Fallout Experts Schedule Address For East Campus

The University Fallout Preparedness Committee will present a special one-hour program tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. in the Woman's College Auditorium. The session is designed to acquaint all women students with the University's protection plans.

Conrad Knight, radiological safety officer for the University, and Dr. Richard Leach, both committee members, will speak at the program.

Chairmen of all East Campus extra-curricular activities have cancelled and postponed their meetings in co-operation with the plans for the assembly, Dean Mary Grace Wilson said.

Attendance is voluntary, but everyone is urged to come both for her own benefit and that of the University community, according to the committee, which scheduled the meeting at this time so that during the holidays students can inform their parents of the University's plans.

Students in the School of Nursing and in the various graduate and professional programs are invited to join East students at this meeting.

Concert Band Plays Tuesday

Vincent Persichetti will conduct the University Concert Band in the premiere performance of his chorale prelude "So Pure the Star." The premiere will highlight the band's winter program Tuesday, December 11 at 8:15 p.m. in Page Auditorium.

In addition to the chorale prelude commissioned by the University, Mr. Persichetti will conduct his "Psalm for Band."

Philip Farkas will perform Mozart's "Concerto No. 2 in C for French Horn" in an additional feature. Mr. Farkas is former first horn player in the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra and the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Union Slates Hayes, Evans Pair Star in Nationally Acclaimed Tour, 'A Program for Two Players'

By MICHAEL PETERSON
Chronicle News Editor

Helen Hayes and Maurice Evans, in their nationally acclaimed tour, will stage "A Program for Two Players" in Page Auditorium Friday evening, December 11, at 8:15.

The Program consists of 24 excerpts from Shakespeare's plays and sonnets.

Miss Hayes and Mr. Evans's appearance at the University is part of their 19-week tour of 69 cities across the country. Student Union is sponsoring their stop here.

The pair were highly acclaimed in Detroit where critics predicted, "the visit of Evans and Miss Hayes is going to be remembered as one of the big weeks of any theatre season."

The Detroit News labeled Miss Hayes's performance "simply tremendous." The Detroit Free Press wrote,

"Evans's greatest triumph was his magnificent mastery of comedy."

Miss Hayes, commonly called the "First Lady of the Theatre," and Mr. Evans, widely accepted as this country's leading Shakespearean actor, appear in evening clothes throughout their performance.

Contemporary Costumes
The costuming, or lack of it, is in the almost now forgotten Shakespearean tradition—costumes in the contemporary garb of the actor's time.

Miss Hayes's scarf is the only prop. Staging consists solely of a small platform three steps above the stage.

Mr. Evans came to this country in 1935 following his success in Hamlet at London's Old Vic.

Evans: Theatre Stalwart
Since 1936 Mr. Evans has been one of the major driving forces in the American theatre. He was the first person to present the full-length version of Hamlet in this country.

His movie credits include Kind Lady opposite Ethel Barrymore, Andros and the Lion and Gilbert and Sullivan. Mr. Evans was one of the first leading actors to go into the television medium and thus far has produced seven plays for Hallmark.

Helen Hayes Theatre
Miss Hayes made her Broadway debut in 1909 and in 1955 the Broadway Fulton Theatre was renamed the Helen Hayes Theatre in observance of her 50 years in the American theatre. She has starred in numerous motion pictures, winning an Academy Award in 1932.

Hits at Grossness

UNC Dean Objects To 'Filth' In 'Dook' Parade, Takes Action

The Dean of Men at the University of North Carolina, William G. Long, has taken action to prevent the recurrence of the grossness and offensive nature of the floats that appeared in the "Beat Dook" parade.

Long has set up an administrative committee to "review for approval" all "public parades, displays and presentations" before the event, according to an article in the UNC newspaper, the Daily Tar Heel, November 29.

An editorial in the Daily Tar Heel said "this year's parade veered on outright filth. It was, matter of factly, quite foul." Long commented, "There has been no responsible student control—and some control has to be exercised."

