20 Eligible Freshmen Taste Rushing a la Duke Which Started Yesterday

By CHARLES WENRICH

Approximately two hundred and twenty freshmen are getting their first taste of Greek rushing at a Duke which began at the end of the fourth period class yesterday. The procedure will continue until 6 p.m. Friday.

Freshmen visited the various fraternities Sunday afternoon, and had their date cards filled out for the remainder of the week. Yesterday was spent keeping some dates and breaking many—both to the pleasure and disgust of the jealous Greeks.

Entertainment Varied

Each fraternity is giving its round of dances, smokers, buffet suppers, cabin parties, beer parties, and bowling parties throughout the week in an attempt to satisfy the favorable wishes. From reports gathered from the various fraternities, it seems that

Fraternity men have been the kings of the semester with the freshmen as their subjects. Positions have been changed for this week and it appears that the first-year men are taking every advantage of their situations. This situation will obviously change

DEVILS MEET STIRLING TARHEEL QUINTET FRIDAY

WITH THE BLUE DEVILS

By FRANK MATHEY, Sports Editor

THE SIGNING OF ACE PARKER with the Philadelphia Athletics last week is going to give Coach Coombs one more place to fill when the Duke basketball team swings into action this spring. Not one regular outfielder of last year's club will be returning, the wide stretches of Coombs Park this season, and it will fall to Steve Fuller and a group of promising newcomers to jump into the breach. The infield to date remains untouched and the Devils should have one of the finest combinations in the country on its first line of defense. But the outfield and pitchers hold the key to success, and the team's success will depend on how fast these two departments develop.

Combs and Mack—Specialists

CONNIE MACK, who is developing into players for Duke's All-American football star on the professional diamond, and taking Parker to Mexico City for spring training as soon as the camp opens. If Ace makes the grade, the American League season should open to find two former Duke stars in the A's lineup. Chubby Dean on first and Parker out in the garden. Fairly reliable sources seem to indicate that at least one other Blue Devil ball-player is slated to play for the Athletics after graduation this year, and if this lineup up for long, they'll be calling them the Philadelphia-Duke Athletics. Connie Mack and Jack Coombs have a close friendship which goes way back, and they are considered as probably the two finest instructors in the nation's national sport.

THE FORM THAT The Duke heroes flashed against West Virginia last Saturday is only another season for considering the outstanding contenders for the Conference title this year. The Warriors made it look easy against the powerful Mountaineers, and the West Virginia fans, who have long contended that no team in the country could touch them, received an awful shock. We warrant that Wincons, who has been calling the Devils a two-man team (Parker and Matthews), are now becoming a little uneasy about their late season match with such contenders. The only surprise of the Mountaineer move was the defeat of Jimmie Little, who, fighting his last year as a varsity man, has been tending to such a splendid job. Although he dropped a close decision, we predict that before long he will develop into one of the Devil's most valuable men.

Deacons Catch Opportunity . . . and Devils

WALK FOREST'S DEACONS, who found all of their opportunities to the four winds in their first encounter with the Duke courtmen, really did an about-face in catching the Carmichael warriors Saturday. Any team that is able to pile up twelve points while limiting the Devils to but one is really dragging opportunity across the threshold before it even gets a chance to knock. The real lesson in the whole matter is that the Devils are going to have to play their hearts out every week, if their remaining games if they expect to make the grade in the next few weeks. The last five minutes of the Army game, in which they sank buckets at the rate of one every twenty-four seconds, was one of the greatest surpassing exhibitions of the year; yet to do this for forty full minutes is another story.

ODDS AND ENDS Department . . . If Doc Newton can do as much with N. C. State in his capacity as the new football member as he did with the Devils, the Wolfpack should be one of the most formidable teams in the conference next year . . . too bad he couldn't take LaFayette with him . . . There is a chance that the Duke boxing team may make the trip to Winston in the fastest way possible . . . Nothing else about that gang in or out of the ring . . . Clair Boy, Long Island University basketball coach, has learned his lesson about this business of taking on champions from all over the country in a snap-fire order . . . Little Goveva turned the tables when least expected . . . The same thing happened to N.Y.U. three years ago . . . The Violets were running away with everything, until Yale, having one of its worst seasons, upset the New Yorkers.

Boxers Stop Mountaineers, 6-2

DEVIL RINGMEN GET THREE TKO'S, THREE DECISIONS

Koger, Kneipp, and W. Mann Given Nod Over Strong West Virginians

FABRIZIO VICTOR IN 37

The Duke victory boxing team won their second victory of the season Saturday night as they bludgeoned the powerful Mountaineers of the University of West Virginia out of the undefeated class with a 6-2 win. The Blue Devils went to Morgantown preceded by a barrage of press notices and pictures to face a team equally as strong as that which tied last year and left with the West Virginia and Virginia papers clashing them as the best team in the South.

