Representatives of the travel agencies were escorted by the city hosts by Mayor W. F. Carr, of Durham, and President M. M. Briggs, of the Chamber of Commerce. The visitors were escorted by the city hosts by Mayor W. F. Carr, of Durham, and President M. M. Briggs, of the Chamber of Commerce. They spent some time in visiting the West campus.

Steve Seab, steering column, claims title to the cognomen of "iron man" at State because he has played so long full time games.

Carl Sauerby, Carolina grid coach, is also an expert photographer.

well and his assistants, Horace Henderson and Tom Rogers, to have the lops in the last possible shape for the game. Donald Percy, one of the leading basketball prospects of the team, has returned to the line-up after an absence of six days due to an ankle injury. Percy scored one of Duke's touchdowns in the Oak Ridge game.

Positions Unsettled

The battle for positions is so constant that it is hard to say just who will start the State game on Friday. The line-up for the halfback position in the Imp line has returned to the line-up. "Tiger" Hill, right guard, has been leading performers but "Buck" Bakerville, Walt "Von" Rogers, tackle; Fred York and Bill Mize, ends, and Cy Robinson have been coming along in fine fashion.

It is in the backfield that war is being waged. For the halfback position, Bill Bailey, Ken Lovell, Jack Lange, and Bobby "Tide" O'Mara are constant contenders. The quarterback position lies between Johnny Groves and Eric Tipton.

power in the last two periods to roll up an easy 34-6 triumph.

NEW YORK ARENA SEES BIG

SEASON FOR BASKETBALL

One more game will be arranged for the Garden before the season opens. The biggest crowd for a basketball game in the Garden last year was 15,588 for the Kentucky-N. Y. U. game, which the violet won by one point. The Notre Dame-N. Y. U. game drew 15,156. Irish expects half a dozen sellouts this season if all goes well.

Fans Accept Game

The spectacular success of basketball in the Garden is attributed by Irish to the fact that a spectator who pays his money to see a game can sit in a comfortable seat and actually feel the game.

"There are thousands of basketball fans in New York who got tired of going to college games and sitting on backbenches bleachers with summer in the back of their heads," said Irish. "They liked basketball but they weren't willing to sit in uncomfortable seats in sometimes bad weather."

"Old times they had to start to game an hour or so before game time, on center difficulty in getting in, more trouble in getting a seat and then once in their seat, having someone else stick their knees in their backs until they lost all interest in the game. The games in the Garden merely enabled the fans to get good seats and see the game without encountering all kinds of physical inconveniences. That's where we have such big crowds."

GRIDIRON PROPHETS

HOULY SUCCESSFUL

California, Texas Christian, Princeton, Baylor, and Southern Methodist as standouts. New York University or Marquette to be near the top; Army and Notre Dame to show improvement, and North Carolina to be weaker than last season. The big mis was Syracuse—"baldie" dollars.

In the East, Princeton has won each week, but has been pushed by supposedly weaker outfits. Army has been decidedly improved. New York University is underfated, and their power as measured by the statistics is exactly as predicted. Syracuse has found the mystic men with a spotless record.

In the Midwest, Ohio State is well on its way to the national championship honors which were tentatively handed to them in September. Notre Dame continues unblemished, ruling well above the predicted "improvement." Marquette has looked good in winning this contest so headless among the favored staff.

On the coast, California was out to have another "sunder team" as a possibility. While they have not shown the power of Ohio State, they may be classed with the best in the country.

Sydney Methodist, Baylor, and Texas Christian have, as expected, done their worst.

North Carolina has taken the spotlight from the favorite in the South, Alabama, and finds itself many notches above the prophesied decline due to the graduation of George Barclay.