UNC Review Committee
The review committee is composed of four members, including the Deans of Men and Women and two members of the faculty. The committee will pay particular attention to the Homecoming displays and the Sigma Chi Derby as well as the "Beat Dook" parade. If a display of offensive nature should occur, this committee will make recommendations for disciplinary action.

Duke System
Duke University has no administrative reviewing committee as such. Instead, for each event involving floats or displays, special student committees are established. Homecoming Week End, for instance, has a committee that reviews design plans sent in by each organization constructing a display. These plans must be okayed before construction can begin. Joe College committee has a similar responsibility for reviewing floats to be featured in the annual parade.

MUSICAL STARTS TOMORROW

Players To Stage 'Fantasticks'

Duke Players will bring the music and whimsy of the Fantasticks to Branson tomorrow through Saturday at 8:15.

The New York production, still playing off-Broadway, was adopted from an amateur collegiate production by two young Texas playwrights and songwriters. "Try to Remember," a tune from the musical, became a hit after the Harry Belafonte recording.

Bray, Parks Star

Claudia Bray '63 and Richard Parks '63 play the boy and girl whose love affair forms the main theme of the story. In the final act, the young lovers become disillusioned when they find that life is not always rosy.

Garrett Schenck '63 is the narrator; John Van Hettinga '64, the Girl's Father; Geoffrey Mason '63, the Boy's Father; Jerry Martin '63, the Mute; Clay Hollister '63, the Old Actor; and Sal Rapisardi '63, the Man Who Dies.

Tickets for the musical are $1.25 and may be obtained at the Branson box office or by calling extension 3181.

Karl Wolfram To Sing, Play German Songs

The Young Artist's Series of the Student Union, in co-operation with the German department, will present Karl Wolfram in a concert of folk and ancient German songs tomorrow at 8:15 p.m. in the Music Room of East Duke.

Herr Wolfram, 33-year-old lutist and singer, traveled through South America and the U. S. last year under the auspices of the Bonn government as a representative of German culture. He is currently touring representative American Universities.

His lute, over 400 years old and made of ivory, once belonged to Frederick the Great. This particular instrument is a break-neck theorb with 12 strings.

The program includes a wide variety of German Lieder, ranging in time from the late Middle Ages to the present. Of special interest are Herr Wolfram's songs from the Thirty Years' War.

West Drive in February

East Sets Campus Chest

The East Campus Chest will hold its annual drive tonight, tomorrow and Thursday, according to Ann Whitmire '63, treasurer.

Pledges, to be paid in February, will be solicited in East dorms by hall representatives. This year's goal is $3,000, said Miss Whitmire.

West Campus Drive

West Campus's drive will not take place until February, according to Luther E. (Butch) Atwater '64, chairman of the West Campus Chest.

This year's drive will involve more of a "moral issue," stressing the "sense of the individual deciding for himself whether he wants to give." He further emphasized that the drive will not involve so much the "mechanics" (i.e., IBM cards, etc.) as last year's drive, but instead will be of a more personal nature.

Contributions will go to five charities, the names of which have not been released. The drive will be conducted through "existing organizations in the dorms," said Mr. Atwater.

Major contributions of the East Campus Chest go to the Foreign Student Fund, World University Service and Edgemont. The East Campus Chest now supports one orphan in Austria, and the dorm which pledges the most per capita will select a second orphan for the organization to support.

East Bill Voted Best, Fails

SSL Convenes in Raleigh

The State Student Legislature, meeting last week end at the State Capitol in Raleigh, for the second straight year voted the East Campus resolution Best Bill although the resolution failed both years.

Chairman of the West Campus delegation, Edwin L. Marston '63, noted the "enlightened debate" of this year's session and attributed it to bills being sent out to participating delegates two weeks before.

Mr. Marston stated that the $36 owed to MSGA by SSL from last year will be forwarded by the SSL treasurer within the week and that a surplus refund from this year's allocation is also forthcoming.

Governor Sanford briefly addressed the legislature Friday afternoon. Keynote speaker at the Friday night banquet was David Sincedev, head of the Voice of America installation in Greenville.