A capacity crowd of 4,000 watched the Duke score three technical knockouts and three decisions, and drop the featherweight and heavy weights fights by a decision and TKO.

What's the Use?

Danny Farrer provided the high light of the card as he threw out slugging blows to the body which floored Little. The referee called a halt in 23 seconds of the first round. Ray Matthews spent one minute longer in the ring than Farrer as he TKO'd Anita in 1:55 of the first round. Matthews spent the extra minute carrying his left on Anita's face.

The hardest slugging battle of the evening was put on by Al Mann and Kelly Moss, football flash of the Mountaineers. Mann hung up a TKO after 1:08 of the third round.

The Comeback Trail

Wilson Mann hit the comeback trail in his fight with Eastern later collegiate champion Sunny Littlepage as he was to have a halcyon decision after three fast rounds. Mann won the first two rounds by close margin but was far ahead of Johnson in the last round. Captain Jack Kneipp, on his timing and footwork, maintained a safe margin over McInnis to win a decision.

Chronicle Renames Duke Park After Coach Coombs

Despite the fact that no official recognition has been given in an editorial appearing in the Chronicle last May suggesting that the Duke baseball park be renamed Coombs Park, the Chronicle will henceforth refer to it as Coombs park.

Efforts will be made to arrange a dedication ceremony early in the baseball season to honor Coach Coombs, and the Athletic Association or the Administration or both officially name the park after the man who built it.

DUKE FROSH LOSE TO BABY DEACONS, 36-30

Blue Imps Down Tar Babies 22-21 Friday Afternoon They Lose to Deacons on Saturday

The Blue Devil freshmen sustained their first loss of the current season Saturday night when they went down to defeat at the hands of the Wake Forest youngsters. Both teams fought throughout the contest, Wake Forest finally emerging the victor by a score of 36-30. The half court play with the Baby Deacs holding a 21-17 advantage. Sweet, Deacon guard, was high point man for the contest, making 14 points. Henderson, Devil guard, was runner-up with 12 counts.

Down Tar Babies

Friday afternoon the Devil youngsters beat the Tar Heels 22-21. The game was perhaps the hardest fought of the season. The Blue Imps found the basket a few seconds after the opening whistle and within a minute and a half had scored 7 points. From then on the Tar Babies were threatened and the score after three minutes was 16 to 6.

Although the Tar Heel quintet had a decided height advantage, they were completely outplayed as the Blue Imps held them to six field goals while scoring 23. Bill Parsons, Al Hendrickson, and Dick Leopold were the star performers for the winners. Parsons was high point man for the Imps, bagging six goals for a total of 12 points. Top scorers for Carolina went to Mable who scored 6 points.

DUKE SWIMMERS DIVIDE PAIR WITH TWO OPPONENTS

V. P. I. Falls Before Devils by 45-41 Score; William and Mary Wins in Thriller

The Blue Devil swimmers split a pair of week-end meets, edging out an unsupervised 45-41 victory over the V.P.I. in the Duke pool, and losing a heart breaker to William and Mary, 44-40 in Williamsport.

Quaking a lead in the opening event of the clash with V.P.I., the Devils were never headed. An unofficial Duke team won the relay, with the official team, Donaghy, Walker, Balguy and Von Glahn, coming in at the official first and giving the Ducks an 8-4 lead.

Take Early Lead

Chambers took an easy first for the Blue and White in the 200-yard breast stroke, with Ingman a close second to the V.P.I. Glen, Dittman, and for first in the 100-yard backstroke, with Pharo teaming in. In the 50-yard freestyle, Howe and Dillon carried away first and second for V.P.I. while Morrow Duke captured third.

Duke captured nearly all the places in the distance 400 event. Morrow took the lead, followed by the Blue and White in the 100-yard freestyle, with Korte leading the men home in the dash by ten feet, and Goode adding another point for third.

V. P. I. Takes Driving

The Virginia team took both first and second in driving. Korte, the winner, sank up a jump's score of 92A. Strickland took third for Duke in the 220-freestyle dash. Green and Dillon teamed to capture first and second for V.P.I., while Goode took third. But Coach Parsons' men clinched the meet by taking the most relay with Chambers, Gerst, and Korte playing out for 20 seconds longer.

Saving several of his men for the strenuous meet with William and Mary Saturday, Person did not show the capacity crowd of fans the full strength of the Duke swimmers. (Continued on page four)

BLUE DEVIL MATMEN DEFEATED BY W. & L.

General Grappler Shuts Out Duke, 35-20 Kemp and Lowry Obtain Falls for the Visiting Team

Displaying their expected line brand of wrestling, the Washington and Lee grapplers, last year's Southern Conference champs, romped off with the decision in every one of the three matches in a meet here Friday night against the Blue Devil matmen. Four time advantages, two falls, and two forfeits gave the battle to the Generals, 35-20.

