Non-Denominational Church; s To Elect Their Own Directors

Thursday night, October 28, is the date for the first co-ed formal dinner, according to Miss Dora Stine, chairman of the formal dinner committee.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some faint smudges and discoloration, characteristic of old paper. The left edge of the page is bound, showing the inner hinge and some stitching. The overall tone is warm and slightly yellowed.

Pi Kappa Alpha announces the recent pledging of Theodore Hargis, Worcester, Mass.; Frank Hove, Brookline, Mass.; Samuel Pinnell, Richmond, Va.; Eugene Wilson, Winston-Salem, N. C.; and Samuel Peder, Charlottesville, Va. The chapter initiated Wallace Olson, Pittsfield, N. Y.; and Marvin Wiley, Princeton, N. J., on Oct. 11. The above group was ceremoniously listed under the heading of Pi Kappa Phi in an earlier edition of the Chronicle.

James D. Bowen, Williamson, N. C., was recently pledged by Kappa Sigma.

Week-end visitors with Delta Tau Delta were Freddie Johnson, Jr., Winston-Salem, N. C.; and W. S. Blackhawk, Jr., Freeport, Texas.

Kappa Alpha announces the initiation of Henry Warth, Baltimore, Md., at a masked initiation conducted by Dr. Peder Fjellberg evening as a feature of the Province Convention.

Pi Kappa Phi will hold their annual fall formal in the Union Ballroom Friday evening from 8 to 12 o'clock. Music will be furnished by the Duke Ambassadors.

The following officers have been elected by the members of Pi Beta Phi president, Kay Lysbeth; vice-president, Mary Elizabeth Crawford; secretary, Martha Swearingen; treasurer, Martha Wall, chairman of activities, Dorothy Aylward.

The members of Kappa Delta continued their pledges with a cabin party at the W. A. A. cabin over the week-end.

The pledges of Kappa Alpha Theta elected Dorothy Porritt as president.

Pi Mu takes pleasure in announcing the initiation Friday of Joanne Moreton of Erie, Pa.

The pledges and activities of Pi Beta Phi enjoyed a supper in the chapter room Sunday night.

Week-end visitors with Pi Kappa Alpha were Harry Horton, Jr., Allentown, N. C.; and Patsy Seale, of Alpha Epsilon Chapter, N. C. State College, Raleigh, N. C.

The pledges of Pi Mu have elected officers: president, Dorothy Gish, vice-president, Megan Russell, secretary, Louise Nelling; treasurer, Jean MacNitt.

East Campus Profits

Miss Richards, of Chidlow studio, is referring to New York City at the end of the week. Since there are six hundred girls who must return profits to the Chamberlain staff has requested that those who wish to have the expert advice of Miss Richards return their profits to her early in the week.

The Undergraduate Writers' Guild will hold a meeting Thursday evening at 7:30 in the President's room of the Woman's college auditorium, with Professor Irving in attendance.

ger who was then eating his lunch. I called London by international telephone, and dictated the story, telling the boy who took it down to send it by urgent rate all over the world. The United Press took it by "fast" in its story news service by several hours.

In 1933 I was back in New York and in August flew down to Havana just in time to report the death of President Gerardo Machado dictatorially. After covering the "Battle of the National Hotel" and the post-surrender maneuvers, I returned to New York and was then assigned to Washington to cover the activities of Manuel L. Quezon and the Philippine Independence question.

In 1935 I became manager of the Mexican division. A year and a half ago I met Margaret Sidel, of Stewart Manor, Long Island, and I were married.

The campaigns of the Trinity Chronicle for 1932-33 probably have all been forgotten by now, but there's one lasting accomplishment to its credit—that of having established the name of "Bliss Devils".

Our paper in those days was considered a rather aggressive one, with a strong editorial policy. People actually waited for Wednesday to come around to see what the paper might deal with next. Our editorial took up topics which had been all but sacred—Professor Leppner's bookman; the over-dating of pep meetings; our news policy was to "play down" the University activities and give the scintilla of news publicly. But all that we did has been forgotten—except for the naming of the team.

Women's Gymnasium Scene of Colorful Social Standards' Halloween Festival

By Ward Knows

Festive regalia appeared at the Social Standards' Halloween party held last Friday night in the Women's Gym. And an array of costumes and a band of big apples, five hundred students of St. David's School held forth in merriment and revelry. The usual Halloween fare of cider and shivers (doughnuts) was served.

The Luchavans out of the West were behind the close sphered act, which were ovals and which were children. Some of our leading ovals, with the aid of abbreviated dresses and hair ribbons, knocked off ten to twelve years from their usual appearance so that no one was able to recognize them. Those two Janes, Love and Genn, were excellent examples of ten year olds, thus proving the old saying, "clothes make the woman."

Credit for the party goes to Mary Duke Biddle, chairman in charge of the party; Louise Brugh, decorations chairman; Roberts' Townsend, in charge of refreshments; and Betty Stone, chairman of Social Standards.

Ward was the able editor of the Chronicle, an attempt was made to name the college teams by nickname. Ward vainly tried to stir up interest among the student body. Several name-meetings were held. Many names were submitted, among them "Bliss Devils", which Ward did not like. The year ended with no name having been selected.

Devils' Name

When I was elected editor-in-chief, I chose Mike Bradshaw as managing editor, a position which formerly did not exist on the paper. Mike and I believed that the paper should lead the student body, instead of having the student body lead it. So we decided to select the college symbol, our promise was simple. Right from the first issue we referred to the football players as "Bliss Devils", then on the "Bliss Devils", and so on.

The name "Bliss Devils" was not popular. The college press bureau and the Durham newspapers hesitated to use it. But we kept right on at it. It always explained that I did not particularly like the name either, but that no suitable name had been found in the past, and if we didn't go ahead and adopt one, no name would ever be selected. The college colors were blue and white, so the "Bliss Devils".

to many of the kids, thereby being valuable yardage.

Although the blocked punts were the only methods by which the Wolfpack scored, they failed to capitalize on at least three opportunities opened to them.

The first came in the second period when a fumble gave Duke the ball on Colgate's 20 yard line. The Raiders defense stiffened, however, and Duke lost the ball on downs.

Hackney Intercepts Pass Later in the same cantos, Hackney intercepted a Colgate pass and ran back to the Raiders' 36. Again the Devil running and passing attack was stopped and the ball ended as Tiger.

I Cover The Campus

Fath should have consulted Selby Montgomery, president of the year, for a "durable date" for Saturday's Frodo dance.

Postponed Indefinitely Because of a conflicting engagement, the dance scheduled to be given by Social Standards in the Ark last Saturday was postponed. A misunderstanding of arrangements between the Men's Pan-Hellenic council and Social was the cause of the announcement in the last issue of the Chronicle.

Hesperian Meets Thursday Four club members will speak at the regular Hesperian Union meeting Thursday, October 26, at 7:30 in the Y. W. C. A. room of East Duke building. Fourteen new members will be invited to attend.

ton was thrown for a 10-yard loss by Harry Rittick, Colgate end.

Again in the third period, Duke missed an opportunity for another score. Long was hurried on a punt, and the result was a pass 15 yard kick out of bounds on the Colgate 46.
