V. M. J. and V. P. L. to Face Each Other in Renewal of Long Standing Rivalry

Two league football battles tomorrow, Thanksgiving Day, will ring down the curtain on the 1933 edition of the southern conference gridiron show, but will leave the production in a decidedly unfinished state. Both first and third watches in the loop standing will be shared, with the possibility of divided honors in second position.

V. M. J. at present in second place, will renew their old rivalry with V. P. L. Either the cauldrons will clinch the second place by securing a victory, or will be forced to accept a share in the already overcrowded third division.

Carolina and Virginia will come together at Chapel Hill in another renewal of a Tar Heel triumph, the Carolinians will put forth their claims to the division of second place honors, whereas, if the Cavaliers are able to demonstrate their superiority, they will quit the fourth slide to share their way into third place.

Outside competition will draw from the conference devils into their final games of the year. This time, Clemson tomorrow will seek a win over Furman. Saturday, three loop teams will meet in a last card of the southern conference in a final attempt to improve their poor showing against the Big Three.

South Carolina, decidedly conquered by Louisiana State in the lone appearance of the Gamecocks in the deep south, will see the rugged Palmettoes, Maryland will encounter Florida, while Duke tackles Georgia Tech.

Duke shares first place with South Carolina. The Tar Heels are backed in a card of three straight loop triumphs. Second place is at present the possession of V. M. J. and V. P. L. in Carolina, Clemson, V. P. L. and Washington and Lee, are filling the third place. Carolina and Clemson have won a league contest and have absorbed one defeat. The Generals were victorious once, tied one encounter, and were outscored in their last league appearance.

CAPTAIN TROXLER READY TO LEAD MATHEM TO HEIGHTS

This year the Blue Devil wrestling squad is fortunate in having several of the year's first men back. Captain Thurman Troxler, who did outstanding work in the Southern Athletic Union, 133 pound class. Other experienced grapplers are Vincent Odom, 118 pounds; John Tally, 125 pounds; Foster and Reed, 145 pounds; Glenn Anderson, 155 pounds; Bill Apple, 165 pounds; and "Haron" Boerpie, 175 pounds.

These veterans are expected to outdo the record of Fred Lloyd, 118 pounds, whose hurt hand is not responding and will not box, will be with the wrestlers. Ken Ormond, 115 pounds; McNeill, 175, all look like good material, according to Coach Alex. Wade.

Warren predicted a championship team this year. In 1932 the Blue Devils were beaten by the Tar Heels for the state championship, although they were given good showing at Atlanta in the southern conference meet.

DUKE TAKES CONFERENCE CROWN IN CROSS COUNTRY

BLUE IMPES QUELL CAROLINA 13 TO 7

Parker Gives Excellent Exhibition As Coach Wallace Wade Looks On

Following in the footsteps of their variety brothers, the Duke Blue Imps, displayed an excellent brand of ball last Friday in defeating the Carolina Tar Babies 13 to 7 at Chapel Hill. These boys played a marvelous game despite the fact that the Tar Heels trotted out a group of alert fighters, who are regarded as dangerous by Wallace Wade, a spectator at the game.

The Blue Imps took the ball at the outset, kept it twelve minutes, and scored two touchdowns. They cut loose with a brand of passing and line blocking that looked as much like their elder brothers as anything seen this season. Clarence Parker, Blue Imp quarterback, easily outshone all others by his wonderful exhibition of passing, kicking, and punting. He, indirectly, was responsible for the second score after making the first.

In the second quarter the Tar Babies began to retaliate, showing across the only score in that period. Dashed, the best kicker seen on Kenan field this season, starred for the Tar Babies as a triple-threat man and alone was responsible for the fact that the Duke boys did not run up a larger score.

The victory gives the Blue Imps the right to call this season a successful season. They claim victories over Oak Ridge, Davidson, and Carolina, bring State, and losing only to Wake Forest.