The 115-pound catch-as-catch-can was the shortest and the most exciting bout of the evening. Forged by the Duke team, the fight was almost pinned inside of one minute by Kemp, but he was unable to squirm off the mat. This served only to prolong the bout, however, for it was immediately seen that Kemp would get his man sooner or later. Levy stally out for defense, but finally succumbed after 5 minutes, 40 seconds of the match.

Captain Bob Stephenson of Duke, over-weight for the 115-pound, entered the 125-pound class meeting Eaton. Stephenson put up the best fight of all the other Duke entrants, but he could not hold an early time advantage, and he too bowed in defeat. Eaton managing to stay on top just one minute and 20 seconds longer.

Bonally Pinned

In the 135-pound set-to, Lowry of W. & L. displayed approximately the same line of wrestling as his team-mate. (Continued on page four)

Keen Rivals Meet Friday In Crucial Floor Contest

INTRAMURAL COMMENTARY

By E. T. BAKER, III

Duke hoisters didn't do too well in the Durham allays handicap tournament. Only two men, both members of the A.A. team, got past the second round. Fred Rehman was eliminated in the third round, but Reed Mitchell, a sophomore from Washington, N. C., rolled unbeatable games until the final round when he found the competition too great and lost to an older and more experienced Durham hawker.

Large Handicap

Mitchell went into the tourney with a 33 average, somewhat lower than that of most of his opponents, and, as a result, enjoyed a large handicap. As it turned out, the Washington didn't need his handicap until the final match and then it wasn't enough. Mitchell won all of his games up to the finals with higher scores than his rivals without the addition of the handicaps. He has worked on the A.A. five over since the beginning of the inter-fraternity league and is capable of very high totals at times. Over the period of a half season, his scores have been rather erratic, however.

The Kappa Sigs can't stand property. They dropped two out of three games to the K.A.'s. Schaefer as Steve Fuller lead the decline with a meager 85. K.A. also took three straight games from Sigma Nu. A little afternoon and drew a little closer to the Lambda Club in the three-way battle for second place. It looks like a fight down the stretch between the three teams, K.A., Kappa Sigs and Lambda Club for the runner-up position.

New Members

The split season problem has not yet been voted upon, but the suggestion will be strongly opposed by the league leaders who have shown signs of slumping up. Moreover, the league played on the part of some of the other teams points to a much closer second half. A.T.C. cannot be expected to favor a plan whereby, in the face of greater competition along the line, its first half advantage is maintained. (Continued on page four)

First Game Last Year Ended in 36-34 Victory for Duke After Graveling Extra Session; Carolina Given Odds

By ROBERTS DE TARTAGLIA

The smoldering rivalry between Duke and Carolina will flare anew Friday night in the Tar Con at Chapel Hill when the two-up white ends into action for the outstanding basketball teams in the present Conference race.

Both Carolina and Duke have been beaten twice in Conference play this season. The White Phantoms were battered by Davidson and Wake Forest, while the Blue Devils dropped a 30-27 decision to N. C. State, and last Saturday night fell before the determined attack of the Wake Forest quint, 34-28.

Odds With Carolina

Taking into consideration the present record of the Tar Heels and the fact that Friday night's scuffle will take place on Carolina's court, the odds lean toward the Tar Heels. But when Duke and Carolina are pitted against each other, all records and accomplishments are thrown to the winds.

Last year the first Duke-Carolina fray—staged in the Tar Con—ended in a 36-34 victory for the Blue Devils, after a 30-0 deadlock at the expiration of the regular time necessitated an extra period.

Split Last Year

The issue was finally decided by the stellar performance of Fred Rehman and Ken Pedersen. Rehman accounted for two field goals, and Pedersen added a side shot to offset Andy Berish's pair of double-doubles.

Smarting under this defeat, the White Phantoms descended upon Durham and, by staging an uphill battle, conquered the Blue Devils, 30-28. Star of this game was Andy Berish, Carolina's acesman forward.

Carolina, the defending Southern Conference champions, played its greatest game of this year against N. C. State, with only five minutes of the game remaining, they mastered sufficient aggression and determination to score 11 points and sink away the verdict, 34-31.

One hundred percent of the engineers who graduated from the University of Detroit last June are now employed, according to Ralph R. Johnson, industrial co-ordinator.

N. C. ASSEMBLY USES DUKE LAW HANDBOOK

"Legislation in North Carolina," prepared by Law Faculty, indispensable to Legislators

Members of the State General Assembly and other governmental officials in Raleigh have been supplied with copies of "Legislation in North Carolina," a legislative handbook prepared by the Department of Legislative Research and Drafting of the Duke Law School.