Miss Linda Orr of the East Campus delegation was voted recording secretary for the coming year. Mr. Marston served the Senate as president pro tem and a West delegate from the Law School, Tom Menaker, was elected Speaker of the House.

The West bill was passed in the House and failed in the Senate. Their resolution called for the repeal of the Alien Registration Act of 1940, known commonly as the Smith Act.

The East resolution, passed in the Senate and voted down in the House, called for the replacement of North Carolina food sales tax with a tax on the sale, use, possession for use, or distribution of tobacco products.

Passed in the final plenary session was a resolution reaffirming the legislature's boycott of the Sir Walter Raleigh Hotel for their discrimination policies.

Ray Phipps '66 and Frank Manola '66 look fourth place among the affirmative teams at the Appalachian State College debate tournament last week end with a 4-2 record.

Bonnie Fiedorek '66 came in third in extemporaneous speaking. Margaret Jones '66 and Miss Fiedorek, the negative team, split their matches, winning three.

All teams debated the national topic, "Resolved that the Non-Communist Nations of the World Should Establish an Economic Community."

Coach: "Very Pleased" Dr. Joseph Wetherby, coach of the debate team, said he was "very pleased" with the performance of these freshmen in a varsity contest.

The debate team will enter its biggest tournament of the semester, the Dixie Classic at Wake Forest College, this Thursday through Saturday. Tentative teams are Tesson Williams '64 and Thomas Cardwell '64; 2-man team, Michael Patterson '65 and Richard Haskell '64, affirmative, and John Mahoney '66 and Charles Bailey '65, negative.

Arts Exhibit 'Found on Campus' Displays Student Drawings

"Found on Campus," an exhibition devoted to drawings and graphics executed by University students, is currently on display in the Alumni Lounge of the West Campus Union.

The display, sponsored jointly by the Student Union and the art department, will extend to Christmas recess. Student exhibitors include Amelio Tavernise '63 and Janice Duff '63. Faculty members Robert Broderson, Robert Shannon and Earl Mueller constitute the professional segment of the exhibit.

East Exhibit in Library

"Elements of Modern Art," currently on display in the gallery of the Women's College Library, features 30 small and medium-sized oils, water colors and drawings.

The collection, a loan exhibition organized by the American Federation of Art, was chosen to illustrate five elements of modern art: representation, expression, decoration, construction and fantasy. A sixth section of the show illustrates the synthesis of these five elements.

Medical Center Experiments With Educational TV Tapes

A pilot experiment of closed-circuit television teaching materials initiated at the University Medical Center will develop "core materials" for teaching medical students.

The materials are 20-minute tapes of demonstrations, diagnostic tests and other procedures which are difficult to present in live telecasts.

Dr. Joseph E. Markee, chairman of the University Medical Center's anatomy department said, "We hope to build a library of core materials that can be used repeatedly in conjunction with live TV teaching."

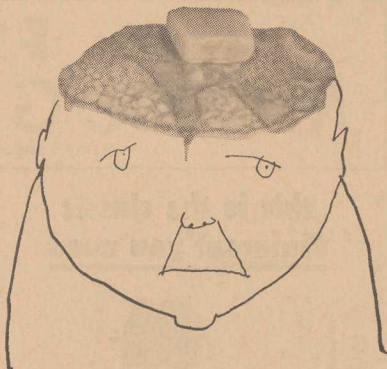

Medical School Begins Veterinary Department

The University Medical Center's newly created Department of Veterinary Medicine, headed by Dr. John C. LeMay, is one of the few full-fledged departments devoted to work in laboratory animal medicine.

"Clinical veterinary medicine is concerned with assisting investigators in research projects that involve animals," according to Dr. LeMay.

UNIVERSITY COUNCIL'S . . .

Watson Tells Council History

This is the first in a series of articles based on a recently released report that Dr. Richard L. Watson Jr. prepared. Dr. Watson, professor of history and department chairman, was presiding officer of the University Council last year. The report describes the history and accomplishments of the University Council and this year's formation of the Academic Council to replace the University Council.—Ed.