PRINCETON AND ARMY FAVORED BY STANFORD

Although no bid has been sent out as yet, it is understood that either Princeton or Army would get the invitation to play against Stanford in the annual Rose Bowl game. Reports from these two schools indicate that an invitation would be given serious consideration. Princeton has an agreement with Yale not to play any games after the regular playing season has closed. It is believed that Yale would release its great rival from the ruling.

Army will give serious consideration to a bid if she receives one. It was thought at first that the scholastic requirements of the service school would prevent players from taking such a long absence from school. However, Army officials have indicated that exceptions may be made in this case.

Duke Leads Field as Carolina, V. M. J. State, and Washington and Lee Trail

DUNAJ WINS FIRST PLACE

Washington and Lee Star First; Ford, Bird, Heritage, Jester, Ford, Place For Duke

Leading its nearest opponent by twenty-five points, the Duke cross country team ran hard to capture the southern conference championship for the second consecutive year at Chapel Hill last Saturday.

The Blue Devils swept the low scoring places to finish in five of the first seven positions. The honor of first place, however, went to Dunaj, of Washington and Lee. Dunaj, ran the race in 15:27 to salvage the individual honors for his team in spite of his inferior performance. Bird and Ford were not on his trail to finish in a tie for second. Williamson, of Carolina, managed to finish fourth, but from then on, the other teams had to trail Blue Devil heels. Heritage, Jester, and Ford swept across the finish line, but the issue no longer to decide.

They were followed by Carle of Carolina, Wilford and Burruss of V. M. J., Walling, Haywood, Snigley, and L. Sullivan of Carolina, and Fallon of N. C. State. The team totals were: Duke 213, Carolina 68, V. M. J. 77, N. C. State 120, and Washington and Lee 124.

If last year's meet, in which Duke won by placing five among the first fifteen teams in spite of the fact that this one was overwhelmingly decided. The other conference teams will be able to breathe easier now, as this was the last race for Duke. Duke's victory over Wake Forest, being held as a team event, was the only one in which Duke was not the favorite.

The freshmen runners did not fare as well, bowing to High Point high school by a score of 24 to 33. Fubbs of the winners had enough energy to sprint down the home course and break the tape with the time of 19:18. His last sprint barely shed off Zerbe of Duke, who came in second. In third position was Ellington of High Point; fourth, Mack of Duke; fifth, Haddock of High Point; sixth, Lowe of High Point; seventh, Rhoads of Duke; eighth, Pruitt of Duke; ninth, Dennis of High Point; and tenth, Davis of High Point.

Heston, famous Michigan university extra-hall, has a son now playing halfback at his alma mater.

TWO NEW SPORTS TO START MONDAY

Intramural Department Commences Fraternity and Freshman Dormitory Basketball

Intramural basketball and boxing will be the two sports to start Monday, December 4, when representatives of each fraternity and of each freshman dormitory file their entries at the department's office, according to a statement made by Jerry Gerard, director of intramural athletics.

A successful season is anticipated for these two sports. Mr. Gerard announced that he expects to have at least two or more teams in each of these two sports, and that it is not limited to men in any way in the boxing tournament.

These entries must be made by Monday night, accompanied by the entrance fee. The boxing entries must include a certificate from Dr. Speed. The entrance fees will be 25 cents per individual, or $1.00 per team in boxing and $2.50 per team in basketball.

The schedule for basketball, which will probably take two months, will be made up as soon as the entries have been received. The boxing practice, which will take less time to run off, probably will be completed by the end of the month.

Approximately 20 men are expected to enter the boxing competition, since last year 57 men entered the eight classes.

Gus Durrer, in the unlimited class, Alexander, in the 165 pound division, and Anderson in the 135 pound class, will be expected to defend the titles they won last year. Other fighters who won last year but who will not be able to defend their awards are Hearden, in the lightest class; Onisko, in the 125 pound group; Sypple, 145 pounds; Ourso, 165 pounds; and Dempsey, in the 175 pound division.