The handbook for this book, which explains in detail the machinery by which North Carolina laws are fashioned, has made it necessary for a reprinting in recent months. Legislators and government officials have expressed the opinion that the book is practically indispensable to them. In particular numerous letters of appreciation have been received in the office of Dean Horace of the Duke Law School in the last few days from those who have been elected to the North Carolina General Assembly for the first time.

The Department of Legislative Research and Drafting of Duke is under the direction of Professor Malcolm McDermott. He has been on leave of absence from the University since the Constitutional Law in Polish universities.

mate Kemp did a few minutes previous, when he took the offensive from the very start of the battle. Again, this system worked to good advantage, for although Dunsenly of Duke provided some fairly stiff opposition, Lewis pinned him in 6 minutes 52 seconds. This bout closed the meet for Washington and Lee.

The Generals did not ease up at this point, for they went right ahead and took the 145-pound engagement when Thomas of W. & L. took advantage of being on top in the second round of the fight, and took the decision over Friedlander by a minute, 4 seconds.

The impending assault could not be avoided by Duke, as Haines lost to Captain Arena of the Generals, and Newsom, the Devil's last hope, failed in gain the decision over Shively of the visitors, losing by a minute, 53 seconds time advantage. The last two matches had to be fought to W. & L. because Duke did not have the men for these weights.

The Ten Kappa Alpha debate tournament held at Vanderbilt April 24-26 and sponsored by the Southern Association of Teachers of Speech. At the same time that he announced the membership of varsity squad last week Mr. Lewis named the members of the Junior varsity team. They were William Fickes, F. L. Dobbie, Lewis Scott, William Somerville, Maurice Whitcomb, and Charles White. The teams were named at the conclusion of the second intramural debate tournament which was won by Duke.

Robert A. Wilkerson and Fred Cleveland Cleveland was adjudge of the second debate among the four speakers who entered the tournament.

Two teams, composed of Seaford and Walter, and Walcott and Walcott, were the first place in the tournament. The women's section of the tournament will be held Thursday and Friday of this week.

Last year the Duke squad was very fortunate to have a schedule as extensive as the one for this year, and large crowds attended the home games. This year they will be the first to be sponsored by a Duke fraternity and a cup given to the team which places first in the tournament.

It is probable that the debates will be held at a different place than last year. The ball room was overrun by the audience and a larger place is being sought.

Selected Co-Ed Team
Lobby, with a committee of faculty judges, will select the women's varsity debate team from contestants in intramural debating tournament to be held in Carr building Thursday and Friday of this week.

Debate are scheduled this spring with teams at Washington, D. C. and Atlanta, Georgia, and on this campus with colleges throughout the East.

Ten Kappa Alpha, national honor society speaking fraternity, has chosen the following question, which will be used in all college debating contests. Resolved, that Congress should be empowered to fix maximum hours and minimum wages for industry.

Mildred Williams, president of the discussion on East campus, has announced that the following are entered in the tournament: Happy Hays, Della Benson, Diana Hays, Mary Zerk, Ruth Edwards, Lili Hatcher, Catharine Blumery, and Betty Jella.

DUKE SWIMMERS DIVIDE PAIR WITH TWO OPONENTS

Against the undefeated opponents at Williamsburg, however, he sent his full strength. Swimming in three events McKilloh passed in iron-man performance, showing creditably in all, with Butte and Kurts headlining the meet.

The Virginia team took a four-point lead by winning the rocky, and maintained the lead by sending the phenomenal breast-stroke and Chalmers across for an easy first. Chambers and Ingham took second and third for Duke.

Little Takes First
Following, Battle took the first in the 100-yard backstroke event for Duke, while Butte and Kurts headlined the first in the 400-yard dash for Duke, and the Indians regained the advantage by a single point.

Again rallying, McKilloh, Duke's star distance man, took the 400-yard event, and Kurts took second, sending Duke into a 6-point lead. In the 100-yard dash, Kurts took second, maintaining the Blue Devil lead.

masterful and gritty fight throughout the heated fray, but those last few minutes of the match saw the Blue Devils of the institution as the most successful. After Swindle had set the stage with a field goal, he was awarded a foul shot on Woodward, which he converted. Again Woodward fouled him and this time the sterling W. & L. guard was obliged to leave the stadium for the personal foul and whipped the bucket with a lone hand.

Podger Stars Again
Captain Podger, who left no doubt in the minds of the spectators about his prowess as one of the foremost basketball players of the country this year, came back into the spotlight in a spectacular manner when he took a pass from Johnny Hoffman, dribbled through the entire enemy quilt and whipped the bucket with a lone hand.

Credit for Duke's splendid conquest largely is to be attributed to the leadership of Podger and Ken Podger and all of them second high scorer of the game with 11 points, while Herb Hickman (dismal) when compared with Williams and Lee's eleven points, was her colleague in the last night of his towering opponent.

The sports scene was unimpaired in depicting Hickman's performance last night at his best.