Although the University Council held its first meeting in November, 1952, Dr. Richard L. Watson Jr. traces the efforts to create such a body to 1940.

In 1940, Dr. Watson reports, the University chapter of the American Association of University Professors apparently believed that "in the evolution from Trinity College to Duke University, the 'former faculty of the faculty to express itself' had 'largely vanished.'" The AAUP authorized a committee to study the University's organization.

THE COMMITTEE agreed, according to Dr. Watson, that "members of the Faculty would like a larger voice in determining University policy. But, says Dr. Watson, 'there was no agreement on how best to acquire this 'larger voice.'"

Dr. Watson states that during the next few years the affairs of World War II took precedence, but in 1944-45, the AAUP initiated a "vigorous campaign for a faculty senate."

AAUP met with University President Robert Flowers, who agreed to name a faculty committee to prepare a plan for the senate to submit to the faculty. On May 6, 1946, Dr. Watson relates, the faculty approved 94-7 a plan for a 44-member Senate, with the President, 12 other Administrators and 31 elected members of the Faculty. The Senate, says Dr. Watson, was "to afford the Faculty 'a quicker and more reliable means of expressing itself,'" and provide a means for Administration and faculty to communicate.

DR. WATSON reports the vote of approval included a provision that Dr. Flowers appoint a committee with Dr. Robert S. Rankin of political science as chairman to conduct the first elections.

Dr. Watson states that now the proposal for a Faculty Senate "vegetated. The President apparently did not appoint the committee. He did present the proposal to the Trustees, who authorized Chairman Willis Smith to appoint an investigatory committee. For the next three years, the AAUP periodically inquired as to whether this committee was in being, but tangible results were nil."

HAPPY TALK

As we all know, conversation is terribly important on a date. When lulls in the conversation run longer than an hour or two, one's partner is inclined to grow laggard—even sullen. But occasionally one finds it difficult to keep the talk going, especially when one is having a first date with one. What, then, does one do?

If one is wise, one follows the brilliant example of Harlow Thurlow.

Harlow Thurlow prepares. That is his simple secret. When Harlow is going to take out a new girl, he makes sure in advance that the conversation will not languish. Before the date, he goes to the library and reads all 24 volumes of the encyclopedia and transcribes their contents on his cuffs. Thus he makes sure that no matter what his date's interests are, he will have ample material to keep the conversation alive.

Take, for example, Harlow's first date with Priscilla de Gasser, a fine, strapping, blue-eyed broth of a girl, lavishly constructed and rosy as the dawn.

Harlow was, as always, prepared when he called for Priscilla, and, as always, he did not start to converse immediately. First he took her to dinner because, as everyone knows, it is useless to try to make conversation with an unfed oed. Her attention span is negligible. Also, her stomach rumbles so loud it is difficult to make yourself heard.

"Wash your Cuffs and be my love!"

So he took her to a fine steak house where he stoked her with goblets of Black Angus and mounds of French fries and thickets of escarole and battalions of petit fours. Then, at last, dinner was over and the waiter brought two finger bowls.

"I hope you enjoyed your dinner, my dear," said Harlow, dipping into his finger bowl.

"Oh, it was grandy-dandy!" said Priscilla. "Now let's go someplace for ribs."

"Later, perhaps," said Harlow. "But right now, I thought we might have a conversation."

"Oh, goody, goody, two-shoes!" cried Priscilla. "I been looking everywhere for a boy who can carry on an intelligent conversation."

"Your search is ended, madam," said Harlow, and pulled back his sleeves and looked at his cuffs to pick a likely topic to start the conversation.

Oh, woe! Oh, lackaday! Those cuffs on which Harlow had painstakingly transcribed so many facts—those cuffs on which he had noted such diverse and fascinating information—those cuffs, I say, were nothing now but a big, blue blur! For Harlow—poor Harlow!—splashing around in the finger bowl, had gotten his cuffs wet and the ink had run and not one word was legible! And Harlow—poor Harlow!—looked upon his cuffs and broke out in a night sweat and fell dumb.