Although only three of last year's winners are expected to fight this year, there will be a large number of experienced leather-punchers in the tournament, and numerous good fights are anticipated. Many of last year's scorers who did not gain a championship will be back this year trying for it, and are expected to make the tournament more interesting than it otherwise would be.

A larger number of entries in the 135, 145, and 165 pound divisions is expected by the intramural department, since it has been the experience of the department that more men are of this weight class than of any other.

The basketball games will be played every night except Saturday and Sunday, at 8:30 on the main court of the gymnasium. Two contests will be played, each one consisting of two twelve-minute halves. Between the halves of the first game of the evening, the first half of the second game will be played. This will allow each team to play twelve minutes and rest twelve minutes, and will prevent a player from over-exercising himself.

Everyone who is eligible who is not trying for the varsity in the sport. If a man is going out for one varsity sport he may not participate in that sport in the intramural tournaments. This rule applies to the freshman varsity as well as it does to the regular team.

Two hundred and twenty men participated in the basketball tournament last year, and at least that number is expected to take part by the intramural department.

The teams will be divided, as in touch football, into three sets. Each team will play every other team in its division and then the winners of the divisions will play between themselves to decide the university champion team. The divisions will be the same as they were in touch football.

ENGINEERING SOCIETIES HOLD BI-WEEKLY MEET

Meetings of the local branches of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and American Society of Civil Engineers held Monday and Tuesday, November 20 and 21, respectively.

At the electrical engineers' meeting short talks were given by John Bryce, George Dilworth, and F. S. Blunt on the lives of Edison, Edison, and Steinmetz, respectively.

Dave Drummond presented an interesting lecture on the Music Shells project development of the civil engineer's meeting. The talk was illustrated.

TWELVE HONORED IN R. O. S. ELECTION

Conducted in the R. O. S. election, the members of the R. O. S. elected a group of twelve men to be in the Atlanta group Saturday the initiates set at a game so that all the freshmen would realize what the campus part of the in-formal B.O.S. initiation is like. At approximately three hours after the initiation the initiates mingled through the stands. The initiation was modeled somewhat after the B.O.S. initiation of last spring in order that the new men might feel that they are more completely a part of the organization despite the fact that they were not initiated with their classmates.

possibilities of the game. The Blue Devils won their prolonged effort. State was given the ball on their own beyond line after Duke's score when Cornell twice glided out of the game. A surprise pass clicked and advanced State into Duke's territory. The Blue Devils line rose to the occasion and stopped State's last scoring attempt by holding Rex one-half yard short of a touchdown on their own 35 yard line.

MANY TO ATTEND ALUMNI LUNCHEON

Dean Wannamaker to Speak Before Georgia Alumni in Atlanta Saturday

The Georgia alumni of Duke university will hold a luncheon at Saturday, December 2, in Atlanta. This luncheon is part of the Duke Day celebration, which is to be held in Atlanta in connection with the Duke-Georgia Tech game.

The luncheon was originally scheduled to be held later in December on the date of the regular Duke Alumni Day, but, due to the fact that so many Duke students and alumni will be in Atlanta for the game, the date was moved up.

Dean W. H. Wannamaker, president of the Atlanta alumni association, will preside over the meeting. The luncheon, lasting only one hour, will be over in time for the game.

Joe Gensert-Wannamaker, Kappa Alpha, Baltimore, Md. Elected to the local chapter of Phi Beta Kappa this fall. Won freshman and sophomore honors and is a member of 9015, local honorary scholastic order. President of the Duke basketball team during his first year at Duke, and was on the squad as sophomore year. Member of the Duke Publications board and of the Polity club.

be allowed to join that fraternity for a year and the fraternity in question be heavily fined. This suggestion was accepted and will be acted upon in the next Pan-Hellenic meeting.

The idea of deferred rushing was then discussed at length and various opinions as to its merits were discussed. Numerous students thought that fraternities would cooperate completely with the rushing code there would be no fault found. In so far as the system is being tried for the first time on the Duke campus it was the consensus of opinion that to date the deferred rushing has been on the whole a success.