"I must say," said Priscilla after several silent hours, "that you are a very dull fellow. I'm leaving."

With that she flounced away and poor Harlow was too crushed to protest. Sadly he sat and sadly lit a cigarette.

All of a sudden Priscilla came rushing back. "Was that," she asked, "a Marlboro you just lit?"

"Yes," said Harlow.

"Then you are not a dull fellow," she cried, and sprang into his lap. "You are bright! Anybody is bright to smoke such a perfect joy of a cigarette as Marlboro which is just chock full of yummy flavor, which has a Selectate filter which comes in a soft pack that is really soft, and a Flip-Top Box that really flips, and which can be bought wherever cigarettes are sold in all fifty states and Duluth . . . Harlow, tiger, wash your cuffs and be my love."

"Okay," said Harlow, and did, and was.

'Molotov Cocktails' Blast Sigma Nu; Campus Police Investigate Incident

Two gallon jars of kerosene were thrown at the Sigma Nu fraternity section early Sunday morning.

One of the "Molotov Cocktails" landed on the section porch and burst into flames. The second gallon jar hit a window of a room on the first floor, exploded and splashed burning kerosene throughout the room.

No One Injured

Clifford Adams '65 and Arthur Webster '65, managed to get out of the room before the beds caught fire.

Damage to the room was not extensive. One of the beds and a chair were destroyed; several rugs, some personal belongings and the wall by the window were slightly charred. Several window panes were broken, and the window shades were consumed in the blaze.

The fire was put out by waste cans and dixie-cups filled with water.

The bedding and chair were dragged outside. The campus police were called and Robert Cox, Dean of Men, was notified later in the morning.

An investigation is being conducted.

Swimmers Open With Davidson

By ART WINSTON
Assistant Sports Editor

For the past six weeks 32 varsity and 30 frosh candidates have been working in preparation for the 1962-1963 swimming campaign. The season inaugural is next Friday afternoon in the Card Gymnasium pool against the tankmen from Davidson.

This year's aggregation should improve upon the 5-5 mark of one year ago. Coach Jack Persons feels that Duke could win at least 99% of the college teams in the country who, like Duke, do not offer swimming scholarships. To show what he is up against, he cites the fact that three of the best swimmers in the country were turned down by the admissions office this year alone.

Again this year, Maryland, N. C. State and UNC are expected to be the class of the ACC. Besides these schools, Davidson and the remainder of the ACC, the Blue Devils will swim against Navy and Georgia Tech.

Outstanding letterman returning include breaststroke Charles Hill, free-styler Yuri Hanja, medley swimmer Dave Goodner, and backstroke and 500 yd. free-styler John Woodworth. Other lettermen who will be counted upon considerably include Sam Coons, Bob Kingsbury, Ed Yokum, and Pete Cogen.

A great deal is expected from the sophomores up from last year's strong frosh squad. The leading sophs are hard working free-style and backstroke man Jim Carraway, Richard Inglis, and Cal King. Other newcomers to the team who may be used against Davidson include Rick Lowe, Dave Valle, Arturo Abolli, Bob Carlitz and Bill Kurtz.

Duke's diving three-some consists of sophs Jack Harryoux, Steve Porter and Tom Roup. From the many boys he has from which to use this year's squad should have the best 400 yard relay team since 1955.

The Blue Devils are not taking Friday's meet with Davidson lightly. Last year the Wildcats came within a few points of upsetting Duke. Admission is free of charge and the first race is slated at 3:30.

GREGORY
Blocking Trophy

BERRY
All-American

Two Duke Linemen Honored in Football

Two Duke linemen have been honored for their outstanding play this year. Art Gregory has won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy as the outstanding lineman in the ACC, and Jean Berry has been named a member of the Look All-America team.

Berry is the first All-America selection at Duke since Tee Moorman two years ago, and he joins a long list of Duke standouts. He will be honored at the All-America Awards Banquet in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City Friday night.

Preceding that, Berry will appear with the rest of the winners on the Tonight Show Thursday, and will go to a "Meet the All-Americans Party" at the Americana Hotel. Ara Parsegian, Darrell Royal, Woody Hayes, Rip Engel and Paul Dietzel will be present at these celebrations.

Gregory has been called by Coach Bill Murray "the best blocking lineman I have had in my 12 years at Duke." In the voting for the trophy, Gregory topped Jim Moss of USC, Berry, and Don Chuy of Clemson. Other Duke men who were named in the balloting of the writers' association were Mark Leggett and Bill Futrell, Zo Potts and Mike Curtis.

The trophy is sponsored by Hugh and Bill Jacobs of Clinton, South Carolina, as a memorial to their father who originated the award in 1933. Gregory tied with Jim LeCompte of North Carolina for the award last year.

Both Berry and Gregory have had outstanding seasons for Duke this year. Both have been named repeatedly by Murray in his pres luncheons for outstanding defensive and offensive work in individual games.

Berry joins 33 other Duke football players who have made All-America. Duke has more All-America players than any other team in the conference, and has had the last two in a row.

Gregory is a 6-3 212-pound line, who weighs also 212. Berry is a 6-0 guard from Mooresville, North Carolina, who also weighs 212. Both are seniors.

Devil Cage Squad Hosts Gamecocks

By RICHARD M. HESS
Assistant Sports Editor

The Gamecocks of South Carolina invaded the Indoor Stadium tonight at 8:15 to do battle with the Blue Devils in the conference opener for both teams. Ranked second in the national collegiate ranks, Duke has one victory under its belt, as does South Carolina.

The Birds, who were hit hard by graduation and academic difficulties, are faced with the problems of shallow depth and a shortage of height. Due to these factors, they will probably employ a slow-down, control type of offense; it is hoped this will offset the Devils' running game.

In his first year at the helm of the Gamecocks, Coach Chuck Noe has a pair of solid performers in 6'3" junior forward Ronnie Collins and co-captain and guard Scotti Ward. Both of these standouts averaged in the double figures last season.

Heading the Blues' attack will be the potent scoring duo of 6'5" senior forward Art Heyman and 6'4" junior forward Jeff Mullins. Heyman pitched in 36 points in the victory over Davidson Friday, while Mullins backed him up with 17. In the pivot position will be 6'10" junior Jay Buckley, who proved his potential against the Wildcats by dropping in 15 markers while picking off 16 rebounds.

The starters in the backcourt will be a question mark until game time. With Buzzy Harrison and Bill Ulrich on the injured list, the nod could go to any one of the guard corps. The most likely prospects appear to be 6'3" senior Fred Schmidt and 6'2" sophomore Ron Herberster, but Coach Vic Bubas could shuffle the line-up around and move Heyman or Mullins outside.

Preceding the varsity fray, Coach Bucky Waters will send his crew against the visiting freshmen of Atlantic Christian College. This team was a last-minute replacement for a squad from Pope Air Force Base, which was unable to make the trip due to their preparations in the Cuban situation.

In their first outing, the Imps rode roughshod over the Davidson frosh, 94-67. After getting off to a slow start, the floormen came to life in the second half behind the rebounding and scoring of 6'1" Steve Vacendak and 6'6" Jack Marin.

Virginia Wins

Duke Wrestlers Drop Opener 21-3

The wrestling team opened the new season on a sour note Saturday as the Cavaliers of Virginia beat Duke 21-3 in a dual meet. The Duke freshmen preceded this defeat with a good win however, getting good support from five wrestlers.

Dick Lam was the only varsity man to win, as he beat his 167 pound opponent by a decision. His wrestling, this early in the season, was competent. Both Randy Myers and Jeff Dow wrestled out of their weight classes and were beaten, as were Warren Seagraves, Jeff Lee, Walt Moehling and Bob Jordan. Moehling was the only loser who looked good as he lost to the ACC 191-pound champion.

Virginia has a good team, however, and should be prepared to give Maryland at least good competition. Duke meets The Citadel next.
